Lurid Details of Monkeys' Digestive Tracts Studied

By Bill Harper

"You will observe closely, gentlemen, the interesting details of the animals' anatomy. Scalpel, please."

The above might well be the words of one of the students in the class of comparative anatomy (in the picture) as they scrutinize what is reported to be monkeys, who have given their lives in the interest of the advancement of humanity. The four potential biologists, Cy Anderson, Jack Simon, Sull McCartney and Tom Boggs, are studying the digestive tracts of the animals in all their lurid detail.

The two carcasses were obtained by the biology department a few weeks ago, and have been used in the various classes for study and anatomy. Dr. Max Ward and Prof. Anderson have made a joint announcement, that since the monkeys have become permanent additions to the department, names will be given them in the near future. Several suggestions are under consideration, such as Jack and Jill, X and Y, or possibly Adam and Eve, since they are male and female. The instructors said that a public announcement of names chosen will be made as soon as possible, but until that time the animals will be known as-monkeys.

This monkey business is one of many projects being carried out by the biology department. Professor Anderson said. He announced that plans were being made for the March seminar of biological techniques, which will be open to the public.

Prof. Wagner Makes Imitation Electrons

Imitation electrons have been built by Prof. John Wagner to simplify the study of the composition of atoms. This device will be used in the physics and chemistry classes.

The chief process developed is the making of new elements by adding and subtracting electrons. One of the first elements produced was lithium fluoride.

The Post Office Department struggles with the costly maintenance of motor vehicles whose average age is 15 1-2 years. Such conditions among many others led the bipartisan Hoover Commission to believe there were ways to save from $3 to $5 billions a year in the operating costs of the government, according to the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report.

Participation will be limited to approximately sixty students from American and Canadian colleges and universities, who will be joined in Paris by representatives of European IRC's.

Assembly To Feature Films

Two new films will be shown April 20, by Prof. Bessie B. Bell for the assembly program in the college auditorium.

The first movie, "This is New York," shows views from the air and the streets of New York City. It is recommended to be of special interest for the civics and geography classes.

The other movie, "Silver Harvest," presents views of Norway, its scenery, people and their costumes. There are also scenes of Norway's sardine industry. It has been recommended to be especially interesting to the geography and home economics classes.

Mercury Musings

By Dan Rengers

Our team lost. That's all there is to say. They went to Buckhannon to do their best in representing Glenville State college in the annual tourney. Maybe it was an off night that caused them to go down in defeat or it could have been because there were no apple carts to upset.

Yes, Frank fan, they lost but it is no great disgrace to lose, and we should all be proud of the boys and the coaches who spent three months of long hours and hard work in developing a team. A team that tried. What else can we ask for.

Sure, we say, "If I had been playing that position or if I had been in the coaches place, I would have done this and this and etc." It's easy to be a bleacher critic but if we were down on the floor or in coaches shoes, I have no doubts that we would be total failures.

Do we always have to win to be satisfied? If we went through life winning all the games I would think it could get rather dull after a period of time. Yep, our team lost. You didn't hear them grumble. They did all the work, too. Just goes to show you that they set an exceptional example for so many radical bleacher critics.

Glenville's R&B store has contributed a one year scholarship to a high school senior who will be selected in the future. Each year this scholarship will go to a different high school in the county. This year's went to Glenville high school and next year's to Sand Fork.

Pres. Harry B. Hefflin and fellow faculty hardwood aces will unveil their explosive offense, "Moe Holstein and Harry Smith will tangle in a wrestling match; rival college fraternity fives will clash; and madcap merrymaking will highlight tomorrow night's annual stellar Holy Roller Court sports carnival which is designed to keep the payees in a hilarious uproar while snuffing out the lives of all weak-hearted patients.

The laugh-provoking program is scheduled to get underway at 7:30 p. m. Holy Roller Court promoters have lined up a star-studded cast to appear in this year's shindig and the array of talent is imposing.

Holy Roller Court Duces, a mysterious hardwood aggregation that boasts victories over the Harlem Globe Trotters and The Vassar Flashers, will risk the lid off the festivities when they oppose the dangerous, power-laden college faculty five.

"Easy Ed" Adkins, Carlos "Rifle" Ratliff, Mike "Mikan" Posey, Joe "Bullet" Bail, Marvin Newman, "Evasive" Edgar, Elder and Joe "Hercules" Hall are expected to spark the middle-aged faculty quintet.

Kappa Sigma Kappa's Glenville Greeks will oppose the Court Aces in the second round of firing which is expected to provide plenty of high-octane offensive fireworks.

