H. Y. CLARK MAIN SPEAKER DURING ASSEMBLY PERIOD

Lists Many Points in Favor of New Education; Also Cites
Advantages of Old

LEARN TO DO BY DOING

Praises Young Civic Organizations, and Tells How They Have Built Character

By VORLEY REXROAD

An address by H. Y. Clark, whose subject was, "Youth, Today and Half a Century Ago," featured the assembly program Wednesday at 10 a. m. President E. G. Rohrbough presided.

"Criticism of a public education has always been popular, and since nothing else so directly contacts the populace it is reasonable always to expect this criticism," Mr. Clark declared.

Listing points in defense of the new education over that of education of half a century ago, Mr. Clark said: "First, only few of those exposed to the education of half a century ago became good in the performance of this learning. Second, much of the things learned were not practical knowledge. Although the school of today is still largely an artificial set up of real life, as between the two, we think the modern method is an advance over the old."

He cited examples of work done by boys to day and compared the work to that done by boys of half a century ago. "In contrast," he said, "I want to point out the meager opportunities for a boy to take part in producing things he needs and uses. There has never been an improvement in education by experience; that is, learning how to do a thing by actually doing it."

He asked the question: "What can we substitute today for the natural education which played so great a part in the educating of youth a half century ago?"

Mr. Clark praised the young civic organization of the day for the part they have played in making for citizenship and declared that "the Boy Scouts and 4-H Clubs have done more to promote real citizenship and morals in proportion to effort expended than have the schools."

H. Y. CLARK GIVES TALK TO P.-T. A.

Virginia Hall, of High School Faculty, Reads Message of National President

"Forcefulness is an element of one's personality and is a very desirable human trait," said H. Y. Clark, instructor in the College education department in a talk to the Glenville Parent-Teachers Association in the high school auditorium Thursday night.

"Every successful person in any line of endeavor has demonstrated the trait of forcefulness in his activities. The elements that make up the trait of forcefulness are: Confidence, courage, energy, and tact," Mr. Clark said, and added: "Forcefulness is the aim in our activities."

Miss Virginia Hall, of the high school faculty, read a message from the president of the National Parent-Teachers Association, and a film on milk sanitation, prepared by the state health department, was shown.

PROOFS EXPECTED THIS WEEK

Photographer Ready to Complete All
Group Pictures

Proofs for student photographs are expected this week, says Otis Rexroad, head of the yearbook staff. Each student who has had his picture taken will select from among four the proof he likes best. The photographer will bring the proofs selected and forward these to the staff ready for engraving.

Letters to prospective advertisers and to the alumni are being prepared. These letters will be followed by personal calls if necessary.

Much of the copy for the yearbook has been prepared, although all captions are yet to be written.

If weather permits, the remaining group pictures and campus scenes will be taken this week.

Council to Submit Resolution

The Student Council, following approval given by President E. G. Rohrbough, agreed last night to take charge of assembly exercises tomorrow and to submit to the student body for approval a resolution which will give the Council broader powers in dealing with divers types of student violators. Bantz W. Craddock, Jr., president of the Council, will preside.

read extracts from "Victoria Regina," a play starring Helen Hayes which has been running for more than a year in New York City.

Mrs. J. Erle Arbuckle, a former instructor in the College, was chairman of the program committee.

Current Events Club Meets Tonight

"Action of Italy and Germany toward Spain" by John Rogers; "Present Happenings of the Spanish Revolt" by Rudolph Urbanick; "Action of Great Britain and France" by Whitman Hull; and "The Strike in the Automobile Factories" by Wendell McNemar are topics to be discussed at the meeting of the Current Events Club tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Room 106.

Mr. and Mrs. Linnwood Zinn of Boston, Mass., were visiting here and in Weston during the Christmas holiday. Both Mr. and Mrs. Zinn are graduates of the College.

World Traveler

James C. Wilson, world traveler, writer and lecturer, will appear in the College Auditorium, Tuesday night, Jan. 19, at 8:15 o'clock. His subject will be, "Three-Wheeling Through Africa."

RECITAL GIVEN AT BURNSVILLE

Miss Margaret Dobson Offers
Interpretation of Series of Poems

Miss Margaret Dobson, instructor in speech, gave a lecture recital Wednesday afternoon at the Burnsville graded school.

The theme of the recital was based on the lines, "Children's faces looking up, holding wonder like a cup," taken from "Barter," a poem by Sara Teasdale.

