

Glenville State College

A wide variety of activities and events made this year a year to remember. Memories from Glenville State College lie in the many things we did together as a campus community. Homecoming, dedication of Gas Well No. 3, "Focus 92", and GSC Week stimulated spirits and called the campus to unite. Our hearts were glad as a myriad of honors were bestowed upon the members of the campus community during 1991-92. Thus begins the memories that are etched in stone. . .

Memories of the Simple Times

While hard work had its rewards, it was no replacement for good times. The pursuit of fun and relaxation seemed to take up most of our free time. Playing cards in LBH or socializing in the amphitheatre were ways in which we released the frustrations of college. Whether we had five hours or five minutes to take time out, the time was relished. Friends at GSC played a vital part in making the memories of the simple times etched in stone.

College Life

College life, what am I doing here? Why am I so far from home? Too much homework, not another test, what? Is it tomorrow? I need gas money, boy she's cute, would she go out with me?

Being a college student in the 90's isn't easy; time management is essential to a successful college career. Being up with what is going on today and keeping your eye on what's going on tomorrow can be a difficult task. A successful college student has the ability to separate class and work life from his or her social life. We all should develop the know how to leave our stressful day-to-day life behind, and enjoy what college life has to offer.

Time to take a quick review for that test!

Alicia takes a break from the hustle and bustle of a college student's busy day.

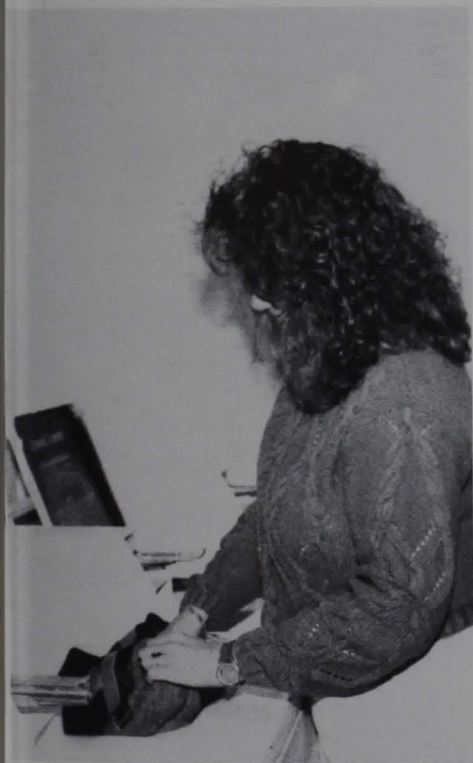

This young lady prefers to fix her own meal, rather than eat at the cafeteria.

Ernie Shreeve and Shelly Coffman stop in Scott Wing office to catch up on the local news.

Laundry time again?

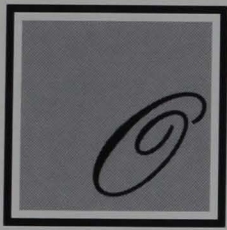

Returning to Pickens Hall after a weekend away isn't an easy thing to do!

These students enjoy a challenging card game, after a busy day of classes.

A dreaded chore, for many students, but when no clothes are left the laundry must be done.

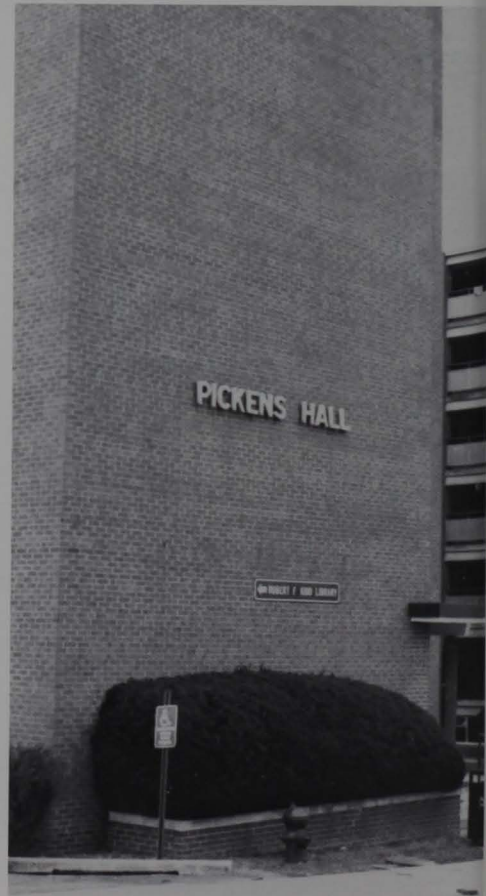

On Campus Residence

When Pickens Hall was first opened in 1961 it was only four stories high, but in 1966 two more floors were added. In 1971 Scott Wing was opened for women and Wagner was changed to a mens' wing. This project cost approximately $1.6 million. Pickens Hall has three lounges on first floor for all residents to relax, study and watch television. Once in a while there is a dance held in the main lounge. On the Ground floor of the Scott Wing there are laundry and kitchen facilities for the women.

Each floor of Wagner has a kitchen and laundry room.

Pickens Hall

In 1937 Louis Bennett Hall was completed. It was named after Mr. Louis Bennett, the first principle of the Glenville State Normal School. When it was first built, it was L-shaped. In 1965 the other two wings were added. It is a residence hall for men only. The rear wing houses the social science offices and financial aid offices. Also, some apartments are available there. On the first floor there is a lounge for residents to relax, study or watch television. In the basement there are laundry facilities and a ping pong table.

Off-Campus Life

Living off-campus is often preferred by many students. Students feel that they have more freedom to come, go and do as they please by living off-campus. This is very true, but many students aren't aware of all the responsibilities off-campus life demands. Life off-campus can often bring about many unwanted problems such as outrageous phone bills, utility bills, general household maintenance, cleaning, etc.

Living off-campus can be fun, but often has a down side as responsibility must be your friend.

Would anyone like to claim this kitchen?

"It's a tough job, but somebody has to do it!" Doug Lynch.

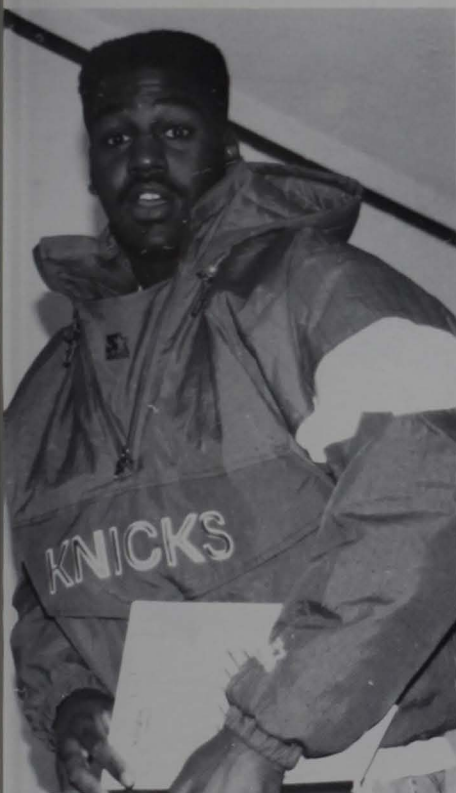

Could Wes Swain possibly be taking up house-keeping?

Tina Messenger cooks up a delicious dinner.

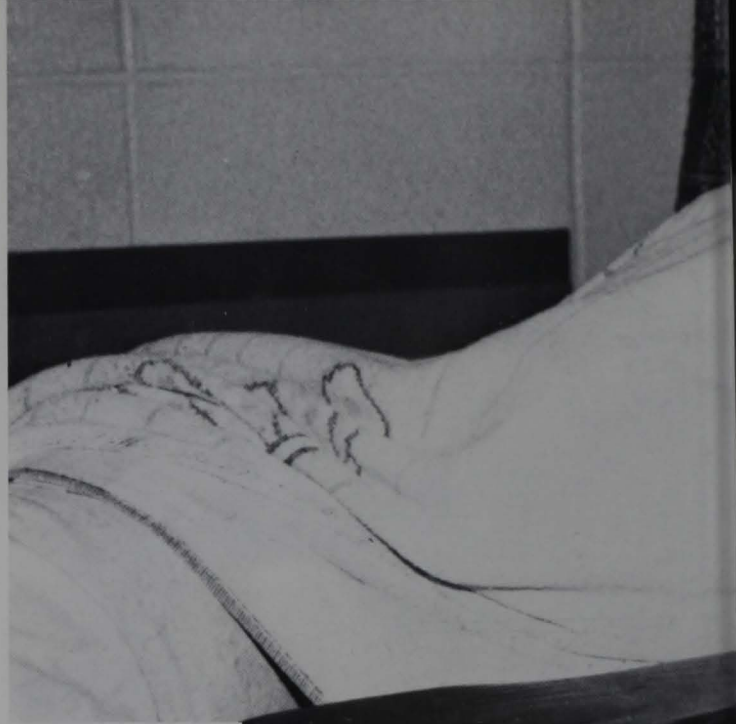

When you live off-campus, you have to hurry or you're late for class.

Time to Get Up

Just five more minutes, go ahead and push the snooze button just one more time. Oh it will be alright to skip this time, just don't miss anymore. Maybe they won't take roll today.

Does any of this sound familiar? We all know how difficult it is to get up in the morning, especially after a big night downtown.

As difficult as it is, we must. If we can get into a groove of waking up at a set time every morning (and having a breakfast doesn't hurt either), we can overcome the morning blues.

Just remember, unless you plan on working nights, those same morning blues will be there as you enter into the work force. College provides more than a quality education, it builds character and provides responsibility.

Come on ,Jason, its time to roll out of bed!

Many students pass out before they make it to bed.

Brush those teeth and fight those cavities.

Tina Messenger races against the clock, to get ready in time for class.

Heather Messenger makes a few minor touch-ups.

Wake up, Honey, you're going to be late for class.

Debbie, you better get that hair dry.

