COLLEGE FACULTY HAS IMPORTANT PART IN S. E. A.

Dean H. L. White, as President of Association, Presided
At 3-Day Meeting

PRES. ROHRBOUGH SPEAKS

Miss Myers and H. Y. Clark Were Leaders in Group
Conferences

The faculty of Glenville State Teachers College had a prominent part in the seventy-first annual meeting of the West Virginia State Education Association in Charleston last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The meeting was the largest in the history of the association. More than 10,000 teachers and other school officials from all sections of the state attended.

H. Laban White, president of the association, presided throughout the three-day meeting and was one of the principal speakers on Thursday's program. His subject was "Hold Fast That Which is Good." In the course of his talk he pointed out the tendencies in the "new education" and urged a return to the fundamentals.

President E. G. Rohrbough spoke at the general session Friday morning in the Charleston High School auditorium. He urged teachers to be class proud and courageous.

President Rohrbough's Message

"I hold the public has the right to expect teachers, well endowed by nature, possessing broad cultural background and adequate professional training," he declared.

"In return," he said, "the teacher has a right to expect secure tenure for satisfactory work, adequate compensation and reasonable academic and personal freedom."

Miss Ivy Lee Myers presided as chairman of the teacher training group meetings throughout the three-day session. H. Y. Clark took a prominent part in the group meetings for grade teachers and submitted a list of fifty suggestions on training teachers for grades three and four.

Others from the College faculty who were present were Miss Goldie Clare James, Miss Bessie Boyd Bell, Miss Bertha E. Olsen, Hunter Whitting, Dr. J. C. Shreve and Linn Hickman.

Will Appear Here Nov. 9

Cornelia Otis Skinner, above, famous daughter of a distinguished father, Otis Skinner, comes to the College auditorium Saturday evening, Nov. 9, at 8:15 o'clock. Her appearance here will be the second feature of the 1935-1936 artists' course. Miss Skinner's program will be made up of a number of original character sketches.

DOBSON HONORED AT STATE MEET Is Chosen Vice-President of Inter-Collegiate Speech Association

Miss Margaret Dobson, instructor in speech and physical education in the College, was elected vice-president of the West Virginia Inter-collegiate Speech Association at a meeting in Charleston last week. Speech instructors from all colleges in the state with the exception of West Virginia University, New River State and Bethany were present. Dr. I. O. Ash, of Shepherd State Teachers College, was elected president. L. A. Wallman, of Fairmont State Teachers College, was chosen secretary-treasurer.

Miss Dobson announces that the state speech festival will be held at Shepherd State Teachers College early in April. Outstanding judges will be selected for the oratorical and play contests. Debates will be (Continued on page 6)

Holy Roller Court Confers Honor on Mr. Firestone, Janitor

George Firestone, veteran janitor at the College, has again prove his popularity with the students. Last week he was unanimously voted an honorary membership in the Holy Roller Court. The membership was granted, President Lloyd Metheny said, in honor of the extended faithful service Mr. Firestone has given to the College and because of his wide popularity on the campus. It is the first honorary membership granted by the Court. He will not be expected to attend regular meetings or meet the initiation requirements, Metheny said.

Mr. Firestone became an honorary member of the Chemistry Club in 1932, and his appreciation to the club is evinced by his donation of a beautiful display case for the exhibit adjoining the chemistry laboratory. Mr. Firestone has been janitor here for forty-two years.

Local Grid Fan Recalls Days of First Football Game of Pioneers

Who were the original Glenville Pioneers?

For the past few years the correct identity of the eleven stalwarts who first carried the name of Glenville Normal School to the football wars has been a question of interest.

The first Pioneer football squad was organized in 1908, according to Marvin Cooper, assistant county superintendent of Gilmer county schools, and Charles Bass, local merchant.

To those that played on this football team, the first game was more than an athletic event. The team played but one game, losing to Davis-Elkins College, at Elkins, 6-0.

The trip to Elkins marked the first ride on a train for eleven of the fifteen men.

Played in November

In the line-up on that cold November day, were: Ends, William Cooper, Esty Berkhouse, and Charles Bass; tackles, Wirt Hopkins, Harry Stern, and Carl Cox; guards, Roy Beall, Roscoe Mick, and "Juney" Lohan; center, Marvin Cooper; quarterback, Max Evans; half-backs, Chester Morris and Talmadge Berkhouse; fullbacks, Harry Hays and Dick Dyer. Russell Beall was the manager.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Mischiefous ghosts, goblins, and witches will lay their magic aside Thursday while students and faculty drink cider, eat doughnuts and dance at the annual Halloween party in the gymnasium. Music will be furnished by a local orchestra. The fun begins at 8:30 p. m.

