Colleges Must Aim To Help Develop Moral Integrity

A college will train in the development of moral integrity only if it aims to do so, Dr. Myron F. Wicke, secretary of the department of Higher Education of the Division of Educational Institutions of the Methodist Church, told delegates attending the second day of the regional Allegheny Conference at Morris Harvey College yesterday. "Colleges will not do so by accident and not just because it's an educational institution," Dr. Wicke said.

An institution will succeed in this tremendous job only if an academic community has been created in which all the people understand, love and are willing to work for the aim, Dr. Wicke continued. The community is the essence of the problem and is the point at which colleges usually fail.

"The community will soon discover that this is not a job that can be farmed out to the department of religion or the department of philosophy," the educator said. "We shall never do this job well until we bring to bare the resources of philosophy and religion upon the faculty and students."

Dr. Wicke, who is from Nashville, Tenn., said that one of the functions of a college is to teach students the responsible use of language, how to read, how to discriminate between things when he reads, and how to express things that have meaning.

"If we want to get students where they face fundamental issues all the time; spend their time dealing with things which count; if we want them to face moral issues, we can make them do it," Dr. Wicke said in closing. "The course of study, the whole campus community is there to see that they will face them, but first of all, we have to arrange the experiences so that this is possible."

A panel, composed of representatives of areas of the college program in a discussion of implementation of the job of educating for moral integrity, followed Dr. Wicke's address. Included on the panel was Dr. Edwin P. Adkins, dean of Glenville State college.

Educators from 80 colleges in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Maryland, Virginia, District of Columbia, and West Virginia attended the conference.

Subject for debate was, Resolved: That the federal government should adopt a permanent program of wage and price control board.

Practice of Tolerance

Many difficulties of college life could be eased to the point of common satisfaction if those making up the school society could be instilled with the realization of the importance of respect for their fellow man's position. This amounts to mere tolerance of another's personality.

Being only human beings, it is natural that all members of college society are widely diversified in tastes, opinions, habits, and mannerisms. The very fact that the school enrollment is made up of persons with many different backgrounds is enough to insure difference in behavior. With this situation as it is, the only way that it will be possible for the school as a whole to be unified is for the individual members to conform to standards which have been set up. This generally is easily attainable for it is the normal for the human animal to wish to conform.

Conformity and consistent behavior are most easily attained when tolerance of others is practiced by all the members of the college society. This includes the acceptance of another's ideas even if they differ widely from an individual's own opinions on some matter. When difference of opinions occur, the tolerant person can still express his views and conform to the group—if he states his opinion in a manner that lies within the bounds of decency and if he accepts the will of the majority when he is in the minority.

Many of one's everyday problems can be solved by respecting the rights and privileges of others. College student government officers, elected by the student body, are expected to observe this ideal when legislating matters of student interest. Acting as they have on this campus, it seems they understand their responsibility and have not failed. A group in their position could just as easily have done the wrong thing more than once.

Hosts of other examples of situations where the practice of tolerance can solve the problem are easily observable every day in campus life. It is always wise to remember that the neighbor also has his "side of the story."

Or as it was said long ago in much better words than these, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."—WAB

Wholesome Activity

With the advent of the spring season, adequate opportunity for good wholesome physical activity is open to any Glenville State man.

Offering three different sports as the school does, a wider range of activity can be found now than at any other time of the year. Athletic Director Carlos C. Ratliff has expressed the opinion that more vigorous competition among the various teams is the key to better showing in inter-collegiate meets.

In the past, fewer men have shown an interest in spring sports than in basketball and football even though the golf, tennis, and baseball teams offer more of a chance for an inexperienced man to make the team.

Coach Ratliff expects a larger group of candidates for positions on college spring sports teams this year. If his expectations are fulfilled, we look for Glenville State to make a highly improved showing on the state conference scene this spring.

ACROSS the TABLE

By GENELDA HARDWAY

Our friend, the screech owl, that was previously mentioned in this column, has recently been seen observing the campus from his perch in one of the large oak trees outside Kanawha dining hall. One evening one of our roving reporters took it upon himself to climb the tree and interview this cunning creature. After a strenuous search, our fellow tarzan finally captured the owl and held him down to find out the dope and goings on around here. We have now appointed Mr. Owl, a steady reporter on the Mercury. If anyone finds anything in this column unsatisfactory to his wishes and welfare, please see Mr. Owl.

