QUOTATION

A little learning is a dangerous thing;
Drink deep, or taste not the Pierian spring.
There, shallow drafts intoxicate the brain,
And drinking largely sobers it again.
Fired at first sight with what the Muse imparts,
In fearless youth we tempt the heights of arts,
While from the bounded level of our mind
Short views we take, nor see the lengths behind;
But more advanced, behold with strange surprise
New distant scenes of endless science rise!
So pleased at first the towering Alps we try,
Mount o'er the vales, and seem to tread the sky,
Th' eternal snows appear already past,
And the first clouds and mountains seem the last;
But, those attained, we tremble to survey
The growing labors of the lengthened way,
Th' increasing prospect tires our wandering eyes,
Hills peep o'er hills, and Alps on Alps arise!

—POPE.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

IT WAS not an altogether promising group of aspiring young men and women that gathered at the Glenville State Normal School in the fall of 1925 and made up the freshman class of 1926. Indeed there was great dismay among the teachers. "How in the world are we to make cultured men and women out of such crude material?" These were the words on the lips of every member of the faculty; but time will tell and so will good instruction, for who would have recognized the sophomores as the "Freshies" of the preceding year? As the class acquired knowledge it also gained much valuable experience and wisdom in the ways of the school and normal schools. Members of the class became acquainted with each other, and formed friendships which will last through life.

When the class assembled again in the fall of 1926, many new faces were noticed and several old ones were missed. This year it profited much from freshman experience and won many laurels for itself in scholarship and athletics. The teachers now became encouraged with the results and showed much delight over the improvement, realizing that a bright future was in store for such a class.

When the junior class assembled the next year there appeared still fewer of the original members. Despite this fact the class was very large because of the number of high school graduates coming in to take junior college work.

Under the leadership of Beryl Gibson, as president, the class passed a successful but uneventful year; nevertheless, the members of the class were developing and fitting themselves to become worthy seniors. The football and basketball teams were much strengthened by the playing of many juniors. The class was well represented on the honor roll; the highest average for two consecutive terms was made by a junior. The juniors were prominent in the various organizations of the school. My, what a great difference had been brought about in the class since its freshman year! It had gained much practical experience along with knowledge and was ready to assume the duties and responsibilities of seniordom and to conduct itself with the dignity and decorum befitting seniors.

The senior class of 1929 met early in the fall and became an organized body, selecting as its president Fred Wilson and as its sponsor Miss Grace Wilson. The class was ambitious, and besides its other activities, decided to publish an annual, the first one since 1926, and immediately set about to make the decision a reality. The class proceeded with the usual business connected with senior dignity and responsibility. Thus the time came for graduation and the leaving of the school with all its pleasant associations and remembrances. In looking back over the years during which they have been connected with the Glenville State Normal School, the members of the class doubtless see many mistakes that they would like to correct; yet they feel that they have done much that is worth while for the school and that they are somewhat fitted to cope with the problems of life, and they rest in the firm belief that this is one of the most outstanding senior classes in the history of the school.

IF

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about don't deal in lies,
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise:

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools:

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the will which says to them: "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings—nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son!

—KIPLING.

A PUBLIC SALE ON THE FARM

HERE are days when the farmer and his wife, going to market, wish for something more unusual to happen to break the monotony of their lives. They so seldom have any excitement—but there—what is that? A new sheet of paper tacked on a tree just around a bend in the road, immediately attracts their attention. The wagon draws up and stops before it, while the driver strains his eyes to read the small print until his impatience to find out what it is about makes him clamber down over the wheel and go closer. He broadcasts the results of his labor to his wife.

“A sale!”, is her impatient reply, “I can see that much myself. Whose is it?”

He reads on, and the climax of the bill, which lies in the signature, brings instant response.

“Hiram, do you reckon he has to sell it to pay his debts? I been hearin’ he owes lots of folks, and his wife is so stuck-up she never invited me inside, when I went over there tryin’ to be nice, and I never did see inside that house. Well, I reckon she won’t dare turn up her nose at me when I go to the sale, ’cause our money is as good as anybody elses.”

Another wagon comes up and it must all be read and discussed again. They almost forget that the butter will be soft and the vegetables wilted, with sitting there in the sun, but they won’t forget the date of the sale.

