

MRS. J. WILBUR BEALL, COLLEGE ALUMNA, WILL DIRECT COUNTY 'FIGHT INFANTILE PARALYSIS' DRIVE; COMMITTEES NAMED

One Half of Funds Raised Will Be Used Locally; Dinner and President's Ball Planned for Glenville

The nation-wide "fight infantile paralysis" campaign will be given united support in Glen County this year and during the next three weeks an intensive drive for funds will be waged in Glenville and in all outlying communities.

County chairman of this year's campaign is Mrs. J. Wilbur Beall, who already has mapped out a complete program of activities for Glenville and has named leaders for all of the outlying sections.

Heading up the major events in Glenville will be a President's Birthday Dinner and a President's Ball, both events to be held Saturday, Jan. 11.

Mrs. B. W. Craddock is in charge of the President's Dinner, which will be served at 6:30 p. m., January 21, in the social rooms of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Darl R. Boggs is chairman of the Ball, which will be held in the College gymnasium, Saturday night, Jan. 21, beginning at 9 o'clock. Music will be furnished by Frank M. Beall's swing band and dancing will continue until midnight. Tickets for the dinner will cost $1 each and admission to the dance will be $1 per couple.

Mrs. Beall, chairman, is directly in charge of all ticket sales but will be assisted by Miss Beale Boyd Bell, Mrs. Mary H. Powell, Miss Jeanne Gainer, Mrs. Robert Blair, Mrs. Overt Hardman, Mrs. C. D. Wilfong, Miss Oneta Arnold and others who will be named as needed.

Principals of the senior and junior high schools in the outlying communities will serve as leaders in their respective communities and will be responsible for arranging activities programs there.

There is no limit to the kind or number of entertainments which the various communities may sponsor. Major events of the past years have been basketball games, pie socials, community fairs, music programs, contests, etc.

James M. Bramlett will act as chairman for the Normantown community, Clyde Strafer at Rosedale, Edmund Powell at Cedarville, Pearl Pickens at Troy, Asa V. Cooper at Tanner, Roland Butcher at Sand Fork and Alton Peters at Gilmer.

This year for the first time half of the funds contributed in the county will remain here to be used as needed in fighting infantile paralysis. Following the close of the campaign, a permanent county organization will be effected and the funds raised this year will be given to it in Glen County. Last year $180.47 was raised in the county.

Also planned as a part of this year's campaign is the sale of "march of dimes buttons" under which plan each person who contributes a dime will be given a button. Especially will this feature be employed as a means of giving school children an opportunity to assist in the campaign.

Letters explaining the "march of dimes" feature will be sent to community chairmen this week.

Speech Class Will Present One-Act Plays

Production has begun on three one-act plays as projects in Speech 202 class.

Loise Gulets is directing "Three's A Crowd," a comedy. The cast includes: Max Reed, Alice Nutter, Max Ward, Robert Stalnaker, and Dexter Dotson.

"Flin's," a comedy, is directed by Madeline Moore. The cast is composed of: Mary Means, Olin Hill, and Woodrow Maxwell.

"Three Potatoes For Mary," directed by Madeline Comstock, has in its cast Jessie Yoho, Nellie Lively, Sarah Malcolm, and Marjiny Hackett.

Debate Teams Will Open Season Tomorrow

The College debate teams will open their season tomorrow when they meet teams from Waynesburg College in a double debate. The affirmative team, composed of Marlin Boggs, J. S. Richardson, and Helen Heater, will debate Waynesburg negative at 9:00 a. m. in Room 101. The negative team will meet Waynesburg affirmative at 11:00 a. m. in Room 106. The negative team includes: Paul Beal, Ray Jones, and Clyde Dotson.

The College 'Jims' Furnish Chapel Program

Wednesday's assembly period was devoted to a program, "Great Jameses of Yesterday and Today," by the Jim Club. Something of the significance of the name was pointed out, and famous personages who bore the name portrayed by members of the club.

James Musser, president of the club, stated that it is a variant of the name Jacob, and is widely used in Christian countries, having been the name of two of Christ's apostles. King James I, who became king of Scotland one year after his birth, and ruled from 1567 until 1625, has an authorized version of the Bible inscribed in his honor.

James Satterfield described James Monroe who was a member of the Virginia Legislature, governor of Virginia, U. S. Senator, Minister to France, president of the United States, and author of the Monroe Doctrine.

