WHO WILL WIN IT?

Girls have you heard the news?
The Woman's Club of Glenville will offer a trophy to the girls' class which wins the inter class series in basket ball.

This trophy will be offered under the same conditions for the girls, that the Tierney cup has been for the boys. This plan was adopted at a recent meeting of the club.

The aim is to promote girls' basket ball, a game of wit and agility rather than of might; to produce good sportswomen who avoid the pettinesses and jealousies that so often mar girls' athletics.

The Woman's Club is an organization of Glenville women and teachers who have the welfare of the town and school at heart.

The club members have been interested in all the activities of the school, and a desire to promote athletics among the Glenville Normal girls, has prompted them to offer this trophy as an incentive to the highest type of sportsmanship.

FAMOUS NEGRO QUARTETTE COMING TO NORMAL

For twelve years the famous Suwanee River Quartette has been touring the United States with an unblemished record of success. Eighty per cent of their appearances result in their being asked to repeat their program the next year. They have the reputation of being the best receipt attraction in the lyceum.

Their program consists of the haunting melodies of the "Camp Meeting," the rollicking songs of the field and quarters, lullabies, and a sprinkling of jazz. The program is interspersed with readings taken from the poems of Paul Laurence Dunbar and impersonations presented in plantation costumes.

This entertainment, which is one of the Y. M. C. A. lecture course, numbers will be given at the Normal Auditorium on Tuesday evening, January 22.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

On Friday evening, December 29, Edward G. Rohrbaugh, Jr., was host to a number of young people at a Christmas Party.

The reception hall and parlors of the Dormitory were decorated in keeping with the season, bells, red candles, and a handsomely decorated Christmas tree being used. Games of various sorts were played by the merry guests after which refreshments were served. Much to the surprise of the guests it was found that Santa had been thoughtful enough to leave little red stockings filled with mints on the tree for each one. The guests present were Jimmie and Bell Hall, Grace and Lucy Wolfe, Juanita Moss, Nellie Cottrill, Rhea Kee, Helen and Leona Davis, Fred Lewis, Lynn McGee, Paul

TEACHING OF MANNERS

- 1 Correctness and precision in the use of the mother tongue.
- 2 Refined and gentle manners.
- 3 Sound and high standards of taste and appreciation.
- 4 The power and habit of reflection.
- 5 The power of growth.
- 6 The power to do.

This list appears in a bulletin issued by the New York State Department of Schools—a bulletin intended to promote the teaching of good manners. In the same bulletin Dr. James Sullivan, New York State Historian, writes:

Comparatively recently the educational world has awakened to the fact that the teaching of good manners has become rather ineffective so far as the large mass of our boys and girls are concerned. It is thus that a present effort is being made looking to a revival in our schools, a veritable renaissance, of that kind of training in good morals and gentle manners which was given over so many centuries to our boys and girls of western Europe and America.

Refined and gentle manners can be taught only by teachers who themselves have the highest and best character. In every normal school, teacher-training school, and department of education courses and good manners should not only be taught but should constantly be exemplified, so that prospective teachers may go to their schools prepared to be teachers and living examples of President Butler's second great best of educated men and women.—School Journal and Educator.

BASKET BALL TEAM WILL LEAVE ON A TRIP, THURSDAY

The G. N. S. basket ball team will leave on a trip, Thursday, which will embrace games with three strong teams.

On January 11 the team will play the Salem College quintet on Salem's floor. Salem always has a strong basket ball team, and our boys will have their work cut out for them by the Seven Days. Stanley Hardman, a former Glenville star and captain of last year's team, is playing with Salem this year. From Salem the boys will journey over to Fairmont, and meet Glenville's ancient rival, Fairmont Normal School, on January 12. Fairmont defeated Glenville last year, and is banking on repeating the performance again this year. Leaving Fairmont the boys will travel over to California, Pennsylvania, and play the California Normal five on January 13. This will be the first time Glenville has played the Pennsylvania school, but from reports we understand that California has a real team this season.

THE COSMIANS AT WORK

The Cosmian Literary Society rendered its first program for the Winter Term, in the Auditorium, Friday evening, January 5. Judging from the highly efficient cabinet of officers for this term, the unflinching interest always manifested by Cosmians in their literary work, and the large attendance at this meeting, it is safe to predict that this term's work will prove no exception to the past unbroken chain of successful work of the Cosmian Literary Society.

