

Mercury Musings—

By Bob Reed

Well for those students who have been wondering what they are going to do next summer President Hought has the answer. A job as counselor in summer camp for children, that is providing the qualifications are met.

It will be a fine opportunity for someone who is interested in children and of course willing to do a little work as it would be no small job. If anyone is interested it might be well to see the president.

MERCURY Waxes Poetic

At last we have added a little poetry to THE MERCURY, and it is hoped that others will try their hand at some work of art. Anything considered good by the editors, not guaranteeing the value of the judgment but that's the way it is.

Always looking for a little news, "Bayward Butler Bathes George Washington," well at least his picture. Thanks are in order to the International Relations club anyway.

Bacteriology May Be Offered

A new class is being offered at Glenville State next winter. Bacteriology, according to professor Anderson, will be given which will be a pleasant announcement to some students who need the course in pre-med and pre-nursing.

Now that science mystery has been going on for some time, Mr. Turner welcomes any suggestions or investigators, other than during class periods that is.

Cinders May Be Needed

From the looks of things, the practice of putting cinders on the roads should be practiced here on the campus as bystanders watched some individual slowly slide toward the steps and wonder if he or the next one will go over and down the steps. At least it is a good excuse for being late for class.

It hardly seems necessary to remind any one that tonight is our last home game, but it is necessary to remind some students that there is a word called sportsmanship. Some, it appears, have forgotten.

Actually a team isn't invading when they come here for a friendly contest. The players realize this so why not the students, too? Many opinions of a college are formed at sports events and let us hope opinions formed here are good ones.

The recreation center we heard so much about at the end of last semester has not been mentioned much lately. Has the interest dropped?

Science Hall Is Site of Mystery, A 'Holmes' Wanted

By Fonda Wellings

If there is a lover of mystery in Glenville State college, now is his chance to be a Sherlock Holmes for a real mystery has been discovered on the campus.

Science hall is the scene. In the physics department on the third floor is a generator of direct current electricity from which two pipes lead through the ceiling with D. C. wires.

One outlet giving D. C. is in the physics classroom. Direct current electricity should be available in the chemistry department on the fourth floor, but all outlets there give alternating current.

The location of the other electric wire seems to be the mystery. So far, it's anybody's guess. Suggestions for solving include finding the building's blueprints and consulting the electrical engineer or contractor.

In the meantime a harried Prof. Byron Turner is already beginning to mumble strange and incoherent sounds.

Who knows but that upon investigation other mysteries may be discovered in the Science hall.

21 Students Do Teaching

Social Studies Are First, English 2nd

Twenty-one seniors are doing their directed teaching in secondary work this semester under the direction of H. Y. Clark, of the education department.

Those who have a major teaching field in social science lead with seven students who are: Bayward Butler, social science, biological science; Margaret Hawkins, social science, English; Ray Watson, social science, physical education; Sexton Wright, social science, English; Lloyd Singleton, social science, biological science; Damon West, social science, physical education; Evelyn Finster, social science, English.

English Is Second

The next largest group is that having an English major. They are: Isabelle Whiting, English, mathematics; Eunice Wilfong Cox, English, social science; Betty Gainor, English, social science; Nina Craig, English, physical education.

Students having a major in biological science are: Thelma Ryan, biological science, English; Frank Bowles, biological and general science, physical education; Grover Weaver, biological science, general and physical science; Clarence Hinkle, biological science, physical science.

Majors in commerce are: Leona Williams, commerce, English; Joan Cross, commerce, physical education; Blondina Fitzpatrick, commerce, English.

Physical education majors are: Clyde Jackson Luzader, physical education, social science; Katherine Hall, physical education, English.

Have Sunday Book Reviews

Rev. Grover J. Johnson, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, is engaged in a revival meeting at Crooked Run.

At present, a book review is being conducted at Trinity church each Sunday night.

Bob Whiting Tops Wave With 19; Lilly Gets 15

After trailing for three periods of ragged play, Coach Carlos Ratliff's Glenville State college Pioneers put on a fourth period photo-finish rally to stem the West Liberty Hilltoppers, 56 to 55, here last Friday night.