Famous artists, such as James Whistler and James Earl Frazier, were discussed by James Heater.

Information concerning James Farley, postmaster general of the U. S., and chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was given by James Brown. Farley's flair for making people like him, ability in remembering people's names, and his success in spite of adverse circumstances were emphasized.

The activities and productions of Sir James Matthew Barrie, Scotch dramatist and story writer, were portrayed by James Tenney.

13 Students to Complete Directed Teaching In Secondary Field at Training School

Work in Elementary Department Will Be Finished Next Week

Thirteen students, under the supervision of Dr. John C. Shreve, head of the department of education, will complete their work in secondary directed teaching this week. Those completing their work are: Eugene Bailey, Kenton Berry, Alysie Marie Bonnett, Laddie Bell, Marjorie Craddock, Imogene Dye, Clifford Garrett, Ernestine Harrison, Albert Kidd, Ralph Mendenhall, Russell Porterfield, John Rogers and Leah Stalnaker.

Because of the state law of Pennsylvania which requires six hours to be completed in this work instead of five, Albert Lilley and Robert Davies, both from that state, are taking one additional hour of work this coming semester.

Those taking secondary directed teaching under the supervision of Dr. Shreve and their subjects are: Monta Beal, English and French; Earlie Bickel, social science and physical education; Noel Bush, Paul Collins, Sterring Cunningham, Robert Davis, Richard Dyer, Mabel Elyson, Eloise Gunn, Joseph Haught, James Musser, Royce Snodgrass, and Rudolph Urbanic, English and social science; Albert Lilley, English and physical education; Lois Mason Maco, English and French; Edmund Meadows, biology and French; Damon Starcher, biology and mathematics, and James Osbourne, mathematics and physical science. Pres. and Mrs. E. G. Rohrbough Go To Texas, Mexico on Vacation

Southern Texas Described As Wonderful Country; Citrus Fruit Production On the Increase

By Max Ward

President and Mrs. E. G. Rohrbough spent their Christmas vacation in southern Texas, visiting historic places and particularly the citrus ranch of Mr. M. B. Rohrbough who accompanied them. The latter is a brother of Pres. Rohrbough, and lives in Beverly, W. Va.

They also visited Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Rohrbough, Jr., of Austin. Mr. Rohrbough is an assistant in the department of English of the University of Texas.

According to Mrs. Rohrbough, this little-publicized section of Texas is "wonderful country." She pointed out that it is growing quite progressive through extended citrus fruit and vegetable production. This activity is a change from the former grazing ranches. Proof that citrus fruits thrive well was evident in a two and one-half pound ponderosa lemon she brought back. Many vegetables grown here are now ready for market.

New and better methods of shipping their products are contributing to the increased prosperity of the fruit and vegetable growers. Their greatest handicap lies in their marketing difficulties. Irrigation is necessary but convenient, Mrs. Rohrbough explained.

Pres. and Mrs. Rohrbough left Glenville December 16 and returned on the 30th. The 4000-mile trip made by automobile, included a short trip in Mexico. On the previous trip Mrs. Rohrbough drove the entire distance.

COLLEGE PLANS MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR THE LATE GEORGE FIRESTONE; PROGRAM WILL BE HELD TOMORROW AT 10 A. M. IN AUDITORIUM

Provisions of a Bequest To the College Will Be Made Public at the Service; Hunter Whiting in Charge

Glenville State Teachers College students and faculty will honor the late George Firestone with a memorial service in the auditorium tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, it is announced by Dr. E. G. Rohrbough, president.

Mr. Hunter Whiting is in charge of the service, which will include addresses by Dr. Rohrbough, by C. W. Marsh, editor of the Democrat and former state senator, and by Joseph Haught, a senior in the College. Special music will be furnished under the direction of Miss Bertha E. Olson.

Also the content of the will of Mr. Firestone will be made known at the service and a special bequest to the College will be explained.

Mr. Firestone, 73 years old, who had served as janitor at the College for more than 43 years, died the afternoon of December 24 at the Dr. W. T. Smith hospital. He had been ill for several years but never had given up work.

