Anna Lou Luzader Wins Shirley Temple Contest Sponsored by Woman's Club

MANY LOCAL ENTRANTS

Harmonica Trio—Dick Beall, William Lorents and Frank Beall, Jr.—Win Amateur Honors

By EARL WOLFE

Miss Winifred White of Bridgeport, a sophomore in the College, won first place in a beauty contest sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Glenville in the College auditorium Thursday night. The program, which also included a Shirley Temple parade and an amateur contest, attracted more than 700 persons from all sections of the county.

There were thirty entrants in the beauty contest, including Eleanor Waggoner, Ella Summers, Mary Lusk, Mary Leone West, Sadie Harless, Lois Thompson, Eileen Hamrick, Wedith Greenleaf, Elfreda Wiseman, Mary Helen Stalnaker, Josephine Riffe and Marjorie Barnett, all of the College, who received honorable mention.

Forty individuals and groups were entered in the amateur contest. Those from the College were Jearl Nelson, Lois Thompson, Robert Davies, Guy Bennett, Harold Noroski and Earl Wolfe. The contest was won by the Harmonica Trio, made up of Dick Beall, Frank Beall, Jr. and William Lorents, the latter two being former students in the College.

The Shirley Temple parade had thirty-one contestants and was won by Anna Lou Luzader, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Luzader of Glenville. Mrs. Luzader is a former student in the College.

Miss White and the Harmonica Trio will enter a second contest at Clarksburg with all expenses paid except transportation.

All contests here were judged by out-of-town people.

Miss Ruth Lester visited her parents in Grantsville recently.

SENIORS URGED TO JOIN AIR CORPS

Lieut. M. B. Johnson Says Aviation Is in Its Infancy; Sees Future in It

Lieut. M. B. Johnson, of the United States Naval and Marine Corps, Washington, D. C., was here the past week to discuss aviation with members of the Senior Class at a meeting in Room 101.

Mr. Johnson said, "In the conquest by man of the problems of modern complex civilization, one of the outstanding phases, still in its infancy, is aviation. In the development of this science, trained, intelligent minds, and physically perfect bodies are equally needed. Both are required of the Naval and Marine Corps aviator, whose training is second to none. This career training is made available to those young men psychologically, educationally, and physically qualified, at the expense only of their devoting the required time for the study and practical training, and of being earnest in their desire for this science. This advantage has come through the need of the Navy to provide an adequate, trained reserve force of competent aviators, and the entire facilities of Naval Aviation are utilized in development." GEORGE C. ROWELL TALKS IN CHAPEL ON 'TUBERCULOSIS'

Presents Sound Film, 'Behind the Shadows'—Introduced By Pres. Rohrbough

MAY GIVE SKIN TESTS

Says All High School and College Students Should Have Physical Examinations

By ELWIN WILSON

George C. Rowell, executive secretary of the West Virginia Tuberculosis and Health Association, Charleston, presented the talking picture, "Behind the Shadows," in assembly Wednesday morning in the College Auditorium. He was introduced by President E. G. Rohrbough.

Before presenting the film, Mr. Rowell quoted figures from many nation-wide surveys showing the enormous rate of deaths due to tuberculosis, and said, "Things are far wrong when seventy-five per cent of the inmates of our sanatoriums are between the ages of 15 and 35, and tuberculosis is taking a greater death toll between those ages than any other disease. This is a serious catastrophe for young men and women just entering the age of maturity."

Plans for Giving Skin Test

The executive secretary told of plans being made to make it possible for all high school and college students to be given the tuberculin skin test, a fairly accurate method of determining symptoms of the disease. When the test shows a positive reaction, the individual is affected, possibly only in the early (Continued on page 6)

JAMES L. CREASY SUBMITS PROGRAM

Says Teacher-Training for One Room School Instructors Should Be Revised

By MARIE ELLYSON

James L. Creasy, A. B. '33, assistant superintendent of schools in Nicholas County, who was a visitor here the past Tuesday, suggests that there should be some modifications and additions to the teacher-training work for students who expect to teach in one-room schools.

