

RENA MICK HAS HIGHEST GRADES FOR FIRST SEMESTER, AVERAGING 97— 66 STUDENTS MAKE 90 OR MORE

Miss Rena Mick of Burnsville, a junior, has the highest scholastic standing in Glenville State Teachers College for the first semester, which ended Jan. 27. Her average was 97.31.

Miss Marjorie Lindell of East Liverpool, O., a freshman, ranked second with 95.88. Roy H. Bowser of New Martinsville, a senior, placed third with 95.31.

Sixty-six students—14.6 per cent of those enrolled—made grades of 90 or more. Only those who carried at least ten hours of work are included in this list.

Glenville Normal School and Sutton High School were each represented on the roll by six students. Weston-High School and Salt Lick District High School (Burnsville) placed five each.

Twenty-five freshmen, fourteen juniors, thirteen seniors, ten sophomores, and four unclassified students represented their respective classes on the honor roll.

Glenville Meets Fairmont Debaters
Glenville and Fairmont met yesterday in a dual debate, one contest taking place at each college. No decisions were given. An account will appear later.

ALUMNI CONSIDERS EXTENSIVE PLANS; DINNER MARCH 19

Committee Appointed to Prepare for "Alumni Day" Celebration in June

HISTORICAL BODY NAMED

Will Gather Data on Community and College Founding and Growth

Plans calling for the most extensive activities the Alumni Association of Glenville State Teachers College will have ever made were presented to the organization by Mrs. Lillian Hartman Rohrbough, president, at a meeting Wednesday evening. Included in their scope are an "Alumni Day" Celebration, the writing of a history of this community and the college, and a March Hare Dinner.

The purpose of the dinner which is to be given in Glenville on March 19, is "to get as many of the alumni together as possible in order to renew old acquaintances and friendships." Committees to make definite arrangements for the dinner will be appointed in a few days, Mrs. Rohrbough said.

Alumni Day Committee Named

An Alumni Day celebration is being planned for commencement week. This celebration will probably be in the nature of an all-day program of various events. The following committee has been appointed to make arrangements. Everett Withers, Glenville, chairman, Claybourne Wilfong, Glenville, W. W. Lovell, Sutton, Lois McQuain, Clay, Bernard Gainer, Clarksburg, Paul Floyd, Pittsburgh, Mass., Stacy Gerwig, Pittsburgh, Pa., Ava C. Standard, Weston, Russell Bell, Charleston, Glen S. Callaghan, Grantsville, Goldie C. James, Glenville, and Marvin Cooper, Tanner.

During commencement week, the alumni reception and dance will be held. Alma Janet Arbfelke has been appointed general chairman for the reception; Hunter Whiting, dance program chairman; Hazel Fisher, a freshman chairman; and Bernyce Bush Beall, chairman of decorations. Sub-committees will be appointed by the chairman.

Group to Prepare G. T. C. History

A committee of alumni has been appointed to collect the local history of this community and of Glenville State Teachers College, and make it into a permanent record. The committee is as follows: A. E. Harris, chairman, W. W. Johnson, Carey Woofter, Bessie B. Bell, I. N. Hardman, C. W. Marsh, Irma L. West, Howard R. Brannon, and Selden Brannon, all of Glenville; Bernard Conrad, Sand Fork, and Emma Withers, Buckhannon.

Opposes Advertising Program

The alumni, discussing the policy of the school's not advertising itself in newspapers and magazines, decided to recommend that it continue this policy in the future.

In the past Glenville State Teachers College has spent very little for advertising. It was said that President E. G. Rohrbough believes that it is better to spend money for working equipment so that good work may be done by a small number, than to have a larger enrollment and poorer equipment.

G. T. C. PARTY MEETS THE GLAMOROUS AND INACCESSIBLE MAUDE ADAMS BEHIND SCENES IN PITTSBURGH

Actress Who Grants No Interviews Tells Shakespearean Anecdotes and Confesses Dislike for Geography When Inquiring Where Glenville Is — Otis Skinner Jokes With Girls, Calling Them by Names of Playwright's Characters.

How a party of teachers and students of Glenville State Teachers College was graciously received by Maude Adams—the most glamorous and inaccessible character on the American stage—and Otis Skinner, was related here yesterday.

