Volume 3, Number 9.

Glenville, W. Va.

February 12, 1925.

DAWSON QUINT WINS AT BROADDUS.

Glenville Normal's five moved out of their "box car," invaded the big Broaddus floor, and won 32-14. This is the second game in three that G. N. S. has won from the Phillips school in the last three years; in 1923 Glenville won at home, in 1924 Broaddus won on their floor, and this year—Glenville won on Broaddus' floor.

Slim Treacy "stepped out," in the first half scoring five goals, and in the second half scored four. The first half ended with the score 16-2 in the Normal's favor. The Normal was prepared for this game, each man played well, while Lorentz probably played the best game of his career—making three baskets and playing a good floor game.

Glenville	Line-Up	Position	Broaddus
Whiting	R F		Roberts
Miller	L F		Hall
Treacy	C		May
Lorentz	R G		Young
Hardman	L G		Huff

Substitutions: Glenville Normal School.—Holsberry for Whiting, Westfall for M. Miller, Broaddus.—Holbert for Roberts, Myers for Hall, Tomlinson for May, Holland for Young, Willis for Huff, Willard for Tomlinson.

Goals: Treacy 9, Lorentz 3, Miller 1, Holsberry 1, Hall 2, Roberts 1, May 1.

Fouls.—Glenville Normal School 2 out of 8; Broaddus 2 out of 7.

C. N. S. WINS FROM SUTTON INDEPENDENTS

Glenville defeated a strong Sutton Independent team 31-27 in the second game of the two game trip. The game was close throughout, with the Normal leading by a few points. Treacy and Lorentz were the big scorers for Glenville. Hines of Sutton was the biggest scorer of the game, getting seven field goals.

PERSONALS

Kate Cain has returned from Clarksburg, where she has quite recovered from a throat operation.

Erma Engle and Elsie Sponaugh spent the week-end at their home at Cassaway.

Mary Osborne was the guest of her parents over the week-end.

Halcie Hyer was called home this week because of the illness of her mother.

FACULTY RECEPTION AND STUNTS

Probably there is no other social function of the year that is more enjoyed than the faculty reception and stunts. On January thirty-first, the evening opened with a formal reception in the gymnasium. Those who were in the receiving line were: President and Mrs. Rohrbough, Miss Brand, Miss Holman, Mr. Gross, Dr. Chimene, Mr. Dobbins, president of the senior class, and Mrs. Dobbins, Paul Kidd, president of the junior class, and Rhea Kee, president of the sophomore class. Light refreshments were served, after which the guests went to the auditorium where the stunts were given.

The stunt that appealed most to the students was "Blue Monday," the impersonations and the excuses being so natural that no one in the building could withstand the temptations to overdo with laughter. Professor Whiting as Truman Barnett was unusually good. The excuse given was presented in the office several days previous, in reality. The impersonation of "Dolly" Lorentz, the Mah Jongg fan, was also good, although lacking in the fighting spirit that is characteristic of the "East Wind" enthusiast. Our sympathy was with

Mrs. Dobbins from the start, realizing that her affections for Porter would not allow him to go without his breakfast one minute over time, our minds being greatly relieved when she was finally excused and allowed to go to her classes.

The three-round bout between Flegg, "The Wild Bull of the Pam-pas" and Jack Dempsey, caused many a third co-ed to shudder and turn a cold shoulder upon the boxing bout that was to determine the World's Championship, while a few of the "Drug Store Cowhands," applauded their favorite, as he would send his opponent reeling to the floor with a right jab or a left uppercut.

Romeo and Juliet was indeed a splendid study in black, Mr. Whiting seems to have a variety of talents, while Miss Holman might only be surpassed by the Julia Marlowe herself.

The least that one can say about the drama in which Miss Giger, Mr. Rohrbough, and Dr. Chimene portrayed historical characters of note, is that it was a "scream." As a metropolitan press agent would describe the entire evening, it was a "howling success."

SENIORS CONDUCT CHAPEL

Friday morning the Senior Class of 1925 took the responsibility of entertaining the assembly of students. The senior group marched down the aisle in a body. The program was opened by singing "Hail, Glenville Normal," in which the entire audience joined.

Then Willie Reed, a reader of unusual merit, gave "The Girl I Loved" by James Whitcomb Riley. Mr. Reed always delights his hearers, but on this occasion particularly, his work was excellent.

