Students to Visit Cranberry Glades

For the fourth successive year botany students and others will travel to the Cranberry Glades located in Pocahontas county. Plans are to leave on Friday, May 9, sleep out that night, the next day tour the glades, and those that care will be able to fish in the afternoon. Saturday will be another night sleeping on the ground. The return trip will be Sunday, May 11. Other students may arrange to accompany the group.

The Pocahontas county Glades are the largest formation of that nature in West Virginia. Bogs of this nature are common in the northern parts of the United States and in Canada, but are rather rare in the Appalachian mountains. Much of the vegetation is unlike that occupying any other part of West Virginia. To study different vegetative matter that is not common elsewhere in West Virginia is one purpose of the group.

Day's Assembly Discuss Fees

Special assembly was held Wednesday, April 23, in the college auditorium for the purpose of presenting an explanation and discussion of the proposed raising of student activities. Student body president Brent Cool was chairman of the meeting with Prof. Marjorie Skelton, Athletic Director Carlos Bealiff, Prof. E. B. Elder, and head cheerleader Charles Zakarian as platform guests to answer questions from the floor.

President Cool opened the meeting with a discussion of where money from student activity fees is allotted and then explained that each department lost money last year. Cool then went on to say that losses for the past few years have been made up from a general reserve fund that the school had on hand but which is now exhausted.

Cool explained that if the present activity program is to be carried on, additional funds must be secured to make up this deficit which has occurred the past few years.

Telling of the student council's procedure in studying the problem, President Cool said that they wrote to other state colleges about their activity programs, conducted a poll, had budgets submitted by department heads, and discussed every aspect of the program in student council meetings. The proposed bill was then passed on to President Harry B. Heflin for approval and is now ready to be voted upon by the student body.

Following Cool's explanation, a short discussion period was held to clear up any student questions. During this period questions raised by various students were answered by the department representatives seated on the platform.

At the conclusion of the meeting Cool announced that voting on the proposed measure would be held this week in the student union.

Mercury Musings

By BILL BORAM

President Harry B. Heflin received an interesting letter following the choir's trip to Widen last week. J. O. Dodrill, manager of a store at Dille wrote to Dr. Heflin telling of the group's stopping at his store when their bus broke down. He also related the events which followed when a county bus driver who works in his store drove the stranded musicians back to Glenville. Dodrill commented on how much impressed he and the bus driver were with the polite, courteous actions of Prof. Harold Orendorf and the members of the choir. It seems evident that even a small group such as the choir can do a lot of good for the school and themselves when they conduct themselves in a proper manner.

Delay En Route

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of guest editorials by leading campus students. This week's contribution was written by Frank Fultineer.

"Aw right, you knuckle heads, fall in and cover off!"
 "Come on, Slim! Dress it up down there!"
 "Right FACT! Forwa'd HARCH!"
 "Lep ri' dep, follow you leb ri' dep, follow you lep, Follow you lep, follow you lep o' ri' hi lep!"
 Recognize that voice? Maybe you don't right now, but you will, and soon. That's the fog-horn bellow of the traditionally tough top-sergeant who will soon be calling the cadance and drill orders for most of the men in America's colleges. Don't snicker. You'll be there, too. But don't bawl, either, it isn't that bad.

Every year or so when graduation time rolls around, we are a bit inclined to lay aside our seldom opened text books and our well-thumbed issues of BATHING BEAUTIES (perhaps with the thought that those bathing suits couldn't stand water anyhow) and try to look ahead to see what is in store for us.

As I have already hinted, it won't take a swammy with a crystal ball or a souped-up cerebrum to fathom the future. We may be taking order from a chief petty officer, a crew chief, or a top-kick, but whoever is doing the yelling we will be doing the doing. There are few ifs, ands or buts about it.

But, like nearly everything else, there is also a brighter side to the picture. If we can bring ourselves to think of two or more years of military service as not the end of our futures but as merely a delay en route, we will have taken a long step in the right direction.

We must learn to consider the proposition of army life as a job to be done to the best of our individual abilities. The better we do that job, the easier it will be for all of us. I am not waving the stars and stripes or asking anyone to "sign here," but I feel that even though most of us are in a great hurry to enter our various professions or to settle down and get married, it will do us no harm to see how other people live and think in other parts of the world. Such an opportunity is not only being offered to us; it is being crammed down our throats, and we will do well to make the most of it.

It is true that military life has not been good for many men, but I will venture to say that it has straightened out more personality kinks than it has caused. One cannot live in such close contact with so many men under strict supervision without being changed—or at least impressed. And then, too, the ability to get along with others and the know-how of traveling which we will acquire may prove to be valuable later on. College men, especially those who live in the dormitories, will have a great advantage over the average draftee, both in intelligence and experience gained by living with so many people.

There have been few times in the history of our nation when young men have had such an opportunity to shape the destiny of the entire world. We can only pray that the sacrifices which are being made are justified.

