"You haven't any right to talk of the glories of education if you do not care for those whom you are to teach," warned Dr. Richard Aspinall, West Virginia University extension director, in a chapel address here Wednesday morning. Dr. Aspinall was introduced by President E. G. Rohrbough.

Dr. Aspinall said the purpose of education is best expressed in the words of the eminent philosopher, John Dewey, who wrote: "The main function of education is to teach us to like the things we have to do." He declared that education must "reach the common man" and that formal college training must better fit one to do his work, even in a remote rural community.

Dr. Aspinall advised students "that if you have to go to Weston or to Charleston every week-end to 'ease off' and to 'be yourself' you will never be happy in the teaching field." Teaching, he said, requires devotion to duty and assumes that one must cooperate with those with whom he has to work. "We take out of this life only that which we have in our clenched fists—that which we have given away," he added.

He said environment largely determines what one's actions and thinking will be, and asserted: "I am not the same man in Gilmer County that I would be in Braxton County or Timbuktu."

The speaker was accompanied here by Roy M. (Legs) Hawley, University alumni secretary, who met with several members of the faculty to consider organizing a chapter of University alumni in Gilmer County.

A. B. Graduates Qualified to Teach In North Central Association Schools

Indicative of the growth and increased facilities of Glenville State Teachers College is the announcement made this week by President E. G. Rohrbough that students graduated here with the A. B. degree are no longer required to do a minimum of six weeks' work in an institution which is a member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in order to meet requirements for teaching in secondary schools.

The new ruling, made possible by a West Virginia committee on recommendations of the North Central Association following a recent survey of the College facilities, is effective immediately and will apply to students receiving the A. B. degree this June.

Members of the committee include A. J. Gibson, state supervisor of high schools; Dr. Forest Stemple, College of Education, West Virginia University; and C. W. Jackson, principal of Beaver High

to College Auditorium
April 9

Coming here as the concluding number of this year's artist course, Mrs. Demarchus Brown, world traveler and lecturer, will speak on her favorite topic, "Athens Revisited," in the College auditorium, Thursday evening, April 9, at 8:15 o'clock.

Mrs. Brown, who has appeared here on three previous occasions, was selected last year by the senior class as the "most interesting lecturer of the year." She has traveled extensively, often following her fancies to the more remote parts of the world.

Appearing here in 1933 for the first time, she recounted her travels in Indo-China, followed in 1934 by her double feature lecture, "Cecil Rhodes" and "Into the Heart of Africa With Livingston." Last year she spoke on "Up the Nile to the Tombs of the Kings."

Mrs. Brown spent the greater part of last summer visiting in Greece and the Aegean Isles where she became intimately acquainted with the country of the "Iliad" and the "Odyssey." Her lecture this year will be a recreation of those immortal Greek stories.

Captain Jones to Lead Squad in Race for State Championship

High school and collegiate basketball takes on new life in Glenville today.

Eight high school teams of the Little Kanawha Valley are gathered here for the fourth annual sectional tournament sponsored by the College. Seven of the high school teams are coached by College alumni or former students—a fact which inserts local color and adds a spark of extra enthusiasm.

Meanwhile, Coach A. F. Rohrbough's Glenville Pioneers are asked to take it easy over the week-end in preparation for the second annual intercollegiate tournament which opens Monday afternoon in Clarksburg.

The Pioneers have been riding the crest of the sports waves in West Virginia and are now leading the race for all-conference and all-state honors.

Paced by Captain Paul (Babe) Jones, senior, of Richwood, the Pioneers will open the state tournament against a powerful Davis and Elkins College quintet which has been sweeping a clean slate in intercollegiate basketball circles.

Coach Rohrbough will be directing the sectional tournament here today and tomorrow, and, therefore, will have but little time to touch up any of the weak spots among his proteges before the great floor classic opens.

Complete details of the college tournament and of the high school tournament will be found on pages 5, 6 and 7 of this issue.

WELCOME, TOURNAMENT VISITORS!