Ryll Spaur and Justine Jones, accompanied by Angela Eagon, furnished the music for the program. Miss Spaur sang "Sorter Miss You," accompanied on the violin by Miss Jones.

SENIOR STUNTS

The next treat will be offered by the Seniors. Already two weeks of February are gone, with only two weeks remaining until Senior Stunt Night. Will it compare with that of the faculty? February twenty-eighth will be here presently, and with the pleasure of seeing the seniors display their variety of talent.

ORCHESTRA TO APPEAR

The Glenville Normal School Orchestra will make its first appearance tonight in the Gilmer County Court House. At that time the orchestra will play in behalf of the "Kid Band," which is giving a box supper in order to secure band uniforms.

The orchestra will play three selections: Air from Rigoletto, New York Life, and the Lilac Waltz.

On Saturday night the orchestra will again appear at the opening of the new gymnasium. In addition to the numbers just listed, the orchestra will play: The Dream, and a march from the opera Norma.

The public is eagerly awaiting the appearance of the orchestra because it is composed of new talent, almost wholly. Before the end of the year, Glenville Normal will boast of a most excellent orchestra.

OPERETTA

The operetta books have come! But that, with the title, is all we know about it as yet. The members of the Boys' and Girls' Glee Club are anxiously awaiting the announcement of the cast, and each is probably hoping that his name heads the list.

THERIN ROGERS ELECTED CAPTAIN.

On Saturday evening the members of the football squad enjoyed a banquet at the Whiting House.

"Big" Dawson, athletic coach, acted as toast master. Mr. Dawson made a very fine speech during the evening, in which he said that he had never trained a better group of young men than those who were football men for this year. He emphatically stated that the success of the team was due almost wholly to the fact that the team had, throughout the season, pulled for the school, for the team as a whole, and for the coach.

Mr. Cooper, who was a guest, made one of his witty speeches. Mr. Cooper always seems to have a new supply of jokes at his disposal, and at this time the audience was not disappointed. Mr. Cooper affirmed that any team would be a great success if it had four qualifications: scholarship, teamwork, efficient leadership, and enthusiasm. This, he said, should be the goal of any football team.

Therin Rogers, known by every one as "Pete" or "Big Rodge," was elected captain of the football team of 1925-1926. When we remember Rogers' record during the past season on the football field, we say in unison—"He certainly earned it."

Those who attended the banquet were: Mr. Dawson, Mr. Cooper, Slim Treacy, Therin Rogers, Marvin Miller, William Lorentz, Russell Hardman, Creed Westfall, Andrew Whiting, Claude Reip, Windy Holsberry, Fletcher Reip, and the Jones brothers. Four who played on the team were unable to be present. George McQuain, Harry McCartney, Herbert Rogers, and Russell Elyson were indeed missed at the table.

The Menu

Turkey with Oyster Dressing
Mashed Potatoes	Gravy
Slaw	Celery Hearts
	Beans
	Pumpkin Pie
	Coffee

However, the regular practice for "In Arcady" will not begin until after the spring concert which will be given the first of March. The Glee Club is now practicing nearly every day in preparation of the concert. We wait anxiously for the announcement of the operetta cast, at least for the leading lady and leading man.

To Lincoln

Up from the log cabin to the Capitol, One fire was on his spirit, one resolve—
 To send the keen axe to the root of wrong,
 Clearing a free way for the feet of God,
 The eyes of conscience testing every stroke,
 To make his deed the measure of man.
 He built the rail-pile as he built the State,
 Pouring his splendid strength through every blow:
 The grip that swung the ax in Illinois Was on the pen that set a people free.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

On February twelfth, we celebrate the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, one of the truly great men that America has produced. And why do we remember and revere the memory of Abraham Lincoln?

We remember the poor, ill clad boy who thirsted for knowledge; the boy who lay for hours before a blazing fire writing on blocks of wood in order that he might be educated.

We remember the son who had a blind love for his mother. Who has forgot the story of the small boy who disobeyed his mother and went swimming on a day when the sun was boiling hot, nearly dying afterwards with a blistered body?

We remember the state convention where Lincoln spoke the words that will never be forgot, "a house divided against itself cannot stand."

We remember Lincoln, the debator. We think of his simple, quaint, humorous language. We think of the way he won his way to the hearts of the people by his plain, unpretending manner.

