PROF. R. E. FREED GIVES ADDRESS IN ASSEMBLY HOUR

Effective Student Government Can Be Had Only When Students Want It

SUCCESS MEANS RENOWN

Dean White in Closing Remarks Said Students Should Learn Self-Government

Stating clearly the principles by which student government functions, R. E. Freed, instructor in social science and English, in an assembly address, Wednesday, Feb. 24, declared "we can have real student government only when such a strong sentiment is developed within the student body that no assistance will be needed in enforcing the laws." His subject was "Effective Student Government."

"No other college in the State has yet attempted what you students have attempted here," said Mr. Freed, referring to authority given the Council recently in the effort to control student conduct on the campus. "Your success will reflect credit upon the school and upon you, who as students here, help to make this experiment a success."

"How can you have effective student government?" the speaker asked, and answered, "there are three obligations you must fulfill: First, it is your duty to be law abiding. Second, you must exercise wisely your privilege of voting, especially in the choice of your student officers, you must think for yourselves... don't be swept off your feet by demonstrations or rash promises during pre-election time. Your third duty is to aid in enforcing the will Continued on page 7.

College Is Made Member of American Association of Teachers Colleges

Glenville State Teachers College has been admitted without condition to the American Association of Teachers Colleges, announces President E. G. Rohrbough, who with Mrs. Rohrbough returned the past week from New Orleans, where they attended the annual meeting of the National Education Association.

While there, President Rohrbough attended sessions of the Department of Superintendence of the N. E. A. and also met with the American Association of Teachers Colleges' committee on accrediting and classification, where he learned the membership had been granted.

Application for membership in the Association was filed the past year, after Dr. Samuel P. Duke, president of Harrisonburg (Pa.) State Teachers College, and Dr. Robert M. Steele, president of California (P.) State Teachers College, both of whom represented the American Association of Teachers Colleges, had been here on a tour of

Glenville Red Terrors Will Meet Walton in Second Game; Many Alumni to Attend

The fifth annual Little Kanawha Valley basketball tournament will get under way at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the College gymnasium when Coach Creed Westfall's Troy Trojans clash with Lionel A. Heron's Spencer five, last year's winners. The contests are under the auspices of the College athletic department.

Eight teams, from Roane, Gilmer, and Calhoun counties will vie for honors today and tomorrow, and the winner will represent this section in the regional tournament at Clarksburg, March 12 and 13.

The tournament this year will find six alumni and one former student, now coaches in all the high schools except one, putting their proteges against the tournament odds. They are: Lionel A. More than 600 students from fifty central West Virginia high schools and half as many other interested visitors are expected here Saturday, April 3, when the science department of the College sponsors the sixth annual Chemistry Day, announces John R. August Merz, vice-president of the Calco Chemical Company, of Bound Brook, N. J., will be the principal speaker. He will deliver an address on "The Development of the Coal Tar Dye Industry," either Saturday morning or afternoon. Mr. Merz's address will be supplemented by the showing of a sound film taken recently of the Calco Chemical Company.

The complete program has not been announced, but it is probable that a representative from the Monongahela West Penn Public Service Company will also deliver an illustrated lecture. The two-day program will consist of three outstanding lectures, scientific demonstrations along various lines, student-compiled exhibits, and a conference of high school chemistry teachers.

College students from all sections of the state will crowd into Clarksburg Monday and Tuesday for the third annual intercollegiate tournament which begins Monday noon and will continue throughout Tuesday afternoon and evening.

The Pioneers will play their first game Monday night at 7 o'clock. The team they are to meet will be the winner of the Morris Harvey-Shepherd game, which will be the first of the afternoon. REGISTRAR COMPILES LIST

Thirty-Nine High Schools Represented—Roane, Lewis and Harrison Counties Tie for Third

Lloyd Elliott, a graduate of Clay County High School, and H. Laban White, Jr., a graduate of East Fairmont High School and a son of Dean and Mrs. H. L. White of this city, head the first semester honor roll with straight-A averages, it is announced by Carey Woolfer, College registrar.

Although Mr. Elliott and Mr. White were the only two students in the College to receive the straight-A average, there were seventy-eight other students listed as having B averages or above.

The ratings are based on a statewide uniform college scholastic basis and are worked out on the honor point system, an A grade giving three points for each semester hour, a B giving 2 points, and a C allowing one point for each semester hour.