That curiosity satisfying day soon begins with early arrivals who are determined to miss nothing of this novel entertainment. The farm, in all its humdrum past, has never known such a host of visitors. Everybody, round about, wants to know what kind of furniture they have to sell. Few come to buy, while many come to see what the other fellow buys and how much he pays for it. For one reason or another, when the auctioneer takes his place, he sees everybody from miles around gathered in the yard about the house.

The auctioneer is another attraction of the day. The loud tones of his voice, rising and falling, demand attention and get it readily. From one to another goes the query, “Who got that? What did he pay for it? Well, I wouldn’t give half that much for it.” The all important buyer has an equally important conference with the collector, either proudly paying cash, or secretly trying to arrange for credit. Gossip and idle comments will furnish entertainment, while the next article is being brought to the front and the auctioneer gets his breath. If the article is still being used in the house, as the stove, the auctioneer leads the way and everybody else tries to crowd in after him to see an old rusty cooking stove that nobody wants but on which some one rashly bids in the enthusiasm of the moment.

By noon the articles in the house have found new owners. After dinner the crowd separates. The men go toward the barn and pasture where they lean or sit on the fence and discuss the merits of the animals offered for sale. The horses and cows feed quietly, all unconscious of the importance of the day. Here the auctioneer must take the background, for the owner knows more about these animals than he does.

"That thar horse can't be beat. He's the best plow horse you ever seen, and he's young too. I've worked him with different teams for years, and years, and years, and never had a mite of trouble with him." The farmer goes on explaining, praising and trying to interest some one in these unheard-of bargains.

They are reluctant to show any decided interest but look on, quietly taking in the qualities of the animals, as they are paraded before them. As it is growing late, the auctioneer becomes anxious and thinks it time to begin his tune of "What do I hear for this fine animal? Who says thirty dollars? Who says forty dollars? Forty dollars! Forty dollars, once! Do I hear another bid? Fifty dollars! Some one says sixty dollars. Sixty dollars! Sixty dollars, once! Sixty dollars, twice! Sixty dollars, three times and sold." Need we wonder that after this accomplishment he rubs his hands together in silent satisfaction and a look of triumph shows over his face. But there is still much more to do, and the auctioneer must repeat his well learned song many times.

Meanwhile the farm house is alive with gossiping women, examining everything with a critical eye, from the state of the housekeeping to the china.

"Do you know how many cups there are in this house? Only three! Yes, sir, I hunted for more and couldn't find any one." This was said when the lady of the house was not within hearing.

And this, when she was, "Oh, we're so sorry you're leavin'. I meant to come over before you left but I never got time till today. Don't you know, we've just been admirin' your dishes, and your house is so clean." So it goes until they know enough about that woman and her house to furnish gossip for a month after she has gone.

As all holidays must, this one ends. Like children going home from a circus, they are sorry the day is done and the fun all over. Their wagons, starting out of the barnyard toward home, are loaded with cupboards, chairs, and all the rest. Some have horses or cows tied to the rear of the wagons, or crates of chickens or hogs on top the furniture. The wagons and buggies go their way while the drivers listen with seeming indifference to a record of how many cups or chairs that man had in his house and what a careless housekeeper his wife was. One or two may have his day spoiled, all the way home, by hearing about his lack of wisdom in buying that "worthless old cupboard."

As soon as its previous owners can get away, the farmhouse is left standing alone. How lonesome it must be, after a taste of excitement, as it wonders who will claim it next! The bills that brought the crowd have lost all their interest, but for months afterward they decorate the roadside, until wind and rain wipe out the record of that public sale on the farm.

THE SEASONS

*S*PRING is the beginning of a new year. After a slow drizzling rain and some warm sunny days the earth awakes. Things begin to grow rapidly. The flowers and buds of trees can fairly be heard bursting into blossom and leaf. Everything is joyful. The birds especially are expressing this fact. The farmer also has joined in the awakening song. He has his machinery out now plowing and preparing the ground for his crops. In the evening can be heard the children who are expressing their joy for the pretty weather.

Summer.

And now the youth period of the year has come. Everything is carefree and go-lucky. The birds are singing their prettiest songs. Everything is growing rapidly. The flowers are sending forth their beauty and sweetness. But the dominant tone is a continual hum; hum of the bees and insects; hum of the hay mower; hum of automobiles; hum of people going and coming; and the humming of a tune by the farmer as he goes to and fro from his work.