Standing behind the scenes in the Nixon Theater in Pittsburgh, Friday, the First Lady, a coat wrapped round her Portia costume and her make-up still on, shook hands with each member of the group and gaily narrated of the days when she toured in a stock company with her mother. She told Shakespearean anecdotes and said that too often now the student reads the dramatic personae, spends ten minutes glancing over the play, and thinks he has studied it. "I do not know Shakespeare yet," Miss Adams asserted.

One member Miss Adams greeted, "I am delighted that you came such a long way to see such a little play." In asking where the College is situated, the lawyer Portia confessed her dislike for geography and smiled when she said that her knowledge of rivers and mountains is a confused one.

Otis Skinner Jokes

Otis Skinner stood beside her, jokingly calling the young women of the group Orphelia, Amaranda, Portia, and by other names of Shakespeare's characters as they were introduced to him. Like Miss Adams, he thought it was "very brave for you to come such a long way to see us. But I do not wish to talk or make a speech because I have already said enough."

The introductions and conversation lasted fifteen minutes.

The unusualness of the reception is striking when one considers that the late Charles Frohman, once her manager and reported fiancé, cast a mysterious glamour round Miss Adams by prohibiting her from granting interviews and from appearing in public places even to dine. The "legend" of the First Lady was further created because she always rode in a closed carriage from the theater to her apartment and because in public a veil dimmed her magic features. Frohman was drowned on the Lusitania.

Baxter Secures Reception

Curtis Baxter, instructor in English, who secured the meeting—a feat in which many of the best reporters have failed—explained:

"After the first act I went backstage where I asked for the manager of the company. I told him that our party of twenty-one had driven two hundred miles that day through flooded valleys and over mountain roads, that the students were studying Shakespeare, and that we should like to see Miss Adams.

"I do not understand how I did it, though."

The manager, Mr. Baxter said, agreed to communicate, to her his request but doubted that she would see them. "Although Miss Adams has sent tickets to her relatives here, she will not permit even them to see her," he explained.

When the second act terminated, Mr. Baxter again went backstage and, as he said, gave a "pleading story." This the manager also related to Miss Adams. After the final curtain had rung down on "The Merchant of Venice," the group waited in the foyer. Here the manager broke to them the thrilling news that Miss Adams had granted their request—that which she has refused countless reporters, social leaders, persons of much influence,

He led them back-stage.

"Will Not Be Interviewed"

In the Sunday New York Herald Tribune Percy N. Stone writes, "Just as valuable and even more astounding [that her performance in every town is a social occasion] are the news stories that break with Miss Adams' arrival. It is traditional that Miss Adams will not be interviewed. Her reticence is known in all newspaper offices, but it seems each town has its city editor who is determined to smash that tradition . . . the brightest young man is told he has to get a story. Such efforts are priceless publicity, forced upon one who never seeks it. . . ."

"On the Sunday before the play is given the society page is loaded with advance notices of the parties built around her coming. Miss Adams is never a guest at these affairs, but the hostesses find the opening of the auditorium for such a distinguished visitor as certain an excuse for a dinner or midnight supper as would be a bootlegging Santa Claus. The swallow-tails go to the tailor for refurbishing wherever Miss Adams stops. . . ."

Little Known of Miss Adams

"So little is really known about her, the wildest stories are repeated as true. . . . [People] jam the theaters and give new life to the road, but that new life does not fool the New York managers. They know there is but one Maude Adams."

Those persons who had the unusual privilege to meet the one Maude Adams were Miss Willa Brand, head of the English department, Curtis Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Lawson, Mrs. Fern Rollyson, the Misses Lyla Greathouse, Nellie Cortrill, Pauline Roberts, Katherine Brooks, Rena Mick, Genevieve Welch, Unita McCollum, Maysel Whiting, Mary E. Boggs, and Demetrius Keffer, and Ivan Bush, Paul Bramlett, Maynard Young, Lynwood Zinn, Nelson Wells, and Archie Morris.

Miss Brand Comments

Miss Brand, commenting upon the play, said that she at first noticed Miss Adams' age (she is 69) but soon it was not apparent. Mr. Skinner's performance she thought was unaffected by his age. He is 64. The members expressed themselves as well pleased with the performance and thrilled with the meeting.

