

PIONEERS BATTLE PENNSYLVANIANS HERE TOMORROW

Game to Feature Home-coming
Celebration and Stadium
Dedication

ROCKETS ARE STRONG

Squad in Good Shape for What Promises to Be Biggest Contest of Year

Coach A. F. Rohrbough's Pioneers will entertain the Slippery Rock Rockets at Rohrbough Field tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. The game will be the feature attraction of the Home-Coming celebration. It will mark the second time that the Pennsylvania teachers have offered the Pioneers opposition on Home-coming Day.

Coach Rohrbough has spent the entire week smoothing out the rough spots so evident in the Fairmont encounter last week. The squad will enter the game in first class condition. Jones, half-back, is the only member of the squad who will not be in uniform. Sheppard, Howes, Callahan, and Vannoy are expected to be in shape for this tussle, after being held out of action last week because of injuries.

The Pioneers will take the field with practically the same line-up that started in the Salem and Fairmont games.

Miss James Returns to Classes

Miss Goldie Claire James, instructor in biology in the College, returned to her classes Thursday morning after having been a patient in the Union Protestant hospital in Clarksburg since Sunday. She entered the hospital for observation and treatment for acid stomach. E. Grose, instructor, and Lowell Snyder, student laboratory assistant, were in charge of Miss James' work during her absence.

President E. G. Rohrbough

A WELCOME MESSAGE TO HOME-COMING DAY VISITORS

Glenville State Teachers College extends to all its alumni and other friends sincere greetings. May the fifth annual Home-coming Day be a big event and bring to us all new friends and friendships. As president of the College, I am happy to welcome our visitors, all of whom, I hope, will be made to feel at home.

Signed

E. G. ROHRBOUGH.

WILL BE CHAPEL SPEAKER TUESDAY

Dr. Hutchison, President of W. J. College, to Address Student Body

Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, president of Washington and Jefferson College, Little Washington, Pa., will address the College students and faculty at a special chapel program Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The program will take the place of the chapel exercises for Wednesday.

Dr. Hutchison, president of Washington and Jefferson College since 1931, is a graduate of Harvard University and the University of Pennsylvania. He was professor of philosophy and religion in the American College of Theology in 1925 and was ordained as a Presbyterian minister in 1922. He is a personal friend of Curtis Baxter, English instructor in the College.

Y. M. INITIATES 9 MEMBERS

Also Completes Election of Officers and Committee Appointments

Nine College students were made members of the Young Men's Christian Association at a meeting held Wednesday night in the Y. M. C. A. room. The members were selected from a group of fourteen pledges whose names were filed two weeks ago.

Officers of the Y. M. C. A., as announced at the meeting Wednesday night are: President, Dewitt Moyers; vice-president, Kenneth Boggs; secretary-treasurer, Jason Meadows; corresponding secretary, James Jones. Frank Cooper has been selected to represent the group on the College social committee. A committee on membership includes Roy Byrd and Albert Piercy.

The nine new members include Milfred Meadows, Birk Lowther, John Shreve, Robert Shreve, Kenneth Hylbert, Layke Smith, Damon Starcher, James Moore and Carol Greathouse. The five remaining pledges will be initiated at the next meeting, Oct. 30. Other meetings will follow fortnightly.

Social Science Club Plans Float

At a called meeting of the Social Science Club Tuesday evening, arrangements were made to enter a float, representative of the club and its work, in the Home-coming Day parade. The next meeting will be Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in Room 106. Elizabeth de Gruyter, president, will preside.

FRESHMAN "BONNETS" TO PREDOMINATE ON THE CAMPUS

The leaves may come, turn their color and go, but the little blue and white freshman caps and tams will soon be here to stay.

Those little freshman boys—and the big ones, too—yes, and even the first-year co-eds will soon be trotting over the campus and through the halls, wearing the standard insignia.

Russell Hogue, president of the Freshman Class, says the first-year students would like to have had their new "bonnets" for Home-coming Day, but the order could not be prepared in time. He says the new "head-gear" will be here soon, however.

Decision to wear blue and white caps and tams was reached at a meeting of the freshmen in the College auditorium, Thursday, Oct. 10. The Student Council gave its hearty approval.

PRES. ROHRBOUGH URGES HARD WORK

Speaks in Chapel on Need of Students Making Class Preparations

"Work, and work hard, effectively and systematically," President E. G. Rohrbough urged in a chapel address Wednesday.

"Careful preparation at the beginning of the semester is the most important thing in getting off to a good start," he said, and added: "It is also important that students prepare now for the 'short mid-semester conference,' when all are invited into the office to check over their work."

President Rohrbough said that students should begin working early in the semester. Rarely, if ever, he stated, is a student able to loaf through most of a semester and then get in all his work in the two or three weeks preceding final examinations. He said he would almost guarantee that ninety percent of the students who study systematically, keep out of meanness and work hard, will pass their courses in the College.

