The original building the citizens of Glenville bought to house the branch of the State Normal School they sought. The bellfry was added.

Glenville State College The Beginnings

Thirty-two residents of Gilmer County met in the red brick courthouse in Glenville to establish a branch of the WV State Normal School. The group included two legislators, one of whom--Fifth District Senator Preston Pow--introduced Senate Bill Number 15 which became an Act of the WV Legislature establishing the Glenville Branch Normal School, February 19, 1872. A proviso of the act was that the citizens should furnish a suitable building without cost to the state. That summer the Normal School Association was formed. The president of that association was Harrison Cain, who was a blacksmith, farmer and the clerk of the county court. Fifty-six area residents donated from $5 to $100 for a building and land.

The first students were enrolled on January 14, 1873, by acting principal Thomas Marcellus Marshall. A young man at the time, he is described as intelligent and highly eccentric yet equally industrious. When the legislature did not vote sufficient funds, Marshall worked for nothing and dug coal and hauled it to the school.

The first year, 120 students ranged in age from 12 to 30. Tuition ranged from $20 to $32 the first 25 years. The average age of students in 1918 was 13.5.

The Glenville Branch
Normal School has seen many changes over the years, but the last of the colorful maples still preside over a love seat built in the following years for students who strolled the campus nights.

Huge silver maples covered the lawn once, spreading their colorful leaves about the grounds. The silver maple is not native to this area, but projects of planting these trees along the Little Kanawha River has brought back a splendid sight, once covering the rich, green hills of GSC campus.

Below, the Science Hall built in 1943 shows the modern style of architecture and changes over the years.

It wasn't always so easy to go home on the weekends. As pictured here, these students travel by bus, by train, car, or horse and buggy. Shown in this picture is the old Kanawha Hall.

125 Years

Verona Maple was built as a men's dormitory, a copper roofed grand old structure, it was torn down in the late 1970's, and the grounds were used as a parking lot and playfield.

Clark Hall is a stately building that once housed the library. When the new library was built, students volunteered to carry the books down to the new building. Today, the old library is Clark Hall.

Miss Kanawhachen

"Having been raised in the small county of Gilmer, WV, naturally I had the desire to attend a college that had the same type of small town atmosphere. A friendly and helpful atmosphere attracted me to GSC, not simply the idea that it was close to home. The students as well as the faculty always seem to go the extra step to be friendly and to help you no matter what the situation.

"Another aspect that stands out about GSC from my past three years of experience is that unlike most colleges, here the students are NOT merely known as a number, but rather their name. I like the idea that it is my name that peers and faculty know by two and three parts rather than my social security number.

"Although the college does have a small atmosphere, GSC provides plenty of activities to become involved in. I personally became involved with the Student Accounting Society (SAS), Phi Beta Lambda (PBL) and Collegiate 4-H, the organization which nominated me for Miss Kanawhachen. Through these organizations I met many friends and had many wonderful experiences.

"My past three years at GSC have been full of these experiences which created long lasting memories. The one memory which will always be fixed in my heart and mind is the friends and support that blessed me with the honor and title of Miss Kanawhachen. I will never forget that moment, nor will I forget the friendly and helpful atmosphere here at GSC."

Julia Fisher.

Each year a female student is nominated by a campus organization to become Miss Kanawhachen. She symbolizes the spirit of Glenville State College. The name derives from the Little Kanawha River which flows through the glen from which Glenville takes its name. "The river that flows through the woods," one Indian tribe's translation goes.

The event, originally held by The Kanawhachen staff as a fund raiser for the yearbook, is carried on with votes for nominees taken in the Heflin Student Center, at a penny a vote. The crowning of Miss Kanawhachen now takes place at the last home basketball game of the season.

Homecoming '96

October 19, 1996, was a cold crisp breezy day. The '96 Homecoming parade was a success with nine area bands from high schools and middle schools plus the GSC Marching Band. Hundreds of area residents came to see the college's premier event. The coronation of the queen went smoothly. The Pioneer football team pulled out a tough victory, after being down 20 points, over the Fairmont State Falcons.

