

RICHARD DYER'S BROTHER IS ELECTED PRESIDENT WEST VIRGINIA FEDERATION OF COLLEGE STUDENTS; MILLER VICE PRESIDENT

Faculty Adviser and Four Students Represent Glenville at Annual Meeting in Institute

By John Rogers

Election of officers, selection of a host for 1939, and discussion of serious questions occupied attention of the forty-four delegates from nine colleges and West Virginia University during the sixth annual convention of the West Virginia Federation of College Students at Institute, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Students representing the College were Marjorie Craddock, former secretary-treasurer of the Federation; John Rogers, former president; Richard Dyer and Ernestine Harrison, Mr. Raymond Freed, faculty adviser of the Student Council, was adviser for the local delegation.

After several deft political manipulations the following officers were elected: President, James Dyer, Son; vice-president Louis Miller, Kanawha; secretary-treasurer, Polly Ann Fudge, New River; publicity agent, Mary Louise Morris, Fairmont; field agent, Marshall Hunter, Shepherd. President Dyer is a brother of Richard Dyer, Student Council president.

For host, both Shepherd State Teachers College and Bluefield State Teachers College made bids. Delegates voted in favor of the panhandle school.

Governor Homer A. Holt greeted the delegates Friday morning in the State Capitol. Preceding the Governor's salutation, the closing session was held in the chamber of the House of Delegates, at which time the representatives discussed "What Has the Roosevelt Administration Done for the College Youth?"

David Kirby, secretary of the State Board of Education, addressed the annual banquet Thursday night. Members of the faculty of West Virginia State College also spoke.

After discussing the problem of campus politics, delegates agreed they were an advantage. The delegates also considered "How can a College Have a Well-Balanced Program of Activities?"

A new constitution was adopted Thursday afternoon by an unanimous vote. This constitution was written the past November at the College by a committee including Denzel Garrett, chairman, Marjorie Craddock and John Rogers, Glenville; Mendell Gainer, Alderson-Broadus; and Rex Bradley, Fairmont.

Faculty Members Will Deliver Armistice Day Talks

Several faculty members will represent the American Legion by delivering Armistice Day addresses in various Gilmer County schools.

Members who will speak include: Dr. C. L. Underwood, Normantown; H. Y. Clark, Glenville; Dean H. L. White, Cedarville. Other speakers will be E. J. Bush, Tanner; C. W. Marsh, Sand Fork; and Dr. H. F. Withers, Troy.

"I Am An American Citizen Because I Want to Be; Not Because I'm Forced," She Insists

By Max Ward

Elissa Landi had spoken, and in so doing she had fairly pleasantly taken a more or less responsive audience through acting, by easy stages, to the screen and back. The trip had taken one hour and eleven minutes.

Pleasing demonstration made up for less pleasing verbal explanation, and not a one was there who thought it was not well done. After all, this was Elissa Landi, and she was a stage and screen actress. Therefore it was well done, regardless of "Who's Who."

Miss Landi had quite well covered the essentials of movie technique and acting procedure, so her interviewer wanted to get away from that phase. But he didn't. He wanted, in-

Students Present One-Act Play In Assembly

"Rehearsal," a one-act play by Christopher Morley, was presented by the dramatics class Wednesday during the assembly hour.

Characters were Nellie Lively, Helen Heister, Madeline Moore, Louise Guleutz, Peggy Kincaid and Madeline Comstock.

The play was prepared and presented under the direction of Miss Kathleen Robertson, speech instructor. Jo Reeder was the stage manager.

Classes Will Be Dismissed Election Day

Next week students and faculty will get a holiday and a half. There will be no school on election day, Tuesday, Nov. 8, and following an Armistice Day program, under the direction of Dr. C. L. Underwood, in assembly Friday, Nov. 11, classes will be dismissed.

Classes that ordinarily meet on Friday at ten o'clock will be shifted to Wednesday at the same hour to allow for the Armistice Day program.

