Wesley Youth Foundation Re-organized on Campus

Moore, Buckland, Brannon
Named to Offices; Rev.
Comp to Be Director

By CY ANDERSON

Reorganization of the campus Wesley Foundation has taken place with Mabel Moore, president; Frank Buckland, vice president; Barbara Brannon, secretary-treasurer. There are possibilities of its developing into an active group with full status as a representative campus organization of the national Methodist Student Movement.

President Moore is a sophomore from Parkersburg, majoring in elementary education. She is also serving as president of the Other Officers Teachers of America. Other officers in those positions mentioned will be chosen when plans are complete.

A Church Home

Basically the Wesley Foundation will consist of a church home for the students, conducted and governed in a manner similar to any other church, and supplementing the regular Sunday school and church activities of the student. The organization has been only slightly active during the past two years, but it is hoped that it may achieve a status similar to that of other Wesley Foundations in large university towns, by which it would be directly affiliated with the local Methodist church and the district Methodist Conference. Also the possibility of acquiring a Wesley Foundation student center is not too remote, provided the program receives enough student support. Such a center would serve as a place for religious, social, and business activities of the students.

In addition to the student governing officers, the group would be under the control and leadership of a board of trustees, a director, and possibly an assistant director. The board of trustees would consist of four members from the local Methodist church, and possibly others. The Rev. Eldred Comp would serve as director with possibly a full time assistant employed by the Conference as is customary in other systems. The board of trustees would work with the director and student officers in an advisory capacity.

Assistance Is Provided

Financial assistance for the program is provided by direct aid from the Conference in most cases, by the General Board of Education of the Methodist church, by pledges from the members of the organization, by church donation, and by funds raised by the members of the group itself.

The Rev. Mr. Comp stated that the Wesley Foundation is open to students of all faiths, but that when fully organized it will be in full cooperation with all other religious organizations on the campus.

Bacteriology Class Visits Laboratories

Five members of the bacteriology class went to Huntington last week, accompanied by their instructor, Dr. Max E. Ward, to visit the various hygienic laboratories located there.

The students making the trip were Edsel Robinson, Alvy Tustin, Nancy Simms, Carlyle Kee, and Bob Hoffman.

While there they visited the Fesemeyer brewery at Huntington and the State Hygienic Laboratory in Charleston. Here they watched the process of examinations of milk, water, blood, and rabies tests.

AUDITORIUM NOW HAS HEAT

Since the new boiler has arrived and has been put in operation, all programs and assemblies will be held in the auditorium, according to President Harry B. Heflin.

Ohningohows Set Jan. 17 New 'Dear Ruth' Date

Committees Appointed,
Rehearsals Are Resumed
By Play Director Skelton

January 17 is the new date for the performance of "Dear Ruth" by the Ohningohows Players, Prof. Marjorie Skelton announces.

Rehearsals, discontinued because of the faulty heating, system were resumed last Thursday night.

Prof. Skelton also appointed the following committees:

Prompter, Claudette Hefner; Stage Manager, Bob Hoffman; Assistant stage manager, Ronnie Miller; Costumes, Janet Heron; Make-up, Dottie Lanham, chairman; Bertie Turner, Hobart Childers, Christine Hyer, and Janet Heron.

Scenery, Jack McCarty, chairman, Gerald Kress, Marjorie Hardman, Ruby Cromwell, Bob Moticz, Christine Hyer, Bill Waldeck, Joyce Georgias, Hobart Childers, and Darrell Morris.

Sound, Ruby Ann Cromwell; Publicity, Darrell Morris, chairman; Marjorie Hardman, Dottie Lanham, and Bill Boram; Program, Ruby Cromwell, Claudette Hefner, and Mabel Moore; Lights, Paul Hunt, chairman, Bill Waldeck, Janet Heron, and Ronnie Miller.

Waitresses Will Hold Christmas Party; Committees Named

Kanawha dining hall waitresses will hold their annual Christmas party Saturday, Dec. 15, from 8 until 10:30 p. m. Those present will include the waitresses and their guests. Miss Naomi Albanese and Marvin Risse will act as chaperones. There will be a gift exchange and a door prize will be awarded. Entertainment will include a musical program composed by the girls quartet, games, dancing, and card games.