Autumn has arrived. Nature has grown to maturity. Everyone now realizes that winter time is coming and things must be prepared for this change. There is still the perpetual hum of the bees. The farmer is gathering in his crops. He digs his potatoes and sends them to market. He picks his apples and stores them in the cellar. Everyone is in a hurry. In the distance can be heard the music of the silage cutter. The cattle are being driven away to the market. The sound of their feet and their mournful bawl can be heard for a long time after they have passed out of sight. In the evenings the frogs and lizards sing of the days that have passed and of the time that they too will join in the peaceful slumber of winter.

Now Winter has come. The year has rapidly aged into the evening time of its life. Everything is quiet and winter slumbers on peacefully. A few birds are still here to sing in the funeral march. The wind with the aid of the trees are the hired mourners. Nature sifts down snow to veil the earth in her sorrow and sadness, and thus everything is quietly awaiting for the new year.

BASKET BALL

FOR the past few years Glenville State Normal school has gained recognition by the splendid basket ball teams which have represented the school. This year Coach Rohrbough was confronted with the task of moulding a team, capable of holding up the reputation established by former teams, with a nucleus of only two veterans. The rest of his material was more or less inexperienced. To make from these candidates a team capable of defeating college teams, composed of players who have played together for two, three, or four years, is not an easy task by any means. To add to this ineligibilities and sickness makes the proposition seem entirely disheartening. And yet, we were seventh in the state basketball conference!

The season opened on January 2, with the Pioneers engaging the World's Famous Indians in a contest which centered about the "Man-mountain" center of the Indians. The game ended with the Pioneers on the reverse end of a 32 to 24 score.

The next game was a scoring contest between the Fairmont Collegians and a much improved Pioneer team. After almost forty minutes of intense excitement, the Pioneers nosed ahead and won by a nose. The score was 43 to 45.

Our boys by this time had gained confidence in their basket ball ability and it was a very determined team that took the floor against a highly respected rival, Wesleyan College. A crowded gymnasium watched the Pioneers win a sensational game from the Bob Cats by a score of 32 to 31. Every member of the team looked to be a necessary part of the 1929 model Pioneer machine.

Concord College won from us in a hectic battle. It is probable a little over confidence had developed and might be held partly responsible for the 41 to 40 score. But whatever else is said, the Mountain Lion quintet knew how to hit the basket.

A three game trip in the northern part of the state was not at all successful. In the first game the West Virginia Colts, under the tutorage of Sleepy Glenn, administered a defeat by the score of 37 to 32. This affair resembled a basket ball game more by the uniforms of the teams and the ball they played with than by the playing of either team. The basket ball court in the new field house seemed too much like the great open space described by Zane Gray. The second game was won from the fast Y. M. C. A. team of Cumberland, Maryland. The score was 47 to 35. The third game of the trip is another tale of disappointment. Potomac State demonstrated little knowledge of the game, but much willingness, and was accredited with the victory. Score: 33 to 24.

After a few days in which to recuperate, the Pioneers met Franz Burka of Clarksburg, the conquerers of D. and E. The Pioneers gained a fourteen point lead early in the game, and quit. The final result was not so pleasing since Franz Burka did not quit, but went on scoring until they had scored 47 points. The Normalites had scored 34 points.

Wesleyan College was played a return game at Buckhannon. This game was almost as thrilling as the one played at Glenville. However, this game was not so satisfying, since Wesleyan won (33-30).

It is said that revenge is sweet. Especially is this true when one is the avenger. And so with all the sweetness of revenge we avenged ourselves on Potomac State, when they played us in our own backyard. The final score was 44 to 30.

We next played the West Virginia on the local court. Although the Freshmen appeared to be gloating over an anticipated victory, they were taught their lesson and returned to Morgantown without the spoils of war. The final result was 29 to 26.

Appalachian Normal met our team when it was somewhat demoralized by the loss of two of our best players—out for the rest of the season—and a third on the sick list. In a very listless game, we were defeated 33 to 26.

In the game with New River State, Coach Rohrbough used fifteen men, his entire squad, trying to discover a combination which would work well. Nevertheless, the game was close until late in the second half when the New River State gained a decided lead. Score: 37 to 24.