THEY LIKE THEIR SHAKESPEARE BUT NOT THEIR CAVIAR, IT SEEMS

Though they are both considered quite good, College students do not like to mix Shakespeare and caviar. Miss Willis Brand, instructor in English, has always served Shakespeare to her students. But when she served caviar to her class yesterday, there arose comments not altogether similar to those accompanying a serving of Shakespeare.

Typical comment: "Never again!"

Teresa Butcher Heads Chemistry Club Committee

A committee to make plans for a progressive party was appointed at a meeting of the Chemistry Club the past Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the physics laboratory. Named chairman was Teresa Butcher; other members, Noel Bush and Wynema Smith.

The Club dispensed with its program in order to transact routine business and dismiss in time for the Elissa Landi lecture.

For an assembly program to be given November 9, the Club has decided to present a play, taken from The Science Lesson. At the meeting the play was discussed and the character parts read.

College Has 24 Per Cent Increase In Enrollment This Semester; Total, 388

Survey Shows General National-Wide Registration Gain
of 4.8 Per Cent

A twenty-four per cent increase in the enrollment at Glenville State Teachers College this semester is in line with the general increase reported for almost all colleges throughout the nation.

This semester Glenville has a residence enrollment of 388, an increase of 77 over the corresponding semester the past year and a net gain of 24 per cent. These figures do not include extension enrollments.

According to statistics compiled recently by the Associated College Press there is a general nationwide enrollment gain of 4.8 per cent. The general increase in 1937 over 1936 was 3.9 per cent.

Largest increase this year is in the South, where the gain is 5.7 per cent. Eastern college enrollments show a gain of 5.2 per cent; the West 4.3 per cent. The past year the increase in the same sections was 3.3 and 3.8 per cent respectively.

Almost all colleges received a larger number of applications this year, but many of them had set up rigid requirements and therefore necessarily limited their registration.

Reed Raines' Orchestra To Play Here December 9

Announcement has been made that the Christmas dance will be held December 9 in the College gymnasium under auspices of the G Club and the Holy Roller Court.

Music will be furnished by Reed Raines and his orchestra from Thomas. Admission will be $1.25. Hours for dancing have not been set.

PEACE EDUCATION PROGRAM

A new and novel peace education program has been established by the Society of Friends, a program that calls for a series of "peace retreats" for college students in various sections of the U. S.

At these retreats students will plan peace activities for the year, and delegates will assume responsibility for leading campus-wide peace programs in addition to an off-campus program.

College Sophomore Sings to West Virginia Audience

Miss Gwendolyn Beall, sophomore in the College, was a vocalist on a radio program broadcast from Station WBLK, Clarksburg, Saturday. Royce Miles, of Glenville, played the accompaniment.

Miss Beall was also the principal vocalist Saturday evening at the Whitescarver Hall in Buckhannon, where her brother and his orchestra played for the Wesleyan College home-coming dance.

At Clarksburg Miss Beall sang "I Wonder What's Become of Me," "Let's Battle It Out" and "Madness for Two," original compositions of Mr. Miles. Also she sang "Lamp of Aladdin," a composition by Fred Johnson of Clarksburg.

Virgil L. Flinn Is New S. E. A. President

Miss Addie Cokeley Chosen
Member of the Executive Committee

By J. S. Richardson

Virgil L. Flinn, superintendent of Kanawha County schools, was elected president of the State Education Association at the annual meeting in Charleston the past week. Dr. Gail Holliday, of Wheeling, was chosen vice-president. Mr. Flinn succeeded Miss Ruth Walls, of Kingwood.

Among the 10,000 or more persons who attended sessions of the College: Pres. E. G. Rohrbough, three-day convention were the following instructors and officials of Dr. J. C. Shreve, Dean H. L. White, Miss Kathleen Robertson, Miss Margaret D. Kenney, Miss Bessie Boyd Bell, Miss Ivy Lee Myers, H. Y. Clark, Miss Alma Arbuckle, Dr. C. L. Underwood.

