New Building to Be Dedicated Tomorrow College To Celebrate 80th Anniversary

SCHOOL HAS GROWN RAPIDLY SINCE ORIGIN

80th Anniversary Will Be Celebrated in Combined
Dedication Ceremonies

Glenville State college's 80th anniversary will be celebrated tomorrow in a combined ceremony with the dedication of the new Health and Physical Education building.

Glenville State college had its beginning when the West Virginia legislature established the school as a branch of the State Normal School at Marshall college, Huntington, Feb. 19, 1872. The Glenville Branch Normal School received her first pupils Jan. 17, 1873, with T. M. Marshall as Acting Principal.

Since young Marshall, then only 21 years old, was considered not mature enough to fulfill the duties of principal the Honorable Louis Bennett was appointed the school's first principal in June, 1873. However, it was through Mr. Marshall's efforts that the school was so quickly organized in 1875, he was named the second principal, serving for six years.

Athletics Started in 1918

Athletics were first begun at Glenville in 1908 when Arthur K. Brake organized a football team. The following year Robert L. Cole led the first basketball and track teams. The highlights of that first basketball season came when the team played their first away game at Weston.

Mercury Musings

By BILL BORAM

In his announcement concerning the latest donation toward the cheerleader sweaters fund, we notice that head cheerleader "Chick" Zakarian makes no suggestion as to where the remaining eight dollars is to come. We suspect the problem will be laid at the student council's feet, however. At any rate, it shouldn't be too long before the full amount will be raised and the cheerleaders will at last have their sweaters. As "Chick" said, if the worst comes to the worst, they can chip in and pay the remainder themselves, but that hardly seems fair. It seems unfair enough for them to have to go to the lengths they already have to get the awards they have more than earned. Make no mistake about it: the cheerleaders have earned their sweaters just as much as any man on the football or basketball team! They deserve their sweaters and we bet it won't be long until they are wearing them!

President Harry B. Heflin will be in Wheeling Feb. 28 and 29 attending a board meeting of the State Parent Teachers Association. President Heflin is serving as college coordinator this year.

Bernard Baruch was quoted in the Reader's Digest as having said "Most anyone will admit that he couldn't conduct a symphony, perform an appendectomy, or even run an automobile factory—but rarely do we find a man who doesn't think he can sing tenor or handle a big government job."

School Saddened by Tragic Death of Mally Ann Mackey

Mally Ann Mackey, 19-year-old Glenville State sophomore, died at 6:30 A. M., February 20 at her home in Glenville. Final rites for the deceased were held Feb. 22 at 1 P. M. at the Baptist Church in Glenville with the Rev. Cornelius De Block officiating.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mackey and her sister Edwina of Glenville, maternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Hoskins of West Union, paternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mackey of Buchanan, and the maternal great-grandfather S. I. Hoskinson of West Union.

Miss Mackey was born June 23, 1932 at West Union and her family moved to Glenville when she was five years old. She attended elementary and high school in Glenville and was salutatorian of her high school graduating class. She entered Glenville State college in the fall of 1950, where she maintained a high scholastic average, was a member of the Music Educators National Conference, college band, college chorus, Women's Athletic Association, and Xi Beta Tau sorority. She also was a member of the Glenville Baptist church and was a former girl scout.

The deceased was buried in the Masonic Cemetery in West Union.

FIRST SPEECH TAUGHT IN 1925

Ohningohow Organized
In 1926 as Campus Club

Speech Instruction was first taught in Glenville State college in 1925-26. This course was under the instruction of Miss Margaret Dobson, (now Mrs. Margaret Maroney.) The class was listed as Expression, and the courses offered in this field were: Expression I, Basic Principles of Expressive Reading; Expression II—Public Speaking and Debate; Expression III—Study of Bodily Expression and Dramatics. Expression IV—Story Telling and Childrens Plays and Pageantry; Expression V—Course in Interpretation.

In 1933-34 the course in Expression was changed to Speech.

Prior to 1925 there were Literary societies which gave the students an active form of public speaking. The first mention of these Literary societies was found in the College catalogue for the year of 1881-82, under the name

Nash to Deliver Address

Dr. Jay B. Nash, who will deliver the principal dedication address tomorrow is chairman of the department of physical education, health and recreation at New York University's School of Education, has been a member of the faculty of the University since 1926, and head of the department since 1930.

Born in Ohio, Dr. Nash was graduated from Oberlin college. He studied at the University of California and Columbia university, and received the degree of doctor of philosophy from New York university in 1929. In 1933, Springfield college conferred upon him the honorary degree of master of science.

Successfully teacher, superintendent of recreation, Oakland, California (1919-1926), Dr. Nash was director of physical education for the state of California for two years during this period. He then became an associate professor at New York university, rising to a full professorship in 1928, and chairman of the department two years later.

An executive of many national health, recreation and education organizations, Dr. Nash has been president of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation; chairman of the department of school health and physical education, National Education

Unlimited Facilities

Glenville college can well be proud of its new half-million dollar Health and Physical Education building—a modern, well built structure that will provide excellent service and training for its students.

Featuring the newest, most complete advances in every design, the new building is one of the state's finest structures of its kind. Provided for in the building is a completely furnished infirmary with two wards containing comfortable hospital beds. Included with the infirmary are the nurses quarters and provisions are made so that all students confined in the infirmary can be fed by the nurse with special diets prepared entirely by her.

The new building also includes much-needed class room and office space. Physical education classes that formerly had to meet in the over-crowded Science hall now can meet in new well-equipped rooms in this modern structure. Provisions have also been made whereby all physical education instructors have offices in the building near the facilities of their field of instruction.

The large, modern basketball court which replaces the antiquated floor that was used in the past is another important service offered by the new Health-Physical Education building. The floor is 50 by 90 in size with plenty of space around the court to prevent accidents. Seating 1950 people when filled to capacity, the basketball court is one of the finest parts of the building.