Study Habits

Can studying actually become a habit? Studying, although it dominates a student's time, doesn't mean it has to dominate their life. As much as we hate to admit it, the best time to study is early evening when our minds are fresh. By studying before it gets too late, we can enjoy our free time at night without pressure.

Studying can actually be relaxing and rewarding.

With the many problems facing us when we enter the work force, studying can prepare us not only with knowledge, but with confidence to perform to the best of our ability.

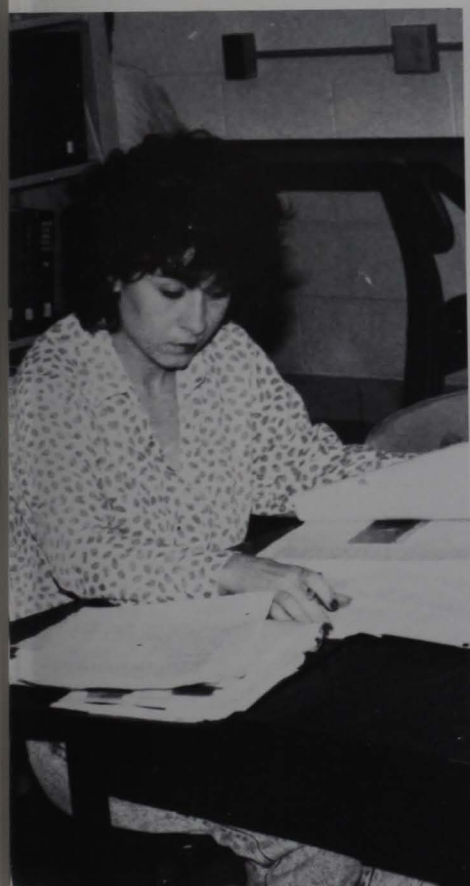

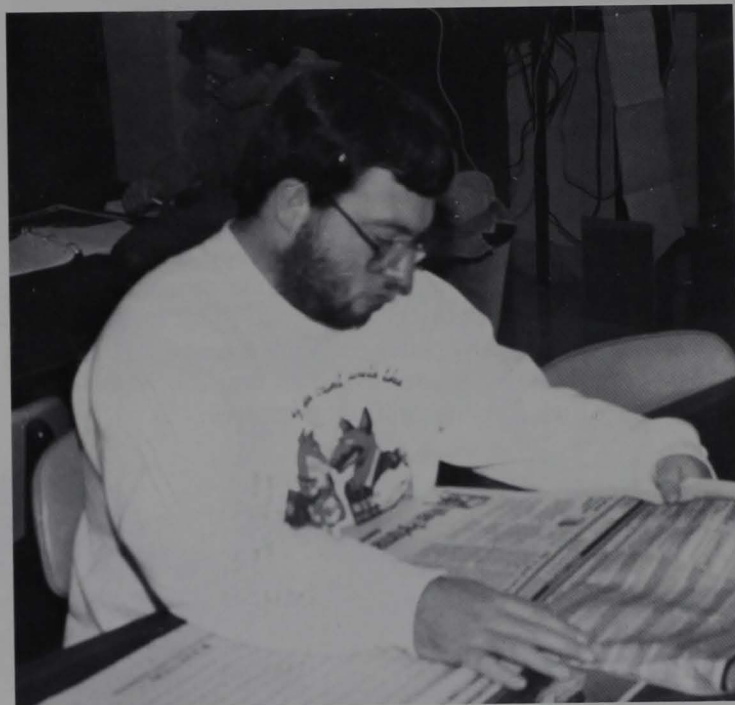

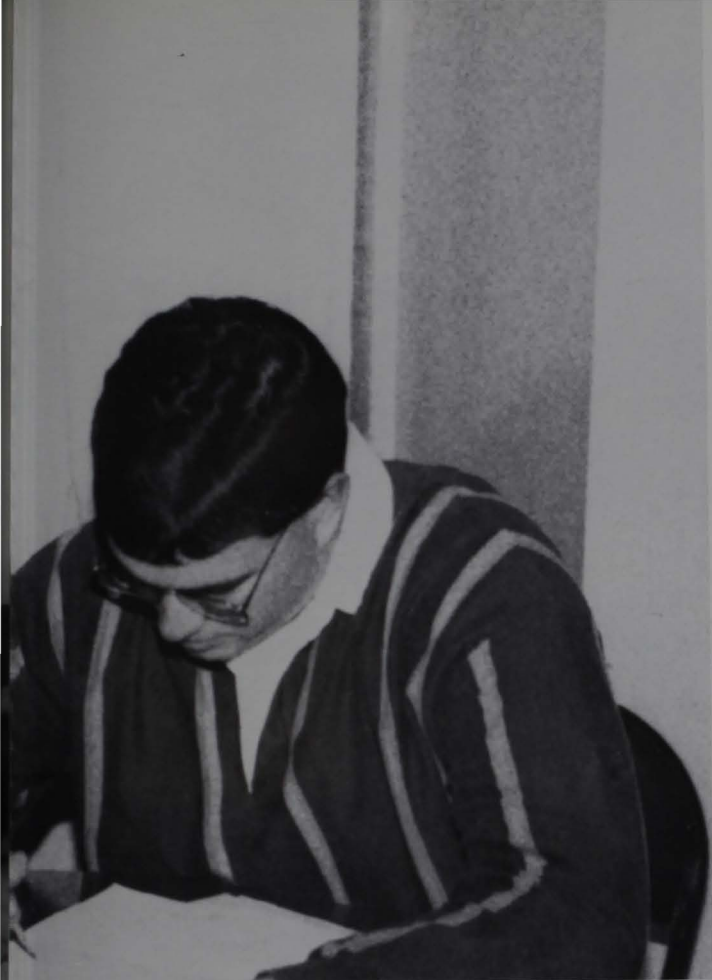

These two guys prefer to study at the library.

Lisa Hart prepares for a psychology test.

Marty prefers to study with a partner, rather than alone.

Fun Times

Contrary to what most people think, college can be the best time of a person's life. Many people can cope with the pressure and handle the responsibilities, while others let these lifestyles overwhelm them.

You'll find the happiest college student is one that is on top of their studies, usually has at least a part time job, and knows how to enjoy their freetime without pressures.

As we become older, our views of enjoyment change. We enjoy the accomplishments that come from a hard day's work and the successful completion of yet another class.

College is a time we'll look back on as meeting many of our goals and choosing the roads and values that will guide us throughout our life.

Spending time with that special person is time we all enjoy.

Everyone enjoys a quick time-out between classes to socialize.

Moments to Hold

From the sunny morning of fall registration to the exciting day of commencement, the seniors' year was filled with many memories.

Each day of their last year added even more memories as Homecoming, Spring Break, and GSC Week passed by.

As each senior left they carried with them memories that were etched in stone.

Almost There

The junior year holds mixed feelings of excitement and anxiety. A sense of accomplishment is felt when realizing you have made it three-fourths of the way to graduation. At the same time the fear of wondering if you will meet the graduation requirements is felt. It is during this time that career goals are established and "the real world" becomes a near reality. The memories of the past three years will forever be etched in stone.

A

Step Up

Many people have said that the sophomore year can be the most difficult of the college career. It is a time that students start taking core classes and become committed to a major. Becoming a sophomore means finally obtaining rank on campus and no longer being considered a neophyte. Realized completion of the freshman year renews hope that you'll make it through college after all, leaving the rest . . . etched in stone.

New Beginnings

An honest effort was made to ease this year's freshman into college life.

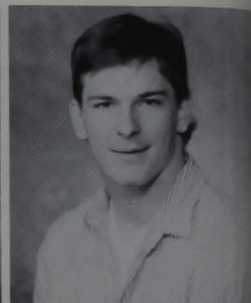

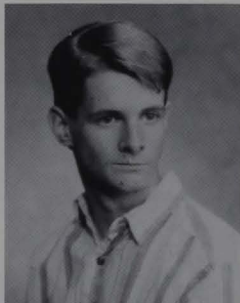

During freshman orientation, activities were planned to help the freshmen get to know each other as well as the GSC campus. Tours were given and counselors were there to answer questions. At the end of orientation a dance was held for all freshmen.

Freshman orientation was a helpful experience for students encountering the anxiety and excitement of starting college.

FACULTY and STAFF

The unique faculty and staff at Glenville State College are not just professionals, they are a part of our student lives. GSC's small size allows the faculty and staff to provide individual attention to each student.

Under the direction of GSC President Dr. William K. Simmons, the faculty and staff helped to direct and support students' growth- both academically and socially.

Undoubtedly, the mission of the college's personal nature could not be accomplished without an attentive faculty and staff. The 1991-92 faculty and staff members will be forever remembered etched in stone.

Organizations. . .

Glenville State College offers a host of clubs and organizations. New organizations formed this year included the Society of Petroleum Engineers and Alpha Rho Tau.