The grand parade of masqueraders will feature the evening's entertainment and will be followed by the selection of seven persons to receive customary prizes. Awards will be made for the most spectacular, most original, tackiest and funniest costumes, for the best personification and to the best looking couple in costume. Judges have not been named.

The Freshman Class has charge of the decorations. Admission will be twenty-five cents.

NEW DORMITORY SITE SELECTED

Plans to Be Submitted by
Nov. 11—Will Let Contract
By Dec. 15

Before winter has come and gone, construction work on a new, modern $160,000 dormitory at Glenville State Teachers College will likely be under way.

President E. G. Rohrbough said yesterday that plans for the dormitory, to be built directly behind the Administration Building, are being drawn by Carlton C. Wood, Clarksburg architect, and will be submitted for approval in Washington not later than November 11. A contract for the building is to be let by December 15. Russell McQuain and C. O. Gerwig, local engineers, were on the campus last week taking levels of the dormitory site.

The new structure will be 193 feet long and 66 feet deep. It will be two and three stories in height and will contain 60 rooms with accommodations for 120 students. Brick and cement materials will be used, making the building fireproof throughout.

Forty-five percent of the $160,000 is a government donation secured through the Works Progress Administration, while the remaining fifty-five percent is a loan and will be repaid to the government over a long period of years by funds received in room rentals. This plan is the same as is used for all such projects in this and other states.

The Social Committee will sponsor a dance Saturday night in the gymnasium.

NEW FEATURE

The old saying, "Variety is the spice of life," has been adopted by the editors of the Mercury. Each issue of the Mercury, beginning with this one, will find the outstanding events of the week forecast in the "ears" of the paper, on the front page.

Will Be the Second Feature of 1935-36 Artists' Course

STUDENTS TO ASSIST

Entertainment Promises to Attract
Many Out-of-Town
Visitors

Cornelia Otis Skinner, famous daughter of a distinguished father, Otis Skinner, dean of the American theater, will appear in the College auditorium Saturday evening, Nov. 9, at 8:15 o'clock.

Her program of original character sketches will be the second feature of the 1935-36 artists' course, which was opened Oct. 9 with a concert by Bohumir Kryl and his forty-piece symphony band. Many out-of-town visitors are expected to attend.

The Student Council has agreed to assist in sponsoring the number and has named a chairman for each of the student committees on advertising, ticket sales, ushering and correspondence. Bantz Craddock, Jr., heads the advertising committee. John Mowrey is chairman of the committee on ticket sales. Thomas Pierce is head of the ushering committee and Miss Catherine Wilson is chairman of the committee on correspondence. Each chairman will select his assistants. Students will be admitted on activity tickets.

Writes Own Sketches

Miss Skinner, world famous because of her original character sketches, is neither a reciter nor a monologist in the American sense of the word, and she dislikes to be called a "solo dramatist." Her character sketches are the product of her own pen and are said to cover all the human emotions.

Young, attractive, and gracious she has a personal charm that is reflected in her work. She uses scenery, but she has the ability to carry her audience everywhere she goes in the field of imagination.

Miss Skinner began her plans for her character sketches while at the Baldwin School at Bryn Mawr and Bryn Mawr College. While in school she would entertain her classmates by giving imitations and interpretations which amused them. She continued this while studying at Paris in later years.

In the beginning of her career, Miss Skinner was handicapped by the fact that she had a well-known father. Promoters and director frowned upon her because the thought she was just another high society girl without ability, trying to gain fame on her father's reputation. Miss Skinner went on her own stage and soon overcame this proving her ability to the public. She began as a "one-woman show," filling theaters and building fame on her own ability.

Has Unique Career

When Miss Skinner abandoned the stage and embarked upon her unique career, her chief problem was a lack of material. Such dramatic themes and characters as she discovered in "The Wives of Henry VIII" were the ones from which she chose her programs. The program which she will present here has been announced. College Sponsors Reception for 335 Guests at Daniel Boone Hotel

Three hundred and thirty-five alumni, former students and several special guests attended the reception given Friday night in the Ballroom of the Daniel Boone hotel by Glenville State Teachers College as a feature of an entertainment series during the annual meeting of the State Education Association.

Among the alumni and former students were several leading educators and state officials, including State Auditor Edgar B. Sims, Dr. Howard McGinnis, registrar of East Carolina State Teachers College, and Mrs. McGinnis, President and Mrs. W. H. S. White, of Shepherd State Teachers College; W. W. Lovell, county superintendent of schools in Braxton county; H. K. Baer, state supervisor of elementary schools; John C. Shaw, who served as president of Glenville Normal School from 1901 to 1908; Wado O. Stalnaker, principal of Roosevelt-Wilson High School, and Mrs. Stalnaker; Charles E. Barnett, chief of the land department in the office of Edgar B. Sims, and Mrs. Barnett; Carl McGinnis, superintendent of schools in Gilmer county, and Mrs. McGinnis; A. P. Morrison, former president of the Harrison County Board of Education, and Mrs. Morrison; W. J. Cunningham, state director of the Bureau of Veterans' Affairs, and Mrs. Cunningham, and Mrs. Helen Lenhart Yoke, of Charleston, a former instructor in the College, and Dr. Berlin Chapman, instructor in Fairmont State Teachers College.