Kappa Sig's lineup is dotted with talented hardwood luminaries. Heading the line is a group of college varsity performers, such as: Glennard Vannoy, Joe Rader, Carlton Gandee, Bob Metz, Brent Cool, Harry Smith, Tex Gainer and Jim Laughlin.

Other standouts on the Greek roster include: Max Moore, Boone Waid, Charles Curry, Allan Keeney, Bob McNemar, Don Cooper, Don Weaver, Ralph Fazio, and Cecil Johnson.

"Hooks" Hardman, Bob Conley, Gene White, Jim "Hose Nose" Marsh, and Bobby "Doak" Walker will be the mainstays in the Holy Roller Court Aces' attack which gets an acid test in the melee with the Kappa Sigma combination.

In a crowd-luring stunt, Herbert "The Angel" Holstein will exchange grunts and groans with Harry "Man Mountain" Smith in a bruising bout on the mats.

Holstein is a seasoned grappler, holding wins over his grandmother and girl friend, while Smitty is also unbeaten with one-sided triumphs over his two freshman roommates.

Admission for the annual fall blowout is 25 cents for students and 35 cents for adults.

Committee Discusses Extension Set-Up

Members of this committee are comprised of school superintendents, members of the State Department of Education, and representatives from West Virginia university, Marshall college, and Glenville State college.

Dean Edwin P. Adkins is representing Glenville at these meetings.

GS Students To Attend IRC Regional Conference

A regional conference of the Ohio Valley International Relations club will be held March 17-18 at Wilberforce State college, Wilberforce, Ohio.

Representatives of Glenville State college who will attend this meeting are: Hyman Brooks Wolfe, president of the local club, Hubert Witte, and William Harper.

Take Care—Of The Union, That Is

The MERCURY is not in the habit of ranting and raving about sportsmanship and school spirit, simply because there is little need for remonstrance or criticism here. HOWEVER, it has been noticed that Student Union equipment has and is being abused, which necessitates a few words to the wise by the campus news organ.

The Union is a comparatively new establishment, procured almost wholly by students, after considerable filibustering and work. Therefore it should be the students' (who, after all, are practically the sole users of the facilities offered by the SU) duty to see that THEIR property is protected. The furniture in the little gathering place is sparse enough as it is, without any further abuse.

This is not an accusation or remonstrance to any one individual, it's just a little advice that we might all do well to heed. Who knows, with the building of a new gym here we may be able to acquire even a bigger and better site for a Union—that is if we show enough interest in benefiting ourselves. A part of the latter should be the manifestation of interest in the present U.

Remember, we don't mean to "wave the flag"—to use a current campus expression. We're merely trying to offer a small suggestion in our own humble way. So before we carve our initials on the tables, or place our feet on the chairs—think twice!

Have a Little Respect for the Beginners

It seems to be a custom with intramural ball game spectators to "razz" campus boys who are calling these games. These boys who are doing this work for honor points should be encouraged rather than "booed" so sharply. This bit of un-sportsmanlike conduct which is done by "off the campus" spectators as well as college students should not be done.

It is all right to criticize one of these young officials after the final whistle has blown, and surely the grandstand "bleacherbugs", who were well represented at the Merchants-Clarksburg game, can withhold their grievances until then. We realize most of this "heckling" is done in good spirits by these walking "book of rules", but nevertheless it may discourage that student who is trying to call a game as "he" sees it.

Most of these criticisms which have been given were noticed in intramural basketball games, but this conduct is also practiced in practically all other campus sports activities. We are almost certain if the individual who engages in this manner of "being noticed" would put himself in the shoes of the young referee, he would not appreciate all of the so called boo's.

The "razzing" of the umpire has been one of the sports world outstanding 'sportsmanship' traits for a number of years. The older official who is wise to the 'booing' of the crowd, is not upset by these practices of the spectators. He calls the game as his way and that's that. However, if the young referee is given a 'rough' reception in one of his early attempts at calling a ball game he may develop a feeling of inferiority and this could mean the downfall of a promising good official.

In departing we ask you all, citizens and students, to put yourself in the ump's position.

