The '35-'36 council suggested to the '36-'37 council the following points to consider next year:

A year book, an annual Student Council dance, appointment of a vigilance committee to report on freshman rules, publication of a book containing the roster of campus organizations and rules, plan for a May Day celebration, establish definite date for freshman rules to cease, have freshman caps ordered and paid for when enrolling, number chapel seats and force attendance, take charge of the College artists' course, and appoint committees from each hall to report violations of freshman rules.

A tentative date, May 13, was set for the installation of officers, pending the approval of President E. G. Rohrbough. Lloyd Metheny, retiring president of the Council, presided at the meeting.

Cats Cause Curious Crowds to Confer As Class Clips and Cuts

The annual slaughter has begun. Where? Right under our own noses, and soon they will lead us to the very spot of the clipping and cutting. The reason? After weeks of waiting, Miss James, biology instructor, announces that fourteen cats—just plain alley cats for use in Biology 104—are here. Twelve of the felines are doubly injected and are for the general use of the class. Two of the prize specimens are triple injected and will be used in the study of the portal system. The cats arrived in Glenville the past Tuesday, and dissecting began Thursday.

WILL DURANT TO DISCUSS CRISIS IN CIVILIZATION

Author and Lecturer Will Point Out Jobs For Next Generation

COMES HERE JUNE 1

Will Be Sixty-Third Annual Speaker
For College Commencement
Exercises

"The Crisis in American Civilization" is the subject which Will Durant, author, world traveler, philosopher and lecturer, will discuss at the sixty-third annual commencement address at Glenville State Teachers College, Monday, June 1, it is announced by President E. G. Rohrbough. During the course of his address Dr. Durant will attempt to point out a few jobs to undertake in the next generation.

Enthusiastic About United States

Recently returned from a world tour, during which he spent much time in the Orient gathering material for his new books on "The Study of Civilization," Dr. Durant is more enthusiastic about the United States and our western civilization than ever, although more critical than ever of some of its absurdities.

Dr. Durant is far from a polyantha type of thinker and speaker. He knows that there is much that is wrong and weak in our present civilization and he frankly admits these weaknesses. But against them he proves that we have great elements of strength.

Will Consider Machine Age

Dr. Durant is likely to point out that while we live in a marvelous generation and have machines to do everything for us, we may not be finer human beings for all our machines. Can it be that all this knowledge which we now possess can be poison? he may ask.

During the past few years Dr. Durant has attracted overflow audiences in nearly every large city, and nearly all of the forty-eight states. The average attendance at each lecture the past season was 1500. His audiences have been surprised to find that as the result of long experience, and a certain Gaelic wit, Dr. Durant speaks even better than he writes.

Dalmar Dye visited at his home in Looneyville last week-end.

J. G. Auville Advises Students to Work Out a Philosophy of Life

"You should set up standards right here in College—standards which will either make you or break you," J. G. Auville, superintendent of schools in Lewis County, advised in a chapel address Wednesday. His subject was "College Age."

"The college age," he declared, "is the formative age—the period best exemplified by the urge to do the right thing at all times. It is a time when your conscience is being formed and you are developing a philosophy of life."

"What are you going to make yourself like?" he asked, and continued, "What do you believe about yourself?"

Declaring that "you are in the plastic age—the age during which your ideals may be shaped and molded—and that after a few years your ideals will cease to change much," Mr. Auville advised students "to find out wherein your capacity lies and to start right where you are and make this your objective point in forming your philosophy of life."

Mr. Auville came here to attend the April meeting of the Central West Virginia Association of School Superintendents, of which he is president. He was presented in chapel by President E. G. Rohrbough.

A STEP FORWARD

The plan inaugurated by the College education department of arranging special visiting days for county school officials has apparently met with great success. Superintendents, assistant superintendents, and members of school boards from many central West Virginia counties have visited in the College on their respective county days, and have contributed no small part in making the plan worthy of its purpose.

The hearty response made by these school officials to the visiting plan certainly is of great significance to conscientious members of the teaching profession. Undoubtedly, local school officials are beginning to realize the increasing responsibilities placed upon them for keeping abreast of modern educational advancement. Most of these county school people apparently are conscious of the need for the best teachers available for their respective school systems.

The plan is new to most of the counties represented here, but the general response they have made to it is indicative of their eagerness to observe what students from their respective counties are really accomplishing. Certainly these observations will have no little influence on members of school boards in making up their teacher rosters. We feel the plan will be watched with interest by school people next year.—Jarrett W. Jones.

