DEPARTMENT OF LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

Dr. Jonathan E. Minton, Department Chair

Professor: J. Minton, M. Stewart

Associate Professors: A. Chapman, M. Gish, M. Thiele, M. Wise

Assistant Professors: S. Chapman, B. Johnston

Lecturer: J. Wenner

The Department of Language and Literature recognizes the ability to read, write, and speak well as fundamental to success in life. To this end, the Department of Language and Literature is committed to developing this ability in all students regardless of major field of study or professional objective.

In keeping with the University's commitment to a liberal education, the department offers numerous courses that are required for general education. In order to help students master the fundamentals of both written and spoken English, and introduce them to the art of academic discourse and critical analysis, the department offers a course in English composition, Critical Reading and Writing I; a course in researched writing, Critical Reading and Writing II: Research Writing; and a course in public speaking. The department also offers surveys of literary histories that introduce students to various literary cultures and traditions, while also developing their skills in textual analysis

In addition to offering general education courses, the department also offers majors in English and English education, as well as a minor in English. All of the department's courses develop skills that are in demand in nearly every career, while also deepening the student's awareness of how story, creativity, and critical inquiry are central to the human condition.

The department sponsors a literary and art magazine, The Trillium, Sigma Tau Delta: The International English Honor Society, the Hermitage creative writing club, and the University's student newspaper, The Phoenix.