Homecoming is an exciting part of the fall semester, attracting hundreds of alumni. The 1996 Glenville State College Homecoming was no exception. This year's theme was a "Mardi Gras" Homecoming. Parade floats, the halftime band performance and the Homecoming Ball were based around the New Orleans pre-lenten celebration.

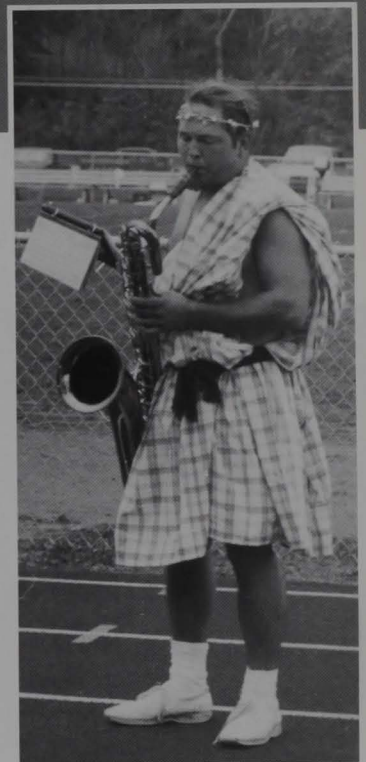

Balancing on one foot, GSC Marching Band feature twirler Lisa Doddrell amazes the spectators.

Dressed to Mardi Gras, the halftime entertainment is about to begin as the marching band prepares to take the field.

Parents, students and guests made their way to the Luanna T. Smith Amphitheatre to witness the coronation of Amanda Sedlock as Homecoming Queen. Pioneers pick off Falcons Down 20 points at halftime, the Pioneers showed what they were made of. Fighting over superiority in the WVIAC, both teams came into the match, 3-0. The Pioneers tied the game in the last quarter, 27-27, then went ahead 34-27. But Fairmont wasn't through, coming within one point of Glenville with 32 seconds to play. A two-point conversion failed when Jevon Hicks came from behind causing a fumble, which led the Pioneers to win the game 34-33.

A college is a diverse community of individuals who add some unique knowledge the students wish to attain. The whole is much greater than the sum of the individual parts.

Faculty, Administration and Staff

Faculty, Administration and Staff must work together as a team. All through the school year.

Working as a team means near-endless meetings and consultations, as we see these faculty members and administrators doing.

Dr. Palm advises students at registration. Is he saying, "English is the most important language in the world," to these young ladies?

President Simmons, as head of Glenville State College, plays a vital role in overseeing the operations of the college. Here we see him addressing the crowd at the GSC Homecoming coronation.

The President of Glenville State College...

Dr. William K. Simmons

"As you explore this yearbook, it will not only serve as a guide for your memories of 1996- 1997, it will also serve as a document that records a monumental year in the rich history of Glenville State College. As president, I have been able to witness many great accomplishments on our campus. In many ways, 1996-1997 stands out as one of our most productive and important years in recent history. In these times of 'downsizing' and 'resource reallocation,' our campus remains strong in the state of West Virginia with stable student enrollment and vital technology. We have proven, yet again, that a small, four year college in central West Virginia can continue to thrive and enrich lives.

"Within the confines of this book, you can literally see the growth in technology with our new Distance Learning Center and microcomputer labs. While these technological advances move GSC into the future, I believe it is Glenville State College's strong commitment to remain the friendly campus that keeps us unique in this electronic age.