WEST VIRGINIA'S IGNOMINY

Two events have recently taken place in West Virginia which demonstrate the mob nature of man in general and the ineffectiveness of law. They should make us more than a little ashamed to tell one from another state that mountaineers are always free, for, presumably, it is on that freedom that civilization is based. Likewise it is freedom over which prejudices and brute passions trip, to fall and disappear.

We speak of the Powers case in Clarksburg and the recent lynching of two negroes in Greenbrier County—the latter a far more heinous crime than the alleged ones of the "mail-order slayer." The very nature of the way Powers is said to have killed two women and three children attests to the fact that he is an abnormal person with none of the qualities we call human. His offense is parallel to that of a rabid dog that has bitten one's friend. One could feel no hatred of the dog; one could not be goaded by the spurs of revenge. Instead, one would realize the misfortune and want the dog killed simply to prevent similar occurrences. We find no fault with the end that awaits Powers on March 18, but we dislike to know that a vast majority of persons in this section look upon it as the punishment which society renders and the revenge it takes. There are two methods, it seems to us, for dealing with persons who from birth have some eccentricity in their natures which prevents them from being normal: One is death, the other life imprisonment so that they might become clinical subjects to be studied for the advancement of medicine.

The lynching is different—it is a stigma upon law as the wide-spoken hatred of Powers is a stigma upon the reason and emotions of much of society. Two constables were shot in the back and killed. Two negroes, charged with the crime, were taken by a mob (as we remember, our newspapers called them a "group"), driven away in automobiles from which license plates had been removed, and hanged. Some arrests were made, but a grand jury last month brought no indictments. Now the Greenbrier County Court is contesting the constitutionality of a state law which makes a county liable to an assessment of $5000 for each person taken from authorities and put to death. We are afraid that this action of the court is indicative of the attitudes of many residents of that county, and perhaps other counties. It should not be necessary to explain that lynching and the emotions that precede it show the dire straits of what we sometimes call civilization. And in the march of civilization those persons who sympathize with and aid mob violence have yet to emerge from the Middle Ages.

We doubt, too, that the press of West Virginia has done its duty. For months the Powers' horrors were front-page news; but space was at a high premium for accounts of the lynching, and editorial columns were anemic. Wide publicity and bitter denunciation of mob violence would have helped to erase the ignominy.

APPRECIATION FOR OTHERS

Appreciation for other people should be the code of every man and woman. We may feel that such consideration deserves little attention and that we are not obligated in any way toward our fellowmen. Such an assumption is grossly erroneous. The right to do as we please exists only in the imagination. Our government offers us many privileges, but our rights, which are few, are extended by society.

It has been said frequently that a lady or gentleman is born, not made. In a sense this is true. We should not forget the fact that environment and associations play a great part in the formation of habits and observance of the niceties of life which make our companionship desirable. Some of us are fortunate in receiving early training to consider and respect the feelings of others. For the majority of persons such a trait of character must be acquired. Many persons are discourteous and unkind under the assumption that they live in a higher strata of society than others less fortunate, but such an assumption is the result of ignorance, stupidity, and lack of real character.

It has been true down through the ages that great men and noble women have been noted for their consideration for others. Not only to those who assume an equal social standing, but likewise to the man in the ditch and the woman in the lowly walks of life. Whether we believe or disbelieve in the divinity of Christ there is one truth about him which has never been disputed. This goodly man was the most courteous the world has ever known.

Christ made no distinction among men except as to their attitude of right and wrong. He chose for his apostles men of distinction and men of the peasantry. The illiterate disciple who followed the teachings of Christ and who practiced his precepts is frequently alluded to in the scripture as John, the disciple, whom Christ loved. This example, set by the lowly Nazarene, of courtesy, kindness, gentility, and justice to all has been the guiding star of those who have really attained greatness for the past 2000 years.

"Do unto others as you would have others do unto you," has become the Golden Rule for humanity. If this rule is followed persistently, appreciation for others will never be wanting.

MEETING STUDENTS

The numbers grow, the courses increase, and student activities become more complex with passing years. With all these, one experiences an ever-increasing difficulty in meeting and becoming acquainted with his fellow students. Perhaps this is one of the prices of progress and normal growth, but we should, sincerely dislike to think that there is no remedy for this ill. For surely it is an ill.

The friendships formed during college days often have their financial rewards. But far, far above the world and its dross and pains there is the emotional value of friends. Should our memories be littered with the material of the world, we cannot believe that they would be pleasant ones. If our memories are of friends they become warm, living, and personal.