Friday afternoon between 3 and 5 o'clock the College officials and Alumni sponsored a joint reception at the Daniel Boone Hotel. Present, in addition to the many graduates and former students, were three former instructors, including Mr. Otis G. Wilson of Marshall College, Miss Addie Cokeley of West Virginia Wesleyan, and Mrs. Margaret Dobson Maroney. Jeannette Alderson, a critic teacher in the training school the past year, also attended.

Miss Addie Cokeley, a former instructor in the College and a sister-in-law of Mr. John R. Wagner, was one of four persons elected on the S. E. A. executive committee. Others chosen were Pres. Edward S. Maclin of New River State College, Miss Ruth Walls of Kingwood, and Sam M. Lambert of Bramwell.

Dean White Is Speaker at Wirt County Home-Coming

Dean H. L. White represented Glenville State Teachers College and extended greetings to visitors at the Wirt County High School Homecoming Saturday at Elizabeth. The program included a dedication of the high school's new stadium.

Dean White commended those responsible for the stadium and named some of the values of such a project. Glenn S. Callaghan, state director of N. Y. A., delivered the dedicatory speech.

Truslow Waldo, A.B. '35, principal of the high school, was master of ceremonies.

MILITARY AND NAVAL TRAINING POPULAR

War scares and international crises have brought enrollments in military and naval training courses to new highs. At Harvard University undergraduates are flocking to the courses, which have a 100 per cent enrollment almost double that of a year ago and military science registration up more than a third.

World Wide Guild Programs Announced

The World Wide Guild programs and hostesses for the remainder of the Guild year have been prepared by the respective committees.

The next meeting will be November 8, with Mary Leone West, A. B. '38, as hostess. Mildred Ruth Fitzpatrick, student in the College, will be leader of the program, "City Missions," taken from the Skyline Series.

Other programs and hostesses are listed as follows: December 6, Guild vespers at the Glenville Baptist Church, Leah Stalnaker as leader; January 3, a review of the book "Dinabandhu," a leader, Agnes Wright, hostess Gwendolyn Beall, February 7, a review of "Wastebasket Surgery," a book on Burnal leader, Mary Leone West, hostess, Audrey Winters, March 7, a study of the missionary field; leader, Helen Wright, hostess Mildred Ruth Fitzpatrick. The last meeting before reorganization will be the annual spring breakfast with Audrey Winters, leader. The program theme will be "The Invisible Bridge." Leah Stalnaker will be hostess.

Miss Arbuckle Retires As Council President

Miss Alma Arbuckle, College librarian, who for two years has been president of the Council of Administrative Women, has been succeeded by Miss Mae Newman, dean of girls at Huntington High School.

Miss Arbuckle took an active part in the Council's program at the recent S. E. A. meeting and presided over a special luncheon Thursday at the Tally Ho Tea Room. Principal speaker at the luncheon was Dr. Inga Olla Helseth of William and Mary College.

Girls Frown on 'Blue Monday' But Still Prefer Chicken for Sunday Dinner

Survey Reveals Dormitory Girls' Likes and Dislikes; Taylor Tops in the Movies

By Helen Heister

It is no wonder that Monday has been labeled "blue" in the College.

In a recent survey made in Verena Maple Hall, it was found that twenty-six out of thirty girls interviewed disliked Monday particularly. The chief reason given was that it is hard to settle down to routine of classes after a week-end, Friday was found to be the favorite day, while Saturday and Sunday tied for second place.

In spite of the fact that new flavors of ice cream are being put on the market, custard, vanilla is still "the favorite." Chocolate is second and cherry-third. More than half of the girls questioned preferred chicken as the meat course for Sunday dinner.

Black is the favorite color of hair,

Juniors Name Ward, Barnett and Noroski; Faculty Members Take Part in Voting

To represent the College in the coming issue of "Who's Who," the senior and junior classes and the faculty met after assembly, Wednesday, and elected:

Seniors: Marjorie Craddock, Clifford Garrett and John Rogers.

Juniors: Max Ward, Marjorie Barnett and Harold Noroski.

The votes were widely scattered, twenty-eight seniors and twenty-six juniors sharing in the poll.

