

SECTIONAL CAGE TOURNAMENT TO BE HELD HERE MAR. 4

Seven Teams From Calhoun,
Roane, and Gilmer Counties Entered

ROHRBOUGH IS DIRECTOR

College Will Offer Awards and Business Men Are Giving
Prizes

Glenville Teachers College will be host to a state sectional basketball tournament on Saturday, March 4, according to an announcement made by directors of high school tournaments. This section comprises the counties of Calhoun, Gilmer, and Roane.

Coach Natus Rohrbough of the College has been named director of the tourney and will have full charge of affairs. Seven teams representing the high schools of Spencer, Glenville, Tanner, Troy, Sand Fork, Walton, and Grantsville will compete. Spencer, Troy, Sand Fork, and Glenville are thought by most sports followers to be the favorites, but Coach Rohrbough says that no teams will be seeded.

College To Give Awards
The College will furnish two meals to each team, and after the first game in the evening will give a dinner for the winner and runner-up. A silver basketball will be awarded to the school winning the tournament, and each of its players will receive a small gold basketball. The runners-up will also get awards, and it is likely that the business men of Glenville will offer several individual prizes.

Drawings for the tournament will be made this evening. Coach Rohrbough has invited a representative from each school to attend the Glenville-Salem game tonight and be present when the schedule is prepared. One team will draw a bye.

Referee Not Named Yet
Each high school may be represented by eleven players and a coach or ten players, a coach, and a manager.

One of the five following men will officiate: Art Ward, Cebe Ross, Charley McMillian, Harold Nichols, or Sam Kistler.

Coach Rohrbough says that season tickets will be 75 cents; the admission fee for each session will be 35 cents. There will be three sessions beginning at 9 a. m., 1 p. m., and 7:30 p. m. Before the championship game a consolation contest will be held to decide the third best team in the tournament.

Dance Is Planned for March 3

A student dance for which an out-of-town orchestra will probably be employed has been announced by Miss Goldie James, chairman of the social committee. The committee will meet at 4 o'clock this afternoon to make plans.

Pioneer Boxer Wins Bout at Weston

Bill Rumbach, Pioneer feather-weight boxer, met and defeated Speedy Harper of Weston Saturday night. Rumbach won the bout by a decision of the judges. Neither of the boxers was knocked down during the fracas which was fought at Weston.

94 MAY BE GRADUATED

Registrar's List Names 39 A. B. Seniors, and 54 Normal

Thirty-nine A. B. seniors will be graduated in June if they complete the necessary courses this semester or next summer. An announcement by Carey Woofter shows that there are three who were not listed previously in the Mercury. They are Troy Floyd, Delbarton; Rhea Kee, Glenville; Ansel Reed, Glenville. Fifty-five will receive standard normal certificates in June. Ones added to the roster since the first list was published in the Mercury are Bessie Cogar, Nellie Lorraine Lyon, Orville D. Wolfe, and Paul Rishel.

WESLEYAN GAME TO END SEASON

Pioneers to Meet Strong Salem
Tigers Here
Tonight

Glenville's Pioneers will make their last stand on their home court tonight when they meet the Tigers of Salem College. They will be forced to play without the service of Frank Vass.

The Tigers have come out of an early season slump and have been winning their games lately. Their gallant stand against Davis and Elkins College proves their power.

The probable line-up which will start for Glenville will be, Hines and Burke at the forwards, Hackney at center, Lindell and Porterfield at the guards.

Thursday night Glenville will play the Bobcats of Wesleyan at Buckhannon. This will be the last game of the season for the Pioneers. The Cats were defeated at Glenville 32-23, but the Pioneers will be forced to play their best because Wesleyan is always a threat.

These games will be the last for Burke, Hines, Lindell, and Jeranko who will be graduated in June.

KATHRYN ROHRBOUGH CAST

Fairmont Friday

The final cast of "The Man Who Died at Twelve O'clock" has been selected and will represent Glenville State College in the state intercollegiate contest at Fairmont, Friday. The cast includes Miss Kathryn Rohrbough, Hugh Fultz, and Reginald Lawson. Miss Madeline Linville is stage manager, and Miss Virginia Riffel property manager.

Reginald Lawson will also represent the college in the oratorical contest, Thursday night. Eight colleges will take part.

The play contest will be Friday afternoon and night, and six colleges will compete in it.