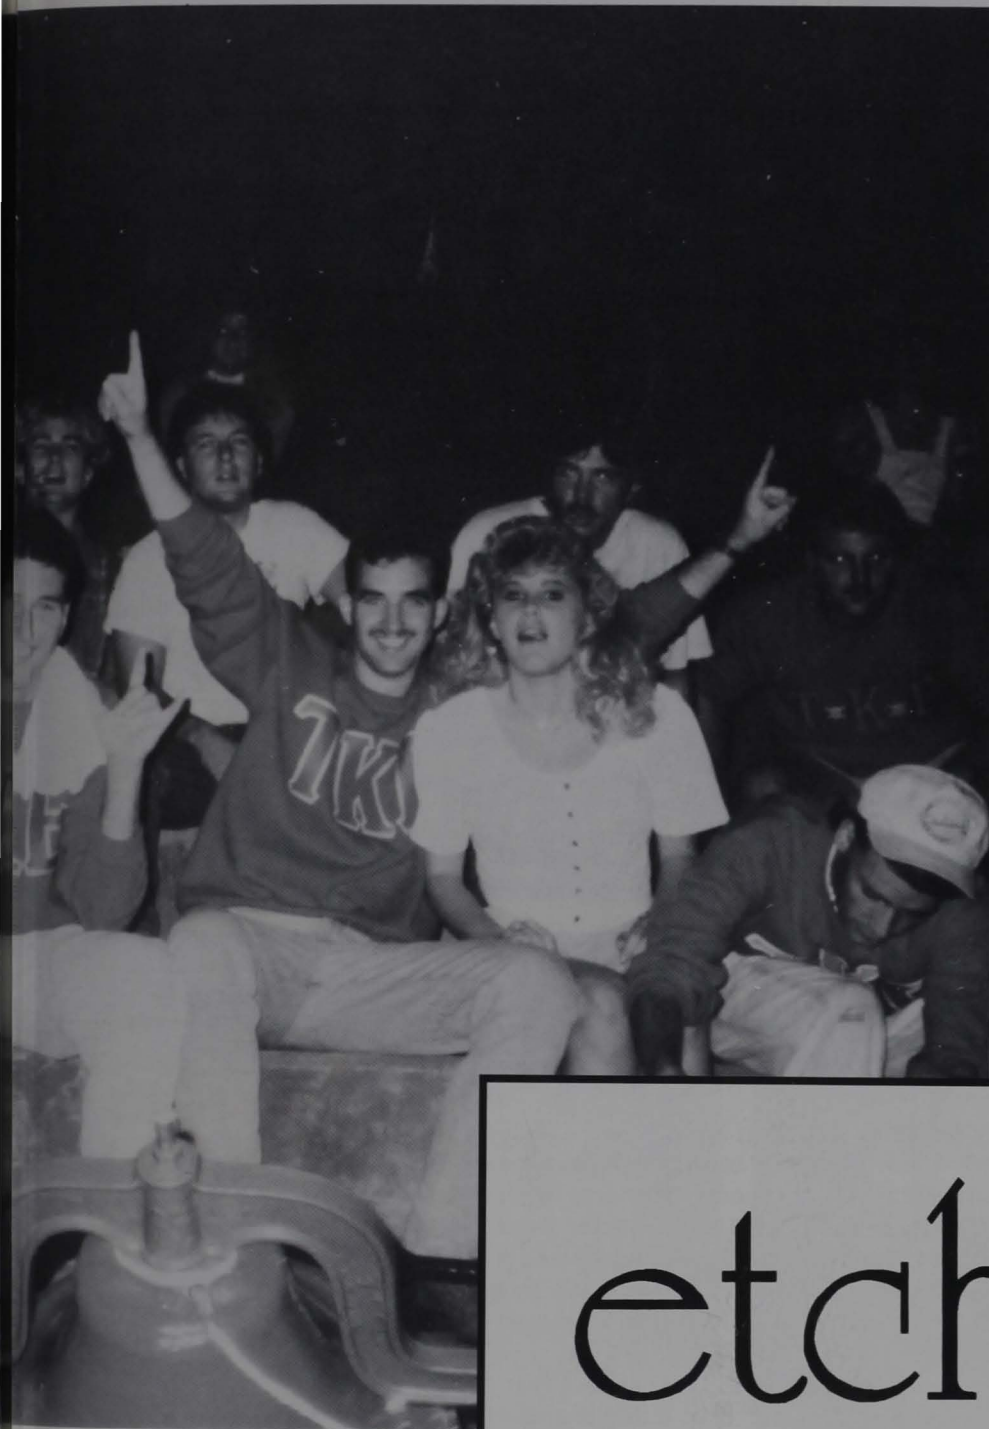

GSC students can get involved in honorary, professional, and service organizations such as Chi Beta Phi, Literary Society, and the Student Accounting Society. Also open to students are social clubs, primarily greek fraternities and sororities such as Tau Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Sigma Sigma, and Delta Zeta.

The organizations at GSC are as diverse as the students themselves and can be considered a significant part of the college experience. Organizations offer educational opportunities which are not confined to the classroom. It is a great way to experience people, ideas, and cultural influences which become . . . etched in stone.

Delta Zeta Sorority

At the GSC campus our sorority originally started as Xi Beta Tau, a local sorority. Later, on October 10, 1963, this local sorority became the Theta Xi Chapter of the Delta Zeta Sorority. Located in the fourth province, our chapter of the sorority became the 150th Chapter since its beginning back in 1902. In 1964, the Theta Xi Chapter purchased a house, which all of our members may live in while attending GSC. This house is located on East Main Street in Glenville. Feel free to visit us anytime.

Delta Zeta took part in many events during the 1991-92 school year. During Homecoming we won first place for our float entered in the parade, and we held an open house for our alumni. We also took part in the Cardiac Arrest event to raise money for The Heart Association.

Throughout first and second semesters we held many fund raisers for our national philanthropies. We donate money to offer aid to the speech and hearing impaired-Galludet University and The House Ear Institute.

Being a part of a sorority is a wonderful and exciting experience. Everyone should take part in GREEK LIFE.

igma Sigma Sigma Sorority

igma Sigma Sigma is a nationally recognized sorority, Our colors are purple and white with the sailboat as our national symbol. Tri-Sigma recently celebrated our ninety-third birthday. We are a service organization as well as a social sorority, our philanthropies include the Robbie Page Memorial which supports play therapy for children at centers in Dallas, Texas and Chapel Hill, North Carolina. Locally we are involved with the Make A Wish Foundation. Being a part of a sorority enables one to test their abilities to their fullest potential. Friendship and love also are at the heart of Tri-Sigma. We are at a new beginning with the Delta Alpha Chapter. We invite all girls at anytime to "Set Sail" with Sigma Sigma Sigma and find out why we are "three times better."

au Kappa Epsilon is not only a social fraternity but a service fraternity to the campus and community as well. The Delta Omega Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon took on the project of rebuilding the campus firing range with the help of Tom Snyder from the forestry department. The TKEs also sponsored a donation drive for the Gilmer County Junior Basketball teams. In April the fraters enjoyed the TKE Retreat where seminars were given on topics such as fire safety and construction and the proper cleaning and stowing of North American fresh water fish to further the fraters knowledge of the subjects.

The TKE's show pride and enthusiasm and are true examples of the benefits and advantages of Greek Life.

Kanawhachen

991-92 was a difficult but rewarding year for the GSC community. The year began with one of the largest freshman classes ever. Later in the year we mourned the loss of six GSC students. We grieved hard but with the support of friends and family, continued to live and grow.

During the course of the year we recieved many things for which we are thankful. Gas Well No. 3 and the purchase of two buses were a benefit to GSC. The golf team represented us well and Student Congress continued to provide us with an array of activities. We welcomed Peter Tjekpema, an exchange teacher from the Netherlands, to our campus and we congratulated Dr. James Hilgenburg on the publication of his book. All of these things brought us together, as did the traditional events such as Homecoming and GSC Week.

The Kanawhachen staff spent hundreds of hours on this yearbook to make it enjoyable for you. It has been an incredible and sometimes overwhelming project. With a short staff and an unavoidable late start, we discovered that creating this yearbook was a difficult feat. Despite several obstacles, we finished our project.

I encourage GSC students to become involved with the production of the yearbook, your yearbook. It means so much more to you when you've taken part in its creation.

Sincerely,
Tracey Moats

Panhellenic Council

Panhellenic is the joint body of all social sororities. Members from each sorority hold an office position. The presidency rotates each semester between each sorority to ensure equal representation. A constitution lays out specific rules for governing. Formal Rush was planned according to the rules set forth in the constitution. When problems arise, Panhellenic Council acts as a mediary. The whole idea is to sponsor growth for sororities and support Greek Life at GSC. This year the Panhellenic Council sponsored the Angel Tree to help benefit the area's underprivileged children at Christmas and also took part in the care packages which were delivered to dormitory residents during finals week.

On October 15, 1991, Dr. Mary Jo Pribble took members of the Student Affiliate of the American Chemical Society and students from her chemistry classes on a field trip to tour Union Carbide Technical Center at South Charleston, West Virginia.

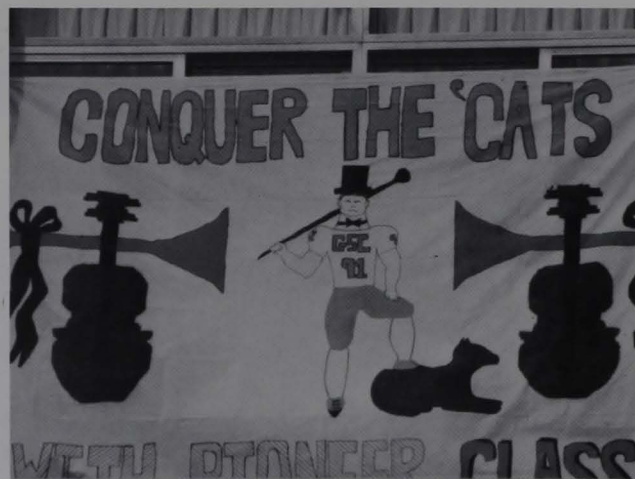

While at the Technical Center, students observed labs and were given demonstrations of the instrumental techniques. Labs that were observed include: Mass Spectrometry (MS), Electron Microscopy Skill Center, Fourier Transform Infrared (FTIR) Spectrometry, Gas Chromatography, and Nuclear Magnetic Resonance (NMR) Spectrometry.

During National Chemistry Week, November 4-8, the National Chemistry Society sold t-shirts and sweatshirts to celebrate.

Counselors Hit Campus

1991 Freshman Counselors arrived at Glenville State College on August 18 to begin their three day training. Freshmen arrived on August 21, and immediately after arrival the learning process began. They were put in groups of 25 freshmen to two counselors. The duties of the counselors consisted of helping freshmen get acquainted with the campus, assistance with paying fees, and familiarizing them with the dorm and dorm rules. Also, Student Congress elected the new freshman representative, Cammy Smith. Renee Harold, junior, stated, "I believe everything ran smoothly and overall we have a very sociable and friendly freshman class at GSC."