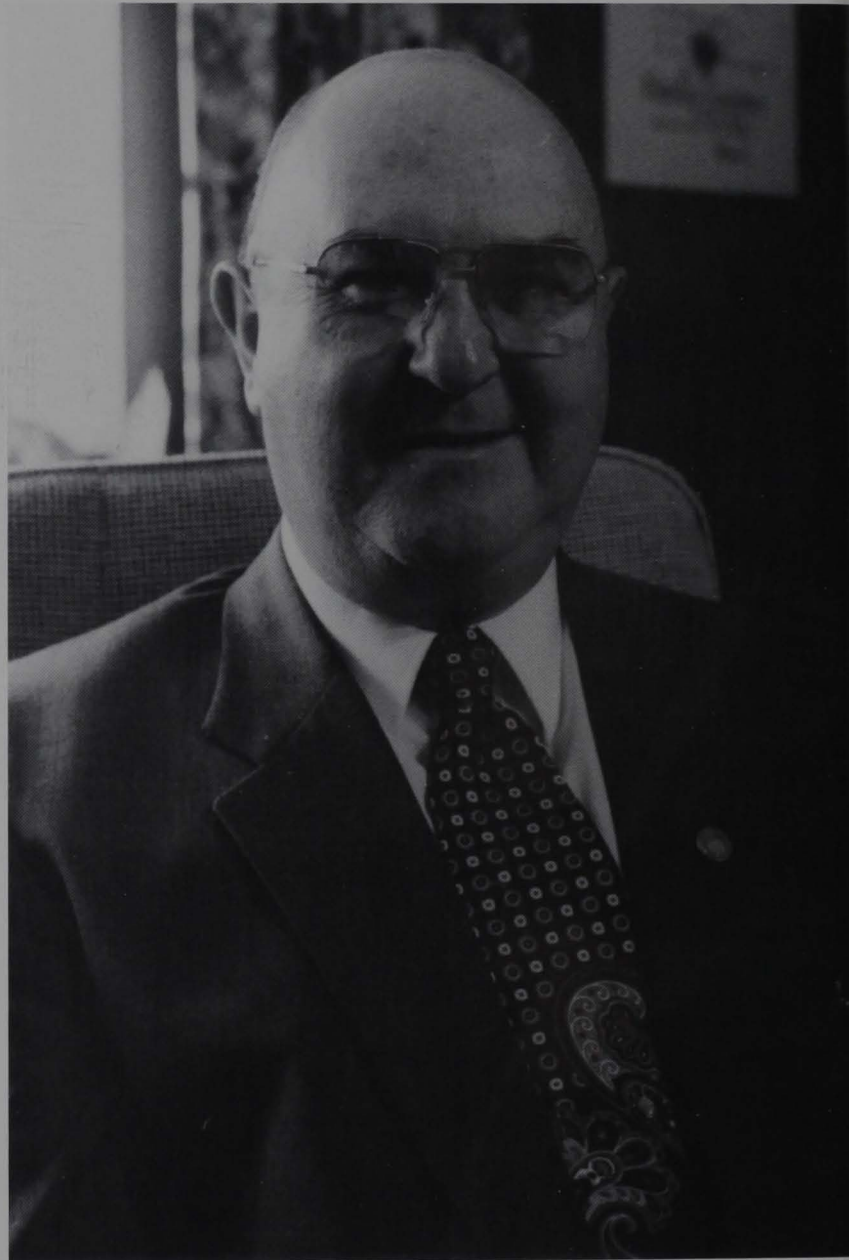

"The past year provided many challenges, from both without and within. In early 1995 the West Virginia Legislature passed Senate Bill 547. This bill was designed to bring all West Virginia Colleges to a new level of excellence. Glenville State College led our sister institutions by creating an outstanding Strategic Plan to carry us into the next century.

"In the classrooms on the main campus, at our Nicholas and Lewis County Centers, and on the fields and courts of the WVIAC, Glenville State College has proven time and again that we are truly 'Pioneering into the 21st Century.' I hope your year at Glenville State has helped you with your life's journey as much as serving you has helped me with mine."

With Pioneer Spirit,

Dr. William K. Simmons
President

"The most important thing I do is to have a vision of the college and its future."

This Christmas tree hung off the parking lot side of the Heflin Center is about 45 feet tall.

Every building, every bush, every blade of grass is kept in trim and top shape as this early spring photo reveals.

Adding to school spirit is this new pavement with GSC inlaid in red brick on the sidewalk of Pickens Hall.

Alpha Psi Omega - is a national theatre fraternity.