He became ill suddenly Friday night, Dec. 23, while en route from Main Street to his room in the Old Building. He was found almost unconscious near the county court house and was immediately removed to the home of Miss Ivy Lee Myers, where medical attention was furnished. Later he was removed to his (Continued on Page 2)

Mr. Henderson, received his Standard Normal from this College in 1932 where he was a member of the Canterbury Club. In addition to this College, Mr. Henderson has attended Fairmont State Teachers College and West Virginia University. He teaches in the Flatwoods schools.

The date for the wedding has not been announced.

Prof. L. B. Hill Will Address Assembly, Jan. 18

Prof. L. B. Hill, of the department of education, West Virginia University, will be the assembly speaker on Wednesday, Jan. 18, announces Pres. E. G. Rohrbough. He will address the faculty at 4 o'clock on the afternoon preceding. Prof. Hill is a former president of Concord State Teachers College.

The subject of Mr. Hill's address here will be: "Trends and Tides in Education As I See Them."

WILLIAM HAMILTON HAS ARTICLE IN SCHOOL JOURNAL

The article, "Do You Annoy Students?" by William Hamilton, a senior in the College, is found on page 31 of the January issue of the West Virginia School Journal. This article was written for the Mercury and appeared in the November 22 issue.

College Alumni Rate High In County Schools

All except 2 of the 133 teachers employed in Glen County schools are graduates or former students of Glenville State Teachers College. Marvin Cooper, superintendent, said that at the end of the fourth month of the present term, there were sixty one-room schools in the county with a total enrollment of 1282 students, eleven graded schools of more than one room with 996, and seven high and junior high schools with 815 students.

Sand Fork High School is the fourth of the five high schools in Glen County to get a new gymnasium. It is expected to be completed within the next few days and will be named "Keith Gymnasium" in honor of Wayne Keith, who is an uncle of Jack Keith, a sophomore on the College.

Glenville High School is now the only secondary school without a gymnasium, although it now has, and has had for many years, access to the College gymnasium.

Too Much Variety In Transportation

Variety may be the spice of life, but for Miss Goldie C. James, instructor in biology, the Christmas vacation offered too much variety in the way of transportation.

Upon terminating her New York visit, she planned to fly by American Airlines to Washington, and ultimately to Huntington to visit Miss Laura Ann Miles, former College instructor. The trip was to take only four hours, but bad flying weather forced a change from air to train in Washington, at the same time causing considerable delay.

But all was not clear on the C. and O. Previous wreckage of the bridge at Washington on the same tracks caused Miss James to reach Huntington seven hours late.

Misinformation as to bus schedules led to missing the Charleston bus by five minutes. Only by "running down" the bus did she reach Charleston, ready to take the bus for Glenville.

But the end was not yet: Just out of Spencer the bus began its belated vacation. Time and a mechanic failed to persuade it to show signs of life, so Miss James finally reached Glenville in a taxicab.

Mississippi State College has just opened a new petroleum products testing laboratory constructed at a cost of $20,000.

THIRTEEN NEW COURSES LISTED ON SCHEDULE FOR SECOND SEMESTER, WHICH WILL OPEN MONDAY, JAN. 30

Paul S. Moyers was named chairman of an on-to-Huntington committee to stir up interest in the District Convention. H. Laban White will serve as chairman of the on-to-Cleveland committee. This year's Rotary International convention will be held in Cleveland.

Student Council May Sponsor Formal Dance

Ernestine Harrison, treasurer, was ordered by the Student Council Thursday evening to file a requisition at the President's office for payment from the activity fees of expenses incurred by the Council for the coronation ceremonies on Homecoming Day and approved November 16. The expenses totaled $12.00.

Plans to sponsor a formal dance early in the second semester, possibly about St. Valentine's Day, were discussed but decision was deferred until more consideration has been given the matter.

Sponsors for open house this week were selected as follows: Tonight, Miss Harrison will be in charge; tomorrow night, James McMillen; and Thursday night, Harold Noroski.

Junior Women Will Sponsor Musical Comedy

A musical comedy is to be given by the Junior Women's Club, in the College auditorium, Thursday, Jan. 19. There will be two performances one in the afternoon, and one at night.

The following committees have been named: Properties, Mary Elizabeth Young, Cora Clare Larkley, Madeline Moore, Juanita Bell, Oneta Arnold; casting and make-up, Mrs. Earl R. Boggs, Lucy Wolfe, Helen McGee, Agnes Wright, Gwendolyn Beall; tickets, Jeanne Gainer, Mrs. Newsom McFerrin, Lestelle Lorentz, Erma Edwards, Maxine Satterfield, Annabel Garrett; advertising, Mrs. Harry Bennett, Mrs. Oryville J. White, Lillian Smith, Ruth Annabel Hull, Marjorie Craddock. The general committee includes Mrs. John Gilbert Cain, Mabel Wolfe and Mrs. Herbert V. Watkins.

