Miss Edna Stump Orville J. White Married Saturday

Miss Edna Stump, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doc Stump, of Glenville, was married to Mr. Orville J. White, son of Mrs. Ida White and the late A. F. White, of Cox's Mills, Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Glenville Baptist church. The Rev. J. C. Musser, pastor, read the ceremony in the presence of immediate relatives of the two families.

Mrs. White, a graduate of Calhoun County High School, is employed as a reporter on the Glenville Democrat. She is a member of the Junior Woman's Club of Glenville, has served as chairman of the Gilmer County Red Cross chapter, and in 1934 was a princess at the Mountain State Forest Festival.

Mr. White, S. N. '36, teaches in the Troy grade schools.

Funeral Services Held for Jacob Isaack Hefner

Johnson Burke, a sophomore in the College, was in Cullipville one day the past week in order to attend funeral services for his grandfather, Jacob Isaack Hefner, 83-year-old retired merchant and farmer, who died Sunday, Sept. 27, and was buried Wednesday.

Services were conducted by the Rev. L. W. Louder, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church of Heater and burial was made in the Cullip cemetery.

Mr. Hefner, the last member of a large family, was married to Elizabeth Jane Cutlip on May 27, 1880. He was the father of fourteen children, ten of whom are living. Also surviving him are twelve grand-children and one great-grandchild.

They Go to College and Find Plenty of Time to Cook, Keep House and Enjoy Life

By Max Ward

Ohio State University has its Tower Club; other colleges and universities have similar organizations, and Glenville State Teachers College has a kindred example.

This attribute of the College the Mercury reporter visited Thursday night, being prompted to do so upon hearing that three students are rooming downtown and doing their own cooking and incidental house-keeping.

Shirley Brown, Jennings Jarvis and Bernard Knotts attended Calhoun County High School together. Though Brown finished two years earlier than his companions and is now a junior in the College, the three are again together.

Out for Pep Meeting

Jarvis and Knotts are freshmen, hence they were not in their room at the time of Thursday night's pep meeting. After their return, however, they were eager to show their two rooms and discuss their problems with a noticeable degree of enthusiasm. Brown was out on "a social call."

Both young men commented about freshmen rules as a prelude to advancing estimates of the cost of their board and lodging for the year. This was followed by a discussion of their meal preparation and their routine of living.

Room Neat and Clean

The first thought suggested by the rooms was well-ordered neatness. This prevailed from the furnishings of the room to all the incidentals within. A simple gas stove of the hot plate pattern provided cooking facilities. Foodstuffs in the main, are brought from home, necessitating but few purchases of groceries here.

Housekeeping incidentals are taken care of by each in turn, even to cooking and dishwashing. The time consumed, the young men insist, is not very great. Abundant time is available for study, even though they are carrying a full schedule of work and occasionally there do come pep meetings. All three are doing N. Y. A. work in the College.

Shows Interest in Entomology

Knotts plans to complete a Standard Normal course, while Brown and Jarvis are doing secondary work. A collection of insects against the wall indicated the nature of Brown's work in entomology.

Photographs on the dresser included some of girls. A clock nearby ticked off the seconds with quiet emphasis. Obviously all was well and enjoyable. Verbal confirmation removed all doubt.

Rent costs the boys five dollars a month, yet they plan to go through the year with an expenditure of no more than ten dollars per month. This will effect them a pronounced economy. And, after all, the process is thoroughly enjoyable.

The clock indicated time for study, so the visitor from the Mercury left with an exchange of good-nights, followed by a warning from the young men: "Watch the fresh paint!"

The special rules for freshman girls in the women's dormitories expired Friday night.

T. Lee Hackett and daughter Mrs. Sidney Brown Jr. and Mrs. Randolph Weese of Richmond, visited his daughter Marjiny Hackett Saturday.

Pioneers of '38

What we hear about the Pioneers of the past year:

Frank Martino and Hillis Cottle, co-captains of the 1938 West Virginia basketball champions, are coaching in high schools. Martino is at Normantown, and Cottle is at Stoco High School in Raleigh County.

Another Pioneer, who coaches is Paul ("Pop") Mason, who is at Fellowship High School in Preston County.

The Hope Natural Gas Company has claimed the services of Lee ("Bull") Summers, captain of the 1937 Pioneer football squad, and John ("Bus") Mowrey, All-Conference guard. Summers is in Beckley, while Mowrey is in Clarksburg.

Two others at teaching, Robert Gibson now teaches at Masontown High School, while Nathan Callaghan is a member of the faculty in Cabell County High School, at Summersville.

Brooks Sheppard, employed by the Real Silk Hosiery Company, is college director of a selling crew touring the New England States.

College Man of 1938 Is a Master-Mind, Tough, Play-Boy and a Great Student

By Associated Collegiate Press

When it comes to describing the college man of 1938, so many and varied are the paragraphic portrayals that he is at once a master-mind and a dolt, a play-boy and a great student. None has so brilliantly pointed the picture as Kent State University's Dean R. E. Manchester, who sets the man-of-the-campus on his pedestal in the following manner:

"The college man is a living paradox. Most people cannot understand him and those who do, come to their conclusion by indirect proof. He talks of the future but worships the past. He is liberal in his conversation but conservative in his action. He is radical in his opinions on politics, but elects stand-patters to the class offices. He demands freedom of thinking but defends with all his strength the traditions of his institution.

He takes wild stands on religious theories yet attends college and universities that are created and maintained by orthodox creeds. He preaches democracy yet supports the most rigid campus caste system. He demands that his university maintains the highest athletic standards yet in the same breath also demands a professional football team. He scoffs at his profs yet defends them strenuously when they are criticized. He rebels against rules but sets up more rigid ones when given the opportunity.

He hates the high school graduate who comes with a boy scout badge on his coat, but he covers his own vest with medals and keys. He invents and uses the most outlandish slang on the street, but reads and writes pure English in his room. He clamors for self government, but doesn't want it after he gets it. He laughs at convention but insists upon it. He cuts classes the day before a vacation but comes back three days early.

"You ask 'What are we going to do about it?' We are going to praise the Lord that we have him and that he is just what he is, a walking contradiction of himself."