March 5, 1997, members of Alpha Psi Omega traveled to Miami, Florida to attend the South Eastern Theatre Conference/ Convention. This conference provides workshops and audition opportunities to all those in the theatrical field. The highlight of the trip for most was meeting playwrights Christopher Durang ("Identity Crisis") and Steven Schwartz ("Godspell" and " Pippin"). "It was incredible getting to meet such a complete theatre artist," said Nancy Wemm of Schwartz.

Billips voted in by the Allen congress, sat out one year when the Dean congress voted him out in an unprecedented move for student control.

Pioneer Football

1996-97 was the year of the Pioneers as GSC geared up for a fantastic football season. The makeup of the GSC Pioneers is diverse. This year's pre-season began on August 11th for the players as they went through unyielding conditioning. In the end, all the hard work and dedication made for a terrific year.

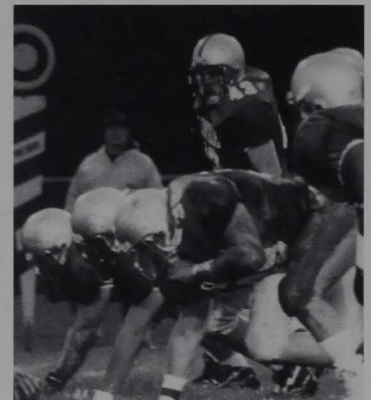

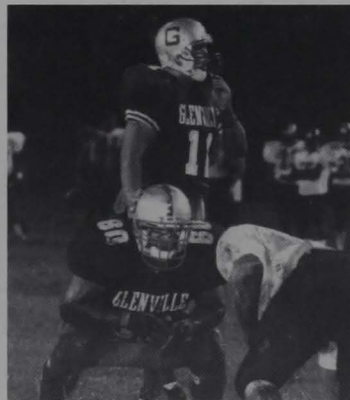

With Pioneer quarterback Rod Smith at the helm, the offense had a great year and good competition numbers. "We have always had a great tradition of effective quarterbacks here at GSC," explained Rodriguez.

Passing and running the ball, All-American receiver Carlos Ferrals takes GSC to new heights.

Coach for all Seasons....

Coach Rich Rodriguez entered his sixth season at the helm of the Pioneer football team in 1990. At the time, the program was completely decimated and even on the verge of being eliminated.

Things began to change when Rodriguez and his staff arrived at Glenville State College in 1990. The once prevalent apathy that consumed the program was quickly replaced with newfound enthusiasm. Since Rodriguez's tenure began, GSC football has regained respect not only in the WVIAC but on the national level as well.

The Pioneers have reached many heights: three consecutive WVIAC Championships and national playoff appearances in the 1993 and '94 seasons; a berth in the NAIA National Championship Game in '93; consecutive number two finishes in the NAIA National Poll in '93 and '94; and also including many other awards and record breaking achievements over the years.

Coach Rodriguez and his staff completely turned around a program and produced a great football with true Pioneer spirit.

New Head Football Coach

Warren Ruggerio didn't waste any time when he was selected as GSC's new football coach in February. The 30-year-old, first-time head coach already has the Pioneers' primary goal in place. "People talk about advantages and disadvantages (at Glenville), but we have a goal to reach the Division II National Championship," said Ruggerio.

Dr. William K. Simmons believes Ruggerio can accomplish that goal.

"I believe in looking at the field of candidates and the excellent applicants, we selected the individual that will continue the program of excellence in Pioneer football."

Men's Cross Country

Glenville State College is rich in track and cross country tradition. We are currently a member of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (WVIAC) and an affiliate of the NCAA Division II. The 1995-96 academic year was the first year GSC athletics became a full member of the NCAA. Prior to this, the school was a member of the NAIA (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.)

In the 90's, the men's track and field team has enjoyed much success. In the eight years of this decade, the men have captured three conference championships and four runner-up titles. Since Coach Harold took over the program in 1990, 15 athletes have advanced to NAIA national championship competition, with two of those individuals becoming All-Americans. The men's cross country team virtually dominated the conference in the 80's. After rebuilding from that period, the men are on the verge of returning to the top.