The Pioneers then played Broadbuss as a preliminary to the Philippi tournament. It was a rather one sided game throughout the first half. Broadbuss was leading 21 to 9. During the second half the Pioneers fought desperately to overcome the lead. However, the final whistle blew entirely too soon because the Broadbuss quintet was still two points in the lead. Score: 27 to 25.

BASKET BALL

The crippled condition of the squad caused Coach Rohrbough to abandon a contemplated trip to the southern part of the state. Thus the return game with Broaddus ended the season. A harder fought or better contest is seldom seen. The two teams were equally matched and equally desirous of winning. The final score was 29 to 26 with Pioneers having the enviable side of the score.

The Pioneer squad was composed of: Dotson, Hall, Vass, Harrison, Parry, Rogers, Deitz, Henderson, Helmbright, Wilson, Boyles, Hamilton, Morris, Mac-Tavish, Heckert, Deem and Blair.

First Row—Burk, Ciucciarello, Ford, Simmons, Smith, Dotson, Hall, Rogers, Lee, Richman, Bryant.
 Second Row—Heimbright, Mgr.; Henderson, Harrison, Hamilton, Boyles, Heckert, Williams, Morris, Deem, Wilson, MacTavish, Prim, Dayton, Blair, Coach Rohrbaugh.

FOOTBALL

UR football team this fall was one of the best to ever represent Glenville Normal on the gridiron. Under the efficient coaching of "Nate" Rohrbough, the Pioneers developed into a machine which pulled through a hard season with four victories, one tie, and three defeats. A significant fact is that during the whole season, our opponents were able to score only 36 points, while our team was amassing a total of 155 points.

The first game of the season was played with Bluefield College on Rohrbough Field. It was a slow contest marred by frequent errors and poor football tactics. Nevertheless, the final outcome was to our liking, since the Pioneers were on the long end of a 34 to 0 score.

The Pioneers next invaded the Tiger lair, but met with defeat after a hard struggle. The Salem College Tigers found our line vulnerable for one quarter and scored two touchdowns. This was their margin of victory.

Weston was the scene of the next battle, in which the Pioneers by superb football defeated one of our oldest rivals, Broaddus College. Although Broaddus was supposed to win, if sport writers are to be considered seriously, the result was a decisive victory for the Pioneers. The Baptists found our line impregnable, while their line could not resist the Pioneer attack which netted 26 points.

Alderson Junior College afforded little opposition to our smooth working machine, which rolled up a score of 68 points before the final whistle stopped the slaughter.

Handicapped by injuries received in the Alderson game, the Pioneers were lucky to eke out a 9 to 0 victory over Fairmont Teachers College. This was our homecoming game and attracted a large number of fans and former students.

Potomac State turned out to be the proverbial thorn in our side. With only three minutes left to play, the Potomac State team received a lucky break and won 9 to 6. The fact that the Pioneers had outplayed them all through the game made this a bitter defeat.

Mother Fate was not satisfied with dealing out to us one unhappy turn, but repeated her unkindness on the following Saturday by issuing to us another defeat by Concord College. The score was 7 to 6, but the fact that we made 14 first downs, while they scored only 7 makes the defeat appear only as a cruel turn of fate.

The last game of the season was played Thanksgiving Day against the strong New River State team at Montgomery. It was a battle royal from the opening kickoff to the final whistle. The final score was 6 to 6. Each team seemed satisfied with the result of the fray. We considered it a suitable close to a good season.

Some of the outstanding men on the Pioneer team were: Dotson, Harrison, Cunningham, Prim, Henderson, G. Morris, Rogers, and Williams. The other members of the squad were: Morris, Smith, MacTavish, Helmbright, Heckert, Hamilton, Hall, Parry, Deem, Ciacciarello, Burke, Bryant, Boyles, Wilson, Mitchell, Haymond, Taylor, Simmons, and Lee.

At the beginning of the school year the Y. W. C. A. was reorganized with Helen Davis as President, Pearle Tracey, Vice-President; Helen Bailey, Asst. Vice-President; Baneeta McConkey, Secretary; George Keiss, Treasurer. Throughout the whole year, Miss Wilson and Miss Moore, as faculty sponsors, gave any help possible to the organization.