In a very eloquent and able inaugural address Miss Edna McQuain, President for the Winter Term, briefly outlined the work of the society for this term, laying especial stress upon the value of loyalty to the society in all of its workings, and on sterling quality in public performances on programs of the society.

It will be the aim of the society to make the work of this term compare favorably with the best work done by its members during its past successful career. While those in charge of the society during the Winter Term are largely responsible for the success or failure during this period, no small measure of responsibility rests upon each individual member. Literary programs, good selection, cooperation, and promptness should characterize the work of every Cosmian during this term.

The first program rendered was as follows:

Song	Society
Prayer	Chaplain
Inaugural Address	Edna McQuain
Vocal Solo	Ward Gainer
Reading	Olbia Strader
Piano Solo	Susan Barnoff
Reading	Helen McQuain
Clarion	Florna Ferguson

BROADDUS COLLEGE FIVE COMING TO GLENVILLE FEBRUARY 23

The Broaddus College basket ball team will come to Glenville on February 23. Although Glenville and Broaddus have been athletic rivals for many years, this will be the Baptists' first appearance in Glenville. The Broaddus College boys who played on the football team last fall, (and by the way we hadn't intended to mention that football game) were splendid sportsmen, and we are glad to hear that the basket ball team is, for the most part, made up of men from the eleven. This game will be one of the biggest home attractions of the season. Coach Dawson's boys are showing fine form and are eager for an opportunity to even up scores a little with the Baptist school.

Miss Zell Cain visited home folks here during the holidays.

Athletic Director at Glenville Normal School

Coach Dawson is a basket ball player of exceptional ability and wide experience. He has played two years at Washington Irving High School, one year at Davis and Elkins College, and three years at West Virginia University, besides playing quite extensively with independent teams at various times. While at the University he was recognized as the best man on the Varsity squad.

However, Coach Dawson's forte does not lie in basket ball alone. He is an all around athlete, and has had as much or even more experience in baseball, football, and track. He played quarterback on the University football team, and was a regular player in baseball. During one year at the University he made his letters in football, baseball, basket ball, and track. He also played professional baseball for one year with the Michigan-Ontario League in Canada where he led his league in batting.

Coach Dawson is not only a coach and an athlete of unusual ability, but he, also, takes an active interest in all social affairs, and is quite popular with

OUR GIRL BASKET BALL TEAM

The prospects for a girls' basket ball team are the best this year that they have ever been in the history of the school.

There are in school six girls who have made their letters in the floor sport here in recent years, besides several high school stars, and a number of promising new girls whose ability has not as yet been tested. With all this wealth of material and with a competent and experienced coach like Miss Trotter, it will be surprising indeed, if we do not have an exceptional girls' team this year. The girls have been practicing regularly for some time, and Miss Trotter is very well pleased with their showing, as is every one else who has seen them in action.

At present it is uncertain as to whether or not any games will be secured with other schools, but here is hoping that our girls' team will have an opportunity to participate in some inter-school games.

IT'S EASY TO BE AN EDITOR

Almost any man can be an editor. All an editor has to do is to sit at his desk six days a week, four weeks a month, and twelve months a year; and edit such stuff as this:

Mrs. Jones, of Cactus Creek, let a can opener slip last week and cut herself in the pantry.

While Harold White was discourting Miss Violet Green from the church social last Saturday night a savage dog attacked them and bit Mr. White on the Public Square.

Mr. Fang, while harnessing a broncho last Monday, was kicked just south of his corn crib.—Yermouth Light.

It is easy to edit a school paper. All the editor has to do is to find something to write about, then write it, then get some one to read what he has written, and then explain to the person who read it just what it was all about.

Mr. Asa Cooper of last year's class passed through town recently enroute to his school at Pine Grove.

RADIATORS
 Great Sources of Wisdom

There seems to be something very attractive about radiators. Mr. Rohrbough has delivered several interesting and instructive orations in chapel on the subject of radiators and various other people have commented at some length on the subject.

Almost all the students in school are deeply interested in radiators, and it is not an uncommon sight when passing through the hall to see several couples leaning on the various radiators engaged in deep and profound conversation. We suppose that the radiators must radiate wisdom as well as heat, and that the thinkers take a position near them in order to get all the help possible on the deep and obscure problems which they are so weightily discussing.

