MERCURY MUSINGS

A Column Of News Highlights From Here And
There And Everywhere

By Richard Harper

THE tendency to place added stress on out-of-class activities during the last decade has led many educators to fear over-emphasis.

Student leaders, encouraged by their parents, school editors or by their own desire for recognition, have engaged in numerous extra curricular activities often to the neglect of their studies or the sacrifice of needed rest.

Specialization in just one or two activities in which one is interested is a possible solution.

STATE HIGHWAY MAP

THE September-October issue of our state highway map features outstanding scenes from the twelfth annual Mountain State Forest Festival. With so many spots of interest and beauty in the state, the editors have almost unlimited possibilities.

STUDENT DEFERMENT

SHOULD students be deferred until the end of the semester or school year on which they have embarked? In a public statement to draft boards, Dr. Charles J. Tunck of Macalester, the Rev. James Moyihan of St. Thomas, and Dr. Charles N. Pace of Hamline, all in St. Paul, called upon the boards to give students an opportunity to finish present terms in school.

ENTHUSIASTIC CROWD

THE Don Cossack Chorus played to a capacity crowd in the college auditorium the past Tuesday night. In addition to a large local turnout, the audience contained large high school delegations from Spencer and Richwood and a group of teachers from Littleton, Wetzel County.

The super performance was enthusiastically received.

ON COLLEGE FAME

THERE'S more to college than football, says Fred Allen. Pointing to such established stars as Kaye Kyser, Cole Porter, Jimmie Stewart, Rudy Vallee and others, all products of American colleges, who have made the grade, Mr. Allen thinks other students can too.

Each week during the coming season Allen is presenting on his "Texaco Radio Theatre," a student from one of America's colleges or universities selected by his classmates as "the most talented individual on the campus."

The lucky student will receive a free trip to New York and $200 to be applied to college expenses.

PUBLIC OPINION POLLS

COMMENTING on public opinion polls, F. Steward Chapin of the University of Minnesota, warns against snap judgments based on so-called polls.

While the Gallup and Fortune polls are scientific and reliable many others are not.

Recently, congressmen have been sending ballots to their constituents worded as follows: "The U. S. should enter the war—stay out of the war?" Mr. Chapin cautions this type of requested opinion in the same category as the following: "Have you stopped beating your wife? Yes or no?"

Unless conducted scientifically, public opinion polls are inaccurate and misleading.

ON THE RADIO

EACH Saturday CBS picks the outstanding football game and has it covered by ace announcer, Ted Husing.

The Ford Sunday Evening Hour is back for its eighth consecutive season. Heard over CBS, the list of guests scheduled reads like a section of "Who's Who in Music."

A new program, "The Family Hour," heard Sundays at 5 p. m. stars Gladys Swarthout with Deems Taylor, Ross Gorman, Al Goodman's orchestra and Ray Bloch's choir.

Kentucky State Industrial College, (Negro), offers free tuition to residents of the State.

MANY ALUMNI TO ATTEND PROGRAM SATURDAY EVENING

Canterbury Club Will Celebrate twentieth Anniversary; Dr. Pollock to Speak

Former members of the Canterbury Club and many friends who were not members have signified their intention of attending a meeting in the auditorium Saturday, at 8 p. m., commemorating the club's twentieth anniversary.

Dr. Rebecca L. Pollock, professor in the University, who has visited the Canterbury shrine and has long been interested in story telling, will be the principal speaker. Other speakers will be former members of the club.

Following the meeting in the auditorium, there will be an informal reception in the College lounge.

Among the former club members and friends who are planning to attend are: Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Harris, of Huntington; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Reip, Mrs. James Lipkey, and Miss Helen West, of Morgantown; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bailey, of Burnsville; Miss Winifred White, of Bridgeport; Miss Julia Swiger and Miss Maxine Rich, of Clarksburg; Miss Marjorie Harden, of Spencer; Miss Catherine Wilson, of Webster Springs, and Max Ward, of Grantsville.

Paul Beal, Charleston; Glenn S. Callaghan, Charleston; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holt, Weston.

Miss Florence Reese of the West Virginia University Library will accompany Dr. Pollock here.