Miss Dobson interpreted poems written by Rachel Field, Carl Sandburg, Sara Teasdale, Josephine Johnson, and Frances Cornford. She also interpreted the book, "Around the World in Eleven Years," by Patience, Richard, and John Abbe.

Miss Dobson was accompanied to Burnsville by Dean H. L. White. She was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Marshall.

Walter L. Moore, A. B. '32, is principal of the Burnsville school.

Mr. Crawford Undergoes Operation

Mr. Robert T. Crawford, instructor in education in the College and preceptor at the Lodge, underwent an operation at the medical center of the state hospital at Weston during the Christmas holidays. He returned to Glenville, Sunday, Jan. 3, and resumed his teaching duties Monday, Jan. 4.

Seniors Receive Class Rings

Senior rings have been distributed by the class president, Goff Giboney. The rings are of a standard make. The emblem has a picture of a pioneer with the words "The Pioneers," written above. Below is the date "1872," the year in which the College was founded.

JAMES C. WILSON, NOTED EXPLORER AND WRITER, COMES HERE TUESDAY NIGHT TO RELATE STORY OF WORLD TRAVELS

HAS ARTICLE IN SCHOOL JOURNAL

Miss Margaret Christie Writes
Paper on "Fine Arts in the Elementary School"

Miss Margaret Christie, art instructor in the College, discusses "Fine Arts in the Elementary School" in the January issue of the West Virginia School Journal.

"The inherent urge in a child is apparent to such an extent that we may say that every child likes to draw if he is allowed to draw what he likes. Emphasis should not be placed upon the finished work, skill and technical perfection, but upon the release of the child's creative capacities," Miss Christie says.

"We endeavor," she adds "to make a practical and logical correlation of the essential principles of art with other subjects whenever possible."

"Let us not try to make artists of our pupils, but rather let us teach them to appreciate art."

WRITES STORY FOR JOURNAL

Miss Ernestine Lawson's Article Appears in School Magazine

"Noticeable Evidence of Well Planned Work," an article written by Ernestine Lawson, S. N. '36, a teacher in Lewis County, appeared in the January issue of the West Virginia School Journal.

Miss Lawson cites the following evidences of well planned work: A unifying motive, every child busy, and the development of inquiring minds by the children.

The progressive teacher should have her material at hand, ask thought provoking questions and always plan her work carefully, she suggests.

"Friendship" Is Topic For Y.M.C.A.

"Friendship" will be the theme of tonight's meeting of the College chapter of the Young Men's Christian Association, says James Osborne, chairman of the entertainment committee. A short business session also will be held.

H. Y. Clark Compiles Statistics to Show Fewer Students Miss Afternoon Classes

By NEWTON COOPER

A study of the attendance of the four Education 107 classes, taught by H. Y. Clark, which meet at 8:00, 9:00, 10:00, and 2:00 o'clock, revealed the following information: The 8:00 o'clock class has an attendance of 97.31 per cent, the 9:00 o'clock class an attendance of 96.99 per cent, the 10:00 o'clock class an attendance of 96.96 per cent, and the 2:00 o'clock class an attendance of 99.15 per cent. These figures include Nov. 24, which was the day before Thanksgiving. Omitting Nov. 24, the attendance is as follows: 8:00 o'clock, 97.44 per cent; 9:00 o'clock, 97.49 per cent; 10:00 o'clock, 97.72 per cent; and 2:00 o'clock, 99.71 per cent. As the Thanksgiving holiday was an unusual event, Mr. Clark thought it fair to count it out.

Mr. Clark says that if this is a typical situation and the classes are

Will Use the Famous Subject,
"Three-Wheeling Through Africa"

TO BEGIN AT 8:15 P. M.

Will Speak Before Explorers' Club
Before Coming to Glenville

By JOHN W. MOWREY, JR.

"Three-Wheeling Through Africa" is the title of an illustrated lecture to be presented by James C. Wilson, explorer, writer, and lecturer, in the College Auditorium, Tuesday night, Jan. 19, at 8:15 o'clock.

The date of the lecture, previously announced for Jan. 15, was changed in order to permit Mr. Wilson to appear before the Explorers' Club in New York City.