In 1994 and 1995, the men finished second in the conference. In 1994, the team had three individuals qualify for NAIA national championship competition. In 1995, this team became the first GSC program to compete in NCAA post season competition. Placing 22nd out of 54 teams in the eastern region. In 1996 the men returned to the top of the conference by winning the WVIAC Championship and in its second year of NCAA post season competition, place 10th in regional competition.

Coach Rick Conklin

Rick Conklin is both men's and women's track and cross country coach, as well as Sports Information Director and Publications Manager.

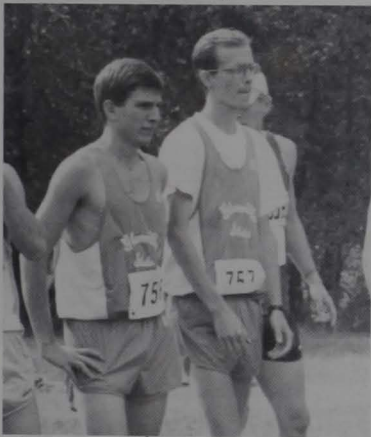

A 1995 GSC graduate, Conklin holds a B.S. degree with a minor in journalism, and an associate degree in Business Administration and Forestry.

Women's Cross Country

Women's Cross Country

Though highly competitive in the 80's, the women's team is in a rebuilding stage and the rebuilding has already begun. In 1996 the team consisted of seven freshmen and one junior college transfer along with several returning sophomore athletes. The coaching staff is confident this young team is a solid foundation for a future championship team. The 1996 team placed second in the conference, a two place improvement from the 1995 season, and produced the WVIAC Freshman of The Year.

The women's cross country team, like the track and field team, has plenty of potential for future success with plenty of Pioneer spirit.

Coach Steve Harold

Steve Harold enters his second season as head Coach of the GSC's women's basketball team. With over a decade of coaching experience, Harold looks forward to the challenge of returning Lady Pioneers basketball to the position of WVIAC prominence that it once enjoyed.

In his first season as the head Coach, he improved dramatically over the prior year, with a placement as 12th in the WVIAC. Most impressively, the Pioneers ranked 5th statistically in team defense. Coach Harold resides in Glenville with his wife Renee, and their daughter, 4 year old Katie.

Student Life At GSC

Moving into the dorms, going to classes, and keeping your schedule straight has its ups and downs. At GSC, students find time to have fun, whether it's playing in the snow during the winter months or keeping cool in the pool during the hot days. Each student finds their own way of having fun during the semester.

Displaying Talent...

We've seen some amazing talent each year at GSC, thus we remind ourselves that true talent is latent within all of us.

Displaying great talent in the Fine Arts Gallery, Ruth Ellen Wilson and Bernie Calhoun featured many intriguing pieces of wall art and sculpture in this year's Senior Art Exhibit in the Gallery.

THE WHEELING SYMPHONY

The Wheeling Symphony, conducted by Rachael Worby featured soloist Mari Kodoma and Larry Elgart, moving GSC audiences this year with selections that astounded the imagination and mind.

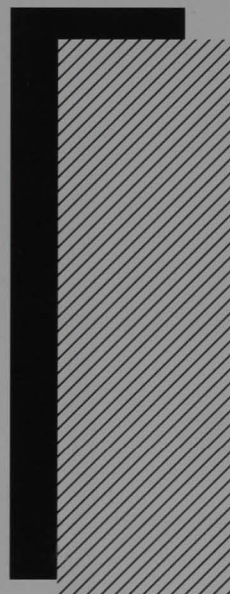

The Wheeling Symphony conductor, Rachael Worby, selected many vibrant, up-lifting pieces of music by Mozart for this year's performance.

Featured soloist, Mari Kodoma, delighted GSC audiences when she played Piano Concerto No. 26 in D major, "Coronation" by Mozart.

An awe-stirring performance by the Wheeling Symphony!