College is perhaps one of the best places in the world for building our store of memories and friends that are to buoy us and carry us over that difficult period, when we leave college and our homes to teach or to do other work. If we are to form these friendships there must be some means provided for doing so. Perhaps the Y. W. C. A. or the Y. M. C. A. could devise an effective plan. Or there may be a group of students who know of a plan that has worked in other colleges. It is quite evident that our dances and parties afford inadequate opportunity for meeting other students.

RADIO ADVERTISING

The radio serves many purposes today. It brings to the people musical entertainments, educational speeches, sermons, and many other interesting things. It is also used to its greatest extent by the commercial world in its advertising schemes. But in recent years this latter use has been abused in practically every important country of the world. An example would be in Argentina. Here advertising became such a dominating part of each program that the government has devised a rule to govern radio broadcasting.

Briefly, the rule is that advertising talks on commercial programs must not exceed 100 words in length. This means that each short talk given between there may be several talks in the course of the program.

Would this rule work well in the United States? Probably it should be given some consideration, because the average radio listener might gladly hear for a few minutes longer a crooner than listen to the merits of shoes and chewing gum for a half of the program.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

DEVELOPMENT OF THE DRAMA

From the Fairmont Times—West Virginian

We read that a prize of $25 is being offered at Glenville State Teachers College to the student or former student who writes the best one-act play to be submitted to the judges before March 1. The winning play will be produced by the college players and it is assumed that it will be the school's entrant in the state collegiate one-act play contest.

This bit of news is particularly interesting here because State College has made a record for itself with its work in the drama. The first collegiate play contest was held in this city two years ago. The second contest held at Marshall College last year was won by the local collegians. State College deserves much credit for stimulating the interest of other state schools in the one-act play.

Why shouldn't an effort be made at the local institution to find another original one-act for its players' vehicle in this year's state contest? It would do no harm to follow Glenville's lead and offer a cash prize for the best play written by a student or former student of State College. The local school players have a record to defend. We hope they defend it well with an original play and an original production.

VALENTINE DANCE WILL BE FRIDAY

Miss Demetrius Keffer Named Chairman of Decorating Committee

Maynard Young's five-piece orchestra has been engaged to play for the Annual Valentine party and dance to be held in the gymnasium Friday evening, according to Miss Bessie B. Bell, chairman of the social committee.

A color scheme of red and white will be used in decorating, with many red hearts being used. Miss Demetrius Keffer has been named chairman of the decorating committee, taking the place of Mrs. A. F. Rohrbough.

All students, former students, and faculty are invited to attend the party, Miss Bell says. The admission will be 25 cents a person. Dancing will be from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock.

LIBRARY RECEIVES NEW BOOK

Most of the Fifteen Deal With Economics and Sociology

Fifteen new books, several of them dealing with the economic and social affairs in the Far East, have been received at the library. Many others have also been received or will be shortly but have not yet been listed or catalogued.

Those books received are: Contemporary Sociological Theories, by Pitrim Sorokin; Real Wages In The United States 1890-1926, by Paul H. Douglas; Far Eastern International Relations, by Hocea Morse and Harley F. MacNair; The Development of China, by Kenneth Scott Latarette; The Making Of Index Numbers, by Irving Fisher; The Spanish-American Frontier 1783-1795, by Samuel E. Morison; Economic Behavior, by A. E. Edwards and M. R. Reed; Risk, Uncertainty, and Profit, by Knight; The Social Sciences, by O. G. Burns and Goldenweiser; Principles Of Economics, by Rufener; Readings In European International Relations Since 1789, by Cook and Stickne; Racial Problems in American Industry, by Feldman; Corporation Profits, by Lawrence Sloan; The Reserve Banks And The Money Market, by Burgess; The Factors Of Social Evolution, by DeLaguna.

RENA MICK IS NEW PRESIDENT

Canterbury Club Elects Officers for Second Semester

Miss Rena Mick, '33, was elected president of the Canterbury Club for the second semester at a meeting held Wednesday night. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Walter Moore; secretary-treasurer, Miss Kathryn Rohrbough.