Mr. Wilson has been poking about the odd corners of the earth in unusual ways for ten years. He has gone down the Yukon in a home-made row-boat, crossed the Atlantic on a lumbering old freighter, crossed Africa by motorcycle, crossed India by third-class carriage, river barge, and native caravan, and gone through Burma on foot and by ox-cart.

Youthfully daring, he has experienced unique adventures. Disarmingly friendly, he has become intimate with strange and little known peoples. Keenly perceptive, he has penetrated beneath the surface of vastly different civilizations.

Two young men, two pop-pop bikes, two sidecars piled high with monkey wrenches, films, and cameras, tires, gasoline, spare pistons, sprockets, and connecting rods—and a banjo! This was the Flood-Wilson Trans-African Motorcycle Expedition, setting out from Lagos, Nigeria, to make the first motorcycle crossing of Africa laterally north of Lake Chad.

Five months later two bearded scare-crows, red-eyed but still jaunty, roared down from the crest of the Eritrean hills on what was left of the motorcycles, and came clattering to a stop where the Red Sea laps against East Africa.

typical groups, these figures show that the later in the day one has a class the more likely he is to attend it. This is contrary to some people's belief that they want to have their classes as early as possible because the earlier classes are easier to attend.

Isadore Nachman, A. B. '36, a student in the School of Journalism, University of Missouri, spent the Christmas holidays here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Nachman, and his uncle, Charles Bass. Mr. Nachman, who expects to receive the B. J. degree at the close of the summer session, was a member of the Mercury staff for two years.

Miss Esther Rader of Summersville, who taught in the education department of the College the past summer, spent the Christmas holidays in Florida.

Hunter Whiting Speaks on Current Trends In Drama at Meeting of Woman's Club

By EARL WOLFE

Three distinct classes of modern drama as found on the present-day stage include dramatizations of successful novels, biographical plays, and those of social criticism.

So declared Mr. Hunter Whiting, instructor in foreign languages in the College, in a talk last night before the Woman's Club in the social room of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. Whiting recently returned from New York City where he attended ten or more current stage productions.

He listed among the more important of the modern playwrights Maxwell Anderson, Sidney Kingsley and Clifford Odet. Anderson, he suggested, is by far the most important of the modern group. His "The Wingless Victory," "High Tor," and "The Masque of Kings" soon are to be produced on the stage.

THE NEW SCHEDULE

Along with the physical improvements to the campus buildings and other progressive steps in the growth of the College, we are glad to note the important change in the schedule given to the students by which they may select their courses for the next semester.

Those who plunge into the curriculum bulletin devised by the state often find many headaches when they try to choose their courses from information which, although not meager, is far from being clear to the average student. Many have chosen their courses with good intentions, only to find out perhaps two years later that the courses they had chosen did not meet the requirements in the teaching field they desired.

The new schedule will eliminate many obstacles and will save much time during enrollment, and we are glad to hand a bit of praise to those responsible for the new arrangement.—Denzel Garrett.

TIME MARCHES ON

Who said nothing ever happened?
A king abdicates for love; a pope is attacked by the infirmities of old age; a revolution brings Europe into two armed camps; a new trend in government is approved by American voters.

These are stirring and momentous times. History is in the making.

We shall tell our grandchildren that a revolution broke out in Spain; the people of the United States consented to greater government control; Edward VIII gave up an empire for Mrs. Simpson.

What the result of these fast-changing events will be, we can only guess. There are many under-currents and cross-currents, moves and counter-moves that do not come to light until long after the action has ceased. In the future we shall be able to stand off and look back across the years and see the true picture. Just now, however, we ought to keep up with a few of the major changes. We can do this by reading good newspapers and good magazines.—John Rogers.

INTRAMURAL DEBATES

Debating is one of the most essential features of all the extra-curricular activities in which college students engage, for it necessitates clear thinking and intensive study. It provides excellent thinking as well as reasoning, for debators must be able to think logically.

Debating develops the ability to formulate arguments quickly, to see the fallacy in an opponent's logic, and to marshal one's own points in the most effective manner. In addition to this, it fosters poise and ease of bearing in public speaking. The debator who reasons well, however, is not necessarily successful; he must also present his arguments convincingly. Thus to a certain degree, oratory and other rhetorical devices enter as elements in debating.

Debating is no pastime for a lazy student; but for the one who is willing to work there is something fascinating in the contest of wits. Intramural debates should, therefore, hold an important place among our collegiate activities.—Decoe Parsons, '37.