Among the students who attended the Fairmont-Pioneer game at Fairmont Saturday, were: Isadore Nachman, Madison Whiting, Fred Smith, Don Mills, John Barnett, Paul Risichel, Earl Rogers, Paul Cutlip, Albert Lilly, Robert Davies, and Helen Magnuson.

POMP AND PAGEANTRY WILL FEATURE HOME-COMING DAY PROGRAM HERE TOMORROW

CHAPEL CUTTER'S REVERIE

Wham! Crack!! Ouch!!!
Oh, how that swat did burn.
No more missing chapel for me.
I'll be there from now on and I don't mean maybe.

President Rohrbough must have been right when he suggested in chapel Wednesday that those big wooden paddles being carried around on the campus might be used to good advantage.

Hundreds of Alumni to Visit City — Guests of College

LONG PARADE PLANNED

Football Game, Reception and Dance Are Main
Events

Hundreds of alumni, their families and friends will gather here tomorrow for the fifth annual Home-coming Day at Glenville State Teachers College.

An elaborate entertainment program to include a half-mile long parade, a football game, reception and dance and numerous other activities will begin unfolding at 10:30 a. m. and continue until a late hour at night. A brief formal dedication ceremony will be held at the new College stadium immediately preceding the classic grid battle.

Fifteen or more local stores and shops will have their windows decorated as an added touch to the home-coming spirit. Three judges, Miss Margaret Christie, Miss Virginia Boggs and Mrs. Raymond R. Freed will visit stores entered in the decorating contest, will select the most outstanding window and award the customary prize—complimentary tickets to the game.

Colorful Parade

The colorful parade to be headed by a state police escort and the Calhoun County High School thirty-four piece band will form at 10 a. m. in front of the College gymnasium and take its course to Court College and Main streets and on to Lewis and then back to the campus.

More than a score of units will be entered in the spectacular line of march. The Gilmer County Band, nattily attired in new resplendent maroon and white uniforms, will be centered somewhere back of the state police escort.

A short motorcade carrying President E. G. Rohrbough, Dean H. Laban White, president of the West Virginia State Education Association, Earl R. Boggs, president of the Alumni Association, and others will precede the marching units.

Lloyd Metheny, president of the Student Council and the 1935-36 Pioneer, will ride in an old-fashioned cart drawn by a yoke of red oxen, symbolic of the days of long ago. Following the ox cart, will come the dragon, symbol of Slippery Rock College. Miss Alma Arbuckle will be marshal of the parade and will have assisting her twelve honorary marshals, including Birk Lowther, Kermit Grose, Thomas Pentony, Jack Elder, Vorley Rexroad, Don Mills, Richard McKinney, Robert Kiddle, Chando O'Dell, Lloyd Smith, Kenneth Boggs, Millard Cunningham, Goff Giboney, J. E. Weaver, Donald Young, Newton Cooper, William Hamilton, Bertchel Kittle, David Hought, and Lloyd Elliott. Miss Arbuckle will be mounted on a high-stepping sorrel riding horse. All honorary marshals will wear blue paper (Continued on page 6)

Miss Coral May Gulentz, of Verona Mapci Hall, spent the week-end at the home of her parents in Philippi. She attended the Glenville-Fairmont football game at Fairmont.

KRYL'S SYMPHONY WELL RECEIVED

Concert Marks Opening of the College Artists' Course for 1935-36

(By M. W.)

Bohumir Kryl and his symphony band opened the 1935-36 College artists' course Wednesday night, Oct. 9.

The instrumental program, perhaps the best of its kind ever presented here, attracted a large audience which almost packed the auditorium. Always appreciative, the audience responded to all numbers with enthusiasm and in turn received numerous encores.

Kryl himself proved his showmanship by blending art and entertainment sufficiently to win respect of the serious music lovers and amuse the casual listeners. Especially popular were the lighter numbers played as encores.

Patriarchal in Appearance

Patriarchal in appearance, Kryl's directing was dominated by his grace and his success in bringing forth such excellent responses from the various ensembles. He lacked nothing in color and vigor. Playing as a cornet solo his famous "Carnaval de Venice," he proved himself worthy of being called the successor to Levy. The other soloists, Josephine Kryl White, violin; Ruth Templeman, harp; and Nell Kinard, soprano, were exceptionally talented.

The symphonic suite of Rimsky-Korsakow was the most vividly interpreted work of the evening. Especially was this true in the movement during the storm at sea, when one could easily see the waves dashing against the vessel.

TEACHERS HEAR DEAN H. L. WHITE

res. Rohrbough Also Speaks at Central West Virginia's Roundtable

"What this country needs today an intelligent, moral, skillful and voted teacher in every classroom," Dean H. Laban White, president of the State Education Association, declared Friday in the opening general session of the Central West Virginia Teachers' Roundtable at Grantsville. Dean White used as his subject "Hold Fast That Which is Good." Between 800 and 1,000 teachers and others attended the two-day meeting. Truslow Waldo, '35, of Grantsville, was elected president of the roundtable to succeed C. H. Cony. Mr. Waldo teaches in the Calumet county schools. Two other officers, W. W. Lovell, secretary, of Patton, and Gilbert Reed, treasurer, Flatwoods, are alumni of the College. Gassaway was selected as the 1936 meeting place.