AN IDEA FOR NEXT YEAR

Why can't we of Glenville State Teachers College sponsor a Pioneer Week just as students of West Virginia University have their Mountaineer Week? Surely we have much that is worthwhile to advertise.

We know that many other colleges in our state and in neighboring states send representatives to the high schools to address the student bodies in chapel periods and in class meetings. Glenville State Teachers College may have as many accomplished speakers as any other school. Who knows?

If we are to encourage more persons to attend our school, we must advertise it, and the best method of advertising is to exhibit the product. Daily we hear the statement "it pays to advertise." Well, why not? Statistics prove that advertising does pay.

We must remember that Glenville State Teachers College is unknown in certain sections of our state and that if we wish to be better known we must endeavor to put the name of the school before many people.

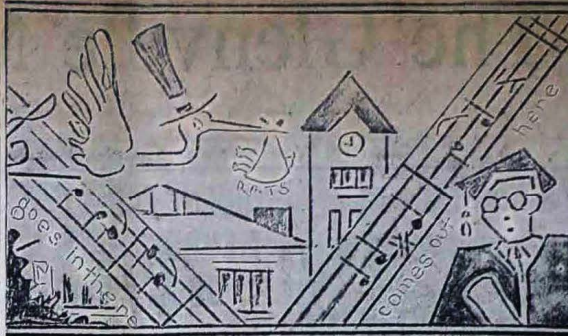

Such a program could not be worked out this year, but the idea can be saved for next year. We refer the matter to the Student Council.

SERVICE ABOVE ALL ELSE

Many people who are vitally interested in the College have begun to wonder why they are to be deprived of the pleasure of attending the commencement exercises to be held in the College auditorium June 1. The auditorium will accommodate approximately 700 persons. Judging from past experiences we may safely predict that 1000 persons will be present at the exercises this year. Twice that number probably would attend if they were only assured of being able to hear the commencement address.

This year Will Durant, nationally known author and lecturer, is to be the commencement speaker. Many undoubtedly would like to attend the exercises if for no other reason than to hear the address. Among those who must be turned away will be relatives and friends of the graduates who no doubt will feel they are being deprived of a pleasure which they have long anticipated. Can we turn these persons away without making a conscientious effort to accommodate them?

As a partial solution of this problem, we suggest that provision be made for installing a temporary amplifying system with terminals in the hall and nearby classrooms, or, if the weather will permit, at the front door of the administration building. Very efficient amplifying systems may be procured at a relatively low rental rate. We feel sure such accommodations would be greatly appreciated by a large number of people who will not be given seats in the auditorium.—Jack Elder.

WE SUGGEST CLEANING THEM

In a recent casual survey conducted by the Mercury it was learned that the students in the College agree that the one thing they dislike about the town of Glenville is the dirty appearance of the streets. The principal feature they like about the town is the friendly attitude of the townspeople and their apparent interest in the College.

We feel sure that the Glenville townspeople are interested in the welfare of the College and we know the College students are interested in the town of Glenville. This has been shown in many instances.

Now, we feel that if the College students, as well as several townspeople, think that the streets of Glenville are not as clean as they might be, then something should be done.

There is surely some way of ridding the streets of dust, dirt, and trash which inevitably accumulates there.

We students of Glenville State Teachers College are interested in the town of Glenville, and only in this light do we make the suggestion—clean our streets!—Woodrow Wolfe.

Glenville's Own News Reel

By S. M. F.

THE gorgeous spring with its warm balmy breezes and enticing star-lit nights is capturing all of Glenville this week. Everything is a glow with loveliness. Ardent young lovers who found Jack Frost's chilly breezes a bit devastating during the long cold winter months are taking advantage of this exotic season and can be found in every conceivable nook and lane. New loves are seen dotting the campus here and there, and who knows, maybe they too will find the spot on Tank Hill covered with poison ivy....Too, the full moon that has played its part with Dan Cupid for so many years may be cited as the stimulant for a popular young man's original verse he sends each day to a Verona Mapel Hall coed on a penny postal card.

THE intramural baseball games are proving themselves quite interesting both to the fans and the players. It is reported that one of our dashing blonde coeds suffered a severe heart attack, recently, when her hero "fell out of the box".... Arlan Berry, '34, a teacher in Sutton High School, visited friends in Glenville, Saturday.

