MUSINGSA Column of Highlights
From Here and There
And Everywhere

By Albert Woolter

TWO conflicting statements from Washington the past week again made freedom of the press a live issue. Secretary of the Navy Knox told reporters that censorship may be resorted to if necessary for this nation's aid to Britain. He even hinted that censorship in some form is being exercised in international communications.

In a statement to the Society of Newspaper Editors, holding its annual meeting in Washington, Fred Franklin D. Roosevelt said that so far as he was concerned there would always be freedom of the radio, press and speech as long as such freedom does not interfere with military secrets.

The possibility of news censorship was widely discussed a few weeks ago when Washington was rife with reports that Lowell Mellett, White House adviser, was to be made a head of a censorship board. Even then, however, observers agreed that the President was opposed to such a measure.

AIRPLANE WRECKS

NINE persons escaped serious injury the past week when a Pennsylvania Central Airlines plane crashed near St. Albans. Most seriously injured was the hostess, Miss Irene Costas, of Pittsburgh. The airplane was en route to Clarkburg from Charleston when a motor failure forced the pilot to make a landing in a grove of trees on a hilltop.

WHY NOT HERE?

EVER hear this: "Gee, I'd like to take a girl to the movies, but I'm flat broke!" If not, you've never been in College. Out at Glenville State Teachers College the financial side of dating is well taken care of. An instructor, on his deathbed, requested that no flowers be sent but that instead contributions be made to a small loan fund from which boys could borrow money, interest free, for dates.

We could have a similar fund on the campus, and we don't have to wait until an instructor dies. With next year's Student Council bidding fair to control the purse strings on the student activity fund, such a proposal is not impossible. At any rate, it is a good bet that there will be several campus Cassanovas on the Council who will find the plan at least interesting.

A NEW CLASS

WHILE we are on new proposals, here is one that is really new. Mr. Linn B. Hickman, Mercury adviser, has what I think is a good idea for a brand new college class. Although no detailed plans have been made, the class would be devoted almost entirely to listening to speakers from all walks of life. For one meeting a newspaper editor would be called in, for the next one a politician, a merchant or a farmer, and so on down the line. Perhaps one half of an hour's period would be devoted to the speeches and the rest to roundhouse discussions with the speaker of the day. No tests, thank you!

64 BOOKS ADDED TO SHELVES
IN ROBERT F. KIDD LIBRARY

Recent books, in journalism added to the Robert F. Kidd Library are: "Editing the Small City Daily," and "News Gathering and News Writing," both edited by Robert Miller Neal.

Books added in other fields, according to the librarians' April bulletin, include 3 in philosophy and religion, 3 in sociology, economics and government, 3 in education, 12 in science, 3 in health and recreation, 4 in art and music, 7 in literature, 4 in history, 2 in travel, 7 in biography, 11 in fiction.

SENIORS TO GIVE
3 ONE-ACT PLAYS
AT COMMENCEMENTMiss Robertson Plans New Type of Program To Replace Orthodox Offering

Dramatic entertainment to be presented by the Senior Class during commencement week will be an innovation in that a series of three one-act plays will be given instead of the regular one three-act play, announces Miss Kathleen Robertson, instructor in speech.

Extensive variety is aimed at with a comedy, a tragedy, and a Mexican farce comprising the program. Heading the list of performances will be "The Tenth Word," a sparkling comedy in two scenes by Colin Clements and Florence Hyerson, authors of "The Devil on Stilts", which was presented at Buckhannon last year by the College play group. This play features great variety of time, the first scene taking place in 1812 and the second occurring in 1914. Its general theme is that human nature does not vary greatly in any age.

Gwendolyn Beall has been selected to head a cast of five girls in this production. Her co-workers have not been announced. The second feature of the program will be "Fixin's", a tragedy by Erma and Paul Green, one of America's foremost playwrighting teams. "This is one of the best one-act tragedies I know," declared Miss Robertson. Helen Heister, Robert Butcher and James Woolter have been tentatively cast for this production.

The final play will be "Sunday Cots Five Paced", a lively Mexican farce, written by Josephine Nigelli. This play has gained much fame in amateur circles. Ralph Cox has been chosen to play the part of Fidel. Agnes Wright, Athena Null, Jo Roeder, and Elizabeth Fryatt are probable selections to complete the cast.