 GLENVILLE, W. VA.

We remember when Abraham Lincoln was elected President of the United States, and we remember his inaugural address as one of the finest ever made by any President of the United States.

We remember the strong man's struggle during the Civil War—his great fight for the negro race.

And finally, we remember the tragic death of the true blooded American.

We remember all these things when we think of Lincoln—boy, statesman, President—a man who loved the people, and who served his God.

BOOKS

Find out what books your friend reads and you will know what type of man or woman you have for a friend. The character of a man is shown by the books he selects. One may enlarge his life from reading, because the greatest thoughts, the deepest experiences, the results of the most profound experiments are all to be found in books.

Some one has said of Abraham Lincoln: "He might have been a common Illinois farmer if he had not had contact with great books in the formative period of his eventful life."

William L. Stidger says:
 Books that breed the dreams of ages.
 Let me live my life in thee:
 Let me walk where ancient sages,
 Shot the skies with liberty.
 Books that made our mighty Lincoln;
 Books that set the vision there;
 Books that wrought from common homespun,
 Our benign Philosopher.

Angelo Eagon has returned from Clarksburg where he is taking medical treatment.

WHEN TO LAUGH

There is a time for everything—work, play, sleep, study, and there's also a time to laugh.

One laughs at the things he reads in the funny sheet, or in "Life." One laughs at the comedies that he sees at the movies. One laughs at the good jokes that he hears, the really funny things he sees and hears.

But does this give one the right to "hee-haw" at something which is not at all funny, of which most people are thinking seriously? It is hoped that this will not occur in chapel any more, as it has recently been happening. Whatever one does let him have a little courtesy, a little consideration for others, because there are always many who are trying to enjoy a thing in their own particular way.

FAMOUS FEBRUARY

February is called the most famous of all the twelve months. The second day of February is known as "Ground Hog Day," the day that decides whether or not the winter will be a hard one. Next comes Abraham Lincoln's birthday, which is on the twelfth. St. Valentine's day is celebrated on February fourteenth, particularly by children. On February twenty-second is George Washington's birthday. One has nearly been forgot—the twenty-ninth day. It is true that the twenty-ninth day comes only once every four years but eventually—it comes. If it is true that February is famous, that it has more special days in it, why is it that it is the shortest month in the whole year?

are many ways and opportunities to do little courtesies for one's fellow students.
 The home runs smoothly when the members of the family are kind to one another. Would this not apply to school? We are all one big family and so, here too, is the need for kindness. Thus we will find after we have left school that if we have been kind and courteous to our fellow-students, it will be a habit with us to be kind to others.—Hi Life.
 West Liberty vs. Glenville at the new Gymnasium Saturday night!

JUNIORS TO CONDUCT CHAPEL
 Next Friday morning the members of the Junior Class will entertain the assembly at chapel. The Juniors are now at work on the play they will present at that time. The production is a one-act comedy by Theresa Helburn, entitled "Enter the Hero." The cast is as follows:
 Ruth Carey ..... Eunice Gerwig
 Anne Carey ..... Virginia Morris
 Mrs. Carey ..... Mary Whiting
 Harold Lawson, ..... Claude Linger

CANTERBURY CLUB
 The members of the Canterbury Club met at seven o'clock, Wednesday evening, February fourth.
 At this meeting three Juniors, Angelo Eagon, Bayard Young, and Claud Reip were elected to membership in the club.
 O. Henry's story entitled "Double Died Traitor" was told by Page Morrison. "The Man About Town," another O. Henry story was told by Eula Gerwig. "The Man with a Good Face" was the third story, told by Fell Kennedy.
 The Canterbury Club will meet again on February eighteenth, and the program will consist of magazine stories told by Mrs. Dobbins, Fred Barnett, and Ryll Spaur.

4-H CLUB MEETING
 The February meeting of the Glenville 4-H Club was held in the county agricultural agent's office in the Court House at 7:15 P. M. on Friday, February 6, 1925. The meeting was presided over by William Smith, the president of the organization. Following is the program:
 Song by the club
 Reading of the minutes of the previous meeting.
 High Points of Interest in 4-H Club Work,—Edward N. Orr.
 The Chart System,—Mrs. Mathew Harrison.
 Raising our Quota for Gilmer's 4-H Cottage,—William Smith.
 Yells.—Led by Edward Rohrbough, Jr.
 Song,—By the Club.
 4-H Creed,—By the Club.
 At this meeting it was decided to divide the club into tribes and have frequent contests. The most important thing taken up during the evening from the view-point of the boys, was the discussion by the girls, as to whether or not refreshments would be served at the meetings to follow. Naturally the boys were in favor of the motion, so it carried by a big majority.