Several times when we have been feeling pretty dull (and we feel that way practically all the time) we have attempted to take advantage of the radiators to see if they wouldn't radiate us a little wisdom. But about the time we would get settled comfortably and begin to expect some results from our proximity to the radiator Mr. Rohrbough would come out and ask us some questions which the radiator failed to radiate answers for; so we would have to go into the reading room and hunt up the answers in the encyclopedia, and by the time we had found them our desire for radiated intellectuality would have vanished for that day.

However, we are going to buy a small pocket radiator to carry around with us, and perhaps in this way we may be able to absorb a little extra intelligence, from time to time, without any one's being able to notice it on us.

FIRST TEAM WALLOPS THE SECOND TEAM TO THE TUNE OF 36-21

"Joe" Hall Scores 18 Points, While "Slim" Tracy Tosses 6 Field Goals

On last Saturday night Coach Dawson's tentatively selected first team defeated the second team in a fast game which was characterized by excellent playing on both sides. The scrubs were outclassed from the start, but they never slowed down for a second, and during the last few minutes of the play they scored five points while the first team went scoreless. Both teams displayed some fine teamwork. Especially was some of the passing of the first team to be played a wonderful game, scoring half the points made by his team. However, his foul shooting was far from satisfactory, as he only caged one third of his attempts from the free throw commended.

"Joe" Hall, the midget forward, line. "Slim" Tracy, the lengthy center, played a splendid game. He dropped six field goals through the rim, and exhibited some fine floor work. Brooks Reed and Hays Johnson did outstanding work for the scrubs. The foul shooting of the former strengthened his team materially.

NEW RIVER STATE SCHOOL BASKET BALL TEAM COMING TO GLENVILLE

The New River State School basket ball team will play at Glenville on January 16 or 17. This will be the first home game of the season, and it promises to be a good one; for New River is said to have an exceptionally strong aggregation of floor men this year. This will be New River's first game at Glenville, but we trust it will not be her last one.

Dana Farnsworth spent the last week-end out of town. Besides being business manager of the Tower Dana seems to have quite a bit of other business to attend to.

"Red" Wilfong turned his ankle the other day and was unable to participate in the game Saturday night. We hate to hear of this, for "Red" is one of our stellar basket ball players, and we cannot afford to have him handicapped in the stiff schedule which faces our boys.

GIRLS' TROPHY
 The Woman's Club, of Glenville, is going to present the Glenville Normal School with a suitable trophy to be awarded each year to the class that has the winning team in the girls' inter-class basket ball games. This will add much to the interest in the girls' inter-class games, and we wish to extend our sincere thanks to the Woman's Club for its highly appreciative offer. We sincerely hope and believe that the girls will conduct themselves in such a way while playing for this trophy that the Woman's Club will never have occasion to regret its action.

PERSONALS

Misses Opal Reed of Troy and Grace Downey of Weston were among the new students to enroll in school this term.
 Leslie Lynch, a star basket ball performer from Washington Irving High School, is a welcome addition to the Student body here this term.
 Mr. W. W. Lovell, formerly athletic director here, but now principal of Wallace High School, was in town a few days the last of last term. Mr. Lovell had a very successful season with his football team this year. The team played seven games without losing a single game.

 Is relished by the best of men.
 When "Pat" went to college he wrote back and said:
 "Dad, I am doing fine in college. Why I am playing half-back on the college team."
 Dad immediately wrote back and said:
 "I am glad you are doing so well, but hurry home, and you can play whoa back with the home team."

Judging From Correspondence
 Miss Bell: Can you tell me the secret of Napoleon's success?
 Virginia Morris: I suppose he took a correspondence course in something or other.
 Mr. Cooper: Johnny, why in the world did you call that white pig Ink?
 Johnny Krenn: Because he runs so freely out of the pen.

THE McVANY BOARDING CLUB

The McVany Boarding Club is one of the few departments of the Glenville Normal School that did not close its doors during the Christmas holidays. Some one may say that this is not a department of the Glenville Normal School to which our reply is that the Club is concerned only with the young men of the school.
 The Club was visited by Asa V. Cooper, Earl Bush, "Chummy" Collins, and his sister, Alta, during the vacation.
 Our old boys began returning Sunday before the opening of the Winter Term, and they continued to come until Saturday, following, when Mr. W. D. Cooper came trotting in.
 Our new boys at the beginning of the term are Mr. Tracy, the "all-star" basket ball player, Ernest Hinzman, Lynn Holstein, Clyde Reip, John Singleton, and Mr. Stalnaker, the new clerk at Mr. Floyd's store.
 Judging from their looks, all of our boys must have had an enjoyable vacation, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Bush came in several days before the opening of school.