STALIN'S SOLOQUY

By H. Laban White

Mused Stalin at Yalta: This meeting's propitious;
These gentlemen don't seem at all suspicious,
They think I'm a friend—but that is their error—
Now I can listen, and learn how to stir up more terror.
I'll compromise somewhat, and also appease,
So that I can find out all their plans—by degrees;
I'll even make promises (not to be kept);
In the art of deception I'm very adept.
These Capitalist morons are very naive;
Promises made should be kept, they believe;
It's a custom on which they set great store,
And it's also a weakness that I've used before.
I'll persuade them to let us first enter Berlin,
Then we'll take full possession before they move in.
Next I'll get their agreement to our reparations,
So that we can take over and govern whole nations!
These old fogies haven't yet learned
That, by Marx, their ethics were overturned.
That Bad is Good, that Wrong is Right,
That Falsehood is Truth, and Peace means Fight.

So I'll feast them at banquets with plenty of wine
While I'm paving the way for our Party Line,
And into U. N. we shall gladly go—
Just to paralyze progress with our veto!

AN ESSAY ON EDUCATION

By H. Laban White

In this forum our good friend Ellis wrote some verses in order to tell us
That he lacks education—
Then he penned a narration
On the mythical persons of Hellas.
We know naught about Ellis's schooling,
But infer that he was just fooling;
For there's verification
That he has education,
Though he got it by methods more gruelling.
Washington, Lincoln, and Edison
Each in his day great distinction won;
They got most of their knowledge in Experience College,
Whose teachings are second to none.
And we wonder who taught Shakespeare,
Plato and Socrates;
Yet we find no one spurning
The wisdom of learning.
Of any one of these.

ON the CAMPUS

Justice and Cunningham

Since the outcome of the tournament didn't add to our spirits let's try a few cheerful remarks about the social life on the campus.

Ruth Eleanor White's weekends are well occupied especially when Walter Elyson comes in from WVU. Susie Mullenix has a special interest in D&E. It must be because of Keith.

Hubert Taylor and Irvin Scott have to make important trips to Pocahontas county to see their girls.

Jean Cooper didn't mind Tanner's defeat to Normantown. She's still rejoicing over the outcome of the Tanner-Glenville game. It is rumored she's to receive a gift for her enthusiasm.

"Boone" Waldo made have to delay his trip to Panama or else take Jean Smith with him.

Laughing at some of those dry jokes is a hard way of getting a grade, isn't it Bob-Mottice?

Wonder why Carlton "Cotton" Gandee was so interested in the Tanner-tournament? Could it have been because of a certain cheerleader?

It's not polite to go home after someone comes all the way from Ohio to see you, Elizabeth.

Joanne Nash has latched on to Bob Rosebleib—and how!

Some of the couples seen at the tournament in Buckhannon were: Doris Brannon and Frabert Davis, Janis Maxwell and Glen Martin, Wanda Burkhammer and Perry Smith, Shirley Porter and Albert Grooves, and the Elkview Herd. Lorena Frymier was well entertained last weekend when Delmar Atkinson came in from WVU.

Johnny Atkins and Don Starcher are distributing their smiles and charms about the campus in a big way.

Billy Gene Boggs and Mildred Clarkson must have a lot in common the way they are together.

"Hube" Witte hasn't been to Summersville for a couple of weeks. What's wrong Hube? No got de spirit anymore?

It is the sincere belief of one and all that Leo Mason, the campus philosopher, is working on a volume that will far excel Mr. Kinsey's report. No doubt that is why he is spending so much time in the library. Bully, Mason!

Exterminators To Rid College Dorms Of Pests

On Friday morning, April 7, the Orkin Exterminating company of Parkersburg will treat Kanawha hall, Kanawha hall cellar, and Verona Maple hall pests.

It will be necessary for all occupants of Kanawha hall and Verona Maple to be out of the buildings by 7:30 a. m., Friday, April 7.

All inside doors, including student rooms, must be left open. Also, all occupants of rooms are asked to pull out dresser drawers, table drawers, and to open wardrobe doors before leaving the building. The treatment will not damage anything in the rooms.

WAA Basketball

The Women's Athletic association's basketball teams are in full swing now, having played their third round of games last Wednesday night. The results of this game placed Burkhammer and Reedy in first place with three victories and no defeats each, White and Walters second place with two victories and one loss each, Cunningham and Reed in third place with one victory and two defeats, and Meadows and Henry in fourth place with three defeats.

Much preparation has been made for these years WAA basketball teams such as special coaches, who are physical education majors, and special practice periods.

The standings of the teams now are:

TEAM	W	L
Burkhammer	3	0
Reedy	3	0
Walters	2	1
White	2	1
Cunningham	1	2
Reed	1	2
Meadows	0	3
Henry	0	3

Talk To Show Bread Virtues

Miss Rodgers Will Give Flour Demonstrations

"Breads are one of the most appetizing, economical ways to serve the important B-vitamins and food iron of enriched flour," says Miss Helen Rodgers, east central representative of the wheat flour institute of Chicago.