Although the White Wave took an early first period lead, the Hilltoppers saung into action and had soon erased the Pioneer advantage. At end of the first set to West Liberty was plugging away with a 13 to 10 margin.

With Healy and Allen, big guns for the visitors, making the White Wave boys miff their push shots, the Toppers kept plugging in the second quarter to hold a lead of 29 to 20 at half-time.

Although the Pioneers fought desperately, even if not brilliantly in the third frame, West Liberty held a ten point advantage which seemingly could not be erased. At the end of the third quarter the Toppers were seemingly coasting with a margin of 48 to 38.

Pioneers Open In Fourth

With but four minutes of play remaining in the final period, a taut and striving Pioneer machine came to life to outscore the Hilltoppers 18 to 7 counters.

Bob Whiting led the Pioneers with 19 points, seconded by Lilly who racked up 15 points. Reed tallied 12 and Joe Marra scored 7. For the visitors Allen with 14 and Healy with 13 points were high scorers. Robinson followed with a total of 11 points.

Anderson Announces Bacteriology Class

Definite plans are being made for a bacteriology course with laboratory work for Glenville State college students next winter. Apparatus and materials are now on order and have been state approved. Prof. A. H. Anderson announces.

It has not been determined yet whether the course will be for one semester giving four hours credit or for two semesters offering six hours credit. General botany will probably be the only prerequisite.

This course is included in pre-medical and pre-nursing curricula and also is required for biology majors. It will be aimed chiefly for juniors and seniors.

Janice Ann Reed Is Mercury's Addition

Headlines wouldn't fit Copy's all wrong. THE MERCURY didn't miss. Typewriters refused to spell. What's wrong? Why, the editor's had just become a father!

A 7 and 1-2 pound girl, who has been named Janice Ann, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reed on Feb. 16, at the Weston city hospital. Both mother and daughter are doing well.

The mother is the former Rachel Huff. The father, editor of THE MERCURY, is a veteran and senior here.

'Washing' Washington Executed By Butler

Those who were in the hall of "Old building" last Wed. about 4 p. m. may have been aghast and agape at the rites being performed. To assure those interested onlookers that Glenville State college students have not become addicted to berserk actions, an explanation is in order.

For the past two years International Relations club has taken upon itself the annual task of cleaning the picture of George Washington enshrined upon the wall. This year Bayard Butler, president, performed the chore.

The picture of Washington was given to the college during the Centennial celebration in 1933, and has been gazing down upon GSC students from this vantage point in the main hall ever since.

Lyceum Speaker

Dr. Henry Pratt Fairchild, world traveler-lecturer, was scheduled to appear as Lyceum speaker last night in the college auditorium. His subject was, "Population and Peace."

GSC Students May Get Jobs

Students at Glenville State college may have a chance at jobs as counsellors in the summer camp for children, operated by the employees of Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation, according to Pres. D. L. Haught.

J. E. Shipp, of the Industrial Relations Department of the corporation has asked that particularly qualified applicants be referred to him by Dr. Haught.

The need is for both young women and young men, who are genuinely interested in working with children and who would be leaders. The finest personal character is a requirement.

Camp will be operated in June, July, and August. For the first year, salaries will be $125 per month for general counsellors and up to $150 per month for those directing a very few special activities. Counsellors will bear only their personal expenses while at Camp.

Further information can be obtained from the president's office.

Keeney Is Speaker At Y.M.C.A. Meeting

Young Men's Christian Association launched new ideas and ambitions when James Keeney spoke last night on, "Revealing the Love of God in Daily Living."

Mr. Keeney used Matthew 7:20; "Therefore by their fruits ye shall know them," and the story of Ruth to further illustrate his objective.

Prof. John R. Wagner and about ten members were present. George Adams, vice-president, was selected as program leader for the next time.

Gloria Rogers former student visited Gay Hazel Reedy this past week end.

Frank Bowles Is President Student Body

Light Vote Is Polled As Clarence Hinkle Is Second, Boggs Is Third

Frank Bowles, '47, of Follansbee, was winner in the election for president of the student body held here last Friday, with Hastings Bailey, acting president, serving as poll clerk.