Tournament days are here again.

Assembled in Glenville today are eight high school basketball teams of the Little Kanawha Valley, and seven of these teams are coached by College alumni or former students. From the season's records it would appear that each of these high schools has an even chance of fighting on to victory. However, only one team can win the highest honors—if one be so narrow to concede that there is honor only in winning the finals—forgetting that playing a good clean game and losing is often just as much to be proud of.

We hope the stay of the high school players and their coaches will be a pleasant one in Glenville. We know that the College officials have planned many things in order to make all visitors feel at home. College students will be glad to assist and will be on hand to assist with the tournament details. We ask you, high school students, to make the best of this great annual athletic event and we ask that you do not hesitate to call on College friends if there is anything you need.

May we extend to you a cordial welcome and wish for you an enjoyable tournament.

UNSUNG HEROES TO THE FRONT

There has been much discussion, both pro and con, by educators of late years concerning the freedom of individual expression in school work. From personal observation we are led to ask, Just how much individual expression does the average college student enjoy?

Obviously, there are in the average college group many who possess latent talent in one or more of the cultural fields, but apparently opportunities for the development of such talent seldom present themselves. Moreover, we are aware that with overcrowded classes the average teacher can find little time for a great amount of individual attention.

Now that we are fortunate in having a full hour on Wednesday of each week to be devoted to student instruction and entertainment, we are wondering if some of the periods could be used exclusively by students in presenting various forms of entertainment both in and out of school subject fields. Such an arrangement, we believe, would not only furnish wholesome entertainment for members of the faculty but it would be a great opportunity for developing students who otherwise might remain "unwept, unhonored and unsung."

ATTENDING CHAPEL PROGRAMS

Each freshman shall not only be present at the chapel services, but he shall sit in the seat which has been assigned to him, says the Student Council. Next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock approximately two hundred freshmen will assemble in the auditorium for chapel. But where will the sophomores, juniors and seniors be? Some of them will be present, of course, but many will be preparing lessons, going to town, or doing some other of the many things there are to do.

There are but few perhaps who will not agree that all freshmen should attend chapel. But there are many who will not agree that freshmen should be assigned chapel seats when all upperclassmen are permitted to dodge the weekly exercises or walk out directly in front of a freshman with that nonchalant attitude which would seem to mean—too bad, lowly freshman, that you have to attend chapel.

Let us agree that the Student Council's idea is a good one, but let us add a little and require all students to attend chapel, or else make our chapel exercises so interesting that none—not one—will want to stay away.

Teachers Are Invited Here

Members of the education department of Glenville State Teachers College have invited the executive committee of the Central West Virginia Association of School Superintendents to hold a joint teachers' conference here, sometime in April, it is announced by Dean H. Laban White. The following counties will be represented: Wirt, Roane, Calhoun, Clay, Braxton, Webster, Nicholas, Upshur, Lewis, Harrison, Doddridge, Ritchie and Gilmer.

Will Publish Mimeograph Paper

Third grade pupils of the Glenville public schools will publish a ten page mimeograph newspaper. The paper will be issued every Thursday and will be under the supervision of Miss Juanita Bell, teacher, and Ione Brown, Kermit Grose, and Theodore Riddle, student teachers. It will carry topics of the day, both national and international, a comic section, and local news. The paper is a language project.

First Day of The First Trip

I jumped out of bed on Thursday morn.

I have never been so sleepy since I've been born.

Down to breakfast I did slip
Before starting on a tiresome trip.

We got in the bus, with Nate at the wheel,
He stepped on the gas, and that we did feel.

We arrived in Waynesburg, and there we did dine,

And I'm telling you, that meal tasted fine.

After dinner we went to bed,
Got up at five, and again we were fed.

This time it was eggs, apple-sauce, toast and tea,

To get us in shape for the game, you see.

We went to the gym, all feeling fine,
Believe it or not, the game started on time.

And how we got beat, I guess you have heard,

And that referee; he was one crooked bird.

