Riddle and Mason Are Named Candidates for Scholarship

English Literature and Church Music Are Fields Of Study of Applicants

Myron Lee Mason, senior from Clendenin, and Joseph Riddle, senior from Grantsville, have recently filed applications for government grant scholarships under the Fulbright Act, Public Law 584, for study abroad.

Mason, a vocal music major, has applied for a grant to the Royal School of Church Music, Canterbury, Kent, England, to study church music. Riddle, an English major, has filed for a scholarship to the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, to study English literature.

The Fulbright Act is a plan whereby students from American Colleges and universities are sent abroad to do study and research at government expense. The act was sponsored by Senator William Fulbright of Arkansas and has a dual purpose of providing young students with wider opportunities of study and solidifying international relations.

The two applications will be forwarded to the state committee on Fulbright scholarships where they will be evaluated along with all other state applications. The state committee will select two outstanding applicants and two alternates, and forward their records to the national committee. Those not selected in the state competition will be forwarded to the national competition where they will again be considered. Two scholarships are granted in each state each year with several more granted on the national level. Results of the selections will not be known for some months.

Prof. Marvin Newman is the Fulbright advisor on the Glenville campus, and is in charge of handling and forwarding all applications. Juniors who are interested in filing for next year's awards should contact Professor Newman sometime during the present school year.

Prof. Somerville Speaks At Lions-Rotary Meeting

Prof. Delmer Somerville of the education department was a guest speaker at a joint meeting of the Lions Club and Rotary, last week at Grantsville. Topic of the meeting was "Conservation and Education." The Lions were hosts to several farmers and local businessmen from Calhoun and adjoining counties.

CLASSES TO MEET

Classes will meet regularly on election day, Nov. 4, Dean Edwin P. Adkins announced. Students eligible to vote, however, will be permitted to go home for this purpose, Dean Adkins said.

Sadie Hawkins Plans Are Made

Committees for Annual Celebration are Named

Lonnie Miller, president of Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity, has announced the committees for the coming Sadie Hawkins day celebration and dance. The annual fraternity-sponsored affair is to be held Saturday, Nov. 15, and will mark one of the highlights of the school year.

Working committees were appointed as follows: activities committee; Don Weaver, chairman; Harold Hissam, and Edsel Robinson; decorating committee; Carlton Gaudet, chairman, Frank Vincent, and Bob Lanham; advertising committee; Paul Lanham, chairman, and Joe Riddle.

A number of orchestras are under consideration to play for the annual "Skunk Hollar Stomp" and a selection will be made and announced in the next few weeks. The program of the day's activities is being formulated, but the date for the Daisy Mae, L'il Abner election has not yet been set.

Anderson's Class Finds Pool Source Of Marine Life

Members of the materials and methods class are finding the pool at the county recreation center a veritable treasure-trove of specimens of an aquatic nature, according to Prof. A. H. Anderson, of the biology department.

The class is doing extensive collecting work of marine life, and find the pool an invaluable source for a variety of dragon-fly and may-fly nymphs. They have also discovered numerous microscopic specimens which live in the water of the pool.

Members of the class are investigating ways and means of interesting their future pupils in the materials at hand in their own environment, and this is their first opportunity for access to a natural supply-house.

Lloyd Jordan, senior, has transferred his student teaching from Calhoun county high to Richwood high. Lloyd, after completing his student teaching, will have a permanent teaching job at Richwood high.

Milligan Is Named Chairman of Group To Select Movies

Robert Milligan, student council, sergeant-at-arms, announces that a committee of three will be appointed to aid him, as chairman, in the selection of a list of movies they think the student body would like to see.

Prof. Byron Turner will then check with a commercial booking agency. The agency will send a proposed list of movies, from which the committee will select four to be shown at night.

An assembly committee will decide on three to be shown during the assembly hour.

Girls List Hunting Hints

Man Shortage Prompts Revision of Tactics

By JEAN ADAMS

A vital problem confronts the women of America: There is only about 98 percent of a man per woman. The 1950 census shows a total of 54,923,000 marriageable males and 56,991,000 marriageable females. Most women just aren't satisfied with any less than a 100 percent man, and the problem arises of who gets them and who doesn't. In order to help solve this drastic problem the women of GSC were asked what tactics they believed best or that they would use to secure a man. Here are the answers:

Jane Myers: None, I've already got him; (p.s.) I became acquainted with him in chemistry class and I propose that all girls take chemistry where there seems to be a greater number of men than women.