Bowles was elected to fill a vacancy created when Nicholas Murin completed work for his degree and withdrew at the end of last semester. Mr. Bailey vice-president of the student body, has been acting as president until an election could be held.

Returns of the election show that Bowles carried the election with a plurality of 47 while Clarence Hinkle, '47, of Richwood, polled 24 votes and Eloise Boggs '47, received 19 votes.

Friday's voting was unusually light, accounting as a result of heavy snow.

Statewide Meeting Of Vets Postponed

GLENVILLE, Feb. 20 — A two-day statewide meeting of West Virginia college veterans to have been held at Glenville State college on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 21 and 22, has been cancelled because of unfavorable weather conditions.

Local veterans groups or interested veterans at Davis-Elkins college, Morris Harvey college, Concord college Potomac State college, Alderson-Broadus college, Mountain State Business college, of Parkersburg, have been informed of the decisions to cancel the meeting by Robert Higgins, president of the local veterans group at Glenville State college.

Scheduled to speak at the two-day conclave was T. H. (Pat) McGovern, director of the West Virginia Department of Veterans Affairs. The meeting is postponed until an undetermined future date.

A daughter, Barbara Kathleen, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wells in a Charleston hospital, Feb. 15. The mother is the former Miss Kathleen Wolfe. Both parents are former students.

Bell's Telephone Will Celebrate 100th Birth Date

Talking by telephone is just "doing what comes naturally" to the modern generation, but probably very few ever stop to think of its inventor or that there was once a world without it.

On March 3, we observe the 100th anniversary of the birth of Alexander Graham Bell, the scientist who contributed this instrument to business and society. Bell's first crude telephone was patented in 1876 and exhibited at the Centennial Exposition.

The telephone was only one of the many products of Bell's inventive mind. He designed the telephone by which sounds are conveyed by a vibratory beam of light and the telephone probe which detects bullets in the human body.

Among Bell's achievements must not be forgotten that of teaching deaf-born children to speak and instructing in the mechanics of speech. In 1872, he opened a training school for teachers of the deaf and of speech defects.

Should not the world remember this great humanitarian on the 100th anniversary of his birth.

Hopeful World Awaits Moscow Conference

The coming Moscow conference of the Big Four Foreign Ministers promises to be a difficult one involving issues of national and international importance.

Such an issue is the German treaty, which optimists hope will make a good beginning toward writing since it is regarded as the most important matter facing the conference.

It is obvious that the final German peace treaty will perforce have to wait for the establishment of a German government which, as yet, is a long way off.

Observers believe that for the sake of Germany and the world, some sort of economic unity in the Reich should be established. The United States and Great Britain have already done this to a degree, despite Russian "sharp-shooting". Moscow favors economic unity, but would like it to be for her benefit, particularly in matters of reparation.

The vital Ruhr region is an important issue in Germany's future. France has proposed that this great coal-mining region be placed under a special regime governed by the Security Council.

With Russia's stand uncertain and the British with responsibilities of her own, the United States may find itself mediator in this affair.

It is evident that the success reached at Moscow will reflect in the coming preparation for the peace treaty with Japan.

One thing is clear, this conference is to be available in full to newspaper correspondents, thus giving us first hand information.

Thus America and the world will watch the coming Moscow conference with hopeful feeling as it attempts to work together in solving some pressing problems. Millions, young and old, will be praying for its success.—Jack Rader.

An Alleged Red Speaks for Democracy

Define the term "Democracy". What is the meaning of the word "democracy"? Explain the ideal of Democracy. We are all familiar with these propositions, and we are all more or less aware that a good, standard, working definition of a democracy has never yet been formulated.

But, in our opinion, the man who has come closest the mark is David Lilienthal, proposed chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, in extemporaneous remarks recently before the Joint Congressional committee on Atomic Energy.

His statement was in answer to Sen. Kenneth McKellar's accusation that he was a "communist believer" and "leftist sympathizer". We present it here for the attention of every college student, particularly those who will become teachers.

"Traditionally, democracy has been an affirmative doctrine rather than merely a negative one. I believe—and so I do conceive the constitution of the United States to rest upon, as does religion—the fundamental proposition of the integrity of the individual, and that all Government and all private institutions must be designed to promote and to protect the integrity of the individual; that that is the essential meaning of the constitution and the Bill of Rights, as it is essentially the meaning of Religion."