Will Attend Academy
Of Science Meeting

Miss Goldie C. James, instructor in biology and health in the College, will leave Friday morning for Philadelphia, where she will attend the eighteenth annual meeting of the West Virginia Academy of Science, of which she is a member. She is also a member of the Illinois Academy of Science and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The meeting, which will be held in Alderson-Breodius College, plans for about thirty-five scientific and commercial exhibits. Also there will be a state-wide competitive photographic contest. Any person interested may attend.

President of the Academy this year is Professor Frank S. White of Fairmont State Teachers College.

HARBURGER HOUSE TO PUBLISH
16 POEMS BY ROSCOE BAILEY

Roscoe J. Bailey, A. B. '39, of Weston, has announced the election of his poems will be published by Harburger House, New York, in one of their books sometime in May. Mr. Bailey is principal of the Park Creek grade school, Weston. His poems appear frequently in the Weston Independent and Weston Democrat papers.

IN DIRECTING USE OF ACTIVITY FUNDR. E. Freed, Adviser, Declares the New Plan
Is Most Far-Reaching in History of Local Student Government

Pres. E. G. Rohrbough said the past week that he had made plans to allow next year's Student Council to allocate the student activity fund. He said that the entire fund, composed of payments of $2.50 per student each semester, will serve as basis for a budget which the Council and its adviser, Raymond E. Freed, will make and submit to him for approval. The remaining $2.50 per student is used for an athletic fund, Pres. Rohrbough said.

Mr. Freed termed the plan the most far-reaching one in the history of student government on the campus. He said also that it would be of particular value to Council members in educating them in the value and wise use of money.

The budget is expected to include such items as the Lyceum course, the student newspaper, a yearbook, and incidental expenses of the Council.

The budget will be submitted to the Administration and from there to the State Board of Control, Pres. Rohrbough explained.

Mr. Freed said that the newly-elected Council would probably hold frequent meetings this spring to discuss the proposal but added that any final action is dependent upon the size of enrollment next fall.

SENIORS SHARE
CONTEST HONORSAnnual Popularity Election
Held Under Auspices of The Student Council

Twelve College seniors shared honors this year in the annual popularity contest sponsored by the Student Council.

Chosen the most outstanding boy and the most outstanding girl, respectively, were Earl McDonald of Parkersburg and Teresa Butcher of Cedarville.

Voters elected Gwendolyn Beall of Glenville the most attractive girl and Johnson Burke of Cedarville the most handsome boy.

Other winners were: Girl most likely to succeed, Helen Heister of Weston; boy most likely to succeed, Robert Butcher of Cedarville; girl with most pleasing personality (a vote), Eva Ames of Burnsville; and Best Annals Hull of Glenville; boy with most pleasing personality, Robert Butcher of Cedarville; most athletic girl, Teresa Butcher of Cedarville; most versatile girl, Agnes Wright of Glenville; most versatile boy, Robert Butcher of Cedarville; most respected girl, Olive Myers of Stanley, Va.; most respected boy, Albert Woolter of Glenville.

Members of the senior class and of the faculty voted secretly for each person. Forty-one seniors were listed on the ballot.

Alpha Psi Omega
To Hold Banquet

The Alpha Psi Omega will hold a formal banquet at the Whiting Tea Room, New York, announces Helen Heister, president. Alumni of this organization are invited. The program will be announced later.

THREE CLASSES
ELECT OFFICERSBy Virtue of Offices, Stalnaker, Kafer and Withers Will Serve on Council

There's on the Student Council after all—Robert Stalnaker, recently a candidate for Council president, and William Kafer, candidate for sergeant-at-arms.

Stalnaker, son of Mrs. Alice Stalnaker, of Parsons, was unanimously elected president of the senior class for next year. Other officers are: Jennings, Jarvis, Grantville, vice-president; Madeline Conrad, Glenville, secretary; and Jack Miles, Sistersville, treasurer.

Kafer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kafer, of Jane Lew, was elected president of the junior class, for the coming year. He is a graduate of Weston High School where he received all-state recognition in football. Other officers are: Vice-president, Earle Spencer, Richwood; secretary, Betty Sue Heister, Weston; treasurer, June Wilson, Glenville; and Lyceum representative, Sterly Brown, Green Bank.