Kitty Raines: That's a good question! (What could she mean by that?)

Claire Bowles: Go west, young woman, go west. Dr. Fleck stated that there are more single males in the western part of the United States than in the eastern portion, so that's where I belong.

Susan Arnold: There is an old saying that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach." Try chocolate fudge cake; it really works wonders.

Helen Holmes: I believe that I would rely on that old adage that "you can catch more flies with sugar than you can with vinegar." I would try to develop a pleasing personality and leave the impression with a man that he's the only one.

Comments following the observance of the 19th annual Homecoming would indicate that although the celebration on the whole wasn't as well organized as in the past, students of the college made a better contribution to the day's success than was evidenced before.

Many observers, including President Harry B. Heflin noted the enthusiastic attitude and sincere effort which a majority of the student body extended in preparation for the annual affair.

Explanation for the apparent lack of preparation on the part of the alumni association lies in their pre-occupation with a much more important issue—campaigning for a school bond issue for Gilmer county. Since many of the most active alumni members live nearby, it is easily seen why they wouldn't have much time to work on the Homecoming celebration before October 2.

However, what success that was achieved in the observance can largely be traced to Frank Fultineer and his hard-working student council. Hampered by lack of time and little help, the council really got

Onimghows Hold Initiation For 15 Members on Oct. 14

Fifteen students were formally initiated into the Onimghow Players October 14, at 8:30 p. m., in the Louis Bennett lounge. They were Claire Bowles, Susie Belle Graham, Jean Fore, Wanema Davidson, Charlotte Feltner, Connie White, Patsy Lyon, Helen Holmes, Wanda James, Alice Anne Griffith, Joan Wilson, Clarence Maze, Roland Coberly, Frank Fultineer, and Felton Mick.

Upon completion of the organization's ritual of formal initiation, the new members were presented with corsages for the girls and boutonnieres for the men, of yellow mums tied with ribbons of blue and gold, official colors of the group.

Cake and punch were served for refreshment while the Players held a general discussion on topics concerning the duties and activities of the group.

Miss Marjorie Skelton, advisor to the Onimghow Players, was present and acted as chaperone.

"The Late Christopher Bean" Is Title Of First Of Six Lyceum Programs

A group of Barter players of Robert Porterfield's renowned Barter Theatre of Abingdon, Virginia, are scheduled to appear here Oct. 31 to present the first in the series of six lyceum programs. They will present Sidney Howard's "The Late Christopher Bean."

First produced by Gilbert Moller in New York, "The Late Christopher Bean" was one of the outstanding successes of the theatre season 1932-33. Howard has given a New England setting and American characters to the French play; Prenez Garde a la Peinture, by Rene Fauchois, to depict his play "The Late Christopher Bean."

The author has known what elements of his French model to keep, which to omit and what details of colored back-ground to keep. The theme of the play centers around the paintings of Christopher Bean and the unexpected rise in the value of his works after his premature death. The action takes place in the home of a country doctor where Christopher boarded and painted his famous paintings. This is a play with humor, suspense, and lovable characters.

Theatre Is Unique

The Barter Theatre is unique in that it rewrites its plays, presenting them in prose so that they may be better transmitted to the audience. The Barter players began their organization during the depression and the name was acquired as a result of bartering food and lodging for admission.

"Light Up the Sky" was the play presented Nov. 9, 1951, at Glenville. It was an outstanding hit in 1948-49 theatre season in New York. A Barter production was also given here in 1950 when the troupe presented Shakespeare's "The Comedy of Errors."

Home Ec. Club To Give Party

Glenville State's first large masquerade party, sponsored by the home economics club, will be held Saturday, from 9 until 12 p. m. in the old gym. The party is expected to be one of the biggest events of the year.

Plans have been completed to make it an evening of fun for all students who wish to attend. Everyone must come in costume. Harley Cullip, Braxton recreation leader, will serve as master of ceremonies. Many Halloween games and contests, square dancing, folk games, and ghost stories, will be features of entertainment.