Several couples turned up at the Sock Hop which surprised everyone. Some of these couples were Betty Hill and Paul Hunt, Woody Woodburn and Emma Lou Stewart, Mary Faith Holbart and Marvin Stewart, Carol Mick and Jim Scott, Nora Ann Kennedy and two of her visitors from St. Marys with Billy Radcliff, Woody Paxton, and Boone Sommerville, Mary Margaret Sommerville and Carl Galgani, Wanda Carol Taylor and Don Meriman, Ye Editor and Betty Lankas. Did I say "surprise"? That is ancient history.

Chick Zakarian, the Rhode Island lover, is burning up the highways by spending his week-ends in Richwood. Rah! Rah!

If anyone has been following the trail of rum soaked cigars on the campus, we are sure that they found "Kibo" Thorne at the end of them. At the end of every rainbow is a pot of gold! "Kibo" is a student of last year and is now serving in the U. S. Air Force. Welcome back, "Kibo".

Sam Ballota made a flying trip down to Glenville from Weirton last week to see his old flame, Juanita Green. Sam, too, is a former student here and is now in the army.

Cy Anderson still hates "wim-men".

We understand that Alex Jokay will soon be teaching some Georgia peaches how to say "Yes" in Hungarian. We have received from a "valid source" the information that he and Taylor Phillips will be roommates at Mercer University in Macon, Georgia, next fall.

We have heard from a "reliable source" that Gerald Kress will soon be able to sooth that ache in his heart that was caused by a Charleston cutie. Her initials are Janet Coble, and although she has dated him only once, she writes him letters weekly.

P. S. We heard that the referees of the Kappa Sig-Holy Roller Court basketball game were run over by a truck. Accident, no doubt.

'Chester-Fact' Is Latest Contest Held by Chesterfield Agent Galgani

Glenville State college students have a chance to win free smokes for the next four weeks from Chesterfield campus representative Carl Galgani.

"It's a Chester-fact" is the name of the contest which provides a free pack of Chesterfields if you know the answer and you are carrying a pack of Chesterfields when Mr. ABC asks you, "Do you know the Chester-fact?" You can win two free packs if you can state the Chester-fact verbatim and happen to be smoking a Chesterfield from your own pack.

The contest opens March 31, when Mr. ABC will begin making calls on campus. He will approach students at random to ask "Do you know the Chester-fact?" The answers (a fact-a-week) will appear at the bottom of the Chesterfield ad in the Mercury and will be announced elsewhere on campus by posters and other media.

All you have to do to win is to correctly state the Chester-fact when you are approached by Mr. ABC. If you are carrying Chesterfields at the time, you win one free pack—two free packs if you are actually smoking a Chesterfield from your own pack.

Final Spring Sport Schedule Is Announced

Six Tennis and Eight Golf Matches Will Be Played; Few Lettermen Are Back

Coach Carlos Ratliff, Athletic Director, is rounding out final plans for the Pioneer tennis and golf schedules for this spring. Six tennis and eight golf matches are to be played.

Returning veterans for the tennis team are Alex Jokay, Bob Mottice, and John Brooks. Paul Hunt, Ed Janiszewski, "Hot" Gray, and Bear Jordan are the returning Pioneer linksmen this season.

Ratliff, who is coach of tennis and golf, is depending on a large number of tryouts to furnish competition for the veteran golf and tennis returnees.

"Only through competition furnished by the newcomers can we hope to improve ourselves in these sports," said Ratliff. "Last year we were unable to play as well as we should have due to lack of competition," he added.

Pioneers showing promise of improving while competing against veterans, Jokay and Brooks, during the short autumn season last year were Jerry Kress, Bob Hoffman Myron Mason, Bill Wadeck, and Charles Dorrill.

Tennis Schedule:
April 34—Wesleyan, W. Va. (H)
April 28—Davis & Elkins (A)
May 10—W. Va. Wesleyan (A)
May 16—Davis & Elkins (H)
Two games with Salem College are yet to be arranged.

Golf Schedule:
April 5—Davis & Elkins (H)
April 26—Fairmont (H)
April 28—Salem (A)
May 3—Marietta (H)
May 9—Fairmont (A)
May 10—Marietta (A)
May 17—Davis & Elkins (A)
(H) denotes home games
(A) denotes games played away from home

The golf schedule will be complete when a date has been decided upon for a Salem college-Glenville home game.

Boggs, Somerville Victorious in MAA Tournament Openers

First action in the annual men's intramural basketball tournament got underway Monday, March 17, in the college gymnasium as Boggs Alcoholics edged Bill Ice's Bohemian Storm Troopers by a 22-18 score.

In a sluggish game that was close without, the Bohemians took the lead in the first quarter at 4-3 but the Alcoholics fought back into a 10-6 halftime lead.