The final tabulations showed: Miss Craddock, daughter of Atty. and Mrs. Bantz W. Craddock of Glenville, 24 votes; Mr. Garrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Garrett of Spencer, 21; Mr. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Rogers of Charleston, 14.

Mr. Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. June Ward of Hur, 25; Miss Barnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Barnett of Wheeling, 18; and Mr. Noroski, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Noroski of Munnah, Pa., 18.

The representatives were chosen on the basis of character, leadership in extra-curricular activities, scholarship and potentialities of future usefulness to business and society.

Nation Will Observe American Education Week

Schools Throughout the Country Will Arrange Week's Series of Special Programs

Public education will go on parade beginning Sunday when American Education Week observances open in West Virginia and in every other state in the Union.

This year, as in the past, the programs which are to run from Sunday through Saturday will be sponsored by the National Education Association assisted by the American Legion, women's clubs, parent-teacher associations, the Works Progress Administration, National Youth Administration and other agencies.

The week is to be set apart in order to build a new interest in education, in order to encourage parents and patrons to visit their schools and in order to give the public a definite picture of what is going on in the American classroom.

The past year more than ten million parents and patrons visited their schools during American Education Week. The following quotations represent the sentiments of a few:

"Popular government without popular information is but the prologue to a farce or a tragedy or perhaps both."—James Madison.

"Without popular education no government which rests on popular action can long endure."—Woodrow Wilson.

WHO IS WHO?

The Council-sponsored "Who's Who" selection is worth a moment's notice. Viewed in perspective, this matter concerns two groups of students; those selected by their classes and the faculty—and those not selected. Directly concerned is any student in either of the upper classes.

It is more or less generally conceded that the selections were made under a system somewhat superficial and perfunctory. But for the benefit of those responsible, it must be said that it was probably the best possible under the circumstances.

It goes without saying that the six so selected highly appreciate the honor, for it is presumed to be such. This is not the purpose, however, of the present discussion. It is supposed that those selected are not so presumptuous as to give the matter more importance than it carries under the existing conditions and manner of selection.

Those not chosen for representation will not, in the main, feel slighted. This is as it should be. From any point of consideration this group probably contains several students who will in time far outrank any of the previously mentioned six. Not just theoretically possible; this contention; history verifies its truth.

Too much significance should not be attached to the selections from either point of view. Coming events do cast their shadows before, yet there are some things which do not make visible shadows.—Max Ward.

THEY BEHAVED LIKE GENTLEMEN

The opinions expressed by College students, alumni and townspeople indicate that the conduct of a majority of the Home-coming visitors was extremely gentlemanly and ladylike, with a noticeable and appreciable lack of barbaric methods of celebration. The culture abounding in the partakers of the festivities was in keeping with the high standards fostered by our Alma Mater.

Evidently through a superb knowledge of chemistry and human anatomy, the grade and students have long ago awakened to a grim realization of the destructive potentialities lurking in the glass of white mule, beer or rumfustian—thus, the large majority of betotal abstainers were conducive to the orderly procedure of activities.

A few people evidenced displeasure because of the failure to sponsor a class and club parade as in former years, however, this feature was replaced by one equally as good—the colorful march of the high school bands just at the right time to attract a crowd to the football game.

It is timely to extend sincere praise and congratulations to all those who helped to make the Home-coming what it was—the best one that we have ever had.—Leroy Davis.

PROPER THINGS IN PROPER PLACES

The present conditions at the Kanawha Hall dining room are not of the best. Here is where dining etiquette is of the utmost importance. By worry and hard labor the dietician and her staff more than share in making dining conditions very pleasant and desirable.

The young men and women are still unconscious of what goes on at the tables. It has more than once been mentioned to the students that there is to much noise in entering and leaving, moving chairs, and passing up a glass of water. This is not to be so loud as necessary.

By one's dining etiquette his character can largely be determined. For this reason, if for no other, all who eat at Kanawha Hall should act as ladies and gentlemen before their fellow students.

After all, we are college men and women. Careful consideration of these points of etiquette should make collegiate life upon the campus more enjoyable to each and everyone of us.—Carl Keister.