Committees appointed to serve at the party are:

Table committee: Janice Maxwell, chairman, Anna Brannon, and Norlene Lips; Games and program: Joanne Cole, chairman, Glenda Hinder, Peggy Shores, and Mary Elizabeth Burg; Food: Helen Brammer, chairman, Betty Lankas, Barbara Hari, and Joan Metz; Gift exchange and door prize: Elizabeth Boyce, chairman, Wanda Durham, and Leona Furr. Clean-up: Georganna McCullough, chairman.

White Rose Queen Will Reign at Dance To Be Held Friday in College Gymnasium

Mercury Musings

By BILL BORAM

Mercury sports publicity man Bill Lilly informs us that the editorial concerning cheerleader letters on our editorial page this week is the last one he will write on the subject. Thoroughly disgusted at the apparently indifferent attitude toward rewarding the cheerleaders, Bill states that if his latest appeal brings no results, he will give up.

Lilly is absolutely correct on the stand he has taken toward this problem. Even if our cheerleaders were not the outstanding team that they are, they still should be given sweaters as reward for the efforts they have put forth. However, more to their credit, their many hours of practice have produced what is probably the best group of cheerleaders ever to represent the school.

Bill has appealed to the athletic department and the student council but both groups have found it impossible to finance the sweaters. He now turns to the student body. We hope they respond in a manner which will show how much they appreciate what the cheerleaders have done for the college.

A clipping from a Penn State student publication that somehow got into President Harry B. Heflin's hands has been passed down to us. Since the article was written for the particular paper's readers and not for ours, it is especially revealing. The story concerns Dean Marion Rex Trabue's visit here and is perhaps a more true picture of (Continued on page 2)

CHOIR POLISHES 'MESSIAH' PARTS

Under the direction of Prof. Harold S. Orendorff, the college choir is now putting the finishing touches on some of the more difficult choruses of "The Messiah" which will be presented December 13, at 8:15 p. m. in the college auditorium.

"The Messiah," Handel's most successful and best-known oratorio, was composed in the year 1741 in twenty-four days, from August 22 to September 14. It was first performed at a concert given for charitable purposes at Dublin, Ireland, on April 13, 1742. Handel conducting the performance in person.

Tradition has put more emphasis on the Christmas section of "The Messiah," since the Easter part is seldom performed. However, the most popular chorus, "Hallelujah," was originally written for the conclusion of the Easter cantata.

Several invitations have been extended to the college choir to present "The Messiah" at different towns in this area, but thus far, the Grantsville engagement is the only one that has been accepted.

Education Class Chooses Voice Recording Project

Voice recording is one of the projects chosen by the Business Education 207 class.

Members of the class recorded their voices on the tape recorder at the meeting of the class last Tuesday night.

Guest speaker in correlation with the emphasis on good speaking voices was Prof. Marjorie Skelton, speech instructor.

Choice of Queen to Carry Out Frat Theme Is Secret;
Cool to Furnish Hop Music

By CLAUDETTE HEFNER

Glenville State's first Sigma Tau Gamma sponsored White Rose formal will be held Friday night in the old college gym from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m.

A "White Rose Queen" to reign at the dance is being elected this week. Candidates for the title, selected by the fraternity, are Dottie Lanham, Joan Metz, Mazie Hughes, Faith Bingham, Ruth James, Georganna McCullough, Doris Perkins, and Jean Reed.

One of these candidates will be elected by the student body in an election held the first of this week. The winner will be the "White Rose Queen" to reign at the dance.

Announcement of the election results will not be revealed until the dance. Sigma Tau President William Boram will announce the "White Rose Queen" and she will receive her crown at ceremonies at the dance.

Brent Cool's Collegians will provide the music for the dance. Along with other danceable tunes the orchestra will play Christmas music.

The gym will be decorated in keeping with the themes of the dance—the white roses and Christmas.

Price of tickets are $1.50. Tickets may be obtained from any Sigma Tau.

Guests Will Inspect Rooms at Kanawha Open House Tonight

The annual Christmas dinner will be held in Kanawha dining hall Dec. 18, at 5:30.