Never more than a few points separating the teams at any time during the second half, the Boggs-men ended with a last minute spurt and copped the four-point decision.

Denzil Whipkey paced the winners with 8 points while Donald "Set Shot" Weaver swished the cords for 7 markers in the Storm Troopers losing battle.

Second, round action played March 19 saw Booney Somerville's newly-organized combination swamp Billy Radcliff's team by a 61-40 score.

Close only during the first half, the game turned into a runaway in the third quarter as the winners outscored the Radcliffmen 19-7 after holding a slight 22-20 edge at halftime.

Jack Tennant, freshman from Fairview, has a great future as a Pioneer cage star if he shows anything like his first-year performance next year. Playing his first year of college basketball, Jack led Glenville State scorers with a 16 point plus average this year.

Kappa Chi's and Court Take Honors in Fun Night

Janiszewski Overcomes Jordan in Wrestling Bout; Tumbling Act Presented

Fun Night, an annual event sponsored by the Holy Roller Court, was held March 18 in the old gym. The first event was a basketball game between the sororities. Kappa Chi's defeated Xi Beta Tau in a close game 21-18.

The winners trailed 13-12 at halftime, but rallied to win. Christine Hyer led the winners with 11 points. Phyllis Sponaugle led the Xi Beta Taus with 8 markers.

Next event was a tumbling act presented by five Court members. The members featured in this act were Jim Ball, Dick Earrett, Frank Fultineer, Holt Gray, and Ed Janiszewski. Following this act was a mock wrestling match between "Bear" Jordan and "Dyke" Janiszewski. Dyke won, 107 falls to 64.

Main event was the long awaited Court-Kappa Sigma Kappa ball game. The Court won this bitterly contested game 68-66. The win broke a four-game Kappa Sig winning streak in this series. The Court broke away to a first quarter lead 24-13. However, it was not to be that easy. In the second period, with Court stars Lennie Spencer and Dick Earrett on the bench, the Kappa Sigs came up to 38-36 at halftime.

The early part of the second half was all Kappa Sig as the "golden boys" led at one time 51-44. But the Court came back to trail only 54-52 at the end of the third period. Then, in the last quarter, with Don Merriam and Dick Barrett showing the way, the Court regained the lead. The final period saw the score knotted at 60-60, 61-61, and 64-64. Then Don Merriam and Lennie Spencer geared for the Court, while the Kappa Sigs could garner only a goal by Poole. Bob Poole of the Kappa Sigs led all scorers with 26 points, Dick Barrett of the Court was close behind with 24 points.

Marksman Drop Musicians; Bohemians Lose No. Ten In Final League Games

By MAURICE BUCK

MAA basketball drew to a close last week with two listless games being played. In the first game Marks' Marksman took an easy 37-22 win from Arbogast's Musicians. Marks' team broke away to a 20-10 halftime lead and won going away. Brent Cool and Bill Hanlin led the winners with 13 and 12 points respectively. Jerry Kress was high for the losers with 8.

The second game was more or less of a farce as Hunt's team edged the Bohemians 16-14. Hunt's team expended no effort in winning as the Bohemians went down for their 10th straight loss. However, Ice's team is to be commended for its play this season. This small, inexperienced team played a humorous and sometimes interesting game. Kee led Hunt's team with 7 points. John Brooks and "Pecos" Smith had 6 each for the losers.

The MAA League was declared a tie as no time could be found for a playoff between Hunt's team and Buck's team. Buck's team won one more game than did Hunt's due to a schedule mix-up.

Church Beliefs Is Topic Of Father Carr Address

Roman Catholicism Is Discussed in March 20 School Chapel Program

"Prejudices against different religious beliefs can be overcome by knowledge of others' beliefs," was a statement made by the Rev. Father Carr, who was the guest speaker at the assembly program on March 20.

Father Carr's address was an explanation of the beliefs of the Roman Catholic church. During the speech, the Father discussed the Three Divine Persons in the Blessed Trinity. The Trinity is composed of God the Father, God the Son, who is Jesus Christ, and God the Holy Ghost.

"Man was created by God to love Him, to serve Him and to be happy with Him in Heaven", was another belief that Father Carr discussed. Man is made up of two parts, which consist of the body and the soul. The body is the flesh and blood of man; the spirit, which is the image of God, is made up of the immortal, understanding and free will.

The Roman Catholics believe in two judgments after death, he pointed out. The first is called the Particular Judgment, which takes place immediately after death. During the Particular Judgment, the soul stands before God and is judged on his way of life on earth; at this judgment the individual soul can be rewarded or punished. Father Carr also discussed the State of Purgatory, a place of fire where an individual is sent to cleanse the soul to enter Heaven.