Virginia Breakfast at N. E. A. Meeting

President and Mrs. E. G. Rohrbough returned Thursday from St. Louis where they attended the annual meeting of the National Education Association, Feb. 22 to 27. They also attended a meeting of the American Association of Teachers on Friday and Saturday preceding the general session, and a meeting of school superintendents on Sunday.

Of particular interest to those attending from West Virginia, President Rohrbough said, was a West Virginia breakfast at the Jefferson Hotel. Among the forty persons at the breakfast was Dr. Patrick Gainer, a former College student and now assistant professor of English, University of St. Louis, who sang two songs. Also attending the breakfast, as well as the association meetings, was Miss Addie M. Cokeley, a sister to John R. Wagner and a former instructor in the College.

Among the outstanding features of the week's program, President Rohrbough added, was a three-cornered debate on political party principles by former United States Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Democrat; former Governor Henry K. Allen, of Kansas, Republican; and Norman Thomas, Socialist.

Other West Virginians who attended the meetings were W. W. Trent, state superintendent of schools; A. J. Gibson, state supervisor of high schools; L. V. Cavins, director of research; Glen Callaghan, state educational director of N. Y. A.; Joseph Rosier, president of Fairmont State Teachers College; J. P. Marsh, president Concord State Teachers College; and Dean Huddleston of West Virginia University.

As Others See Us

GLENVILLE POINTS A WAY

Glenville State Teachers College, during the past few years, has been doing something that none of the other colleges in the state thought possible. The achievement is the presentation every year of a series of outstanding lectures, musical programs and entertainments.

So far this year the programs have included lectures by Amelia Earhart and Cornelia Otis Skinner, both outstanding in their fields; plays by the Hedgerow Players and a Broadway company; a concert by Bohumir Kryl's symphony band and a concert by Alberto Salvi, harpist. Last year the college brought the famed Russian Cossack chorus and the Vienna choir to Glenville.

The College and Glenville owe a debt of gratitude to Curtis Baxter, a member of the faculty, for his untiring efforts in providing an outstanding entertainment series.

To the rest of the state it must seem unusual that Glenville, with a population of only about 500 and the College with an enrollment of only about 400, can provide the money necessary for entertainments of this kind. The answer must be that in Glenville there is an appreciation for some of the truly finer things of life.—The Clarksburg Exponent, Thursday, Feb. 27.

Passing Child Three Times Under the Belly of a Jenny May Cure Shingles

[This is the second of a series of features written by Carey Woolfer, College registrar, exclusively for the Mercury.—The Editors.]

Do you remember these old sayings: Apple trees and peach trees set out on the third day of the new of the moon grow rapidly and bear freely, while those set out in the old of the moon will always be scraggly; if a mirror is not held to the face of the dead so he can see how he is dressed, he will come back to set his clothes straight; cut the fodder in the old of the moon and it will turn black; if the birds build the comings of your hair to their nest, you will be sure to have headaches; a witch can clabber milk, but the milk can be sweetened by throwing into the crock a bud from an ash sprout; dead dogs or cats along the edge of the road may give the itch to anyone passing, but if he spits three times on the carrion, the itch can be avoided. . . .

A ruptured child, or one with the shingles, can be cured by passing it three times under the belly of a jenny, with the sun; a child passed three times under the raspberry briar will not take the whooping cough; when pigs carry straws in their mouths, there will be rain or storm; one cannot die easily on a feather bed—it must be taken off; if you will take an egg laid on Good Friday, put it in your pocket and go into a crowd, you can see some with horns on their heads, some with cloven feet, all bewitching folks; place a rose leaf under your pillow and dream of your lover; when corn blows down in the dark of the moon, it will ear out on the ground, when it blows down in the light of the moon, it will put out dog-roots and straighten out before it ears out; for the bride to put her bare feet on the floor on her wedding night is unlucky; make all pickled stuff in the new of the moon so the brine will come up quicker; a woman who dies in childbirth will return to protect her child from harm; pick the geese in the new of the moon and they will feather out quickly; when making vinegar, take beans and name them for three old sour women—this will make good sour vinegar quickly; to make soup thick stir it with a saffrasa stick?

