Linen Service In Men's Dorm to Be Discontinued

State Board Of Education Announces Official Decision In Minutes Of Meeting

Linen will not be furnished for Glenville State college dormitories next year, according to a decision announced by the West Virginia Board of Education.

The following excerpt from the Board's minutes of the meeting held April 23, 24, 25 gives the official decision: "Upon motion duly made, seconded and carried, the Board directed that effective September 1, 1952, all students living in dormitories, and other student living quarters be required to furnish necessary linens, towels, etc., and be responsible for laundry and maintaining same in satisfactory and sanitary condition."

For Glenville State college, this decision will mean discontinuing service for Louis Bennett hall for men, Verona Mapel hall and Kanawha hall, both women's dormitories, are not at the present receiving linen service.

According to President Harry B. Hefflin, the Board's announcement was brought about because of rising costs and the necessity of discontinuing unnecessary services to prevent raises in room and board fees.

Bluefield State college is the only other institution that will be affected by the edict as other colleges discontinued dormitory linen service before the decision was made.

Senior Day Reactions Observed

Seniors Admire Friendliness Of GSC Students

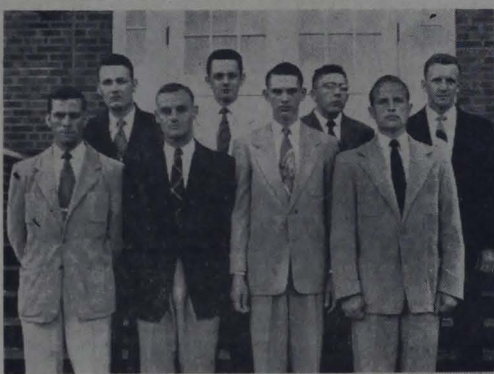

During the observation of Glenville State's annual Senior Day festivities May 1, the Glenville Mercury roving reporter conducted interviews with the visiting seniors to get their reactions and observations of the chosol.

Many comments were received on the friendliness of the students and faculty and the buildings of the campus. Many disagreed on which building they liked best, some groups saying that they liked the new Physical Education building while others sayings they preferred the Science building.

There was amazement at the size of the college in such a small town and at the space of the campus and buildings.

A few said that with the new Health building and all its equipment in use that it was just like a large college or university. Some of their comments are as follows: Ursie Dean, "Sutton—I think it

Mercury Musings

By BILL BORAM

The holiday for Louis Bennett hall residents is over at last. With the State Board of Education's edict that there is to be no more linen issued in state college dormitories, one very nice convenience will be gone for male campus residents.

Of course, for the women staying in Kanawha and Verona Mapel halls, this announcement will not mean much—they are furnishing their own linen already. But for the poor, lazy, spoiled man who have had merely to walk a few feet to the linen room once a week to get clean sheets and pillow cases, it will mean a great difference in routine. Probably the most interesting thing about the whole situation will be the fate of the few who can't even get up the energy to walk over to the linen room for their weekly issue now.

With the passing of another year's Senior Day several points of discussion remain with campusites. The first thing that can be noted is the fact that this year's observance was better organized and as a result was a better all-around success. The second and controversial point that is being hashed over by many is the suggestion.

Lane Attends School Of Artificial Insemination

Prof. Warden Lane, instructor in agriculture, attended a school of artificial insemination held at West Virginia University May 7, 8, and 9.

Artificial insemination, which has not been available in this county, has proven to be the quickest and most efficient way to improve a dairy herd, he said.

Final Step

With the announcement of the student body's favoring the raising of student activity fees for next year, the proposal offered by the student council almost a month ago has reached the final step in its journey to completion. If it is approved by the State Board of Education at their next meeting May 15-16, it will go into effect when fees are paid in September.

Being approved first by the student council and then by the school administration, the proposal was then put to a vote of the student body and approved by a vote of 181 to 59.