PEACE NOW, PEACE ALWAYS

With all eyes turned toward shell-torn and blood-spattered Spain, leaders in political and ecclesiastical circles ushered in the New Year with prayers for peace; not surprising, not unneeded, not impossible.

While the leader of our own country urges peace and while he pushes ahead the knitting of friendship in the new world, barriers to a growing democracy—the hope of the world—are indirectly flinging themselves in our path. These barriers cause no small embarrassment in diplomatic circles; supreme diplomacy and tact are called for in their adjustment, and without adjustment the hatred flame of angered diplomats is fanned to full blaze and burns with whirlwind velocity ugly and unhealable scars.

What can we do about it? Well, we can preach peace, we can talk peace, and we can practice peace—then we can live in peace, boast of peace, and sleep in peace.

The American college campus might well be the monument and battleground upon which a future Lincoln might stand and say that "We are met upon a great battlefield of that war—a war for peace."—Denzel Garrett.

With vacation over, most of us are back in harness determined to knock the tar out of those bothersome books and make a whirlwind finish before final exams. . . . But with Mother Nature so kind to us lately, our innermost appreciation for the joys and finer things of life is deeply aroused. . . . The secluded and remote places are being frequented again, and complex, critics, crackpots, cynics and clowns are strolling about nonchalantly in a perfect state of satisfaction, greatly enjoying life and glad to be alive. . . . Eet ees loafy, eh, Senor? . . . Not in the eyes of Virginia Lee Tucker. . . . Why? . . . A ROSY FUTURE

AT THE LIBRARY

Several books of interest to students in English 221 have been added to the Robert F. Kidd Library. Among them are: "Library Key," Zaidie Brown; "Guide to Use of Libraries," Margaret Hutchin; "High Schools," A. E. Adams; and "Program for Elementary School Library Service," Lucille Fargo.

Among the new music books are: "Beethoven," Robert Schaffler; "Mendelssohn," Schima Kaufman; "Moussorgsky," Oskar Ven Riese- man; "My Musical Life," Rimsky-Korsakoff, and "Franz Schubert," Newman Flower.

General books that have been added are: "Hold 'em Girls," Judson Phillips; "What is She Like," Mary Brockman; "Best Plays of 1935-36," Burns Mantle; "Land of the Free," Herbert Agar; "Steel-dictator," Harvey O'Conner; and "Privileged Characters," Morris R. Werner.

Burnsville Teacher Resigns Position

Miss Opal Veith, instructor in English at Burnsville High School, resigned her position and is now teaching in Indian Reserve School, New Mexico. The vacancy created by her resignation was filled by Miss Rena Mick. Her vacancy in turn was filled by Miss Rena McPherson. Miss Veith is a former student and Miss Mick and Miss McPherson are graduates of the College.

Teachers Will Edit Monthly Paper

Several graduates and former students in the College have been given positions on the staff of the Lewis County Teacher, a paper which will be published monthly by the teachers in Lewis County. The first issue will appear this week. Everett W. Davis, principal of the Lightburn school, is the editor. Others on the staff who are either graduates or former students here are Armond Stalnaker, Creed H. McCue, Byron Turner, Jenneth Barnett, Glenn Brown, Robert R. Hale and A. C. Westfall.

Gets Appointment in Grantsville

The Rev. Fell Kennedy, A. B. '35, a teacher in Normantown High School, has been named pastor of the Baptist Church in Grantsville. Mr. Kennedy will move his family there about the first of February.

Canterbury Club Meets Tomorrow

Stories by George Miller, Ella Summers, and Marjorie Craddock will be the program features at a meeting of the Canterbury Club in Room 1 at the Robert F. Kidd Library, Wednesday evening at 7:00 o'clock. The club will discuss plans for taking in six new members next semester.

TWO MEMBERS OF FACULTY MARRIED DURING HOLIDAYS

Announcements of the marriage of two members of the College faculty were made during the Christmas holidays.

H. Y. Clark, of the education department, and Miss Sarah Louise Cain, S. N. '31, a former teacher in the Normantown grade school, were married Nov. 27, in Washington, D. C., by Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, a cousin of the bridegroom. The marriage was announced Dec. 20.

Linn B. Hickman, instructor in English and journalism, and Miss Pauline Roberts, teacher of English at Sand Fork high school, were married Christmas day at the home of the bride in Glenville. The Rev. J. F. Baxter read the ceremony in the presence of a small group of relatives and intimate friends.