Developing the thesis of the fundamental importance of man over the state, Lilienthal declared his belief in this democratic ideal which is the absolute opposite of the communistic ideal that man exists only for the glorification of the state.

"I deeply believe in the capacity of democracy to surmount any trials that may lie ahead, provided only we practice it in our daily lives," he avowed.

We can all realize the danger to our country and our form of government should communist believers infiltrate our public offices; and our congressmen should certainly attack openly any such persons. The spotlight of publicity should be turned on such persons and on their activities, but we should beware of crying "Communist" and "Fascist" at every man in public office, or like any other cry of "Wolf, wolf!" it can become so accepted that we fail to see any danger in the real cry.—Esther Harrison.

On The Campus

By Janet Boggs

O. K. Now, Richard, you'll just have to open up that door and let us in if you want to hear all we know that's new and different that everyone else doesn't already know. Ready now?

Notice the Student council pin Verna Dean Ellis is wearing? Know who the original owner is? See H. R. Reese here a couple week-ends ago? Now you know all the answers, don't you?

Ummmm! Looks as if this is getting in the steady stuff department. Iris Hefney and Edward Williams. Really doing all right there now, aren't you all?

You'd never guess what Campus Co-ed Jim Cook's Normantown heart beat is kinda jealous of and because of . . . Yes, she is too, but ask Jim for more and further information about that.

Looks as if Kathryn Elliott has decided to take studies and letters from West Point more seriously. No more campusology courses for her just now . . . she's all finished with that stuff. Could be.

We hear, via the grapevine, of course, that a certain red-haired freshman says she's just positively getting tired of turning down dates. How about that now, Fellows? Isn't a word to the wise sufficient . . . or is it try, try again?

Don't you all think our editor has a fatherly look about him lately? Blame it all on the Stork . . . and little Janice Anne.

Isn't it about time that we mentioned Jewell Cain and Bill Black? They're at it too . . . even if it is ancient stuff by now.

Look who's caught it now! It's being rumored that they're altar-bound too . . . you know whom we mean . . . Lorena Rhodes and Rush Floyd.

'Course everyone knows about Jake Gainer and Patty Jack too . . . Veterans work . . .

Poor Henpecked Husband! With apologies to Mary Lila. Did you know that Cornelius "Bud" Williams had to miss class recently to do the week's washing Well, that's what Frank and "Puz" said.

From the looks of things GSC won't have to worry about any lack of students in the future . . . not from the number of babies being born around here and the ones being awaited and expected. What is this? Stork Year.

Have you noticed what Ruth Beverage is doing? She seems to have made up her mind . . . Why it's honestly been several weeks now since it started and she's still going around with Linwood Herndon! Can you believe that?

Just now we think Anna Mae Heater's main interest is John Fryatt. Main available interest, that is Meow! That scratched.

Who's the certain somebody Eula Jean Cogar is always so happy to see every week-end? Well, she says he looks mighty handsome across the breakfast table.

Check this if we're wrong, you two, but we hear that Hankins and Sue Carroll are planning an August wedding.

Looks as if ole' Harry Pritt has scored again . . . we'd say he had come out just way ahead in his latest contest . . . and we don't mean basketball either. Good for you, Harry!

DISGUSTED

When the day grows dark and drear, Instead of blue, the skies are grey, When the goal you've tried to reach Still remains as far away— That is when you feel you'd like To tear your hair and loudly say, "I'm disgusted!"

When the things at school go wrong, The teacher's mad and glares at you; You try so hard but after all He finds some fault with all you do; That is when you feel you'd like To tell him just a thing or two. You're disgusted!

You'd liketo quit—well, so did they; They loathed the fight, the flies, the sun; Those men who strove for freedom's way. But they knew the fight had just begun— They had to stick—and so have you. So, friend, until those goals you've won, Why be disgusted?

Falcons Nip White Wave In 80-56 Win

With forward Stan Sagath hitting the hoops for 23 points, Fairmont's Falcons soared to an 80-56 win over the Pioneers on Feb. 15, at Fairmont.