The gym will be decorated with the Halloween theme of jack-o'-lanterns, black cats, witches, and corn shocks. A shadow-box, with a weird character, will furnish light for the spook den (gym).

Homemade cider and doughnuts will be served.

Freezer School Is Held Today

The freezer school, conducted by the home economics department, was held today in the college auditorium, from 1:30 until 3:00.

Miss Rachel Zickefoose, of Monongahela Power company, Clarksburg, was the principal speaker. She was assisted by Betty Robertson, home economist and hostess at the Farm Electrification building, of Jackson's Mill.

Freezer booklets from the NEMA were distributed to those who attended. Door prizes consisted of food prepared in the freezer school.

The Issue of October 2

When a 60 percent vote of the citizens of Gilmer county October 2 defeated a bond issue which would have provided much needed improvements to school buildings throughout the county, a rather discouraging picture was painted for those who are interested in promoting better educational facilities for the school children of the state.

A situation such as was presented on October 2 should be of notable significance for anyone connected with education. It is all very well to term it "a crying shame", "that's life", or "just one of those things". But, it is nevertheless something that cannot just be passed over and forgotten.

Although many may forget it and many more will be pleased because their vote helped to defeat the measure, the fact remains that the school children who are forced to go to class in an antiquated, outmoded building that has long been condemned will not be able to forget quite so easily.

Those students enrolled in college here who do not live in Gilmer county can have a feeling of relief because not only will they never teach in a structure such as Glenville high school but they also will never have to send their children into such a deathtrap to get an education.

The big question for all who are concerned about the failure of an apparently universally accepted measure for the furthering of education is "Why"—Why would any voter in his right mind vote against such a worthwhile bill.

The terms of the measure would provide for the floating of a bond issue in the amount of $525,000 for new school buildings, financing to extend over a 20-year period, and at the end of this period a balance of accumulated interest and 10 percent reserve for delinquencies to amount to about $74,000 which in turn would have provided for further school improvements.

Since paying for the measure would be an insignificant and inexpensive matter for the average county citizen and since the results would be so beneficial to all, the question of why it could be voted down is certain to arise.

It would seem that the voters lost sight of the real issue—the bond issue. Many shut their eyes to the actual problem and campaigned against the measure for other reasons.

Many who voted against the issue probably were the same persons who were opposed to electric lighting and the radio—were the same persons who said the automobile would never replace the horse and buggy. This person is the one who fears progress of any sort. He is the one who opposes anything put forth by another because it is not his idea.

Much of the 60 percent of "no's" represents the small, narrow-minded group who are fearful of anything that might benefit another community of the county. They let their petty interests and grudges sway them when considering such an important question.

But perhaps the most regrettable were the high school teachers who campaigned against the bond issue. It is difficult to imagine how an individual educated enough to be a college graduate could act this way. His degree certainly means little after October 2, 1952.

Perhaps underlying all this is the end that was being attempted by the whole issue. The purpose of putting the bond issue up for a vote in the first place was to try to better educational facilities for the residents of Gilmer county. Perhaps, if those who voted against the issue were properly educated in the beginning, the outcome would have been quite different. The belief is that education can cure many of the world's ills—it might have been thus in the October 2 voting. It is now just a matter of conjecture, but it should never be forgotten by anyone connected with education—WAB.

Where They Learn to Drink

There is not much comfort for the American home in the figures that have just come from the Yale Center of Alcohol Studies. After surveying 17,000 students on 27 campuses, the investigators revealed that 80 percent of the young men who drink and 65 percent of the young women acquired the habit before they set foot on the college campus. Furthermore, nine-tenths of the young men coming from homes where both parents drank were themselves drinkers, but only half of the sons of abstaining parents took up the practice. The young women students followed the same trends: the figures revealing proportions of four-fifths and one-fifth.

Of course, such findings do not rule out the influence of high school groups and other associations outside the home, but they point the finger of blame directly toward the place where father and mother try to teach their children "how to drink."

It is too bad that the home does not get better help from the radio, the magazines and even the church. The churches are doing better and better. Groups with a membership of 21,109,000 now require all members to abstain, and groups representing 5,051,000 make abstinence voluntary but urge it. But the home needs more than rules or resolutions, definite suggestions and support.—THE CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE.