Guests for the evening will include Dr. and Mrs. Heflin, Dean of Men and Mrs. G. Gordon Kingsley, Prof. Lloyd Jones, Prof. and Mrs. Stanley Hall, Prof. and Mrs. E.B. Elder, Mrs. Teresa Strothers, Mrs. Charles Lilly, Miss Alma Arbuckle, Mr. and Mrs. Chaddock, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Beal, Mrs. Olive Smyth, Prof. Julia Nutter, Prof. Marjorie Skelton, Prof. Bertha Olsen, Prof. Goldie James, Prof. Marvin Newman, and Mr. Clarence Baumgardner.

Menu for the candlelight dinner will include frosty fruit appetizer, roast turkey, savory dressing, mashed potatoes, giblet gravy, frozen peas, cranberry sauce, relish plate, hot rolls, cherry preserves, fruit cake, whipped cream, and coffee.

Tables will be decorated in typical Christmas fashion with favors at individual plates which are to be prepared by the waitresses. The art department and the home economics club are to provide the decorations.

Master of ceremonies will be Donald Deal; and entertainment will be furnished by the Trojanettes. There will also be group singing.

Commerce Dept. Gets Electric Typewriter

A movie "Electric Typing Time" was shown to the various commerce classes last week in correlation with the new IBM electric typewriter recently received.

The movie featured Miss Stella Pajunas, world professional typing champion. Miss Pajunas typed 140 words a minute for an hour to earn her championship. In the movie Miss Pajunas typed 185 words a minute on the IBM electric typewriter.

The movie also demonstrated the difference between manual and electric typewriters.

Purchased from the International Business Machines company, the typewriter is the first electric one to be received by the department.

Trabue Reports on Week's Study

Dean Praises College for Efficient Operation

By CY ANDERSON

After completing a week's evaluation study of the Glenville State college school program, Dean Marion Rex Trabue of the Pennsylvania State college stated, "The greatest contribution you have made to my professional experience is a vivid demonstration of the fact that a college does not have to be large, wealthy, and located in a city in order to be efficient. Strong financial backing would make it easier to provide young people with a good education, but you are demonstrating that such an education can be provided in a rural environment with very meager funds."

During the week which Dr. Trabue spent on the campus he observed routine activities in classroom lectures and laboratory, periods, visited the laboratory training school for teachers, and met with faculty and student groups. In a report to the President and faculty he has recorded his impressions, praises, and suggestions.

Accounts for Success

In accounting for the success of Glenville State college as an education institution, Dean Trabue said, "Your success is due, I believe, to the professional competence of your faculty and to their splendid teamwork. I have never visited a college in which everyone seemed to have as clear a concept of the task to be done and as much determination to cooperate in doing that task well. This devotion and single-mindedness of purpose is undoubtedly due in large part to the sincerity and professional leadership of your president. You are to be congratulated on having a leader in whom you can believe..." He went on to say, "In my judgment you have been very wise in limiting your objectives to those which appear to serve the people of central West Virginia most effectively. No institution can be 'all things to all people.'"

Inexpensive Fees

In the evaluation Dr. Trabue expressed mild amazement at the inexpensive fees for students. "The low-cost of students of the opportunities you are providing them is remarkable. You can justly be proud of the reputation you have earned for economical operation. I do not know of any college in America which provides its students with (Continued on page 2)

No 'One-Way' Attitude

Discussions by other West Virginia colleges concerning their poor town-school relations emphasize again our good fortune in being located in a town where co-operation and friendly relations with the school are the watchword.

Reports of town-school conflicts in other state colleges are circulated frequently. Poor cooperation and unfriendly attitudes by townspeople are problems that many colleges have to face.

It is a fact that many towns, including Glenville, owe practically their very existence to the college located there. In some cases, the town is as useful to the school as the school is to the town. However, in a town like Glenville, removal of the college would mean sudden death.

Because of the important part a college plays in a town such as Glenville, it is only just and decent that the community's residents go "all out" in cooperating with the college students and personnel. The townspeople of Glenville have always fulfilled their obligation to the school in a gratifying manner. Of course, there have been isolated cases of attempts to fleece unsuspecting students and of ill feelings by townspeople who seemed to forget the debt they owed the college, but these cases have been in frequent.

We have found that town-school relations at Glenville State are all that can be expected from any community. We also find that it becomes increasingly evident how fortunate we are at the college are that no "one way" attitude prevails among our hosts—the residents of the city of Glenville.—WB.