Three Assistant
Instructors Named
For Summer School

Pres. E. G. Rohrbough announced the past week that three instructors have been engaged for the summer term. They are Miss Lillie Mae Bauer, instructor in Washington Irving High School, who will substitute for Kay Kathleen Robertson, instructor in speech; W. G. Stalnaker, Shinnston High School principal, who will teach Mr. Clarence W. Post's classes; and Earl R. Boggs, Glenville High School principal and present part-time College instructor, who will have charge of the Training School.

Miss Bertha Olson, Miss Margaret D. Kenney, Miss Willema White, Miss Kathleen Robertson and Miss Goldie C. James, will be hostesses at a bridge luncheon to be given at the Stonevale Jackson Hotel, Clarkburg, May 3.

NINETY-ONE SENIORS LISTED ON TENTATIVE ROSTER OF THOSE WHO
WILL RECEIVE A. B. DEGREE JUNE 4Speakers For Graduation and For Baccalaureate
Sermon Named; Speech Department
Will Present Series of One-Act Plays

Ninety-one seniors are slated to receive the Bachelor of Arts degree in education, at graduation exercises here on Wednesday, June 4, according to a tentative list compiled in the office of Dean H. Lahan White. This is a decrease of eight from the past year.

TO INSTALL NEW STUDENT COUNCIL
OFFICERS MAY 14Fidler Will Succeed McDonald
As President; Delia Blake
Is New Vice-President

Members of next year's Student Council, composed of winners in the general election April 8 and the presidents of three classes, will take the oath of office May 14, it is announced by Earl McDonald, Council president. A freshman class, president will not be elected until next fall.

In the general election Robert Fidler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fidler of Tioga, was elected president of the student body when he defeated Robert Stalnaker, son of Mrs. Alice Stalnaker, of Parsons, by fourteen votes. Delia Blake, of Orlando, defeated June Wilson, of Glenville, for vice-president.

Other winners were: For secretary, Rosalie Williams Huff, of Auburn; for treasurer, Russell Reed, Jr., of Glenville; for sergeant-at-arms, Nicholas Murin, of Elkhorn; for Supreme Court, Mildred Wamsley and Jack Stalnaker, of Glenville. Gwendolyn Beall, of Glenville, was named a candidate for "West Virginia's Lovelliest College Girl." Similar elections will be held throughout the state and the winners will compete for queen of the Tomato Festival, which will be held at Berkeley Springs, September 5 and 6. For complete tabulation of voting see page 4.

Commencement activities this year will be similar to those of other years and will feature several events, chiefly the graduation address by John Temple Graves, II, lecturer and editor of Birmingham, Ala.; baccalaureate sermon on June 1, by the Rev. Nelson H. Thorn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Clarkburg; a reception and dance by the Alumni, June 4, and a series of one-act plays by the speech department. The music department will present a spring concert Thursday evening, May 8, and then offer special music for regular commencement activities.

The Alumni Association, headed by James Hatfield, of Burnsville, president, met here Wednesday evening and started plans for its part of the annual program. Earl R. Boggs, principal of Glenville High School, was named general chairman. Other committees are:

Nominating, Robert T. Crawford, Pearl Pickett, Mrs. E. G. Rollins; publicity, Linn B. Hickman, Mrs. Clayborne D. Wilfong and Mahel Wolfe; tickets, Lloyd Jones, Caray Woolter and Hazel Fisher.

Refreshments, Drusilla Kidd, Mrs. John Gilbert Cain and Mrs. A. F. Rohrbough; entertainment, Madison Whiting, Marguerite Moss and Helen McGee.

Mr. Okey Norman was chosen chairman of the decorating committee.

Seniors will be graduated with majors in the following fields: Music, English, biological science, special studies, literary science, physical science, general science, mathematics, and elementary work.

A tentative list of those to be graduated will be published in the Mercury next week.

Weather, Exhibits and Crowd Combine
To Make Tenth Annual Chemistry Day
A Success; 412 Registered on Saturday

Weather, attendance and exhibits were all that could have been asked for Saturday when Glenville State Teachers College, through its Chemistry Club and its various other departments offered the tenth annual Chemistry Day, to which came 412 guests from forty high schools.