His program, which he submitted to Dean H. Laban White for consideration, is based on the following four observations:

1. The environment in rural districts, which is served by approximately 140,000 one-room teachers, should be a determining factor in curriculum making; hence, nature study should be given more prominence.
2. No elementary teacher should be highly specialized, but "well-grounded" in all basic subjects.
3. Students should be given special training in playground supervision; discipline problems; guidance in purchasing supplementary materials and books; assistance in best methods of cataloging libraries; and assistance in securing free materials.
4. Present economic and social trends of areas to be served by one-room teachers should be thoroughly understood by professors of rural sociology, rural education, rural economics, agriculture, and nature study, and specific training should be given relating to those existing conditions.

FAVORS VISITING DAYS AT COLLEGE

Mrs. Icie Hope McCune Impressed With Work Done in Training School

"County visiting days give one a splendid opportunity to observe students' work in the Training School," suggested Mrs. Icie Hope McCune, assistant superintendent of schools in Clay County, who was a guest of the College one day last week. Mrs. McCune, who is a sister to H. Y. Clark, instructor in education, also suggested that the opportunity to observe in the Training School gives "one a basis for sound judgment of future possibilities."

County Day visitors here the past Wednesday were: Fred L. Teal, superintendent of schools in Kanawha County; J. Stuart Erwin, principal of Clendenin High School, Kanawha County; and W. W. Lovell, superintendent of schools in Lewis County.

A visitor here Tuesday was James Creasy, assistant superintendent of schools in Nicholas County. Today is the last County Day with representatives expected from Webster, Calhoun, Pocahontas, and Roane counties.

Miss Elizabeth Andrews, Miss Sally Young, Miss Fay Strickland, and Miss Ima Wilson spent the past week-end in Clendenin.

Students May Try Out For Operetta Tomorrow; Rehearsals Begin Thursday

By AGNES FLEMING

Try-outs for parts in "The Pirates of Penzance," a comic operetta, which will be presented here this spring as one of the features of the annual commencement activities, will be held tomorrow under the direction of Miss Bertha E. Olsen, instructor in music. Orchestra rehearsals began Thursday. The following is a synopsis of the operetta:

"The Pirates of Penzance" opens with the Pirates celebrating the release of Frederic from indenture. Frederic's apprenticeship was based on a mistake of Ruth, his nurse maid, who had him apprenticed to a Pirate instead of a Pilot until his twenty-first birthday. Frederic fulfilled his term but, now, wishes to

DENZEL GARRETT WILL HEAD '37-'38 STUDENT COUNCIL

Four Boys and One Girl Chosen As College Governing Body in Recent Election

308 CAST BALLOTS

John Barnett, Garnet Reed, Brooks Sheppard and Clifton Huffman Will Aid President

By ROBERT DAVIES

Denzel Garrett of Fletcher, a junior in the College, was chosen president of the student body in the third annual election held the past Tuesday from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. in the Y. M. C. A. Room in the basement of the Old Building. Garrett polled 189 votes to give him a lead of 72 over his opponent, Nathan Callahan, of Richwood. Three hundred eight persons, or seventy-seven per cent of the student body, voted.

Mr. Garrett, who recently was elected president of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association at its annual meeting in Charleston, is a member of the Mercury staff, a member of this year's College debating team and a member of the "Kanawhachen" staff. He succeeds Bantz W. Craddock, Jr.

John Barnett, of Charleston, defeated Marjorie Craddock, of Glenville, for the vice-presidency, 168 to 139. Mr. Barnett is a member of the football, basketball, and tennis teams. His position as vice-president of the student body automatically makes him chairman of the Social Committee.

For secretary, Garnet Reed, of Prociuous, was elected over Robert Shreve, of Glenville, 222 to 86. Miss Reed is a freshman in the College and one of the leaders in scholastic standings.

Brooks Sheppard, of Elizabeth, was elected treasurer over Russell Porterfield, of Richwood, 188 to 117. Mr. Sheppard is a member of the football team. He has the honor of two in two years selling more products for a national silk company than any other salesman in the United States.