Mr. Elliott, who completed his Bachelor of Arts degree here at the close of the first semester and who is now enrolled in the graduate school at the University, carried sixteen hours of work the first semester and earned forty-eight honor points. Mr. White, who is a senior this year, carried fourteen hours of work and earned forty-two honor points. Last year Mr. White headed the honor roll with the same average he made the past semester.

Thirty-nine high schools and twenty-three counties are represented by the eighty members on the roll. Gilmer County leads with seventeen students. Nicholas County is second with six students and Roane, Lewis and Harrison counties are tied for third place with five each.

Names of all honor-roll students, addresses, high schools from which they graduated, hours of work, honor points and ratings will be found elsewhere in this paper.

ternoon and the finals will be run off Tuesday night.

The tournament this year should be a nip and tuck affair. Every team entered has lost at least one game to one of the other teams of the tournament. Glenville has been defeated by Concord. Salem has lost to Bethany. Bethany has lost only to Glenville. Davis and Elkins has lost two games to Glenville and two games to Salem.

The winner of the tournament this year will not be declared state champion, because of a new ruling which specifies that both a tournament winner and a conference winner are to be chosen.

Paul Sheets will direct the tournament. Art Ward and Sam Kistler will officiate. There will be four sessions, and the price will be fifty cents a session, with no season tickets to be sold.

MAYBE THERE IS A WAY OUT

Provisions for supplying free text books to the elementary and high school pupils in the schools of our state are contained in a bill before the legislature.

Any system of free schools should provide books in the schools, but so far the problem of raising the money with which to buy the books has defied solution.

The budget for the next biennium carries an appropriation of $500,000 for each year to be used in the purchase of three text books for every pupil in the first eight grades of our public schools. At this stage the odds are against the passage of the bill. On the surface it appears there is strong sentiment for increased pay for teachers, and the appropriation for text books may be used for that purpose, or it may be diverted to a more pressing need. Why?

Since the tax limitation amendment placed a limit on the amount of revenue that can be raised by direct taxation, the State has been compelled to assume most of the cost of supporting the schools. When the county unit system went into effect there was a concerted drive on the part of county school officials to secure as large a share of the state funds as possible.

From an examination of the valuation of property in the various counties it appears that this condition has been brought about through a steadily declining assessment value of property in many of the counties. Such a condition must result eventually in placing complete control of our school system in the hands of the State. At the same time many of the counties will continue to pay a fair share of the cost of education, while others that are able to pay will place the whole burden on the state.

There is a remedy. A fair and equitable assessment of all the property in the state under the supervision of the Tax Commission would result in increased revenue sufficient to enable most of the counties to pay part of the cost of education, including increased pay for teachers and free text books.

Surely no citizen, who realizes that the maintenance of democratic institutions in our state depends in large measure upon our willingness to provide the means of a liberal education, would object to paying a tax based on an assessment which represents the true value of his property.—Otis Rexroad.

QUESTION OF FREE TEXT BOOKS

There is much comment concerning a current state legislative proposal to furnish free textbooks up to a certain point in the grade schools of the state. Popular opinion is fairly well divided on the subject. When questioned as to their attitude concerning the principle of free text books, several teachers in the College replied that they did favor it. Some, though they favored it, believed it impractical. One had experience in at least two different school systems where free text books were used, and he found the plan highly satisfactory.

Popular criticism to free text books is that they would be instrumental in the spread of disease. Such an objection holds very little basis; for books in a library are used by all the students of a school and there are no dire consequences, at least, none comparable with those predicted by opponents of the plan. The most valid objections seem to be that parents would tend to become wholly dependent upon the State, that books furnished free would not be well used, and that the administrative personnel would have to be increased in large schools and a great deal more work would devolve upon the teacher in the smaller schools. These do unquestionably constitute disadvantages, but let us consider the advantages of such a change.

Economy would be made possible through large orders. Books would be changed with little inconvenience whenever a change was found necessary. Incidentally, some say that unethical salesmen and officials would make a change of books too frequently. There is only one answer to such a statement. If people would tolerate such clandestine dealings, or popularly elected public officials who would enter into them, the matter of schools and text books will soon be ancient history, if history would continue to exist in such a state of depravity. Another point in favor of the proposal is that the text books in each administrative district be made uniform. This would greatly simplify pupils changing schools. Further, schools could start promptly the first day. Also, some teachers' real salary would be raised, since they would be freed of the burden of buying books for students who are financially unable to do so.

Just received my copy today, and am I glad I'm not in the good old College this term. My name would be sure to be in the column of "Frantic Antics" every week, for right there someplace is where I belong. Too, the journalism group is a most interesting one.

I send best wishes to all and may success crown all your good work.