Society of Petroleum Engineers

The Society of Petroleum Engineers (SPE) Board of Directors formally approved the establishment of the Glenville State College Student Chapter of the SPE on February 23, 1992.

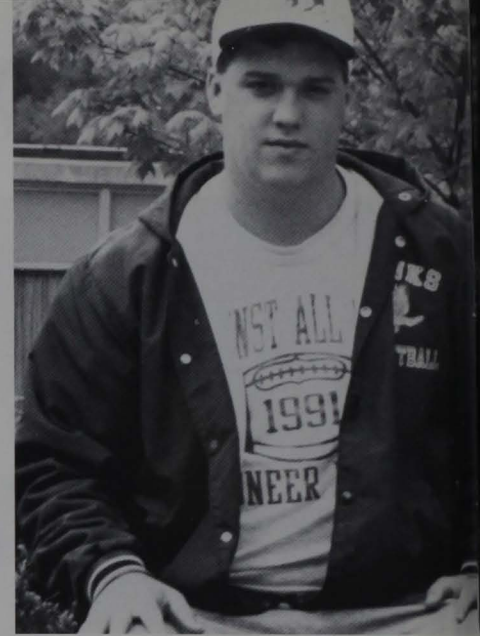

The requirements for student membership are students, under-graduate and graduate, must be enrolled, in good standing, with at least 30% academic load leading to a degree in any of the branches of engineering or basic or applied sciences.

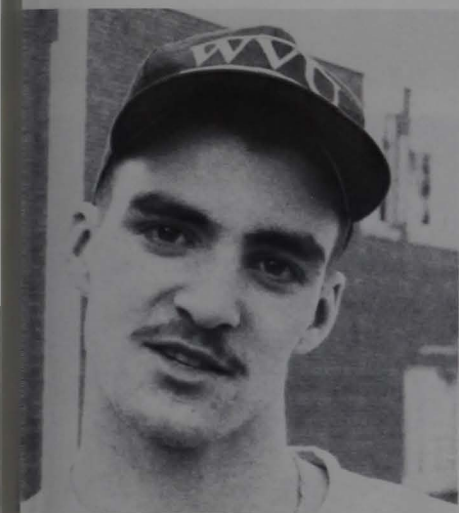

Dr. Wally Lutchmansingh, SPE advisor, had these comments about the approval of the new chapter, "Again, along with the prestige, there are numerous responsibilities. However, in my 20 years as an SPE member the benefits far exceeds the responsibilities. Good luck with the student chapter of the Society of Petroleum Engineers at Glenville State College."

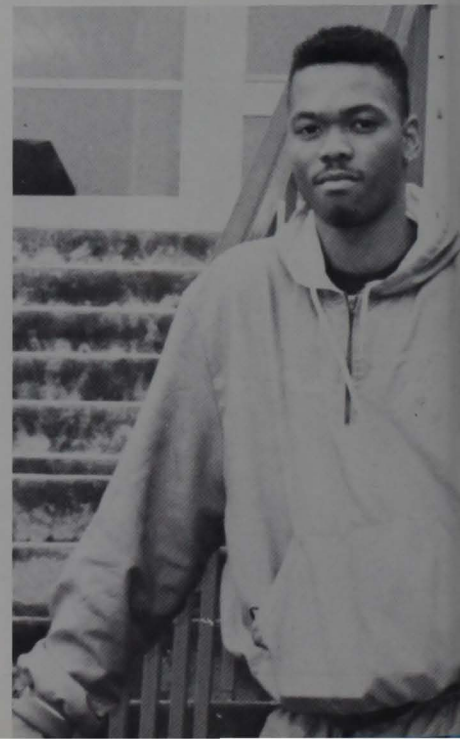

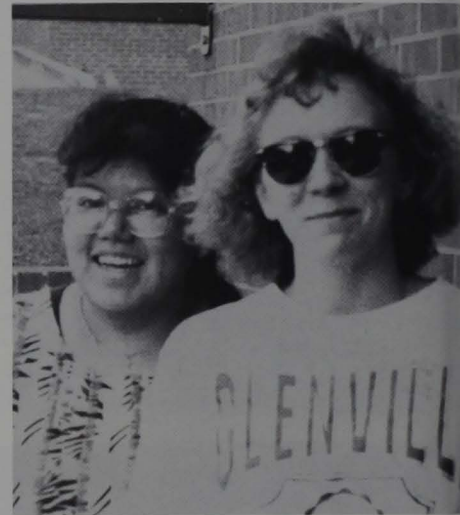

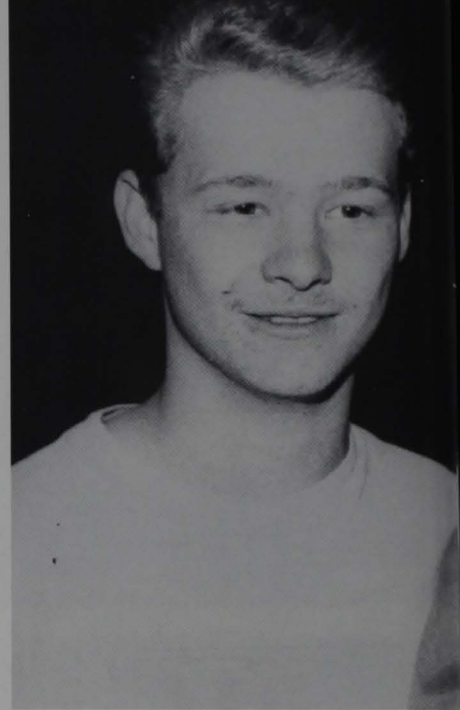

Troy Short, treasurer of the SPE, also had these comments about the organization, "The meetings give all the students a good chance to meet people and educational purposes."

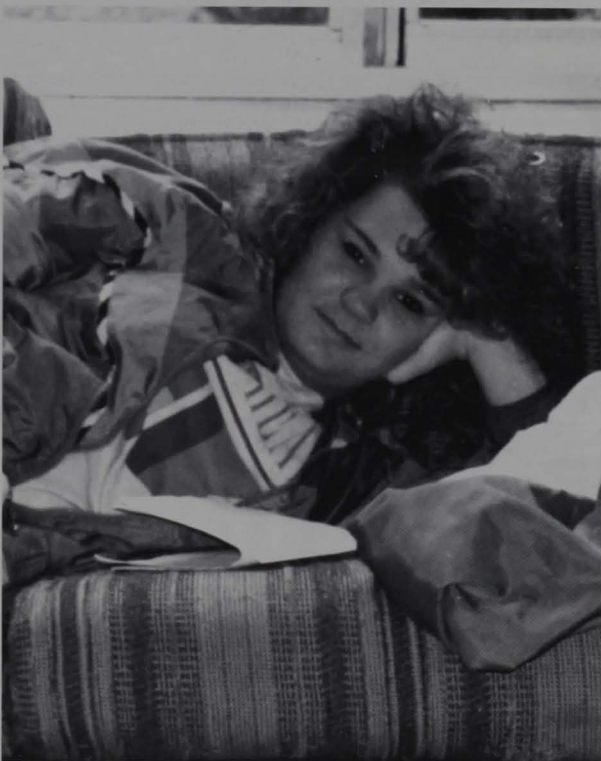

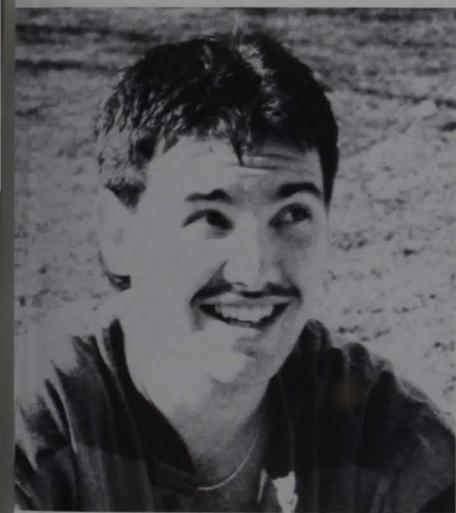

The other officers of the Glenville State Chapter of the SPE include: Jeff Hyre, president; Keith Willings, vice-president; and Kenneth Wilkins, secretary.