Both couples will live in Glenville.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS DANCE AFTER GAME

The first victrola dance following the Christmas vacation was held in the College Gymnasium Saturday night from 9:30 until 11:30 o'clock. The program was well received by a large number of students and many out-of-town guests. The dance followed the Waynesburg-Glenville basketball game. Students and faculty members were admitted free of charge. Approximately seventy-five couples attended.

Among the former students and the graduates present were Miss Sara Margaret Fisher, S. N. '36; Miss Helen Magnuson, S. N. '36; Miss Marzie Linger, S. N. '34; Miss Virginia Chidester, A. B. '33; and Miss Maxine Bollinger, S. N. '36, all of Weston; and Paul ("Babe") Jones, A. B. '36, of Richwood.

Sponsors were members of the College social committee. Chaperons were Miss Alma Arbuckle and Miss Bertha E. Olsen.

TOY LEE LONG AND FRANK CAIN WED

Toy Lee Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Amos Long of Pine Grove, and Frank A. Cain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Cain, of Glenville, were married November 26, at Romney.

The Rev. John F. Ownes, pastor of the Southern Methodist Church, read the marriage service.

Mrs. Cain is a former student of the College. Mr. Cain, S. N. '27, taught four years in West Virginia schools, and is now employed in the du Pont plant at Belle, Kanawha County.

Miss Brannon Weds Mr. Chenoweth

Miss Stella Brannon, of Alma, and Wesley Chenoweth, of Nicut, students in the College the past summer, were married December 31 at Charleston. Both Mr. and Mrs. Chenoweth teach in the Calhoun County schools.

Marie Harris Marries Gainol Boggs

Marie Harris of Minnora, a former student, was married in Charleston, January 2, to Gainol Boggs of Glendenin. Mrs. Boggs is teaching a part-time school in Calhoun County. Mr. Boggs is employed in Charleston, where the couple will reside.

Delores Morgan Married Nov. 29

Delores Morgan, S. N. '36, daughter of Mrs. Nell Lowe of Pine Grove, was married to Harold Young of Hastings, November 29, at Wellsburg. Mrs. Young has been teaching at Folsom.

Denzel Garrett, a junior in the College and a member of the editorial staff of the Mercury, recently was elected president of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Press at the association's fifteenth annual conference in Charleston. Shown above are Garrett, the other officers and the

Faculty Members Go A Roving—Four of Them on Times Square New Year's Eve

By MARY E. YOUNG

In response to the query—And where did you spend your vacation?—many varied and colorful answers were given by members of the College faculty. The extent of their travels?—Maine to Texas; however, the center of attraction seemed to be New York City. Four members of the faculty were on Times Square for New Year's Eve.

President and Mrs. Rohrbough—Christmas at home, New Year's in New York City and Baltimore, Md. Dean H. Laban White—in Parkersburg, Weston, Charleston, Morgantown, and at home in Glenville. Miss Alma Arbuckle—at home in Glenville. Miss Bessie Boyd Bell—in Charleston, Huntington, and at home in Glenville. Miss Willa Brand—St. Louis, Mo., and Wichita Falls, Texas.

Miss Margaret Christie—in New York City. H. Y. Clark—at his home in Hemlock, in Buckhannon and Glenville. Robert Crawford—a patient in Medical Center, State Hospital, Weston. Miss Margaret Dobson—at home in Decatur, Ill. Raymond E. Freed—in Sutton. E. R. Grose—at home in Sago.

Linn B. Hickman—in Glenville, Washington, and New York City. Miss Gladys Walker—at home in Clarksville, Tenn., and Huntington. Miss Grace Lorentz—a patient in John's Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

Miss Laura Ann Miles—at home in Huntington. Miss Ivy Lee Myers—at home in Glenville. Miss Bertha E. Olsen—at home in Kittery, Me., in Portland, Me., and visited Miss Goldie James in New York City. Clarence W. Post—at home in Glenville. A. F. Rohrbough—in Toledo, O., at his home in Lewis County, and Glenville. Dr. John C. Shreve—at home in Glenville, and Parkersburg. Hunter Whiting—at home in Glenville, and New York City. Carey Woofert—at home in Glenville, and visited in Virginia.

Miss Craddock Visits in New York

Miss Marjorie Craddock, a student in the College, was a guest of her cousin, Miss Jean Rutherford, of New York City, during the Christmas holidays.