The year of '28 and '29 has been a successful one for the Y. W. C. A. Several beneficial as well as enjoyable programs were given, and a number of special projects were carried out. An entertainment was sponsored by the girls for the children of Glenville of the ages 7-10. A baked ham dinner was served in the M. E. Church dining room. A silver tea was given in the dining room of the Baptist Church. An Alumni-Student dance, sponsored by the organization proved a delightful success. The money thus earned, and that made from the candy sales is to be used in sending delegates to the National Y. W. and Y. M. Conference at Eagles Mere, Pennsylvania. Delegates attended both the spring and fall State Y. W. and Y. M. Conferences at Jackson's Mill.

Y. M. C. A.

On October 3, 1928, twenty young men met to organize a Y. M. C. A. in Glenville State Normal School. The following officers were elected for the year: Harry B. Taylor, President; Ralph Currey, Secretary, and Ernie Harris, Treasurer.

Many interesting programs were rendered during the year, and their aim was to promote the building of better and higher moral and religious standards among the young men students of the school.

During the year the organization was well represented at various conferences in the state of the nature of Y. M. C. A. work. There were representatives at both the fall and spring state conferences of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. at Jackson's Mill, and a representative delegate attended the Sixth Annual Older Boys' Conference at Huntington in November and December.

The great aim of the organization has been to promote a spirit of fellowship in the school and to give God first place in the lives of the members.

THE OHNIMGOHOW PLAYERS

On October 8, 1926, the school's first dramatic club came into existence with Miss Margaret Dobson as director. Later in the fall they adopted their present name, the Ohnimgohow Players.

The first plays, Station Y. Y. Y., Good Night, and The Valiant, were successfully presented December 3, 1926, for the benefit of the Athletic Association. On February 16, 1927, three one-act plays were presented, directed by members of the club.

December 9, 1927, the Ohnimgohow Players presented The Goose Hangs High, this being the only production during the year. Furniture for the stage was bought with the proceeds.

In the fall of 1928, the club, under the direction of Miss Vinco Moore, again resumed its activities, making a study of the drama and current plays.

On May 11, 1929, the Players presented The First Year.

THE CANTERBURY CLUB

Of the various organizations in Glenville State Normal School the Canterbury Club, by reason of its long and successful record and the high esteem in which it is held, deserves to rank first.

Organized by Miss Brand in October, 1921, the Canterbury Club has, since its founding, maintained a record for achievement and good character. Taking its name from the historic Canterbury Pilgrims of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales the club has reached a place where it means as much to its members in learning and entertainment as the series of stories told on the journey meant to the Pilgrims.

The purpose of the Canterbury Club is to develop proficiency in story telling, to acquaint the members with the best short stories of literature and to promote such social intercourses among the members as is the natural outcome of such an organization. This aim has been kept before the club throughout its existence and has been carried out remarkably well.

During the eight years of its existence the Canterbury Club has continued to grow in favor. The membership has been full every year and few members have ever dropped from the rolls. The members are justly proud of the club and with their enthusiastic support it bids fair to enjoy a long life in the school.

THE PHI DELTA LITERARY SOCIETY

The Phi Delta Literary Society was organized in 1921 by a number of young men of the Glenville Normal student body. The purpose of the organization is to promote the best interests of the school. It seeks to keep the traditions of the Alma Mater always uppermost in the minds of the students. The organization maintains a high standard of scholarship among its members.

The social side of school life is not neglected. Each year the Phi Deltas hold a number of social events. In the past this phase of the activities has been a success in every respect. ### THE GLEE CLUBS

Soon after the opening of the Fall Term of school, the Boys and Girls Glee Clubs met and, under the direction of Miss Phyllis Davis, musical director, elected officers for the entire school year. The Boys Glee Club elected the following officers: Fred Wilson, president; Clio Henderson, vice-president; Joe Hall, secretary-treasurer; Dale Waldeck, librarian; Kingsley Smith, stage manager. The officers elected for the Girls Glee Club were: Virginia Monger, president; Ruby Daniell, vice-president; Lucy Wolfe, secretary-treasurer; Lyle Harding, librarian; Madelon Beall, costume director; Helen Bailey, sergeant-at-arms. During the year the average attendance for the Boys Glee Club was about thirty-five, while that of the Girls Glee Club was about forty-five.

The first public appearance of the clubs was on December 16, 1928, when a "Feast of Christmas Carols" was presented by the combined glee clubs. On March 13, 1929, the combined glee clubs made a second appearance in an original musical comedy entitled "Educational Follies of 1929," which was written and staged by the club members under the direction of Miss Davis. The musical comedy was a very decided success as a direct result of its originality.