The GSC Theatre Department's performance of the Paul Rudnick's "I Hate Hamlet" is living proof that a fine ensemble cast can provide prime entertainment.

With a line of fine actors and crew, the theatre department has given us numerous plays from musicals, to comedies, to thrillers.

It was a real treat when the GSC theatre department gave us a real scare in Bloody Jack, a student-directed play.

Director Spotlight

Ezekiel "Zeke" Flowers, a 22 year-old native of Lumberport, is in his fifth year at GSC.

Flowers loves every aspect of theatre, but says directing is his favorite.

"When I direct I can put a part of me into every character, every wall, and every light on stage," he replies.

He received runner-up best actor for his role in Scapino, and best actor for his role in Prelude to a Kiss. Flowers put on a director's hat for two one-act plays, Beached and Teeth, before moving on to Who Can Fix the Dragon's Wagon? and Bloody Jack.

John Park and Cris Kenna discuss murder and mayhem in London as Jack strikes again.

Flowers and Hopkins talk "Bloody" in Bloody Jack.

It looks like the end for the good doctor...or is it the Ripper?

Stephen Barrows (Jeremy Burke) hears Ellen Sargeant's (Heather Bland) fear that Jack the Ripper is near.

Concert Choir

One moment the listeners are sitting quietly, the next moment they're surrounded by men and women who are serenading with "My Home Among the Hills." This year's Concert Choir proved a great success with these pieces of music that dazzled audiences.

Faculty Spotlight

Mr. Keith Haan, Assistant Professor of Music, is Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts. Being GSC's only voice instructor, teaching choral music and chamber singers, he is a busy man.

Superstar Opera

"In going over this work, it struck me that this opera holds about the same relation to us, today, that the great Greek tragedies held for them. It tells a story, the bare bones of which are known to all. It describes human interactions based on those stories and the author's telling observations that create a believable set of reasons for stories from the past. It is inspired by a religious story, as the Greek tragedies were. And like them, it has in the past caused much concern for respect on the part of those writing and performing it."

Recitals

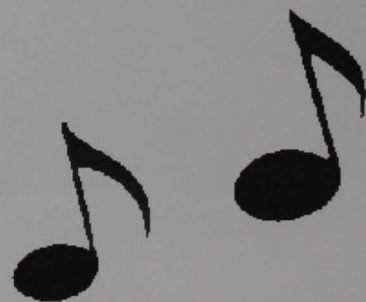

The GSC Music Division has always turned out the best in musicians. This year, GSC audiences were entertained by various recitals. Among the senior recitals were Jenny Downs, Gloria Winland, Chris Brown, Amanda Sedlock, Jay Kerns, Danny Moore, Darlene Moore, Susan Hunter, and April Estep. Also, a faculty recital was given by Harry Rich.

The Jesse Reed Collection

ative West Virginian, Jesse Reed, was featured on August 30 in the Fine Arts Gallery with his watercolors and prints. Reed, a Professor of Art at Davis and Elkins College, is a world traveler, his paintings reflect the influence of the 96 different countries he visited. His collection portrays people, places, and animals which are unique to their respective areas. From coaltown houses in southern West Virginia to the majestic elephants of Africa, Reed's paintings and prints capture the spirit of each subject.

Featured at this year's Fine Arts Gallery, Jesse Reed shows his audience a painting influenced by one of the many countries he has visited and brought to life in watercolor.