Waynesburg Takes Lead in Second Half, and Slippery Rock Is Victorious, 35-24

The Glenville Pioneers, in falling victims to three of the best teams in Pennsylvania on their recent road trip, marked it as their lowest ebb of the 1932-33 season. But they have never before had such stiff competition in consecutive nights.

Playing Waynesburg first the Pioneers were able to hold their own for one half, being ahead then 17-15, but the second period was just a duplicate of the first Waynesburg game. The Yellow Jackets made them from everywhere and in every way. The final score was 44-32.

Slippery Rock Wins
Meeting Slippery Rock the next night, they had more hopes for victory, but the sharp-shooting of McClelland, Slippery Rock's ace, proved to be too much for the Pioneers. The game ended with the score 35-24 in favor of the Pennsylvanians.

The final game with Westminster College proved the most disastrous of the trip. Presenting a team which averaged well over six feet in height and which possessed the ability to make difficult goals easily, the New Wilmington college smothered Glenville under a 54-39 score. Westminster used fourteen men, and each man coming on the floor was larger than the one going off.

FALLS FROM THIRD FLOOR

Uninjured Student Refuses to Tell
Thoughts on Way Down

"If those boys want any more peanuts, they'll have to come after them," said Wayne Lawson, student and second-hand book merchant, as he gathered himself up after a fall from a third-floor window of Kanawha Hall Saturday.

Lawson was leaning on his window tossing the elephant food into a window of the floor below to hungry students. His feet slipped, and out he went, somersaulting three times before he struck a two-inch iron pipe which threw him away from the building and into a thick hedge twenty-seven feet from where his flight began. "My head is as good as gold," Lawson explained, pointing to a good-sized impression in the earth which his cranium made when it landed first. "My legs are a little sore though."

When asked what he was thinking on his way to the ground, Lawson replied, "I thought more in that second and a quarter than in any other ten minutes of my life, but I don't want to tell what."

"I do wish I had had on my old sweater," he complained as he examined the many holes torn by the hedge in his new one.

ALUMNI FIGHT BILL TO ABOLISH STATE TEACHERS COLLEGES

COMMITTEES ARE NAMED

2000 Pamphlets Explaining Case of Institutions Distributed

Plans to combat the House Bill which provides for the abolition of Glenville State Teachers College and four others and for the sale of their property were made by the Alumni Association of the College Thursday. Sixty members, several from out of town, were at the most enthusiastic meeting the association has had for years.

Three committees were appointed. One wrote out a set of resolutions to be sent to certain members of the Legislature; a committee on arrangements will enlist the aid of students and organizations in counties from which our students come; and a publicity committee will state the case of the state teachers colleges in a pamphlet to be sent to 2000 alumni and others.

The association feels that the people of West Virginia are not well acquainted with the state teachers colleges and the work they are doing. The people will be appealed to first and later the Legislature. A committee consisting of Attorney Bantz W. Craddock, J. Wilbur Beall, and Mrs. Grace Barnett drafted the following resolutions:

Resolution Drafted

"The Alumni Association of the Glenville State Teachers College, at a called meeting, held at Glenville, West Virginia, Thursday, February 16, 1933, unanimously adopted the following resolutions: "BE IT RESOLVED, THAT the representatives of the alumni of the Glenville State Teachers College, numbering about twelve hundred, especially record their opposition in no uncertain terms to that measure now pending in the Legislature of West Virginia, introduced by Mr. Goodwin, delegate from Jackson County, which would abolish, along with four other state teachers colleges, this institution to which we owe so much, the most centrally situated of all the teacher training colleges, the one which can most advantageously and most economically train teachers for the counties surrounding it, and further that we evidence our strong disapproval of any legislation that would abolish or curtail or in any manner lessen the standing or effective work or usefulness of our Alma Mater as an institution."

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, THAT a copy of this resolution be sent to the Chairman and Members of the Committee on Education in the House, to the Chairman and Members of the Committee on Education in the Senate, to Senators A. C. Herold and A. G. Matthews, and to Delegate E. E. Cottrill."

THE STATE TEACHERS COLLEGES

Efforts to abolish the state teachers colleges of West Virginia have been made for years. In times more affluent than the present one the colleges have with more or less ease maintained themselves in the face of all attacks, but just now in the particularly vulnerable depths of the depression new and powerful assaults are being made against them. Two things need to be done: to inform the Legislature and the people of their work and cost, and then to make the Legislature see that the public is acquainted with their value.