The 412 attendance figure does not represent the crowd that came Friday night to enjoy opening features of the program; neither are College students and faculty represented.

The program, highlighted by the General Electric Company's "House of Magic," included a day's continuous round of entertainment and instruction from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Saturday, to say nothing of the Friday evening's offerings.

Wray Rager, General Electric engineer and an assistant, combined a sharpened sense of humor with a scientist's background and training to please an attentive crowd that on two occasions filled all but two front rows in the auditorium. Equally attractive but a little less colorful because of their nature, were the sound picture, "New World Through Chemistry," a Dupont offering, and Dr. R. H. Steining's lecture demonstration on refrigeration. Also shown in films were the growth of radio and the development of television.

Mr. Rager is a cousin of Trell and Clyde Rager, College alumni, and a distant relative of Mrs. E. G. Rohrbough. Formerly he lived in Harrison County.

Though the science of chemistry served as a nucleus around which the program was centered, all departments in the College cooperated in arranging exhibits, or in one way or another helped to make the day complete.

Dr. E. G. Rohrbough, president of the College, welcomed visitors in the auditorium Saturday afternoon, and the College orchestra furnished special music. Traffic was handled by

'Subpenas' Expected to Bring Gay Crowd
To Holy Roller Dance on Friday Night

About 175 subpoenas have been sent out requesting alumni to appear at the Holy Roller Court dance in the College gymnasium, Friday night, from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. to witness an evening of dancing and other entertainments. The total assessment for fire and costs will be $1.25.

Read Raines and his thirteen-piece orchestra will be the jury privileged to award a "good time" verdict to each couple who attends. The Holy Roller Court, sponsoring the second of a series of spring festivities, will call all graduate members and other alumni back to the campus to enjoy this annual dance, which, this year, is given in honor of Miss Wills Brand, Court adviser.

Mr. Raines' orchestra is from Thomas and on several former occasions, has played for dances on the campus.

SPEECH 306 CLASS WILL PRESENT SPRING RECITAL

Speech 306 students will present a Spring recital some time in May, announces Miss Kathleen Robertson, instructor. Jo Roeder, Agnes Wright, Gwendolyn Beall, Geraldine McClain and Paul Beal comprise the group.

Rats, mice, rabbits, guinea pigs, monkeys and chickens, totalling 2000, are housed in air-conditioned laboratories in the Notre Dame biology building.

Added Responsibility On Student Council

THE decision to allow the Student Council to allocate the student activity fund among the various campus organizations is perhaps the most far-reaching power that has ever been conferred upon the Council in the College's history. At the same time it offers the Council a great opportunity to improve student welfare.

In the past, Council meetings have been held regularly, sometimes as mere formality because of lack of business to transact. But with the added duty of making a budget, listening to testimonies of leaders of various activities on why they should receive an ample share of the funds, and the decisions as to what is important and what is superficial, will keep the Council, every member of it, extremely busy. This added responsibility will determine whether students are capable of making important decisions; it will give the Council members valuable practice in finance and administration, and will allow leaders of student groups to present their cases to those on their own level.

Student Council members should become aware of the increased responsibilities which they face and should make up their minds to get the job done fully and a determined start.—Albert Woofert.

Readers Keep Faith With American Press

THE primary obligation of the newspaper is to report the news—and do it objectively. At one time, gossip and a few books were the only media for the flow of information, or more often, misinformation. Writers and speakers tried to explain that which they themselves misunderstood, with the result that many lost confidence in the printed page—a condition still existing.

The present day paper must tell accurately what has happened and let its readers decide as to what is likely to happen. People know what to do once they are informed as to public conditions. Justified in their claim that the newspaper is distinctly their institution, the populace insist that it is an agent for the dissemination of knowledge.

Of the 22,000 editorials written each week, at least, "21,000 might far better have been printed," once said an editor of "The Wall Street Journal." Interpretation and free discussion are two other functions of the press; but, if news were eliminated from all the newspapers all over the country, buyers would immediately drop far below the present 41,000,000. That this institution has done well its job is evidenced by the fact that in spite of subscription rate advances, increases in number of subscribers have continued.—Cleo Berry.