Holy Rollers Provide Four Hours of 'Swing' at Formal Party Friday Night

By JOHN ROGERS

Hear ye! Hear ye! 129 couples answered the summons of the Holy Roller Court at its annual session, convening at 9 p. m. Friday in the College gymnasium, while Al Good and his West Virginia Colonels gave testimony of swingmania from the witness stand and Judge Paul Fulk: passed sentence of four hours of fun and frolic.

From 9 p. m. until 1 a. m. the happy throng, which included many College alumni and former students, danced to the gay tunes which emanated from the witness stand while the jury was impeached, the indictment was read, the prosecution and the defense argued, and the jury retired and returned a verdict of "guilty," which in the eighth dance was sustained.

One long chime from the clock in the College tower cut short the appeal for mercy, eliminated the judge's advice, gave the crowd the sentence, "last dance," and adjourned the Court until next year.

A color motif of blue and white was carried out in the decorations. Crepe paper streamers dangled from the nine ceiling lights, while on the north banking board over the witness stand appeared the names of the Court members. On the banking board at the opposite end of the gymnasium were the words "Holy Roller Court" made of blue crepe paper on a white background.

In charge of the decorations were H. Laban White, Jr., Nathan Callahan, John W. Mowrey, Jr., and Andrew Edwards. Patrons and patronesses were President and Mrs. E. G. Rohrbough, Dean and Mrs. H. L. White, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Rohrbough, and Mr. and Mrs. Linn B. Hickman. Other faculty members present and their guests were Mr. Robert T. Crawford and Miss Mabel Rose, Miss Margaret Christie and Mr. Frank Williams, Mrs. Earl Boggs and Mr. Boggs.

Ticket sales were handled by Andrew Edwards and programs were given out by Elwin Wilson, Eartie Bickel and Harry Hall.

FRÖBEL, FOUNDER OF THE KINDERGARTEN

Friedrich Froebel, German educator and founder of the kindergarten system, was born 155 years ago at Oberweissbach in Thuringia. For almost a century, or perhaps even longer, his philosophy of education has exerted a significant influence on methods of teaching, an influence which present-day teachers would do well to study.

Froebel did not believe in a superficial education such as the type we are sometimes accused of grinding out in an era when critics on every hand are asking what has become of the education of our moral, esthetic and religious senses.

In his "Education of Man," Froebel discusses man as a child of nature, of humanity, and of God. "Education," he says, "consists in leading man as a thinking, intelligent being, growing into self-consciousness, to a pure and free representation of the inner law of Divine Unity, and in teaching ways and means thereto."

Froebel founded the kindergarten as a garden of the child. If we follow his teachings, we shall have a garden of mankind.—John Rogers.

WELCOME, STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS

Students in the College are to be commended on the orderly way in which they conducted themselves during the general election for Student Council officers the past week. No glaring red painted signs were in evidence, and propagandizing speeches seemed to be utterly out of order. The various candidates were given a chance in general assembly to state their platforms. These platforms were heard, weighed and individual opinions were passed upon them in forms of secret ballots. Thus the campus was spared the ordinary faction fights and student cliques.

We feel sure that the candidates elected will be given the unqualified support and cooperation which are so necessary in the efficient administration of student government. We welcome our new officers and we wish them the best of luck.—Avon Elder.

ON OCCUPATIONAL TRAINING

Educators are still very much in disagreement over the desirability of making provision for occupational training in our secondary schools. So far as West Virginia is concerned, vocational training in high schools is limited to a very few schools. The question naturally arises: What evidence do we have for or against broadening the scope of the training that is now being given in a few schools?

The Journal of the National Education Association summarizes the objections of those who question the wisdom of vocational training in high schools as follows: (1) General education is more important. (2) Early selection of a vocation often leads to maladjustment. (3) Experiments in organizing secondary school curricula with vocational objectives have not proved successful. (4) Change is so rapid today that the training a pupil receives is of little practical benefit. (5) Industries large and small prefer to give vocational training to youth with a good foundation of general education.