GLENVILLE HOST TO COMMITTEE OF EDUCATORS TODAY

Visitors Will Speak in Assembly Tomorrow; Guidance Meetings Postponed

Glenville State Teachers College is host this week to three distinguished guests who are here to consult Dr. E. G. Rohrbough, president; H. Laban White, dean, heads of departments and faculty on the preparation of curriculum on which to base the new two-way certificate which will be valid in both elementary and secondary schools.

The guests, who came Monday and expect to remain through Wednesday, will be on the program tomorrow at the weekly assembly at 10 a. m., and the scheduled guidance meetings which were to have been held at that time will be postponed and will be held next Wednesday.

The visitors, who represent at least three different state and national organizations, are Miss Genevieve Starcher, supervisor of certification for the West Virginia Department of Education, Charleston; Dr. John Davis Williams, associate professor of education and director of university schools, University of Kentucky; and Dr. Charles E. Prall, coordinator, Commission on Teacher Education of the American Council of Education, Washington, D. C.

New Color Scheme Features Cover On Current SEA Journal

Complete details of the forthcoming SEA program are treated in the issue and on page 38 in an article, "Making the Most of a Convention," by Lewis L. Wright, former College student and president of the Lewis County Education Association.

Pictures of at least fifteen notables in the field of education and government, all of whom will have parts on the SEA program, appear on pages 12-13-14-15.

ACP CONVENTION NOV. 20-22

The annual convention of the Associated Collegiate Press will be held at the Statler Hotel, in St. Louis, November 20-22, inclusive.

J. Bush, of Glenville. Miss Bush will be seen in company with the Home-coming queen and three class princesses on Saturday, Oct. 25.

LARGEST AUDIENCE OF RECENT YEARS HERE FOR DON COSSACK PROGRAM IN COLLEGE AUDITORIUM

By Burns Harlan

Director Serge Jaroff and his original Don Cossack Chorus of thirty-four members attracted one of the largest local and out-of-town audiences to attend a Lyceum number here in several years.

Although the Russian singers, who opened the annual Lyceum course the past Tuesday night by popular request, were a little late in arriving, those in the audience, as a whole, were not disturbed by the fact, for several were somewhat late finding seats.

Received warmly and applauded enthusiastically after each number of the three-part program, the singers enjoyed an appreciative audience that seemed pleased with every feature of the unique attraction. After the second part, they sang an encore, "Swanee River," and dedicated it to the "singing group of America." The program was ended with a Russian dance, after which "The Song of the Volga Boatmen" was sung as an encore.

More than 150 out-of-town reservations were made, many of them by College alumni and former students.

Azrae Wright brought 4 from Littleton; Gilbert Reed, 4 from Sand Fork; Elmer Wright, 8, from Spencer; Emma Neal Boggers, 9, from Spencer; Alma Ayers, 2, from Grantsville.

From Burnsville came Mabel Chrisman, Augustine Hyer, Autumn Amos; from Grantsville, Max Ward. Helen Heater brought 4 from Weston; Lynn Holstein, 1, from Tarn; C. S. Ward, 1, from Spencer; Jane Frances Ohman, 2, from Clarksburg; Regina Kenney, 4, from Alum Bridge; Mrs. Homer Williams, 5, from Clarksburg. One group came from Richmond, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Arbuckle and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Post, of Glenville, had guests who attended. Largest high school reservations

LEADERS CHECK ON PROGRESS AS WORKERS PUSH PLANS FOR ANNUAL HOME-COMING HERE ON OCTOBER 25

Four Major Events Will Make Up Day's Activities; Madelyn Conrad to Be Crowned Queen During Colorful Ceremony

Plans for Glenville's annual Home-coming began taking shape yesterday when committee chairmen started checking progress and outlining details yet to be worked out before a four-part program can be offered on Saturday, Oct. 25, under the direction of Atty. Arlan W. Berry, acting alumni president.

Again, chief features of what is traditionally the College's most colorful celebration will be a coronation, parade, football game and dance.

Fred Madison Whiting says he plans to complete arrangements this week for a band from either Pittsburgh or Cleveland. He has contacted 'Gene Beecher of the Hotel Baltimore in Cleveland; also Art Giles Station KUV, and Billy Hinds, Hotel Schenley, Pittsburgh. One of these bands, he says, will be employed.