Functionless Organizations

From West Virginia university's student newspaper, The Daily Athenaeum, we have found both sides of a very controversial subject discussed. The viewpoint that fraternities are functionless was presented first in an editorial; in a later issue, an opposite viewpoint was put forth when a letter from a WVU political science professor was published.

The first editorial maintained that fraternities were functionless because they accept only members who already possessed the social graces, refusing membership to men who might benefit from fraternity life. The writer ends the editorial by remarking, "And the functionless organizations find it easier and easier to accomplish less and less."

Fraternities were defended in a later issue when a letter was printed which argued that the reason many less-polished individuals were refused membership was because an organization would lose effectiveness if too many were voted in. The writer of the letter then lists twelve reasons why fraternities are not functionless.

It is true that the three Glenville State Fraternities operate differently from those at the university, but the fact remains that they are still fraternities. Maybe we had better take a little look at our organizations—it's just as easy to become functionless in Glenville as it is in Morgantown.—WB.

Some Other Source

Now fully informed from two sources—the G-club and the Student Council—why neither organization can produce school sweaters for the cheerleaders (because of lack of money), it will be necessary to revert to other means in order to carry the project to a complete and successful ending.

There are many ways in which this could be done. One method which would work in raising money for the sweaters would be to put on a show for the student body. Everyone who desires to perform for this worthy cause would be eligible, and their services would be welcomed and appreciated.

Could be that we could employ (free of charge) the rhythmic, harmonizing, and talented foursome (D. & J. Arbogast, Mason, and Dorrill; the "Chord Busters") to give forth with a batch of their favorites.

The rest of the talent show troupe, which consisted of innumerable potential great actors and singers, could contribute toward making the show a success. Then there is always that audience group who have what it takes to entertain others but won't step out and let the world know it.

An admission price of 25c for students, 35c for adults, could be charged. Another angle would be to collect money through donations at the gate.

This method of raising funds is one of many. Students interested in this drive are requested to see Bill Lilly, sports publicity agent of the Mercury.

Perhaps you have better ideas about how the funds can be raised. If so, state them. We have to raise money some way or other—just as long as it is obtained through legitimate channels.

But the main factor, which will make the drive a success, is student support. In other words: "If YOU will work with US, then WE will be able to AFFORD school sweaters for THEM!"—BL.

Dean Trabue's opinion that his report to us. The story says, in part: "The most impressive thing about the school, he says now, is the quality of the instruction. He feels that the faculty is distinguished and gives much consideration to the welfare of the students."

"Dean Trabue believes that one reason for Glenville's efficient education program is that they do not attempt to offer the curricula of a larger school."

Exit Signs Are Placed In Campus Buildings

President Harry B. Heflin reports that, complying with improvements suggested by the state fire marshal, new exit signs have been placed in dormitory and class buildings and all campus fire extinguishers have been refilled.

There are 57 fire extinguishers located on campus with more to be added, according to President Heflin.

We Barrymores, as told to Cameron Shipp by Lionel Barrymore, 314p., il., $3.50, Appleton.

Although this is Lionel Barrymore's autobiography, it contains a great deal of information about the Drew-Barrymore clan. It is written by Cameron Shipp in the sparkling conversational manner in which Mr. Barrymore told his life story.

Throughout the book you see the same friendly, humanistic appeal of the subject. He is seen as no hero, but just a nice person to meet. It is not merely a book of history or facts but it is full of amusing incidents, stories, and comical tales about family legends.

Lionel reveals much of the struggle of a career in the theater. It is the same anywhere, even if all of your family have made names for themselves. The demand of the theater was greater for Lionel for this reason. He was obsessed with the idea that he wanted to escape from the theater even from early youth. He turned to painting and music, yet there was something which kept him from dissolving relationship with acting. His brother, Jack, felt much the same way, and he turned to art for inspiration. Ethel, the girl of the family, conquered the stage at an early age.

Lionel disliked the critics of the early twentieth century because they were very harsh and many of their criticisms were without justice. They were always saying the theater was on its last feeble legs. Mr. Barrymore looks back on those words with amusement.

The early twenties saw the end of Lionel's work on the New York stage and the beginning of twenty-five years in the motion picture and radio business. It was a change which he says he has never regretted. In 1936 an accident resulting in a broken hip altered much of the life and acting of Mr. Barrymore.