Although there are arguments on both sides, we feel that advantages of such a system dictate that it should be adopted. Taxes would of necessity be raised. But what of that? The cost to society might be made less. Some poorer students might be encouraged to go to school who would otherwise remain out. In this respect, at least, they would be on an equal basis with their more fortunate fellows. If our ideal is democracy, then this seems a logical step in that direction.—Millard Cunningham.

—AND SOME VERSE

The Ash-can Brigade
The old ash-cans that stood on the wall,
One night were due for a terrible fall.
Four young lads, who were pleasure-bent,
To celebrate the victory was their intent.
Full of song and very merry,
They tripped along to the dark library.
It wasn't meant to be such a beller,
Till after they had reached the cellar.
They ripped and tore and knocked on the door,
And when it was opened, they let out a roar.
Some were disturbed, and some were insulted,
So Mr. — was next day consulted.
They went outside and looked above,
And gave the cans a mighty shove.
The contents were spilled, and a noise was made,
And over at the dorm, up flew the shade.
With wiggles and giggles, they homeward went,
Their early nights' energy was already spent.
Having upset what was left of the coal,
They went to the bank and started to roll.
Monday, after eating their morning meal,
They went on a trip with Nate at the wheel.
They went to Wheeling, and came home feeling
That life would be rosy since they had won;
But the ash-cans still lay in the morning gray,
And they found that their troubles had just begun.
After they had eaten, and all were full,
They went to the library to shoot the bull.
At the trial was a damsel, much upset,
She had played the part of a Juliet.
After haggling and questioning,
They dismissed the case;
And Tarzan and his mates,
Were not disgraced.
Now, you've heard the story,
You've no room for words;
We know all about it,
For we were the birds.—The Ash-can Boys.

MERCURY TRAVELS TO FIFTEEN STATES FROM MAINE TO CALIFORNIA

By MARY E. YOUNG

Here's to G. S. T. C. alumni—long may they remain faithful to their dear old alma mater. Even though they are scattered over the United States, many still want news from "home." In fifteen states, from Maine to California, are alumni and colleges who receive the Mercury weekly, including a United States Indian School in Santa Fe, N. M.

The city receiving the greatest number of papers in the state is Charleston. Running close seconds are Morgantown, Parkersburg, Richwood, and Summersville.

In exchange for their papers, the Mercury receives exchanges from high schools and colleges—thirty-one coming from West Virginia high schools and twenty-one from colleges in West Virginia and six other states.

So the events of this College do not remain known within these hills, but they are read all over the nation.

Alumni Notes

Congressman John Kee, of Bluefield, S. N. '90, United States representative of the First District, says he will offer a bill in Washington to authorize the minting of 15,000 special fifty cent pieces, commemorative to the founding of Mercer County, for the celebration to be held there in 1938.

For Digestion's Sake—Smoke Camels

Smoking Camels, you enjoy a sense of greater ease while you're eating, and afterwards too!

WHAT Fred McDaniel (below) says about Camels is backed up 100% by baseball's "Iron Man," Lou Gehrig — by Frank Buck, of "Bring 'Em Back Alive" fame — by Eleanor Tennant, the outstanding woman tennis coach of the U.S. — and by millions of other Camel smokers in all walks of life. Enjoy Camels at every meal. They speed up the flow of digestive fluids. Increase alkalinity. Help you enjoy food. Camels set you right! They're the cigarette for steady smoking. Light up a Camel and get a "lift."

TEDIOUS STUDIES tend to drag on the nerves, often penalizing digestion. But Camels help in two specific ways: You get a "lift" in energy with a Camel. Again, smoking Camels with your meals and afterwards helps digestion run along smoothly. And Camels don't get on your nerves or tire your taste. Camels are mild!

"AFTER RIDING HERD from sun-up to sun-down, the chuck-wagon looks mighty good to me," says Fred McDaniel (above, also right). "But I'm sure I wouldn't enjoy my 'chuck' half as much without the pleasure I get from smoking Camels with my meals and afterwards. After a good meal and Camels I feel plenty O.K. Camels set me right! They're throat-easy, and they never get on my nerves."

BUSY SECRETARY. "I smoke Camels—nothing else!" says Joselyn Libby. "Camels put more fun into eating and smoking too. So many girls feel the same way that I do—so they smoke Camels."