A three-act play, "Coast to Coast," has been chosen. The director, Miss Frances Mullens of Camden, Ark., arrived Monday and is selecting the cast. Characters will be chosen from high school students, College students and townspeople. There are twelve speaking parts and a chorus of fourteen. Admission will be 10 and 25 cents.

37 Per Cent of Northwestern University Coeds Attend Their Classes Barelegged

Glenville Girls Approve of The Idea—Maybe; 20% Believe Stockings Should Be Worn in Public, Always

Recently a survey made at Northwestern University revealed that 37 per cent of the coeds go barelegged to classes.

And so, pronto! the idea presented an opportunity to make a similar representative survey on the Glenville campus. The findings go something like this:

As many as 50 per cent have been known to go to classes barelegged during the warmer weather; a much lower per cent, of course, during the winter months. Also, about 10 per cent of the girls regularly wear anklets.

About 80 per cent of the girls

4-H Club to Entertain With 'Kid' Party

For one whole evening the College students—even the seniors—will be given an opportunity to "let themselves go".

This announcement prefaces the necessary remarks about the forthcoming "kid" party to be sponsored tonight in the College gymnasium.

Responsible for the party is the College Four-H Club. Reason for the affair: The coming of the Waynesburg debating teams.

Games, and there'll be plenty of them, will be handled by Miss Adele Harpold, county club agent. Refreshments will be served.

All persons who expect to attend are urged to wear their "kid" clothes and are reminded that the party promises to be something new and different.

CANTERBURY CLUB TO MEET TOMORROW NIGHT

Nathaniel Hawthorne's stories will be heard tomorrow night, 7 o'clock, at the Canterbury Club. The stories that will be told are "White Old Maid," by James Musser; "The Ambitious Guest," Max Ward, and "The Great Stone Face," Eva Amos.

"But George Goes On Forever"

The work of George Firestone is more of a tribute to him than extended words of praise. Those who would do him honor seek to express their deep appreciation of a person who was a fundamental attribute of the College rather than an incidental accessory. In so doing they strive to put into word and phrase the best of those tributes at their command. Yet there is probably not a one who feels the inadequacy of verbal expression concerning a man unique in his own field. Every member of the faculty, student and alumni knows the story and realizes that in the quiet, enduring memory that is much like the man they grew to revere lies his greatest and most enduring tribute.

As the seasons change and blend, one into the other, and the years grow in number, there will be in the College, on the campus, and in the hearts of those who knew him much that makes pointedly noticeable the thought that many may come and go, but George Firestone goes on.—Max Ward.

By His Flowers We Shall Remember Him

While most of us were home for the Christmas holidays and during that time when happiness and joy was in our hearts, Glenville was bidding farewell to George Firestone, a faithful employee and friend in the service of the College.

It was his lot to have lived and worked at the College and on the campus for more than 43 years. In him we found delight, cheerfulness and happiness. His earnestness, faithfulness and obedience to duty was cherished by all who knew him.

His life was characterized by his great love for nature; most outstanding was his attention to the flowers and shrubbery on the campus.

Those who knew him and of his life at the College can best remember him through those cherished things left for us to adore, to love and to appreciate.

As nature provides the flowers with their brilliant blossoms, conveying to us beauty and grandeur, we may pause "lest we forget" to think of the one who planted and watched over them.

May that life so obedient and so faithful to duty be reflected to us through the blossoms of the flowers as we stop to admire them.—Berlin Anderson.

We Will Miss Him But Not Forget Him

"To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die." Yes, George is dead, but students, faculty members and townspeople will long have a fond memory of him. For forty-three years George Firestone lived and worked on the College campus. He was willing and faithful and untiring in his efforts to care for and beautify the buildings and grounds of the College. He took great pride in his work.

He was always anxious to serve and help others. He took a deep interest in all the College activities and was always ready to render any assistance he could at any time.

Glenville State Teachers College has lost one of its most ardent friends. We will miss George, but we will not forget him.—Elizabeth Lewis.