THIRD LYCEUM FEATURE
 A large number of people attended the third number of the Lyceum course which was presented Friday evening, January twenty-ninth.
 This number was probably one of the most delightful features of the whole course. The play was a threeact play written by Vincent Lawrence, noted playwright.

 "The Ghost Between" was a bubbling comedy, and had in it many dramatic moments. When it is remembered that "The Ghost Between" ran successfully for months at the Thirty-Ninth Street Theatre, it is little wonder that it made an instantaneous hit here.

One person in Glenville is anxiously awaiting the arrival of the West Liberty team here tomorrow. For once it is not one of the fair sex who is waiting, but Edward Orr. It seems the main attraction with the West Liberty outfit is Edd's old friend, Lester Robertson of Waycross, Georgia. Robertson was working in the corn-fields of Gilmer County last fall a year ago or in 1923, when W. W. Lovell, being in need of a full-back for the high school team at Wallace, heard of and sent for him, where he developed into one of the best backs in the Mononghelia Valley. At the beginning of the basketball season last year Robertson and Orr parted, Robertson going to West Liberty, while Orr returned to Oklahoma. Neither has seen the other since last winter. In fact, Orr lost all trace of his pal, until the account of the Fairmont-West Liberty game appeared in the Clarksburg Exponent a couple of weeks ago, when it gave Robertson as one of the varsity guards. Edd soon made sure it was his old pal, and is now counting the minutes and seconds until the "Gainer No. 1" toots her whistle for Glenville and the two buddies are united.

TRAINING SCHOOL ITEMS
 The Junior High pupils have been having their final semester examinations this week. This has been quite a strain on both pupils and teachers. The seniors who are taking their training in the Junior High have certainly been receiving some excellent experience in giving these examinations. Never again will the seniors urge a teacher for test grades, for they have at last found out just what grading stacks of examination papers means.

LUMBERPORT INDEPENDENTS
LOSE 36-7.
 Glenville Normal School easily won their second home game from Lumberport 36-7. The Normal did some good passing and floor work in the second half, scoring 24 points. Lumberport scored only one field goal.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES
 Teaching the Spanish language has acquired an official character in many countries and receives special attention in others. In 1921 more than 300,000 students were enrolled in Spanish courses in the United States. Many books in Spanish are exported from France and from Germany. Reports recently received by the Interior Department, Bureau of Education, show that a book in that language published in Paris may be sold in Lima, Peru, for 30 centavos, although a similar book imported from Spain would cost between 50 and 60 centavos. The largest importers from Spain are Argentina, Cuba, and Mexico. Argentina imports 40 per cent of all its books from Spain, and its importation from France and the United States is about equal. The United States has recently made great strides as a publisher of Spanish books. Cuba's importation of books is 67 per cent from the United States and 24 per cent from Spain, but the number from Spain is tending to increase.

THE TOWER

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Can You Spell?

The following list of ten words was recently given to several business men and college presidents, not one of whom was able to spell every word correctly. How many of the readers of this paper, without deliberate study, could pass the test perfectly? Here are the words:

Inoculate, dissipate, repellent, consensus, sacrilegious, inferred, bilious, vilify, collectible, picnicking.

Foolish!

The Professor was discussing the characteristics of a fool's mind.

Bored student: What is a fool anyway?

Professor: Long ago someone said, "He is a fool who asks more questions than a hundred wise men can answer."

Another student (triumphantly): Now I know why we flunk so many exams.

Miss Bell (in modern history): What is your opinion of A. Lincoln?

Claude Linger: It's a good car, but I like a Buick better.

Dumb but Not Beautiful

Leaning over in a confiding manner Mildred whispered to her friend, "Did you know Jimmy was wearing my picture over his heart in France and it stopped a bullet?"

"Yes," said her friend surveying her, "I'm not at all surprised."

Electricity and Woman

When a woman is sulky and will not speak.—Exciter.

If she gets too excited.—Controll-er.

