Eighth Time

BARNUM HIGH SCORER

Porterfield's Defensive Work Praised —Sappington Makes
Six Goals

The Glenville Pioneers lost to the Wesleyan Bobcats at Buckhannon, Wednesday, in an extra period game that was tied eight times, the final score being 46-44. G. DeBar and Barnum were red hot for the Bobcats, scoring 32 of the 46 points. Rex Pyles was the big gun for the Glenville outfit what time he was in the game, while Porterfield's defensive work was an outstanding feature. Bob Combs, and Sappington divided Glenville's scoring honors.

The Pioneers drew first blood when Pyles scored on a neat hook shot a few seconds after the opening whistle. Barnum retaliated for Wesleyan, but buckets by Combs and Sappington and a foul by Pyles gave the Pioneers a 7-2 lead. The DeBar brothers then scored 3 baskets in rapid succession and White followed with another one which gave them a 10-7 advantage. Combs shot a foul and Pyles scored on a sucker shot tying the count, but another scoring burst by the Methodists put them ahead 18-10 with 6 minutes left in the first half.

Bobcats Lead 22-20 at Half
Pyles sank a two-pointer from the corner and Sappington followed with one from the center of the floor. Pierce made a basket from the foul circle which was followed by two foul goals on the part of Pyles, and Brown scored for Wesleyan making the score 18-20. G. DeBar scored on a close-in shot and Combs banked one in as the half ended with the Pioneers trailing 22-20.

Barnum opened the second half with a hop shot and G. DeBar tipped another one in a moment later. Sappington scored from the side court and D'Orazio, after missing two snowbirds, made two in rapid succession. DeBar scored again for Wesleyan. Sappington tipped one in after a scramble under the basket and DeBar made another. D'Orazio scored for Glenville and the count stood 30-30. Combs shot a foul and made a beautiful shot from side court a few seconds later. Sappington splashed another one in from the foul line and the score stood 35-30. Glenville. Barnum and Hull made snowbirds. Barnum made an overhead shot from the foul line and baskets by Furbie and Hull gave the Methodists a five-point lead. Glenville took time out and Pyles reentered the game.

TO ELECT OFFICERS FEB. 7

Canterbury Club Hears Stories by Cobb and A. Daudet

The following stories were narrated at a meeting of the Canterbury Club on Wednesday: "The Belled Buzzard" by Irvin S. Cobb told by Cly Reger, and "The Pope's Mule" by Alphonse Daudet told by Miss Helen McGee.

The next meeting of the club will be Feb. 7, at which time election of officers will be held.

Exam Schedule Attracts Crowd

A surging crowd. Student collisions. Hallway jams. The object of excitement a schedule of final examinations posted on the bulletin board slightly high for the average person's height. An obvious advantage for the tall. Craned necks. Tilted chins. Busy notebooks. Hurrying pencils. Varied exclamations. Teachers calmly making a way through the group. Byron Turner crowded to the opposite wall wishing for a step ladder and a telescope. George White tiptoeing and jumping. A sigh of regret over three tests on the same day. A girl disgusted over an examination of hers being the last one scheduled. Awed freshmen. Eager sophomores. Disgusted juniors. Calm seniors. Indifferent teachers. And on Jan. 26, the end of another semester.

BRANSON DE COU TALKS ON MEXICO

Reviewer Says Travelogue Is Well Supplemented With Music and Pictures

By R. M.
Branson De Cou, world traveler and lecturer, gave an illustrated talk on Mexico in the auditorium of Glenville State Teachers College Thursday night to an audience of 400. In introducing Mr. De Cou, Curtis Baxter, a promoter of the artists' course, announced that the lecturer has a record of 70 per cent return engagements and that his pictures are spoken of as being artistic. The basis of the lecture was a series of pictures illustrating Mr. De Cou's travels in Mexico. The pictures were supplemented with clear and concise explanations. There was good variety in the illustrations. Views of Mexican scenery, people, customs, architecture, art, and city and rural life were entertaining and not lacking in educative values.

The slides were handled well with a smooth dissolving of one into the other. The slides were highly but beautifully colored. A few have expressed doubt as to the reality of the intense coloring.

The musical accompaniment to some of the pictures was appropriate. The audience seemed to enjoy the Mexican folk song, "Cielito Lindo."

Mr. De Cou said that Mexico is as picturesque as any oriental country. He recommends it as a delightful country to visit, and he adds that it will possibly be more frequented by travelers in the coming years, since transportation facilities are rapidly being improved.