CLASS meetings were held the past week to elect officers for 1936-37. In some instances, a quorum was not present. These meetings should be a vital issue in one's school year. Students should take more interest in them....Glenville State Teachers College is honored in having Will Durant, internationally known lecturer and author, to deliver the sixty-third annual commencement address. A means should be provided whereby not only the 291 graduates, but as many as wish may hear this renowned speaker.

MISS Laura Ann Miles, librarian and instructor in library science, will leave this week-end for Richmond, Va. where she will represent the College at a meeting of the American Library Association.... Political science students will stage political arguments for contesting state nominees Friday morning at the regular class periods.... Don't forget to tell your friends and prepare yourself for the Holy Roller Court Dance, May 15, in the College gymnasium.... Leon Rischel, former student, is a Roane County candidate for the House of Delegates. So until next week, its 30.

CLIPPING THE CAMPUS TULIPS

To the Editors of the Mercury:

We are in sympathy with George Firestone, our veteran janitor, who recently missed several of his beautiful tulips which he has been kind enough to grow on the front campus. We believe the act was purely unintentional and was committed without any forethought. However, we haven't any doubt but that there are some skunks on the campus mean enough to clip off flowers and then throw them away. Some people just won't grow up, you know.

So, through this brief letter we hope to convey our deepest sympathies to Mr. Firestone and to inform the nincompoop who cut the flowers recently that we think it was a dirty, rotten, low-down trick.

At the Library

The following books have been added recently to the Robert F. Kidd Library:

Unpublished Poems, Dickinson.
College Blue Book.
Sons and Lovers, D. H. Lawrence.
Forsytes, Pendydes and Others, John Galsworthy.
Pulitzer Prize Plays—1918-1934.
Asylum, William Seabrook.
Rubber Truncheon, Wolfgang Langhoff.
Green Hills of Africa, Ernest Hemingway.
Hell Bent for Election, James P. Warburg.
Modern Art, Thomas Craven.

Surely such a caper will not again becloud the standing of some student, or group of College students.

Advice To A Girl

No one worth possessing
Can be quite possessed;
Lay that on your heart,
My young angry dear;
This truth, this hard and precious
stone,
Lay it on your hot cheek,
Let it hide your tear.
Hold it like a crystal
When you are alone
And gaze in the depths of the icy
stone.

Long, look long and you will be blessed:
No one worth possessing
Can be quite possessed.

Student Agrees That Over-Worked Alibis Are Worse Than None—Maybe

[This story, an informal essay on over-worked alibis, is contributed by Miss Elizabeth Gibson, a freshman in the College.—The Editors.]

An alibi is the plea of having been at a certain place at a certain time.

We have all heard the old saying "A poor excuse is better than none," and this, most people apply to their alibis. No matter how old the alibi or how overworked, the husband still insists that he had to work late at the office; or that Mr. ——— stopped him down town and he just couldn't get away, while all the time he was probably enjoying himself at one of the many pleasure parlors.

Wife Demands An Answer

Many a man has stopped outside the door, removed his shoes and quietly tiptoed his way up stairs while the clock chimed out the wee small hours of the morning, only to be stopped at the top of the stairs by a wife who demands a reason for the removal of the shoes and why the late (or rather early) hours? And the answer is the same old alibi, "I didn't want to disturb your sleep, darling," and in answer to the hours "Mr. ——— (the boss to you) insisted!" I come to his house so that he could explain the work I am to do while he is out of town on business." Immediately the wife is all smiles and dimples and on her way to bed she remarks to herself, "How intelligent my husband is."

All Offer Alibis

It isn't only the husband who uses an alibi. From childhood up and through every stage of life almost everyone indulges in alibis of some type. The school boy uses an alibi for playing hooky; the school girls, for dreaming in class. The young man must have an alibi when he is late—or breaks an engagement, and the girl, an alibi for coming home at twelve when father distinctly told her to be in at eleven; but so goes the world and also the tongues because Mrs. ——— told Mrs. ——— over the back-yard fence that when her Johnny was coming home from Mary Jones' last night at twelve o'clock he saw William in that awful night club.

Frank Martino and John Marra were week-end visitors at their homes in Clarksburg.

Social Committee Sponsors Dance

About forty persons attended an informal dance in the College gymnasium Saturday night from 8 until 11 o'clock. Music was furnished by a nickelodeon. The Social Committee sponsored the dance, and Miss Alma Arbuckle, librarian, was the faculty member present.