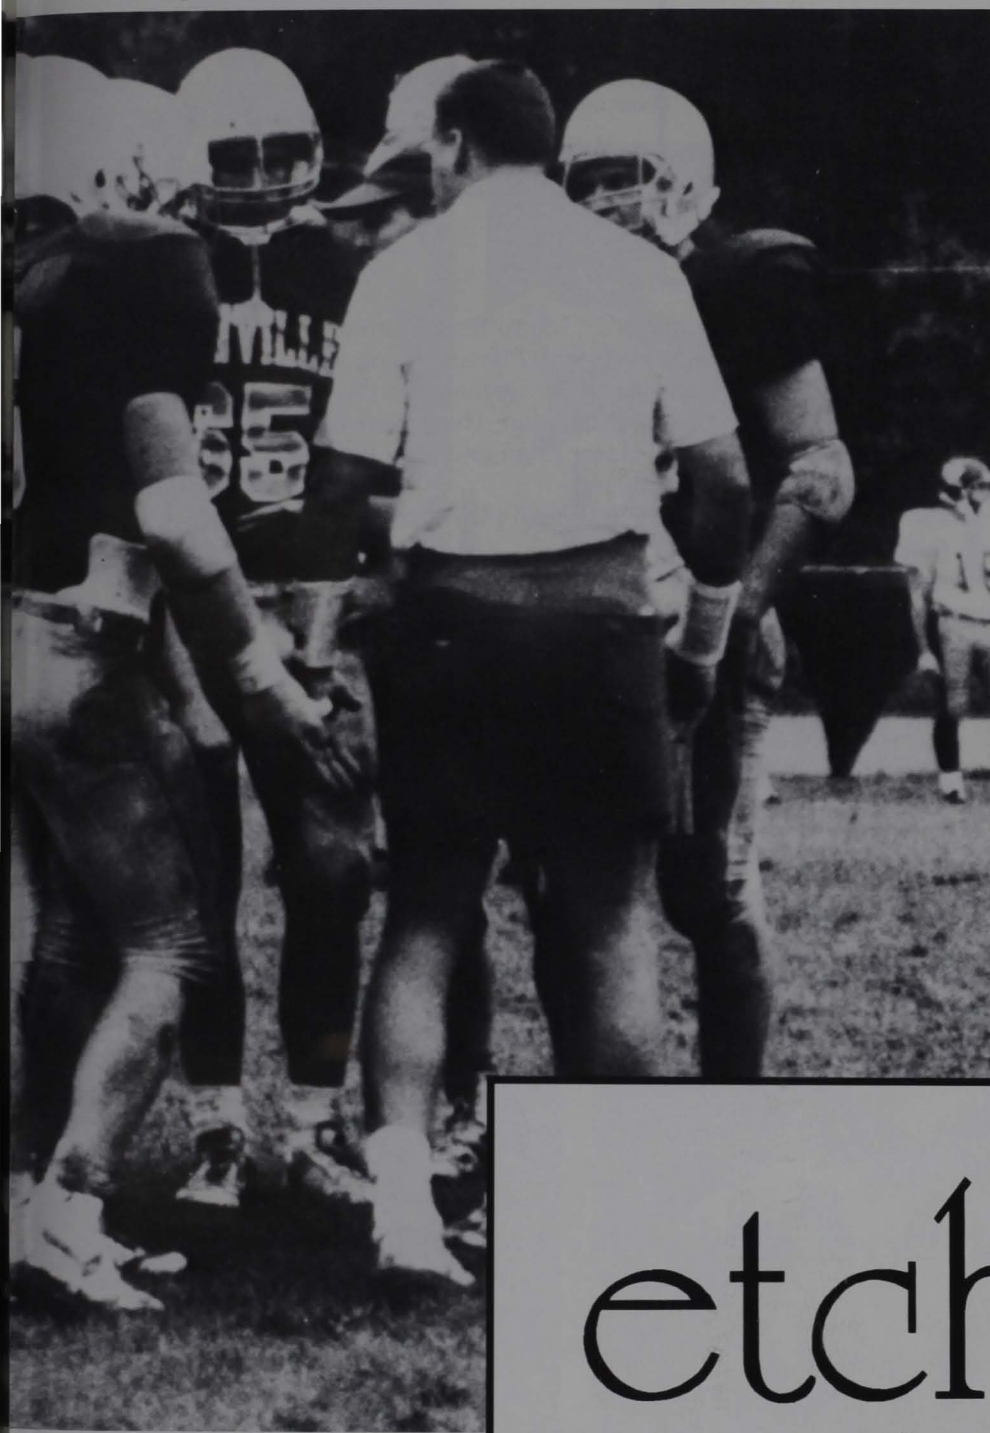

Pioneer Pride

Glennville State College's Athletic program wrapped up the year with bittersweet memories of dignity and a sense of purpose. All sports teams held up their end of the GSC tradition as they worked hard and gave their best to provide pride and determination which were etched in stone.

Showing Spirit

Foot stompin', head jerkin', and hand clappin' . . . led to heads turnin' and suddenly many wanted to be in their shoes! The 1991-92 cheerleading squad set out with one goal at heart; to be number one, realizing that with this goal came lots of hard work and an unshakeable determination. There were many long and hard practices, but as the year grew closer to an end they were no longer just another squad. They had become a family.

Soon the state competition was here, and even though they received third place, they left with their heads held high.

When thoughts were turned back to what had happened throughout the year, the tears were wiped away, because they realized that the best had remained unchanged.

Excellence in Action

You could sense the nervousness and anticipation on Saturday afternoons—feelings that many fans, players, coaches and cheerleaders felt before each game. The year consisted of close calls and tough breaks, although every game was exciting the scoreboard never showed the true potential of our team. Unity was the Key to this team's success! They played as a team, they laughed as a team, and they cried as a team. Though the ending wasn't what many desired, the men were number one to those who knew them. Through good times and bad they strived for excellence and displayed excellence in action.

Setting Goals

Passing through this season of Women's Basketball, the Lady Pioneers finished with a record of 14 wins and 15 losses. Though success was not always shown on the scoreboard for the ladies, thier heads were kept high by the support of the coaches and fans.

Effort was the keynote of the season for the Lady Pioneers team. They began their season with games full of action and hard-spent energy. After weeks of preparation and practice, they put all of their focusing on the effort fo the entire team, instead of individual recognition. Throughout each encounter win or lose they were striving for success an setting goals.

Working Together

Winning isn't always the key to a successful season. Knowing each of your teammates capabilities and limitations is a big step in the direction of a successful season.

The 1991-92 team suffered a major setback with the sudden and unexpected death of one of their teammates. The Glenville State College campus community mourned the loss of John "Jay" Hill. Hill, a 19-year-old freshman, died Wednesday, November 20th, in Cabell Hospital from complications following minor surgery. Jay is truly missed by his teammates, and all who knew him.

The team overcame this horrible tragedy by working hard and working together. The team ended the year with a winning season of 17-11.

Over the years the game of volleyball has developed into a highly sophisticated game with its own set of plays and new techical aspects. Volleyball calls for perfect timing, accuracy and teamwork.

The GSC women's volleyball team set a new school record. They won five in a row. The win marked the first time in the school's history the team has had ten matches in a single season. Coach Kenny Osborne says, "This is a very unselfish group." He also attributed this year's success to a good work ethic and good team attitudes.

Stride With Pride

1992 marks another successful season for the Lady Tracksters. The GSC Women placed second at the District 28 Championship. Senior, Katrina Rigglesman, placed first in the 10,000m, in which she holds the school record. Belinda Dowler, also a senior, placed third in the 800m. Along with Rigglesman and Dowler, the distance runners consisted of Tammy Taylor and Tammy Niven.

Jennifer Bennett, Shelly Coffman, Melissa Bennett, Nikki Hardman, and Crystal Karluk make up the nucleus of the sprinters and field events. Shelly Coffman had a very successful season, breaking her own school record in the 400m hurdles and was chosen Athlete of the Year. Jennifer Bennett holds the school record in high jump at 5'2".

Along with the success of the team, Coach Janet James was also successful for being chosen District 28 Coach of the Year.

Cultural Affairs

A variety of talent filled this years cultural events which supplied us with entertainment, education, and awareness. GSC Theatre received applause for thier production of "Steel Magnolias" and we enjoyed the music departments brass recital. The Art Gallery in the Art and Music Building was a showcase for many artworks including Rick Tubesings Ceremonial Masks and Katherine Gillespies watercolor paintings. Black History Month brought Guest speaker Dr. Greg Smith and GSC students enjoyed visiting area schools to educate them about Black History. These, combined with others, were the 1991-92 cultural events which are etched in stone.

Steel

Magnolias

The Glenville State College Theatre presented their last play of the season in February 26, 27, and 28. Their production of "Steel Magnolias" took place in the GSC Art and Music Building Auditorium.

The play, written by Robert Harling and directed by Nancy Wemm, was based on six southern women and the trials in their lives.

The cast of characters included Lori L. Crouter as Truvy, Kristi Wheeler as Annelle, Marilee Motto as Clairee, Katherine Burgess as Shelby, LeeAnn Carr as M'Lynne, and Tracy Samples as Ouiser.

The Crucifer of Blood

The play production, "The Crucifer of Blood" was performed in the Art and Music Building Auditorium on October 30. The play was a Sherlock Holmes Murder mystery by Paul Giovanni.

Under the direction of Dennis Wemm, the cast of "The Crucifer of Blood" gave a thrilling and somewhat humorous performance. Grayson Samples was very convincing in his rendition of Sherlock Holmes. Sherlock's faithful sidekick, Dr. John Watson, was played by Clifford Cody. Jennifer Cunningham played the ill-fated Irene St. Claire.

The rest of the cast, who also gave outstanding performances, were as follows: Brandon Krouse as Major Alistair Ross; Brett Gasper as Captain St. Claire and Hopkins; Allen Bearfield as Private Small; Keith Miller as Durga Dass and Inspector Lestrade; Don Pepe as Mohammed Singh and Birdy Johnson.

Percussion

Ensemble

The Eleventh Annual Percussion Ensemble '92 was held March 26, 27 in the GSC Art and Music Building. The percussion majors at GSC provided the entertainment.

The Ensemble performed contemporary as well as popular selections. "Friends in Low Places" and "March to Scaffold" are examples of the selections performed.

GSC Band

Whether on the field, on the street, or in the Art and Music Building GSC Band and music majors awed us throughout the year. Julie Harbert did an outstanding job as field commander as the band performed at the homecoming game. Concerts were enjoyed in the Art and Music Auditorium as the Jazz Band performed music from the big band era to the newest rock. GSC Band provides students with entertainment, cheers on our football team, and encourages us all to appreciate the different musical styles. GSC Band of 1991-92 is etched in stone.

WV Symphony

The West Virginia Symphony Orchestra made its second annual appearance in the Art and Music Building on September 23.

The West Virginia Symphony has become known as the region's premier performing arts organization. The orchestra's performance at Glenville State was enhanced by guest artist Sergi Babayan. Babayan, a nationally recognized classical pianist, began his studies at age six with Luisa Marcarajan at Sayat-Nova Music School in Vervan.

Tannenbaum

On March 1 James Tannenbaum performed a piano recital in the Glenville State College Art and Music Building Auditorium. The performance was open to the public and to the entire college community. Tannenbaum's program included Mozart's "Sonata K. 281 in B flat major", Robert Schumann's "Symphonic Etudes Op. 13" (12 variations), Chopin's "Barcarolle, Op. 60", and Maurice Ravel's "Le Tombeau de Cuoperin".

The renowned pianist and teacher has for 25 years presented and delighted audiences with a new recital program each season, this year being the celebration of that anniversary.