The coloring of the slides was the amazing part of Mr. De Cou's entertainment. The artist on glass three by three inches presumably copied mosaics of intricately colored tiles. The speaker left one to wonder whether the artist accompanied him or by what other way she conceived the color schemes.

FIRST SEMESTER TO END JAN. 26, NEXT BEGINS 30TH

President Thinks Registration
May Show Only Slight
Decrease

MRS. SAMPLE RETURNING

Art and New French Course To Be Offered—Others To Be Continued

Examinations at Glenville State Teachers College for the first semester will begin Friday afternoon and end Jan. 26, and registration for the second semester will be held the following Monday. Classes will meet at 8 a. m. Jan. 30.

Although several students will not re-enter next semester, President E. G. Rohrbough thinks that the ratio of decrease will probably be no greater than it was last year. The enrollment in 1932-33 was 452 the first semester and 441 the second semester. On Nov. 1, 1933 the registration was 349.

Many of the courses now being given will be continued next semester. The only course being offered which has never been given in this college is one in advanced French composition to be taught by Hunter Whiting.

Mrs. Elwina Sample, who has been here in the past, will teach courses in both public school art and appreciation of art.

Many Students See Wesleyan Game

ERVIN IS CLUB PRESIDENT

Science Group Plans to Have "Chemistry Day" in April

Joseph Ervin of Elkins was elected president of the Chemistry Club at a meeting on Tuesday evening. Other officers chosen were: Vice-president, Athal Bransford of Walton; recording secretary, Graydon Woodford of Coxs Mills; corresponding secretary, Byron Turner, Weston; treasurer, Homer West of Glenville.

The following talks were given on the program: "The Life of Davy" by Kyle Bush, "Research and Industry" by Roy Byrd, and "Growth-Stimulating Acid" by Miss Oleta Reed. It was decided to have another Chemistry Day in April.

CARL STARKEY VICTIM OF SUICIDE

Was Son of Former Teacher of Public School Music at Glenville

The body of Carl Starkey, who disappeared from his home at Westerville, O., on New Year's Eve, was found on top of Mount Logan, near Chillicothe, on Jan. 10, according to a news item in the Cleveland Plaindealer.

The body was suspended by a necktie from a tree seven feet from the ground and was covered with snow, circumstances leading the authorities to believe the youth had hanged himself several hours after leaving his home, sixty miles from the place he was found.

Carl, who was the son of Mrs. Mabel C. Starkey, a former teacher of public school music here at the College, was well known to many people in Glenville. He was a graduate of Otterbein College and Western Reserve University Library School.

It will be remembered that, based on a false report, The Mercury published an account of his death a few years ago. At that time, while a student in Cleveland, he dissolved 120 sleeping tablets in water and drank the draught. For days he hovered between life and death, but because of the size of the dose, the poison neutralized itself and physicians were finally able to save him. He is said to have suffered from attacks of melancholia.

G. T. C. LOSES IN CONTEST

State Meet Won by Fairmont—
Davis Is College Orator

Bradford Davis of DeKalb represented Glenville Teachers College in the West Virginia Intercollegiate Peace Oratorical Contest held in Commencement hall at Morgantown Saturday. Eleven colleges competed and three prizes were given.

Miss Frances Brill of Fairmont State Teachers College won the first prize of $50, Miss Jean Briggart of Morris Harvey the second of $30, and Charles Slicer of Marshall College the third of $20. The contest was conducted by Professor W. J. Kay, head of the department of public speaking at West Virginia University.

Davis was chosen as a delegate at a contest in the college auditorium Jan. 5. His oration was "War—Why?" Miss Elinor Keith, Maurice Miller, and Kidd Lockard were the other contestants at which Otis G. Wilson, H. Laban White and Robert T. Crawford were the judges, Miss Margaret Dobson, instructor in speech, accompanied Davis to Morgantown.

COLLEGE TO SPEND $30,000 IF C.W.A. P.W.A. GRANT LOAN

Five Projects Including 12
Room Wing to Kanawha
Hall Proposed

GRANDSTAND PLANNED

Campus Improvements and Wall
Parts of Program—80 Men
Would Be Required

A new wing for Kanawha Hall, additional grading and landscaping of the college grounds, a retaining wall, new coats of paint for the administration buildings, and a sizeable unit of a concrete grandstand will be improvements made here at Glenville State Teachers College, if the state C. W. A. and P. W. A. administrators at Charleston approve these projects.