John W. Mowrey, Jr., was a week-end visitor at his home in Clarksburg.

Students Like Glenville But Wonder Why Streets Are Not Cleaned More Often

Inefficient traffic regulations were cited by many as another fault of the town. One student said he did not like the incessant baseball talk which is heard on every street corner during the season. Another thought Glenville needed a playground.

Many agreed that they liked the friendly attitude of the townspeople and the interest they take in the

-for Digestion's sake...smoke Camels

Digestion proceeds more smoothly...alkalinity is increased...when you make Camels a pleasant interlude in dining

There is a delightful sense of comfort and good feeling that comes after a good meal—and Camels.

Modern life hammers at your nerves and digestion. Gently, naturally, Camels restore and increase the flow of digestive fluids...alkaline digestive fluids...so vital to the enjoyment of food...so necessary for good digestion. And Camels never jangle the nerves!

Smoking Camels is one of life's unfailing pleasures. So enjoy Camels at will—with meals—between meals—for a refreshing "lift"—for pure contentment. Camels set you right!

BOGGED DOWN with studies? There's refreshment in Camel's costlier tobaccos. Enjoy Camels—for a welcome "lift" in energy—for stimulation of the digestive fluids—for a sense of well-being.

MINUTEMEN DROP FIRST TILT, 8-7, TO EDWARDS' MEN

Paul Fulks' Team Continues to Hold Lead in Intramural Baseball League

DAVIES WINS OWN GAME

Bennett and Fulks Allow But Four Hits — Errors Afield Account For Loss

Paul Fulks' league leading Minutemen lost a thrilling game to Edwards' Rivermen, 8-7, yesterday at Rohrbough Field. The defeat was the first the Minutemen have suffered in four games. Up until yesterday the Minutemen had won two, tied one and lost none. Last week's game saw the Rivermen defeat the Hilltoppers, 12-4; the Minutemen win over the Hilltoppers, 6-5; and the Bulldogs nose out the Rivermen, 6-5.

Count Tied at 3-All

In the Minutemen-Rivermen set-to game yesterday the winners took a two run lead in the first round, added another tally in the fourth and led 3-0. In the last half of the fourth the Minutemen tied the count at 3 all. The Rivermen again took the lead in the first of the fifth as they scored three more runs.

The Minutemen opened the last of the sixth with Conley fanning. Nachman then singled to center field. Strader struck out, and with two down, Wright singled, sending Nachman to third. Wright stole second and both men scored on Springer's two-base blow after Fulks got on by an error.

Cutlip Opens First Half

Cutlip opened the first half of the last frame by getting to first base on an error by Haught. Davies then hit a long ball to left field that went for three bases and scored the tying run. Davies scored the winning run on a fielder's choice.

The Minutemen threatened in the last of the seventh as Bennett got his second blow of the game, stole second and third but died on third as Gibson, Haught and Mullenix, batting for Conley, all struck out. Bennett came home on the last pitch to Mullenix, but umpire Marra called it a strike and the game was over.

IN THE SPORTLITE

By ISADORE NACHMAN

THE INTRAMURAL BASEBALL league is causing considerable talk on the campus and among the townspeople . . . Paul Fulks' Minutemen appear to be "it" in the league at this writing, but anything can happen in a baseball league . . . Note the New York Giants in the National League pennant race in 1934 and 1935 . . . A team of Glenville boys defeated an All-Star College aggregation, 8-3, Friday. The Collegians were completely baffled by Everett Brannon's slants, and if you don't believe me just ask "Durg" Wright.

WITH GRADUATION AROUND the corner—not the prosperity corner—Glenville State Teachers College is about to lose two outstanding athletes, Thomas Pierce and Paul (Bahe) Jones. Both boys have played great ball for Coach Rohrbough. Pierce has been an outstanding football player and his basketball ability ranks high. Jones, captain of this year's basketball squad, has been a consistent basketball player and a dependable grider throughout his four years in College. Their loss will be felt when the Pioneers line up next fall and winter. Both boys intend to enter the coaching profession this fall. We know they will be a success, because Coach Rohrbough always turns out good directors, well grounded in the fundamentals of all sports . . . Gordon Eisman, at Elizabeth; Lionel Heron, at Spencer; Anthony Leebor, at Trap Hill; Harold Burke, at Tanner; Stanley Jeranko, at Northview Junior High School of Clarksburg; and Harold Porterfield, at Summersville, are proteges of Coach Rohrbough. All are faring well in high school circles.