Dean White Urges Language Study

Dean H. Laban White, in a recent lecture in his educational sociology class lamented the fact that too many College students avoid courses in language and that this subject was the one most frequently dropped from the class schedule. Students, he said, do not seem to realize that language is one of the most important subjects taught and that since it is the chief means of communication everyone who can lay claim to an education should be skilled in its use.

Robert T. Crawford, instructor in the College, spent the week-end at his home at Walkersville.

Vorley Rexroad and Samuel Whitman spent the week-end at their homes in Camden-on-Gauley.

Margaret Bell Zinn attended a dance at Weston Thursday night.

STANDARDIZED UNIFORMITY

The simple mechanical details of cigarette manufacture are of surprising importance. Upon them depend the physical properties of the cigarette, such as weight, size, firmness, moisture-holding properties, uniformity of fill—uniformity of product—all of which have a far-reaching effect on the character of its combustion and the constituents of its smoke.

In the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes all of these properties have been standardized with care for the perfection of A LIGHT SMOKE.

Glenville Red Terrors

The Glenville High School Red Terrors, above, are among the favorites to win the fourth annual Little Kanawha Valley basketball tournament, which begins in the College gymnasium this afternoon. The Terrors will meet Tanner High School tonight at 7 o'clock. The Terrors won the tournament last year by defeating Calhoun County High School in the finals. Front row, reading from left to right: Fred Shreve, Lowell Jarvis, Captain Rhoades, Ray Baxter Musser. Second row: Waitman Brown, William Wolfe, Lynn Gainer, and Jack Woodyard. Back row: Bud Satterfield, manager; Stanley Hall, assistant coach; Ellyson, Harry Woodyard, and Coach C. D. (Red) Wilfong.

Junior Rhoades Will Lead Red Terrors Against Tanner High School Bulldogs

Coach C. D. (Red) Wilfong's Red Terrors are odds-on favorites to win the fourth annual Little Kanawha Valley basketball tournament, which begins today. The Terrors, playing in-and-out ball throughout the season, were not seeded in the drawings. But since the drawings for the tournament have been made, they have met and defeated all of the seeded teams, Troy, Normantown, Spencer, and Tanner.

When the Terrors take the floor they will be led by Junior Rhoades, diminutive forward, who has averaged better than fifteen points per game. Rhoades is one of the two seniors on the Glenville squad. The other senior is Lynn Gainer, guard. The Glenville team has played the hardest schedule ever attempted, and has just completed a twenty-three game season.

Woodrow Wolfe attended the Joe Sanders dance at Parkersburg, Thursday night.

COACH HERON TO SHOW GOOD TEAM

Hilltoppers Come Here With Excellent Season's Record

Lionel Heron, '33, brings to Glenville one of the strongest teams to represent the Hilltop school in the past three years—a team which many say will go No. 1 in the tournament.

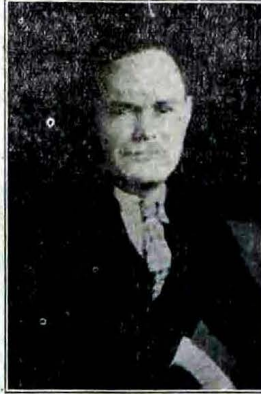

Paced by Mace, high-scoring guard, and Buchannon, center, the Roane County team will vie for honors against Sand Fork in the opening game.

Coach Heron is a former Pioneer football and baseball luminary. His team has just completed a strenuous schedule, including two games with the Clendenin team that decisively defeated Charleston. The Hilltoppers split the season with Glenville, winning here and losing on the home court.