The reception opened at 10 o'clock. In the receiving line were President and Mrs. E. G. Rohrbough, Dr. J. C. Shreve, Hunter Whiting, Miss Goldie Clare James, Miss Bertha E. Olsen, Miss Bessie Boyd Bell, Miss Ivy Lee Myers, H. Y. Clark and Linn Hickman. Dean and Mrs. H. L. White also attended.

Music for the dance was furnished by Kent Warner's orchestra. Earl R. Boggs, president of Glenville State Teachers College Alumni Association, was in charge of registration. Guests were introduced by Bayard Young.

Chemistry Club Sells Pictures

Many interesting pictures of the home-coming day parade and the Pioneer-Slippery Rock game are now on display in the main hall of the Administration Building. The pictures, taken by John R. Wagner, instructor in the College, may be purchased from members of the chemistry club. Proceeds will be used to further the club activities.

Lawson, '33, Teaching in University

Reginald Lawson, '33, is an assistant instructor in English in West Virginia University. Mr. Lawson formerly taught in the high school at Weston. Together with Mrs. Lawson, '34, he was a visitor here Homecoming Day. He plans to complete a A. M. degree at the University in June.

Social Science Club Meets

Two important subjects, "The Ethiopian Situation" and "The Possibilities of the Republican Party in the Coming Election," were discussed by Verlene Hensley, Phyllis Sims and Genevieve Johnson at a meeting of the Social Science Club Tuesday night in Room 106. A program committee consisting of Max Ward and James G. Jones was appointed. The club will meet again Tuesday, Nov. 6.

The following Weston students spent the week-end at their homes: Josephine Riffe, Rosa Craig, Eleanor Waggoner, Helen Curtis, and

$5 FOR SCHOOL SONG

Glenville State Teachers College may soon have a school song. The Student Council thinks there should be one and is willing to pay a student $5 for writing it. All students are eligible to try. Copy must be in not later than November 11. Members of the Student Council will accept the contributions and will offer suggestions to interested persons. Judges will be Hunter Whiting, Miss Margaret Dobson and Miss Bertha E. Olsen.

Ratliffs Have Baby Daughter

Carlos Ratliff, '34, and Mrs. Ratliff, of Clay, announce the arrival of a baby daughter, Wednesday, Oct. 16. Mrs. Ratliff, before her marriage, was Miss Margaret Tate, of Weston. Mr. Ratliff was a prominent athlete while a student in the College. He has been coach in the high school at Clay the past two years.

Miss Kee Wins $50 Prize

Miss Rhea Kee, '33, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Kee, of Glenville, won third prize last week in an advertisement contest sponsored by the Charleston Gazette. The prize carried a cash value of $50. The advertisement, written for a Charleston business house, appeared in the Sunday edition of the Gazette. Miss Kee is employed as intermediate clerk in the license department of the State Road Commission.

Paul Bush and Fred Shaffer spent the week-end at their homes in Millstone.

Kenneth Landacre visited relatives in Grantsville over the week-end.

Lloyd and Ransel Smith spent the week-end at their home in Jane Lew.

Freed Gives Night Class in Political Science—Extension Work Organized

Three new students enrolled last week in Glenville State Teachers College, bringing the total registration for the first semester to 438, according to Carey Woofter, registrar. The three new students are: Billie McVey, John Sims and Harold D. Winters.

The enrollment of 438 does not include the fifty-six students who have recently enrolled for extension work given by instructors in the College, but does include those who have enrolled for a night class in political science, taught on the campus by Raymond R. Freed.

Twenty-seven students in Roane county are taking a three-hour extension course in elementary school supervision taught weekly at Spencer by Dr. J. C. Shreve. The class meets for three hours each Friday evening.

Hunter Whiting is teaching a three-hour course in the English novel at Spencer. Twelve students are enrolled. The class meets each Wednesday night. H. Y. Clark is teaching a two-hour course in child adjustment at Grantsville and Carey Woofter is conducting a class in Kipling at Grantsville and has fifteen students taking the work.

Additional extension work is contemplated. Carey Woofter and Linn Hickman will go to Gassaway Wednesday evening to complete plans for one or more extension courses for students in that section.

Freda Mick, Helen Hall, Robert Kerns, Denzil McNemar and Robert Kidd, Jr., spent the week-end at their homes in Burnsville.

Perry Hays and Victor Price spent the week-end at their homes in Arnoldsburg.