New Trends in Education
Pointing out new trends in education and summarizing some of the principles of the old, Dean H. L. White spoke at length in a manner that discouraged the casting aside of many fundamental educational principles in order to make way for the new. He said:

"The topic 'Hold Fast That Which Good' resulted largely from reading questionnaire replies from more than 800 teachers, principals, superintendents and others in the state. They were to be found noticeably frequent recurrences of the words 'new and progressive' in such cases as 'the new citizenship,' 'the new education,' 'a new deal in education,' 'modern education,' 'a new future via the public schools,' 'new structures in education,' 'new uses of radio in education' and 'new parts for old,' with the implication that nothing can be progressive unless it is modern, up-to-date or for tomorrow. It seems to be taken for granted that new and progressive are the same. Is this assumption correct? Do ideas, ideals and methods wear out the same as our clothing, and so have to be replenished every so often?"

Novelty a Fetish
"Does a thing necessarily have to be new to be progressive?" he asked. "They may go together, and very often do; but are they inseparable? Would seem that there has grown some confusion between novelty, desirability and also between change and improvement. Novelty becomes almost a fetish.

"One recent writer on educational philosophy says that we seem to be more interested in tactics than we are in strategy, or, in non-military language, we are more concerned with technique and equipment than with the results to be effected. Did you ever notice, for instance, in our cards for standardizing schools, how much provision is made for things material and how little comparatively for things immaterial?"

Refinements of Method
Dean White further asked: "Has the work of teaching become more personal than it used to be, and if so, is it for the better? Have the refinements of method confused rather than helped the rank and file of teachers? After all, it is not what scientists and experts know but what the teachers do that counts in the outcome of education. Has practice kept pace with theory? If so, how can the two be brought together? Is it true, as some allege, that our socialized methods have added rather than engendered anti-social attitudes in the pupils?" He concluded his talk with these quotations from Thorndike and John Locke: Thorndike—"That nature which lets incapables teach it, lets the capable men and women be fed, or clothed or amused it, is admitting intellectual and moral suicide." John Locke—"The School which has good teachers needs little more, and the school without good teachers will be little better for anything else."

President Rohrbough Speaks
President E. G. Rohrbough was present at the roundtable sessions Saturday and spoke briefly, as did H. Y. Clark, of the education department. Others from the College to attend were: Miss Willa Brand, who spoke Saturday morning on "The Need of an English Syllabus for the High School Course," Dr. J. C. Shreve, Carey Woofter, Robert T. Crawford and Linn Hickman. Miss Ivy Lee Myers was scheduled to speak to the grade teachers but became ill Friday and was unable to go.

Several former students and graduates of the College were on the program during the two-day meeting. Among them were: W. E. Hull, Glenville; Barrett Johnson, Leatherwood, Braxton county; Carl B. Hamric, Richwood; Carl K. McGinnis, Glenville; W. W. Lovell, Sutton; and Gilbert Reed, Flatwoods. State Superintendent of Schools W. W. Trent, Dr. M. P. Shawky, A. J. Gibson, Dr. Richard Aspinall and a score or more of high school principals and county superintendents were also on the two-day program.

Miss Louise Gainer, '28, of Sand Fork, and Charles E. Riddle, of Burnsville, were married September 14 at Grafton. Mrs. Riddle teaches in the Sand Fork public school.

George White, '35, son of H. Laban White, dean of Glenville State Teachers College, is employed by the National Youth Administration as filing and statistical clerk in the Charleston offices.

MRS. STANARD IS GUEST SPEAKER

Depicts Conditions at State Industrial Home for Girls

The best remedy for misbehavior is work, Mrs. Ava Stanard, '08, superintendent of the Girls' Industrial Home at Salem, declared in a chapel address here Wednesday, Oct. 10.

Depicting conditions at the girls' home, over which she has had supervision the past few years, Mrs. Stanard pointed out that the institution was overcrowded and that during recent months there has been an alarming increase in the number of delinquencies reported. She said the reason for the increasing crime wave among girls of the state was not known and added that she thought the repeal of prohibition was not responsible, but rather the general economic conditions. She said she thought the repeal of prohibition had had little effect on the delinquency problem.

She said the Industrial Home was so crowded that each time a new girl was admitted a home for one of the other girls had to be found. She pointed out some of the interesting work done at the institution and particularly the advancement along educational lines. Many of the girls, she said, are now receiving high school training.

Mrs. Stanard said she wanted to make the institution one the state would be proud of and that she was exerting every effort to so conduct the home that girls could come there for help, training and advice and then be able to go out into the world and take their places in society. She condemned present society for not being willing "to give a girl a chance," once she had fallen by the wayside and perhaps been forced to spend time in a correctional institution.