Coach Wilfong

C. D. (Red) Wilfong, above, coach of the Glenville High School Red Terrors for the past decade, will be trying to win his third tournament here. Winner for the last two years, Coach Wilfong's team is one of the favorites to cop top honors in this year's play. Wilfong is a graduate of Glenville State Teachers College and Davis and Elkins College. He has enjoyed remarkable success since coming to the high school in 1926.

Robert Prim, '32, attended the Glenville-Wesleyan game, Wednesday night. Mr. Prim is a teacher in Calhoun County High School, Grantsville.

Tanner High School Bulldogs

Harland Stout Will Pace Tanner Team In Game Against Glenville Tonight

Tanner High School, leaders of the Little Mountaineer Conference, will present another high scoring club in an already fast tournament. The "Bulldogs" are to be complimented on their entrance into this year's play.

Coach Harold Burke's Sharpshooters have enjoyed a successful season, although they have played but fifteen games. Roal conditions make it impossible for them to get out or other teams to get to Tanner to offer them competition.

Harland Stout will be the chief threat on the Tanner team. Stout has scored an average of fifteen points per game. Tonight's game with Glenville will probably develop into a high scoring battle between him and Rhoades, Glenville ace.

Coach Burke will bring a better balanced team to this year's tournament than he did last year. The reserve strength of the Tanner team is exceptionally good.

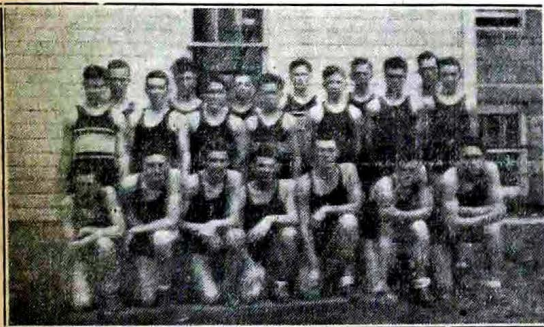

Alumni Here Today

Among the College alumni and former students appearing with their teams here today are:

Roland Butcher, '34, Sand Fork; Alan Morford, '34, Walton; Lionel Heron, '33, Spencer; Harold Burke, '34, Tanner; Shirley Westfall, '34, Normantown; C. D. Wilfong, '21, Glenville; Stanley (Joe) Hall, '29, assistant coach, Glenville; Creed Westfall, former student, Troy. Many other College alumni who are coaching teams in state high schools are attending their respective sectional tournaments today.

WALTON TEAM IS LIGHT THIS YEAR

Coach Morford's Quintet May Prove "Dark Horse" Against Vikings

Walton High School, although handicapped this year because of a shortage of athletes, will present an aggressive team in the battle with Normantown tonight at 8 o'clock. Coach Alan Morford, '34, brought a team extra ordinary here last year. Fans still remember the excellent sportsmanship shown by the Walton players.

The Walton team is one of the few in this section that practices less than one hour a day. Coach Morford explains that many of his players travel back and forth on the school bus, thus making it impossible for them to remain over for long practice periods. Tonight's game will mark the first appearance of the Walton team on the College floor this year.

One-Act Play, "You Have to Grin and Bear It," Is Given at Rohrbough Field

A one-act play entitled "You Have to Grin and Bear It," was presented at Rohrbough Field Thursday night to a small and unappreciative audience.

The scene of this one-act play was Rohrbough Field. The time: 11 p. m. The actors: approximately fifteen members of the College Vigilance Committee and about the same number of freshmen.

The curtain opened upon what appeared to be an Indian council circle, without fire or tomahawks. In place of tomahawks were paddles in the hands of the Vigilantes. The fire was provided by the friction caused from the smack of the paddles upon the pants of the freshmen.

The theme of the play was woven around the disobedience of freshman rules. The freshmen, accused of disobeying the regulations provided for them by the Student Council, were punished by the Vigilance Committee.

The chief actors who deserve praise were "Tarzan," and "a great big freshman." Also, "a long, lean freshman played his part well.

The highlight of the night's performance was the fall of the "long lean freshman" at the hands of "Tarzan."