Other outstanding features of the newly-completed structure included a large swimming pool, dressing rooms equipped with all of the newest in advanced facilities, hand-ball courts, and physical correction rooms.

The construction of the newest campus building is an important step forward for the school. With its unlimited facilities, the building will in the future be able to offer services never dreamed of to its student body. Unlimited opportunities are now within the reach of anyone attending Glenville State college.—WAB.

Credit to Her Efforts

The full-time operation of an infirmary is another of the God-sends that the opening of the new Health and Physical Education building has brought to the Glenville State campus. And the efficient manner in which the new infirmary has been run is a credit to the efforts of the school nurse, Mrs. Teresa Strother.

Running such a place as our infirmary would be a full-time job even if it were a nurse's only duty. But the efficient controlling of the infirmary, in addition to the handling of other duties, can be done only by a person who has a genuine interest and a desire for the benefit of others.

Students who have been confined to the infirmary state that they receive the best possible care. Through the efforts of Mrs. Strother, correct medicinal care plus the best of food (cooked entirely by her) are provided for ailing students.

It is certain that evidences of the nurse's work will be seen when a happier, healthier student results from her unselfish care.—WAB.

tween two winners in lower bracket. Thursday—8 p. m., championship game.

The drawings were conducted Sunday in Buckhannon at a meeting of coaches with Tournament Chairman C. B. Ross, athletic director at West Virginia Wesleyan presiding.

At the time of the drawings, Tech held first place in the conference standing with Morris Harvey and West Liberty tied for second, D. and E. was fourth, Alderson-Broadus was fifth and Wesleyan was sixth.

Named to serve as tournament officials were Walter Hell, of Wheeling; Mickey McDade, of Charleston; Hank Mazza, of Clarksburg, Van Robay, of Cumberland.

School Has Grown

Enrollment during those early years was always small but the students came from twelve or fourteen of the state's then forty-four counties. In the school year 1951-52, 71 persons attended the school of which 32 were women, 37 men, and 2 music pupils, both women.

When Dr. Harry B. Hedlin was inaugurated as president on Jan. 15, 1948, he was vested with the duties as the sixteenth president since the Hon. Louis Bennett was appointed

In the short time since his appointment, several important changes have taken place.

College Named Member

In April, 1949, the college was named as a member of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, an organization which has fewer than 200 members. Other associations to which the school belongs are the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education and American Council on Education.

The dedication of the new Health and Physical Education building being conducted with the celebration of the school's anniversary marks another step forward for the school that has grown steadily since that group of foresighted citizens first purchased the land and buildings for the institution.

ACROSS the TABLE

By GENELDA HARDWAY

Here it is another week, another day, and more news about the people on the campus of GSC. Alice Ann Griffith is flashing her smile on the eligible males. Bobb Boggs and Jim Hardman have been included as a few of the lucky people.

We take this opportunity to welcome Karen "Big Red" Raines back to the campus with her sister Kitty.

Betty Lankas and Bill Boram may soon be classified as one of the campus' "woosome twosomes". At the local cinema palace Sunday night Bob Hoffman and Jean Hartmann seemed to have more things in common than Martin and Lewis movies.

Flash! Girls, have you seen Pete Kostyk? He is from Pennsylvania, has brown eyes and black hair, and a most engaging smile. We hear from the grapevine that Marge Hardman and Janet "Jitterbug" Heron are going to come to blows.

The local ladies should turn on the charm with the dance a few days away. Betty Sims has an entry bid for Don Merriman. Don Arbogast is going to be dragged by Mary Burg. Remember to smile, boys, smile.

Joan Nash, a graduate of Glenville State college with the class of 1951, returned to the campus last week-end to see some old friends including the Arbogast boys.

The girls of the campus are stealing the white buck shoes from the males. Mable Moore, Joan Wilson, and Dottie Lanham are a few of the lucky gals possessing them.

Ray Conrad has been taken to the hospital at Spencer again. He has now developed mumps. Hurry up and get well, Ray. Dorrie is missing you.

Juanita Green and Jim Mullens have been seen keeping constant company on the campus. Jim is the new fellow from Gassaway. Flashbacks: Written this day one year ago.

Quote: Julia Stalnaker and Bill Surber have developed an unlimited amount of conversational interests. As steady as ever are Jimmy Ball and Martha Gainer.

Bill Boram wishes Claudette Hefner friends would wind their own business.

Ann Martin received only one letter from Jack Rush today. Karen Raines has swept Joe Ross off his feet.

Ruby Ann Cromwell and Brent Cool are the campus favorite people. Jane Myers and Charlie Dodrill are a new twosome.

Casualties of the week are a skinned nose received by Bernard Jolly as a result of a boxing match with Frank Stanovich, and two cracked ribs received by June Boggs—same cause, different opponent.

My, how things have changed.

Kappa Chi's Hold Formal Initiation

Kappa Chi Kappa's held their formal initiation last Sunday from 2 to 4 o'clock in the Lewis Bennett lounge following the informal initiation which took place from February 18-22. Kappa Chi's pledges were recognized on the campus by their white gloves, blue and gray ribbons, umbrellas, and overnight cases.

The pledges entertained their big sisters by a program at their regular Wednesday night meeting. All pledges took a test February 18 on the Greek alphabet which they had to learn. President JoAnn McNeemar stated that the results were good.

FUND NEARS GOAL

Head Cheerleader Charles "Chick" Zakarian announces that, because of a generous gift from the G-Club, the fund established for the purpose of purchasing cheerleader sweaters is now almost complete. Zakarian announced the receipt of a check for $12 from the G-Club and expressed his appreciation for the gift. As to where the remaining amount was to be obtained "Chick" had only this to say, "We need eight dollars more."

Prof. Bell Reports Filmstrips Available For Class Showings

A number of filmstrips are available to the faculty for showing in their respective classes reports Prof. Bessie Boyd Bell.