The two glee clubs prepared special music for the commencement exercises. The crowning success to the year's work was the operetta, Lelevala, which was given on the fourth day of June. It was easily adjudged as the best production of the glee clubs during the school year. Very great credit is due Miss Davis, the musical director, for her advice, leadership, activity, and earnestness in helping to make the glee clubs the successful organizations they have been this year.

FACULTY ENTERTAINS STUDENTS

A formal reception and dance was given by the faculty for the students September 29. The gymnasium was appropriately decorated in the school colors, blue and white. The early part of the evening was taken up with games played for the purpose of getting acquainted. The games were followed by dancing. Music was furnished by the town orchestra. Near the close of the evening's entertainment a Grand March led by Mr. Clark and Lucille Minor brought the guests by the refreshment table where each was served with a dainty repast.

HALLOWE'EN DANCE

On the evening of October 31, a Hallowe'en Dance was given in the gymnasium. The gymnasium was appropriately decorated to portray the spirit of Hallowe'en.

Prizes were awarded to : Miss Brand and Miss Moore, members of the faculty, for the most original costumes; Ruby and Goldine Woodford, for the best character representation; and Helen Davis, for the cleverest costume.

Dancing followed the unmasking. Music was furnished by the Town Orchestra.

MISS BRAND AT HOME

Miss Brand gave a tea in honor of the girls of Verona Mapel Hall on November 11, from 3-5.

CANTERBURY CLUB BANQUET

On the 8th of December, Miss Brand entertained The Canterbury Club at Verona Mapel Hall. Following a short business meeting the members of the club searched for favors hidden about the room. Miss Brand then led the way to the dining room where an elaborate meal was served. The club at this time presented Miss Brand with a silver coffee urn. The banquet was followed by dancing and the singing of Christmas Carols.

MISS BRAND ENTERTAINS

Miss Brand entertained the girls of Verona Mapel Hall with a Christmas Party on December 14. The girls marched through the upper halls singing carols. As they reached the lower hall, they gathered around the Christmas tree, still singing carols. The girls were then directed to the dining room downstairs where each found a stocking which Santa had filled with presents and goodies of all sorts. The girls presented Miss Brand with a silk parasol and Miss Moore with a fountain pen. With the presents each girl received went the good cheer and happiness of the season.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Christmas Party given in the gymnasium on December 15, was a decided success. A large, beautifully lighted Christmas tree in the center of the gymnasium was the main feature of the decoration.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Dancing was a side issue of the evening's program. The time was mostly taken up with an "oratorical contest," and musical numbers. The most interest was shown in Santa Claus and his presents (mostly his presents). Elaborate refreshments were served at the close of the program.

VALENTINE PARTY

The Valentine Dance, given February 16, in the gymnasium was well attended. As usual, hearts predominated in the decorations. Dancing was the main diversion of the evening.

TEA DANCE

Variety in the usual weekly entertainment was shown in the Tea Dance given on March 1 at the gymnasium. Miss Brand presided at this function.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARTY

Square dancing as well as round dancing was a feature of the St. Patrick's Day dance given in the gymnasium on March 15. A green and white color scheme was carried out in the decorations and refreshments. Silk Shamrocks were given as favors.

WEEKLY DANCES

Friday evening of each week the students were entertained for a short time with a dance. The music for these dances was furnished by Louise Cain, Maynard Young and Royce Miles. These informal dances were well attended by the students. The purpose of the dances was to furnish entertainment and variety from the daily routine of school life. An admission fee of ten cents was charged and the money collected was used to finance the big parties during the school year.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF—

Carey ran out of tobacco?
Nate Rohrbough got to class on time?
The blinds were pulled down at Kanawha Hall?
Miss Brand had never heard of Shakespeare?
Angelo Eagon played football?
Alberta Shears could keep a man?
Dale Waldeck made an F?
Dale Cunningham played the piano?
Mr. Post ran out of adjectives?
Miss Smith ran out of dry cheese?
Helen Davis couldn't whistle?
George Firestone got married?
Pie Davis fell in love?
There were no "Bull Sessions" at the Ark?
Mr. Clark got fat?
Mr. Grose could clog-dance?
Harry Taylor became inebriate?
Dean Selby bought some Mail Pouch?
Helen Bailey could walk a tight-rope?