Although there has been much controversy about the proposal since it originated in the student council some time ago, the final vote by the ones who will actually have to pay leaves little doubt as to the feelings of the student body as a whole concerning the bill. For a while, because of certain outstanding incidents, it seemed that many students were opposed to an increase that would permit an extension of services by student activities, but when the final tally found only 59 students out of a student body enrollment of 340 opposed enough to the proposal to vote against it, the picture began to look brighter for next year.

It is regrettable when, in a case such as this, a certain group must be forced to pay more when they do not favor the increase, but in matters that affect the whole school, the only course is to do that which will best suit the will of the majority. In the case of the raising of student activity fees, the majority favored the increase, so like it or not, student activity fees will be five dollars more next year, and the college extra-curricular program as a result will be strengthened.—W. B.

Problem of Washing

While attending the assembly concerned with the proposed raising of activity fees to supplement the various departments of the school with enough money to continue or improve the activities which they present to the students at minimum costs, it occurred to the writer that there was one question, although not directly related to the discussion at the time, which could easily have been asked.

That question is: Why don't the residents of Louis Bennett hall have a washing machine of their own installed somewhere in the dormitory?

At present the boys have been using the washing machine at Kanawha Hall. Some even ventured into the basement of Verona Mapel hall for a short while. But this practice was discontinued by order of Miss Pickens, Dean of Women.

Two other washing machines, one in use by the athletic department, the other by the home economic department, are located on the campus. Neither of these are available for student use.

The washing machine in the basement of Kanawha hall is not in the best of condition. Most of the time when it is operating satisfactorily it is also leaking. Once a person throws in his washing and commences operations, he automatically qualifies himself as water boy for a herd of camels. That KH machine seemingly craves water.

Perhaps the description of the Kanawha hall washing machine is mildly inflated so far as its defects are concerned, but the point is that such a mechanically ravished machine cannot possibly serve the needs of its many users.

Time is another factor which could be attributed to the Kanawha hall washing machine's deficiency. Louis Bennett residents have permission to wash their clothes at designated periods of time. Many have been the times when a LBH resident has gone to wash his clothes during these periods only to find someone else (girls included) has beaten him to the machine.

After realizing the need of such a machine many people will ask this question: "Where will we put the machine after we purchase it?" The question is one which required no great amount of meditation to answer. It could be answered by asking another question: Where do you find room for all that junk in your basement? Or better still, "Where there is a will, there is a way."

A number of people wouldn't agree with such answers as are started in the above paragraph. Most likely they would rather take into consideration all the angles that go with the buying of such a machine. This, in a sense, is the best method—especially if their intentions are positively inclined. But, in another sense, "figuring the angles" can also be used by others who are not in favor of or are little concerned about the washing machine proposition to start with.

This editorial was not written with any thought of starting and spreading a washing machine controversial war around the campus. No polls should have to be taken to decide whether we should have one or not. No one should refer to the machines in use by the home economic or athletic departments. Someone realized the departments' needs for their machines a long time ago. Now they have theirs. The residents of Louis Bennett hall need a washing machine, too. But we haven't one. That's the only difference.

The Little Kanawha river has been referred to as the answer to our washing problems. This would serve the purpose just fine with the exception of three disadvantages. (1) During the winter the water would be too cold for washing purposes, (2) in the spring—too muddy, (3) in the summer—too stagnant. Furthermore, it doesn't rain often enough around here to keep our clothes clean.—BL

CROSS THE TABLE

This is really spring! After the dance last week, the dirt has been flying everywhere. Senior Day added its bit, too.

Hadge Hisslen, Donnie Weaver, Joe Riddle, Edsel Robinson, and Bernard Jolley liked Senior Day very much. It seems as though some lucky girls with money get all the breaks. Wait until they come to college and learn to count higher than five.

Sally Waggoner was operated on Tuesday night for appendicitis. Get well quick, Sally, we miss you. Jim Laughlin was on the campus Thursday. Jim graduated last year. He played football and was the top slugger for our baseball team.