THE KENTUCKY DERBY (Derby to the intellectuals) held the interest of Glenville sport fans Saturday . . . Brevity, the favorite, came in second in a fast race that brought sweat to the brow of A. F. (Nate) Rohrbough . . . The Detroit Tigers seem to have hit a streak of bad luck after escaping the fatal blow for two seasons . . . The loss of Big Hank Greenberg and Manager Cochrane will hurt the Bengals' bid for their third American League flag . . . We predict the New York Yankees will have "Pinky" Higgins, leading third baseman of the Junior circuit and now property of the Philadelphia Athletics, before the season ends . . . A suggestion: You are missing something if you aren't attending the intramural games at Rohrbough Field.

G CLUB PRESENTS KEYS

Five Senior Members Receive Varsity Emblems

The G Club recently presented five senior members with varsity keys. The emblem has the blue varsity G and the figure of a pioneer engraved on it.

Those receiving the keys were: Thomas Pierce, of Chester; Allen C. Smyth, of Sutton; Lloyd Metheny, of Terra Alta; Leroy Sheets, of Greenbank; and Paul Jones, of Richwood.

Bud Goes In For Real Education But Finds Novel Course Too Tough

The class in English Novel, conducted by Miss Willa Brand, was intensely occupied in the study of Thomas Hardy and his Wessex Country Monday morning when a stranger appeared, unannounced, in the doorway. "How do you do?" said Miss Brand. No answer came from the lips of the mysterious visitor and the class mechanically continued with a description of the death of Eustacia Vye.

The stranger continued to sit by the instructor's desk in silence. Finally, the visitor evidently became bored (or was at first a disinterested spectator) and left the room as quietly as he had entered.

"Bud," the healthy looking dog belonging to Coach A. F. Rohrbough, apparently did not care whether Thomas Hardy was a novelist or an engineer.

Former Judge to Be Chapel Speaker

Fred G. Bale, former judge of the juvenile court in Columbus, O., will speak in chapel tomorrow morning. Mr. Bale is now affiliated with the International Character Education Association, Cincinnati, and has been lecturing in Glenville since Sunday.

Pioneer Captain

Paul Fulks, above, of Weston, is the new Pioneer football captain. Fulks, a junior in the College, was named captain by Coach A. F. Rohrbough, at the annual G Club Dance, Friday night, April 24. He is a veteran grider and a popular student on the campus.

Leroy Sheets spent the past week-end at his home at Greenbank. Andrew Edwards visited the past week-end at his home in Wheeling.

TENNIS TEAMS TO BE DISCONTINUED

Rohrbough Field Courts Will Not Be Completed in Time

The College will not have a tennis team this year, Coach A. F. Rohrbough announced yesterday. He said that it would be impossible to have a team because the double tennis courts which have been removed to Rohrbough Field would not be completed in time to play this year. However, the courts may be conditioned to permit students to practice regularly this spring.

The College was forced to move the double courts from the campus when construction work was started on the new boys' dormitory. The single court near the Lodge is available.

Stacy Gerwig, S. N., '14, was a visitor at the College one day last week. Mr. Gerwig is now employed as supervisor of work and recreation at a transient bureau camp near Pittsburgh.

Helen Magnuson was in Weston Saturday.

George Post visited at his home in Simpson last week-end.

Julia Swiger was in Clarksburg last week-end.

Margaret Isner attended the Apple Blossom Festival at Winchester, Va., Thursday and Friday.

EIGHT PARTS OF SPEECH

All names of persons, places, things. Are nouns, as Caesar, Rome, and kings.

Pronouns are used in place of nouns; My thought, her work, his book, your frowns.

When the kind you wish to state, Use an adjective, as great.

But if of manner you would tell, Use adverbs, such as slowly, well.

To find an adverb, this test try, Ask how, or when, or where, or why. As with respect, or in our nation.

Conjunctions, as their names implies, Are joining words; they are the ties That bind together day and night, Calm but cold, dull or bright.

Next we have the verbs which tell Of action, being, and state as well. To work, succeed, achieve, and curb— Each one of these is called a verb.

The interjections show surprise, As Oh! Alas! Ah me! How wise! Thus briefly does this jingle state The parts of speech, which total eight.

One-third of the unskilled workers on railroad construction, building projects and irrigation in Russia are women.

A divorce can be obtained in Nevada after six weeks' residence, but six months is required for issuing of a residence fishing license.