The Student Council is stirring up interest locally and so far clubs and other organizations have agreed to enter floats or other units in the parade. Benjamin Tatterson, chairman, asks that all who plan to enter floats notify him at once so he can assign numbers. He requests that each organization specify number of feet of space that each unit will require.

To be crowned queen this year is blonde Madelyn Conrad, College senior, who will have for her princesses Lillian Hefner, senior; June Wilson, junior; Catherine Withers, sophomore, and Mamie Jo Bush, freshman.

Setting for the coronation probably will be the Kanawha Hall lawn, where, immediately preceding the parade, Dr. E. G. Rohrbough, who has officiated at almost every coronation Glenville State Teachers College Alumni have offered, will Crown Miss Conrad and invest her with regal authority to reign over a day of celebrating.

A special float will transport the queen and her princesses in the parade, and the whole official retinue will sit in improvised box seats at Rohrbough Stadium during the Glenville-West Virginia Tech game.

Town organizations, including the Glenville County Chapter of the American Red Cross, Junior Red Cross, and the Rotary Club will enter units in the parade. The line of march will be over College and Main streets, and back over Route 33 to Church Street, where the marchers will disband. The parade will be organized in front of the gymnasium unless contractors are hauling building materials over this street.

Alumni will offer three prizes of $5, $3 and $2 for the best floats and judges will be Hunter Whiting, Miss Margaret D. Kenny, Miss Kathleen Robertson, Mrs. J. Wilbur Beall and Everett Withers.

President E. G. Rohrbough was a business and professional visitor in Charleston Friday.

Canterbury Club Will Offer
Friends An Interesting Program

FOR twenty years the Canterbury Club has made its annual pilgrimage, told stories, feasted, and enjoyed fellowship as did the original Canterbury pilgrims.

These two decades will be celebrated by an open meeting which will give a glimpse of Canterbury activities. Not only will there be an interesting principal speaker, Dr. Rebecca Pollock, but it is hoped that former members of several years back will recall some interesting anecdotes of the "good old days" when they were in the club.

Students, former Canterbury members, townspeople, visitors from away, all are invited to the twentieth anniversary meeting here in the College auditorium, Saturday night.—Frances Myers.

College Junior Feels Lindbergh
Is a Menace to Democracy

FOR fourteen years Charles Augustus Lindbergh has enjoyed a popularity, both in this country and abroad, that has almost amounted to idolatry. Since April people have been listening to the utterances of their hero with puzzled interest. Many of them have disagreed with his ideas; few doubted his motives or his sincerity of purpose.

In his Des Moines speech he sounded the lowest note of his career, when he interjected into a supposedly non-political speech, an appeal to that which is lowest in man—an appeal to intolerance and race hatred. At a time when national unity is a vital necessity, Lindbergh, in a pattern established by Hitler, has sought to make Anti-Semitism a national issue.

Citizens of the United States are very slow to condemn a man for expressing his honest convictions, however radical they may be, and they have shown a tolerance for the statements of Lindbergh that cannot be called other than fair and just.

Lindbergh is a menace, because to some of his listeners his views carry an unwarranted weight. In a time of national stress he has sounded call to riot.

Whether intentionally or not, Charles A. Lindbergh has become the standard-bearer of all that is undemocratic in America. It is our plain yet painful duty to consider our former hero in the revealing light of the present.—Richard Harper.

This Is One Prank That Can Become Too Serious

Almost any time of day, whether morning, noon or night, we can hear the telephone ringing in Louis Bennett Hall.

Whether or not the calls are urgent we can't say, but we are aware that the phone rings as though it will crack any minute. Men on first floor saunter nonchalantly around and let "her ring" with the attitude, "well it's just a prankster so why should we bother to answer."

Sometimes they pass out the door, near where the phone is situated, and never attempt to answer the call. Why? Remember the legend of the boy who cried wolf! wolf! so many times that when he really needed help he was unable to arouse the farmers, simply because he had fooled them three before.

The telephone is, or may become, a parallel. A certain number, when dialed, will cause the telephone to ring. This is repeated so often that men on first floor simply ignore the calls because they have been fooled too many times by pranksters.

