Born in Glenville, West Virginia, on February 19, 1872, Glenville State College began her career as a state Normal School for the education of the people in the local area. Not only did she educate in the teaching arts, but included in her duties was general education, including primary and secondary grades.

She began her duties as a converted dwelling located on the same land, and on the same spot, as the present Administration Building. From the time of her birth to the present, she has continued to grow. This growth can be noted by the numerous buildings on campus.

But an institution does not simply grow because it is here. It is the result of the people who were actively involved with her, for only through people can growth be accomplished.

Thus, it is to the college and the people involved with her that we dedicate this edition. However, it is not just to those of the past, but also to those of the future to whom we dedicate this, the

Thomas Marcellus Marshall served as Acting Principal of the Glenville Branch of the State Normal School at its opening on January 14, 1873, was First Assistant to the Principal, Louis Bennett, during the two years following the first term, and then served as Principal of this Normal School to 1881. This school began in an era of depression and consequently suffered from a lack of financial support. One year the State Legislature failed to appropriate any funds for the operation of Glenville Normal School prior to its scheduled opening date. Marshall was able to get his faculty to join him in keeping the school in operation by serving without pay until the necessary appropriations were obtained. During that time, Marshall personally dug coal from a local coal bank for the heating of the school building and performed all the janitorial services for which the State later paid him the sum of eleven dollars. He also managed to sell apples from the campus orchard to defray some of the school's financial obligations. That Glenville State College has had a century of uninterrupted service and progress has been due, in no small measure to the fortitude and purposeful dedication of this man.

Student Pastime:
Pursuit Of Education

Pictured above are President Harry B. Heflin, and Maurice Buck, student council representative, as they make the Frank Montrose Memorial Awards to the first two winners; Cecil Johnson, right, won the award for the year 1951-52, Billy Dean Hanlin was the winner in 1952-1953. The Montrose Memorial Award is to be awarded each year to the outstanding athlete of the preceding senior class. The award is given not only for athletic prowess, but on the basis of ability, scholarship, and moral character.

The Montrose Award

The Montrose Award, established by the Student Council in honor of the late Frank Montrose, is awarded annually to a student who has in his years at Glenville demonstrated sportsmanship and scholarly qualities of the highest order. The sixth annual award was presented to Robert Miller, a 1957 graduate, on the basis of his unselfish contributions to the college. Miller was judge of the Holy Roller Court, baseball letterman and active in other sports. He is shown at left receiving the award from Dr. Harry Heflin in half time ceremonies during the Homecoming game.

On October the eighth, 1926, the Ohnimgohow Players, a dramatic club, was organized under the direction of Miss Margaret Dobson. The name of the organization—Ohnimgohow Players—was suggested by one of the charter members of the group from an Indian word suggesting Kanawha.

Since 1926 the players have maintained an active interest in dramatics. In the years from 1932 to 1934 three-act plays were presented in the College. Stunt Night—formerly an annual event of great interest—was sponsored by the Ohnimgohow Players previous to the past two years.

Although the Club is not directly concerned with the State Speech Festival, members of the organization have always numbered among the cast of the plays given by the College.

Next in importance to what a man does may be mentioned the things in which he is interested. George has a native appreciation for music, fine paintings, interior decorations, and period furniture; but his greatest love and appreciation is for nature. During vacation travels, which have carried him to New York City and the great open spaces of the West, George always made it a point to visit those places which brought him into contact with nature in her various forms. The stately trees and other attractive shrubbery adorning the campus have all been set out and cared for since he became associated with the College. He gives credit to Mrs. E. G. Rohrbough for all he knows about gardening, landscaping, and the care of plants.

George has demonstrated his ability as an athlete on several occasions as a tennis player, trapeze performer, and boxer. He prefers to wear old clothes while engaged in the business of looking after the buildings; but when he travels, he not only avails himself of the best means of transportation, but he likes to wear good clothing, selecting only materials of the best quality. In addition to his other qualities, George has a keen sense of humor. Almost without exception, students who have attended the College recall occasions when he quietly poked fun at them through the medium of a tall story.