HOW TO MAKE HOMEBREW

Boil, boil, boil, and bubble,
This damned stuff's a lot of trouble.
First a bit of Djer Kiss shake,
In the kettle, boil and bake
Eye of vamp and curl of flapper,
Lip stick and a galosh clapper,
Kick of mule and lady's garter,
Dynamite and cream of tartar.
Boil bubble, bubble boil,
This old pot is worth the toil,
Scale of alligator, tooth of burrow,
A hick's mummy rare and old,
Gathered in the med school cold
Liver of a freshie gay,
Indian turnips red, and say
From the Monongahela fill it up.
Every fellow gets his cup.

—Mountaineer.

In dayes of olde, whenne nyghts were colde,
A girle, whenne wythe a feller,
If she had sande, woulde holde hys hande
And thynke she was an heller.
But nowe a dayes, whenne ice does glaze
Ye lakes ande alle that boundes them—
Ye daymes get mad if every ladde
Won'te wrappe themselves arounde them.

Mr. Whiting—"She's a very nicely reared girl, isn't she?"
Carey Wootter—"Yea, an' she looks good from the front, too."

Mr. Grose—"What is a stork?"
John Carwell—"A bird of chance, sir."

Ralph Curry—"Do you drink coffee, sir?"
Leo Dotson—"Hell, yes; you don't suppose I chew it, do you?"

Miss Davis (listening to Freddie Wilson sing a solo)—"His tone is very mellow, don't you think?"
Nate—"Very! In fact, almost rotten."

Justine Jones (going in show)—"Who're you shoving?"
Clio Henderson—"I dunno—what's your name?"

One is loneliness.
Two is company.
Three is a customer for Eagle Brand Milk.

Ruth Smith—"This certainly is a fine egg-nog, Wib."
Wib Beall—"Yeah, every nog is a boost."

Virginia Monger—"Has Virginia Heckert got her hair dyed very black?"
Ruby Daniels—"No, not jet."

Dave Helmbright—"What it takes to win women, I've got!"
Bob Blair—"Then lend me a five spot."

Claudia—"Archie gave me a nice engagement ring, but the diamond has a flaw."
Nibs Boyles—"You shouldn't notice that—love is blind."
Claudia—"Yes, but not stone blind."

The successful student is the one who knows what he wants and then leaves it alone.

Bear Selby—"They tell me I'm a very attractive man when I'm sober."
Wahneta—"Yeah, I'll bet you would be!"

Alberta—"Oh, how I wish you were frank!"
Perry (in midst of fond embrace)—"Yeah? Well, to tell the truth, I wouldn't mind a hell of a lot if you were Geneva."

The most popular shades this season, says Miss Brand, are the ones that stay up while the girls are undressing.

Edna Frame—"Did you notice Miss Davis's new slave bracelet?"
Lyle Harding—"No where is she wearing it?"
Edna—"On the third finger of her left hand!"

First Sea Gull—"Did you know that the big fellow strutting in the bow of the ship is the captain?"

Second Sea Gull—"Sure, I spotted him right away."

The local gold-diggers may not know their groceries, but they surely do know their karats.

MacTavish was seen going through the alley nude the other night. We were puzzled until we learned that he was going to a strip-poker party.

Mr. Boram—"So—you home breaker—you wanted to take my wife away from me without any warning!"

Third party—"Oh, no—what warning did you want to give me about her?"

New Acquaintance—"So you are Frank Harrison—Are you related to Mayor Harrison?"

Frank—"Yes ma'm, by marriage—he's my father."

Lee Haga—"I'm in love with the most beautiful girl in the world."

Imogene Devers—"I like you pretty well, too."

E. G.—"My address in assembly this morning was certainly well-timed."

Mrs. Rohrbough—"Yes, I noticed that over half the students had their watches out."

Any G. N. S. Boy—"Say, I have a bone to pick with you."

Any G. N. S. Girl—"All right, at what restaurant?"

Stranger—"Can you get anything in this town for a dollar a pint?"

Thad Byrne—"Yeah—ginger ale!"

Mr. Robinson—"What do you mean by calling my daughter a little cat?"

Joe Hall—"She sent my ring back labeled 'Glass—Handle With Care!'"