FOR DIGESTION'S SAKE — smoke Camels

THERE'S AN OLD COLLEGE SAYING that it's a great life if you don't weaken! The demands on time and strength are endless. Digestive upsets are a frequent result! So smoke Camels for the sake of good digestion.

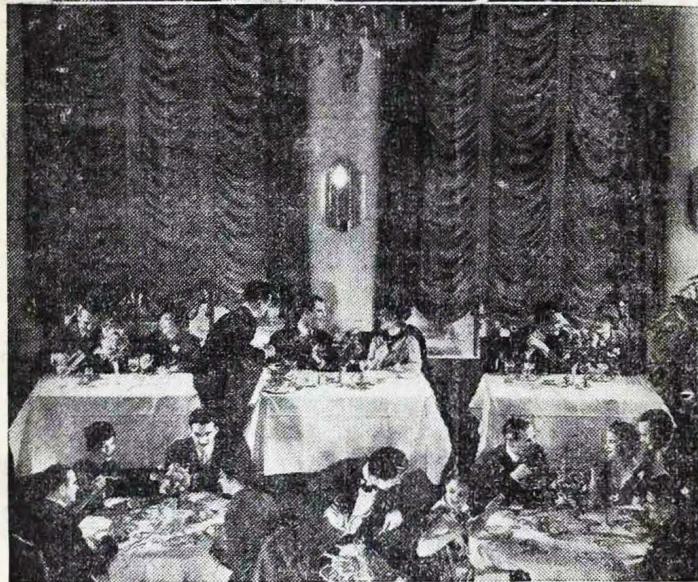

Smoking Camel Cigarettes Aids in Assuring Natural Digestive Action

"Hurry—hurry—hurry" seems to be the order of the day. People get caught in the lockstep of modern life. Tension finds the weak spot, so often—digestion. Smoking Camels improves digestion... wards off the consequences of hurried, nervous living. Camels gently stimulate digestive action. They promote the feeling of well-being and good cheer so necessary to the proper assimilation of food.

In a word, Camels set you right! And, in smoking Camels for digestion's sake, you may enter a whole new world of smoking pleasure.

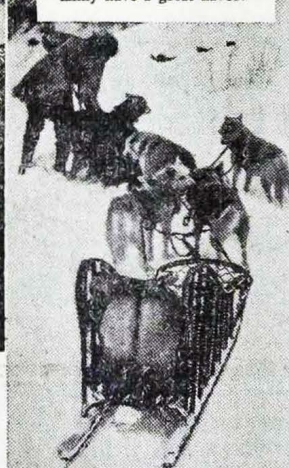

THE FAMOUS GOLD COAST DINING ROOM (above) at the Drake Hotel in Chicago. Here the fragrant, delicate smoke of Camels rises while Erik, famous maître d'hôtel, watches alertly over all to see that no wish goes unsatisfied. "So many of our guests smoke Camels," Erik says, "for they have found that choice tobaccos add to the pleasure of the meal. Camels are tremendously popular—a leading favorite here."

MAIL GOES THROUGH!

It's often a struggle for F. B. Fowler on Star Route No. 1392, Maine. "It's cat-and-run with me," he says, "but I always top off with Camels. Camels are good for digestion—help along the natural processes—and certainly have a great flavor!"

HARD HITTER.

Jane Sharp, tennis champion, plays a smashing game that carries her to the limits of exhaustion—often makes digestion a real problem. "Smoking Camels," she says, "makes food taste better—helps me to digest my meal. And Camels taste grand!"

NINE TEAMS TO COMPETE

Second Annual Intercollegiate Basketball Meet to Get Under Way Monday

Coach A. F. Rohrbough's Glenville State Teachers College Pioneers will open the second annual intercollegiate basketball tournament when they meet the defending state champions, Davis and Elkins College, of Elkins, at 2 o'clock, in Carmichael Auditorium, Clarksburg.