He has taken three extended vacations, one to New York City where he visited many places of interest; one to the St. Louis Exposition; and a third through the West, stopping over at Yellowstone National Park, Cheyenne, Cripple Creek, and Denver.

The greatest tribute that can be paid to any individual is the measure of his devotion to duty; his worth as a citizen; and his contribution to the progress of society. By this standard, George ranks high. He has given unstintingly of his time and effort in providing the right physical surroundings for the students in the College. He has always been sympathetic with the student of limited means, even to the extent of giving financial aid. He has set an example of kindness, good humor, honesty, and forthright simplicity that has not only had a wholesome effect upon the students, but has won for him the affection and esteem of all those who know him.

In the spirit of rewarding faithful service with the all-too-small available means at our disposal, we gratefully dedicate this yearbook to George Firestone, a man whose name will always be associated with the best traditions of the College.

JANITOR FIRESTONE

george firestone

a graduate of the school of experience, an ardent supporter of education, and one held high in the affectionate regard of the students, alumni, and instructors of Glenville State Teachers College, was born in Lewis County sixty-nine years ago.

He was appointed custodian of the Old Building by Robert Ruddell, member of the Board of Trustees, and Robert Carr, member of the Board of Regents, and assumed his duties in the autumn of 1894, under Principle W. J. Holden. At that time the Old Building, nucleus of the many which now adorn the campus, had been in use only one year. When President Rohrbough assumed his duties as president of the institution in 1903, George, his faithful lieutenant, regulated class periods by tapping a large dinner bell placed outside the building.

During his career of more than forty-two years of service with the school, George has always been popular with the students and instructors because of his unfailing kindness and good humor, his sympathetic interest in the problems of the students, his rugged honesty, and his unswerving devotion to duty. As evidence of his popularity, the Holy Roller Court, in October, 1935, granted him the first honorary membership ever granted by that organization.

In 1932, George became an honorary member of the Chemistry Club. In appreciation of this honor, he donated a beautiful display case to the physical science department of the College. Firestone Lodge, one of the newer buildings on the campus, was named in his honor.

George sponsored the graduating class of 1925, and entertained the members with a dinner in

Well, I wonder if I am done until tomorrow.

The conversation that I have heard has been even more varied than the characters of those who visit me. I have heard the frivolous discourse of coquettes. I have heard the affection of beaux. I wish they had of known that I could hear. Jokes both coarse and refined have been told in my presence. Dignified teachers and learned authors of books have talked near me. I enjoy their visits, I have heard expressions of greatest joy; I have heard the sighs of melancholy. But why do I soliloquize? It cannot be that I am growing old. I cannot do that. I must be on the alert for the next changes in my surroundings. I must be ready to serve. I am ready. Others may fail, but not the Campus Pump.—B. B. C.

The Campus Pump

Just a pump upon the campus,
Ever faithful, worn, and old,
Yet, within its ancient clutches
Wondrous stories lie untold.

Here, beneath, the poor, the lowly
With the rich and noble meet;
Here, the ribald, vain, unholy
Mingle with the pure and sweet.

In the winter's pluvial weather,
In the summer's scorching glare,
Students, teachers, laborers, loafers
Seek its aqua, call it rare.

And the old pump fills the glasses
In the rain as in the sun;
Smiles a welcome to all classes,
But is partial to no one.

Classmates, when you enter college
To prevent a mental blight,
You must quench your thirst for knowledge.
At the well called "Do It Right."

When we meet a wayworn brother
Let us help him all we can,
Like the old pump on the campus
Doing kindly deeds for man.

ALMA JANET ARBUCKLE

Librarian

Miss Arbuckle was born in Gilmer County and received her elementary schooling there. She was graduated from Glenville State Normal School. Then she attended West Virginia University, the University of Virginia, Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti, and Columbia University. Being especially interested in the work of the primary grades, she took courses that would best fit her for teaching there. Miss Arbuckle finds her present position as Librarian very agreeable. Besides her work, she is much interested in travel.