Current Affairs Test Given to Club Members—Talks by Waggoner and Prim

A current affairs test, which appeared recently in Time was given to the Current Events Club, Tuesday night by Agnes Fleming, president of the club. Among the questions asked were: 1. By whom was the biggest strike in 1936 conducted? 2. Which states cast their electoral votes for Governor Landon? 3. For what was Dr. Francis E. Townsend, pension plan leader, indicted? 4. What did Dr. Maud Slye's experiment with cancer-infected mice indicate? 5. What is the Civil War novel which is establishing an all-time best-seller record? 6. To whom was the 1936 Nobel prize for literature awarded? 7. What are the three Shakespearean plays recently brought to the screen? 8. What woman in September 1936 flew the Atlantic from east to west for the first time?

Richard Prim who spoke on the subject, "Free Text Books in Elementary Schools," said that "a bill which calls for an appropriation of $500,000 for free text books is on the floor of both houses of the State Legislature but is not likely to pass because the counties will not raise their share of the money."

"Safety first is the policy of the richest man in the world," said Miss Eleanor Waggoner in a talk on "Hyderabad, who has a daily income of $5000, drives a twenty-six year old Rolls-Royce, has clothes cut down to fit the next member of the royal family, never receives one of his subjects unless he brings a cash present and once refused to pay six cents for ice cream."

Robert Markowitz, '28, is director of athletics at Homestead High School, Homestead, Pa.

Col. John Baker White, president of the State Board of Control, was a visitor at the College, Monday.

Harry Hall spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents at Sutton.

Miss Geraldine Meadows, a sophomore in the College, has returned to school after a week of illness.

Ruby, and Paul Conley visited their parents in Orma recently.

U. S. Senator Reynolds says: "Luckies are considerate of my throat"

"Two Southern traditions are oratory—and good tobacco. Lucky Strike shows me how to indulge in both. For this light smoke not only pleases my taste but leaves my throat in condition. Last fall in North Carolina—when I made over 100 speeches—I visited the Lucky Strike factory. I believe I discovered, in the Lucky Strike 'Toasting' process, the secret of what makes this cigarette so considerate of my throat. I have been more than ever an advocate of a light smoke since seeing the extra care and expense devoted to making Luckies easy on the throat."

Robt. R. Reynolds

HON. ROBT. R. REYNOLDS
U. S. SENATOR FROM NORTH CAROLINA

In a recent independent survey, an overwhelming majority of lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc., who said they smoked cigarettes, expressed their personal preference for a light smoke.

Senator Reynolds' statement verifies the wisdom of this preference and so do leading artists of radio, stage, screen and opera, whose voices are their fortunes, and who choose Luckies, a light smoke. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on your throat.

PIONEERS DEFEAT CONFERENCE FOES; BEAT ST. VINCENT

Glenville Swamps Bethany,
West Liberty on Trip to Northern Panhandle

BROADDUS BEATEN HERE

Coach Rohrbough's Combine Plays
Splendid Ball to Win Four Games in Six Days

Glenville's colorful Pioneers rose to glorious heights last week when they registered four straight wins in as many starts. Early in the week the blue and white quintet invaded Wheeling and made a clean sweep of a two-game series, trouncing Bethany's Bisons, 48-35, on Monday, and smothering West Liberty's Hill tappers, 58-36, on Tuesday. Thursday evening, the Pioneers registered a 70-47 decision over St. Vincent, and closed the week's festivities with a 50-34 triumph over Alderson-Broadbuds.

Opening the four-game campaign against John Knight's Bethany Bisons, the Pioneer basket makers got the jump on the upstarters and dominated throughout. At one stage the blue and white held an 18-0 advantage, but Bethany rallied in the closing moments of this period to whittle the count to 22-12 at the half. However, the Bisons were soon checked, and the Pioneers went on to win by a 48-35 tally. Lilley led all scorers with twenty-four points.

After a slow first period which ended with Glenville holding a 25-18 advantage, the Pioneers came to life in the final chapter, and completely demolished Joe Bartell's West Liberty aggregation. Co-captain Hillis Cottle topped all scorers with fourteen points. Lilley, Davies and Co-captain Martino also featured heavily in this second repulsion of the Hilltappers.

Back on the home floor Thursday evening, the Pioneers vanquished St. Vincent, 70-47, for the second win over the Saints in ten days. The score was the highest the Pioneers have tallied in any one game this season. Holding a slim 32-28 margin at intermission, Glenville's sharpshooters found their batting eye in the final stanza, and buried the visitors under a flurry of double-deckers from all angles of the court. In this scoring spree the Pioneers maintained a thirty point advantage most of the way, but the Saints were able to cut this down against the third string outfit. Cottle again led the scoring parade with seventeen points.