This little business of fooling people to the telephone is serious. Someday a message may come and some student, whose mother or father is lying on the deathbed, may not get a call that was meant for him.

How would you feel if this message were sent but did not get through to you, until too late? This can happen if the pranksters keep on calling "wolf! wolf!" too many times.—Earle Spencer.

The Clock Struck One But Not the Right 'One'

THE clock struck one and all was quiet in Louis Bennett Hall.

Then, all of a sudden, a mop bucket came rattling and clanging down the steps of the third floor to stop, with a loud crash, against the door of Room 425, occupied by Robert R. Fidler, monitor to the second floor, fourth section. A result of a "practical" joke, the noise, which disturbed sleepers, Fidler and his buddies, made within inches of causing a revolution between the second and third floor occupants.

The practical joker has not been caught as yet, but the self-appointed "Hawshaws" are now hot on a trail. Quiet hours in the Louis Bennett Hall are from 8 p. m. until 7 a. m., and the question is, "Was this a good joke?" Men of the third floor say "YES"; those in the second floor "NO". Your answer is as good as ours.—Brooks Golden.

Question: Do you think the College's special calendar can be improved? If so, name some things that you think should be included on the calendar.

Robert Stalnaker, senior: "I think it is all right. It could be improved by more dances, but we all know that our financial status is low and it prohibits this to be brought forth."

William Kafer, junior: "We should have more dances and parties. The way our calendar stands, it is too routine. There are too many things that run from year to year and never change."

Dorothy Queen and Reba Legg, sophomores: "We should have a little variety. Only students that dance get benefit from dances; why shouldn't people who don't dance have parties. Why not have a 'name' day, such as Sadie Hawkins Day? Every one could have fun at one of these."

Garfield Jordan, freshman: "I haven't seen the social calendar yet, but I've heard plenty say that it runs too much on the same line. I think we should have lots of dances and parties. But of course I am satisfied with any calendar the social committee puts out."

The Robert F. Kidd Library

THE Toronto Daily Star, a Canadian newspaper, is now being received at the library as a gift by Edward G. Rohrbach, Jr., who recently became a member of the Star news staff.

Since College opened on September 15, seventy-four new and interesting books have been put into circulation and many more are being cataloged.

We go through life trying to learn how to live. At sixteen, it's what shade of lipstick is right for you. At twenty-five it may be what kind of refrigerator you shall buy. Perhaps at thirty-five it's how to lose fifteen pounds. At eighty we're still fumbling trying to find out by reading, by listening, or asking questions.

To answer these questions and to give a picture of life as it is nearly lived in America today, J. C. Furas and the staff of the Ladies' Home Journal edited the book "How America Lives."

One of its sixteen chapters, devoted to families who were interviewed, is about the Charles Gillespies, a typical coalminer's family, of Clifftop, W. Va. This book gives you those many little facts about Americans that you've been wondering about.

It has been said, "Reading is a form of living." So why not visit the College library more often, just to leaf through some of the magazines and papers; to read and to become familiar with both new and old books?

"We do not have an educational setup that gives us the inherent strength to meet the forces of evil—the forces of evil revolution, rolling back toward barbarism, now abroad in the world. We are not equipping our youth to take their part in the defense of civilization. They foolishly think that there are short cuts to happiness." Thus on various fronts education is looking forward both through practical preparation for concrete tasks and through redefinition of ideals without which nothing is practical in the long run.—W. A. MacDonald in the New York Times.

College has been in session four weeks now. Just how have you used those weeks? Do you regret the way several hours of each were spent? If you could re-live them, would you use them differently?

How are your classes coming? Have you prepared each assignment well? You are being measured in many classes to see if you have progressed favorably. It is good to take to heart the results of these tests and profit by them. Maybe you need a redistribution of your time.

My life, my time here, I must use
To count for good. If I abuse
A minute here, an hour there
A worthwhile day will be too rare.

A private talk with me I need
To cultivate the new-born seed
Of daily habits that will best
Accomplish all, with time to rest.