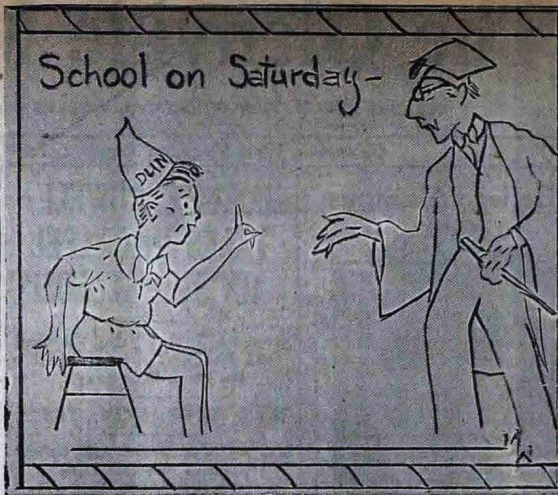

Proponents contend that "the need for vocational training is undisputed. Secondary schools must attempt to serve the needs of every individual. No other agency is meeting the need, not even industry. The high schools have already enrolled more than a million boys and girls in specialized vocational courses, therefore, they should continue the work."

Whether or not we should have more occupational training we are not prepared to say. All we can do is observe that there is a growing demand for teachers who are prepared to teach courses in business training, manual training, vocational agriculture, and home economics.—Otis Rexroad.

FRANTIC :-: ANTICS

Ah, readers, gentle and otherwise, it is good to see the return of fair weather with the warm rays of the sun coaxing the leaves and flowers to come forth and brighten the barren world... Let us leave the outdoors to see what happened while the Holy Roller Court was in full swing the other night... It doesn't make any difference whether a fellow can dance or not, just so he is a good intermissionist... Judge Fulks spends the evening looking for a guy with a short haircut... Mr. Crawford shows up with a blonde... Keister has competition as Laddie takes Mary to the hop... Louie spends most of his time as an on-looker... Pick returns to be accompanied by Robinson... Lotsa sends abroad for escort... Ginny Frymier twirls with Dyer's younger brother... Brooksie makes first appearance at a big dance with Mabel Ann... Damon is brought forth by Beard... COMPLICATIONS... Ella ditches Bob to go with Mac... Majorie and Lardy have spat... He takes Eloise... Bob and Marjorie pair off for good time... Red and Hillis rely on Weston talent... The Fulks-White combination splits... She returns his H. R. C. pin and steps out with Ug... Dexter gives some of the orchestra a socking surprise... Price has a far-away look as Sylvia returns... Babe and Doris come back to old haunts... Trippett stomps with Sadie... ATTENTION! Marjorie Craddock is tops in black... Riffie and Miss Christie tie for a second... LOST! Red earring. AT THE LIBRARY

"Gone With the Wind" has reached tornado proportions. The new copy accessioned recently at the Robert F. Kidd Library is one of 1,153,000 copies published. This best-seller has been known by several titles, all windy. Two of them are "Gone With the Cyclone" and "Blown by the Breezes." It was voted the most outstanding novel of 1936 by the American Book Sellers Association but its title is evidently not yet impressed upon the public mind.

Another best-seller which had recently arrived at the library is Marjorie Hillis' history-making little book called "Live Alone and Like It, a Guide for the Extra Women." This sounds as if it might help clear up this "Importer" affair which threatens to cause a sit-down strike. Miss Hillis' advice and sayings ought to make the most lethargic sit up and take notice in a most noticeable way: "Being a Spartan becomes pointless when there is no one to watch the performance... You need good clothes and grooming—unless, of course, you're determined to think of yourself as a Poor Thing; in which case it's nothing to us whether you get far or not... You will have no one to make a fuss over when you are tired, but you will also have no one to expect you to make a fuss over him when you are tired... To listen well you must have at least a vague idea of what the other fellow is talking about (unless you're really clever)..."

President Roosevelt's plan for changing the Supreme Court has made Pearson and Allen's "Nine Old Men" more popular than ever before. The book has been called "as daring and as revealing a picture of the court, its personalities and its functions as has ever appeared in print."