Frank Cain, '27, an assistant relief administrator at Pt. Pleasant, was visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Cain, in South Glenville, last week.

Samuel Wiant, '35, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wiant, of Burnsville, has accepted a position, effective Nov. 1, in the gasoline laboratory of the Equitable Gas Company at Rogersville, Pa.

There will be a thuse meeting at 7:00 o'clock tonight in the gymnasium.

WELCOME HOME, ALUMNI!

Saturday is Home-coming Day in Glenville.

Again the College and the Alumni Association unites in welcoming back home all graduates, their families and friends.

Hundreds of alumni and other friends of the College will be here Saturday for the fifth annual Home-coming Day. A splendid program has been planned. Activities have been arranged to include something of interest for each visitor. The day is to be a big event—one of the big events of the year.

Coming back home after a year's absence, seeing old friends, making new ones and having a great time participating in the day's program certainly will go down in history as one day well spent.

Alumni, the College welcomes you and is only too happy to have you back once again. The College is still a part of you. Certainly the same old friendly spirit prevails. There is a place for all alumni on Saturday's program. Alumni, fit yourselves in. Make the day your day. Ask for consideration—the students will grant it, for they, too, are happy to see you.

The people of Glenville, whether connected with the College or not, are glad to have you back. They remember you—the many friendly relations that have existed—the many times they have been permitted to serve you and assist you. Go to see them while you are here. Don't overlook a single friend. We'll help you if you can't find them.

A parade has been planned for you. There will be a classic football game in the afternoon, chiefly for your entertainment. Then in the evening there will be a reception and dance. Don't miss a single event. Be there and bring your friends. Have a good time and don't let anything stand in your way. Remember, alumni, we are at your service.

CONGRATULATIONS, MR. WALDO!

The election of Truslow Waldo as president of the Central West Virginia Teachers' Roundtable speaks well for Glenville State Teachers College. Mr. Waldo, a native of Grantsville, Calhoun county, is a graduate of the College, having received his A. B. degree here last spring.

Active as a teacher in the Calhoun county public schools and prominent in campus activities while a student here, Mr. Waldo has formed a wide acquaintance, as was exemplified by the overwhelming vote he received during the closing general session of this year's roundtable meeting.

The College is to be further congratulated for having two other alumni as officers of the roundtable organization. W. W. Lovell, secretary, and Gilbert Reed, treasurer, are both graduates of the College. Mr. Reed, a native of Glenville, has been treasurer of the organization since its inception four years ago.

The Mercury extends congratulations to Mr. Waldo and joins the student body and faculty in wishing another of the alumni a happy and successful year.

THE COLLEGE CHEERLEADERS

When are the College cheerleaders to be selected? Also, how are they to be chosen?

Cheerleading is a science and a task which necessarily requires much training and practice. It is a study of human reaction. A good cheerleader must know the technique required to arouse a despondent crowd into cheering. He must know that if students and others are stimulated at the proper time a satisfactory reaction will be assured.

Cheerleading is an important part of any athletic contest. Cheerleaders deserve the same consideration as the men who represent the College on the football field, in the gymnasium or on the baseball diamond. They, the cheerleaders, devote their energies toward arousing school spirit and enthusiasm at the games. The players enjoy it, like it and feel its importance.

Rooters also demand that they have a commanding cheerleader or group of cheerleaders. Otherwise, they sit back and take it easy. West Point and Annapolis have the best cheerleaders in the country because of the long training they receive during their first year out for the squad. They are taught to appeal to their rooters rather than to demand a response. The same technique is applicable here.

Cheering at the Glenville-Salem game was better than the ordinary cheering. It was organized and was effectively done. We have plenty of candidates out for the cheerleader posts. Students, why not see to it that the best from the group of candidates are selected and that such selections are made immediately. And when and if they are selected, let us pledge them our united support.

THOSE FRESHMAN CAPS

The proper college spirit may be coming slowly, but it will eventually get here.

Just the other day the members of the Freshman Class assembled in the auditorium and voted to adopt a standard class insignia—the boys are to wear blue and white caps; the girls will wear blue and white berets.

Now the idea may seem just a trifle odd, or a bit peculiar. But it isn't. Freshmen, we feel that you have agreed to a little program which will attract more attention, give more wholesome enjoyment and add more college spirit than any one move which has been made here in years.

Let's get those caps and berets just as soon as possible. Our freshman rules are working to perfection. The Student Council is a going institution. Let's have the freshmen in the limelight for a while. In fact, we just wish we could have one of those little blue and white caps, or one of those blue and white berets.

Congratulations, Student Council. Congratulations, Freshman Class. We're for you.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Students preparing to teach and teachers already engaged in the profession were given food for thought in a talk by H. Y. Clark during the closing session of the Central West Virginia Teachers' Roundtable, held in Grantsville, Oct. 11 and 12.