Harley Reger Tells Ghost Story— Three New Members Accepted

Three new members, Maxine Pick, Julia Swiger and Madison Whiting, were accepted by the Canterbury Club at a meeting Wednesday night in Miss Brand's room.

Stories were told by Catharine Wilson and Goff Giboney. A volunteer ghost story was told by Harley Reger. The club will meet again Nov. 7.

Sheets Announce Birth of Son

Mr. and Mrs. Linn Sheets, of Auburn, announce the birth of a son, Tuesday, Oct. 15. The baby, a second child, has been named Donald Lee. Mrs. Sheets is the former Miss Oletha Edwards, of Glenville. Mr. Sheets completed his standard normal course in the College last year.

Wagner Receives Science Leaflets

Forty-six copies of "Science Leaflet," designed primarily for students in chemistry, have been received by John R. Wagner, instructor in the College. Thirty-nine of the leaflets will go to students and members of the faculty. Five go to science teachers in county high schools and two to teachers in Harrisville High School. Back copies for the past six weeks have also been received. The leaflets are published weekly.

Maxine Pick spent the week-end at her home in Clarksburg.

CHEMISTRY CLUB TO PLAN PROGRAM

High School Science Teachers Will Be Invited to Meet Here in December

Tentative plans for a meeting of approximately forty West Virginia high school chemistry teachers to be held here the first week in December have been announced by John R. Wagner, chemistry and physics instructor in the College.

A part of the meeting will be devoted to general discussions relative to the teaching of chemistry and problems of the science instructors. Plans will also be made for the annual Chemistry Day to be held here this spring under auspices of the Chemistry Club.

Plans for securing several hundred exhibits are under way. More than 300 letters will be sent within the next few weeks to companies which have not been contacted and invited to participate in previous Chemistry Day programs. Letters will also be sent to companies which have exhibited here before.

AUTUMN IN GILMER COUNTY

What has become of the melancholy honkings which used to drift down on Glenville as migratory waterfowl passed over in the early hours of the crisp October mornings? So far we have failed to notice them. Can it be that we are to hear them no more. Have we been too busy to take advantage of the one thing which annually signifies the coming of winter? Have we been cheated out of the decoy's mournful call?

Thanks to those who still dream of duck-blinds and decoys. Thanks for those who still take nature seriously and those who can point out some of the real joys most of us too often fail to take advantage of. Thanks for those who have been alert enough to have heard the ducks going southward. For after all, isn't there something significant about that annual flight?

As humans we put an artificial value on a metal and spend a lifetime trying to amass a fortune which will most certainly be of no use after the death which nature deals. We make a set of rules about beauty and pass judgment on the daubings of our fellow men. And every year nature turns the world to laughing yellows and warm reds. Trees, the very name of which was made famous by Joyce Kilmer, spread their heavily laden boughs over us each day. Leaves color and we know that the picture is one which not even a premier artist could paint. And yet we are too busy to look up.

Sunday we sit in our arm chairs at home, with a radio blaring man-made sounds, looking at printed pictures labeled "Woodland Splendor" and "Autumn's Charm." We sit while all about us the rolling hills of Gilmer county glow in symphonies of orange and crimson set against the blues of the sky and valley mists.

We air-condition our homes and give little thought to the seasons. Once a year the sun commutes from Cancer to Capricorn and back again, and we make jokes about young men's fancies in the spring and women's hats in the fall.

And while we snuggle under blankets, or make jokes, or lord it over creation, a lone mallard flies high over this snug, self-satisfied world and trumpets an answer to the nature which guides him—and us. Thanks that there are some who still hear, or at least dream of those melancholy honkings. Maybe we'll hear them yet.

PRESIDENT ROHRBOUGH'S MESSAGE

"I hold the public has the right to expect teachers well endowed by nature, possessing broad cultural background and adequate professional training. In return, the teacher has the right to expect secure tenure for satisfactory work, adequate compensation and reasonable academic and personal freedom."

That in brief is the message which President E. G. Rohrbough left with his audience at the recent meeting of the West Virginia State Education Association. And we say the message is sound. It is one which has been needed.

All too often we hear teachers complaining about their rights and liberties being limited. All too often perhaps the teacher is at fault. Students preparing to teach and those in the profession have but to study President Rohrbough's message to determine whether or not they are at fault. For after all, if a teacher possesses a broad cultural background and adequate professional training doesn't he become an asset to his community? Isn't he hard to replace? Can't he demand a just compensation for his services? Can't he enjoy a reasonable academic and personal freedom? We say the answer is "Yes."

OUR CONSTITUTION—YES OR NO?

A few weeks ago, in the editorial columns of the Mercury, we carried a brief resume of the aims and objectives of the Student Government Association. We further pledged our support so long as the actions of this important organization are guided by sound and sensible leadership.