The films which are kept in the Social Science office were received from The New York Times and Life Magazine.

A large assortment of subjects are used for the filmstrips and prove useful to the professors in their classes. The films are on history, English, art and chemistry.

Color filmstrips that are included in the college's film library are Heritage of the Maya, The Atom, The Middle Ages, Giotto's Life of Christ, Emerson's New England, France in the 18th Century, Michelangelo, The Sistine Chapel, American Revolution, 18th Century England, and Renaissance Venice.

Black and white films that have been received from Life include The New Indonesia, South Africa and Its Problems, The Connecticut River, The Navajos, Israel, and Korea.

The New York Times filmstrips, which are black and white, include How Strong is Russia, To Promote Better Life, Report on the News, Germany Divided, and Red Tides in the Orient.

Widely Diversified Fields Of Study in Social Science Dept. Offer 141 Hours

The social science department has long been one of the leading departments of this college. Mention of the history department is made in the Glenville Normal School bulletin of September, 1875.

The social science department covers a widely diversified field of study. The courses offered by this department are: economics, geography, history, political science, social science, and sociology. This is a total of 51 courses with a total of 141 hours, making it the largest department in the college in this respect.

Since many of the courses are required for teacher's certificates and A. B. degrees, it is a most important department. The professors active in this department at the present are Dean Edwin P. Adkins, Dr. Byron Fleck, Dr. James Jones, Prof. Bessie Bell and Prof. Stanley A. Hall.

Scholarship Awards To Be Given Here

O. T. Law of Clarksburg, and the Kanawha Union bank of Glenville have announced scholarship awards to Glenville State college for the 1952-53 school year.

The O. T. Law scholarship will award tuition payments for one year to a graduate of Troy High school. The Kanawha Union bank will award tuition scholarships to one graduate of each Gilmer county high school.

HOLY ROLLER COURT

At the Court meeting last week Ronnie Mills gave the financial report after which plans were begun for the Court dance to be held in the spring. Judge Jack Lilly stated, "This is going to be the biggest and best dance ever sponsored at Glenville State college."

Earl Spencer has been made an active member of the Court since his return. He was an active member before leaving school to join the Air Force.

Plans are now under way for the annual "fun night" to be sponsored by the Court which will be held sometime in the March. The main attraction will be a basketball game between the Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity and the Court. Preliminary attractions have not been selected as yet.

The Court is considering moving its place of meeting to Verona Mapel hall because most of the members are there when the meeting is supposed to begin.

KAPPA SIGMA KAPPA

Chaplain Harold Butcher gave a scripture reading at last week's meeting, after which General Chairman Don McCartney gave a report on the square dance which was held in the old gym last Friday night.

Fraternity "T-Shirts" were distributed by Secretary Frank Stanovich. These shirts are white with the fraternity coat-of-arms in blue felt.

Donald Weaver has been elected pledge master for the remainder to the present pledge period. The pledges entertained old members at the meeting last week.

SIGMA TAU GAMMA

The Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity voted to send a pair of flowers for the funeral of their sorority sister, Mally Ann Mackey.

Informal initiation was completed by the seven Sigma Tau pledges last Friday. Formal initiation will be held sometime during the next two weeks.

Pledges completing the initiation are: Robert Childers, James Scott, Allen Hodges, Billy Ray Phelps, Joseph Arbogast, Donald Arbogast, and Clarence Maze, Jr.

FFA Representative To Attend Meeting

A representative of the college Future Teachers of America club is to be selected to represent the local chapter at a conference which will be held March 7, 8, and 9 at Jacksons Mills. This conference will be held to discuss a state constitution for the FTA.

The regular meeting of the FTA was held Thursday, Feb. 21.

Library Was Originally In Administration Building

Robert F. Kidd Building First Opened Its Doors To Students April, 1931

By BERNARD POLLEY
The first library of the Glenville State Normal School was located in the Administration building. It was inadequately quartered and there were no regular hours. Illumination was provided by three windows and a gas chandelier. Huge oak bookcases, ornamented with deer antlers, provided shelving space. The floor was carpeted and there were one or two small tables around which four chairs could be placed. Because of limited amount of working space, it is probable that when a student found the book he desired, he took it to the second floor study hall to read.
The library moved to new quarters in 1913 when the new addition to the Administration building was constructed. The "spacious" room, about twenty-eight by thirty feet, seemed large in comparison with the cramped conditions of the old library. In addition, a stockroom was provided. The furniture consisted of the bookcases from the old location and five long oak tables. At least thirty students could be then accommodated. There was more natural light than had been before and a gas stove furnished heat, although it was not sufficient. In the new room the library was centrally located, but the student body quickly outgrew the capacity of the room.

In 1927 Edward G. Rohrbough, president of Glenville State Normal School, requested an appropriation by the legislature for the construction of a library building. A sum of $50,000 was granted in 1929. For years Senator Robert F. Kidd had been an ardent supporter of the school and it was named, fittingly, in his honor. The construction of our present campus library began in 1929. Location of the new building was chosen in accordance with the plan of keeping all college buildings in a square. Finally, with no formalities, the Robert F. Kidd Library opened its doors to students on April 2, 1931.

Bookstock Increased
The development and expansion of the library has been synonymous with the growth of the institution. Less than two years after its founding, in the fall of 1875, many globes, dictionaries, and charts were already serving as the nucleus of a future library. The bookstock increased gradually until 1930 when the school was granted permission to extend its course to four years, and confer degrees on its graduates. Consequently, almost $2,000 was spent on new books. At the present, there are approximately 24,000 volumes reported. The book collection is growing, but there is an urgent need for even a greater increase.