Hypnotist Amazed Crowd

Hypnotist Jon Lautrec performed before a packed house in the Art and Music Building on April 7, 1992. The hypnotist amazed the crowd with his hypnotic powers, and students enjoyed the show, as well as being a part of it. The real show started as volunteers from the crowd were hypnotised. Lautrec was very funny as he injected humor into his act. The skeptics were quited when Lautrec lit a book of matches and passed it under the hands of his deeply entranced volunteers.

Jerry Schill, student, commented about how it felt to be hypnotised by saying, "It was wierd. He tells you to do something and you just do it. The fire (is) on your hand and you can't even feel it. You can't open your eyes. You can hear what is going on but you don't have any control over it. It's for real."

Hilgenberg Authors Book

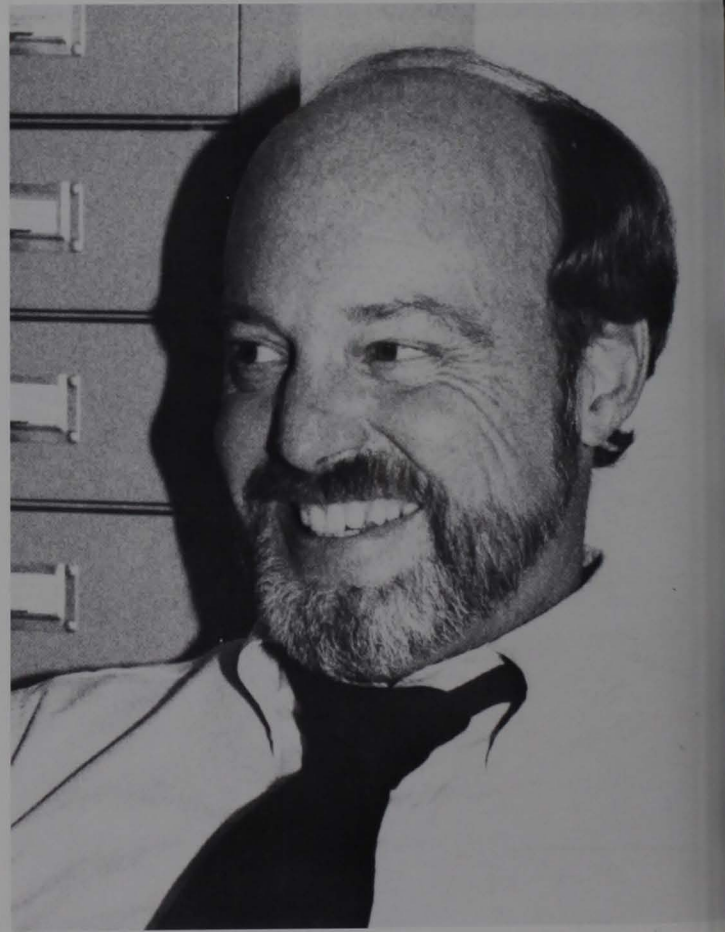

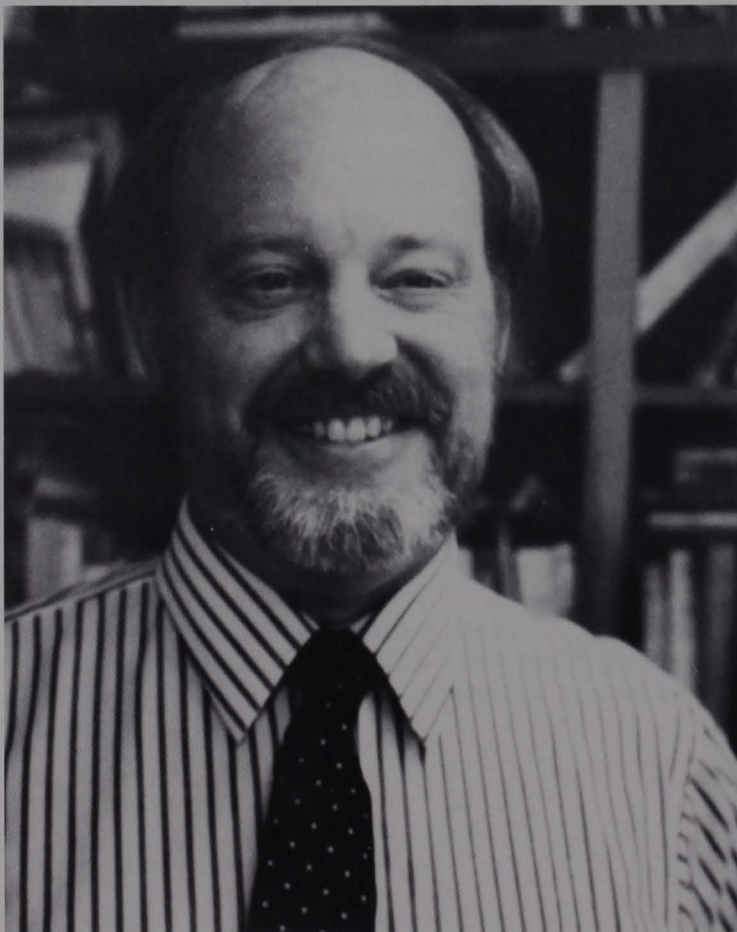

Dr. James Hilgenberg will soon be adding to his long list of accomplishments. From Enemy to Ally, written by Hilgenberg, will be published by University Press of America.

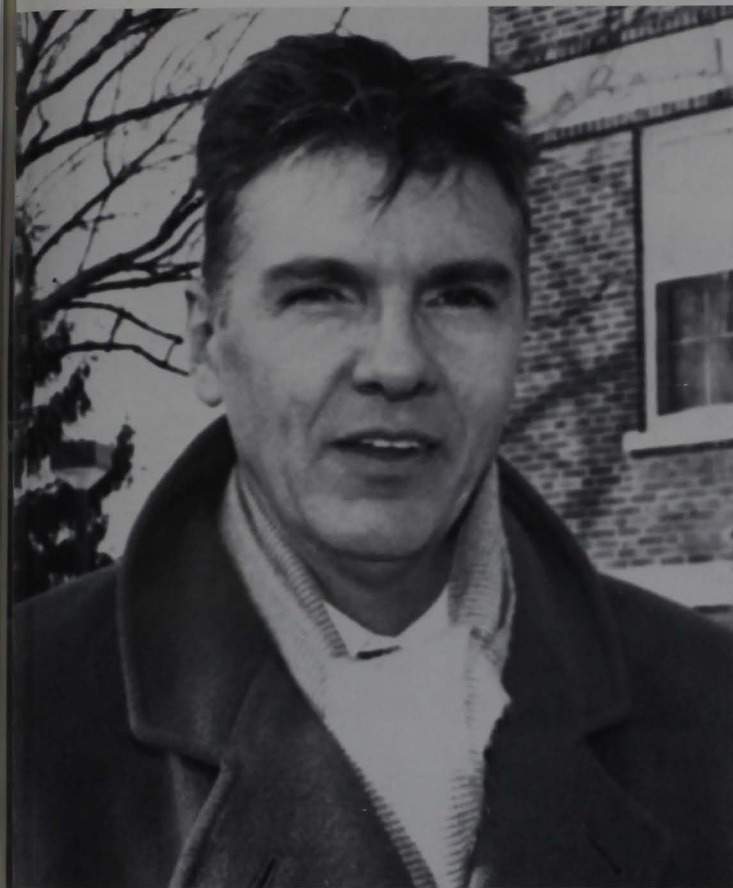

From Enemy to Ally examines Japanese-American relations during the early years of the Cold War when the United States occupied Japan. Hilgenberg is an authority on this topic, as it was the focus of his doctoral dissertation.

Hilgenberg explained that a focal point of the book was the United States' desire to become allied with Japan. He explained, "We wanted (Japan) to be our allies instead of the Soviet Union's."

Hilgenberg received his bachelor's degree from Baker University in Kansas, and his master's degree from the University of South Dakota. In 1978, the same year he began teaching fulltime at GSC, he received his Ph.D. from West Virginia University. Hilgenberg is also the Faculty Advisory Council representative to the State College System of West Virginia Board of Directors, member of Faculty and Course Development in International Studies organization, involved with Elderhostel and the West Virginia Historical Association.

From Enemy to Ally will be available next winter in both hardback and paperback, and will be distributed nationally—including Glenville State College's bookstore. In addition, Hilgenberg is writing a textbook for Prentice Hall publishers on modern Japanese history due next fall.

Teacher Exchange Program

Dr. Peter Tjekpema, and exchange instructor from the Netherlands, arrived in August to take his place as a professor in the Glenville State College Business Division. Tjekpema exchanged with Glenville State college instructor Jerry Hough. Hough lived in Tjekpema's house in Holland while Tjekpema lived in Hough's home in Glenville.

To qualify for the exchange program, Tjekpema had to engage in a rigorous application procedure. Tjekpema stated that he liked the American educational system better than that in the Netherlands. In Holland everyone follows the same curriculum whereas in America the system allows students to choose their own curriculum. Tjekpema spoke highly of the students of GSC by saying, "American students don't talk back so much. Dutch students talk back much more. I noticed the phenomenon in Holland as well. Country students are friendlier than urban students.