Let Us Act, Act In The Living Present

Is there anything that you think you should do that you have been neglecting because of a lack of initiative or a lack of bravery to venture forth and do it? If so, hasten to do it, not only for the good of the act itself, but for the good effect that doing will have on your character and to avoid the deteriorating consequences of neglect.

One must do difficult things; for if he shrinks from doing what is difficult, then the easy things become difficult. Particularly is this true to one who lacks confidence in himself. One's daring disappears for lack of use; his powers become dull when they are not whetted by aggressive activity. Failure to act when one feels constrained to do so makes the fine inner urges to act come less frequently and with less force.

Although inspiring forces from without may renew one's finer sensibilities so that urges to do good things continue to arise, refusal to act develops a callousness that makes it easier and easier to refuse to do what one feels he should do.

Doing has the opposite effects. Doing develops the ability to do. Action quickens the mind, develops skills, increases confidence, makes one eager to tackle new and greater tasks. When one does things he will make mistakes, particularly at first; but, does not much learning result from mistakes?

Neglect to do what one feels he should do stifles initiative; life itself becomes dull, commonplace; or worse, becomes filled with doubts and fears so that mere living is difficult. On the other hand, obedience to the urge to act develops initiative, results in accomplishment, adds zest to life.—Paul Beal.

Right With the News

Seems as if College students won't want for things to keep them busy this week from all reports of various activities and functions here and there.

... Canterbury pilgrims will send their way to Conrad's Restaurant tonight to partake of life's necessities and enjoy tales and such as original Canterbury tales so long ago. ... Then music students will be kept on the run practicing for Spring Recital to be given in the near future. ... Dance fans will twirl at the Gymnasium Friday night when Reed Raines brings his band to play for the Holy Roller Court dance. ... Seniors will find themselves wondering whether they're here or there when play practice begins this week. ... Then what should be lacking but the fundamental thing—a car. ... Sister members are wondering if miracles do happen, or if the Convention will offer more pleasures than the Court dance here the same night.

To the absentees of the Monday night concert: It was to have been, to most students, a program of heavy classical music not worth hearing. ... Hence, the small crowd. ... However, this time they were wrong, were fooled. ... Instead, a light romantic program with favorite waltzes and love tunes was given, enjoyable to all. ... Comments from many: "The most enjoyable feature of the year."

Campus and town notes: The Alpha Psi banquet May 16. ... Current Events Club outing, May 18. ... The new dance place on Lewis Street, popular with College and town crowds. ... English 222 class to visit libraries. ... Last showing of "Mystery at Midnight" tonight.

The record's the thing: Bob Chester's waxing of "My Sister And I," (Bluebird) a topical tune, of slow tempo, bases its theme around two refugees chafing away from home. ... MERRY MOVIE MOMENTS

THE "Hullabaloo," at the Lyric tonight and tomorrow night, is actually a one-man show starring Frank Morgan. He's an old-time vaudeville who eventually becomes a radio sensation with his imitations of O'Brien and Leni Lynn.

"Christmas in July," the picture you've heard so much about, is coming to the Lyric, Thursday and Friday. Preston Sturges, the fellow who gave us "The Great McGinty," originated the idea, wrote the script, but not until he has had considerable difficulty with three ex-wives and their children. Several newcomers are in the cast; namely, Charles Holland, Virginia

Gwen Beall screen play and directed.

MANY regarded the high quality of "The Great McGinty" as an accident, until Sturges made this second picture. Partly because there were no important box-office stars in "Christmas in July," the name of the director was featured in lights four feet high on Broadway. Other motion-picture houses followed this example, emblazoning the name of Sturges throughout the country as if he were a new Valentino.

"Comrade X," one of the funniest pictures in months and months, will be at the Lyric, next Sunday and Monday. Hedy Lamarr does an impersonation of Garbo in "Ninotchka," and her comedy scenes will have you rolling in the aisles. "Comrade X" is like "Ninotchka" in that it kides the pants off Soviet Russia. Clark Gable plays a foreign correspondent for the Torkela Bugle, and Hedy is cast as a street-car conductor. "Class in Swing" is the short with this picture.