Miss Lucille V. Hayes was the school's first librarian and was appointed in 1913, after completing the normal course at this institution. Miss Irma Langley West, of Glenville, completely catalogued for the first time in all the holdings of the library. She was librarian in 1923-24. The school's first library instructor was Miss Laura A. Miles. Miss Alma Janet Arbutckle, the present librarian, has served in that capacity for twenty-eight years. She has always resided in Gilmer county and graduated from Glenville State Normal school. She has studied at other institutions, including Columbia university.

In 1947, Miss Elizabeth deGruyter was appointed assistant librarian and instructor in library science. A Glenville graduate of 1937, she received her A. M. in 1942. In 1949, she married Byron J. Turner of the school faculty and resigned her position.

Mr. Floyd W. Miller filled the vacated position which he holds today. Mr. Miller received his A. B. from Findlay college, Findlay, Ohio, in 1938, his B. S. in library science from Western Reserve in 1940, and his M. A. from the same institution in 1941. Formerly, he was employed by the Cleveland Public Library, Cleveland, Ohio, and later served in the armed forces.

Physical Education Facilities Are Helped by New Building

HOME EC. FIRST TAUGHT IN 1912

Domestic Science First Economics Course Offered

Home economics was first taught in Glenville State college in 1912, Miss Lena M. Carter being the first instructor. The first course offered was domestic science, with an enrollment of twenty-six girls. In 1914 a second course, domestic art, was added with an enrollment of sixteen. Miss Carter later became the first state supervisor of home economics in West Virginia.

Miss Annie Cokerley came to Glenville in 1920 and continued the classes taught by Miss Carter. In 1921, Miss Cokerley and John R. Wagner, a professor in the science department, were married. In 1922, Mrs. Wagner resigned and was replaced by her sister, Miss Addie Cokerley who remained until 1926 when home economics was discontinued because of insufficient space for other growing departments.

In September, 1944, Mrs. Erma L. Spears became the dietitian and home economics instructor. She taught classes in food preparation and clothing construction until her resignation in 1948.

A second teacher, Mrs. Jean Burke Scott, was added to the staff in 1946. She taught courses in applied art, home management, house decoration, and homemaking crafts until her resignation in 1940 for graduate study at Ohio State university.

In 1948, Miss Vera Mabel Todd replaced Mrs. Spears as dietitian and instructor in foods courses. Miss Todd resigned in 1950 to become nutritional consultant for the Virginia State Health department.

Mrs. Lillian Chaddock in 1949 refilled the vacancy left by Mrs. Scott. She is now serving as supervisor of home economics education in addition to teaching courses in clothing, textiles, applied art, house decoration and home management.

In 1950, Miss Ncomi Albanese followed Miss Todd as dietitian and foods instructor.

In 1944, Glenville State college approved a major in home economics leading to a bachelor of arts degree. The bachelor of science degree with a minor in home economics was also approved. Before this, all work done in this field had been given credit as electives with other fields.

The present home economics department is located on the first floor of the Science hall. The clothing laboratory will accommodate 20 students. A fitting room adjoins the

Few Activities Will Be Held in Old Gym; New Gymnasium Is Adequately Furnished

By DON DEAL

Physical Education facilities at Glenville have been greatly boosted by the addition of the new Health and Physical Education building. This building was a necessity, as several courses in physical education are required before one can obtain an A.B. degree.

The old gymnasium has provided facilities for indoor sports and classes in physical education since 1925. This building was constructed at the cost of $45,000, and seated only 500 people. Before this building was constructed, the basement of the administration building was used as a gym. The low ceiling and other inconveniences made a new building a necessity.

Old Gym Will Be Used

The old gym has been used by the local high school since 1925. The high school carries on all its basketball games in this building, as well as its social activities. One of our instructors at Glenville State today, Stanley Hall, was the coach of Glenville high school in 1924. The present coach at the high school is Woody Wolfe.

The number of men majoring in physical education at Glenville has increased so much in the past few years that the old gym became inadequate and a new building was greatly needed. The physical education program at Glenville has been enlarged and the new building has enabled the college to offer many more courses in physical education, and offers better facilities for the present ones. This building will also be used for the sectional high school basketball tournaments.

Plant Has Facilities

This plant adequately provides facilities for the health and physical education needs of the student body and the faculty. Included are, in addition to the basketball floors, main laboratory space. The large equipments includes five cutting tables, seven sewing machines, a triple mirror, and a storage case for finished garments.

The living room and dining room are combined and are furnished in colonial maple.

The foods laboratory contains five unit kitchens. There are also four gas ranges, one electric range, a deep freeze unit, an electric refrigerator, an automatic dishwasher and garbage disposal unit.

In the laundry is an automatic washer, a electric ironer, stationary tubs, two ironing boards and irons.

Three county high schools, Glenville, Troy, and Sand Fork, serve as teacher training centers for home economics.

facilities for swimming, handball, badminton, and other indoor sports as well as spacious locker and shower rooms.

Four classrooms, a doctors office, examination rooms and nurses quarters are situated in the east wing of the building. The building alone cost $521,839.06. $43,160.94 was spent for equipment. This brings the total cost of the new building to $565,000. It has a seating capacity of approximately 2,000.

Chemistry Department Was Inaugurated In 1839

Chemistry Club Became Active Part of Science Field After Organization

By GENE MILLER

In 1839, the chemistry department was inaugurated by M. N. Hemlick, who was at that time principal of the Normal School. The Normal School was composed of the old section of the Administration building and the chemistry laboratory was in the room that is now the English department offices. The physics and chemistry departments shared the same room.

From 1835 until 1905, the chemistry department made little advancement, probably because there were several different teachers, although there is no record available of who taught chemistry during this period. In 1905, H. F. Rogers taught chemistry and he initiated a few improvements.

There were little if any improvements made until 1911, when an addition to the Administration hall was erected, and sometime before 1919 the chemistry laboratory was moved to the second floor of this addition. The entire floor was devoted to the chemistry laboratory and was moved to the second floor of this addition. The entire floor was devoted to the chemistry and physics departments.