This program of public works planned by President E. G. Rohrbough and Edward Hart, Civil Works engineer of Charleston, was approved by the Gilmer County board some two or three weeks ago, according to President Rohrbough, and is now in the hands of the administrator at Charleston awaiting his decision.

Campus Improvements Projected

The proposed addition to Kanawha Hall will be erected on the same plan that was under consideration early in the winter of 1932 and will contain twelve student rooms and some additional bathrooms. This project will come under the classification of the P. W. A.

It is planned to grade and improve the campus on the east side near The Lodge, remove the old iron fence and build a retaining wall along that part of the grounds. Both the old and new administration buildings will be given a new coat of paint throughout and an additional classroom now used for storage will be reclaimed from the basement adjoining the room occupied by the Y. M. C. A.

Grandstand to Seat 1500

Plans are also included for the construction of a concrete grandstand unit on Rohrbough Field, having a seating capacity of 1500 persons.

The total cost of the proposed projects coming under the classification of C. W. A. is $14,757.13, and that under P. W. A. approximates $15,000. They would afford 41,760 estimated man hours of work and would give employment to approximately eighty men. Both the college authorities and those who look to these projects for the opportunity to obtain employment await with concern the approval of these undertakings.

Hemingway's New Book in Library

Miss Alma Arbuckle, librarian, announces that the following nine books have been received in the library and are now ready for circulation: Charles H. Judd, Problems of Education in the United States; Harriet E. Glazier, Arithmetic for Teachers; Frank A. Magruder and Guy S. Claire, The Constitution; Henry Johnson, An Introduction to the History of Social Sciences; Ernest Hemingway, Winner Take Nothing; Charles A. Beard, A Charter for the Social Sciences; Kenneth Graham, The Wind in the Willows; Franklin H. Giddings, Civilization and Society; Arthur Todd, Industry and Society.

QUICK ACTION NECESSARY

The state Supreme Court has twice held the tax enabling act passed by the legislature to be unconstitutional. The bill as passed by the legislature was meant to relieve the tax situation by permitting the state to pay the interest and sinking fund indebtedness of counties, cities, and districts. In invalidating the act the court followed the plain language of the constitutional provision prohibiting the extension of credit to subdivisions. It reduced the situation to a very simple explanation when it said: "It should be no more unfair to require a man's neighbors to help pay his debts than to require numerous communities to pay the debts of a particular one."

For the schools this decision means that each of the school districts as organized prior to July, 1933, must be responsible for all its indebtedness. There can be no shifting of debts to the state. All debts must be paid before taxes can be used for current or future expenses. Most of these districts are now so deeply in debt that to levy enough taxes to pay the indebtedness would make a total levy equal to or above the limit of taxation as provided for in the classification amendment to the state constitution. Consequently there are no funds to continue the schools unless aid be given from some source.

The legislature must form some new act that will give the best possible solution to the problem and do it as quickly as possible. The people of the state expect the legislature to work out a method to raise revenue to conduct the schools and local state governments.

A plan must be made to keep the schools going. Regardless of whatever else fails or wherever else curtailment is made, there must be no break in the school program. Economy by restriction of education is necessarily false economy. Such economy is not one to be spoken of lightly. It is one to be faced because it is already in progress and has already been accomplished to a degree.

A completely new approach must be made to the problem. The situation has reached an urgent stage. Already teachers salaries are far in arrears. Prompt action is needed and must be forthcoming.

BACON AGAIN

Walter Winchell, answering a query over the radio Sunday night, stated that Arthur Brisbane gets the modest yearly salary of some $262,000 plus (we cannot recall the exact amount). The tidy little sum paid Arthur Brisbane, and we might go so far as to say he does not seem "so hot," ought to be some index to the opportunity offered in the field of journalism. What Walter Lippmann, Frank R. Kent, W. O. McGeehan (who died recently) and others of such rank receive in salaries one does not know, but doubtless their salaries will not suffer in comparison with the munificent ones paid teachers these days, at least.

Francis Bacon is the author of the frequently quoted statement that, "Reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man, and writing an exact man." Possibly no one will dispute the truth of his observation and yet few students take his exelicit advice.