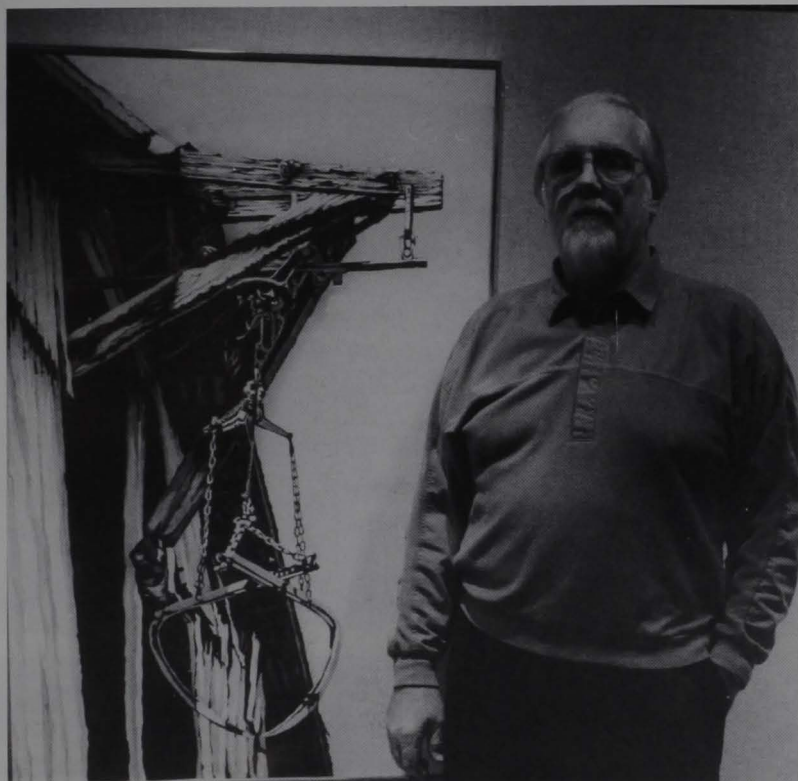

This painting of a farm during winter is an example of Reed's influential roots as he captures West Virginia in watercolor.

Vernon Howell Collection

With a wonderful collection of acrylic paintings, the Fine Arts Gallery displayed a collection of paintings by Vernon Howell between November and December. Vernon Howell, a resident of Huntington, recieved an A.B. degree and a teaching certificate in 1959, with a masters in Art Education also from Marshal University in 1964. His post-graduate work were displayed in the National Gallery of Art in Washington D.C., under the auspices of George Washington University.

Howell's works also appeared in the Nationall Gallery of Art at the Smithsonian Institute, the White House, and many other museums around the nation. His work is currently on display at Thaler Orthopedic Clinic, Hunington Savings and Trust, WSAZ TV, and museums in the state.

Steven Morningstar

Steven Morningstar brought a collection of Landscape Paintings to the Fine Arts Gallery this year. A resident of Parkersburg, he teaches at Edison High School, and recieved his bachelors of arts at WVU after attending Glenville State College.

"Landscapes are one of my favorite things to paint," he said, "they have the most interesting variety of colors and shapes."

His display in the Fine Arts Gallery was in the Spring semester.

Now

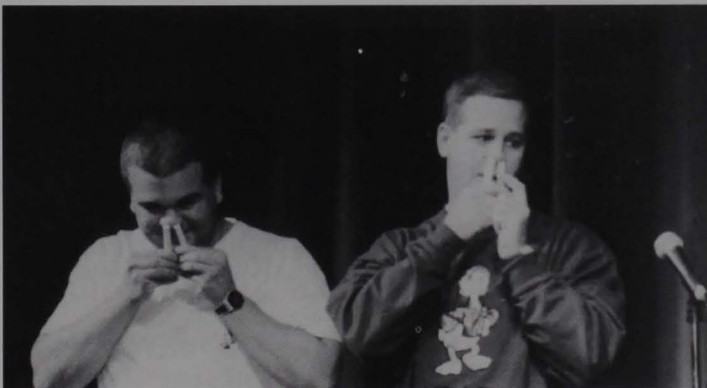

That's Funny!

They made us laugh! They made us cry! GSC was host to a variety of comedians entertaining us during the year with lots of jokes and skits. With great comedians such as Pete George, Carey Long, Tammy Pascatelli, Michael Chelska, and many others, the nights roared with laughter.