Yankee Peddler Festival

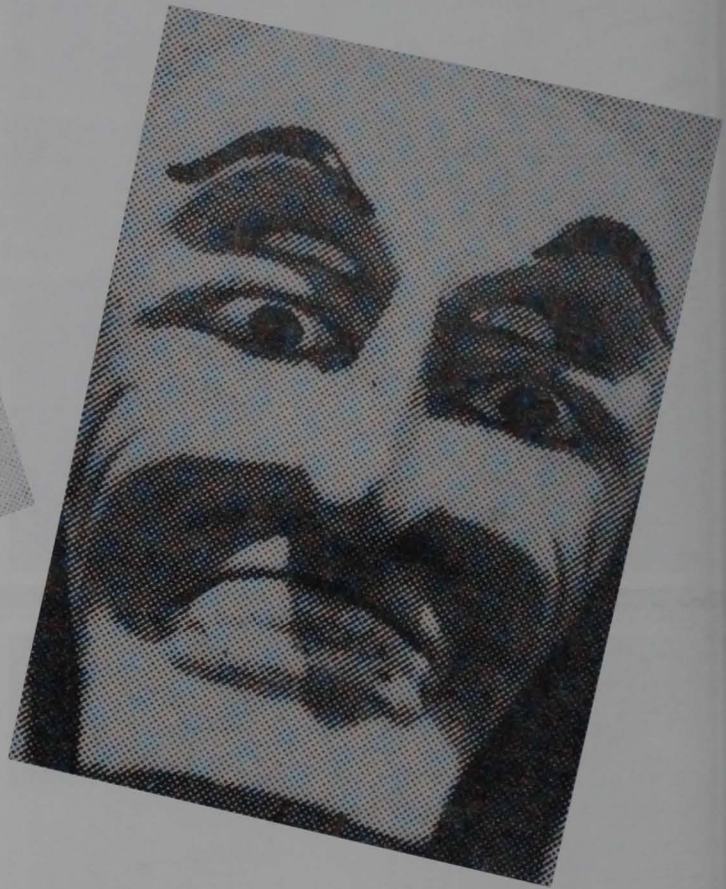

The eighteenth century was the theme of the annual Yankee Peddler Festival, attended by Associate Professor of Art, George Harper. The festival which spanned the weekends of September 7-22 was held at Clay's Park Resort in Canal Fulton, Ohio.

Harper, who participated by exhibiting landscape design pottery, was dressed in the fashion of the pioneers of the 1700s. Prepared with an inventory of approximately 250 pieces, he exhibited, sold and demonstrated the actual creation of this type of pottery.

In addition to the Yankee Peddler Festival, Harper was invited to submit two paintings to the 1991 Juried Mountain State Forest Festival Fine Art Exhibit. The exhibit ran from October 2-5, in Elkins, West Virginia.

Of the two works submitted, Harper received a merit award in the professional painting category for "Spiritual Glow," which he painted in honor of his mother, who died in 1990.

Traveling Mask Exhibit

A mask exhibit called Ceremonial Faces: The Magic of Masks came to GSC October 7-31. The exhibit is the personal collection of Mr. Rick Tubesing. Tubesing is the Library Director, and an adjunct associate professor of anthropology at GSC.

It took Tubesing over 30 years to compile his vast collection. They have come from such exotic places as Japanese temples to the far east to the northern parts of Mexico. The collection, which has been seen at the University of Kentucky and the College of Southwest in New Mexico, consisted of several different types of masks ranging from the religious oriented to the hideous and humorous carnival faces.

Tubesing commented, "Art is not the main reason for the masks, but mainly they were made for cultural and social purposes."

Glenville Grad Opened Art Gallery Season

The featured artist in the GSC Art Gallery for September 3-25 was Kathryn Gillespie. Her exhibition of water colors and prints were on display. Gillespie graduated from Glenville State College in 1968 with an Art Comprehensive Teaching degree.

Gillespie has an equal enthusiasm for pottery, oils and watercolors. She uses vivid colors and energetic designs. Her choice of subjects reflects the native West Virginian's interest in the wildlife of the state. A number of magazines have been interested in her paintings using subjects from nature.

On September 25 Gillespie demonstrated her talent by holding an Artist-Talk and Demonstration in the Art and Music Building.

The reception for Sally Randolph's senior art showing was held March 18 in the Art Gallery of the Art and Music Building.

Randolph titled her show "Figure It Out." Some of the prints at her showing were plashed with a tone of sexuality. Other pieces depicted a simplicity and innocence.

Randolph said she is most interested in figure work and the human form. She said print making is her specialty, consisting of etching, woodcuts, lithocuts, lithography, serigraphy, and engraving.

Black speaker shared Unconventional Views

On February 24, Dr. Greg Smith, athletic director of West Virginia college gave a presentation as part of Black Awareness Week. Smith shared his personal experiences with racism.

His presentation included definitions of diversity and racism. Smith pointed out that in Webster's New World Dictionary, "black" is defined as "...soiled, evil, angry, disastrous, and serving dishonor," while "white" is defined as "decent, fair, positive, and pure."

Smith felt that tests such as the ACT and SAT are culturally and racially unfair. "Black peoples' language is not English," he said. "I challenge students here to earn their degrees and go forth to make a positive difference," he added.

Smith's idea of reparations for the slave's suffering is a nation within a nation, separate but equal. The Southern United States would be taken back for black people to have their own nation, including separate atomic and nuclear warfare. He also suggested that the Constitution be rewritten.

The presentation was open to questions and answers. Several students and faculty asked questions and voiced their opinions.

Pennzoil Donates Valuable Learning Materials to GSC

On September 19, the Pennzoil Products Company of Houston, Texas, presented Dr. P.M. Lutchmansingh, director and assistant professor of the petroleum engineering program, a set of oil product samples to be used as a valuable learning tool for the program.

John Mossor Jr. from the Newark, Ohio office was on campus to make the donation.

The samples represent the many products that are derived from crude oil and will help students better understand the purpose of the petroleum program and the processes through which crude oil runs, from refinement to a finished product. The samples will not only be a good visual aid for the current students but will also be used in a traveling display that Lutchmansingh will use for recruitment purposes. According to Lutchmansingh, "The display will help expand the program by encouraging industry professionals to enrol in part-time classes as well as draw full-time students from other colleges."

Pennzoil Products Company, the largest oil producing company in West Virginia, has also donated a standard oil derrick to the college. The derrick will be set up near Eberle Hall to serve as an historical sight.

Pennzoil is celebrating 102 years of service to the West Virginia and Pennsylvania oil industries.

Forum Held to Improve GSC Education Program

The second annual Glenville State College Teacher Forum was held at GSC on November 22. Public school teachers met with Glenville State education faculty in clinics and meetings designed to improve and update GSC's Teacher Education program.

Facilitators from Braxton and Lewis County held workshops to share ideas, provide feedback, and discuss the strengths and weaknesses of the present GSC Teacher Education program.

Based on the Glenville State Teacher Education model, the theme for the forum was "The Skilled and Reflective Teacher." Dr. Steven Creasy, dean of teacher education at GSC, introduced participants to the concepts behind the model and invited feedback concerning the implementation of the model in the classroom and the field experience component of the program.

Another focal point of the day's activities involved reviewing recommendations made at the 1990 forum and the implementation that has resulted.

Facilitators for the forum were public school teachers from Braxton and Lewis County who are trained as "Mentor Teachers" for their respective county.

Debbie Simon and Deanna Foxworthy, assistant professors of education at GSC, coordinated the 1991 forum.

GSC Students Help Promote Cultural Diversity

During the month of February, seven GSC students took part in Black History Month by visiting area schools and sharing their ideas, history, and culture with the students. Those who took part were Aaron Mann, Melvin Smith, Kieth Guillian, Charles Smith, Richard Smith, Uwone Jackson, and Evan Saunders. Jennifer Nottingham of the Placement Office of GSC made the arrangements for the seven students to visit the schools.

Mann, who visited the Sand Fork Kindergarten, helped the children with their numbers and letters and also spent recreational time with them. Smith and Guillian visited the Gilmer County High School and discussed the importance of staying in school. They also discussed short and long term life goals and having pride in your school, county and yourself. Guillian said about Black History Month, "It's a time to appreciate all famous and nonfamous black artists that had some contributions in revising our society as a whole."

Local News Personality Plays GSC President

Mark Loudin, of CBS Channel Five News, was on the campus of Glenville State College November 13 to be president for a day, but was late by 45 minutes, so already his newly found job as president of GSC was on shaky ground.

When Loudin arrived at 12:45p.m. President Simmons immediately bestowed him the power of presidency. Shortly after he was faced with many dilemmas to which Loudin's usual answer was "Well, let's just fire 'em." Loudin started off by firing 40 members of the business office.

Loudin was also faced with the problem of housing for our international students during Thanksgiving Break.

Natural Gas Used In Auto Fuel Project

This year GSC leased a fleet of ten Chevrolet Lumina as part of a pilot project for use of natural gas as an automobile fuel. The vehicles, which were leased from the Travel Management division of the state government, were to be converted from gasoline carburetors to a dual natural gas and gasoline system.

According to David Camilletti, director of administrative services for the college, "The addition of these cars to the college fleet should alleviate current automobile transportation problems. We are excited about this pilot project and the fact that we can use our natural gas resources to benefit the college."

Bob Garner

Bob Garner of Cleveland, Ohio, performed his magic and comedy show on April 22.

Garner kept the crowd rolling in the aisles with his hilarious antics. At times members of the audience literally held their sides from laughter.

Garner is on the road the biggest part of the year and gets the opportunity to see many different places and people. "I enjoyed being here," Garner stated about GSC, "Really very, very nice people. I'm from California and everything's real green here. I do about 100 colleges a year. I'm on the road about 250 days of the year."

New Buses Purchased for College-sponsored Activities

GSC purchased two new buses to be used for transportation for all regular scheduled college activities. Each bus accommodates 25 passengers. The buses are equipped with large diesel engines, automatic transmission, cruise control, overhead luggage space, and air conditioning.

The buses were purchased from Roher Bus Service in Pennsylvania. They were purchased on a five year lease at the end of which they will pay $1, and the buses belong to the school. The price of each bus was $42,000. One bus will be paid for through Alumni Foundation funds, the other by regular college funds.

Jazz Band Entertains

The Jazz Band at GSC performs music from the big band era to the newest rock. It encourages students to learn the different musical styles and to perform and improvise in these many styles, whether they be swing jazz or rock.

The Jazz Band plays two or more concerts each year in the Art and Music Building Auditorium.

Mollohan Addressed Graduates

Congressman Alan B. Mollohan, member of the U.S. House of Representatives from the First District of West Virginia, addressed the eighteenth graduating class of Glenville State College on May 9.

During the ceremony, Mollohan was awarded an honorary doctorate of humane letters. The honorary doctorate, the highest honor given to the college, had only been awarded once previously.