In Mr. Barrymore's ideas a bit of pessimism and cynicism is revealed, but in other cases he appears to be a very optimistic person who makes jokes of every thing. You will laugh with him and also be sympathetic as you share his unhappy experiences. This jaunty style sketch book of the great Barrymores will both entertain and inform you. It might well be called Lionel Barrymore's best production.

ACROSS THE TABLE

By HARDWAY AND GREEN

As we were leafing through sheets copy paper today on which to write the little things that have been left behind as history at GSC, we found a little note addressed to the gossip columnist. This little note read: "Chris Heater has been seen with a certain Montgomery girl." That was all.

Hobart Prunty and that cute little blonde, Mary Jones, are keeping steady company now. This young fella spends more time in front of Verona Mapel hall than he does with his social studies.

Red (just call me lover) Mason has been giving the big rush to Helen Jackson. Come on, kid, be brave.

Taylor Phillips has been keeping watch over Don Arbogast lately. "No more girls for my roomie", Taylor says.

Elwood Sites has finally decided to give some of the girls here a break. The first lucky one was Mary Francis Summerville, a blonde Parkersburg product.

There has been a date bureau established for the White Rose Formal. If anyone is interested, see Dorie James.

Joe and Don Arbogast and Bill Waldeck have found interests in the local high school and Camden Flats. Don Merriman seems to have lost interest in the down town girls. It is time he turned his attentions to some of the girls in the dorm. Give us a break, Don!

When someone suggested giving recognition to Harvey Boggs, Joanne Melrose literally jumped and screamed. "He is blonde, from Spencer, and is awfully bashful." Enough said!

Phyllis Sponaugle seems to be having trouble deciding between Slate and Miller. Miller seems to be running ahead, however. We saw him perched on Sponaugle's knee getting a snapshot taken Sunday afternoon.

Jazzie and Ruby Cromwell can be seen sitting in the lounge of VMH almost every evening. Is it short-hand these two are studying?

Ann Ann seems to have really gone for an out-of-town boy. Do you remember Linn, W. Va., Ann?

Some of the local high school girls are really giving the works to Stan Canfield, that guy from Webster Springs. It seems as though the college girls don't have a chance around here anymore with the younger, more lighthearted competition.

wholesome food, comfortable living quarters, and excellent instruction at a cost lower than you charge. It would be a mistake, however, to sacrifice the quality of your services in order to keep costs at the present low level. It would be wrong to overwork the members of your staff or to lower the quality of your services to hold your present low fees. Quality is more precious in public education than low cost."

In any evaluation not only does one expect praise for accomplishments, but also a summation of the weaknesses which need to be remedied. In the opinion of Dr. Trabue, "The greatest weakness of your institution, in my judgment, is the lack of a laboratory school for your teacher-education programs. Students who are preparing to become teachers need full opportunities to observe boys and girls growing and developing in modern well-equipped school classrooms and laboratories. The state should provide its prospective teachers, in connection with every college course in a teacher-education program, with constant opportunities to observe master teachers at work and to participate in the guidance of children's activities. The county public school on the edge of your campus does not provide such opportunities and cannot be expected to provide them under the present administrative organization."

One Training School

"In a community as small as Glenville it would be impossible and undesirable to have both a public school and a college laboratory school. In order to provide a variety of subject matter and the richness of other educational activities needed by the children of the community, one good school should be provided and as many people as possible should be in attendance."

"My recommendation, based upon long study of this problem in other college communities and a few days in Glenville, would be that the citizens of Glenville and Gilmer county do their utmost to build, equip, and staff the best public school possible on the edge of the college campus. The boys and girls of Gilmer county would thus receive the benefit of a much better school than the school board alone could pay for, while the quality of the teacher education provided by the state at Glenville State college would be greatly improved without a large increase in the state appropriations."

In concluding the report Dean Trabue said, "The people with whom I visited in Glenville appeared to be sincerely interested in better professional education of teachers and better public schools for the children living in Gilmer county. I have high hope, therefore, for the ultimate success of a joint effort by the county board of education and the state board of education to improve the opportunities of the children in the Glenville Public School and the professional development of teachers for the state of West Virginia."

BECKLEY SHAVES PIONEERS; PIONEERS DEFEAT CONCORD

Adelsberg, Johnson, And Bonnett Star for Glenville; Foul Shots Decide Winner

By BILL LILLY
The Glenville State Pioneers suffered their first defeat in their initial game of the 1951-52 basketball season at the hands of the Beckley College Blue Hawks by the one point margin of 64-63.