"Modern youth has many good qualities that the youth of other periods possessed and, in addition, good qualities that were not conspicuous in the youth of the past. But it is clear to me that the youth of today, both men and women, are not the equals of earlier generations in elegance, in manner, or in ease in behavior." Dean J. T. Madden, New York University, believes you, and you, and you should brush up on your manners a bit.

Merry Maiden's Movie Moments

On Screen Showings, Current and Coming

By Marjorie Craddock

Pictures coming to the Pictureland Theater are: Tonight and tomorrow night, "Prison Patrol," with Shirley Ross and Lloyd Nolan, also "When a Man Rides Alone," starring Tom Tyler; Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, "Valley of the Giants," featuring Claire Trevor and Wayne Morris; Sunday and Monday, "Keep Smiling," with Jane Withers.

"Valley of the Giants" is Peter B. Kyne's tale of lumberjacking, logging, and land grabbing in California's redwood forest. The picture, which is in technicolor, has highly advanced photography. Charles Bickford, as the lowdown timberland thief, gives a good performance.

Gene Autry, perhaps the most popular cinemastar in the world, offers the appeal at the opening of the Lyric. "Gold Mine in the Sky" is the picture. The Republic Studio makes eight such pictures a year, all featuring Autry, "who is by far the most famed performer in modern 'westerns'."

"Arkansas Traveler," the next picture at the Lyric has Bob Burns starred for the first time. He is a hobo who takes a job on a newspaper. Support is added by Jean Parker, Fay Bainter, and 150 hobos.

AND SOME MORE: Those new upholstered seats at Pictureland are plenty classy, do you agree? Last week, "Fast Company" was on, which had the most clever script of any movie ever seen, according to several students.

COMMENT: A Time Magazine article on Gene Autry stated that "his pictures had been 'mortgage lifelines' to hick theaters, his contribution being a soft, sleepy-sounding baritone voice. His fan mail averages 4000 letters weekly, and last year's sales of Autry's phonograph records equalled those of Bing Crosby. Yet, Hollywood remains unaware of Autry so off the screen he attracts attention by wearing flashy cowboy suits."

CUPID: Interesting combinations are going on among our students. Watching the silver screen have been: Mable Reed and Bill Riddle; Margaret Ann Perrin and Le Roy Davis.

Pictures billed at the Lyric Theater are: Saturday, "Gold Mine in the Sky," starring Gene Autry, and Chapter One of a serial, "Phantom Empire," Sunday and Monday, "The Arkansas Traveler," featuring Bob Burns.

There are more than 2,600 items in the Wordsworth collection of Cornell University.

Notes
On What to Read

Seen Among the Books
And Magazines in the
Robert F. Kidd Library

By Elizabeth Lewis
BOOK REVIEW: "Our Town," a play written by Thornton Wilder, which won the Pulitzer Prize last year is staged without scenery and the stage manager is present throughout the play.

The play, a copy of which is in the Robert F. Kidd Library, takes place in Grover's Corners, New Hampshire between the years of 1901 and 1913. It is a typical small town and the characters are typical small town people. The play is centered around the lives of the Gibbs and the Webb families, and is presented in a quiet intimate manner. The presence of the stage manager and his simple informal remarks about and to the characters unify the play very successfully. The first act is called Daily Life and shows common everyday occurrences that may take place in any small town home. The second act is that of Love and Marriage. George Gibbs, marries Emily Webb and they go to live on a farm.

The third act shows the dead as more appreciative of the brevity and order of life than the living. Emily Gibbs has died in childbirth but lives her twelfth birthday on earth. She realizes the joy of living.

MAGAZINE ARTICLES: Scribner's for January contains the story of the life of Pare Lorentz, former West Virginian, who is now a famous writer and movie critic and is now the head man of Government motion pictures. W. L. White is the author of the story.

Progressive Education is a new magazine which has been put on the shelves in the library. Current History for January has an article titled "We Vote As We Please" which is an analysis of American voting habits and throws an amazing new light on presidential elections. It tells why people vote for a certain president, how many voters stick to their parties and other factors that bring about a close campaign.

Dorothy Thompson in "Millinery Madness" Readers' Digest, January, tells us what she thinks of the hats the women are wearing this year. She advocates either wearing last year's hat or introducing a new style and going hatless.

Forty-three colleges and universities have student flying clubs.

Of the 1,899 parolees of the New York State Parole Board, only 4 per cent graduated from college or a professional school.