To the all-important question "Do we have a future?" I will have to answer with a very definite "YES." The future, when we get to it, will be just as big and just as bright, and perhaps more meaningful to us than it otherwise might have been.—FF

Better Leadership

Final voting for next year's student council officers which will take place today will mark the beginning of the annual spring campus "election season". During the next few weeks organizations whose membership comprises every student on campus will be holding their election of officers for the coming school year.

Other than the student council election, the most important of these elections will be those in which class officers are elected. Every student who will be back next year will have an opportunity to participate in a class election. In addition to these, sororities, fraternities, and various departmental organizations will also be conducting elections.

The first and most important thing that should be mentioned when considering the coming elections is the problem of having a good turn-out for them. For the class elections especially, it is essential that a large number of members participate. In the past as few as 20% of the class have been the ones who have had to decide who their leaders for the coming year would be.

It is never a good situation when a minority group should have to make so important a decision as one like this. For the good of the individual groups who will be having the elections and for the welfare of the college as a whole, the importance of participation in school elections is stressed.

The other condition which should be considered is the matter of judicious thinking of all voters before marking their X. It is most important that persons be elected because of their abilities and experience and not because of their popularity. Many times the best liked man on campus is the poorest candidate possible for an office of responsibility.

In considering the coming elections we strongly urge each student to participate and do some careful thinking before voting for next year's leaders. It will pay off in better leadership and increased benefits for the school.

ACROSS THE TABLE

By GENELDA HARDWAY

After surviving last week's criticism, I pull the cover from "Old Faithful," and hope that all my statements in this "scandal-sheet" are venial to the residents of our fair campus.

Casualties of the week were Marlene White, one broken ankle; Daphnes Whittell, mumps; Dorry James, spring fever.

Welcome to Joan Sturm and Josephine McCauley who were back on the campus visiting last weekend. Both girls are former students here.

Larry Gainer seemed quite enraptured all of last week. Could have been because a certain little blonde named "Porky" was here for the dance last weekend.

Two more red heads have gotten together. The latest are Bernardine Gregory and Jazzy. These two were seen at the dance together last weekend and seemed to be enjoying themselves.

Once again we see the familiar couple, Claudette Hefner and Bernard Jolly, strolling around the campus hand in hand. Be brave, kids! Congratulations to Karen Raines who is wearing a hunk of ice on her left hand. It was purchased by the famous, "Senator" Boone Waldo.

Several of the girls on the campus are devoting their attentions to the armed forces. Some of these fair dames who believe in keeping up the GI morale are Mary Ann Judy, Geraldine Money Penny, Joan Wilson, Glenda Hinter, Joanne Melrose, Gloria Perkins, and Elizabeth Kidd.

Girls have made a declaration of spring by wearing their cotton dresses, Seymour blouses, etc.

How many believe in interdigitation before marriage? According to a survey conducted in the girls dorm, three-fourths of them did. Don't worry, fellas! It's just holding hands.

Bog Boggs is now wearing dark rimmed glasses.

Bertha Hutchinson is very serious about a fella named Bob who is serving in the navy. Anchors A-Way!

Norene Lipps Weds Otis Westfall, Jr.

In a double ring ceremony performed in the Laurel Lick Methodist church, Norene Lipps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lipps of Weston, Route four, became the bride of Otis Westfall, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Westfall of Jane Lew.

The marriage was solemnized April 11, at two o'clock by the Rev. Otto Reeder of Jane Lew before an altar arranged with baskets of white snapdragons, white carnations, and ferns. The vows were made in the presence of the families and friends.

The bride was attired in a navy blue suit with navy blue and pink accessories and wore a white rose bud corsage.

Norma Lipps served her sister as matron of honor. Leonard Tenney served the groom as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. Following the reception the couple left for a short wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Westfall are sophomores attending Glenville State college.

PIONEERS DROP FOURTH GAME

Wesleyan Extends Wave Losing Streak to Four

The Pioneers lost No. 4 without a win to Wesleyan's Bobcats by a 9-1 score April 22 at Rohrbough Field. Wesleyan's club won the game to all intents and purposes in the first inning when they pushed three runs across the scarred plate. Glenville's bats were silent as slim Bob Keane dealt out only five harmless singles. Cecil Johnson pitched good baseball only to fall victim to the usual disease—that is, Glenville's ability to make errors and inability to score runs. This year's team is young and inexperienced and the club has a green player in almost every position. Inexperienced players make mistakes and these mistakes should be anticipated. It is hoped that the Pioneers will improve by the end of the season and should have a seasoned club by next year as only Cecil Johnson will be lost by graduation.

A-B Drops Wave
Glenville dropped the third game of the season to the A. B. Battlers April 19 by a 10-3 score. Freshman Bob Poole held the Battlers at bay for three innings as the Pioneers trailed only 3-2. Then, in the fourth frame, A-B pushed across 5 runs on a walk, two timely hits, and four Pioneer miscues.

This was all for Poole and the Pioneers. Jack Whitman's two-run homer was merely adding insult to injury. The only bright spots for Glenville fans were Pete Kostyk's home run and some great fielding plays by Dick Barrett and Cecil Johnson.

Glenville Linksmen Win First Victory Over Salem Tigers

The Glenville State linksmen scored their first victory over the Salem college Tigers Monday, April 21, at the Sunny Croft golf course in Clarksburg.