Wagner Made Improvements

In the fall of 1920, John R. Wagner taught chemistry, physics and algebra. In this period, Mr. Wagner made considerable improvements and additions in the chemistry department.

The chemistry department started its expansion in the year 1930, R. T. Crawford was the instructor in physics and mathematics, which allowed Mr. Wagner to devote his time entirely to instructing chemistry.

A wooden rotator was invented by Mr. Wagner. The students began a study of the water supply and the sanitation of the cities near Glenville. A Chemistry club was organized in 1932 and this club became an active part of the chemistry department.

In 1935, Mr. Wagner took over Mr. Crawford's classes in physics to release Mr. Crawford for work in the education department.

Wagner Shifted

In 1939, Dr. C. L. Underwood became instructor in chemistry and education, and Mr. Wagner was shifted to the physics and mathematics departments. Then in 1941, Dr. Underwood was called to active duty in the Armed Services, and Mr. Wagner again took over the chemistry department.

With the change of teachers there was also a change on the campus. A $140,000 Science hall was erected and the chemistry and physics departments were moved here.

In 1946, Byron J. Turner re-

Commerce Dept. Opened In 1875

Field Now Under Complete Direction of Butcher

The commerce department was established in 1875 when it was decided that a commerce department was needed because students throughout the area were desiring training in commerce. This first department consisted of a course in bookkeeping.

In 1893 J. Elton Hall was added to the faculty and a complete business college was established. Mr. Hall was no doubt well trained for this position since he had attended two of the leading business schools of the day. The commerce department was set up in a way that permitted students to carry full time work, or as a supplement to their other work. This first department died after it had been in existence only a short time.

Department Re-Established

In 1946 the department was re-established with Mrs. Genevieve Butcher as the instructor. At this time the department showed little promise for the students because of the lack of equipment and meeting places. The class had to meet in the high school and use the high school typewriters.

Mrs. Butcher resigned and Miss Louise Whitlow was chosen to fill the vacancy. Miss Whitlow was from Oakland, Kentucky, and had a favorable record. Before coming here, she taught in The Georgia College For Women.

The classes were held in the Administration building, and the students did their practical office work in the Dean's office, that they might have access to a typewriter.

First to be graduated with commerce majors were Miss Hardman and Miss Westfall, in 1945. Their success lifted the hopes of other students as well as the hopes of the faculty.

The present department is under the direction of Mrs. Butcher, who was reappointed in 1946. She has studied at Oxford, Ohio, Miami University, Duke University, Fairmont state college, and she has her Masters degree from the University of Michigan.

The commerce department was moved to the Science hall in 1946. The department now has a complete teacher training program, as well as providing training for secretarial work.

Heved Mr. Wagner of the chemistry department and has instructed it to the present.

Sixteen Courses Are Now Offered By Glenville State Art Department

Little appears to have been done in the field of art at Glenville Normal school until 1900; however, there has always been art of some kind taught, such as simple perspective and line drawing.

In 1891, drawing was listed as being taught at the winter term at the Normal school. From that time until 1905, drawing was listed either under Courses of Study or under List of Books To Be Used. There was no specific teacher designated to instruct the course so apparently drawing was a part of some other course.

In 1911, Art is noted as a required course. Two terms' work in drawing was required. The class met twice a week and one hour credit was given.

The normal school bulletins for 1912, 1913, and 1914 listed the same drawing requirements and aims as did the bulletin for 1911. Miss Elvina Samples was listed in 1915 as the critic teacher and in 1916 new requirements and aims were added to the course. The requirements and aims remained generally the same until 1928, when the credit for Art increased.

In 1930-31 the catalogue listed a third art course which was Art III The History and Appreciation of Art, 2 hours. The 1932-1933 and the 1933-1934 Glenville State Normal school bulletins list the same courses given as above. Miss Margaret Christie, graduate of George Peabody college for Teachers, is listed as teacher for 1934.

In the 1939-40 college bulletin, the descriptions of art classes were the same as those listed for 1938, except that Representational Drawing and Design was now listed. In 1944-45, twelve courses in art were offered at what in 1943 had become Glenville State college.

In the 1947-48 school year, there were no changes in the schedule but Mildred B. Beaver, formerly from Concord college, replaced Miss Margaret Delores Kenney as art instructor.

In 1948, Miss Julia Nutter, a Glenville State graduate, replaced

versity of Michigan.

The commerce department was moved to the Science hall in 1946. The department now has a complete teacher training program, as well as providing training for secretarial work.

Miss Kenney as instructor.

The years 1948-9-50 saw much new equipment added: a new electric furnace, an electrically-driven potter's wheel, numerous supplies, supply cabinets; and display cases and work benches.

In the 1949-50 college catalogue there are fifteen courses in art listed, and one course, Ceramics, inadvertently was left out by the printer. Thus, Glenville State college now offers sixteen courses in art.

SCIENCE DEPT. HAS PROVEN PROGRESSIVE

First Equipment Included Mounted Skeleton, Charts, Microscopes, Specimens

The biological science department has progressed a long way since the College was formed in 1872. The first course was known as Elements of Natural Philosophy. During the following years some course in biological science was taught depending upon facilities and demand. Miss Verona Mapel joined the faculty in 1884, and probably taught botany and physiology that same year since these courses had not been previously offered.

As the enrollment increased, so did each department expand. The science department acquired a mounted skeleton kept in a glass case, a number of plaster casts glazed and colored to represent veins, tissues, organs of the body, etc., microscopes, charts, and several marine and fresh-water specimens of invertebrates.

Complete List Given

In the bulletin for the year 1908, a more complete list for courses of study was given. Physiology, zoology, and botany were individually listed with a complete description of each. Various science clubs were also organized, one example being the popular Bird club. By the years 1930-31 the curriculum for biological science study had increased to such an extent that another instructor was placed. The new teacher was Goldie Clare James. At this time the laboratories were located in the Administration building where the music department now is.