"THE GOBLINS'LL GIT YOU"

Halloween—the very name itself, conjured in the minds of the ancients, fantastic forms.

October 31, according to the Scottish and Irish superstition, is the time when witches, devils, fairies and other imps of earth and air, hold their annual holiday.

While Halloween customs and superstitions are fast dying out in many countries, especially Ireland and Scotland, some peculiar ideas are still part and parcel of this festival.

It was formerly the custom in many parts of not only Ireland and Scotland, but England, to make of Halloween a gala event of feasting on October ale, nuts and all kinds of autumnal fruits.

Strange things may happen to one on Halloween, so superstitious folk used to think, for they thought that witches at that time rode on broomsticks, elves played pranks on those who would be sober, ghosts and spirits stalked around, and the future might be foretold by jumping over a lighted candle, or by many other magic rites.

Halloween is the only time of the year when, according to pagan lore, one has the opportunity to look into the future. Sweethearts burn two nuts together. If they burn quietly their love will run smoothly, but if the nuts jump apart—well, the lovers will live unhappily.

This is also the season of the Roman festival in honor of Pomona, the goddess of fruit and garden; and so after the Roman conquest of Britain, some of the Roman beliefs and ceremonies were added. Later, after the spread of Christianity, November 1 became a day for honoring all the saints, and the eve of that day was called Halloween (or all Hallow-Even) meaning the "holy eve of All-Saints day." Many of the old pagan customs were retained, and so we still crack nuts, burn apples and throw apple peelings over our shoulders and look in a mirror by candle light in a dark room, as our pagan ancestors did centuries ago.—C. E. Whitsell.

Thoughts For the Lovelorn
Or
Advice to the Broken Hearts

By Helena Hix

Dear Helena Hix,

I am in love with a boy here in school, but I can't tell whether he cares for me or not. He breaks dates, and is usually late for the ones he keeps. He didn't even take me to the Home-coming Dance. What should I do? Should I continue to wait for him in hopes he will change, or what? I'm always so blue when I am away from him. Please help me, Miss Hix.

Betty Coed.

Dear Betty,

Quit being a sucker. Think what a fool you're making of yourself in the eyes of the other students. No wonder you're blue. Who wouldn't be, thinking of such a scabby boy? Don't let him get away with that. Try, if you can, to get yourself another hero, and continue to love.

BETWEEN COLUMNS

Give the Voters a Chance
Bring Back the Poetry

Poetry should be brought back to the uses for which it was intended. The metaphysical school that is trying now to control it, and whose object seems to be to make it a science instead of a pleasure and beautiful way of expressing our thoughts, should be driven from our standard as it always has been from our hearts. We must go back to the first natural principles again, and by demanding imagination, simplicity, beauty and naturalness, make poetry a vehicle of the pure and the beautiful, and so simple that ordinary minds can read it with pleasure and understand what they read.

The story age of Spencer, Shakespeare, and Burns should be received and much of Browning's stuff flung to the dogs, where it belongs. God has given us poetry to be enjoyed, to be understood, to make us wiser and better, to take our hearts and firesides. Its principle is all but universal and there are few who do not, in some shape enjoy it. It was not intended to be an intellectual puzzle, a metaphysical science to be gobbled up by a few and denied to the world of yearning hearts.

Learned Shakespeare giving "Romeo and Juliet" in a barn to the learned of Europe, imagine Burns lying in the dew of the haystack watching the morning star quiver like the seal of Highland Mary and then writing his desolate song for the ears of those people who live in palaces and never saw a morning star, nor felt the kiss of an honest love in their lives.—Noel Bush.

Following the assembly program Wednesday, members of the junior and senior classes and the faculty were asked to select three persons from these classes to appear in the College "Who's Who."

The list of names handed to the voters was bewildering. Many of these names were not known to the students and teachers. They were asked to vote without knowing for whom they were voting.

It is possible for an individual to have high grades, a pleasing personality, and all the other qualities that a student selected for such an honor should have, but if he is not known well enough to be selected on his merits, it is not fair to that individual.