"It seems to me," Mr. Clark said, "that teaching is more a question of how we teach than what we teach. Of course the instructor must know his subject matter thoroughly and must present it so as to be understood. But at the same time he must teach in such a manner as to provide for further learning."

These few statements should be remembered by all students in the College. Preparing to teach is serious business, but not nearly so serious as is the application of the principles learned while in college.

Learning subject matter comes natural to the student who has reached an institution of higher learning after long years in the grades and in high school. But the art of presenting subject matter in such a way as to make learning easier and more thorough for those on their way to college does not come easy. The student must acquire through his own skill, habits, attitudes and observation a satisfactory means of self-expression if he contemplates becoming a successful teacher.

Acquiring a proper means of self-expression is one of the many goals toward which students are permitted to work right here in Glenville State Teachers College.

WE WELCOME ALUMNI NEWS

The Mercury, founded here seven years ago, has consistently combined and directed its efforts for the good of the College. The paper is published by the students taking the course in journalism. Those enrolled in journalism, of course, must and will be given first consideration as to the greatest good to be derived from publishing the paper. However, we often wonder whether or not the student body, the faculty, alumni and friends of the College are not overlooking a good opportunity to serve themselves and better the College by taking a more active part in the affairs of the Mercury.

Students often have things to say which are of interest to the group at large. Members of the faculty often, perhaps have something to say which might benefit the student body and other members of the faculty. Why not use the Open Column as a means of expression. The Mercury invites contributions so long as they are well founded and are directed toward the accomplishment of some worthwhile objective.

Especially would we like to hear from the alumni. Students here, members of the faculty and friends who take the Mercury will always welcome news from old friends. A few lines about yourselves, alumni, may make interesting reading. Why not send us a little information concerning your work. Alumni notes need not be confined to the Open Column. The Mercury always has space for interesting news, which may or may not be run in any one column. We invite your suggestions and ask your cooperation.

Seeing Bohumir Kryl's symphony band crowded on the stage in the College auditorium the other night made us wonder whether or not it wouldn't be a good idea to start using a few improvements. At least the College does need a better stage in the auditorium and at least two or three modern dressing rooms, equipped with dressing tables, mirrors and possibly

"The Human Panther" — A Short Short Story by George Miller

(This is second and final installment of a story written by George Miller last year as an assignment in English 310, advanced composition. The first installment was published in this column last week. — The Editors)

Product of Imagination

While there were several who discounted Silas' story as the product of his imagination in a drunken stupor, there were many who gave it credit and claimed the beast was a thing supernatural. They cited instances when they had heard its cry from one hill top and then in another instant, a half mile away, they heard it again. No race horse, they said, could travel that fast. The less fearful male population, while discrediting the extraordinary stories, decided that something must be done to rid the territory of a panther running wild. So it was decided to organize a hunt.

On the day set for the hunt, men with their dogs and guns gathered at a selected place. There were many present, for many had come for a distance of ten or fifteen miles. All were anxious to solve the mystery of the human panther and put the countryside at rest. But the mystery was not to be solved that day nor for many days after. The dogs and men, after scouring the surrounding country for traces of the beast, returned a tired and bedraggled lot, without having seen even a panther track. The hunt was given up for the time being with the intention of renewing it some night after the beast had been heard. This failure of the hunt only increased the belief that the animal was not flesh and blood at all.

Assemble A Second Time

On the next dark night that showed signs of a storm brewing and indicated there would be no visible moon, a party of men assembled for a second time. After waiting for an hour or so, they were about ready to give up the attempt at killing the panther, when suddenly from over the low hill behind them came the familiar cry which brought a peculiar sensation up and down the spine of the stoutest-hearted among them. Loosing the dogs and picking up their loaded guns, they quickly made their way in the direction of the sound. By the time they had reached the place they again heard the cry a distance away, but to their surprise they found the dogs had started in the opposite direction. With great difficulty they succeeded in calling the dogs to them and in starting them in the direction from which the sound last came. The baying of the dogs was now mingled with the cries of the animal. Finally, the barking of the dogs showed that they had come to a halt. The men, coming up, found that they had stopped at the edge of a sink-hole, out of which a small stream, originating from a spring in the center, had cut its way. Here the hunters were again puzzled. They closed in, scattered around the sink-hole in a circle, many firing down into the hole as they came. But after the lines had come together there were no more signs of an animal than if the ground had swallowed it up. The hunters gave up a second time, disgusted that their quarry had eluded them. One or two old hunters agreed that their prey had escaped through the trees overhead by jumping from branch to branch. While they were thus speculating, there again came the cry of the hunted thing about a half mile away. But the hunt was over for the night, and there were many present who refused to go on another search for the human panther.

And so it was that the mystery

FRESHMAN CAPS

Welcome news has reached the ears of the upperclassmen at last. The Freshman Class met and decided to wear caps and tams and all of this was done on their own initiative. This all goes to prove the old theory that individuality of persons will dominate. The freshmen want people to know that they are still "green," and we don't blame them.