The LETTER BOX

To the Editors:

We, the off-campus students who compose approximately forty per cent of the College enrollment, feel we are not being given the consideration due us in the activities of the school.

For instance, we cite the Kingwood-Glenville game the past week at which our activity books admitted us, but only the dormitory students had been informed of this. Thus the town students appeared at the door with no books. Another case concerns the free tickets for the theater, supposedly to have been given to all students shortly after Home-Coming, but here only the dormitory students obtained them. The rest of us knew the next day there had been a free show. Too, it seems that a large majority of club and class meetings are set according to the meal schedules of the halls, while other students, who naturally eat later, tend to miss meals in order to attend these meetings. Dances, which have been decided upon after assembly, are announced only at the dormitories.

We understand the town of Glenville would not be much without the College, but in turn could the College exist without the support of the town citizens?

No doubt, part of this inconsistency is over-sight and it is hard to get word of last minute arrangements to town students, but we know much of this embarrassment and misunderstanding could be avoided.

Yours truly,
A town girl.

Dear Puzzled,

Double trouble, huh? Well, "They Say," "Every Lover Must Meet His Fate," but it seems to me "Your Eyes Are Bigger Than Your Heart." "Could You Part In Love?" If so, keep on "Havin' Yourself A Time" and "Change Partners" "Every Now and Then." If not, "Don't Be That Way," "Be an Ordinary Guy" and "Stop Beating Around The Mulberry Bush," or you're likely to find them "Somewhere with Somebody."

Lest We Regret

Our College Days

"Improve the present. It is thine," so said a beloved poet, Longfellow.

We are often prone to look backward, and to the future, failing to fully appreciate the present, to get the most out of life.

College students—or at least most of us—hardly realize how fortunate we are, and fail to enjoy the present.

While the past is gone and cannot be called back, and while we are building for the future, let us keep in mind that life will be fuller, richer and happier if we but learn to make the most of the present.

Life is serious; it should not be treated lightly. While we are enjoying the opportunities of the present, we should use them in a way that will contribute most to our success in the future. We should remember that we go this way but once.

Happiness consists not in "getting by" but in the pleasure of things well done.

We should not look on college life as something thrust upon us, but as a blessing that comes to us. All are not so blessed. Because of lack of vision, financial handicap, or other causes, many are not so fortunate as we. We have pleasant school rooms, able and sympathetic teachers who are always ready and glad to extend a helping hand, and to give inspiration and guidance.

Our library is an excellent one, and there we may pleasantly and profitably spend our leisure time, knowing that we will be treated with courtesy and consideration, by those who serve there.

Many of our habits are formed during life in college, and we should see to it that they are such as will result, not only in success and happiness now, but in the future as well.

Let us so spend our days here that we will not be among those who, looking back exclaim, "If I only had my college days to live over!"—C. E. Whysell.

Socially Intelligent

And Socially Minded

A total of 2,000,000 men and women are added each year to the nation's workers and voters. Their social intelligence and social attitude are of great concern to the nation's welfare. To some they do not understand the causes of our social and economic disturbances. They have no knowledge of the ways in which our social institutions function. They are easily swayed by slogans of propaganda.

"The teachers—Are they socially intelligent and socially minded? Are these men and women equipped to perform the duties that go with citizenship in a democracy? Has education been adequate in these respects?" asks an article in December issue of the Education Digest.

The topic is skillfully discussed by Floyd W. Reeves, professor of education at the University of Chicago, who thinks the present philosophy of teachers as a group is far from satisfactory.

"The time has come," he says, "when the educational institutions must give consideration to the problem preparing youth for effective participation in community life. The teacher must be socially intelligent who is possessed with an urge to improve conditions, and who is active and effective participant in society." Mr. Reeves concludes that the education of the teacher is not typically such as is likely to develop a liberal philosophy.

On the other hand, Mr. Reeves maintains that "the educational institutions have neglected the broad general education of the prospective teachers and particularly the social and democratic spirits of general education. Teachers must be prepared to fight for the establishment of democratic principles in the administration of education. At the same time the public must be educated to the advantages that will result from a greater degree of personal and academic freedom for teachers.—Mabel Ellison.

Quotable

—Quotes—

"If we really believe in the democratic way, we face the problem not only of achieving it but of maintaining it. It is that before we begin this will be peculiarly an American obligation." University of Wisconsin's Pres. C. A. Dykstra gloomily views the future of democracy, advocates that education promote knowledge of it.