Saturday night the local collegians entertained the scrappy Alderson-Broadbuds Battlers, and administered the Baptists a 50-34 setback. This was Glenville's second win over the defending state champions. The Pioneers could not seem to click in the early part of the game, but about midway in the first period they obtained a commanding lead and set the pace throughout the contest. The score at half time was 22-15. Co-

Coach A. F. Rohrbough took 13 players to Wheeling, beat Bethany 13 points in the 13th conference game this season . . . Don't say 13 is unlucky . . . Thomas Pierce, captain of the Pioneer football team in '35 is refereeing basketball games in the Ohio Valley this season . . . Maurice ("Tony") Miller, former Pioneer, is enjoying a successful basketball season at Sand Fork . . . He has won 15 and lost only 4 . . . Al Lilley turned on the heat at Bethany . . . He scored 11 buckets and two free throws . . . There is only one team entered in the College Tournament this year that has defeated the Pioneers, Concord, who won by 4 points and then lost to Glenville by 33 points . . . New River, Shepherd, and Salem are the only teams in the tournament that Glenville has not played this season . . . Co-captain Hillis Cottle seems to be hitting his stride . . . This is a good time to start, right before the tournament.

There should be some real high school basketball displayed in Glenville this week-end . . . There are eight good teams in the tournament this year . . . The ceded teams are Troy, Grantsville, Glenville, and Sand Fork . . . Troy and Spencer will start the fireworks Friday afternoon . . . This will be the first game of the tournament . . . There are five Glenville alumni coaching teams entered in the tournament . . . The winner of this sectional will go to Clarksburg, where they will play in a regional . . . The state tournament will be held in Buckhannon again this year . . . Hope to see you at the tournament . . . Come and back your team.

And this interesting note from Howard Lindell . . . "Jim Proctor who collected twenty-one points against Glenville in the St. Vincent game played center for me last year. His substitute, Shea, is also at St. Vincent. Mackey, my real star: of last year, is the star find at Carnegie Tech. (Scored 408 points for me last season)." . . . Lindell has won 14 out of 21 games this season, with the hardest schedule ever attempted at East Liverpool . . . Best of luck in the tournament, Lindy.

captain Martino copped high scoring honors with fifteen points. Lilley and Romano played bang-up defensive ball. Kelley, diminutive Battler guard, starred for Alderson-Broadbuds. Individual scoring for the week follows:

PROF. R. E. FREED GIVES ADDRESS AT ASSEMBLY

of the majority, which is fundamental in a democracy."

Mr. Freed declared that you can enforce majority student opinion only by reporting offenders, by giving truthful evidence when you are questioned by the Council, and by aiding in enforcing Council punishments. . . . It is absolutely necessary for you to report the violators, for otherwise a few will succeed in defeating the will of the majority." He added that the Council members alone can not be expected to make reports. . . . "To do so, would convert that body into a group of policemen. . . . Members of the Council have neither the time nor the inclination to act as police officers." He said that "a violation of one of the laws of conduct is an offense, not against the Council, but against fellow students."

"The Council can act with justice only when it has secured the truth," he declared, and continued, "The whole idea of student government would become a farcial failure if the Council could not obtain necessary information to prosecute aggressively the four types of student misconduct."

Mr. Freed amplified his statements with a summary of the points he had presented. He concluded, "If we do these things we shall have the personal pride that comes from aiding in the success of a worthy undertaking . . . we shall render a valuable service to the College which we love and of which we are a part. . . . we shall help restore faith in principles of democracy, and we shall go forth into our respective communities better prepared to perform the duties of good citizenship."

College is director of the tournament. He is assisted by a committee of H. M. Williamson, principal of Spencer High School, chairman; and members Ray Harris, principal of Calhoun County High School; Creed Westfall, principal and coach of Troy High School; and Principal C. W. Hill of Walton High School.

In closing the assembly Dean H. L. White praised Mr. Freed's "exposition of the principles of democracy" and said, "In college, especially in a teachers college, it is important that students learn self-government."

Cleo Berry visited his parents at Vickars, Roane County, Saturday and Sunday.

Russell Hogue visited his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Prim at Harrisville, over the week-end.

All over the country, you hear more people mention the refreshing mildness and the pleasing taste and aroma of Chesterfield cigarettes.

You hear somebody compliment Chesterfields at a party. Another time, the grocer tells you it's a darn good cigarette. Or you see a group of men on a street corner, most of 'em smoking Chesterfields.

Because they have what smokers like,
Chesterfields are