TONIGHT is the last night for "You'll Find Out," a picture that makes no sense whatever but is a roar from the first scene on. It is a neat combination of chiller and musical formulas. It has Kay Kyser for rhythm; Peter Lorre, Boris Karloff, and Bela Lugosi for chills and thrills; Helen Parrish and Dennis O'Keefe for romance. As an added attraction, the Pictureland Theater presents with this picture, another "March of Time."

The state employment service set up headquarters on the campus of Emory (Kans.) State Teachers College for two days to help seniors find jobs. Professor H. Wellington Stewart, organist at St. Lawrence University, recently was stung on the finger by a wasp during a radio concert. But the show went on without interruption.

Eleanor C. White In Composers' Club

Daughter of College Dean In Organization Designed to Develop Music Talent

Miss Eleanor C. White, A. B. '38, daughter of Dean and Mrs. H. Lahan, recently became a member of the Charleston Composers' Club, according to a story in a Charleston newspaper.

Purpose of the club, formed under the guidance of Esther Eugenia Davis, poet and musician of Charleston, is to give both amateurs and professionals a chance to meet, to hear performances of their own works and to discuss music. Only requirement for membership is that the individual have music that he or she desires to have played or sung. The club, to date, has presented one radio recital which was favorably received. Future public performances are being planned.

Miss White, a graduate of West Virginia University and a former student in Carnegie Institute of Technology, has several compositions to her credit, among which are a sonata for violin and piano, two movements of a string quartet, about a half dozen songs and some piano pieces.

The Robert F. Kidd Library

By CLYDE DOTSON
INVENTORY is in progress at the Library, where Miss Alma Janet Arbuckle and Miss Willema White, with students helping, are rearranging, renovating and reorganizing in a big way the books, magazines, etc. etc.

From the writings of Sherwood Eddy, the Library has one book, "Russia Today," and two pamphlets, "Religion and Social Justice," a reprint from the larger library edition of 215 pages, and "Danger Zones of the Social Order," reprinted from "Makers of Freedom"—facts, concerning economic, international, racial, political and moral problems.

Our country has come a long way since "The eighteenth of April, seventy-five," but in our present wave of patriotism with its program of Americanization it is important to know what it means to be an American citizen.

"The American Citizens Handbook," arranged by Joy Elmer Morgan, editor, Journal of the National Education Association, is a valuable aid in helping one "to be a good father, mother, brother, sister or friend; to be dependable, faithful, and a skilled worker in home, school, field, factory or office; to be an intelligent, honest useful and loyal citizen, with faith in God and love of fellow-man; to recognize the brotherhood of man and to live by the Golden Rule."

THE book has patriotic selections, poetry and song; articles on heroes of American democracy, a section on the Flag of the United States, national songs, and a schedule for a week's pilgrimage in Washington, D. C. There is a special section devoted to facts everyone should know about law.

The April issue of the magazine "Asia" is now in the Library. It is the College's first copy of this interesting periodical which entered the field in 1917 and now enjoys wide circulation.

THE Glenville Woman's Club has contributed twenty-one new books to the children's library. The number includes a book on magic, dog stories for children, and many other volumes for older boys and girls, as well as for younger children.

Ador Berger Believes Music World Will Continue to Revolve Around 'Old Masters'

By AGNES WRIGHT

A onetime concert master and soloist with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Victor Herbert and Henry Hadley, believes that the great themes of the future music world will continue to revolve around the works of the "old masters."

Despite present war conditions which cause prejudices and strife, said Ador Berger in a fifteen minute interview Monday night following the Continental Ensemble concert, "People will always want to hear melodies to which they are accustomed."

It is a recognized fact, Mr. Berger said, that "the last ten years have given American composers a greater chance," and they will probably be more recognized in the future; but "great music will always be recognized," he believes. He spoke of his own music as "original works but borrowed themes."

As to how the war has affected present European composers, the Belgian-born violinist noticed, a decided "restlessness in their works." He believes it has touched this part of the country, too. Formerly there were definite rules to conform to in music; but now, Mr. Berger said, "all rules have been broken."

The five artists, dressed in colorful costumes, presented a varied program for the last scheduled Lyceum number of the year, ranging from a brilliant Hungarian fantasia to the dreamy waltzes of Johann Strauss. Introducing themselves at 8:35 o'clock with their theme song, "Play, Gypsies, Dance, Gypsies," the musicians offered a four-part program with no intermission.