Three of Edgar Allen Poe's short stories were told by new members: "The Black Cat," by Walter Moore; "The Masque of Red Death," by Opal Hardman, and "The Facts In Cases of M. Valmore," by Glen Henderson. At the close of the meeting the president appointed the following committees: Program committee: Miss Virginia Chidester, Glen Henderson, and Miss Lyla Greathouse. Membership committee: Miss Maysel Whiting, Siegel Taylor, and Miss Mary E. Boggs.

MUSICAL PROGRAM PLANNED

Hugh Squires and Dana Eakle Join College Orchestra

The glee clubs of Glenville State Teachers College have begun practice on a musical program to be given sometime before Easter, Miss Bertha Olsen has announced.

Two new members have joined the orchestra. They are Hugh Squires, trumpet, and Dana Eakle, trombone.

CHEMISTRY CLUB TO GET EXHIBIT

Officers Are Re-elected—Lawson and Turner Talk on Colloids and Cellophane

A notice from the Aluminum Company of America saying they were sending an exhibit of their products and processes was read at a special meeting of the Chemistry Club of Glenville State Teachers College held February 2. The exhibit will be placed on display upon arrival. This meeting was called to supplement the regular meeting which should have been Jan. 26, had final examinations not prevented.

Reginald Lawson gave a talk on colloids, and Byron Turner gave a detailed discussion of cellophane.

The same officers who presided last semester were reelected for the remainder of the school term. They were: President, Bayard Young; vice-president, Hugh Hurst; recording secretary, Miss Thelma Richardson; corresponding secretary, Trel Reger.

H. Y. CLARK VICTIM OF THIEF

Papers Valued at $2,500 Stolen From His Car

No trace has yet been found of the person who stole many valuable papers from the parked automobile of H. Y. Clark in Buckhannon recently. Mr. Clark was motoring to Glenville and stopped for a short time to visit relatives. His travelling bag also contained clothing and various personal and business documents.

Included among the papers was negotiable stock valued at $2,500.

PLANS WASHINGTON PROGRAM

Social Science Club to Hear Three Talks Next Tuesday

A series of talks about George Washington will be given at the meeting of the Social Science Club next Tuesday. The program follows: "Outstanding Event of the President" by Walter L. Moore, "Private Life of Washington" by Miss Lucille Carpenter, "The Public Career of Washington" by Miss Neva Ward.

The meeting is scheduled at 6 o'clock in room 108.

Clairel Burns Weds Dorothy Smith

Clairel Burns, a freshman enrolled here the past semester, and Miss Ruth Dorothy Smith of Grantsville were married on Jan. 30. Mrs. Burns was a senior in Calhoun County High School. The couple will live near Apple Farm in Calhoun County.

New Course in Geography Offered

One new course is being offered by the geography department this semester. It is Geography 15, dealing with the climate, and the social and economic conditions of South America.

Two men who lived in Kanawha Hall withdrew from school at the end of the first semester. They are J. Arthur Butcher, and Clairel Burns.

The new residents of Kanawha Hall this semester are Paul Rishel, Selden Brannon, Dale Swisher, and Maurice Miller. Rishel was a student at Marshall College the first semester. Selden Brannon is a graduate of Glenville and is taking extra work here. Swisher and Miller have been students here all year.

BROADDUS LOSES IN SLOW CONTEST

Pioneers Hit Something Like Usual Stride in Last Half to Win 47-24

In a slow and uninteresting game the Glenville Pioneers defeated Broadbudd College Saturday night in the local gymnasium by a score of 47-24. The Pioneers jumped into an early lead and at the end of the first quarter were ahead 14-3. There was little scoring in the second quarter as both teams seemed to be decidedly off in their shooting. The half ended 18-8.

It was not until the last quarter that the Pioneers hit anything like their usual form, and in this period they drew away from the Broadbudd Battlers. Broadbudd presented a mediocre team and this, together with the ragged play of the locals and the frequent fouling by both teams, did much to keep down the interest in the contest.

Shumie Hines, who has been out of the Pioneers lineup for the past four games, was sent into the game late in the first half and again in the latter stages of the game.

PLAY BEGINS IN "Y" CAGE LEAGUE

Eight Teams Are Entered in 26-Game Schedule—Tournament to be March 18-19

Play in the 1932 Y. M. C. A. Basketball League began Tuesday when the "Y" defeated the Ark, and the Town Students won from the Mansions. In 1931 this league was organized, and considerable interest was aroused in it and the tournament which followed the completion of the schedule.