Up to this year when a modified system of freshman rules was adopted, first year students strode the campus with much more pomp and ceremony than their elder brothers. With the decision, announced by the Freshman Class president, last week, the first-year students are taking a step that will set them off from other members of the student body.

We are at last beginning to see the benefits of student government. One thing we must remember when we come to college is that our high school days are over. High school heroes are dead when we enter college. Our home folks may soon forget accomplishments, and we must get assured that our college mates don't care who or what we were. It is what we are now that really counts.

months with panthers' cries being heard at irregular intervals until finally there came the solution. Adam Steele, a young farmer of the village, was the one to finally clear up the mystery. He had been one who had always laughed at the idea of there being anything human about the panther. But after the episode of the sink-hole, he had come to reconstruct his ideas about the whole matter. No one had noticed him stoop at the edge of the stream and pick up a small green object. Afterward he had wondered whether or not if they had looked farther down the small stream, they would have found the lurking form crouching behind a tree or a log. A month or so later he called a neighbor, a middle aged man, aside and said, "Do you know that your sons are keeping the country alarmed about a panther which does not exist?"

The man, his face beginning to darken with anger at the accusation, said, "What do you mean by that?"

Steele took an object from his pocket. "On the night we chased the supposed panther into the sink-hole, I found this on the bank of the stream. It had been crushed under the feet of the men. After that I was not sure it was not a human panther after all. I was not sure, however, but had to remain silent until I could be sure it was not really a panther. The other day I came upon your boys with their knives cutting out something which they hastily hid behind them upon seeing me. But I had seen enough to know what it was. When I told them so, they confessed. They were taking pumpkin vines and nothing then so that when they blew on them they could imitate a panther's cry. They had discovered this accidentally. The scratches on the backs of the hogs, which had caused us all to board up our pens, the boys had made by tearing the hide with a garden rake. The fact that the panther could travel so fast is easily explained by the boys being on different hills, one giving the cry an instant after the other. This accounted for the dogs trailing in the opposite direction from the second sound."

THE HUMAN PANTHER" A SHORT SHORT STORY

Is Closest Call

"If what you say is so," said the dubious farmer, "how did it come that one of the boys wasn't shot that night in the sink-hole?"

"That was their closest call. The dogs trailed one of them to the edge of the stream where he took to the water so the dogs would lose his trail. The men along the edge of the stream were the last to close in, giving the boy a chance to slip through and crouch behind a sheltering rock until the chase was given up. No one thought to give a panther credit for losing his trail in the water. Several bullets whistled by the boy's head, however, before he was able to slip away and hide. The other boy's panther cry from the neighboring hill prevented further search that night."

"Old as they are, I'll skin them boys of mine," shouted the farmer.

"I'd rather you wouldn't mention it to the boys," Steele replied. "They've promised not to do the panther act any more. I told them I wouldn't let it out on them, but I thought I ought to tell you. If the cries are not heard again, the scare'll die down, and when the boys leave for school this fall we can tell how they fooled us all without some one wantin' to tar an' feather 'em. I wonder what the boys thought when they were sweatin' in the work of buildin' them boarded-up hog pens to keep them panthers out?"

New Books Added to Library

Several new books for children's literature have been added to the library. Some of them are: "Unrolling the Map," a story of exploration, by Leonard Outhwaite; "Paulo In the Chilean Desert," Margaret Thomas; "A Child Went Forth," Helen M. Doyle; "Chi-Wee," Grace Moore; "Dawn Bay of the Pueblos," Scott; "Bounce and the Business," Ruth Carrell; "Ho-Ming Girl of New China," Lewis.

Miss Maxine Bollinger, of Verona Mapel Hall, spent the week-end at her home in Weston.

Earl R. Boggs, above, principal of Glenville High School, is president of the Glenville State Teachers College Alumni Association. He will act as general chairman of the Home-coming Day activities.

3-ACT PLAY WILL BE GIVEN NOV. 21

Miss Dobson Selects Cast of Nine Students—Rehearsals in Progress

Miss Margaret Dobson, speech instructor in the College, announces that a three-act mystery play, "A Murder Has Been Arranged," will be presented in the College auditorium, Thursday, Nov. 21.

After a series of try-outs last week, a cast of nine members was selected from the student body at large. Those given parts are: Delores Morgan, Mary Eileen Jarvis, Armond Stalnaker, Julia Swiger, Eleanor Waggoner, Pauline Hammett, William Woodrow Wolfe, Thomas Pentony and De Witt Moyers.

The play, which will be the first to be given this year, concerns principally the death of Sir Charles Jasper.

The play opens with Sir Charles Jasper planning to give a dinner on the stage of Saint James' Theatre, London. This dinner is for the members of his family in observance of a weird anniversary. At 11 o'clock Sir Charles is to inherit two hundred pounds.