"Drums Along the Mohawk," by Walter D. Edmonds, has been topping the popularity peaks ever since its appearance. It is a novel of the Revolutionary period. The reviewers are not all agreed upon its worth, but the dear public seems to be.

The LETTER BOX

[The following letter is written in response to complaints that J. M. called a black widow spider an insect.]

To the Editors of the Mercury:

The differential characteristics of the Araneida and the class of arthropods comprising true insects will be made with simplicity and distinguishableness through the medium of presentation of characteristics of the Tetrapneumones so that an inferiority will not be placed upon Victor Hyre and B. W. Peck, Jr., big-game hunters of the College.

"They, having captured by strenuous exertion and by racking their nervous systems on one member of the order, Araneida, are not to be belittled in accounting of their actions. The arachnids resemble true insects, but are readily distinguishable from them by having two main parts: the cephalothorax bearing legs, mouth parts, and eyes, and an unsegmented short, rounded abdomen bearing two or more spinnerettes on the posterior end.

The writer does, then, acknowledge the error that the black-widow

Glenville, Small Country Town, Offers Many Opportunities to Her Citizens

[The following story is a visiting reporter's conception of Glenville as he saw it in 1903. The story, along with other news items and many pictures of prominent Glenville residents, Glenville State Normal School, the Normal faculty and the graduating class, appeared in a feature supplement in the Parkersburg News, dated Oct. 4, 1903. The paper from which this story is taken is the property of Atty. Guy B. Young, father of Miss Mary Elizabeth Young, a member of the Mercury staff.—The Editors.]

Glenville, the county seat of Gilmer County, lies near the very center of the State, in the middle portion of one of its greatest valleys and near the mouth of several large tributary streams. Oil and gas are but a little distance away, while coal is at her very door, one of the best coal fields of the state lying within the county.

With one exception, no large town is within forty miles and none of the other towns of the Little Kanawha Valley have a more favorable outlook than Glenville and her future suburbs. The improvement of the Little Kanawha would make it navigable the greater portion of the year and an important revenue of traffic. The same river valley, indicated by nature as some thoroughfare of some railroad system, is to be utilized, we hope, by the great Wabash Company, and should such expectations be realized, outlets by rail are as likely to appear in three directions as two. And last, though not least, the surrounding country, while hilly, has greater agricultural capacity than the more rugged and rocky portions of the State. This is a fact of great importance.

Glenville has grown up in somewhat irregular manner, but this is usually the case with towns that are not laid out at the outset on an ample scale and systematic plan. And in this regard, Glenville does not compare unfavorably with scores of other towns in West Virginia. The levees open into the hills in several directions and some of the high ground affords fine building sites. As a consequence there are many beautiful and picturesque residences scattered here and there among the undulating hills in and around Glenville. The courthouse in particular occupies the smooth summit of an elevation and overlooks the whole town.

Many Churches in City

Glenville has churches of the Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal, South, Methodist Protestant, Baptist, and Presbyterian persuasions; three banks—The First National, The Little Kanawha, and The Glenville Banking and Trust Company; three hotels—the Whiting House, the Central Hotel, and the Stump House, all good hostleries and well patronized; and a quite full line of all the mercantile establishments that are usual in a town of its size. Natural gas and a good system of water works are two great conveniences enjoyed by the town, improvements which few places of its size can boast of and which should be considered by those who are looking for new homes with all the modern advantages. There is a fine fraternity hall, and an iron bridge spans the river and connects with the growing suburbs on the left bank.

Independent School District

Glenville constitutes an independent school district. The term is six months long. The school house contains four rooms and a number in the teaching staff is the same. The school is supplied with a fairly good library.

Quite naturally, however, the presence of one of the State Normal Schools renders Glenville an educational center of importance and causes the free school to be somewhat overshadowed. The Normal School building commands a very pleasant and commanding site. The architecture is plain, but the recitation and other rooms are commodious. The town clock in the tower of the school is a very useful adjunct. The library is large and well chosen and is a state depository for government publications. There is no other school of similar rank within a considerable distance, but the lack of a railroad has circumscribed its tributary territory.