Building Provided
As the ever-increasing need for a large and better equipped science building made itself known, the 1939 State Legislature provided a contingent fund for the erection of a new building devoted entirely to science and home economics. This building was finished completely in 1943 at a cost of $140,000.

Athletic Heads, School Nurse To Take Over

Ratliff, Josephs, Williams
Strothers Will Direct
Activities From Building

By BETTY COOPER

Carlos C. Ratliff, director of athletics, has been associated with Glenville State college since the fall of 1946. He was head coach of football, basketball, and baseball until October, 1950, when he had an attack of coronary thrombosis, and was forced to retire from active coaching.

Carlos Ratliff was born at Hinton, West Virginia. He graduated from Hinton high school, and then entered Glenville college, where he obtained his A. B. degree. He was active in sports through high school and college.

Ratliff has coached at Clay County high school, Hinton high school, Northfork high school, and Williamson high school.

He entered the navy August 4, 1943, and was discharged March 5, 1946.

He has attended Duke university, University of Pittsburgh, and West Virginia university, where he received his M. A. degree. He is married and has two daughters, Jane and Ann.

Dr. Michael Josephs

Dr. Michael Josephs, coach of football, basketball, and baseball, has been associated with Glenville college since fall 1949. He came to Glenville as assistant coach to Carlos Ratliff, and became head coach when, in October, 1950, Coach Ratliff was unable to continue coaching because of illness.

Josephs graduated from Butler, Pa., high school; he then entered Thiel college at Greenville, Pa. He was active in sports through high school and college. The two years following his graduation from Thiel, he obtained jobs as an insurance salesman, construction worker, and a steel worker.

In his previous teaching experience, he was both teacher and coach at Freedom, Pa. high school, and instructor of physical education at the University of Pittsburgh for air cadets and freshman.

Josephs received his doctor's degree from the University of Pittsburgh.

Miss Clarissa Williams

Clarissa Williams, girls' physical education instructor, has been associated with Glenville college for the last five years.

Miss Williams was born near Dayton, Ohio. She graduated from Dayton high school, then she had her early training at Indianapolis, Indiana. She received her A. B. degree at Marshall college, her M. S. at Columbia university, and her M. A. at the University of Iowa and

Ohio State.

Her previous teaching experience has been at St. Paul, Minnesota, and Huntington, W. Va.

Mrs. Teresa D. Strother

Teresa D. Strother, R. N. school nurse, has been associated with Glenville State college since September 1951.

She graduated from Glenville high school and attended St. Mary's hospital training school at Clarksburg, where she received her R. N. Her previous experience was as school nurse for six years at Glenville State college, then she worked with the Navajo Indians at Winslow, Arizona, and six years in the city schools of El Centro, California.

Last summer she took work towards her Ph.D. degree at the University of California in Los Angeles.

She is the daughter of Cecil Davis of Glenville and wife of the late Kendell Strother, who was a former student of Glenville. Mrs. Strothers has one child, Kenna.

SWIMMING POOL FIRST OPENED IN DECEMBER

Instructions in Swimming
Now Offered by New Class;
Pool Meets Regulations

Glenville State College's new swimming pool was officially opened for classes December 17, 1951. The length of the pool is 74 feet, and the width is 24 feet. The depth extends from the shallow end 4 feet and increases to a depth of 10 feet. It holds approximately one hundred thousand gallons of water. The water never has to be changed unless there is a leak, or something wrong with the water, since the water is filtered every six hours.

Chlorine in the water is checked twice daily, and is kept from 0.3 to 0.5. Sodium water is added to keep PH of the water between 7 and 7.6, which is necessary to meet the health regulations. This is checked daily. The bottom of the pool is cleaned with a vacuum cleaner, but this is just done as it is necessary.

Education Curriculum Is Expanded With the Years

Wilson Served as First
Dept. Head in 1932;
5 Members Now Included

By WANDA WIANT

Although Glenville State Normal was established in 1872, education courses were not offered until 1891. During the school year of 1891-1892, pedagogy was taught. Psychology and history of education were also given. Two more educational subjects, history of education and school law, theory and practice, were added to the curriculum in 1894.

In 1895 W. J. Holden became principal and taught education. Students were required to take two terms of psychology (study of one's mind), one term of pedagogy (principles and methods of conducting recitations.)

In 1898, a new subject was added to the education schedule. This was "Teacher's Training Work" and was required for three terms credit and confined to seniors. This subject was under the direction of the principal and consisted of the study of children and how to administer tests. One term of Logic was added to the schedule, but was dropped in 1902.

Added to the schedule in 1911, was general methods, basis for teacher training work and observation lessons in model school, special methods, reading language, grammar, history, nature study, geography, and arithmetic, teacher training for three terms, school sanitation and decoration, and nature study for teachers.

In 1913, W. H. Wayt taught education, Glen Bartlett was supervisor of training school, and Mrs. Elwina Sample was critic teacher. Added to the schedule this year was history of modern education, social education, advanced work in common branches, and special methods in common branches.

Mrs. Wewina Sample was the primary critic teacher and Ina Grace Barnes was the supervisor of training school in 1917. In this bulletin it gave the aims of the education department. "The purpose of this department is two-fold: 1. It provides professional training which gives insight into the processes of the child's mind, familiarity with the best presentation of subject matter, and a broad general culture. 2. It furnishes practical training for which the model school serves as a laboratory by providing opportunity for practice teaching."

H. Labon White became director of extension and summer school in 1925-1926. Ivy Lee Myers was the sole member in elementary work from September 1925 until March 1926, when H. Y. Clark was added to the department.

In 1930, Glenville Normal School was changed to Glenville State Teachers college and was granted permission to give degrees. Therefore, additional courses were required for a degree in the education field.

Otis G. Wilson was made the first department head in 1932-1933.