"Student organizations should be purely educational should not attempt to take specific action." University of Chicago's Prof. W. H. Laves holds the belief that students come to college to learn, and therefore should not attempt to form definite opinions.

GLENVILLE OPENS ANOTHER GREAT SEASON WITH 57-40 VICTORY OVER FIGHTING TEACHERS OF FAIRMONT; LILLEY HIGH MAN

Visitors Put Up Game Fight and Hold Lead At the Half But Weaken Before End of Game

By Earl McDonald
After finding great difficulty in overcoming a 28-25 lead which Fairmont Teachers held at half-time, Glenville's Pioneers turned on the heat to subdue a fighting Colebank quint here Saturday night in the College gymnasium by a score of 57-40.

Paced by Big ("Abie") Lilley, veteran center, who scored 22 points, the Pioneers flashed an offensive attack which kept the Marion county team in hot water throughout the last two quarters.

The scoreboard revealed the two teams were deadlocked no less than seven times during the first half and twice in the third stanza.

Besides Lilley's outstanding work, Robert ("Red") Davies and Junior Rhoades, sharp-shooting Pioneer forwards, came in for their share of the honors by scoring 12 and 11 points respectively.

Approximately 450 spectators witnessed the game which marked the forty-first consecutive victory for the Pioneers, coached by A. F. ("Nate") Rohrbough, who is now in his thirteenth season as tutor of Glenville athletic teams.

GLENVILLE HOPES TO BE STRONG ALUMNI PRESENTS NEW COACHES GYMNASIUM IS WELL EQUIPPED

The Glenville Pioneers, who have made basketball history dating back to 1909 when the game was a squawling newcomer in the nursery of intercollegiate sports, have dedicated themselves this season to the task of proving their right to a place among the tri-state district court elect by virtue of victories as well as tradition.

To that end, the White Wave has included in its back-breaking schedule of twenty-three games dual engagements with ten first-flight teams and single encounters with three other top-notch foes in what is unofficially known as the Tri-State District League.

Glenville confidently expects to finish in the first division in the West Virginia Conference as might be expected of a team that has monopolized the crown so long, and bases these soaring hopes on its seven holdover lettermen and the influx of good plebe material, who, coupled with the available promising array of newcomer talent, should give the varsity frequent rests and continue to bewilder the opposition.

The assemblage of veterans, including Co-Captains Robert Davies and Albert Lilley, Louie Romano, James McMillen, Gilbert Rhoades, Harold Scott and Harold Norowski, fortified by a troupe of reserve standouts, Robert Armstrong, Jack Miles, Forest White, Clifford Lamp, Patsy Palumbo and Woodrow Maxwell, is the squad from which Coach Rohrbough expects to fashion a team of clever ball-handling, smart play-making basket shooters.

Rohrbough's current team got off to a good start this year, winning handily from Kingwood, 89-40, and from Fairmont, 57-40. The rest of the campaign, however, will be anything but rosy since the latest edition of the Pioneers was bequeathed a mammoth task of upholding the court prestige of its immediate predecessor, who, not only went through the 1938 season undefeated, but captured two championships, the Tri-State District title and the West Virginia Conference gonfalon.

ALUMNI SCETCHINGS: Paul Mason, who carried the Pioneer's football banner for four years and who is the present coach of the Fellowship High School Wolves' basketball team, brought six of his players to Glenville during the Christmas recess—Hillis Cottle, former Glenville court and grid ace, now mentoring at Stoco High School, also paid his respects during the holidays—Paul ("Babe") Jones, ex-

Pioneer basketball, who is now the chief skipper of the Richmond High School Lumberjacks, enjoyed one of his best grid campaigns in '38, winning seven and losing one.

Glenville, unfortunately, does not have a field house nor even a second gymnasium, yet, accommodates regularly in its single gymnasium three basketball squads, an intramural court league, a miscellaneous assortment of so-called feminine athletes, who participate in various sports, and any transient outfit that puts in an appearance. Despite this, however, the building is now in its best condition, and is equipped for basketball, tennis, softball, badminton, volleyball and shuffle board.