Year after year, we see the students here at Glenville Teachers College shunning, just so far as the flexibility of the curriculum will permit, courses that will train them in these three acquirements. Reading for background is almost unknown among the students. As a usual thing, only that reading necessary to meet the requirements of courses in literature is done. Public speaking, in so far as it includes the writing and delivering of original orations, commands a following of perhaps a bare half-dozen out of three to four hundred students. Journalism, a course that can lead directly to a career, the success of which need be limited only by the ability and industry of the student, can muster scarcely enough students to warrant its being kept on the schedule. The profession of journalism offers a wide field from which anyone with the desire and ability to write may choose—reportorial, criticism, editorial, sports, and the like.

Any student will find an extensive literary background and the ability to talk and write well of inestimable value to him, no matter what work he may choose for his profession.

"Lynchings increased 180 per cent in 1933. Admirers of Governor Rolph call him 'the boy who made good,'" says the New Yorker. And, by the way, did we miss Will Rogers' comment on the San Jose massacre or did he have writer's cramp on the day of it?

The Hawaiian flight was "routine," the Navy says. So is convening of Congress in January, and on routine maps Japan is west of the islands.

Economically, Europe may be better. But morally—No!

LIFE IN A MANSE

Mrs. Town Gossip would have it that the minister's daughter is the very worst girl in town. Perhaps she does not notice other girls because they are not supposed to be leading a life of sanctified retirement. Especially in a small town, it seems as though the whole minister's family is under the protection of the whole community. One in such a position does not only have to be careful about what not to do, but what to do. There are many things expected of a minister's daughter and many responsibilities are placed upon her. Even if she were quite an unusual person, it would be hard to fill all the requirements.

She must, of course, go to church every Sunday and fill whatever vacancy there happens to be. If some Sunday School teachers are absent, she will be a substitute. If the church organist is not there on time or is out of town, the minister's daughter is expected to play in her place without practice. Whether she can sing or not, she is supposed to be in the choir when she is not doing something else. She must try to fit in any place at any time she is needed.

Since a minister should be liked, his daughter must be pleasant to every one or at least every one who is affiliated with the church. She has to be agreeable with people whether she wants to or not and must try not to look too bored or bored out by being too agreeable. She will soon learn to take plenty of criticism and after several years of experience will learn to take it so graciously that she will even thank people for it and believe that she is sincere.

A minister's daughter often times has to try to make over her personality. Her general attitude must be dignified and reserved, not haughty. She should be careful of the friends she chooses when she is given a chance to do the choosing. Just being a minister's daughter makes a difference in who the friends are because some people cannot stand the strain of being around a model whose butterfly sleeves may be mistaken for sprouting wings. The older people think it would be the very thing for their children to have the minister's daughter for an associate. This interest is not always shared by the younger set who stand up for their own personal liberties.

When every thing else seems to be going smoothly, there are mistakes of the rest of the family that must be covered up. If the seven-year-old brother tells every one he wants to be a robber when he grows up, it must be explained his desire must have come from a "movie" and not from home training.

Being a minister's daughter is a good opportunity for one to learn how to meet situations, and that means, after all, just being able to take it a little harder on the chin and like it. Her home is the stopping place of missionaries, book agents, and bums. She meets all kinds of people and learns to do all kinds of things. All this experience might furnish many interesting tales later when she is more able to appreciate it.

Cottle Leads Intramural Scoring

Harold Cottle, captain and center of the Polar Bears, is the leading scorer of the intramural league to date, having counted 11 field goals and a foul for 23 points in two games. Close upon his heels are Charles ("Wimpy") Karnes, giant Yankee forward, with 22 points, and Barrett, a guard on the same team with 20. Other leading scorers include Floyd, Dodgers, 15; Taylor, Hilltoppers, 14; Lopez, Hilltoppers, 12; Primm, Yankees, and Garrett and Stalnaker, Dodgers, 11 each, and Starcher, Giants, 10.

Two Princes Die

Solution of the murder of the "two little princes" in the Tower of London in 1483 and confirmation of Shakespeare's idea that Henry VII did not kill them followed the recent exhumation and study of their bones. With permission of King George, English scientists made known that Edward, Prince of Wales, and Richard, Duke of York, aged 12 and 9, went to the bloody Tower, not to prepare for Edward's coronation, but to be smothered to death by their hunchbacked uncle, Richard III.

Richard III was about 8 years old when his brother, Edward IV, began to rule as King of England. Thus from the time Richard was a child, he had hopes of being king, but his hopes were shattered when Edward married and had two children, Princes Edward and Richard.