This week we carry in full the constitution submitted by the Student Council, governing body of the association. We do so in an effort to be of service to an enterprise which we feel is worth-while. Much time and trouble has been experienced in drafting the constitution. The document may not be perfect. It may not meet with the approval of all students. But in general, we feel it will.

the Student Council, we are told by President Lloyd Metheny, will arrange for a meeting of the student body. At the meeting a vote will be taken to determine whether or not the document setting forth full details of the Student Government Association will be voted on.

All students will have had time to read the constitution before the meeting is called. We urge an early reading of the document carried in the Mercury this week. We urge students to study the content of the constitution and to determine in their own way what their attitude is to be.

Surely all students will come out for the meeting. Surely an intelligent voting will be experienced. The Student Government Association is for all; not for just a few. Voting is a duty. Will you be there? Will you vote intelligently? Are we to fail and falter after having made such a splendid start.

READING THE NEWSPAPERS

Have you read a newspaper today? If not, do you intend to read one tomorrow and the next day and the many days to follow?

We fear that the average college student's answers to these questions might be disheartening. And yet we might be just a little too pessimistic.

It is evident, here, however, that many students in the College are failing to keep abreast of the times just because they don't take a little time each day to read one or more newspapers. True it is that students are required to spend most of their time either in class, in preparing lesson assignments or participating in campus activities. But isn't it a student's obligation to himself to be well informed on current happenings as well as to know a required amount of text-book facts?

In the Robert F. Kidd Library may be found the leading county, state and metropolitan newspapers. They are supplied by the state and are for student use. They are for all students and not just for one. They can be made to serve as an education within themselves so long as some few students don't persist in tearing out every little article they like and thereby depriving the rest of us of the privilege of reading what also might be of value to us.

HOW ABOUT OUR SCHOOL SPIRIT?

Is our school spirit on the wane?

Cheering at the last home game was not as good as it might have been. The noise, however, was a little more organized than it was at the Salem game and at the games last year. But there is still room for improvement. How is that improvement to come?

Sometimes we feel that maybe the upperclassmen are at fault. At least it appeared at the last game that the freshmen were doing their part. As upperclassmen are we to stand by and insist that the freshmen do all the yelling? Are we, who are supposed to set the examples for the others, to let the situation go as is? Isn't there some way we can lend a hand?

Maybe the assistant cheerleaders are not cooperating properly with the head cheerleader. We have heard rumors of such. Whether or not the rumors are sound, we care little. What we are interested in is seeing a great cheering delegation out for every game and a student body, every member of which is chucked full of school spirit, ready to do anything and everything possible in order to build a student morale that will surpass that of former years and will be an example for those who follow in our foot-steps next year.

Fellow students, let's go in for school spirit in a big way.

THE COLLEGE LIBRARY

The Robert F. Kidd Library, with its conveniences for study, its up-to-date reference works and other outstanding facilities is one of the many units on the campus of which we should be proud. But do we appreciate the library as we should? Judging by the unnecessary noise and confusion caused at the library each day, our answer would be "no," most emphatically "no!"

Fundamentally a library is a place for study and concentration—a place where students or others may go to read and acquire facts. All too often a library serves merely as a place where students may congregate and talk over their petty problems at the expense of those persons who are serious minded enough to want to make good use of their time.

Of course a certain amount of noise and confusion is necessary and oftentimes cannot be avoided. But is all the confusion commonly noticed at our own library called for? Do we have to talk and bother others? Must the librarians waste their time trying to keep order when they could be devoting their energies to tasks which will eventually lead to improvement of the library facilities?

Students, we are urged to observe the rules at the library. Surely we are not to overlook the fact that we owe some consideration to those who want to study. Surely we will be willing to eliminate our part of the shuffling of feet, rattling of newspapers

Dr. Hutchison Condemns 'Personal Significance,' 'Excess Organization'

For the past twenty or thirty years colleges have been teaching a false theory of education—that of personal significance. Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, 37-year-old president of Washington and Jefferson College, declared in a special chapel address here Tuesday, Oct. 22.

He said too much time had been wasted in teaching students that they must amount to something after their college careers are completed, when, as a matter of fact, the true value of an education is what one has in his mind and heart and not how well he rates in society.

Commenting on the results of such a false theory, Dr. Hutchison lamented that "most of the freaks we have are those with an inferiority complex"—those who feel unimportant and try to gain significance by some radical, foolish or silly method. "There are a great many college people drinking cocktails who do not like cocktails," Dr. Hutchison declared, and added: "They do it simply because of a feeling—a lack of personal significance; because they want to cover up their own weakness and because they want to go along with the crowd."

False Patriotism

"Men went to the late war wearing brass buttons and marching behind a band simply because they thought society wanted them to. Many of them did not go for any great love of country or feeling of intense patriotism."