Miss Rodgers will show home economics students of Glenville State college tempting proof for this statement when she presents a baking demonstration here March 16. The demonstration will be held in the home economics department at 1:30 p. m. Miss Rodgers is appearing as the guest of Prof. Mabel Todd of the home economics department.

"The nicest way to make home baking easy and fun is to use basic recipes," says Miss Rodgers. "Once you have mastered the art of making good standard muffins, biscuits, and yeast breads, it is no trouble at all to dress them up in new costumes."

To illustrate this point, Miss Rodgers will make several basic breads and show the students how to vary them with different fruits, nuts, and spices. From a basic sweet yeast dough she will shape two colorful breakfast breads called Flower Petal Coffee cake and Whirligig rolls.

Miss Rodgers will also show the students how to make an easy "stir-up" yeast batter which requires no kneading. Then she will transform the batter into a variety of spicy puffs and coffee cakes.

A favorite quick bread, muffins, will also be included on the busy baking schedule. "Hot breads have always been able to change the simplest meals into something extra special," says Miss Rodgers.

Now that flour has been enriched with the B-vitamins and food iron, breads provide excellent food value as well as being delicious additions to meals.

Home economics majors, faculty wives, and ladies of the town who are interested in baking are invited to attend this demonstration.

PURE CLEAR WATER

Hundreds of thousands of homes now under construction throughout the land will have copper tube or red brass pipe for hot and cold water lines. Reason: Copper tube or Red Brass pipe are rust-proof. The water that flows through is as clear and pure as when it left its source.

Diamonds are sorted from other substances after being mined by passing the ore over a greased incline, where the diamonds adhere to the grease.

Hardwood Highlights

By Ronnie Rollins

They often speak of Custers' last stand but when it comes to rehashing Glenville State's last stand, the less said the better! Last ditch stand this writer is referring to is the initial showing the erratic-passing Glenville State courtmen made in the state basketballing brawl last week when they folded like an Arab's tent in the face of a last-minute Tech onslaught to bow in the tri-finals, 66-54.

Lead Changes Hands

Golden Boys and favored G-men, both rangy combines who blow hot and cold, passed the lead back and forth like a rubber check in their struggle but Glenville, with Dishauzi and Hardman zeroed in, finally forged into a 52-42, spread with about four minutes left to play.

What happened to the Ratliffmen in that one remaining minute shouldn't happen to the state fire marshal, the much-abused and hated gent who slammed the doors shut in the face of the jostling tourney mobs because he feared the jam-packed gym might be turned into a blazing inferno.

Last Minute Tech Outburst Upsets Glenville 66-53

State Intercollegiate All-Tourney Team

By Ronnie Rollins

Human crane Hap Huey, a 6' 5" rebounding master and cool Carl Payne, the play-making chap with ice water in his veins, were the Davis Elkins college's all-conquering, state championship basketball quintet and both stellar players landed a berth on the 13-th annual all-tourney team.

Georgia peach Huey was the tournament's high scorer, hitting for 92 points in four games and he shared the pivot post on the mythical aggregation with Fairmont State's Cottrelle Schimide.

King Is Honored

Golden boy George King, one of the greatest cagers to appear in the 14-school elimination even, grabbed a forward berth for Morris Harvey while sharpshooting Sam Berry of Shepherd and Payne of D-E were the other selections at forwards.

Pepper-pot Allen Nida, Tech's gritty guard, Eldon "Sugar" Malling of West Virginia Wesleyan, and Bob Peleaz, last of the flying Spaulnards at Alderson Broadus, were honored with all-tourney guard berths.

Peleaz Is Repeater

King and Peleaz are the only repeaters from last year's tourney team while Nida, Berry, and Schimide are the only sophomores on the elite combine.

Crowds totaling 14,500—a new record by about 500—saw the 13-game elimination scattered over seven sessions and four days. 44 seniors also bade farewell to tourney action.

Glenville's flash Hardman was not honored with a berth.

Tech Five Has Balanced Offense; Bob Hardman, Dishauzi Star For Wave

By Ronnie Rollins

Unpack your grips kiddies, the NAIB express has been derailed! Filtering Pioneers of Glenville State college blew a ten point bulge in the final quarter against Tech's Golden Bears last week in the state college tourney and wilted in the face of a blistering Tech onslaught that rushed the dazed Pioneers off their feet as Tech tripped the G-men, 66-53, to gain the right to swap shots with torrid Wesleyan in the semi-finals.