The next time, a similar situation arises, why not post a list of the students eligible for the honor a few days before the election that everyone may have a chance to consider the matter?—Alyce Marie Bonnett.

Merry Maiden's Movie Moments

On Screen Showings, Current and Coming
By Marjorie Craddock

Pictures coming to the local theater are: Tonight and tomorrow night, "Tropic Holiday," featuring Dorothy Lamour, Ray Milland, Martha Raye and George Burns; Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "The Texans," starring Joan Bennett and Randolph Scott; Sunday and Monday, "Love Finds Andy Hardy," with Mickey Rooney, Judy Garland and Lewis Stone.

In "Tropic Holiday," Dorothy Lamour discards her sari to be a Mexican senorita, while Martha Raye becomes a lady matador. Tito Guizar adds romantic touches with his guitar. Songs taken from this movie are: "On a Tropic Night," "Tonight Will Live," "My First Love," and "The Lamp on the Corner." "The Texans" is a three star picture dealing with the ruthless carpet-bagging machinations in Texas of unscrupulous Yankees just after the Civil War. "Love Finds Andy Hardy" is one of the most popular of the Judge Hardy and his typical American family movies. In this one Mickey Rooney gets his dance dates mixed with two girls.

AND SOME MORE: Judy Garland sings three songs in "Love Finds Andy Hardy." . . . All the stars in "The Texans" earned $1 a day and their keep. There were 2500 . . . About half of "The Texans" was shot on actual Texas soil.

Then came the greatest moment of our desire, the kettle with the remaining hot liquid handed us. How we "parked" ourself in the middle of the floor, with the kettle between our legs and the big spoon in our hand. A few rapid scrapes across the bottom of the kettle and then a smack from our lips upon showed our eagerness to "gobble" up the treat.

TO THE EDITORS:

Occasionally we hear the remark, "Isn't it terrible the way girls tear up furniture?" There are still a few who think the commutating students are those responsible for the destructiveness. A few years ago a west room was provided for these students by the College. Due to some reason the furniture became dilapidated. From this the idea originated that the furniture was destroyed.

But this opinion may be cleared very easily. The amount of moisture in the room is detrimental to the furniture. If those students who think the furniture is destroyed would have stayed in this room the past few years as it is, the result would probably be the same. If there be those who think the furniture has been destroyed, it is probably because they do not understand the conditions which exist. If they knew, they probably would change their point of view.—Mabel Elyson.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

"Let us see what we can do to keep the light of tolerance, justice and free pursuit of learning burning throughout this year." Barnard College's Dean Virginia G. Gildersleeve sets a broad goal for colleges' students.

"No matter what your grades are, you still have a chance. Grades, after all, are only an indication of what a student is learning from his courses." A. J. Purvis, Adrian College, gives a condescending pat-on-the-back to those who never stand at the head of the class.

"Men and women tempered by four years of exposure to disinterested scholarship are less likely to fall victims to mass hysteria, to corodoring personal ambition and to stupid fashions. They are less apt to become cranks or disciples of cranks." Northwestern University's Prof. William Jaffe believes a liberal education makes students "better prepared to become the type of citizens our strife-torn world so urgently needs."

PIONEERS REST OVER WEEK-END; WILL TRAIN THIS WEEK FOR BATTLE WITH ST. VINCENT BEARCATS AT LATROBE, PA.

Last Home Game Will Be Played Here on November 12: Have Won Three Games.

Having had a rest period the past week-end, the Glenville Pioneers are now preparing for their assignment with St. Vincent's Bearcats. This game will be played under the lights at Latrobe, Pa., November 5.

Only one more home engagement remains on the schedule. The Pioneers will make their last appearance here Saturday Nov. 12, when they entertain Fairmont's Fighting Teachers. Following the Fairmont contest, Glenville will play the remainder of their games away. On November 19, the Pioneers will go to Keyser for a game with Potomac State's Catamounts. Thanksgiving Day they will wind up the season with a contest at Salem College.

