Prior to moving to Tennessee, Katie taught in a pilot Alternative Education System in Ripley, West Virginia. Family law is a passion of this bright alumna as she loves helping children and families in both her personal and professional life.

Blessed with a sensitive social conscience and very active in civic service while in public school, Katie further developed as a giving citizen while at GSC. Kappa Delta Pi Educational Sorority and other volunteer organizations honed her desire to make positive community contributions.

Ogle currently serves on the greater Knoxville CASA Executive Board, the Knox County Foster Care Review Board, and Susannah's House Executive Board. Susannah's House exists to serve the spiritual, physical and emotional needs of the mothers and their prenatally-drug exposed infants who are recovering from substance abuse. The mission of this organization is to provide a source of hope and help to these mothers and their children. Through representing children and families and witnessing the stunning impact the opioid epidemic has had on children and families in Appalachia, Katie feels that she can assist by donating time and legal Representatives from the Gilmer County Volunteer Fire Department, Glenville Police Department, Gilmer County Sheriffs Department, West Virginia State Police, the County Office of Emergency Management, Gilmer County Emergency Medical Services, and GSC's Public Safety Department were all on hand at the game. The recognition was a small token of appreciation to the tireless men and women and the many sacrifices that they make for the citizens of Glenville and the surrounding area.