After his brother's death, Richard III, then in reality Duke of Gloucester, became Lord High Admiral of England under the young King Edward V. Slowly the king's uncle grew more and more powerful until finally Edward V was entirely in Richard's hands. Then one day, Richard seized the throne and cast his nephews in the Tower.

Princes Are Smothered

At this time King Richard was compelled to go north because of some trouble there. Before he left, he made provisions for the death of the little boys after he was safely out of London. According to his orders, two men were sent into the cell where Edward and Richard were sleeping. These men suddenly threw the bed-clothes over the boys and succeeded in smothering them to death. Immediately a grave was dug, just outside the door at the foot of the stairs which led to the turret in which the children had been confined.

When the king heard the news, he was pleased but expressed some dissatisfaction at the manner in which the bodies had been done away with. "They should have not been buried," he said, "in so vile a corner."

Charles IV Reburied Princes

The bodies were then dug up and re-interred in a more suitable way. The priest who reburied them soon died without revealing the place which he chose for burial. Therefore, it was never known until recently where the bodies were finally laid. This fact worried Richard III greatly for he realized that to make a public funeral would prevent false acclamations to the throne in the future. It was very coincidental that a short time afterwards, Richard's own son died. During the reign of Charles IV, some workmen, who were repairing the Tower, found the Princes' bones which were immediately sealed in a stone urn and placed in Westminster Abbey.

Recently these facts were made known: King Edward V had bad teeth, and a blood stain across his face bone proves that he was struck severely. The lacrimal bone of one of the boys was abnormal, suggesting that he cried a great deal. The structure of their bones proves the ages of the boys when they were murdered. This makes a conclusive fact that they met death through Richard III and not Henry VII, English scientists say.

Reference is made to the plot against the two Princes in Act III, Scene I, of "King Richard III" by Shakespeare. In this scene, the Duke of Gloucester, afterwards, Richard III, orders the princes to be placed in the Tower to await what they believe is their coronation, but in reality, their execution. Here is brought out the fact that the princes were entirely unaware of the enmity which their uncle had towards them.

According to Jacob Abbot in his "The History of King Richard the Third, King of England," King Richard, known commonly in history as Richard the Usurper, was perhaps as bad a man as the principle of hereditary sovereignty ever raised to the throne. He was made reckless, unscrupulous, and cruel by the influences which surrounded him.

Dances at End for Semester

No more social functions will be held this semester, according to Miss Margaret Dobson, chairman, of the social committee. Union revival meetings are being held by the Glenville churches and will probably continue for two more weeks. The College is not planning any more parties during this time.

PIONEERS DEFEAT SLIPPERY ROCK

Lose to Waynesburg 30-50
and to Westminster
24-56 Abroad

The Glenville Pioneers won one and lost two games in their annual jaunt into western Pennsylvania, Jan. 4, 5, and 6.

On the first night they lost to the Waynesburg College cagers 53-30. Rab Currie and Wettle Mancuso led the Jackets' attack with 23 points between them, while Sappington was high for the Pioneers with 14.

The next night a fighting Glenville team rallied in the closing minutes of a frantic game to win from the Slippery Rock Teachers, 35-31. Bob Combs, lanky Pioneer forward, tied for high scoring honors with 11 points apiece. The score was tied at 29 with three minutes to play, baskets by Combs, Sappington, and Pyles offsetting the two free throws made by Capt. Patnik.

The following night the tired Pioneers wilted after leading Westminster by a 7-4 count in the first 10 minutes to loose 24-56. Capt. Douglass and Bennett were outstanding for the victors, while Pierce played well for Glenville.

Y. M. FIVE TRIMS GASSAWAY

Matheny Stars For Locals With 19 Points

The Glenville Y. M. C. A. basketball team defeated the Gassaway Y. M. C. A. five, Jan. 6, on the G. S. T. C. floor, 61-30. Lloyd Matheny, at forward, was the star for the locals, tossing 8 field goals and 3 fouls to win high scoring honors with 19 points. Chabut and K. Cottle each got 11 points. Miller and H. Cottle, at the guard positions, played crack floor games.

Sargent, far away for the visitors and led his team in scoring with 13 points.