The Conference-leading Falcons jumped into an early lead and held it all the way, after being challenged in the first half.

Jesse Lilly led the Pioneers with 21 points, while Whiting had 14.

The loss was the Pioneers' 10th as against eight wins, while it gave the high-scoring Fairmonters a 13-3 Conference record.

Grades Not Smokes Shine In Teaching

Of the three students taking directed teaching last semester in seventh grade arithmetic, all were non-smokers and all got A's on the course.

Miss Ivy Lee Myers expressed pride in their accomplishment, whether of the work done in the course or abstinence from smoking was hard to tell—perhaps both.

The students so honored were: Warren Cunningham, Bayward Butler, and Herbert Smith.

Dance Is Cancelled For Gassaway Game

Because of the Glenville-Gassaway high school game to be held in the gymnasium on that date there will be no dance on Washington's birthday. However, the social committee has these events scheduled for the next month:

February 28—regular week-end dance.

March 1—the postponed 4-H square dance.

March 14—"week-end" dance.

March 22—Veteran's club dance.

Sectional high school basketball tournament on March 7 and 8, will be in the college gym. The week-end of March 21st is still open.

The committee will meet again this week to make further plans.

Stellar Guard

Tonight, trying to avenge a Falcon drubbing, Joe Marra, of Clarksville, will play his last home game for Glenville State. A regular guard, he always contributes several points by long shots.

Single Students Live Cheaper On Campus

According to statistics compiled by the American Council on Education, the national average cost of board and room per month for an unmarried student living on campus is $53.33, while the national average for an unmarried student living off campus is $64.13.

Highest figure quoted by the council for unmarried student living on campus is $120 per month with a low figure of $32. (It is worthy of note that the cost of living in dormitories at Glenville State college is $26.52 for women and $28.56 for men.)

For the married student living on campus the national average per month is $79.96, while the married student living off campus pays an average per month of $105.19.

GSC Defeated By Catamounts

White Wave Weakens To Lose Tilt, 80-66

By Jack Rader

Coming back strong in the last two quarters after a close first half, a rangy Potomac State Catamount quintet went on to hand the White Wave an 80-66 beating before a large crowd in the Pioneer gym last Tuesday.

The game was a nip-and-tuck affair for the first half, with Potomac on top 20-19 at the quarter mark, and the Pioneers coming back to lead 34-33 at halftime, thanks to some fine shooting by Lilly and Luzader.

After that, the Catamounts grabbed the lead and pulled away, paced by Kenny Sims and grid star Mike Yewic. However, the crowd greatly enjoyed the antics of Ours, 6'7" Potomac center, who towered over everyone but not until the last quarter did the big fellow use his tremendous height to any great advantage.

Potomac Leads At Third

At the third quarter mark, Potomac led 55-47, and in the final quarter, they put the game on ice with a 25-point splurge, while the Pioneers added 19.

Sims and Yewic paced the winners with 26 and 21 points, respectively, while the giant Ours added 13, most of them in the last quarter. Jesse Lilly and Beecher Reed, both of whom fouled out, and Jack Luzader had 16, 12, and 13.

From The SIDELINES

By Jack Rader

After tonight's important tussle, the final home game, with Fairmont's Falcons, the Pioneers rest from their labors until March 3, when they meet Wesleyan, and two nights later engage the A-B Battlers, both road games with the A-B tilt closing the season.

As to tonight's tangle with the Falcons, the White Wave will be gunning for revenge for the 80-56 pasting handed them two weeks ago at Fairmont.

Three Seniors Play

Three Pioneer stalwarts—Capt. Beecher Reed, Joe Marra, and Jack "Puzzy" Luzader—will be playing their last home game and are anxious to end their local season on the long end of the score. The high scoring Falcons feature a fast break from a zone defense, paced by Stan Sagath and Bill Blosser. The former scored 23 points against the Pioneers in their previous encounter.

Incidentally, those who have already counted the Pioneers out as a tournament threat may be in for a rude or a pleasant surprise, depending on their viewpoint, of course, but ever since the Concord game the White Wave has looked to our eyes as a team which may be tough to handle in the tournament.