Drawings were made Sunday by Coach Rohrbough, Ed Davis, Salem College, and Jasper Colebank, of Fairmont, in a meeting with the tournament director, Paul Sheets and the Clarksburg American Legion representative, Charles Sinsel. The Legion is co-sponsor of the event this year which is being held in Clarksburg for the first time. Last year's tournament was played in Fairmont.

Glenville Meets Davis-Elkins

The opening game throws two of the state's strongest teams at each other—Glenville and Davis-Elkins—pre-tournament favorites, and the best game of the tournament will probably come at the first session. The winner of Monday afternoon's game will play New River State College Monday night at 9 o'clock.

Other opening round games will find Salem College opposing Shepherd State Teachers College at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. The second session scheduled to begin at 7 o'clock Monday night will find Fairmont playing Concord, Potomac State opposing Alderson-Broaddus, with the Glenville-Davis-Elkins winner closing this session against the New River Collegians.

Admission Is Fifty Cents

Art Ward, of Weston, and Jake Miller, of Bluefield, will officiate.

Admission for the tournament will be fifty cents a session. Coach Rohrbough announces season tickets will not be sold at a reduced price. A large crowd is expected by tournament officials and the Carmichael Auditorium, recently remodeled, will offer ample seating capacity for this state-wide event.

Each Rohrbough also announces there will be no consolation game to determine the third-place winner. Prizes will be awarded the winning schools as well as many individual prizes to the winners and runners-up.

Helen Davis, '28, Visiting Here

Miss Helen Davis, '28, of Glenville, a graduate of the Mercy Hospital in Baltimore, has received a position on the staff of the Eastern Long Island Hospital, Greenport, Long Island. Miss Davis is visiting at the home of her parents in South Glenville. She will leave for New York next week.

School Busses Will Be Available

The Gilmer County Board of Education, at a meeting last Saturday, authorized the use of the county school busses to transport students from Troy, Gilmer and Normantown, for a teacher training school in Glenville during the summer months.

Miss Pauline Moyers, of Sutton, a former student in the College and at present enrolled in Mountain State Business College, Parkersburg, visited friends in Glenville over the week-end.

IN THE SPORTSLITE

By ISADORE NACHMAN

Welcome! high school basketball squads and your many followers. It is with great pleasure that we again watch the cream of Central West Virginia basketball teams perform. . . .Tournaments are the topic of day, what with the high school seniors getting under way today, only to be followed by the second annual intercollegiate tournament in Clarksburg, Monday and Tuesday. . . .The Pioneers again suffer from "the luck of the draw" by being forced to play the "preliminary" game. . . .And if anyone tells you that a Glenville-Davis and Elkins game is a "preliminary" refer them to the Weston Medical Centre. . . .Advance gossip indicates that classwork in the College will be at a standstill Monday and Tuesday. . . .Nine teams are entered in this year's fray. . . .Schedule difficulties eliminated Bethany from participating, while "alibis" still further cut the field. Wesleyan and Morris-Harvey, teams that were entered last year, are minus from this year's event. . . .By the way, Morris-Harvey closed the season with the unenviable record, of having lost sixteen consecutive games. . . .The Pioneers will enter the state meet determined to win the state gonfalon. . . .Coach Rohrbough is not taking the Pioneers to Clarksburg for their health. It looks like the "fur will fly" in Carmichael Auditorium. . . .Captain (Babe) Jones, Martino, and Cottle are all veterans of last year's play. These three veterans, aided and abetted by Al Lilley and "Red" Davies, the high scorers, should make the Senators step to stay in the game. . . .Glenville fans believe Coach Rohrbough has the best team he has ever coached. This is saying a great deal when one thinks back to the days of Hines, Lindell, Vass, Burk, Porterfield, Pyles, etc. . . .Wilbur Beall thinks the Pioneers are the best scoring team he has seen in many years. . . .All the Pioneers have to do is win four games in two days—baby play—and come back home STATE COLLEGE BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS. . . .P. S. If we look too bad next week, just blame it on a strict basketball diet.