In 1934-1935, the teachers training program was revised. Otis Wilson resigned in 1935 as head of the education department and H. Labon White filled this position while also acting as dean.

During the years from 1937 to 1943, Raymond Freed, Earl Boggs, and C. W. Regis taught education. In 1943, President E. G. Rohrbough left the college to become a congressman. D. L. Haught became President. H. Y. Clark, Ivy Lee Myers, Raymond Freed, C. L. Underwood, and John Shreve made up the education department. The name "Teachers" was dropped from the name of the college this year also.

John Shreve resigned in 1947 and since that time there has been no head of the education department. Harry B. Heflin became president of the college and he, too, became a member of the education department.

In 1949-1950 Dr. Wilda Lee Montgomery took over the elementary directed training to replace Eddie C. Kennedy who was on a years leave of absence.

At the present time the department of education consists of President Harry B. Heflin, H. Y. Clark, director of secondary education, Eddie C. Kennedy, Julia Matthews, and Delmar Somerville.

ENGLISH MAY BE OLDEST COURSE

English was probably one of the first courses offered to students at Glenville, although the records do not reveal when the department originated. The catalogue of 1875-76, the oldest one on record, indicates that English grammar was a required course in the Glenville Junior Normal.

Miss Vernon Mapel, first assistant to the president taught a course in English literature, and Miss Carrie Wiesenfeld taught English grammar in the year 1887-88. From that date, records become more complete year by year.

Mercury Published

The Glenville Mercury was first published on November 23, 1928. Miss Carmen Rinehart of Hardman, a graduate of Glenville, suggested the name "Mercury" for the new publication, thereby winning a prize of a year's subscription. The name "Glenville" was added to avoid confusion with other Mercuries.

The first faculty advisor was Prof. Everett Withers, and the first staff included: Warren Blackhurst, Ralph Boyles, Harry Hamilton, Linn S. Hickman, Lloyd Jones, Herbert Nottingham, Harry B. Taylor, Robert Blair, Paul Davis, Emma Jean Haumann, Rhea Johnson, Baneta McConkey, Thomas Rogers, and Fred V. Wilson.

The largest staff in the history of the Mercury was in 1936 when forty-

Music Department Moves Forward During 77 Years

First Music Course Given
In 1875; First Orchestra
Organized in 1906

By JULIA MURPHY

The music department of Glenville State college was set up 77 years ago, three years after the college was founded in 1872. The first course that was offered was two lessons a week on the piano, and the school requirement was that those students enrolled in the piano class were to practice twice every day.

During the year of 1892, the purchase of a new Kanabe piano aroused interest in the field of music and increased the facilities for "extended education in music."

Later, in 1893, instrumental and vocal music were added to the department. According to the Glenville Normal bulletin, the tuition in this department was ten dollars per term of twenty lessons.

By 1901, two more pianos and an organ had been purchased for the music department.

Miss Amelia G. Bruce of Scotland came to Glenville Normal as the instructor in 1903. Miss Bruce taught instrumental music for two years.

Orchestra Organized

The first orchestra was organized on the campus in 1906, by Jack Mauldin, a member of the faculty who played the violin. Mrs. Mildred (Ruddell) Arbuckle, a resident of Glenville, was also member of the first orchestra. Later Mrs. Arbuckle became instructor of the music department.

A Normal concert band was added in the music department in 1912, consisting of fifteen members. By this time, the school was equipped with a Kanabe concert grand piano and three up right pianos, one Knabe and two Haine's Brothers for the use of the students. Five years later, a Mussner Monogram piano and a set of instruments for the orchestra were purchased.

Free training was offered to those who would give their time to the work. These students were expected to assist in furnishing the music for public programs and other occasions. There was also a girls' glee club organized. The members were selected by the instructors of music. The next year, a men's glee club was organized, which was a charter member of the West Virginia Glee Club association.

Quartet Organized

A male quartet was organized in 1903. One of the members of the quartet was H. Y. Clark, present instructor at the College.

Wesleyan Game Tomorrow Will End Pioneer's Season

Bobcats Won First Game
By 67-66 Margin; White
Wave Hoping for an Upset

By BILLY LILLY

Game No. twenty-six and the last one on the Glenville State Pioneer's regular season schedule will take place tomorrow night at eight o'clock in the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcat's gym at Buckhannon.

This contest will be the second meeting between the two conference teams this year. In the first game Glenville was defeated by the Bobcats, 67-66. In this game Wesleyan led from five to ten points all the way but barely managed to nose out the Pioneers by one point in the final minutes.

Bob Poole, big freshman substitute center from Lost Creek, put on the hottest scoring display since the glory days when Eob "Hooks" Hardman used to run wild on the home-town Pioneer hardwood by dropping eighteen points through the hoop during the final quarter of play.

A Pioneer win over the Bobcats would rank as one of the major upsets of the year. Back for Wesleyan from last year's squad are eight lettermen. Four of these lettermen were members of last year's first five.

Despite the advantage of experience and height the Bobcats hold over Glenville, the Pioneers will be utilizing their one asset, a lot of hustle and excellent coaching, which has brought them along the road to a successful basketball season.

Perhaps on paper the record doesn't show more than an average season. But much must be taken into consideration before such a conclusion can be drawn.

Take, for instance, most of the other WVAC teams. Like Wesleyan, many of them started the 1951-52 season with an abundance of returning lettermen. Glenville, this year's defending state champions, began the season with three returning lettermen. Sid Adelsberg, Dick Barrett, and Carlon Gandee, were the lone returnees of the 1950-51 ten. Sid Adelsberg, regarded by many as one of the best players in the conference, graduated at mid-term.

Dick Barrett and Carlon are left. At the first of the season Coach Josephs had but these three from which to build another team. With Adelsberg on the team for the first half of the season, Glenville managed to win eight and lose three in conference competition.