Little can be done to improve the season record so to the end, we agree, but the Pioneers could make a lot of fans forget that by coming through in the tournament. Remember last year's tourney? Basketball games have strange outcomes, dear readers.

Feelers Are Out

"Feelers" have already gone out as to possible entries in the two big post-season tournaments to be held in New York next month, and among probable selections, West Virginia and Marshall have been more than briefly mentioned. Almost sure entries are Kentucky, Duquesne, and New York university. The first-named quintet won the National Invitational tournament last year after besting off the challenge of WVU and Rhode Island State.

Home Season Ends Tonight

Pioneers Seek Revenge From Fairmont Falcons

Fairmont's high-flying Falcons, 80-56 winner over the Pioneers recently at Fairmont, will close the Pioneers' home season here tonight in what is expected to be a hard-fought tilt from beginning to end.

The Wilson-Coached Falcons are currently leading the collegiate conference, thus adding another incentive to the White Wave's hopes of ending their home season on the long end of the score, as it will mark the last appearance of such senior stalwarts as Joe Marra, Capt. Beecher Reed, and Jack Luzader on the local hardwood in regular season play.

Student Body Adopts Music

The second tune written to the college song by Miss Helen Wright, alumna, was unanimously adopted as the official one at a meeting of the student body at the end of the regular assembly program here last Thursday.

Both tunes were played by the pianist Vera Dean Ellis and led by music instructor Bertha Olsen, but the livelier, "swingier" later edition was the one chosen by the students. Hastings Bailey, acting president of the student body, was in charge, as a president was not elected until Friday.

Under the auspices of Miss Bessie B. Bell, chairman of the history department, four students gave a memorial program to honor George Washington. The speakers were: Maxine Riddle, Luanne Miller, Norman Sheets, Eunice Cox.

Miss Lucie Berry, assistant house director of Verona Maple hall, was called to Weston because of the death of her uncle J. E. Sprigg.

U.N. Council Says Trieste To Be Free

According to material just received for publication the United Nations is even more than usually active these days. Proof is in the following facts:

Trieste is to become a free international zone, the governor to be appointed subject to approval of both Italy and Yugoslavia.

Security Council acceptance of the General Assembly resolution on disarmament opened the way to heated debate over control of atomic energy and general regulation and reduction of armaments and armed forces.

Great Britain placed a complaint against Albania, charging her with laying mines.

43 Legion Posts Are Formed In Colleges

American Legion posts are being formed in colleges all over the nation. Already there are 43 such posts chartered.

Members have found in this affiliation not only a means of continuing the comradeship they formed while in the service, but they, also, have found an organizational medium through which they can channel their demands for action to solve the veterans' problems with which they are confronted.

Bessie Bell Attends Charleston Meeting

Miss Bessie B. Bell of the history department, attended a meeting of the Association of Higher Education of West Virginia in Charleston, Feb. 22.

The meeting, held at the office of Dean A. C. Blackwell of Morris Harvey college, was called by Dean O. S. Ikenberry of Salem college, president of the organization, to complete the program for the annual spring meeting which will be held at the Daniel Boone Hotel in Charleston, April 18-19.

Miss Bell is the secretary of the organization.

New Books Reviewed By Cox and Butler

A new book THE EVOLUTION OF MODERN LATIN AMERICA, by R. A. Humphreys, was reviewed by two members of the International Relations club at its last regular bi-monthly meeting.

Stressed by the speakers, Warren Cox and Bayward Butler, were the socio-political development of Latin America and the effects of foreign-born population upon the continent's present organization.

Miss Bessie Bell, sponsor of the club, discussed plans for participation in the sectional meeting of International Relations club at Hiram college, Ohio, April 25-26. Clubs from Ohio, Kentucky, and West Virginia will be represented.

One new member, Kathleen Saunders, joined the club.

ANNOUNCE BIRTH

Mr. and Mrs. Laddie Bell announce the birth of a daughter, Paula Leigh, at a Charleston hospital, Feb. 17.

The father, a graduate of the college and nephew of Miss Bessie B. Bell, is employed as coach at Poca high school.

Illness, resumed her duties here February 17. Dr. Brown during her illness, was at her home in Moundsville.