WHETSELL RUNS KICK-OFF FOR 85 YARDS TO GIVE PIONEERS TOUCHDOWN AGAINST WEST LIBERTY HILLTOPPERS

Glenville Eleven Downed As Panhandle Squad Scores Two Markers to Win 12 to 7; First Downs Are 11 and 10

By Arnold Steerts, Mercury Sports Editor
WEST LIBERTY, Oct. 11—Although big Bill Whetsell ran a kick-off 85 yards to score for Glenville, the Pioneers lost to West Liberty's heavier and favored conference champions here today, 12-7.

The Hilltoppers scored in the second quarter to hold a 6-0 lead at the half. This touchdown was the result of a pass, from Piech to Blair, as was the second tally, when Zilla passed over the goal line to Anderson.

With Coach Joe Bartell's lads leading 12-0 in the West Liberty home-coming game, Pioneer halfback Whetsell received a Hilltopper kick-off on his own 15-year line, and, led by five husky White Wave men to the midway stripe, outran the field to score Glenville's lone touchdown. Arthur Short, end, made the extra point by a placement held by Brown.

Coach A. F. Rohrbough's gridmen completed one out of eight passes the second half, and seven in twenty attempts the entire game.

In the final period Glenville again headed for what appeared to be a touchdown march, but a Pioneer back fumbled on West Liberty's twenty yard line and lost the ball on downs.

First downs were 11-10 in favor of the Hilltoppers.

West Liberty completed four out of seven passes, two of which went for tallies.

DONATES COLLEGE CATALOG, '81-'82

Hadsell Ball Finds Old Volume Which Will Supply Facts For Book Here

Hadsell Ball, of Normantown, the past week presented Dr. Charles P. Harper with a copy of the Glenville Normal catalog for the year 1881-1882. Mr. Ball found the catalog while razing an old building, and although much worn it contains most of the pages and the information given is readable.

Dr. Harper, who is doing research work on the history of the College, finds the gift especially valuable since it supplies one of the missing links in the history of the Normal School, during its early growth. This catalog will be included in the early volume of the catalog when it is rebound.

Dr. Harper would like to borrow, for copying, any of the old catalogs for the period between 1873 and 1891 as the College does not have most of them. Last year, Professor E. J. Hall, principal of Glenville Normal in 1884-85, who lives in Arkansas, sent a catalog for the year he was principal.

It is hoped that relatives of the principals, teachers, students, members of the local Executive Committee and of the State Board of Regents for the period mentioned have in their possession some of the miss-

GLENVILLE TEAM WILL MEET LIONS IN CONCORD TILT

Coach Rohrbough Will Take Pioneer Eleven to Athens For Game Saturday

The Glenville Pioneers will leave for southern West Virginia Friday to the stronghold of Concord's Mountain Lions where the two teams will meet Saturday in a Home-coming attraction.

This gridiron encounter with Coach Jim Callaghan's proteges will be the second of three home-coming games in which the Pioneers participate on consecutive week-ends. The White Wave tangled with West Liberty at the Hilltoppers' annual celebration, and will entertain Steve Harrick's West Virginia Tech Golden Bears here as the feature attraction of Glenville's eleventh annual Home-coming.

Two years ago the Pioneers ruined a Concord Home-coming by a 2-0 victory, but the past year Concord downed the White Wave 7-0 during Glenville's alumni-day program.

Since 1927 Coach A. F. Rohrbough's griders have met the Lions eleven times and have defeated the Concordians six times.

Pioneer Sports Chatter

THE Glenville Pioneers returned from the West Liberty game in fair condition, although, as the Pioneer mentor put it, "They were 'big bruisers,' but we almost whittled them down to our size."

Initiations were light on us who made our initial journey with the Pioneers. All we had to do was drone out a few lines of something; and even then the veterans' theme song usually would drown us out before we were through, but you should have heard Donald ("Sheriff") Given's version of "Sugar Blues!"

WEST Liberty's Hilltoppers were well named. All the college buildings and the football field rest on top of a mountain. Among the Glenville alumni who saw the game were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lilly, Fred Madison Whiting, Willard Shreve, Andrew Edwards, and Frank Martino, Jack Conrad, Bob Bolster, and John ("Bud") Wamsley, College students, also attended.