INTRAMURAL TEAMS PLAYING

Dodgers and Yankees Each Win Two Games

The intramural basketball season opened Jan. 3, at the College gymnasium with Haught's Dodgers winning over Metheny's Hilltoppers, 30-22, and Harold Cottle's Bears swamping Nachman's Fleas, 31-10. The following night Smyth's Bulls lost to Jones' Giants, 14-31, and Martino's Bakers, although losing 18-22 to Cutlip's Dribblers in the regular game, won 2-0 through forfeit when the Dribblers used an ineligible man.

On Jan. 8, the Dodgers led by Capt. Haught defeated the Bears 22-18 after trailing 9-12 at half time. In the second game Eison's Yankees trounced Willis White's Cowboys 25-16. Tuesday night saw the Yanks again victorious, this time the Hilltoppers being the victims by a score of 17-40. The Fleas defeated the Bulls in the second game 30-19 but the game will have to be played over as both teams used ineligible men.

Charles ("Fats") Wilson was appointed director of the league by Coach Natus Rohrbough, physical education supervisor.

WINS 3 PRE-SEASON GAMES

Glenville Defeats Richwood, Spencer, and Alumni Teams

The Glenville Pioneers won three pre-season games during the Christmas holidays, defeating the Richwood Indies, Spencer All-Stars, and the Alumni on successive nights. Dec. 27, they journeyed to Richwood and won, 35-18. Sappington, with 17 points, and Combs, with nine, led the scoring. Capt. Porterfield and Rex Pyles starred defensively.

On the following night they defeated the Spencer All-Stars at Spencer, 43-23. D'Orazio, a sub forward, led the scoring with 12 points.

On Dec. 29, the Alumni, led by Harold Burke and Lindell, gave the Pioneers a real scare before they were nosed out 42-39. Burke and Lindell led the Alumni offense with 24 points between them, while Sappington scored 14 for the College five.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Currey, Clarksburg, on Jan. 13. The parents are G. T. C. alumni.

So important is the handling of Turkish tobacco in making Chesterfield cigarettes that Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co., maintains this specially equipped plant right in the heart of the famous Smyrna tobacco section.

It is the largest and most modern tobacco factory in the Near East.

Turkish tobacco, you know, is the best "seasoning" there is for cigarettes. At all times Chesterfield has in storage—at this plant and in America—about 350,000 bales of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco.

GOVERNMENT IS AHEAD OF BOOKS

Instructors in Social Sciences Find Difficulty in Bringing Studies up to Date

"The problem confronting the teacher of the social sciences today is bringing the textbook discussions of the workings and functions of our departments, bureaus and agencies of government up to date," was the statement made recently by A. E. Harris of the department of social science. To accomplish this purpose, the classes in economics and government here at Glenville State Teachers College will study this week the character, scope, and workings of the N. R. A.

As a guide for this study, an outline called "A Primer of the New Deal" written by E. E. Lewis, professor of education at Ohio State University in collaboration with forty others and published the past fall, is being used. So rapidly are affairs moving these days that current magazine articles and the daily papers will be used to supplement the study in order to bring it up to the last minute.

"In the case of new and experimental policies such as we are trying at present," said Mr. Harris, "such a study is chiefly a matter of presenting actual materials without offering interpretations or coloring them with personal opinion."

The Social Science Club, is following the same outline in its programs for a part of this and next semester. Mr. Harris is adviser to the Social Science Club.

FOOTBALL SEASON REVIEWED

1933 Pioneer Statistics Open to One's Interpretation

The synthesis that may be constructed from statistics—elusive in football as in the minds of our shrewdest politicians—concerning the 1933 Pioneer season depends on individual interpretation. Thus, it is perhaps best to let the individual interpret.

Defeating Appalachian and Morris Harvey, losing to Slippery Rock, Concord, Salem, and Wesleyan, and tying West Liberty, the Pioneers scored 95 points to their opponents' 113. But in the number of first downs made Glenville had the advantage of 88 to 67. Their offense surpassed their defense, and in the Slippery Rock and Salem games played here the colorfulness with which they scored ought to have eased the pains of defeat.

Carlos Ratliff not only did the passing, punting, and considerable tackling, but led in individual scoring with five touchdowns. The scoring was:

Player	TD	EXPTS.	T
Ratliff	5	0	30
Morford	3	0	18
Martino	2	0	12
Porterfield	0	9 (safety)	11
Combs	1	0	6
Pyles	1	0	6
Jones	1	0	6
Guest	1	0	6
	14	9	95

Five regulars of the season past—Morford, Ratliff, Pyles, Elmsom, and Porterfield—will not be with the 1934 squad, and what freshmen may enter to replace the men who will replace them is not yet known. The past season gave more experience to more members of the squad than has any for several years. While the 1934 team may not be seasoned, it has at least been under fire.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Jarvis and son of Weston spent Saturday evening with Miss Mary Eileen Jarvis. They attended the Glenville-Morris Harvey game.