In the five games played to date, the Pioneers have lost two battles, and won three. Wins have been chalked up over New River, 28-0; Bethany, 7-6; and West Liberty, 20-0. Games were lost to Concord and Morris Harvey by identical scores, 7-0.

According to statistics, the Pioneers have crossed the opponents' goal line eight times. Morris Harvey and Concord have been the only teams to penetrate into Glenville's end zone. Both scored touchdowns on passes.

Co-captain Porterfield has tallied three of the Pioneers' eight scores. Keister, Mendenhall, Maxwell, McMillen and Westfall are credited with one each.

Porterfield has also been the outstanding ground gainer, averaging better than four yards per try.

Glenville has made 49 first downs to the opposition's 32. In games to date the Pioneers have not been led in this department.

Elissa Landi Says 'I'd Rather Write'

A number of books she has already sent out to receive public approval. "It's like giving birth to a child," she offered as an explanation of how it feels to send a book out upon the waters of public opinion. She admitted she slept with the galley proofs of her first book under her pillow.

Here For Eight Years

Miss Landi has been in the United States for eight years. Though born in Venice, she is nearly as foreign to that city as a Venetian blind—she was there only a short while. English, other European, and Canadian residences have been hers. With "A Farewell to Arms" she came to America, now her home land. "I am an American citizen because I want to be, not because I'm forced," she emphasized.

"College audiences are the best," the actress maintained. Her audiences are varied, and her engagements during the October-December tour are many. Louisville, Ky., was her next destination.

She had not been to West Virginia before, though motor trips have taken her through several states, Colorado and New York she thinks the most beautiful.

"But again to acting and writing; the greatest consolation in writing is to feel that there is no 'cutting man'—a man to cut and dissect pages as he does movie film—and surely actresses' hearts."

Iowa State College scientists have devised a new method of making Roquefort cheese, said to be the first commercial process devised for producing the product in the U. S.

CAMPUS CARTOON... IN SEASON...

GLENVILLE MAY LOSE TITLE SCRIBES LAUD WARD-WERNER A-B COURT TEAM IS STRONG

Judging from Morris Harvey's 41-7 rout of Bethany it looks as though the Pioneers will have to relinquish the state golf title they won the past year to the powerful Golden Eagles. Only three aggregations, West Liberty, New River and Davis and Elkins, stand in the Eagles' way, and if the Capital City crew continues its present pace, the crown is only three weeks away. Morris Harvey was one of Glenville's strongest opponents, yet the Pioneers displayed their best performance of the year against the Eagles, and you know the rest.

This department is of the opinion that the Eagles will not encounter much opposition from West Liberty and New River, but will have their hands full with Bud Shelton's Scarlet Hurricane of Davis and Elkins College. The Senators, banged around considerably in the present campaign, have a potentially powerful outfit and stand an excellent chance of spoiling Morris Harvey's hitherto unspotted state record.

According to Charleston sport scribes, the athletic success of Morris Harvey is wholly attributed to its mentors, Jule Ward and A. H. ("Pop") Werner, former Duke University stars. Ward and Werner have done a magnificent job of rebuilding the Eagles, but we are curious to know if their recent success could have been realized without the moral and financial support that has been rendered by numerous outside factions in Charleston and vicinity?

As a delegate to the sixth annual convention of West Virginia Federation of College Students held at Institute the past week, this scribe was impressed with the well-rounded athletic program of West Virginia State College, one of the nation's outstanding Negro institutions. Besides its major athletic units, State also maintains a varied intramural program for both men and women, including hockey and soccer football, two sports unknown to most state colleges.

Mendell Gainer, retiring president of the Federation and a member of Alderson-Broadbent's contingent, says that Rex Pyle, former Pioneer court wizard, is going to have another crack court squad at the Philippi institution this year. All of the past year's varsity is back, and the Battlers have been practicing since school began in preparation for the coming campaign.