Many years before a man had been slain in the theatre; a daughter had appeared and the ghost of the murdered man had walked across the stage after the daughter's death so that the murderer was revealed. This, according to the prophecy, was to be repeated in fifty-five years. The zero hour fell on the night Sir Charles had everything arranged for his party.

Maurice Mullens, only near relative of Sir Charles, is to inherit the fortune in case Sir Charles dies prior to 11 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. James G. Kidwell of Pittsburgh, were guests this week at the home of Dean and Mrs. R. Laban White. Mrs. Kidwell who is a former Marion County teacher, is a cousin to Mr. George M. Ford, former state superintendent of schools. Mr. Kidwell is head of the Shipping department of the Continental Coal Company, with offices in Pittsburgh.

RIP COLLINS, of the St. Louis Cardinals: "Here's the best proof I know that Camels are mild—I can smoke them steadily, and they never get my wind or upset my nerves."

"THEY DON'T GET YOUR WIND" ATHLETES SAY

JAMES BAUSCH, Olympic Decathlon Champion, says: "I've been a Camel smoker for years. Camels are so mild they don't get my wind or cut down my speed. And Camel is a better-tasting cigarette; always rich, smooth, and mellow."

JENNIE ROONEY, famous circus aerialist, says: "Camels, being so mild, do not upset my nerves or get my wind. And Camels never give me any throat irritation."

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO

CHAMPIONS APPROVE Camel's mildness. Consider what this means. Healthy nerves—physical fitness—sound wind—help to make life more enjoyable for you too. Enjoy Camel's mildness—smoke all you wish! For athletes have found that Camels don't get their wind ... or jangle their nerves.

WILLIE MACFARLANE, former U.S. Open Champion, adds: "Camels are mild. They don't get my wind or make my nerves jittery. I'd walk a mile for a Camel!"

J. A. BROOKS, '32 and '33 All-American Lacrosse Team: "I have smoked Camels for 5 years. No matter how many I smoke, Camels never upset my nerves or my wind."

PIEERS DEFEAT FAIRMONT 6-0 IN HARD FOUGHT TILT

Local Team Held to 1-Touchdown Victory by Greatly Improved Squad

CAPT. PIERCE SCORES

Malone Paves Way to Triumph by His Running, Passing, and Punting

The Glenville Pioneers defeated Fairmont teachers, 6-0, at Fairmont last Saturday. The game was the first away-from-home contest of the season and the second the Pioneers have played this fall.

After being held scoreless for two quarters, the Pioneers put on their offensive power of the day to break mid-way in the third quarter. Captain Pierce carried the ball over the marker after two passes from Malone to Fulks placed the Pioneers in scoring territory.

Captain Pierce Scores

The Pioneers' scoring threat began when Whitman, tackle, recovered a Fairmont fumble on the Fairmont 48-yard line. On the first play Malone faded back to pass but all receivers were covered. He then shifted around left end for twenty yards, carrying the ball to the 28-yard line for a first down. Malone again went back to pass and this time completed one to Fulks on the 48-yard line, where he was downed by his tracks. Malone picked up two yards, off tackle. Pierce picked up a yard to the 8-yard line, and on the following play Malone passed to Fulks. The pass was allowed for interference with the receiver, on the 48-yard line. Holding the ball on the 48-yard line for a first down, the Pioneers selected Pierce to lug the ball on his first try. Martino missed a kick for extra point.

The Pioneers played defensive all throughout most of the fourth quarter. Malone and Edwards often kicked on the second down and Fairmont was held back in Glenville territory for the greater part of the game. The Marion countians put on a serious scoring threat late in the fourth quarter when Hammond passed to Fultz on Glenville's 15-yard line, but the Pioneers held for punts and took the ball. The game ended with Edwards punting to DuPont of Fairmont on the 37-yard line.

Pioneers Picked to Win

The Pioneers, entering the game confident to win by at least three touchdowns, found a vastly improved Fairmont team that fought them on even grounds most of the afternoon. Glenville piled up seven touchdowns to six for the "Fighting Teachers" and gained twice as much ground.

Malone, triple-threat half-back, led the most outstanding game of the Pioneers. Fulks proved himself as a pass receiver. Martino kicked the ball to the Fairmont goal on three occasions he was called to kick. In the line Whitman and Smyth were outstanding and were ably supported by Bohensky.

ACCEPTS TWO NEW MEMBERS

Canterbury Club Receives Isadore Nachman and Miss Magnuson

Two new members, Helen Magnuson, of Weston, and Isadore Nachman, of Glenville, were accepted by the Canterbury Club at a meeting Tuesday night, Oct. 10, in Room 2 at the Library. A former member, Harley Reger, was reinstated. Brief talks were given by Miss Brand and the new officers.

Stories were told by Willis and Benjamin Tatterson. The club voted to participate in the Home-coming Day parade.