Dr. Hutchison seriously attacked the "excess in organization," asserting, "It is almost unbelievable the number of organizations we have today. Clubs, societies and fraternities are organized for the purpose of making someone president and thus furnishing an opportunity for more people to attain personal significance."

After considering briefly the educational philosophy of Plato and Socrates, Dr. Hutchison said, "The fundamental philosophy of education is what you have in your mind and in your heart, regardless of where you are or what you are."

He said many college teachers could "disappear tonight and society would not miss them, while there are many street-sweepers, laborers, and ditch-diggers who, if they were to disappear tonight, would leave society infinitely poorer."

Birth of Democracy

He said Democracy was born when the people of Europe learned of their own importance to society, and when they learned that power and riches are not all that count and that so long as they had "the love of God in their hearts they would account for something in life."

Dr. Hutchison pointed out that too many people nurse a selfish attitude in life and depend too much on power and wealth to bring them happiness.

"There are as many suicides among the rich today as there are among the poor," he said. "Both classes have been taught that they must attain some social position in the world or else be classed as failures. When the rich or the poor feel that they have not attained the prestige they so desire, they often resort to self destruction."

Concluding his talk, Dr. Hutchison declared that one should measure himself by these things: Truth, beauty, understanding and service and not by the position one occupies in society.

Dr. Hutchison has been president of Washington and Jefferson College since 1931, previous to which he graduated from Harvard University and the University of Pennsylvania and was ordained a Presbyterian

RADIOS FOR GIRLS

To the Editors of the Mercury:

A year ago the boys of Kanawha Hall and those of Firestone Lodge were given permission to have use radios in their rooms. But at the same time nothing was said or decided about giving the girls of Veranda Mapel Hall the same privilege.

Girls often have time during the day that they could spend profitably listening to a radio without leaving their rooms. Some people may say that it is too expensive for the girls to have radios in their rooms. If it is too expensive, then why do the boys keep radios at Kanawha Hall? Statistics show that the actual cost of operating a radio for one month is approximately fifty cents, just a little more than one cent a day. That expensive?

Why should there be any distinction made between the boys and girls who live in the dormitories?

If radios would cause too much disturbance or interfere with lessons, there could be certain hours for them to be turned on. Other hours would be "quiet hours." The boys are allowed to turn their radios on at their pleasure, and then seem to be having little if any trouble with unnecessary noise disturbance.

We feel that the girls of Veranda Mapel Hall would like and would appreciate having radios in their rooms. Surely they would be careful in using them in order not to abuse the privilege. Surely the cost would not be too much in considering the real enjoyment and educational value that would be derived.

CONCORD DEFEATS PIONEERS 13-6 IN SLOW GRID GAME

Mountain Lions Capitalize on Locals' Fumbles and Many Penalties to Win

FIRST DOWNS CLOSE

Bohensky Recovers Edwards' Fumble Over the Goal Line For Touchdown

The Concord Mountain Lions tied and scratched their way to a 13-6 victory over the Glenville Pioneers last Saturday at Athens. The game was a slow, grinding affair, with both teams making unimpressive during the latter part of the game.

The local aggregation received an opening kick-off and fumbled on the second play of the game. Concord recovered on the 25-yard line and marched to a touchdown with relinquishing the ball. The extra point was converted and Concord led their seven point margin the remainder of the first quarter.

Score in Second Quarter

In the second quarter the Pioneers scored their only touchdown of the game. Malone passed to Edwards over the goal line and he fumbled. Bohensky pounced on the fumble for the marker. Martino kicked the extra point and it was wide. The remainder of the game saw Pioneers held at bay. Concord scored again in the fourth quarter. After fumbling, the Pioneers were hit with penalties that totaled 170 yards. It seemed that every time they were beginning to play ball a penalty would set them back on their heels.

The game was the main feature of the homecoming celebration at Concord.

Lineup Changed

The Pioneer starting line-up was considerably changed from the Slippery Rock encounter. Cleavenger and Martino started at the ends, and Smith started at the tackle. Bickle was at center. In the field, Pierce, Malone, Cott's and Springer opened the game. Throughout the contest Coach Rohrbough substituted frequently, constantly trying to find a combination that would click.

This was the fourth game that the team has played. To date they have won two and lost two. First were: Glenville, ten; Concord, eleven.

PIONEER NIK-NAKS

Pioneer football stock is surging upward. Many believe Coach Rohrbough has the best squad since '32. The Morris-Harvey game will be the third home game this season. Why not have an organized cheering section for once? With no more organized work than has been prevalent on the side-lines this season, it is a wonder that the Pioneers "put out" at all.