Glenville's chances of redeeming itself for its dismal showing against Concord here on Homecoming day looks very dim this week-end, as Saturday, Nov. 5, is the eventful day when the Pioneers will be entertained by the rugged St. Vincent Bearcats. The locals have enough determination and will be primed enough to give the "Cats a terrific battle, but the Saints have practically the same team that setback Glenville 26-0 the past year, and we are prone to believe that they haven't forgotten the twin basketball triumphs that Glenville registered over them the past winter.

While sojourning in the Capital City the past week-end, this scribe had the pleasure of attending an interesting session devoted to various undergraduate experiences at Glenville College. Included in the group were, Hilda Cottle, Revley Banks, "Fats" Hamilton, Blake Eisman, Carlos Rattiff and Anthony Miller. Another member of the party, Paul Richey, still an enthusiastic Pioneer fan, turned in a noble job of convincing a Glenville Harvey supporter that Glenville has a better team than the Golden Eagles.

Baylor University Is Oldest School West of Mississippi River, Texans Say

AUSTIN, TEXAS—(ACP)—Contrary to popular belief the first university in America was not Harvard. Now was Baylor U the first institution of higher learning west of the Mississippi.

For exactly 85 years before John Harvard endowed his dream school in Cambridge in 1633, some of the more ambitious Spanish explorers and educators founded the University of Mexico in 1553.

At this time, which was very few years after Hernando Cortez crushed the tottering Aztec empire, a flourishing civilization existed in Mexico. Scholars and writers had begun to come over from the old world, and the first textbook in philosophy to be written in America was used in the new university. This was titled "Recognito Summularum." Pray Alonso de la Veracruz was the author. Veracruz also wrote two other textbooks for use in the school. They were "Dialectica Resolutio cum textu Aristoteliano," logic with an Aristotelian text, and "Physica Speculatio," an explanation of Newton's law of gravitation. The first two appeared in 1554 and the latter in 1557.

Another of the books used was a Latin grammar by Francisco Cervantes de Salazar, the first rhetoric teacher in North America. Its title was "Comentaria in Ludovicum Vives Exercitationes Lingua Latinae." Strangely enough, though each of these volumes is nearly four centuries old, a copy of each has been preserved and exists today in the University of Texas library.

Hunter College in New York City is the largest women's college in the world.

To point the finger of ridicule at the "30 Every Thursday" plan being promoted as a bonus for those over 50, University of California at Los Angeles students have organized a new club to give $50 every Friday to folks under 50. Here are the more-than-logical campaign arguments for the new movement:

1. Younger people (0 to 50) have occasion to spend more money than older people.
  2. The pension would give those waiting to become 50 something to do.
  3. To give pensions to everybody is more democratic.

Campus 'He-Men' Become Mighty Nimrods And Furnish Meat for Dining Room Table

Mace, Rhoades, Lamp and Urbanick Try Their Luck In Gilmer Woods.

By James McMillan.

Four mighty nimrods of Glenville State Teachers College took a brief sojourn to the dark and dismal forest on the hunt of the elusive red squirrel.

Roy Mace, Junior Rhoades, Clifford Lamp and Rudolph Urbanick, armed with the most deadly weapons known to the hunter, set forth from the campus, with the expressed intention of supplying their dormitory tables with the tender meat of the red squirrel. After traveling ten miles in an automobile, they at last reached the native haunts of the woodland rodent. They took partners, Rhoades and Urbanick going in one direction, Lamp and Mace in the other, with the agreement that they all should meet at 4 o'clock in the evening. Rhoades and Urbanick, not having the necessary hunters' luck to bring back the bag limit, returned to the automobile where they began target practice while they were waiting for the other two hunters. Five o'clock and no hunters. Six o'clock and still no hunters, as they returned to the campus, leaving Mace and Lamp alone in the great expansive forests of Gilmer County.

Lamp and Mace, not willing to leave without at least one squirrel, stayed on until at last their luck changed and they came upon a family of the timid rodents. Blazing away with shot and pellets they killed the mother, father, and three baby squirrels.

After gloating gleefully over their good luck they were returning to the automobile when Mace flushed and killed a pheasant.

They all have earned the new campus nicknames of Daniel Boone, Kit Carson and other daring exploiters of yesteryears.