Movements to abolish the teachers colleges have origin in four groups: officials of endowed colleges who say that the state by maintaining teachers colleges is legislating them out of business; persons who think that a school term of six months is sufficient and, therefore, that the training schools should be curtailed or abolished; persons who believe that it is not the duty of a state to provide higher education for its citizens; and persons and interests who wish to balance the budget and to lower taxes. The work and the cost of the teachers colleges should determine the issue provided we believe that education has any worth. That we here take for granted. Our arguments are briefly set forth.

The Work of the State Teachers Colleges

1. Educationally West Virginia ranks thirty-seventh among the states; in wealth and natural resources, seventeenth. Does it appear that our teachers are being too highly trained and that our schools are good enough?

2. Last year 700 standard normal and 3500 certificates below standard normal grade were issued. Have the teachers colleges completed their mission?

3. The teaching profession calls for 3100 new teachers each year. The University can graduate only 350 high school teachers and Marshall about 275 elementary and high school instructors. Where will the other well-trained teachers come from if the colleges are abolished?

4. Many students attend the teachers colleges because a—Living expenses are less than at other colleges.

b—Tuition fees averaging $150 elsewhere are prohibitive.

c—More intimate relations with faculties and other students are possible in the small colleges.

d—Convenient location makes living at home possible.

5. About 2800 students attend the colleges it is proposed to abolish. Abolition, reduction to two-year schools, or increase of tuition to $100 or more would remove the opportunity for higher education for most of them. Is it to the interest of the state to promote ignorant citizenship?

6. The plants of the five teachers colleges the bill proposes to abolish are worth about 2½ to 3 million dollars. Were these colleges abolished and their plants sold, as the bill provided, the state would probably realize 3 to 5 cents on the dollar—a loss of almost 2½ millions.

7. The University and Marshall have enrollments of 4000; the five state teachers colleges, 2800. If all the 2800 were to go to the University or Marshall, the plants of these two institutions would have to be increased by two-thirds. This would probably cost 10 to 15 millions. Besides, the cost of instruction would be as much and possibly more than it is now.

The Cost of the Teachers Colleges to the State

(Note: These figures taken from the 1933 Budget Bill and from the records of the Board of Control represent only appropriated money and not collections from students.)

1. Per capita cost of the five teachers colleges in 1931-32 was $160.

2. Per capita cost of colleges of similar size in the United States in 1931-32 was $440.

3. Per capita cost of colleges over 2000 in the United States was $263.

4. Per capita cost of West Virginia University was $371.

5. Total proposed appropriations for the five colleges, 1933-34, is $305,000.

a—If you own property worth $5000 your part of this is 27½ cents.

b—The General State Fund for 1933-34 is estimated to be $5,554,000.

c—The five colleges' share of this is 5.5%

d—The five colleges' share of all estimated state revenue is 2.1%

e—Of the total taxes on real estate and personal property ($942,000) the five colleges will get $51,810.

6. The $305,000 that would be saved by abolishing the five state teachers colleges would a—Maintain the state penitentiary less than two years.

b—Build eight to twelve miles of hard surfaced road.

SIGEL E. TAYLOR WEDS

Ceremony Was Read Dec. 24, at Aurora, Bride's Home

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Margaret Wilt of Aurora, W. Va., to Sigel E. Taylor of Walton. The wedding took place at Aurora, on Dec. 24, 1932.

Mrs. Taylor is a graduate of West Virginia University and has been teaching in Walton High School for the past three years. Mr. Taylor is a senior in the four-year course at Glenville State Teachers College and is at present teaching in the Walton Graded School.

GROUNDHOG WEATHER

"I'll be glad when this cold weather gets over," Ma Gandy cast an envious glance at Pa settled comfortably in his easy chair by the open fire almost buried in catalogs, papers, and his record books, as she put the living room in order. "If it lasts much longer it'll take a block and tackle to get you pried loose from that chair."

"Eh? What did you say?" Pa asked absently, still figuring in his mind whether the amount of corn he had planned to put out for silage would be sufficient for the cows and increased flock of sheep he was contemplating for next year. "Do you want somethin'?"

"No, I didn't have anything in particular in mind," Ma admitted, "but if you're asking for a job, you might as well get out and take some fresh water to the hens. I think you need the exercise anyway."

"I didn't ask for any job," Pa returned. "I only wanted to know what you'd sed, or if there was anything you wanted. Just as soon as I spend a few minutes tryin' to figure out th' best way to manage this farm I git th' most out uv it, then you think I'm loafin'. Guess I might jist as well go out an' finish checkin' over the machinery an' git it ready for use, even if it is cold as blazes!"