The boys were agreeably surprised at the great improvement in Mrs. McVany's health during the vacation.

Mr. Rollyson has enrolled for a special course in Botany, and Mr. Stalnaker is planning to take a special course in Agriculture.

Mr. Woodford has been teaching the boys some new "stunts" in pool playing.

Quite a confusion was heard in the "feed room" of the Club, Wednesday, when Mrs. McVany announced that she wanted every boy to choose one of her calendars for his room. The boys at once gathered around the table and began expressing opinions as to which was the prettiest picture and what picture told the most. This was finally settled by dividing the boys into four pretty evenly numbered groups. "Shorty" Baker was spokesman for the group contending that calendar containing the picture of the mother and baby; Mr. Cooper was spokesman for the champions of the saddle horse; Mr. Rollyson was leader of the group which selected the one containing the blonde lady with the bouquet; and Mr. Stalnaker headed the friends of the picture of girls gathering flowers in the hay field. Every one was much pleased with the calendar as a gift from the Club.

Much interest is being manifested in the contest staged by Mrs. McVany among the boys of the club. She is offering a fine steam pressure cooker to the first boy to leave, through matrimonial attractions. Calhoun County has been lending from the beginning. At present, however, Mr. Erlewine has passed Mr. Stalnaker, and we are safe to predict that since he is so cunning and fond of ham, that the victory is his.

The boys of the club presented Mrs. McVany with a very beautiful ivory toilet set as a Christmas present.
 Mrs. McVany no longer depends entirely upon the butcher for her meat. Since Mr. Tracy is an expert hunter,

Miss Janice Hays, when coming to school this fall, by mistake entered the smoking car. A man entered and sat in the seat in front of her. Soon he produced a cigar, and gave himself over to the enjoyment of the blue smoke-clouds.

Finally she turned to him and said, "smoke makes me positively ill."

"Take my advice then," said the man kindly, "and quit."

Janice was almost petrified by his presuming to smoke in her presence.

Things the TOWER Would Like To Know

If Washington would have told a lie if he had live dunder Prohibition.

What would happen if "Slim" Holt would get married and take up light housekeeping.

Who teaches lame ducks to walk.

How many hours of labor there are in an eight-hour day.

"I understand you have told your wife to throw the Ouija board into the woodbox."

"Yes, I'm not going to have any such superstitious nonsense deciding questions around my house. When I come to a point where I can't make up my mind what to do I simply flip a coin."

"I doctor myself with the aid of medical books."

"Yes, and some day you'll die of a misprint."

Jimmy Arbuclie had been asking his grandfather all sorts of questions about God, and Mr. Arbuclie explained to him that God lived up in the heavens.

One day last fall, Jimmy spying an aeroplane and seeing it flying towards the ground exclaimed, "Grandfather come here quick! See! God's got a flat tire!"

There is a certain secluded region in this country where the people engage in hunting and digging seag for a living. If a stranger is seen in this region, the natives conclude—and usually accurately—that he is either a seag or a fur buyer.

Hearing of this community, and old Presbyterian minister decided to go there and do some missionary work. Arriving at a house in the region, he stopped for dinner. Wishing to come to the object of his visit he casually inquired: "Madame, do you have any Presbyterians around here?"

"Well," answered the woman thinking him a fur buyer, "I don't know. But all the hides are stretched up on the back porch, you can go around and see if there's any Presbyterian among 'em."

John Kreen the other morning moved his shaving materials out on the porch, and there proceeded with his shave.

Mr. Lovett seeing him asked: "John, what are you shaving on the outside for?"

"Because it's the place to shave," answered John, "what'd I want to shave on the inside for?—Do you think I'm fur lined?"

Florna and Dorothy were quarreling one day. Tiring of the quarrel, Florna decided to say something to get Dorothy into a good humor. So she said: "Dorothy, I regard you as the handsomest girl in school."

"Thanks," said Dorothy who was not easily placated, "I am sorry that I cannot return the compliment."

"You could," said Florna coldly, "if you wanted to tell as big a lie as I did."

Mr. W. D. Cooper did not arrive in school until Saturday of last week. He was attending Farmers' Week at West Virginia University.