Homer Paul West, a student at Tri-State College, Angola, Ind., spent the Christmas vacation with his parents in South Glenville.

Lloyd Jones, financial secretary in the College, has been confined to his room in the gymnasium the past few days because of an attack of influenza.

Miss Goldie C. James, a graduate student in Columbia University, will resume her position as biology instructor in the College next semester. She has been on a leave of absence this semester. Miss Gladys Walker, who has been teaching in Miss James' absence is not planning to teach next semester.

Marie Ellyson, a senior in the College, substituted in the Cox's Mills school for Bonnetta Britton, S. N. '36, during the Christmas holidays.

Cadet M. F. Young will appear in the inaugural parade with the cadets of the United States Coast Guard Academy at Washington January 20. Young is a former student in the College.

FINAL TOUCHES

Completion for Occupancy By Second Semester Depends on Parsons-Souders

Construction of the new dormitory, a P. W. A. project which was started last spring, is now in the final stage.

Due to a general recovery of the building industry, there has been such a heavy demand for materials that discouraging delays have occurred not only on this project, but throughout the industry, says C. W. Loar, superintendent of construction.

Completion of the building in time for occupancy the second semester now depends on whether the Parsons-Souders Company can complete the job of laying the tile flooring before the end of the month, Mr. Loar states.

Some interior painting remains to be done, but all exterior painting is finished. A few wardrobes are to be put in place and bathroom fixtures will be installed just as rapidly as the flooring contractors have placed Rumors that some of the construction work will have to be done over are without foundation, Mr. Loar asserts.

Original plans, he said, called for waterproofing the wall of the south wing which is below the grade of the inner court. In order to cut the costs, this feature was struck out of the plans but recently has been restored and the work will be done.

Pioneers Down Fairmont; Lose to Waynesburg

GLENVILLE LOSES TO WAYNESBURG

Davies Leads Scoring for Local Team; Martino Accounts For 14 Points

The Waynesburg Jackets scored three points in the final minute of play here Saturday night to break a deadlock and nose out the Pioneers, 49-48. A field goal by Robert Davies a few seconds before the gun was fired fell short of tying the count.

Waynesburg jumped into the lead in the early minutes of play as Taylor scored from the foul line and McKay tossed a field goal. Lilley scored first for the Pioneers from the free throw line and then added the second point by the same method. As soon as the game got into full swing, the Jackets forged ahead and led at half time 24-19.

Early in the second half, the Pioneers tied the score as Martino and Cottle opened with field goals and forged ahead 33-27 a few minutes later. Lilley and Martino added three points from the foul line. Glenville later as Davies and Martino added field goals. The score was tied at 38-38 with eight minutes to play.

Lilley, Martino, and Noroski were forced out of the game on fouls, leaving but two of the Glenville starting line-up to keep pace with the Jackets in the closing minutes of play. The score was tied three times after this point and the game was anybody's contest until the gun sounded.

Clark, captain of the visitors, scored fifteen points to lead his team in scoring honors. The long shooting of McKay, Waynesburg forward, who scored 11 points, was commendable.

Davies and Martino were outstanding for the Pioneers, scoring 15 and 14 points respectively. Noroski played aggressively at his guard post.

PIONEERS DOWN FAIRMONT STATE

Martino Leads Scoring; Lilley Second; Fifteen Men Used By Glenville

The Pioneers opened their 1937 basketball campaign last Tuesday night at Fairmont by smothering the Fairmont State Teachers College quintet, 63-30.

Paced by Co-captain Frank Martino, who registered nine double-deckers and a single free throw for a total of nineteen points, the Pioneers took an early lead and were never in danger. Albert ("Abe") Lilley, veteran center, was tied by Kern, lanky Fairmont pivot man, for second place scoring honors with thirteen points. Co-captain Hilis Cottle placed fourth with nine points and the diminutive Louie Romano was a close fifth with eight points.

Sluggish in the opening moments of the contest, the Pioneers found their batting-eye shortly after Martino out-distanced the entire Fairmont aggregation for a beautiful snowbird, and banged away all evening with accuracy, as the count soared far out of Fairmont's reach. Coach A. F. ("Nate") Rohrbough substituted freely. Fifteen players saw service.

In his first collegiate game, Louie Romano, Clarksburg freshman, played some excellent ball and featured prominently in a dazzling offensive attack that bewildered Fairmont's aces. Bulwarks for the Fairmont five were veterans Shang Kern, center, and Buzz Fultz, guard.