BECAUSE Glenville had defeated Bethany, 13-0, a victory over us was particularly gratifying to West Liberty. Those two up-state colleges are five miles apart, but they haven't met each other since a feud a few years back.

Glenville will probably meet an undefeated team in West Virginia Tech here Home-coming day. The Golden Bears downed Fairmont, the team the beat West Liberty and Shepherd, and will probably win over Bluefield College this coming week-end.

BUT right now it is Concord, the state's other undefeated team, the Pioneers are pointing toward. The White Wave will journey to Athens to try to tie a knot in the Lions' tail as they did two years ago at Concord's home-coming.

Meanwhile, students and faculty here on the campus are joining efforts with College alumni in preparing for the big attraction of October 25, another colorful Home-coming with a big free parade, coronation, football game and a reception and dance.

SOCIAL EVENTS of the WEEK

Small Crowd For Program Sponsored By Chemistry Club

A small crowd saw Mr. John Sloan, graduate of Duke University, give at least fifteen demonstrations on liquid air Thursday evening in the auditorium. He also told how air was transformed into "liquid air," and gave some of its uses.

In his demonstrations he played a clarinet, froze an iron ball, froze mercury, made frost with fire, and drove nails with a banana—all with liquid air.

Mr. Sloan said, "I've met teachers who are graduates of your College in this and other parts of this state and from other states, and they've always spoken highly of Glenville."

Mercury to Get Student Opinion Surveys Weekly

Face-to-face interviews with College students began this week for the nation-wide Student Opinion Surveys of America, which will be published weekly in the Mercury.

"Are you for or against changing the neutrality law so that American supply ships may be armed and sent into war zones?" is the first question to be used by the Surveys, the only regularly-recurring college poll conducted by means of scientific sampling referendum that covers every section of the country. The Mercury, like 160 other undergraduate newspapers, sponsors the non-profit organization on an exchange basis.

A Mercury staff member will be appointed to do the interviewing on the campus. Every time a survey is conducted he will receive a questionnaire on national, international, and college problems, all questions having been pre-tested for their unbiased wording. Instructions are also received describing types and number of students to be contacted.

The polls are thus "controlled" by making sure that correct proportions of men and women, working and non-working students, freshmen and upperclassmen, are represented. Ratios for each part of the country are based on enrollment figures of the U. S. Office of Education. Gallup and Fortune poll statisticians aided the University of Texas in designing the Surveys, now in their fourth year of operation.

Local State Police Corporal Cites Need For More Adequate Parking Facilities

Rotarians Hear Discussion Of Plan To Improve Conditions Here

A plea for ways and means of alleviating congested parking in Glenville was made by Corp. W. G. Wamsley, of the state police, Thursday, when he spoke to Rotarians at their weekly luncheon in the White Tea Room.

A guest of Ruddell Reed, Mr. Wamsley spoke briefly of the parking conditions here and then cited possibilities of securing vacant lots which could be conditioned for free parking centers. He also cited the need for painting parking lanes on Main Street and for lining off lanes for pedestrian traffic.

He explained that the program was not one directed at bringing about the "arrest of those who break parking regulations; the program is one of educating the public to the necessity for adequate parking facilities."

The Rotary Club, headed by Dr. J. C. Shreve, head of the College education department, referred the matter to the committee on community service and instructed Chairman Ruddell Reed and three committee members to meet and discuss the program with the Council and report back to Rotary at a later luncheon.

In charge of the program this week will be B. E. McCullough.

Yearbook Staff Ready to Start On 'Kanawhachen'

Assurance that College students will edit and publish a yearbook this year was given the past week when 201 persons, including several members of the faculty, signed a pledge to pay $2.50 for a copy.

Pledges were signed in assembly after Miss Willerna White, co-faculty adviser, pointed out the advantages of a book and explained that 200 people must promise to make an advance payment of one dollar on the Kanawhachen before the staff could take definite steps toward its publication.

Having promise of financial security, the staff will start work as soon as the best arrangements can be made with printers, engravers and photographers.

Forest White, senior, has been appointed editor of the book; James Heater is business manager. Each will be assisted by a corps of staff members appointed the past year.

When published this year, the book will be the first of its kind to be offered since 1937.

The project is under the general sponsorship of the Student Council.