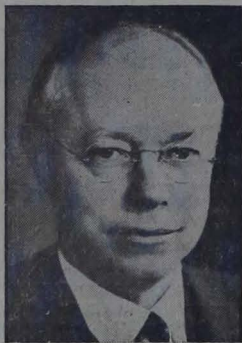

Father Carr also told the means by which the Roman Catholics believe that they can gain Heaven and avoid Hell. The means are the Rules of Faith, which consists of Tradition and the Bible.

Tradition is important to the Church because the Bible was not written until 70 years after the death of Christ, and the only way that Christ's Teachings could be passed on at that time was through tradition.

Father also stressed the importance of the Bible to the Roman Catholic Church and that the Church encourages the use of it.

Father Carr, who originally came from Boston, Mass., is the pastor of St. Clara and St. Boniface parishes. Before his present appointment, he has served in Princeton, Clarksburg, and Parkersburg.

Secondary and undergraduate work was done at Canisius college in Buffalo, N. Y., by Father Carr. After receiving his AB degree, Father went to the Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C., where he studied two years of philosophy and four years of Theology.

ROBERT A. TAFT

Taft to Crown Festival Queen In Upshur

BUCKHANNON, W. VA.—United States Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, will crown the queen of the eleventh annual Central West Virginia Strawberry Festival June 5 here.

Thomas A. Clawson, festival director, said today that Sen. Taft has accepted the invitation of the festival committee to crown the queen and make the coronation address.

Clawson declared that the acceptance insures the largest audience at the coronation in the history of the festival inasmuch as Sen. Taft is one of the leading commentators for the Republican presidential nomination.

Clawson said he was informed last Friday by wire that the Ohio lawmaker has scheduled the visit here on his busy itinerary and that announcements of the acceptance were made the same day via the Associated Press and the United Press.

The coronation, first event on the two-day festival program, will begin at 10 a. m. Thursday, June 5, in the West Virginia Wesleyan college stadium.

In addition to the address by Sen. Taft, the coronation will feature the presentation of the queen and her court.

The queen will be selected at a prelude to be held Thursday evening, April 24, at the Kanawha theater with 35 princesses—five each from the seven participating counties—to vie for the title.

One finalist from each county will be chosen to compete for the title. The other six finalists will be the queen's maids of honor.

SCIENCE VS THEOLOGY

By MARJORIE YOUNG
In the Wesleyan Pharos

Theologians have now progressed to the point where they recognize scientists as fellow men who also believe in God. People have used science for every conceivable purpose from selling their particular brand of toothpaste to a scrapecoat on which wars could be blamed. Whenever we wanted to break through to the attention of someone we connected our argument with the word "science" or "scientific."

These words are long regarded as a description for something very dependable but not quite holy. Scientists were supposed to be trying to discover powers to be their own Gods, to be taunting the idea of a supreme being. Only the scientist worked silently in his laboratory discovering an order to this universe which cannot be studied long without a realization that here is proof of a supreme being more humbling, more dynamic, than any light ever to blind a disbeliever or than any transmutation or rebirth ever experienced.

Science has long worked to uncover facts which are holy and good if used as God meant for them to be used. The scientist suddenly tells us that only moral values, not might, can save the world from destruction.

STRICTLY FRESH

WHEN a Texas plumber was asked if he thought his 17th marriage established some sort of record, we'll bet that he answered, "I do! I do! I do! I do! I do! . . ."

Spring is the time of year when people who have saved money all winter start planning the fall vacation they'll spend all summer looking forward to.

National Safety Council to Make Award

A woman's protective instinct is the theme of the Carol Lane Award which will be presented each year, along with a $1,000 defense bond, to the American woman who contributes most to traffic accident prevention. Nominations are now being invited by the National Safety Council, which administers the award through grant of the Shell Oil Co. Carol Lane, women's travel director of Shell and whose name the award bears, is shown with the model for the bronze statue.

Is it sudden? This is no new conception. Science has said this since its beginning! It just had to uncover a power big enough to scare us to death before we would listen to what it had to say. Let us not confuse science with cigarettes and soap operas. Science is a gift of God, but scientists are, unfortunately or otherwise, human and not to be mistaken as the ultimate example of the idea which they represent.

Science and theology harmonize into a healthful atmosphere, but rising into this calm from a common ground are two ivory towers: one has long been inhabited by the scientist, in the other dwell theologians. Both have begun to descend and will soon meet on the common ground where both were meant to walk.