Every game the Pioneers lost during this period was to a top-ranked state conference quintet. During the streak Coach Josephs kept shuffling his lineup, trying to come up with a winning combination. The Pioneers kept losing and improving.

Finally, Glenville found the basket range and themselves once more when they upset highly favored West Liberty, one of the toughest teams in the state, by three points—65-62. Alderson-Broadbuss, another top conference foe, was Glenville's next victim. The Pioneers disposed of the Alderson-Broadbuss quintet by the margin of nine points—73-64.

Music Department

Miss Bertha Olsen, present music instructor, came to Glenville State college in 1930. Eighteen years later, Harold S. Orendorff joined the college faculty to aid Miss Olsen in building up the department, and it was at this time that the music major program was set up.

According to the Glenville Mercury, "The four year course of the music curriculum will train the music major in voice and instrumental divisions in order that the student may be certified as county supervisors, or teachers of music. Applied music is emphasized by the two instructors. Majors will be required to participate in the college choir and orchestra."

WAVE PREPARES FOR TOURNNEY

March 3 will find the Pioneers once again in Buckhannon where they will compete against the rest of the conference teams in the state for the WVAC State basketball championship.

Defending champions, Glenville will waste into the fray as a decided underdog. W. Va. Tech, Davis & Elkins, West Liberty, and Morris Harvey College are the established pre-tourney favorites.

But great are the possibilities that the Pioneers could be come the "Cinderella carkhorse" of the tournament, as did the Beckley college Elue Hawks a year ago when they fought their way to the finals only to lose out to Glenville State.

Admittedly it is not probable that the Pioneers can successfully defend their state championship status, but, on the other hand, it is not an impossibility. Take a team like the Pioneers that has plenty of hustle and spirit and place them in a tournament situation and it's hard to hazard a prophecy as to what might happen.

sary. The temperature of the water is approximately 78 to 80 degrees, and the room temperature is 89 degrees. The water is heated from the steam of the boiler. There are three openings at each side of the pool that the water comes in, and it goes out at the bottom. For the first nine weeks of this semester there are twenty-two students taking the swimming course.

GSC Concludes Home Stand Romp Over Rams; Potomac

Wave Lashes Rams 65-61,
Pound Potomac 69-53;
Johnson Is at Best

By DARRELL MORRIS

Michael M. Josephs' high geared Glenville College Pioneers continued to roll over opponents as they began to pull into the home stretch of this current basketball season.

Glenville concluded a four-game home stand as they romped over Horse Lough's Potomac State Catamounts 69-53 here on Saturday night. Earlier last week, on Thursday night, the white clad brushed past Shepherd College 65-61, and on Monday night it was the Philippi A-B Baptists that fell victims to the rejuvenated Glenville cage artists.

RAMS FALL; GSC CLIMES

With the playing of Thursday's game the Shepherd Rams continued to fall deeper in the WVAC league cellar as Glenville, led by Jack Tennant and Dick Barrett, barely slipped by the Rams 65-61. The win moved GSC into a tie with Potomac State for the seventh place slot in the conference ratings. Jumping Jack Tennant and Deadeye Dick Barrett paced the White Wave with 20 and 15 points. Cecil Johnson, the Pioneer spark plug from Grantsville, had 14. Sam Berry, Shepherd's ace threat, sparked the lowly Rams with 22 points.

Teammate Burley Crowe had 18 for the outing.

HORSE'S CATS ARE NIPPED

Dana G. (Horse) Lough's Potomac State Catamounts climaxed their current, dismal road trip as they lost their final game to the Pioneers 69-53, here at Glenville on Saturday night.

Varsity Pioneer captain Cecil Johnson engineered the attack as he played his final basketball game on the local hardwood. Playing probably his best game of the year Johnson exploded for 23 points as he kept Glenville in the game throughout the evening. Johnson personally tied up the game at 4, 6, 14 and put the locals ahead at 21. Ronnie Mills tied the game at 24 and 44 as he pounded the Cat defense with a fine demonstration of lethal set shots. Clendennin's Carlon Gandee played a beautiful game for the Pines as he proved to give the needed punch in the sluggish GC defense. Dick Barrett was held to 14 points.

GSC STAGE COMEBACK

On Saturday night, as on so many other "Saturday Nights", the Wave staged their FAMOUS SECOND HALF COMEBACK, proving that they seem to play their best brand of ball under pressure. Ron Mills tied the score at 34, eight (Continued on page 8)

By DARRELL MORRIS

Playing a thrill-a-minute game, the Glenville State Pioneers romped over a visiting Alderson-Broadus quintet, 73-64, before a near capacity crowd here on Monday night. In winning their twelfth game of the season the White Wave ran their overall season record to 12-11 and their WVIC total to 10-11. In a wide open third quarter the Pioneers tossed in 23 points with the "Dead-Eye-Dick" (Dick Barrett) personally accounting for 14 of them. Barrett's scoring spurge came on six goals and two for two at the charity toss line.

Losing earlier this month to the Baptist at Philippi by the score of 79-63, the Josephs netters eagerly awaited the Battlers' invasion of the local court. Jack Greynolds, high scoring forward from Tanner, took the tip-off for A-B and passed in under the basket to Carl Hartman for the first score of the game. Taking advantage of two personal fouls by Tennant and Merriman the Battlers jumped into a quick 4-0 lead. Glenville's Ronnie Mills made the score 4-2 on two free throws and Barrett added a goal to tie the game up. Glenville was in command for most of the remaining minutes of the game from that point on.

BARRETT IS TOPS

In engineering the attack for Glenville, Dick Barrett, the smallest player on the court, led all scorers with 26 points. Jack Tennant hit the nets for 16 and Bob Poole had 12. Jack Greynolds led A-B scorers with 20 markers with Harry Eush adding 19. Both boys played high school basketball at Tanner.

Score by quarters:

Glenville ..... 15 20 28 10-73
A-B ..... 17 11 15 21-64

Officials: McKenzie and Stump.