Mill Throw-Outs: Local basketball adherents were a little uneasy Saturday night when the Pioneers emerged from the first half of their contest with Fairmont on the short end of a 28-25 count — However, Al Lilley & Co. in the fourth period found their shooting eyes, and reeled a lot of the tension—Jack Conrad, lanky Red Terror ace, is rapidly developing into a reliable point-guard—Against Victory he potted 20 haymakers and was responsible for 14 against Westmore—Incidentally, the Westmore-Glenville game was officiated by Paul Funks and Bus Mowrey, ex-Pioneer footballers—Over Phillippi way Guy Bennett says the Barbours Countians will bet their shirts that A-B will take Glenville—Better save 'em fellows, hard winter ahead — Don't say you weren't informed.

Student Forum

During the Kingwood Independent-Glenville basketball game it was very noticeable that several students were on the visitors' side instead of in the students' section.

For no good reason at all they sat on the visitors' side. If the students would sit in one group, the cheering and general appearance would be vastly improved. The basketball game can be seen from one side as well as the other.

It is not compulsory for one to sit on the students' side but it is a good custom of long standing. This will bring about better cooperation among students, which is an essential part of a college education—Carl Keister.

A new milking process which excludes air from all steps of the process has been invented by an Ohio State University professor.

SUMMARY OF 1938 SPORTS PARADE

By Earl McDonald

As we scan the 1938 sports happenings we find amazing results, perhaps the most surprising facts in the history of sports.

Leading the parade in the past year of sports was three men, a horse and a baseball team.

In the world of boxing we find that Henry Armstrong, Negro pugilist, performed an outstanding accomplishment by winning and holding three boxing crowns, the welterweight, lightweight and featherweight titles.

Sam Snead, although he failed to win a major tournament, led the golfing professionals by earning more than $18,000 in tournament prizes. Snead is the former White Sulphur pro, who left the Greenbrier Club to gain national recognition as the greatest driver in the game today.

Winning a spectacular victory over the great War Admiral, Seabiscuit increased his total earnings to $340,480 which is close to the record of Sun Beau, who earned $376,744.

When Don Budge decided to turn professional the amateur ranks lost one of its most accomplished players the tennis game has ever seen. At Wimbledon Budge won all the titles a man could possibly get and it was through his tireless efforts that the United States was successful in retaining the Davis Cup.

Glenn Cunningham was easily the outstanding track figure during the past year. He ran the fastest mile on record, both indoor and outdoor. His outdoor record is 4:07.2, which he set at Pineston.

The New York Yankees were again supreme on the diamond as they breezed into another pennant. It only took four games for the genial Joe McCarthy and his lads to capture the World Series from the National League entry, the Chicago Cubs.

The 1938 football teams played to the largest crowds on record. There were five major teams throughout the nation which emerged at the end of the season unbeaten and untied, namely Tennessee, Texas Tech, Texas Christian, Oklahoma and Duke. There were numerous players on many teams who stood out but only a few of these performers were unanimously chosen on almost every All-American eleven. They were Goldberg, University of Pittsburgh fullback, Heikinen, a Michigan guard, Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian quarterback and Aldrich, Texas Christian center.

The New York Giants were declared champions of the professional football loop following their victory over the Green Bay Packers, who were winners of the Western division championship.

PIONEERS WIN OVER KINGWOOD QUINTET 89-40

Harold Scott Sets Scoring Pace With 17 Points; Whetsell Led Visitors

Coach A. F. ("Nate") Rohrbough's Glenville Pioneers unofficially opened their basketball season here last Tuesday with a win over the Kingwood Independents, 89-40.

A reserve team started for the Pioneers and left the game at half-time with a 39-24 margin for Glenville.

Scott, a reserve forward, led the scoring for the Pioneers with 17 points. Whetsell, a member of the 1937-38 Glenville floor squad, led the visitors in scoring with 17 points. Davies was next with 13.

Happy Combination
...a new year
...a new SMOKING
PLEASURE

Make Chesterfield
your New Year's resolution ... they'll give you more pleasure than any cigarette you ever smoked.

Chesterfields are better because of what they give you—refreshing mildness, better taste and aroma.

Chesterfields are the right combination of mild ripe American and aromatic Turkish tobaccos—rolled in pure cigarette paper.

When you try them you will know why Chesterfields give millions of men and women more smoking pleasure ... why THEY SATISFY.

Chesterfield
... the blend that can't be copied
... a HAPPY COMBINATION of the world's best cigarette tobaccos