A new arrangement of Johann Strauss's waltzes, substituted for two selections by Nicola Paganini, was a favorite of the evening, according to the generous applause given.

Aaron Leifer, pianist, played a piano solo, "A Spanish Dance," as an added feature.

In the Victor Herbert numbers, which depicted youth with their ambitions and frivolities, several selections from operas were heard and woven together, the strongest character predominating, "Natoma," the Indian girl. The episode ended with the beautiful "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life."

A concert version of "Dark Eyes," and "Two Guitars" brought forth the great versatility and skill of Mr. Berger.

Men's costumes consisted of dark trousers, white blouses and sashes of red, yellow, green and blue. Marie Andre, accordionist, wore a white blouse, red skirt trimmed in green and yellow, and a unique headpiece. Harry Culbertson, manager for the Ensemble, was present for the program.

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCES NEW INTRAMURAL SPORTS PROGRAM DESIGNED TO ATTRACT MEN AND WOMEN STUDENTS

At Least Six Different Events Will Be Offered In Spring Co-Recreational Setup

An intramural sports program which will include at least six different events has been planned and will be whipped into shape here this week under auspices of the College athletic department.

Designed to give all students a chance to participate in one or more sports events, the program was put on a co-recreational basis which will permit girls and boys to be partners and participate in any number of sports. The same type of program was tested the past spring with little success.

A general organization meeting will be held soon, at which time partnerships and schedules will be formed, announced Coach A. F. Rohrbough, director of the program. Games such as horse shoe, archery, tennis, badminton, paddle tennis, aerial darts, and several others will be played with winners of each contest to be announced.

8-GAME FOOTBALL SCHEDULE READY

Pioneers Will Play 5 Contests On Home Field; Season To Open September 27

Eight football teams have been scheduled to meet the Glenville Pioneers next fall, announced Coach A. F. Rohrbough. Of the eight games, five will be played at home. On September 27, the Pioneers will meet Potomac State on the home field in the opening game of the season. Other games on the schedule are Bethany, here, October 4; West Liberty, there, October 11; Concord, there, October 18; West Virginia Institute of Technology, here, October 25; Fairmont, there, November 1; Morris Harvey, here, November 8; Shepherd State, only new-comer on the schedule, here, November 15.

Art Ward, Fred Wehl and Fred M. Chenoweth, all of Weston, will officiate in four of the games.

Spencer Knights Down Huntington Five at Spencer

The Spencer Knights basketball team, composed mostly of College alumni, won the state independent championship Thursday night at Spencer when they turned back at a second time the Jean's Swiss Shop quintet, a group of basketballers from Marshall College. The score was 55-45.

The game was the last in a series of three contests played by the two teams. Earlier the Knights downed the Huntington quintet 41 to 38, at Huntington. The Huntington team won over the Knights at Charleston, 55-52.

Playing with the Knights were Frank Martino, Louie Romano, Stanley D'Orazio, Billie Cote, Alan Merford, John Marra, Leonard Barman and Bennett Stump.

In Thursday's game Huntington led 43-36 at the end of the third quarter but fell back in the final quarter to let the Knights outscore them 14 to 2. High scorers were Barman with 20, D'Orazio 10, Rivin 18 and Tricott 10. Featuring the game was the work of Romano and Rivin at guards.

TENNIS SQUAD OUT THIS WEEK

Eight-Game Schedule May Be Signed; Will Start Practice at Once

The Glenville Pioneer tennis squad probably will play an eight-match schedule this spring, according to Athletic Director A. F. Rohrbough. Negotiations are now under way with West Virginia Institute of Technology, Wesleyan, Alderson-Broadus and Fairmont for matches.

Prospects for the squad are to report for practice this week on the College's two tennis courts, both recently conditioned by N. Y. A. laborers.

Returning veterans from last year's squad include Fred Shreve, Jack Miles, Robert Armstrong, Harold Scott, Robert Johnson and Arthur Short. Others are expected to report for practice.

Athletic Association Entertains Visitors

The Women's Athletic Association of the College won four second places in the Play Day April 6, which brought girls here from Alderson-Broadus and West Virginia Wesleyan Colleges for a day of entertainment.