Led by the spectacular defensive floor work of Sid Adelsberg and the consistent point gathering of Cecil Johnson, the Pioneers jumped off to an early first quarter lead by scoring 26 points to Beckley's 16. But from that point on, Beckley proceeded to close the gap. The third quarter proved to be the lethal one so far as the Pioneers were concerned. Beckley outscored them 19-9 to take a 49-47 lead which they never relinquished.

Other than Adelsberg and Johnson, Dick Barrett starred for the losing Pioneers. Though racking up only 6 points, Barrett put in an outstanding floor game for Glenville.

Tennant Stars; Scores 20

In the second game of the southern excursion, the Pioneers trounced the Concord Mountain Lions 68-56 the night following the Beckley tussle at Athens, W. Va.

Led by the consistent one-hand push shots by Jack Tennant, Glenville forged quickly ahead at the start of the game and led Concord to the finish.

Sid Adelsberg and Ronnie Mills also turned in sterling performances for the Pioneers. Adelsberg garnered 13 while Mills dropped 9 through the visiting Pioneers hoop.

The Pioneers now hold an even-stein conference record—winning one and losing one. Tomorrow, the Glenville hoopsters are host to the rugged Morris Harvey Golden Eagles.

Men's Volleyball Tournament Field Is Narrowed to Six

By BOB BOGGS

The field of ten competitors has now been narrowed to six surviving squads as the double elimination men's volleyball tourney goes into the semi-finals. All remaining teams saw action Thursday, December 6.

In the first round at 4:15 p. m. Thursday Paul Hunts' small "win-hearts" team met the victor of the Cogar-Calhouners scramble. Hunts' team was one of the smallest in the tournament. However, their spirit to win and aggressiveness aided them. Robinson's "Rockets" met the winner of Hunt-Cogar clash in the second match at 6:30. The Rockets displayed beautiful teamwork in gaining the semi-finals.

The "Humbugs," piloted by Smilin' Bill Hanlin, was the favored entry. Along with height and experience which they use in displaying a well balanced attack on their opponents, they have the will-to-win.

Tuesday, December 11, the survivors of the December 6 contests met at 4:15 p. m. for the finals on the left side of the racket. The grand finals were played at 6:30 of the same date.

The man who occupies a first string berth on the Pioneer basketball team is in a precarious position. That is, he may not hold that position for long because too many GSC basketball players are of equal ability. At present, the first team consists of Barrett and Adelsberg at the guard posts; Tennant and Gandee at forwards; and Cecil Johnson hanging on, by the "skin-of-his-teeth" in the center slot.

By the end of the first December lap in the schedule, which consists of seven games—three away and four at home Coach Michael Josephs should be able to determine the men he will use during the remainder of the season.

More than likely, the first ten members of the squad will see plenty of action throughout the year. Such boys as Ronnie Mills,

PIONEERS WILL OPEN HOME SEASON WITH M-H TOMORROW

1st Home Tilt With Strong Opponent, Next Game With Last Year's Tourney Foe

By Bill Lilly

Short of height, experience, and all-around finesse, the Glenville State college basketball team will have ripped the lid off the 1951-52 cage season when they trek south to do combat with the Beckley College Blue Hawks and the Concord Mountain Lions on successive nights, Dec. 7 and Dec. 8.

Tomorrow, the Pioneers will be back in their home territory again when they face the strong Morris Harvey Golden Eagle five. If everything goes as planned, the two teams will meet in the new Health and Physical Education building for the first conference game ever to be played there.

The Pioneers are undoubtedly the underdogs in this classic tussle. Morris Harvey having displayed their power earlier this year by trouncing a strong Beckley Blue Hawk quintet 88-53.

Monday, Dec. 17, the Pioneers will play host to Coach Bob Kent's Beckley College Blue Hawks. This game should be of special interest to Pioneer fans, since these two teams met in the West Virginia State Intercollegiate Basketball tournament finals last year at Buckhannon.

Back for the Beckleyans will be three of the first five men who started in the final game against Glenville. These men are: Bob Brinkley, Bob Mickis, and Pete Bezzini, high ranking scorer in the conference last year.