This year, the league is composed of eight teams as follows: Lodge, Ark, Town Students, Town Independent, Mansion, Second Floor Kanawha Hall, and the Y. M. C. A.

The schedule is as follows:

Feb. 2—Y. M. C. A. vs. Ark. Town Students vs. Mansions

Feb. 4—Lodge vs. Second Floor Kanawha Hall. Third Floor Kanawha Hall vs. Town Independents.

Feb. 10—Y. M. C. A. vs. Mansions. Town vs. Ark.

Feb. 11—Lodge vs. Town Independents. Third Floor vs. Second Floor.

Feb. 16—Y. M. C. A. vs. Town Students. Ark vs. Mansions

Feb. 17—Lodge vs. Third Floor. Second Floor vs. Town Independents.

Feb. 24—Y. M. C. A. vs. Lodge. Ark vs. Second Floor.

March 2—Y. M. C. A. vs. Second Floor. Ark vs. Third Floor.

March 3—Y. M. C. A. vs. Town Independents. Ark vs. Lodge.

March 8—Y. M. C. A. vs. Third

MANY SEE LEAGUE OPENERS

Curtain Rises With Four Fast Games Being Played

The "Y" basketball league started last week with four games being played. The games were well attended, and the crowd seemed well pleased with the type of basketball played.

The lineups and summaries of the games are as follows:

PIONEERS MEET SALEM TONIGHT

Last Game on Local Floor to Be With Slippery Rock Saturday

The present week will witness the completion of the home basketball schedule of the Glenville Pioneers when the teams of Salem College and Slippery Rock Normal School, of Slippery Rock, Pa., invade the local gymnasium. Salem College will be encountered tonight. This marks the first appearance of Salem here for several years, and they are bringing one of their usually fine teams. Only recently were they nosed out by Wesleyan at Buckhannon, and according to some spectators they deserved to win.

On Saturday night Slippery Rock will be met in what promises to be a battle from start to finish. At the present time Slippery Rock is the possessor of a good record with the majority of their games on the right side of the ledger. This will be a good opportunity to compare the Pioneers with the teams of the Pennsylvania district.

The next game on the schedule will be that with Wesleyan which will be played at Buckhannon, Feb. 20. The thrilling game here with the Bobcats will probably cause a number of students to make the trip to Buckhannon for the return engagement.

GLENVILLE WINS FROM THREE FOES

Morris Harvey, Concord, Carson Drugs, Victims of Pioneers on Southern Trip

A recent three-day trip to the southern part of the state proved very successful for the Glenville basketball squad. The Pioneers extended their list of victories to seven straight games this season without a defeat.

On Jan. 28, the Pioneers defeated Morris Harvey at Barboursville, 33 to 30. The game was very slow; the Golden Eagles stalled and played slowly all the way, holding the ball as long as they could. However Glenville was never behind and considered the victory an easy one.

Carson Drugs Fight Hard

On the following night the squad traveled to Gauley Bridge where they encountered the Carson Drugs, an independent team. The game was staged upon a comparatively small floor. The second team started the game and played good ball. Coach Rohrbough entered his regulars at the fourth quarter, and they found the going very hard. The game ended 40 to 40. Two extra periods were needed to decide the fracas, the Pioneers winning 56 to 50.

Pioneers Easily Defeat Concord

At Athens on Jan. 30, Glenville finally found their familiar stride, defeating Concord College 48 to 31. Concord could do little against Glenville's fast breaking offense.

The whole Glenville squad saw playing service during the trip. No special honors can be awarded to any individual.

WHITE ATTENDS MEETING

Represents Glenville at Sutton Round Table

H. L. White represented Glenville State Teachers College at the Central West Virginia Round Table held in Sutton on Friday and Saturday. Others from Gilmer County were county superintendent of schools, Carl K. McGinnis of Glenville, and Miss Ruth Rader of Sand Fork.

Gassaway was selected as the place for meeting next year and superintendent D. E. Dean, superintendent of the Richwood schools, was elected president of the organization.

R. Lee, Hayhurst Receive Sweaters

Football "G's" and sweaters were recently awarded to Ralph Lee and Bernard Hayhurst by Glenville State Teachers College. Lee was the only member of the squad who earned a letter this year and who has not previously been awarded one. Hayhurst completed his third year as manager of the squad.