If she talks too long.—Interrupter.

If her way of thinking is not yours.—Converter.

If she is willing to come half way.—Meter.

If she will come all the way.—Re-ceiver.

If she wants to go farther.—Con-ductor.

If she wants to be an angel.—Transformer.

If you think she is picking your pockets.—Detector.

If she proves your fears are wrong.—Compensator.

If she goes up in the air.—Con-denser.

If she wants chocolate.—Feeder.

If she sings inharmoniously.—Tuner.

If she is a poor cook.—Discharger.

If her dress unhook.—Connector.

If she eats too much.—Reducer.

If she is wrong.—Rectifier.

If her fingers and toes are cold.—heater.

If she gossips too much.—Regula-tor.

If she fumes and sputters.—Insu-lator.

If she becomes upset.—Reverser.

West Liberty vs. Glenville Normal, at the new gym Saturday night!

EVOLUTION OF MAN

A week old boy,
A wee cold boy,
A weak old boy.

Sweet Sixteen

"What are you going to do on your birthday, Doris?"
"Oh, I don't know. Take a year off, I suppose."

How Blondes are Made

Pat: They won't allow brunettes in the reserve section, you know.
Patricia: Well, what will I do?
Pat: We'll take you to the bleach-ers.

For Men Only

It's a wonderful thing for the women The popular permanent wave,
Now it's up to some struggling inven-tor
To get out a permanent shave.

Modern

The man: It's quite a book, believe me! The author calls a spade a spade.
The Girl: (interestedly:) Really? I must read it. What's it all about?
The Man: It's a book on farm im-plements.

It's True

"I have heard," said Professor Short, "That Babylon fell,
And Ninevah was destroyed,
and—

Someone in the class:
"Tyre was punctured."

Once too Often

He: That American flapper at the hotel went out today, tried to climb a mountain, and fell from a glacier.
She: No one accompanied her?
He: No, she's accustomed to let-ting her conscience be her guide.

Reversion to Type?

Mrs. DeRoil: Why didn't you tell me there was a strain of insanity in your family before you married me?
Mr. DeRoil: Because until then there'd been no sign of it for a hun-dred years.

K. O.

Coming down to breakfast late, her mother asked: "Did that young man kiss you last night?"

"Now, mother, do you suppose he came all the way from Buenos Aires to make eyes at the gold fish?"

Inherited Away

"How did Boggs come out with that fortune he inherited a while ago?"

"After he had finished with the probate fees, the inheritance taxes, the lawyers' fees, traveling expenses, real estate transfers, and lost a month's salary looking after it, he bought himself a ham sandwich and called it square."

Same Old Stuff

"How is the shoe business?"
"It is very trying—oh and on."

Off Again

Yankee: "Have you ever noticed that successful men are usually bald?"
Doodle: "Certainly, they come out on top."

He'd Travel

Sophomore Lad—"If I were a goldfish, do you know what I'd do?"
Freshman Maid—"No, what?"
Sophomore Lad—"I'd take you 'for a trip around the globe."

A Lesson in Economics

First Co-Ed: But darling, don't you want to marry an economical man?
Second: Yes, but it's awful being engaged to one.

He's Safe, Anyhow

She—Can you dance?
He—Half way.
She—What do you mean?
He—I can hold on but I can't move my feet.

Wisdom

Ambitious College Youth (to Sen-ator): How did you become such a wonderful orator?
Senator: I began by addressing en-velopes.

Take Life Easy!

Book Agent (entering Governor's office): Pardon me, sir,
Clement Governor (reaching for pardon slip): Certainly. What did you do?

Ye Old Ireland

Traveler: Your son just threw a stone at me.
Irishman: Did he hit you?
Traveler: No.
Irishman: Then he wasn't my son.

Bringing Home the Bacon

"A great poet met an ironical fate the other day."
"How?"
"Starved to death with a volume of Bacon in his lap."

A Hint to the Wise

Publisher: Can you turn out an- other book in three weeks?
Successful Author: Why so soon?
"It will never do to let the public forget you."

Captain Kidd, Jr.

Sonny—Say, paw, did you ever know that Captain Kidd was an acro-bat?
Paw—Where in Sam Hill did you get that notion?
Sonny—Well, it says here that af-ter Captain Kidd divided the treas-ure, he went over and sat on his chest.