The Campus Pump

I AM the oldest inhabitant of this campus except the two catalpa trees in front of me. They are old friends. I have had a long life, and a busy one. I have served a long time. I shall still serve. I am the Campus Pump. A lot of changes I've seen. I first took my place here by the kitchen door of a pleasant family. How peaceful was life then! Then I was very exclusive. I served only the members of the family and their friends and neighbors. Many a pleasant chat I heard in the old days. But it was a peaceful life. I served those who came, but I had time to think and meditate. The catalpa trees were good neighbors, although they sometimes did put on airs because they guarded the front corners of the house while I stood by the kitchen door. But we are friends. They know I am the one most sought here.

Long ago the pleasant family left. I was sorry to see them go. But I have stood here and seen many leave. Many old friends have passed by, going towards the top of the hill above me. They have never come back. I have missed them. But I am too busy and have too many interests to be a pessimist. I am the servant of man.

Not long after the pleasant family left, a tall, gaunt young man came and did queer things to the house. He was very busy, and I liked him. I gave him the coldest and most refreshing drinks. He must have liked me, for he came to live in the kitchen beside me. He lived there a long time. As soon as he came strange things happened. Jolly boys and girls kept coming to the house. Serious faced men and women came, too. I heard them say it was the Normal School. I had not time to argue about it, for I was busy serving the new people. Demands they made on me certainly. They kept me too busy to grumble.

After a while the tall young man went away. I missed him. Then one day men began to dig up the ground back of me. I heard them say that they were going to build a new building. So many boys and girls came now that the old house would not hold them.

I watched the new building grow. How busy I was those days, for I had to refresh the hot, tired workmen as well as the wise-looking ones that came to look at the building and talk about it too.

By and by the new building was done. What a time there was then! I was kept so busy quenching the thirst of those wise ones and of those boys and girls that I hardly knew when the old house went away. After while I heard the wise ones saying that the building was too small. Then there was more work and hustling and the new building was completed. Yes, I have seen changes. I have changed. I was not always a modern pump. I have changed with the times. But I have been so busy giving drink to the thirsty that I hardly realized when I changed from a windlass to a pump. No matter, here I am. I have become busier with age. Only occasionally can I have time to reminisce, for I still serve all who come to me, and they are legions. Some are good, some are bad; some are weak, some are strong; some are wise, some are foolish; some are pessimistic, some are optimistic; some are ambitious, some are lazy. I am none of these; I am the Campus Pump.

There is a group of tennis players coming now. They seem warm, and indeed I have no doubt that they are, for tennis players usually are when they come to me. That's right—take it in turn, with the ladies first. See, it seems to cool them. You with the white trousers and dirty face, you had better not drink too much. But use your own judgment. I'll give you enough of the water to make you sick if you care to be so. Goodbye, folks, but I feel sorry for that one who drank too much, for he seems to be feeling uncomfortable.

Who comes now? I believe it is my old friend, George. Yes, it is. He is coming for water for the dormitory. George is a dear old friend. Do you notice how gently he moves the handle? He speaks to me if he likes me as well as I do him.

Here comes a young man with a young woman. They, too, want water I suppose. Cupid must have shot them with his magic arrows; but no, I think he must have used a more deadly weapon, a machine gun perhaps. Look, she is holding his arm. Is he crippled? No, I guess not since he walks very well. They are leaving without a drink. Why did they come to me if not for water? I don't know.

What is this coming now, a walking doll or a girl? I really cannot tell because of the paint, but I suppose it is a girl because she is going to have a drink. Be careful, lady, the water may ruin your disguise.

A faculty member, I do believe. Yes, surely. Don't you see that scholarly frown and that slow, easy walk? Drink your fill, friend, I am sure your throat is dry from a long day's talking. There was no need of my telling you evidently, for it seems that you would have done it anyway. I hope you feel better; you look happier.