Coach A. F. Rohrbough announces that the new basketball uniforms have arrived and that the Pioneers will wear them Saturday night in their game with West Liberty.

The new uniforms are royal blue trimmed in white. The trunks are of royal blue satin material while the jerseys are of the same color with blue and white trimmed numerals on both the front and back.

BASKETBALL IS on the top; and in the West Virginia Collegiate Conference the outlook seems to be that the winning team will have the toughest season in several years. Davis and Elkins, Concord, Wesleyan, Fairmont, and Salem will be the teams to beat.

THE PIONEERS made their debut before home folks Saturday night, and they were a great show. The game was not at all surprising, since the Jackets have taken the scalp of such teams as Carnegie Tech, West Virginia University, and Wesleyan. It is also encouraging to know that Waynesburg plastered all of these teams by a wider margin than 49-48.

GLENVILLE ALSO was on the losing end of the count at Akron and at Athens; but the following week Akron licked West Virginia University two points, the same margin by which they nosed out Glenville. Turning to the conference game at Fairmont, the Pioneers had little trouble with the Colebank machine, winning 63-30.

ODDLETS AND ENDDLETS: Harold Noroski looks to be the most promising of the new candidates this year... The veterans on the squad, Cottle, Martino, Davies and Lilley, are running true to form... Lawrence Keith, a former student in the College, has been named head coach at Harrisville high school following the resignation of G. K. Hartman... The New Year promises to be another of upsets. Fred Perry, world's amateur tennis champion, made clowns out of Broadway suckers Wednesday night by shellacking the highly favored Ellsworth Vines, world's professional champion... Clendenin, Wheeling, Victory, Princeton, Bluefield and Fairmont West will be the teams to watch in the high school race for state loop honors this year... The College intramural league is setting a fast pace... Some of the games will not be forgotten for a long time, at least by those who played in them.

THREE TEAMS UNDEFEATED

Gibson, Riley, Giboney Lead Chase; Summers, Fultz, High Scorers

Three teams remain undefeated in the College intramural league as the race gets hotter and faster. Riley, Gibson, and Giboney have turned back their foes to date.

Monday night Riley had little trouble in winning from Mendenhall, 48-33. Giboney kept his slate clean by running rough-shod over Haight, 57-24. Urbanick licked Wilson Tuesday night in the closest game of the week, 21-20. Gibson beat Mason in another close game the same night, 23-18.

Barrett nosed out Mendenhall Wednesday night, 36-35, in an extra period. Giboney won his second game of the week on the same night, beating McNemar, 42-31. Riley won another game Thursday night, 42-24. This time Haight was the victim. In the last game of the week, Gibson licked Urbanick, 45-25, to remain in the unbeaten class.

Referees for the games were Edwards, Noroski, Barnett, Lilley, and Romano.

Two Games Scheduled This Week

The Glenville Pioneer cagers' menu for this week calls for a pair of games with two of the leading West Virginia conference contenders. The first engagement will be on Thursday evening at Philippi when they will match strategy with the Alderson-Broadbudd Battlers, defending state champions. Saturday night they will entertain Joe Bartell's West Liberty Hilltoppers on the local court.

The Pioneers probably will run into plenty of trouble with the Battlers, who have only one man missing from last year's crack quintet. Key men in the Baptists' offense are Captain Don Kelley, diminutive forward, who was one of the state's highest scorers last year, and John Hinzman, lanky sharpshooter from Jane Lew.

Bayard Young, A. B. '32, student at West Virginia University, was at his home in Northview during Christmas vacation.

Mr. Wilson took pictures, both stills and movies, except on days so hot that the shutters of the camera stuck. He collected native goods—rugs, robes, blankets, a talking tom-tom, steel knives and spears, embroidered leather, hammered brass trays, all of which he had to send to the coast by camel. The side cars were already piled high with cameras, film, spare motorcycle parts, and cans of gasoline.

Since returning from Africa, Mr. Wilson has appeared before the Philadelphia Geographical Society; Field Museum of Chicago; National Geographic Society, Washington; Carnegie Museum, Pittsburgh; Open Forum, Daytona Beach, Florida; Friday Morning Club, Los Angeles; Executives' Club, Chicago; University of Pennsylvania; Ebell Society, Oakland and many others.