GRADUATION

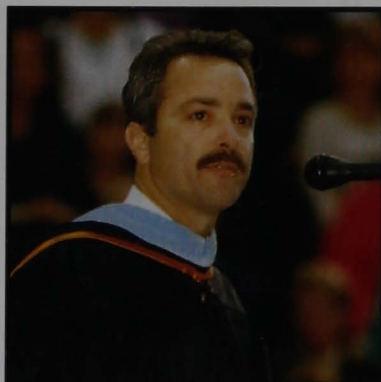

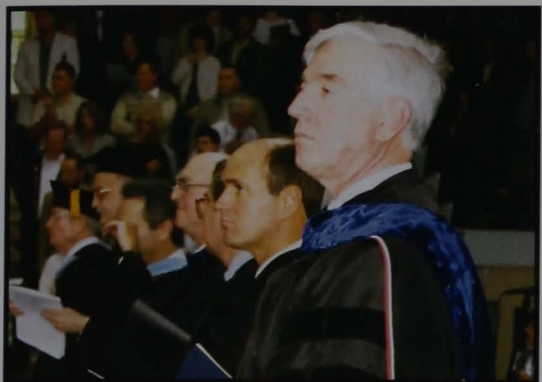

On May 10, 1997, Glenville State College students walked proudly into the auditorium as the Concert Band filled the aisles with music. Larry Milov, president of the Fairmont-based WV High Technology Consortium, was the keynote speaker for the evening, stressing students to utilize their talents in both their personal and professional endeavors.

He concluded by reciting remarks from the wisdom of the late President Franklin Roosevelt: "If you fail, fail by daring greatly."

the Homecoming.

Bubbly and lively, these girls get serious when ceramics is involved. Prof. Scott of the art department works his magic at making pottery. A long-time professor at GSC, he retired from GSC and recieved an honorary award at graduation. His valuable insight and knowledge will be greatly missed.

Picture Pages

Here are some of this year's favorite faces. When taking pictures, these students get into the act! So sit back and relax awhile. After all, if these students can smile a little, so can you.

Who's Nosey?!!

Right: April Estep trudges up hill to class.

Below: Art class looks like so much fun for this art student. Is that what they mean by mud in your eye?

Right: April Rector and her fiancé

like they're in love...or hate, same difference!

West Virginia Words

John Clise and Jeremy Dean created this new literature publication as an internship with Dr. Corcharan at the Democrate/Pathfinder.

This publication includes poetry, prose, short-stories and a few pictures.

Marlan Zowell catches his breath after the LBH fire.

Tracy Lane and Becky Frashure take time out to pose for a picture during an FCA meeting.

In Memory

An accident on June
a Glenville College
Villers, of Mantua remembered for her ness, and her smile
well. Services for Staci

Monday, June 30 1997 at Stockert-Gibson Funeral Home in Flatwoods, with Rev.
Vaughan James officiating.

This page is in remembrance of Staci.

26 claimed the life of
Student, Staci Dawn
Ohio. Staci will be re-friendship, her kind-loved ones knew of so were held at 11am,

Unloved
I wonder how it feels to be
A dew drop on a single blade of grass?
I wonder how true the reflection
When ripples in the stream are your looking glass?
I know how it feels to slip
On the slippery sharp cliffs of life.
I know how it feels to pierce
Your skin with the dulllest knife.
I wonder what it's like to be
A star hanging lonely in the sky...
And all this I have felt,
I shared, I have seen.
All this I have experienced,
Not understood, but I have been.
All this because I have loved, but Love was not returned to me!

-Staci Dawn Villers

Cosmic Comments

Comets - Eclipses

From the fall of 1995 through the spring of 1997, Mercury photo editor Gene Breza '95-'96 and Mercury photo editor Carl Wilson '96-'97 inspired each other with their interest in photography.

Below: Guys and girls hang out in the shade. I wonder if they're skipping?

Next Below: The trainers laugh it up, and keep spirits going.

Some students find time to stretch and exercise their minds and bodies. Guess it's sweat'n to the young'ns!

This guys look like a winner during the Toughman contest.

Here are just some more un-forgettable
people
this semester.

Left and Below, Palm Prints:
Camera nut, Dr. Palm gives us an insight on some of the faculty and students.

Gambling away, GSC students like to take a break and play poker. Afterall, it's all fun and games.