ALUMNA REPLACES MISS DOBSON WHO HAS BROKEN ANKLE

Women's Physical Education
Now Taught by Mrs. Earl
Boggs, '26

TWO COURSES POSTPONED

Presentation of Contest Play Is Undecided—Debaters and Orator Continue Work

Mrs. Earl Boggs, of Glenville, is directing the women's physical education classes during the absence of Miss Margaret Dobson, instructor in public speaking and physical education, who is confined to her room with a broken ankle.

Mrs. Boggs was graduated from G. S. T. C. in 1926 and has had training in the Battle Creek College of Physical Education, at Battle Creek, Mich.

Whether "The Man Who Died at Twelve O'clock," which was to have been presented at Shepherd State Teachers College on Feb. 25, as Glenville's entry in the West Virginia Collegiate One-Act Play Contest, will go into rehearsal and be presented is not yet known. Miss Dobson will be unable to direct the production and no arrangements have been made for anyone else to take charge.

Debaters and Orator Continue Work

The debaters and orator will continue their work and will represent Glenville in the state debating and oratorical contests which are being held in conjunction with the play contest. Various members of the English department will coach the debating teams and Reginald Lawson, who will present the oration.

Expression 3 and "Children's Literature," two courses which Miss Dobson was to have offered this semester, have been postponed until the special spring term. Students desiring these courses may enroll for them at that time.

To Return for Spring Term

Miss Dobson is unable to meet her classes because of a broken ankle she received in a fall on Jan. 28. According to Dr. A. M. Cross, attending physician, at whose home she is staying, Miss Dobson's condition is improving fast but it is not expected that she will be able to resume her duties until the spring term opens.

WHITING TALKS TO ASSEMBLY

Tells of 100th Anniversary of Birth of Lewis Carroll

Hunter Whiting, teacher of foreign languages, addressed the students and faculty in assembly Wednesday. His subject dealt with two people and a book.

The book was the "Adventures of Alice in Wonderland," written by Charles L. Dodgson. Mr. Whiting gave a sketch of the life of the author, and the occasion for writing the book.

"Dodgson was born Jan. 27, 1832, in a small village in Lancaster. After eleven years he went to Rugby, and then attended Christ College at Oxford, and later became a lecturer. He met and became interested in the three daughters of Dean-Littell, and most especially in the second one, Alice. He spent a great deal of time with them, and entertained the little girls with his stories.

"While on an excursion with the girls on the Thames, July 4, he told them a story which he later wrote and illustrated. He gave the story to Alice who had it published two years later, and it was sold at auction for $77,000 under the name of "Alice in Wonderland."

The hundredth anniversary of Dodgson's birth was recently celebrated, and the Alice of his book is to come to America in May.

TWO PLAYS ARE RECEIVED

Three or More Others Being Written for Contest Ending Mar. 1

Two plays have already been received by the Mercury in the one-act play contest for the $25 Faculty Award offered by the teachers of G. S. T. C. The contest, which is open to former and enrolled students, will end on March 1. The Mercury understands that at least three other plays are being written.

Judges of the manuscripts will be Hunter Whiting, Curtis F. Baxter, and Mrs. Otis G. Wilson.

G. S. T. C. TO HEAR NOTED SPEAKERS THIS SEMESTER

Tom Skeyhill, Australian Poet, to Make Second Address on Feb. 29

TWO OTHERS TO BE HERE

Edgar C. Raine and Dr. Shailer
Mathews Will Lecture
Next Month

The Y. M. C. A., in co-operation with the College, has announced as a prominent feature of its second semester program the engagement of three well-known speakers.

Thomas Skeyhill, Australian poet and lecturer, will speak Feb. 29. This is his second appearance here. In December he gave a lecture on "The Last of the Long Hunters." This talk was highly acclaimed by most of the audience.

On March 14, Edgar C. Raine will lecture on his travels in Alaska. For ten years Mr. Raine was representative of the United States Treasury Department there.

The third speaker will be Dr. Shailer Mathews of Chicago who will speak here March 23. Since 1908 Dr. Mathews has been Dean of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago. He is one of the most prominent theologians in the country. He has just had a new book published, one of his older ones is in the local library now. It is "Contributions of Science to Religion."