Ah, now I am going to get to fill a pitcher for a girl from the dormitory. Ah, she is a pretty girl with beautiful bobbed hair. I'll be glad to serve her.

Do I hear a horn? That is the school truck. The football boys will want some refreshment, and I'll furnish it gladly. Here they come. Run, boys, run; the fastest man gets the first drink. There's the winner, a second team man; "Fatty," the first man of the first team is last. I am doing a rapid business just now. There, "Fatty," is that your last glassful? Goodbye, boys. You will have to hurry or you will miss your dinner.

GEORGE

The oldest member of the faculty.

"Let George do it" has been the motto of the faculty for the last twenty years. George has never finished at any college or university, but, nevertheless, he has a Ph. D. from the G. N. S. College of Experience. Glenville Normal School without George is unthinkable. He is the main spoke in the wheel. He is the friend of all students. Students come and students go, but George is still going.

Excelsior Debating Club

THE Excelsior Debating Club was organized March 30, 1911 for the purpose of training its members in extemporaneous speaking. The Club is composed of twelve regular members and as many honorary members as the Club desires to have. These energetic and enthusiastic young men meet every Thursday evening at seven o'clock to discuss the happenings of the past week and the important problems of the day.

There is no permanent chairman, each member, in alphabetical order serves one week. This gives all practice in parliamentary law and does away with office seekers. During the week the chairman for the next meeting prepares a list of current topics, as a program. After the Club is called to order he announces the name of a member and, then, assigns him one of the subjects to discuss for five minutes. This continues till each member has performed. In this way all have a part in the program every meeting. Although a member is not always able to discuss the question assigned him as logically as if he had had a week to prepare and think the matter through, yet one would be surprised to see how well he could handle questions before an audience after he has had training in this way.

The good results, that have been derived already from this organization are positive proof that it should be carried on until it becomes a permanent literary factor of our school. Stammering youths have been transformed into orators of renown and the smouldering fires of oratory have been unearthed until a great conflagration is threatened.

Is the Excelsior destined to live? The answer to this question lies with the present members. Let us hope that those who come after us may unite their strength, as we have done and push forward this great educational movement. What success coming years may bring to us depends upon our present work, for we are the masters of our fate, and captains of our souls.

J. TILDEN HULL, Historian.

1911 Gymnasium Team

The purpose of the 1972 KANAWHACHEN is to present a book for the college — to portray how the college was, how it is, and hopefully how it will be in the future. We, the staff, decided not to portray the students of the college by individual pictures — students are merely transient beings — but instead decided to portray the people of this era, and the activities in which today's students participate — the crux of Glenville State College.

With the closing of the 1971-1972 school year we bring to a close 100 years of education at Glenville State College. The staff of the 1972 KANAWHACHEN felt it desirable to highlight those years with photographs and the written word from past KANAWHACHEN yearbooks, and to highlight the 1971-1972 school year in the same manner.

It is of interest to note that in the year of 1911 the KANAWHACHEN had its birth, and has been recording Glenville State College (or Glenville Normal School as it was then called) events since that time. The only exception was a period of time during World War II when no yearbook was published because of lack of materials — everything was needed to support the war effort.

As you will discover, one section of the KANAWHACHEN is devoted to recording the highlights from those first 100 years, all in chronological order. The staff selected events of those years which we felt would record the growth of the college, some of the people who attended the college and left their mark on it, and events which would be of interest to the alumni and also to the students attending the college now, if they choose to look closely into the background of this school.

In the second section, the staff felt the necessity to continue the chronological order, using the 1971-1972 school year events. Beginning with the first event of the year, the Centennial Opening Convocation, and terminating with the Centennial Graduation Exercises, we have again tried to show the very heart of Glenville State College — not placid faces staring from a page, but students actively involved in making Glenville a place to remember.

With the graduation of the senior class another year of education closes, as well as the first 100 formative years of the college. Although it is good that we look to the past for guidance we must look to the future also, for that is where we are to live. May we live our lives with love for our fellows so there may be 100 more centennial years for Glenville State College to celebrate.