Mrs. K. N. Sappington and son Kenneth, and Mr. and Mrs. Silas Combs of Clarksburg attended the Glenville-Morris Harvey game.

Porterfield on U. P. Grid Team

Harold ("Tootie") Porterfield, star end on the Pioneer football eleven for the past four seasons, was honored with a position at left end on the 1933 All-State Collegiate team selected recently by the United Press. Gordon Elmsom was placed at left tackle on the second eleven.

PIONEER BARRAGE BLASTS EAGLES

Morris Harvey Defeated 61-38 by Fine Shooting of Sappington, Et. Al.

Glenville's Pioneers opened their home season Saturday by burying the Golden Eagles of Morris Harvey under a barrage of field goals to win 61-38. Field goals by Combs and Sappington gave the Pioneers a 4-0 lead at the beginning of the game and they were not behind from then on. The Pioneers led at half-time 38-19.

Neill Sappington, center, was high point man of the evening, tossing nine field goals and two fumbles for 20 points. Howard Rutter, a former Parkersburg High star, staged a one-man show for the visitors and led his team in scoring with 18 points. Bob Combs and Rex Pyles, forwards, played excellent floor games and also did their share of scoring. Capt. Porterfield played his usual strong game before he retired early in the second half on personals as did Sappington a few minutes later. Tommy Pierce, stellar guard, who did not start but entered the game later, gave the fans a real treat in some superb defensive work.

Forbes and Kelley, along with Rutter, were outstanding for the Golden Eagles.

SHIRLEY MORTON, '26, WEDS

Bride of Nicholas County Superintendent Is Teacher

Miss Ruth Rader and Shirley Morton, a graduate of the College, were married on Christmas Day. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Morton left for Washington, D. C., for a short trip.

Mrs. Rader is a graduate of Union College, Kentucky, and at present is a member of the faculty of Nicholas County High School. Mr. Morton, graduate of Nicholas County High School, received his standard normal diploma at Glenville State Teachers College in 1926. He attended West Virginia University and the University of Chicago. Since 1932 he has been superintendent of the Nicholas County schools.

White Speaks on "New Deal"

H. Laban White, of the education department, discussed "The New Deal" at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club last Thursday.

POTOMAC TO PLAY HERE ON FRIDAY

After Waynesburg Game Jan. 23 Pioneers Will Leave Glenville for Trip

The Catamounts of Potomac State College will be the opponents of the Pioneers in their second home engagement of the 1934 season on Friday, Jan. 19. Little is known of the strength of the Catamounts except that their victory over the Alderson-Broadbent College five the other night by a 43-26 count marks them as dangerous rivals, and the Rohrbough clan is preparing for a hard contest.

On Tuesday, Jan. 23, Waynesburg will invade the lair of the Pioneers. Having defeated the Pioneers 53-30 on their own court, the visitors will be the favorites to win. The power of the big Wolfe-coached machine does not dampen the spirit of the fighting Teachers and they expect to put up a battle.

The Pioneers will leave Wednesday, Jan. 24, on their annual trip into southern West Virginia. They play Morris Harvey, Thursday, Jan. 25 at Barboursville; New River State at Montgomery on Friday, Jan. 26; and Concord's Mountain Lions on Saturday night, Jan. 27, at Athens.

The Tigers of Salem College will meet the Pioneers here on Tuesday, Jan. 30. Last year, with Hines, Vass, Hackney, Lindell, and Burke in the lineup, the Pioneers swamped the Salem team 60-20. The game this year is expected to be much closer and interesting as the two teams are evenly matched.

Pioneers Lose In Extra Period To Wesleyan, 44-46

banked one in from side court and Sappington tipped in another to tie the score 40-40. Barnum threw one in from the side. With seconds left until the end of the game Pyles practically brought the house down as he sank one from mid-court to tie the score at 42 as the game ended.

Brown opened the extra period with a long one and a moment later G. DeBar, who had come back into the game, pushed another one in. Porterfield shot one almost three-quarters the length of the floor in the dying moments of the extra period and further scoring efforts by the desperate Pioneers were thwarted by the equally desperate Bobcats.