Warren Blackhurst, Senior President, Has Taxidermist Shop in Kanawha Hall

Monstrosities hold no terrors for Warren Blackhurst, president of the 1932 senior class. On the contrary he delights in removing the mortal flesh and bones of horrible, unearthly, members of the animal kingdom, stuffing their glossy skins with plaster paris and preserving their misshapen forms for succeeding generations to behold with horrified incredulity. Among the many that Blackhurst has mounted are a squirrel and a groundhog with their four front teeth growing outside their mouths. The teeth of the squirrel were nearly two inches long and those of the ground hog nearly three. In each instance one tooth made a curve around one eye, one grew back into the head, and the two lower teeth stuck up in front of the animal's nose.

He has also mounted seven differently colored squirrels: black, gray, red, white, half black and half white, half black and half grey, half black and half red, and a pale, yellow one.

Mounted Birds From South America

Occasionally birds not native to this country are found straying and are killed in this state. Two specimens native only to South America were brought to Blackhurst to mount.

Blackhurst is very enthusiastic about his work, and in telling about it he says, "Most people have a mis-

REGISTRATION OF 435 INCREASE OF 25.7 OVER 1931

Growth of Glenville Teachers
College in Past Semester
Was 24.8%

47 NEW ENROLLMENTS

Roster of Incoming Students and Their Home Addresses
Given

The second semester registration of Glenville State Teachers College at 1 o'clock yesterday was 345—the exact number of students enrolled at the close of the first semester. Of them 47 were not registered here during the first half of the year.

The present enrollment is an increase of 25.7 per cent over that of February 1932, when 346 students were registered. Statistics for this year and last follow:

Fall enrollment 1930-31	362
Fall enrollment 1931-32	452
Increase in 1931-32	24.8%
Spring enrollment 1930-31	346
Spring enrollment 1931-32	435
Increase in 1931-32	25.7%

As may be seen, the percentage increase for this second semester over that of a year ago is .9 per cent more than the increase of the first semester.

A list of new enrollments for this semester follows:

Clarence Bailes, Widen; Mildred Smith Baker, Cedarville; Earle A. Boylen, Jane Lew; Ralph Boyles, Clarksburg; Selden Brannon, Orma; Edward Brooks, Jr., Glenville; Biddle Butler, Swansdale; Frank A. Cain, Glenville; Hazel Dell Cogar, Webster Springs; Rebecca Criss, Webster Springs; Elliott N. Dent, Elizabeth; Minnie Dodrill, Birch River; J. Richard Echols, Danville; Eustace Frymier, Tanner; Charles O. Gerwig, Glenville; Ernest Hackney, Barborton, O.; Belle Hall, Glenville; Robert F. Hawk, Weston; Mrs. Jean Hinkle, Glenville.

Ralph Hinzman, Weston; Robert L. Jack, Glenville; Harold Jordan, Flatwoods; Dorothy Keith, Harrisville; Mrs. Paul Leonard, Nallen;

LITTLE KANAWHA ON SPREE

26-Foot Flood Stage Isolates Brooklyn and Inconveniences Students.

"River Stay Away From My Door" was sung by some twenty-five students and faculty members who live on the Brooklyn side of Glenville. Friday morning they found four feet of muddy water across their path to school and were forced to come as far as the highway bridge in a boat.

Other students inconvenienced were four who live at Gilmer and commute to Glenville every day. They were forced to remain here Thursday night.

The group that was scheduled to leave Friday morning at 11 o'clock for Pittsburgh deemed it wise to leave three hours earlier, because of the high waters between Weston and Clarksburg.

The Little Kanawha River, when at its highest point Thursday night about 11 o'clock, had risen twenty-eight feet and was within less than five feet of the record setting 1926 flood stage. At the twenty-eight foot stage there was water on a little of the west end of Main Street and nearly a foot of it in front of the Midland store on Lewis street. Nearly half the Brooklyn section was isolated by the murky waters at the crest of the flood.

SOCIAL SCIENCE CLUB MEETS

Earl Boggs Chosen President and Rena Mick Treasurer

At the first meeting of the Social Science Club this semester, the group chose Earl Boggs as their president. Miss Rena Mick was elected treasurer. This club was organized last semester.

On the past Wednesday the club met and a program was presented concerning the "prospects of the Democratic and Republican presidential candidates."

The subject of the next program will concern Washington. Preceding each program a brief report of the most important international affairs is presented.