The dance brought many old students back. Among them were Herb Shimer, Joan Sturm, Bob Hardman and wife, and Boone Waldo. Larry Gainer and Elizabeth Brown, Margie Bailey and Frank Vincent, John White and Betty Lyckas, Edsel Robinson and Marge Hardman, Charles Hoffman and Janis Maxwell, and Bob McCoy and Elsie Elwick were a few of the couples there. The Mercury is only so big, but everyone attending had a good time. Can you remember, huh?

Flash! Christine Hyer has been married since Easter.

Dottie Terrill and Doris Spicer both received fraternally pins this week. Good luck, girls.

Bernard Jolley, we were asked to inform you to please refrain from throwing your pop bottles on the golf course.

Carol Jean Hughes, there are snakes around 'the tool shed on the golf course.

Earl Reed from Parkerburg took Emma Lou Stewart to the dance. Incidentally, he is a champion sket shooter.

Gary Mullens and Gary Boggs visited our campus last week. We hear that they may come to school here next year. They are from Gassaway.

Charles Dodrill, was your last seven dollars wasted?

Remember, there is a little watchbird watching you.

Caesar and Cleopatra, George Shaw. Dodd, Mead & Company 1928 $2.40.

Shaw takes Shakespeare to task for having no message for the time. George Shaw's plays are created for this age. He is clever and witty. His writings are full of ideas for the present day.

Mr. Shaw has attained an eminent rank among English dramatists. He has also written essays and criticisms on art, music, and drama. It has been said Shaw's plays read more like novels than plays. His dramas are created more for the reader than the theatre. The audience misses the thoughts conveyed in the prefaces and notes of the author.

This book comments on Caesar and Cleopatra as it is given in the general preface to the volume entitled Three Plays For Puritans. Shaw remarks that it is the outlook on life, that changes, not the craft of the playwright. Shaw has written a prologue to proceed the five acts of Caesar and Cleopatra. The author has given notes at the end of the play.

In the second section of the book is found Shakespeare's Anthony and Cleopatra.

You will find the format of the book very attractive. Photographs from the productions starring Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh have been included. If you desire to read an old story presented with the latest mechanical improvements read Caesar and Cleopatra.

New Student Body President Fultineer Announces Plans For Coming Year

I am extremely grateful for this opportunity to thank the student body of Glenville State for bestowing upon me the honor of electing me President of the Student Council. I realize that I have a great responsibility and obligation to fulfill toward all of you. I will do my very best to serve in such a manner as to justify the confidence you have shown in electing me.

As I see it, the students of this school are of first, last, and greatest importance in all matters. The faculty and administration are here for the sole purpose of assisting us in obtaining a sound education with the least expense, the greatest thoroughness, and the most pleasure possible. Whether we have a good school depends largely upon what we do to make a good school.

In my opinion, the least government has always been the best government. The better we govern ourselves, the fewer will be the restrictions that are placed upon us. The best way for us to have good government is for us, the students, to develop an active interest in the affairs of the school. We are continually being told that we are the potential leaders of tomorrow. We must be allowed maximum freedom and responsibility to learn leadership. I can think of no better place to develop initiative and to put into practice our own ideas than in college. The faculty and administration quite obviously believe in this concept or there would be no such thing as a Student Council.

The function of the Council is to put into operation the plans and wishes of the students, within reason, of course. We can serve you efficiently only if you make your desires known to us. I hope that you will think of the Student Council with the accent on "Student." For better or for worse, it is your Council. If you have any suggestions, ideas, gripes, or plans which you think will be of interest or to the benefit of the entire student body, please do not hesitate to let some member of the Council know about them, so that we may put your wishes into action.

Pioneers Stop Concord For Second Diamond Win

Kostyk And Johnson Keep Up Homer Barrage; Bobcats Claw GSC For 10-5 Win

By MAURICE BUCK

Glenville Pioneers picked up baseball win No. 2 of the season by dropping down to scenic Athens and taking a 7-4 decision from Concord's Mountain Lions May 3.