The presence of a state educational institution with its library, has helped to infuse an intelligent atmosphere in Glenville. Her people are unusually appreciative of good literature and are liberal patrons of the same. Several of her citizens possess marked literary taste, which, in a number of instances, has been put into practical use. One of the very sweetest poets that the "Little Mountain State" has ever produced is a resident of this place in the person of Miss Emma Withers, who in years gone by contributed to the leading publications of the State, and whose published volume, "Wildwood Chimes," contains many poems of a high order of merit. Of late years her pen has been idle, very much to the regret of a large number of appreciative readers. This community is also the home of many others who write for story papers, and of William Perry Brown, a fictionist, and the author of "Ralph Granger's Fortune," one of the best boys' books that has been published of late years.

ALL HONOR TO A GREAT ATHLETE

LARRUPING LOU GEHRIG

OF THE WORLD'S CHAMPION NEW YORK YANKEES

FOUR HOME RUNS IN ONE GAME! YEOW!

SMACK

UM-M-M, HERE'S THE BEST PART OF EATING!

LOU GEHRIG HOLDS MORE RECORDS than any other player in the game today. Here are a few for any four-game World Series: most runs batted in (9); most home runs (4); most bases on balls (6). He has knocked 4 home runs in one game—scored 100 or more runs and batted in 100 or more runs for 11 consecutive seasons.

PACK OF CAMELS? YES, SIR!

HERE'S LOU'S FAVORITE BAT and his favorite first baseman's mitt. His bat is especially made. He wears out two mits a season. Last year, with 1,377 put-outs, his brilliant play at first base was only 6/1000ths short of PERFECT.

FOR A SENSE OF DEEP-DOWN CONTENTMENT—JUST GIVE ME CAMELS. AFTER A GOOD MAN-SIZED MEAL, THAT LITTLE PHRASE 'CAMELS SET YOU RIGHT' COVERS THE WAY I FEEL. CAMELS SET ME RIGHT, WHETHER I'M EATING, WORKING—OR JUST ENJOYING LIFE

BASEBALL'S "IRON-MAN"! When Lou steps on the field, for his first game of the 1937 season—he'll be playing his 1,809th consecutive game. Injuries never stopped Gehrig. Once he chipped a bone in his foot—yet knocked out a homer, two doubles, and a single next day. Another time, he was knocked out by a "bean ball," yet next day walloped 3 triples in 5 innings. Gehrig's record is proof of his splendid physical condition. As Lou says: "I've been careful about my physical condition. Smoke? I enjoy it. My cigarette is Camel."

FOOTBALL GAME SET FOR FRIDAY

"Braintrust" and "Beeftrust"
in Vie for Grid Supremacy
in Practice Contest

Postponed because of inclement weather, the inter-squad football game will be played this Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The contest, which will conclude the current training session, was to have been played last week, but continued rain forced Coach A. F. ("Nate") Rohrbough to hold practices for an additional week so that the squad might be in better condition.

From all indications the two squads are well-matched. What adds to the intriguing aspect of a spectacular clash is that Summers' aggression, called the "Braintrust" by the Bohensky, will attempt to outmaneuver Howes' "Beeftrust" via the aerial route, while Howes' grinders will probably rely chiefly upon power plays. Both captains are a bit skeptical about the outcome of the game.

In practice sessions this week it is probable that Coach Rohrbough will advance his squad to the heavy work. Thus far he has elaborated upon calisthenics, running, blocking, charging and signal drills. Candidates will probably don shoulder pads for the early sessions this week so as to be ready for the game Friday, which will be a regulation collegiate game.

ROHRSBOUGH SPEAKS ON "PROPAGANDA"

John Rogers and Virginia Adams
Talk Before Current Events Club

In a talk on "Propaganda" at a meeting of the Current Events Club the past Tuesday, John Rogers said, "Commercial and political propaganda differ in the fundamental problems of each. Commercial propaganda tries to sell a necessity or a luxury, while political propaganda tries to overcome prejudices, desires and egotism. Propaganda is dependent upon circumstances and upon those whom it influences."