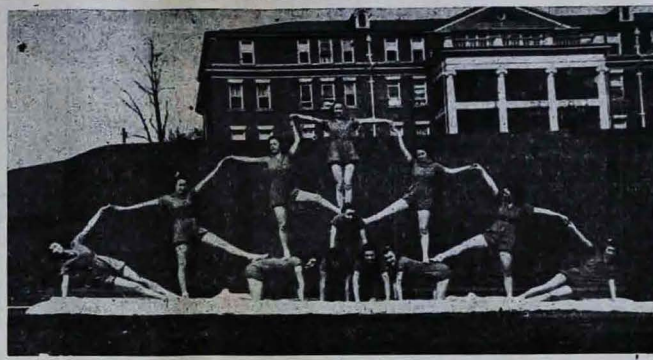

Results of the day were as follows: Basketball, first place, Alderson-Broadus; second place, Glenville; table tennis, first place, Alderson-Broadus, second place, Glenville; foul shooting contest, first place, West Virginia Wesleyan, second place, Glenville.

Visitors were entertained with a luncheon in the Kanawha Hall, a tea in the Lounge and an afternoon dance in the gymnasium.

ELIZABETH FRYATT WINS FOUL-SHOOTING CONTEST

Elizabeth Fryatt, senior, won the foul shooting contest which was finished Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the gymnasium.

The Ping Pong tournament was started Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. room with eleven girls entered. Catherine Withers, freshman, is the leader.

Sports Chatter

By EARL McDONALD, Mercury Sports Editor
BASEBALL took a brief two-day stand on the local athletic program the past week when Coach A. F. Rohrbough studied the possibility of reviving the sport here and called together some twenty candidates for two practice sessions. The high cost involved is said to be the chief reason for giving it the sudden "drop."

The diamond game, I am told, fell as a part of the intercollegiate sports program in 1935 and never hit the revival stage until this spring. In 1939 baseball held a front spot on the intramural program but was shoved aside the following year in favor of softball, which has taken rapid strides toward popularity in recent years.

As for enthusiasm on the part of the candidates a promising note was sounded during the two days of drill. Nearly all who reported for drills showed above average ability to throw and hit the "pill" around the lot. And with some extensive workouts there is little doubt that the Pioneers could produce a fair diamond crew.

WITH the disbanding of baseball, the College still remains in the intercollegiate sports circle with tennis this spring. Providing of sol keeps peeping through the clouds as in the past few days, Pioneers should find no trouble getting into shape for their probable eight-match schedule. Last spring the White Wave netmen were forced to cancel seven of their ten matches because of weather conditions.

In Fred Shreve the Pioneers have perhaps the best collegiate netman to be found in the state. He is expected to hold the No. 1 berth for the third straight year this led to the squad. As a freshman Fred took the No. 2 post, stepping aside for Brother Bob, who rated the top slot.

COLLEGE coaches over the country began yelling their heads off the past week when newspaper comment began telling about the draft age being lowered to eighteen years. This age minimum would probably take every college athlete in the country out of his sports uniform and put him into the "olive drab army duck."

And why shouldn't they fuss a little about it, for coaches depend upon athletics for their bread and butter. And it's a cinch the army is not going to hire many coaches to promote an athletic program in the ranks.

About the best idea on this conscription that we've heard yet is the one set forth by our College president, Dr. E. G. Rohrbough. His idea is to send the high school graduate directly into a period of one-year service immediately following his graduation. This would prevent him from making any connections that would be difficult to break when he was drafted.

"House of Magic" Revealed Wonders of Science and the Wonders Yet to Come

Wonders of science seemed even more wonderful here when General Electric's "House of Magic" exhibited as to be made of suitable light. A lamp was connected to a phonograph. Current from the phonograph picked-up was arranged to travel to the lamp instead of to a loudspeaker, and then sound waves were transformed into light.

Having the ability to vary thousands of times a second, the lamp transmitted an ever-changing light beam equivalent to the notes of the phonograph record. When the beam was focused on a phototube or electric eye pick-up, the light was once more turned into music. This sound was interrupted by interception of the beam at any time. By using a disk and partially intercepting the beam of light, the demonstrator produced what he termed "music