"Oh, now, Gasper, be yourself," Ma condoled. "You know I didn't mean it that way, but you have been sticking awful close to that chair since groundhog day."

"Groundhog—I think it must have bin a bear that seen his shadow," Pa softened a little as he pulled on his sheepskin coat and took the pail of water Ma had ready for him to take to the chickens. "Drat this weather, anyway," he muttered as he went out and the biting wind brought the red to his cheeks. "I'll be glad when we git that water systim installed so th' hins kin have fresh water without me havin' to carry it."

Soon he returned to the house with the pail partly full of eggs. "Thought I'd better bring these eggs in," he reasoned, "it's pritty cold out there, an' if you want to set sum uv 'em they might git chilled too much. Got 42 a'ready an' it's only ten o'clock."

"I'm glad you brought them in," Ma said cordially. "And that reminds me the incubator ought to be checked over and got ready. It's warm down in the basement, and I'm sure you won't mind doing that for me while you're up. Then you can go back to your figuring and planning and I won't bother you any more till dinner's ready. I suppose you'll want to take time out for that won't you?"

"Aw, Gertie, quit your tryin' to flirt with me. I'm gittin' too old fer that," Pa said good humoredly as he disappeared down the cellar stairs.

Miss Willa Brand entertained with an informal dinner at Verona Maple Hall Wednesday, Feb. 8, for Miss Margaret Dobson, Miss Ivy Lee Myers and A. E. Harris.

Miss Grace Lorentz, Mrs. Phyllis Rohrbough, William Lorentz, and Andrew Whiting motored to Waynesburg, Pa., Thursday to see the Waynesburg-Glenville basketball game.

PIONEERS DEFEAT MORRIS HARVEY

Combination of Hines-Lindell- Vass Click to Perfection to Run up 62-25 Score

For the second time this year the Glenville Pioneers proved too much for Morris Harvey when they defeated the Eagles 62-25 on the local court Feb. 9. Glenville went into the lead just a few minutes after the opening whistle and were in the lead throughout the game. The score at the half was 25-12. The famous combination of Hines-Vass-Lindell, who scored 41 points among them, seemed to play with perfection.

Shumie Hines played one of the finest floor games seen on the local hardwood this year. Rutter, who scored eleven points, led the Morris

Well, that's something about cigarettes
I never knew before the cigarette that's Milder

the cigarette that Tastes Better

I'd never thought much about what's inside a Chesterfield cigarette. But I have just been reading something that made me think about it.

Just think of this, some of the tobacco in Chesterfield—the Turkish—comes from 4000 miles away! And before it is shipped every single leaf is packed by hand. All because Turkish tobacco is so small and delicate.

Of course I don't know much about making cigarettes, but I do know this—that Chesterfields are milder and have a very pleasing aroma and taste. They satisfy—and that's what counts with me!

Mrs. E. G. Rohrbough and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rohrbough Jr., were in Clarksburg Thursday.

ILLUSION:

Josie, the lovely trapeze artist, stands upon a small platform. At the will of the magician she leaps twenty feet into the air to reach her trapeze. She uses no ropes, no ladder! A phenomenal leap for a woman... or a man!

EXPLANATION:

Josie didn't jump... she was sprung! The twenty-foot leap is not dependent on Josie's ability, but on a powerful spring mechanism hidden beneath the stage which propels the artist upward through the air. The force is so violent that the lady wears a light steel jacket which protects her from injury as she starts her astonishing leap.

*IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED
...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW*

Magic has its place...but not in cigarette advertising.

Consider the illusion that there is a mysterious way to give cigarettes a superior "flavor."

EXPLANATION: Cigarette flavor can be controlled by adding artificial flavorings. By blending. And by the quality of tobaccos used.

Cheap, raw tobaccos can be "built up" or "fortified" by the lavish use of artificial flavorings.

Such magic, however, seldom holds the audience. Your taste finally tells you the truth.

The cigarette flavor that never stales, never varies, never loses its fresh appeal, comes from mild, ripe, fragrant, more expensive tobaccos...blended to bring out the full, round flavor of each type of leaf. It's the quality of the tobacco that counts!

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Because Camel actually pays millions more every year for choice tobaccos, you find in Camels an appealing mildness, a better flavor.

And Camels taste cooler because the welded Humidor Pack of three-ply, MOISTURE-PROOF cellophane keeps them fresh.