Mollohan was born in Fairmont where he resides with his wife, Barbara Whiting Mollohan of Glenville, four sons and one daughter.

"We are proud of the accomplishments that Congressman Mollohan has made with regard to the economic development in Central West Virginia. His tremendous contributions will enrich the lives of families and individuals in West Virginia," said Dr. William K. Simmons, president of Glenville State College.

Mollohan said, "I am deeply honored by Glenville State College's invitation to address this year's graduating class, and to receive the highest honor bestowed by the college."

"Over the years my family and I have developed strong ties with both the college and the community. This makes the honor even more meaningful to me. Historically, Glenville State College has played a vital role in the life of the community and the lives of its students. This institution remains true to its mission of educating our youth and serving our community."

GSC Hosts PBL Leadership Conference

The Phi Beta Lambda State Leadership Conference was held April 24 on the GSC campus. Members from 11 PBL Chapters from across West Virginia traveled to the GSC campus for the annual meeting.

The conference included competitions and the election for the 1992-93 state officers. The competitions were job interview, computer concept and other written and oral skills events. Winners from the competition were sent on for further competition in the Phi Beta Lambda National Leadership Conference.

Federal Procurement Discussed at GSC

Barbara Weaver, Federal Contracting Specialist with the U.S. Small Business Administration, conducted a briefing concerning the Federal Procurement Assistance Program. The September 5 meeting took place in the Heflin Center's Verona Maple Room at Glenville State College.

The U.S. Small Business Administration's Federal Procurement Assistance Program has been arranged to meet the needs of clients marketing to, and contracting with, the federal government. The four major divisions are as follows: Education and Counseling, Problem Solving and Advocacy, Teaming and Subcontractor Assistance, and agency review.

Weaver presented a slide show to explain the Small Business Administration's mission: to stimulate and foster economic development through small businesses.

President Simmons, Raymond Oliverio, and Weaver discussed a possible conference, "Teaming to Win," to be held at Glenville State College. They hope to see more involvement from the business students of GSC.

Students Exhibit Art in Art and Music Gallery

The Student Art Exhibition opened its doors to the gallery of the Art and Music Building on January 13. The art exhibition is composed of different types of art from several different students.

The works represented in the show were realistic indications to the rest of the student body of the creations completed in the art classes. Much of the art that was displayed was in the uncomplete form, complemented by a complicated work with a simplistic style. The show displayed works by seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen, as well as International students.

Pizza Hut Managed By GSC Alumnus

The Glenville community became excited about the opening of Pizza Hut on January 19 on the corner of 2nd West Main Street. The new Pizza Hut, under the management of Glenville State Alumnus Mike Miller, offers many great deals to the faculty and students of Glenville State College.

Miller, who graduated in 1990, was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha at GSC. Students and faculty received a special ten percent discount on their lunches Monday through Friday by showing their faculty or student I.D. cards.

Special Events.*

The 1991-92 year brought many special events to Glenville State college. Students enjoyed many performances from the music department, including the Percussion Ensemble '92. GSC Week was another special event which was enjoyed by the entire campus. "Focus '92," the first ever rural procurement for West Virginia small businesses, was hosted by our campus. The Miss GSC Pageant was held and Amber Holbert was crowned Miss GSC 1992. The special events held on our campus were just that-special. The memorable events of 1991-92 will be . . . etched in stone.

Gas Well Dedication

Friday, October 25 will be remembered well in the history of Glenville State College. The dedication of Gas Well No.3, which took place at the well site, marked the third successful attempt GSC has made at tapping its natural gas resources.

Speakers at the ceremony, which hosted approximately 150 people, included a representative from the office of Governor Caperton, Phillip A. Reale; the Mayor of Glenville, Bruce Smith; the Chairperson of the GSC Board of Advisors, Reta Kight; Chancellor of the State College System at West Virginia, Dr. Pual Marion; President of GSC, Dr. William K. Simmons; and GSC Dean of Student Services, D. A.T. Billips.

Speakers at the dedication discussed the savings in revenue realized from the college's participation in pilot project to convert its vehicles to run from both gasolin and natural gas.

The dedication ended with a voluminous release of natural gas from the well.

Child Learning Center

The Child Learning Center (CLC) is a program in which children ages four and up can enjoy learning skills including social, emotional, physical, and cognitive language. The program enhances a child's willingness to learn.

The CLC not only benefits children attending, but GSC students as well. The center provides students taking early education and similar courses with valuable hands on experience. The CLC serves as a laboratory for these students, allowing them to observe the children and their behavioral patterns.

Sports Awards

Over the homecoming weekend, the prestigious Montrose and Williams awards were presented just prior to the kickoff of Saturday's game against the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats.

Tammy Pence-Hughs was awarded the Williams Award. Over her four year career at GSC she compiled an impressive resume. Some of her accomplishments include four year letter winner, all time leading scorer for Women's Basketball Team with a 1931 career point total and three year all WV Conference Volleyball Tournament Team among other accomplishments.

This year's Montrose Award went to Paul Grier. He finished as tenth on the all time career point total at 1670, four letter winner, set a WVIAC Tournament record for the most point goals in one game, and has many other individual accomplishments.

Rememberance

*Do not stand at my grave and weep,
I am not there, I do not sleep.*

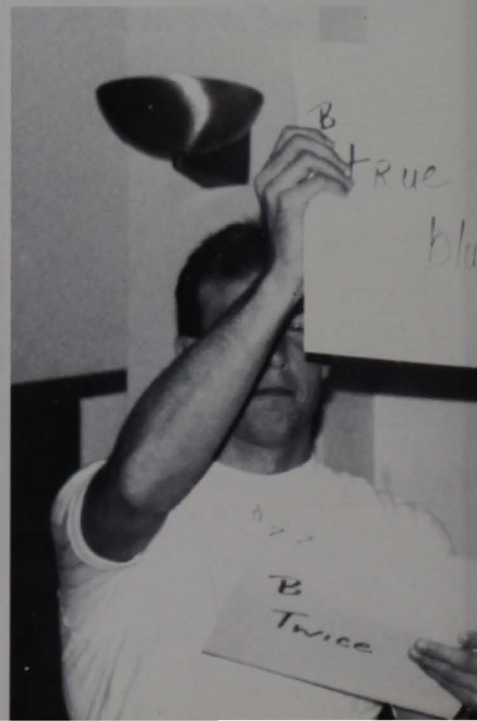

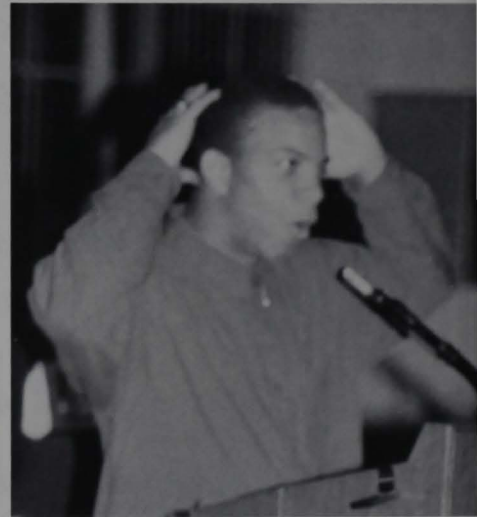

*I am a thousand winds that blow,
I am the diamond glints in the snow.
I am the sunlight on ripened grain,
I am the gentle autumn's rain.*

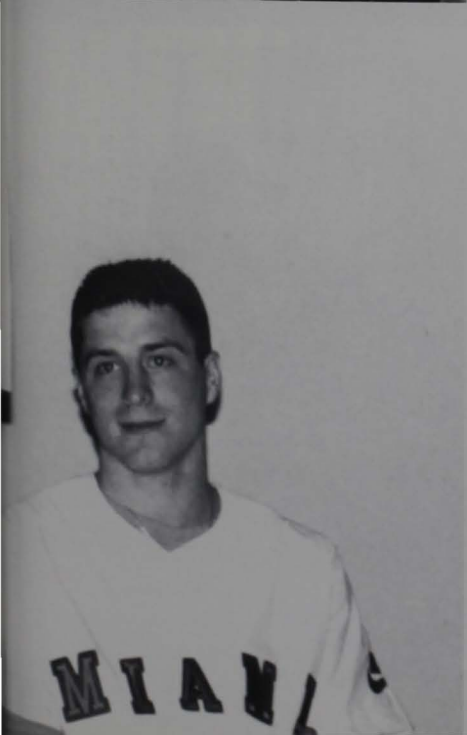

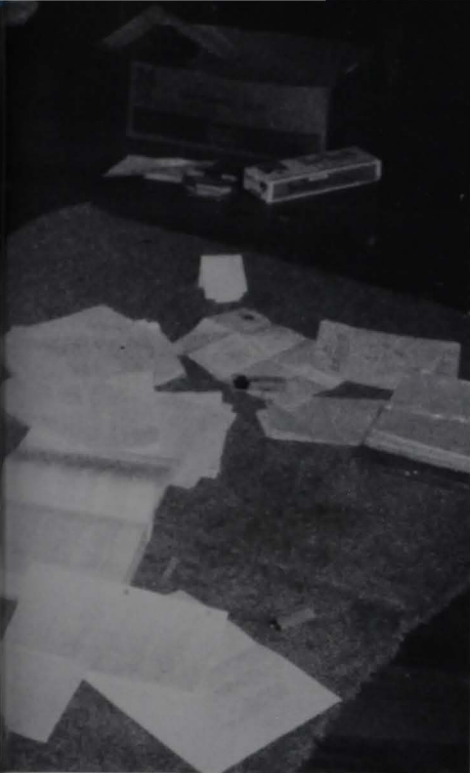

*When you awaken in the morning's hush,
I am the swift uplifting rush of quiet birds in circled flight,
I am the soft stars that shine at night:
Do not stand at my grave and cry,
I am not there, I did not die.*

As you've flipped through the pages of what is now only a memory you will realize how that certain day, event, or person has become YOUR memory. You may occasionally need this yearbook just to remind you of the year which has just become... etched in stone.