Two committees were appointed by the president. They are: Program, Harley Reger, Millard Cunningham and Jason Meadows. Membership, Oreta Holbert, Isadore Nachman and James Jones.

Stories will be told by Goff Giboney, Catherine Wilson and Millard Cunningham, at the next meeting, Wednesday, Oct. 23.

Charles Barnett, Jr., '35, is teaching English and history in Clay County High School, at Clay.

Lynwood Zinn, '33, is attending Harvard Medical School in Boston, Mass.

mont games. The greater part of the ball carrying will fall to Malone, Pierce, and Bennett. Edwards and Malone will be depended on for the punting and passing.

The Slippery Rock team will be made up of veterans who saw service in last year's game. The Rockets defeated the Pioneers 19-0, last year at Slippery Rock. This game will mark the fourth appearance of the Rockets on the local schedule. To date the Pennsylvanians have won two games and the Pioneers one.

Tomorrow's game will be the highlight of the local schedule. A crowd of 2000 is expected to fill the local stadium. Arrangements have been made to handle one of the largest crowds to witness an athletic event here.

PIONEER NIK-NAKS

Welcome home, old grads!

For nine months school is ours, but one day we share with you — Home-coming. The school, the town, in fact everything, we give to you. Show these young Pioneers how the old "trail-blazers" used to do it. Our theme song for the day is, "Anything Goes."

Coach Rohrbough and all the lads, are preparing for the Slippery Rock "Rockets." All the "old timers" will remember the Home-coming Day game two years ago when the "pesky Pennsylvanians" disrupted proceedings by defeating the Pioneers in one of the most thrilling gridiron games ever played on Rohrbough Field. We want revenge.

Again we welcome all of the "old timers." This is your day to again become school boys and school girls. Let's make it the best Home-coming of them all. We'll see you at the game.

Miss Ivy Lee Myers, instructor in education, was absent from her classes Friday and Monday because of a severe cold.

Miss Freda Arnold, '34, and Miss Oneta Arnold, both of Glenville, were shopping and visiting friends in Clarksburg last week-end.

Many Floats and Exhibits

All classes in the College will be represented in the parade. There will also be floats and exhibits by numerous clubs and organizations, including the Social Science Club, Chemistry Club, Ohningohow Players, the Mercury, Holy Roller Court, G Club, Shakespeare Class, Glee Club, Student Council, Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A.

John Marra and Jason Meadows will march in the parade, impersonating Benito Mussolini and Emperor Haile Selassie, of Italy and Ethiopia respectively. Geoffrey Chaucer will be impersonated by a member of the Canterbury Club.

Several groups of alumni representing their respective graduating classes will also be in the parade. Near the end of the line will come the Rotary Club, local organization.

Disbanding immediately after the course over the principal streets of the city, those in the parade, alumni and others will have time for lunch before the football game, which begins at 2 p. m.

Reception and Dance

For the evening entertainment a reception to begin at 8:30 o'clock has been planned and will precede a dance to be held in the College gymnasium. Alex Goldberg's nine-piece orchestra from Elkins will furnish the music.

Registration headquarters will be at the Grill. Mrs. J. Wilbur Beall, Mary Jane Jack and Helen McGee will be in charge.

Earl R. Boggs will be general chairman of the Home-coming Day activities. Committees assisting him include: Parade, Goldie C. James, chairman, Fred Madison Whiting, Jr. and Lestelle Lorentz; entertainment, Mrs. John Gilbert Cain, chairman, Hunter Whiting and Mrs. E. G. Rollyson; refreshments, Pauline Roberts, chairman, Garnet Fitzpatrick and W. E. Hull; publicity, Mrs. E. G. Rollyson, chairman, Carey Woofter and Roland Butcher; finance, Stanley Hall and Lloyd Jones; decorations, Linn Hickman, chairman, Juanita Bell, Nelson Wells, Virginia Hall and Donald Young; property, Clay M. KRYL'S SYMPHONY WELL RECEIVED

However, the always-popular "Second Hungarian Rhapsody" and the two movements from Dvorak's "New World Symphony," seemed to vie for honors as the hit of the evening. Of the encores, "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" and "Fantasia on National Airs," received most applause. The patriotic tunes seemed to bring everyone back to the realization that they were hearing a band as well as a fine symphonic organization.

The sponsors of the first number, the Student Council, assisted by Curtis Baxter, are to be congratulated on bringing such a rare treat to music lovers of Glenville and surrounding towns.

...but, after all is said and done, it's the cigarette itself that counts

... the question is,
does it suit you?

Now, when it comes to a cigarette that will suit you . . . you want to think whether it's mild, you want to think about the taste

That Chesterfields are milder and taste better is no accident . . .

The farmer who grows the tobacco, the warehouseman who sells it at auction to the highest bidder, every man who knows about leaf tobacco will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobaccos to make a good cigarette.

In making Chesterfields we use mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobaccos.

Outstanding
.. for mildness
.. for better taste