Tech Will be Entertained
In the last game before the Christmas holidays, Glenville will entertain West Virginia Tech at

Couples Undeclared In WAA B'ton Play; Shores, Dobbins Tie

Girls participating in WAA are playing badminton games each Monday and Wednesday night.

On the afternoon of Dec. 5 three couples of the twenty-eight paired in the tournament remaining undefeated. These girls are Dottie Lanham, Joan Wilson; Louise Smith, Wanema Davidson; Betty Sims and Christine Hyer.

The ping pong tournament is practically completed, Peggy Lynn Shores and Betty Dobbins will play for the championship.

Spencer, Dec. 19. One of the most powerful teams in the state, West Virginia Tech's Golden Bears will be firing at the hoop with vengeance since "darkhorse" Glenville State knocked them out of state championship laurels last year in their semi-final game at Buckhannon.

Tech, a favorite to take the state intercollegiate tournament at Buckhannon last year instead of the victorious Pioneers, have practically every man on the squad back from last year. Three of their first team members—Al Nida, Ed Solomon, and George Swyres—were on the 1950-51 all-conference team.

All in all, it looks like a gloomy pre-Christmas holiday season is in store for the Pioneer basketekers. But basketball being the game it is, it is difficult to draw conclusions this early in the season. However, if the Pioneers can set and maintain a pace of steady improvement comparable to that of the 1951 GSC football team, they will be tough.

Home Ec Club Holds Business Meet; Film Will Be Shown

The home economics club held its business meeting Dec. 4, in room 100, Science hall.

The club has received letters from various silver companies throughout the state, stating that their representatives have considered coming to Glenville and giving various demonstrations on the use of silver for the benefit of the home economics club.

The club has ordered a film, "This Is Nylon", which will be shown sometime in January at the social meeting. This film will discuss the consumer's viewpoint and the uses of nylon.

A table decoration and refreshment committee was appointed at this meeting to serve at the club party, which will be held Dec. 11. This committee includes Marilyn Black, chairman, Margaret Westfall, Janet Peters, and Jolene Cole.

At the latter part of the meeting the members worked on decorations which will be used in the dining hall preceding Christmas holidays.

five from the second. By mid-season, one or two of these boys are most likely to be on the first team.

The football team took it on themselves to be real generous the other day. Every player on the squad chipped in a quarter and bought GSC's head cheerleader, Charles "Chick" Zakarian, a shirt.

Says Zakarian: "Man, I didn't know what was coming off! Here Hanlin comes along and says to me 'Come on over to the room, Chick. I got something for you.' 'Got something for me, I said to myself. Speaking to him, I asked, 'What've you got for me?'"

"C'mon," he said. So, I follow him. Over in the room, he handed me this package, apologizing because it wasn't wrapped properly. ?

"Open it," he said.

"So, I lifted the lid off the box. There it was a new white shirt!"

"It's a gift from the football players, Chick," said Hanlin.

"Man, I didn't know what to say. I guess the most I could say would be to thank them for giving me the shirt. I appreciate it..."

Rumor has it that Ed "Dike" Janiszewski, Glenville State's little Polish immigrant, has been roaming around the campus and notifying his Bohemian Storm Troopers that the intramural basketball season is fast approaching and that every man should look to himself to be in fine physical shape for the first game.

The Bohemians are known the world over for their ability to compete against and defeat any team that ever walked on the hardwoods. An International team, the Bohemians are composed of a conglomeration of nationalities ranging from "Aztec" Charlie Hoffman to Alex "The Hungarian" Jokey.

Another stalwart of the Bohemians is huge Wayne Cunningham, "the Flying Dutchman," originally a native of Amsterdam, Holland.

Such familiar names as "Boomerang" Garster, the Australian pigmy; "Blizzard" Bill Ice from Eskimo Island, Iceland; and Frank "Diamond" Buck from South Africa are also included on the Bohemian Roster.

The Bohemians claim that the greatest basketball player to be added to their squad was born and raised here in this state of West Virginia. Matching his great ability with the other Bohemians, Lloyd Garfield "Bear" Jordan from Richwood contributes his share toward making the Bohemians an unconquerable aggregation.

Said "Aztec" Charlie Hoffman, who practiced his basketball near the sacrificial wells of the Yukatan: "We're good because our abilities have been unspoiled by inefficient coaching."