It was one of the wackiest finished ever witnessed in the history of the 13-year-old meet and it left the payees limp and the Glenville five on the short end of the count by some 13 points.

Pioneers Blow Lead

After leading by as much as 13 points in one stage of the game, the cagers of Coach Carlos Ratliff came apart at the seams and muffed a golden opportunity to advance into the semi-finals.

It was a heartbreaking loss for the favored Ratliffmen who were tabbed, along with Wesleyan's Bobcats, as the possible tourney "spoilers."

Tech jumped into a 14-11 first quarter lead as the Bears showed more finesse and balance than the Glenville outfit. "Hooks" Hardman was the only local boy who had any degree of accuracy in the open-quarter as the remaining Wavemen seem to have trouble in finding the range.

Wilton flash Dishauzi began to get into the act the second game when the White Wave court machine poured 20 markers through (Continued on page 4)

US Educators Meet In N. J.

Leading educators from all parts of the United States, including Pres. Harry B. Heflin of Glenville State college, attended the annual conference of the American Association of Colleges and Teacher Education at Atlantic City, N. J., last month and were told that the basic problem in teacher education today is to find guiding aims and goals.

G. Lester Anderson, dean of teacher education at college of the city of New York, told educators in attendance that improved personnel services including recruitment, guidance, and placement; improved social and economic status for teachers; and a curriculum geared to the demands of public education were requisite to dynamic teacher training.

Prospective young teachers were also told how to make good in the classroom.

Teachers who possess the following qualities were assured a certain measure of success in the classroom. Qualities listed included: ability to inspire students, helpful attitude, fair-mindedness, emotional stability, enthusiasm for teaching.

of the tourney after their 72-70 triumph over Morris Harvey high-flying Golden Eagles in a real pulse-pounding.

Save for the brilliant George King, the classiest ball-handler and set shot in the post season meet, the capitol city crew would have been humiliated by an even larger score.

King Is Brilliant

King clicked for 36 points and had to battle like a demon to even stay on his feet in the hotly-contested scrap. Cuffed on every corner, shouldered and shoved underneath the boards, and booed until his ear drums quivered, George still remained calm and composed much to the dismay of the full house who delighted in riding King.

No doubt George is glad his glory-laden four year career is over because never in the history of the peach basket game has such abuse and barbed words been hurled at a national scoring leader as has been flung at King these past four years.

This corner definitely harbors no love for the Golden Eagles or anything about the Charleston institution but it gripes him to see a clean sport like King get lambasted from all corners.

Still, you can't take any of the glory from the host team; the Bobcats, who were primed and waiting in ambush for the out-of-towners, the Eagles. The three game jinx proved fatal to both Glenville and M-H.

Fans Will Grip

There will be howls aplenty around this state for quite sometime concerning the ticket bottleneck that occurred at the state title showdown. When a fan shells out $1.50 for a ticket and can't even get past the main gate, brother, someone is guilty of committing a technical foul.

Frank Leahy or Bill Stern couldn't have fought their way past the ticket-takers and this scribbler had to climb a ladder up to a third story window before he could witness the shooting matches.

The entire Glenville cheering troupe was dejected and downcast following the dismal showing the G-men gave in their tourney opener. But as one Glenville fan put it in taking an optimistic outlook: "Pioneer fans shouldn't feel so bad. After all, the G-men overwhelmed by in the opening round of scuffling."

the hoop as the tempo of action increased. But Yauknich and Bonds kept Tech's hopes alive with neat floor work and deadly shooting and the two teams left the floor at intermission with Tech still out in front, 33-31.

Coach Hugh Bosley's boys collapsed in the third quarter as Glenville's freewheeling floormen out-scored the rival five, 19-9. Dishauzi's one-handed tosses from the side, Gainer's follow-ups, and Hardman's one-handed heaves from close in were the big berthas for the White Wave in this period.

But fiery Allen Nida burst forth with three field goals and a charity toss in the opening seconds of the fourth canto to spark a Tech rally that kept the nets jumping.

In less than one minute, Tech pumped in 12 points to Glenville's one, to turn a 10-point deficit into a sweet but possibly unearned victory.

One-two punch of Dishauzi and Hardman hit for 32 of the Pioneer points while Adelsberg had nine in a supporting role.

Tech's scoring was evenly divided with Yauknich getting 18, Nida 16, and Swyers 14.