Latest reports show that Alex "Bull" Regdon, who once played tackle for the Pioneers, is playing regularly for "Hunk" Anderson at North Carolina State. Thomas Rogers, another luminary of Normal School days, is an assistant freshman coach at Duke University. Other former pupils of Coach Rohrbough, all of whom are making good, are: Ike Lewis, Leo Dotson, Trapper Anderson, Harry Hamilton, Robert Markowitz, Edmund Powell, William Hecker, and William Rafferty.

That frosty nip so prevalent in the air these days brings thoughts of basketball. The 1935-36 Pioneer card will soon appear. A good season is in prospect because the Pioneers will have a veteran nucleus to build from. A center and forward will be all that is needed to again place Glenville in the race for all-conference honors.

Gordon Eisman is building up a fast football squad at Elizabeth High School. Lionel Heron displayed his team to local sports followers last week. Heron has developed two fast backs at Spencer that are slated to go places. Howard Lindell, '33, basketball star, is assistant coach at East Liverpool, O., High School. Other former Pioneers who are coaching and about whom we have heard good things, are: Al Morford, Carlos Ratliff, Harold Burke, Rex Pyles, Stanley Jeranko, and Harold Porterfield.

COACH PLANS FLOOR CARD

Schedule Will Be Ready Soon—

Practice Begins in December
Coach A. F. Rohrbough announced yesterday that the 1935-36 Pioneer basketball schedule will be completed and available for publication probably within the next two weeks.

The 1934-35 basketball season will be remembered by many for the enviable record the Pioneers compiled in the state conference. Coach Rohrbough will be able to present practically the same team this year. Robert Combs, center and captain, was the only member of the court squad graduated. Stanley D'Orazio of Wheeling did not return to school this year. This leaves but two positions to be filled with new material.

According to Coach Rohrbough, Glenville will play all of the leading teams in the state as well as Slippery Rock, Waynesburg, and Westminster colleges, all of Pennsylvania. The court squad will not begin practice until December.

State colleges likely to be listed on the local schedule are: Wesleyan, Salem, Concord, West Liberty, Fairmont, and possibly Shepherd, New River State, and Alderson-Broadus.

Mary E. Jarvis and Helen Magnuson spent the week-end in Morgantown.

Students and friends and several state officials attended the reception given by the College Friday night in the ballroom of the Daniel Boone Hotel. Hunter Whiting was in charge of the arrangements.

Charles Bass is a merchant in Glenville. The address of Wirt Hopkins is unknown. Harry Stern resides in Honolulu. Roy Beall is a fireman in Clarksburg. Roscoe Mick is a traveling salesman. Another member of the team was Dr. "June" Lohan, deceased. Marvin Cooper is assistant county superintendent of schools. Max Evans resides in Colorado. Chester Morris lives in Charleston; Harry Hays in Parkersburg; and Talmadge Berkhouse lives in Ritchie county. Russell Beall, manager of the team, lives in Charleston.

Not Much Equipment

Equipment was sadly lacking with the first team. In fact the best equipment included only a few nose guards. Mr. Cooper, in telling about the battle with Davis-Elkins, said, "The game was played on a field covered with snow. Every now and then I would find one of our nose guards lying in the snow. The team had but eleven pairs of shoes and when a substitute was sent in the man leaving the game was forced to part with his boots and they were given to the player entering the game."

After the Davis-Elkins game, the Normal School scheduled a game

PIONEERS FACE EAGLES SATURDAY

Coach Rohrbough Working Hard to Strengthen Line and Add Power to Attack

The Glenville Pioneers, smarting from a defeat handed them by the Concord Mountain Lions, are preparing for the Morris Harvey Eagles who will fly into the local stronghold Saturday. This will be the third home game of the season.

Coach Rohrbough is working his gridders at a fast pace in order to overcome many weaknesses prevalent in the game last Saturday. The Pioneer forward wall failed to play up to expectations. Coach Rohrbough said yesterday, "Our line failed to charge either on the offense or defense for the first time this season. This is our strongest point and when it failed to function we were lost."

The Eagles will bring a veteran team here this week. Most of the regulars played against the local squad last year. The Pioneers will be out to start a new winning streak and also avenge a loss to the Eagles last year at Barboursville.

If indications of the past few practices mean anything the Pioneer lineup will be slightly changed. The desire to win and the tendency to evade the rules cost the Pioneers much ground last week and Coach Rohrbough is working hard to remedy these defects before the kick-off at Rohrbough Field Saturday at 2:00 p. m.

with West Virginia Wesleyan College to be played here. The field at this time was located at the intersection of State Route 5 and the road leading to Gilmer. When the time for the game arrived "Sonny" Price, coach of the visiting team, insisted upon playing with his men.

A controversy arose as to whether or not the coach should be permitted to play with his team. The game was called off, and the first football season at Glenville Normal School was concluded.