The Pioneers, paced by Pete Kostyk's hitting and Dean Hupp's airtight pitching, came from behind with a 5-run 7th inning to nail down the win.

Concord jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning, but after that Hupp was in full command giving up only 4 more hits and one more run. Glenville won the game with a 5-run rally in the 7th when they put together a double, single, walk, a costly Concord error, and Pete Kostyk's second homer of the year. Johnson, Floyd, and Merriman also continued to hit the ball well for the Pioneers.

Bobcats Stop Glenville

Glenville diamond men dropped No. 5 against two wins bowing to the Wesleyan Bobcats 10-5 on the Tennerton diamond May 6.

The Pioneers outhit the home team 14-8 including Johnson's homer and 3 doubles, but wildness cost Paul Stout a 3-1 lead and the game when, in the 4th inning, Wesleyan put together 4 walks, 4 singles, and a hit batsman for 6 runs.

Bob Poole pitched adequate ball in relief but the Pioneers, hindered by poor base running, could not catch up. Three double plays snuffed out good Glenville rallies.

Cecil Johnson led the attack with a long home run while Kostyk and Joe Floyd blasted out a double and two singles each.

In co-operation with the West Virginia Agricultural Experiment station the college department of agriculture is conducting two experiments at the college farm. Students of agriculture have two 45x120 foot plots where they are growing two varieties of Bird's Foot tree foil.

Bird's Foot tree foil is a legume and, according to experiments, grows exceedingly well in damp, moist soil. At present this is the first of its kind to be grown in Gilmer county.

For the other projects, one and one-half acres of land has been sown with alfalfa and tall meadow oat grass. In this experiment the department hopes to verify reports that the tall meadow oat grass will act as a filler until the alfalfa comes up.

Golf and Tennis Teams Will End Seasons With Final Matches This Week

When Coach Michael Joseph's Glenville State baseball team tangles with the Fairmont State Falcons this afternoon at two o'clock at Rohrbough Stadium, it will mark the beginning of the last game to be played at home by the Pioneers this spring.

Two more games, one conference and the other non-conference, remain to be played. Friday, May 16, the Pioneers travel to Elkins to meet the Davis & Elkins Senators for the second time this season. In the first contest played between the two teams the Senators won out over the Pioneers by score of 18-9.

The last game of the season will be played at Marietta, Ohio, against the Marietta Pioneers. The score of the first encounter between the two teams was Marietta 12, Glenville 0. Much improvement can be detected in the Glenville nine since the start of the season. Fewer errors and much better hitting have made the Pioneers a team to fear in the conference.

Pitchers Cecil Johnson and Dean Hupp, both Grantsville Hi graduates, can be accredited for excellent mound performances of late.

Joe Floyd, Ervin Hull, Don Merriman, Paul Lanham, and Cecil Johnson have been connecting for timely hits. Pete Kostyk, most consistent batsman on the Pioneer team, supplies needed Glenville power at the plate.

While playing an entire game Kostyk has failed to hit safely but once. At one other time he failed to collect a safe blow while pinch hitting. To date Kostyk's batting average is a lousy .344.

picion as to whether anything is accomplished by all the time and labor spent. It is certain that the purpose of having the affair at all is to try to attract high school seniors to the college. Some would argue that few if any are swayed by such a short visit to the college. However, just by watching their reactions and talking to some of the visitors, it can be noticed that their brief view of the campus helps to form opinions as to where they will attend college. For the college presents, if nothing else, a mighty impressive sight to a visitor when it is all dressed up in the magic colors of spring. This beauty, however, is just an added attraction to the real selling points—the school's raw material in physical plant and student body. All in all, we don't feel the labors of planning a Senior Day are a waste of anything—even if the only gain should be good will.