THE BOOKSHELF

Well, we don't feel very gay.* * * But still, we wish you a happy New Year.* * * Though we don't expect it to be much better than last year, and nobody could say it was much.* * * Existence is become a tiresome and difficult round, what with the Ku Klux and psycho-analysis and the new fiction and auto-suggestion and complexes and how far your car will go on a gallon and whether it is worth while to carry on with the old love until the new one is safely landed.* * * And we had a hundred things put off to do in the holidays and now, with the holidays gone, fifty of the particularly unpleasant ones are still hanging about spoiling our every leisure hour.* * * We can't explain why they didn't get done.* * * We certainly worked every minute.* * * Or nearly every minute.* * * And we don't like to work.* * * As we said, we don't feel very gay.* * *

And we don't think the world moves much, either, even if we do have radio and futurist music and a lot of new phrases with which to describe our emotions.* * * The other day we found a book on farming translated mostly from the work of Marcus Terentius Varro who published it first in the year 27 B. C.* * * We don't know much about agriculture but his directions for running a Roman farm then sound suspiciously like those for managing an American farm in 1923.* * * Except that the American farmer would send for a veterinary if his cow was sick, but the Roman farmer, while he would much the same methods to prevent her getting sick, if she did come down with something, would sit down and pray to his gods for her speedy recovery.* * * Which would possibly work just as well.* * * Marcus Terentius was conversant with his subject certainly. He even offers advice as to how many inches from the floor the door-sill of a pig-sty should be.* * * Which is what we call being thorough.* * * Galsworthy is almost as thorough as that in the following the fortunes of the Forsytes in "The Forsyte Saga." * * * Especially in showing how objectional an upright, prosperous and respectable pillar of society like Soames Forsyte can be.* * * Several of the others were objectionable too, we thought.* * * In fact, we didn't care much for any of them except the three—or maybe it was four—Jolyons.* * * There must have been something about that name which affected its owners.* * * They were so much more human than any of the other Forsytes.* * * We liked the book, though, in spite of Soames and his father and George and Uncle Swithin.* * * Even if we could see no reason for Mr. Galsworthy's allowing Timothy to live on to page 800 and a hundred and one years, while old Jolyon, our favorite, was cut off a mere stripling of eighty-five on page 333.* * * Still it is good reading.* * * And it isn't quite as long as the Bible.* * * And hasn't more than half as many people in it.* * * And doesn't change the subject as often.

Miss Eula Gerwig and her mother were visiting relatives in Charleston during vacation.

HERE AND THERE

Every one is wondering what the girls' class games will be like. Well, we don't know, but we do know that most of the girls will be playing their first basket ball before the public, and it will not be surprising if some of them are a little nervous in the first few games.

From present appearances it seems that the classes will be fairly evenly matched. The elimination of girls who have won letters on the school team will greatly weaken both the junior and senior teams. However, their chances still appear to be about on a par with those of the other two classes.

Many people think that the freshman teams, both boys and girls, are destined to win this year, but we can tell you more about that after a half dozen of the games have been played. At present the freshman prospects are as good but not perceptibly better than those of any other class.

In order to accommodate the physical training classes the class games will be played on Saturday this year instead of on Friday as has always been the custom. Two games will be played Saturday afternoon and two Saturday night. The first games will be played January 13.

Did any one notice that after Ben Bias was substituted on the second team the other night that the first team ceased scoring, and the scrubs began scoring right along? It was a fact, and it looks as though Ben might have had something to do with it.

Mr. Richard Powell stopped to straighten his tie the other evening, and as a result he was just one second too late to accompany a certain young lady home from the literary society. "Ah for a moment of time! My kingdom for a moment of time!"

Mr. Houghton (Hootin) wishes people to know that his name is not pronounced "Hootin" but "Howton." However, he has been "Hootin" so long that we doubt if we would recognize him as "Howton" even if we ceased "Hootin" and began "Howton."

THE McVANY BOARDING CLUB

Very frequently, a fine dish of wild meat is found on the table. As well as being a basket ball player of no little note, Mr. Tracy is a valuable addition to our Club in this respect.

Oh, Dormitory, Dormitory! How magnificent thou art! We look up to thee every day with bowed heads and marvel at thy grandeur. How proud we are to hear from thee. We oft have wanted to know thee. How we have longed to partake of thy dignity and wisdom! Our daily prayer is that we may learn and grow wise with such rapidity that we may soon call thee sister.

We are glad to see the smiling face of Ernest Hinzman again in our student ranks.