During the course of the day Glenville played two golf matches. Teams competing other than Glenville were Salem and Fairmont State college.

The Pioneers initial victory over Salem was by the score of 10-3. But at the same time, Fairmont State defeated the Pioneers by score of 9-1-2 to 5-1-2. Fairmont went on to win the three-way meet by posting a top-sided 11-1-2 to 3-1-2 win over Salem.

Jerry "Moose" Kress, fifth man for the GSC team, led all individual Pioneer scorers by collecting a minimum six points for his day's work. Kress was followed closely by Paul Hunt, second man on the Glenville team, who scored 5 1-2 points.

Oliver Hunt collected 2 1-2 points and Lloyd "Bear" Jordan scored 1 1-2.

Ed "Dyke" Janiszewski, first man for the Glenville linksmen, shot the second best score among the Pioneer players by hitting an even 90. Even though shooting the second lowest score Janiszewski failed to register a point. The lowest score for

Recreation Class to Make Several Trips

A recreation class, under the direction of Coach Michael Josephs, is planning several trips to different recreation centers in West Virginia. This class is a required course for all Physical Education majors—12 members of Phy. Ed. 412 are in this group.

On April 29 this class will journey to Jackson's Mill for an all-day session. The program will be in charge of Miss Washburn, who will present ideas on administration, organization, and programs of a recreation center.

The class is also planning a trip to Oglebay Park in Wheeling, which is under the direction of that city.

Trips to Weirton, New Martinsville, and Coonskin Park in Charleston will complete the tour.

These trips will give the students first hand information about recreation. They will make practical use of this information and acquired knowledge by laying plans for the Gilmer county recreation center.

activities scheduled for 1:15 on the lawn of Verona Chapel hall.

Tours of the music department will be held at 1:30 and the students will have a chance to meet with a college adviser of the field of their particular interest.

Climaxing the events of the day will be the grand finale of the program, which will pit Dr. Michael Josephs' Glenville Pioneers and the Alderson-Broaddus Battlers' baseball team together in a game to be played at Rohrbough field from one until three o'clock in the afternoon.

Alderson-Broaddus and Concord State Will Be Played Here Next Week

Coach Michael Josephs' Glenville State Pioneers open their home season with the Davis & Elkins Senators today when they entertain the Elkins City nine at two o'clock at Rohrbough Stadium.

Also on the schedule during the next six days are Alderson-Broaddus Thursday, May 1, and Concord college Saturday, May 3.

Of the three teams the Pioneers have played but one, Alderson-Broaddus, during the '52 season. But both Davis & Elkins and Concord are reputed to be strong teams this year.

In their first encounter with the Battlers from Phillippi the Pioneers were defeated by score of 10-3. Pete Kostyk, hard-hitting freshman who entered school last semester, collected the first Glenville home run of the season when he blasted a fast ball thrown by Jack Whitman, A-B pitcher, over the left fielder's head in the seventh inning for an automatic four error master.

Thus far errors and inability to hit with men on base have been the Pioneers' stumbling block. In four games to date the Pioneers have committed twenty-three such miscues.

To predict a starting lineup for the next three contests would be difficult since Coach Josephs has been going through the experimentation process of shifting his players around in hopes he may find a winning combination.

Pitching, both starting and those who enter the games in relief roles, has been equal but not superior to that of the opposition. Although no Glenville pitcher has thrown a full game as yet, Johnson, Hupp, Poole and Stout have thrown as well as the opposition. In most cases errors have forced the Pioneer moundmen to leave the games.

Glenville State Offers Non-Teaching Degrees

Jobs Available Asserts Dean

There are many opportunities for work on the campus for those needing financial aid. Work is given to students who are able to do average—or above—classroom work while spending one to three hours each day at work. Work is assigned on the basis of need and ability. In order to keep the work, a "C" average must be maintained.

This year the following jobs were available to women: 16 waitresses, two full time library assistants (four girls are used), three girls to clean the women's dormitories, two or three typists for offices and two girls as part-time life guards.

The following jobs were available for men: work on the college farm, assistants in the chemistry department, and janitor work in the men's dormitory and all other buildings on the campus. During the month of March, 38 male students were employed on campus and at the college farm according to Dean of Men, G. Gordon Kingsley. The work hours ranged from six to sixty-five.

This year the budget for workshops, including the summer session, was $7,500. This is a reduction of $1,500 from last year's budget.

Any student who wants campus work next year should see or write to Dean of Women, Pearl Pickens or Dean of Men, G. Gordon Kingsley.

tion in Charleston. During this assembly the election of officers for the WEA for next year will be chosen. In addition to Glenville State President Harry B. Heflin, others nominated for this top education office are Dr. Delmas Miller, principal of University high school, and L. K. Lovenstein, assistant superintendent of Kanawha county schools.

Much could have been done by Glenville students to help Dr. Heflin to win this election if plenty of spreading the word and spirited campaigning had been carried on since the nominations were announced. To what extent this was done will be known following the election this weekend.