Lilley Scores 16 Points to Give Glenville 13th Conference Win

Captain Paul (Babe) Jones led the Pioneers to their thirteenth conference victory of the season Wednesday night, when they defeated the fast stepping Bethany Bisons in a thrilling, hair-raising, battle 45-44. Al Lilley paced the Pioneers to score seventeen points. Glenville led 27-15 at the half.

After assuming a big margin, the Pioneers slumped and the Bisons tied the score, 37-37, with eight minutes to play. From there on the game was replete with thrills. The crowd was in an uproar as the score saw-sawed back and forth. Lilley and Davies capped the climax to a great game by tossing in six points in the closing minutes of the game.

Captain Jones played the best game of the season. His guarding was sensational. It was a fitting climax to a great collegiate career. (Chi Chi) Martino teamed with Captain Jones to hold the visitors to a standstill in the opening half. Martino, however, left the game on fouls six minutes before the game ended.

Klevins, rangy forward, was the king-pin of the Bison attack, tossing in twenty-one points. Fifteen of these came in the closing minutes of play. Doeppen, captain of the Bisons, was held to one goal from the field.

Lilley, Cottle, and Martino Face Attack in Listless Encounter

In a listless game the Pioneers swamped the Wesleyan Bobcats, for the second time, Wednesday night Feb. 26, 52-37. The game started with little scoring for either team. At the half Coach Rohrbough's proteges were out in front, 24-15. The game marked the twelfth conference victory for Glenville.

Cottle, sophomore forward, scored twelve points, all from the field. Lilley continued to pace the scorers with fifteen points, although he missed many shots under the hoop. The Pioneer defense was something to marvel at. They held the Bobcats to one point during the first ten minutes.

Both teams were playing a waiting game in the opening half and the crowd constantly clamored for action as the ball was passed about in the back court. The second largest crowd of the season saw the game, but the usual thrilling, hard-fought contest was not in the offing.

Cottle opened the scoring for the Pioneers and after Barker, visiting guard, shot a foul, the Methodists were held to a stand still by Captain Jones and Martino.

"The Magnificent Obsession" by

"The Magnificent Obsession," by Lloyd C. Douglas, has recently been added to the Robert F. Kidd Library. The "magnificent obsession" that was the secret of the famous Dr. Hudson's success—a newly interpreted Christian teaching—was put into practice at Dr. Hudson's death by the young man, Bobby Merrick, who became the doctor's successor as a brain specialist. Bobby, by continuing his "personality-investments" in the way of secret philanthropies, as advocated by Dr. Hudson's formula, miraculously succeeds and makes a famous surgical invention with which he is able to save the life of the woman he loves.

New Books Are Added

Among the new books added to the Robert F. Kidd Library are "Book of Zoography," Raymond L. Ditmars; "Unrolling the Map," Leonard Outhwaite; "Vanishing Wilderness," Francesca R. La Monte; "The Naked Mountain," Elizabeth Knowlton; "Plato's American Republic," Douglas Woodruff.

Several others have been added, but have not been catalogued. They will be available this week. Among them are "Forgive Us Our Trespasses," Lloyd C. Douglas; "G Man," Charles Francis Coe; "Goodbye Mr. Chips," James Hilton; "The Puritan Strain," Faith Baldwin; "Fair As the Moon," Temple Bailey.

Student Forum

To the Editors of the Mercury:

Most everyone, especially college students, like to read for the pure joy of doing it. This is what one can do in the supervised social science study periods. The supervisor does not say, "Read chapter one in 'Primary Elections' by Merriam and Overacker." He says, "Read any of the number of books on the table, those that will be of greatest value and of most interest to you." There is no time spent in taking notes or writing up a notebook, which usually takes more time than the reading itself. No, the period is purely a work period and a good one.

In this system each student has an equal amount of reading to do. One does it for himself. One has no desire to read or copy the work of a fellow student. Perhaps the greatest value of these periods is that by reading without having to take notes and copy them in a notebook, one can read twice as much in the same period of time.