Sec. 3. Student Body Council: (a) The duties of the Student Body Council shall be to act as an executive body for this organization; to supervise the activities of the different organizations and to bring these organizations into closer cooperation with each other, and closer cooperation with the faculty, to supervise Freshman Guidance; to promote an annual Lyceum Course; to encourage the development of school loyalty; to handle such cases of student misconduct as the President of the College shall authorize.

(b) All powers not expressly given by this constitution to some other agency shall be vested in this council.

(c) By majority vote by ballot of the members present at a regularly constituted meeting, the Student Body Council shall have the power of expelling members who fail to attend two consecutive regular meetings of the Student Body Council.

Any organization may recall its officers who are members of the Student Body Council by a majority vote of the organization present at a duly constituted meeting and for reasons stated at that meeting.

(d) The Student Body Council shall have the power to arrange for any nomination or election or both when such is not provided in the Constitution.

Sec. 4. Committee of Social Affairs: It shall be the duty of the Committee on Social Affairs to: 1. Hear all requests for social dates and entertainments involving school organizations and properties; 2. Make and publish a calendar of approved events; 3. Arrange for the proper management and supervision of all social affairs.

Sec. 5. Athletic Board. The power and duties of the Athletic Board shall be as stipulated in the constitution of that Board.

ARTICLE VI

Election of Officers for this Organization

I. Nomination. (a) Election Committee. (1) One week preceding the time for the nomination of officers the president of the Student Body shall appoint a committee of three by placing their names on the Bulletin Board under the caption "Election Committee." (2) The Election Committee shall on or before the first day of March select from the entire Student Body not later than one week before the day of nomination, one or more persons for each of the Student Body offices. (3) Each nominee shall be personally notified and his qualification ascertained by the Election Committee not less than one week before the General Election.

A cheerleader shall be elected in Student Body meeting at the beginning of the school year, following tryouts for the office.

Student Body Meeting. At the last Student Body meeting in March, nominations for Student Body officers shall be reopened. Any member of the Student Body shall be entitled to nominate, from the floor, any candidate for any of the above offices. Following these nominations, an election by ballot to determine the two candidates having the largest number of votes for each office, shall be held. These persons will then be nominees for offices to be elected in the general election.

II. General Election. The general election for Student Body officers shall be held on the second Tuesday in April and shall be supervised by the Election Committee.

Sec. 2. Class Officers.

Officers of the three upper classes shall be nominated and elected at the last class meeting of the school year for the succeeding year.

Freshman Class officers shall be elected at the beginning of the first semester under the supervision of the President of the Student Council.

Nominations shall be made from the floor, for the president and followed by the election for that office. The nominations for vice-president, followed by election. The nomination for secretary and treasurer, followed by the elections of these offices.

Sec. 3. Athletic Board.

The class representatives on the athletic board shall be appointed at the same meeting the class officers are elected.

ARTICLE VII—Vacancies

Section 1. General Student Body Officers:

(a) President of the Student Body. In case of a vacancy in the office of the president of the Student Body, the office shall be filled by election as provided for in Article VI, unless such a vacancy shall occur within two months of the end of the school season, in which case the vice-president of the Student Body shall succeed.

(b) General Student Body Officers other than president. In case of a vacancy in any of the general offices, the President of the Student Body shall fill the same by appointment.

Sec. 2. Class Officers:

(a) In case of a vacancy in any class office, the same shall be filled by election at the first meeting of that class after the vacancy occurs.

Sec. 3. Student Body Council:

In case of vacancies other than those of Section 1, Division (a) and (b) and Sections 2, Division (a) of Article VII, the offices shall be filled as provided for by the Constitution of the organization to be represented.

ARTICLE VIII

Inauguration of Officers

Section 1. The inauguration ceremony shall be held at the first general Student Body meeting in May. The retiring officers shall constitute a committee for properly carrying out the inaugural ceremony.

Sec. 2. Oath of Office. "I, _____, do solemnly swear (or affirm) to support the Constitution of the United States, of West Virginia, and of Glenville State Teachers College Student Body. I furthermore agree to faithfully discharge the duties and obligations of my office to the best of my skill, judgment, and ability."

ARTICLE IX

Meeting of this Organization

Section 1. General Student Body. Meeting shall be held at least once each month, at a period designated on the semester schedule arranged by the Student Body Council. Special meeting may be called any time by the President.

Sec. 2. Meeting of Classes. Meetings shall be held at least a month. Special meetings may be called by the president.

Sec. 3. Student Body Council Meeting shall be held at least once each month, at a time to be determined by a majority vote of the Student Body Council when they deem it necessary. Special meetings may be called by the Council President.

Sec. 4. Meetings of the Committee on Social Affairs.

Shall be held once a week regular time determined by members of this committee. Special meetings may be called by the Chairman when deemed necessary.

Sec. 5. Athletic Board. A meeting of this board shall be held at least once each semester upon the calling of a special meeting by the Chairman of the Board.