We still remember the polite garbage-man, who, whenever he met an acquaintance, would bow from the waste. Then there was the farmer lad who fell deeply in love. He curd for the girl in a big whey.

Counsel—"Do you realize you are about to face the electric chair?"

Prisoner—"I don't mind facing it; it's sitting in it I don't like."

Matthew Gay—"Would you be afraid to hunt grizzly bears with a club?"

Lee Haga—"Not if there were enough members in the club!"

If we could only see ourselves as others see us, we'd never speak to them again.

Ethel Flesher—"A terrible catastrophe happened to my mother in Nevada."

Georgie Keiss—"And here all the time I thought you were born in West Virginia!"

Nate—"Dearest, I must marry you—"

Miss Davis—"Have you seen father and mother?"

Nate—"Yes, darling, but I love you just the same."

Freddie Wilson—"All that I am I owe to my mother."

"Com" Perry—"How does it feel to be out of debt?"

Dale Cunningham—"My father trained dumb animals."

Leo Dotson—"Do you know any tricks?"

I'd like to be a could-be
If I could not be an are,
For a could-be is a may-be
With no chance of touching par.
I'd rather be a has-been
Than a might-have-been by far,
For a might-have-been has never been,
But the has-been was an ARE!

Helen Bailey—"I want a pair of bloomers I can wear around my gymnasium."

Clerk at Midland—"Just what size is your gymnasium, Madam?"

Ed Rohrbough set a hen on some rotten eggs the other day. The chickens all had halitosis.

MacTavish had just treated Alberta to a fine dinner at the Tea Shoppe, and as they walked up the street Mac glanced at the Grille and said:

"What about a little demitasse now, Alberta?"

"I knew it! I knew it!" exploded the girl, "I knew you weren't treating me this nice for nothing!"

Chick Rogers says McTavish's uncle was missing for three days in Brooklyn before they finally located him in a "Pay-as-you-leave" street car.

"I seem to have run out of gas," he said, and muttered to himself, "Here's where I do some fast work."

The girl's face, small and white, was turned up to his, her eyes glowing dizzily from beneath heavy lids. Her head swam. Her red lips were parted and she sighed faintly. Slowly he bent over her. Why not?—He was her dentist.

Mr. Kelly—"The man who marries my daughter, sir, wins a prize."

Archie—"That's a novel idea. Is it a money prize, or just a silver cup?"

When Angelo got drunk last week, John took him down to the Whiting house, got a room for him, covered his body with glue, gave him a coat of feathers from the pillow, closed all the windows, turned on the steam (?) and left him. When Angelo awoke the next morning and looked into a mirror, he yelled:

"Croaked! In Hell! And a bird!"

JEST IN PUN

And then there is the Scotchman who learned to play croquet so he could use his nine bow-legged children for wickets.

A husky Indian appeared before the parson with a winsome copper-colored maiden at his side. Upon questioning the pair, the minister learned the neither of them had any property.

"Then what on earth do you want to get married for?" asked the reverend gentleman.

"Him got blanket. Me got blanket. Too damn cold sleep one blanket," was the reply.

Miss Smith came running excitedly into the office.

"Oh, Mr. Rohrbough, Cora says she saw ten big rats in the pantry. What shall I do?"

"Lock all the kitchen doors and let them starve to death," quoth E. G.

Mr. Woofter had just read the story of Solomon's wives to his son, and, noting that he was immersed in thought, asked:

"What are you thinking about, son?"

"I was just wondering what a big bed King Solomon must have had."

Vass—"I asked her if I could see her home."

Cadet Rogers—"What did she say?"

Vass—"She promised to send me a picture of it!"

A kindly old gentleman observed a little ragamuffin weeping, and said:

"What are you crying for, my little lad?"

"Me father and me mother is fightin'," sobbed the boy.

"Oh, that's too bad. Who is your father?"

"T-that's what they're fightin' a-a-about."

Mr. Davis—"I must study that young man of yours, Helen. I want to see how he takes hold of things that interest him."

Helen—"All right, Dad. Just hide behind the sofa next time Sammie comes over."

When one shaft splits another

NO succeed once may be a matter of luck. But when one distinctive and successful Annual "by Canton" is followed immediately by another—and another until they represent a continuous record of achievement, then it must mean "good marksmanship." Details of the successful Canton plan will gladly be given without obligation to any Annual editor, or manager, who is interested. oooooo