Continuing, Mr. Rogers said, "Dietary propaganda is acceptable because it encourages men and women to give free rein to their pride, vanity and other egotistical tendencies and because it provides them with psychological devices for overcoming their sense of personal inferiority. The radio is the greatest contributor of propaganda in Europe."

Miss Bessie Boyd Bell, sponsor of the club, urged members to read "The Nine Old Men," a serial which is now running in the Charleston and Clarksburg papers. The story deals with the nine Supreme Court Justices, with Chief Justice Hughes designated as "The Man on the Flying Trapeze."

Miss Virginia Adams spoke briefly on the subject, "Strikes," after which Miss Bell announced that the members of the club would be guests at her home the latter part of May.

Kathleen Morrison visited at her home in Sutton over the week-end.

College baseball teams in the State have had bad weather to contend with this year . . . Salem and Fairmont are to open their regular playing season this week . . . Wesleyan ended spring football practice the past week . . . Their line will average more than 200 pounds next year. I would say, "nice sized chaps" . . . Peterson, Barnum and Bachtel will be hard to replace in their backfield . . . This will probably be the last week of spring practice for the Pioneers . . . The inter-squad game will be played the latter part of the week.

Many former Pioneer athletes were here over the week-end for the Court dance, among them: Harold Porterfield, coach at Summersville High School; Allen Morford, coach in Walton High School; Stanley D'Orazio, student in law school at West Virginia University; Archie Morris, coach in Burnsville High School; Paul Jones, coach in Richwood High School; and Maurice Miller, coach at Sand Fork High School.

Coach A. F. ("Nate") Rohrbough announces that there will be a four-team intramural baseball league organized shortly after spring football practice is over . . . Andrew Edwards' team was winner of the league last season . . . Coach Paul ("Babe") Jones is having spring basketball at Richwood High School instead of baseball.

Intramural Baseball to Start Soon

With the advent of fair weather it will not be long until intramural baseball will come into its own on the campus athletic program. Coach A. F. Rohrbough will call all baseball candidates together this week-end to organize a four-team league. Each team will play two contests a week with the first games scheduled next week.

Seniors to Give Assembly Program

Members of the Senior Class will have charge of the last assembly program of the present school year, announces Bantz W. Craddock, Jr., president of the Student Council. Goff Giboney, class president, will select a committee to arrange for the program.

Picture Appears in the Concordian

A picture of Miss Marjorie Craddock, a sophomore in the College, appears in the April 13 issue of the Concordian, student newspaper at Concord State Teachers College, where Miss Craddock recently participated in the third annual State speech festival. Miss Craddock was a guest at the festival dance during her visit in Athens.

GEORGE C. ROWELL TALKS ON TUBERCULOSIS

(Continued from page 1) stages of development, Mr. Rowell said, and added: "If you would like to have the test brought to this institution, we will do our best to make arrangements."

"It is most unfortunate that tuberculosis does not develop as swiftly as many diseases so that we could get at its symptoms," he continued. "The majority of the inmates in sanitoriums now are in the advanced stages. In West Virginia sanitoriums at the present time there are about 777 beds of cases of tuberculosis."

The picture, "Behind the Shadows," showed a doctor explaining the seriousness of the malady to a group of young people, his talk being demonstrated pictorially on the screen. "Tuberculosis is caused by living germs," the doctor explained. "Inside the body where it is warm, moist and dark, the germs live, multiply and cause illness." He told that the disease was spread largely through carelessness and direct contact.

Tracing the development of the disease in the human body from the time of entrance until it has completely developed, the doctor told the value of rest, nourishing food, fresh air, and sunshine in combating and curing tuberculosis. A modern method of treating a far-advanced case of the disease, by collapsing the infected lung, was shown.

That there is no more serious menace to the lives of young people today than tuberculosis was stressed by the doctor, who concluded, "We must beat our enemy and strike him down before he strikes us down. I am confident you young people will see the victorious end of the disease."