Letters To The Editor

Readers Ask for Better Commuters' Room

Dear Mr. Boram:

Everyone knows that the football team plays an important part on the campus. The entire student body is interested in seeing them win a game, but how do they expect the team to win if they are not given support by the fans.

I am speaking of the attendance at the Fairmont game. Out of about 360 students enrolled in the college, less than 150 were present in the cheering section backing the team. With only three home games this year, wouldn't you think students would want to stay for a week-end to see the games?

Perhaps some students need to go home on week-ends, but not all of them. I believe one phase of college enjoyment is centered around our activities, and football would certainly be one of those activities. There is no way in which a student can be compelled to attend games, but I am sure they would enjoy them if they would.

The cheering section at the Fairmont game was small, but loud. We would like very much to have all students join us at the games, to prove to the team we are with them whether they win or lose.

Yours truly,
Ruby Ann Cromwell

Dear Editor:

Glenville State college is to be complimented on its friendly attitude. It gives newcomers a feeling of belonging and being one of the group.

The Student Union is one of the most popular campus spots, but there is a need we are all aware of—that of more space. If you go to the Union in the evening it is not a question of where you will sit, but where you will find space to stand. Therefore, many students who would otherwise spend their spare time at the Union go to town and try to find something interesting to do.

The town offers no entertainment which is profitable, and students are found wandering from one spot to another, restless and disgusted.

We are aware of the problem, we have talked about it, now let's make an effort to do something about it.

Sincerely yours,
Patty Sumpter

Dear Editor:

Have you ever walked into the commuters room at noon? If so, you have seen about twenty students seated any place they can find a place to sit, eating their lunches. Some sit on the desks and even in the windows because there aren't enough chairs for every one.

In warm weather you will notice small armies of flies seemingly conquering the place. When it is warm the windows have to be open yet there are no screens to keep the room a clean, healthy place to eat.

Notice the appearance of the room. Is it an attractive, well-arranged room? We believe a brighter color paint on the walls and a few pictures would change the appearance of the room. Ash trays are needed to help keep the room clean and attractive.

We hope you realize the commuting students constitutes a large part of the student body; therefore, let's make them feel at home by providing a clean attractive room where they can spend their time when they are not in classes.

Sincerely yours,
Susan Wiant

Hats Off Department:

Prof. Harold Orendorff and his Glenville State college band were a pleasing highlight of the Homecoming festivities. Addition of the lovely majorettes, Mary Burg, Connie White, Phyllis Greenleaf, Doris Spicer, and Joann Metz, has helped greatly in improving the group's appearance. It is apparent from watching the band's performance at half-time of home football games that a lot of hard work and practice are extended in preparing for their appearances. For a good job all the way, we this week salute Prof. Orendorff and his mighty college band.

Prof. Bessie Bell's work in having all alumni register last week-end should help tighten up this organization and help insure better preparation for such celebrations as Homecoming and the annual alumni banquet. It has long been a difficulty that because so few of the alumni's addresses are known they are hard to contact. Having each visiting alumni sign a card during the Homecoming week-end is a sensible step forward in bringing the school's graduates closer together.

William Ice and Larry Gainer, 1952 BS degree graduates, were recent visitors to the campus. Both are employed by Koppers corporation, of Pittsburgh. Koppers specializes in building by-product coke ovens. At present, Ice and Gainer are working on a construction project at the Ford motor plant, Dearborn, Michigan.

Glenville Downs Potomac On Eastern Trip, 14-0

Tennant's Pass To Spadaro Spark Win

Glenville College stunned the West Virginia Football world last Friday by knocking Potomac State's Catamounts from the ranks of the undefeated by a 14-0 score. In turning in their first win of the season, Glenville completely dominated the action until late in the third period when Potomac's superior weight and numbers began to tell. However, the Pioneers hung on grimly and won going away.

The first period was marred by fumbles and intercepted passes. Danny Hall broke up Potomac's first scoring threat when he intercepted a Catamount toss on the Glenville 10 yard line and raced 70 yards to the Potomac 20 before being pushed out of bounds. However, seconds later a Tennant pass was intercepted to end the first Glenville threat. The first period ended without score.

Early in the second quarter, following a Potomac State punt, Glenville began to move. Joe Riddel and Bill Hanlin got off to several nice gains. The pay-off came when Tennant hit Spadaro with 3 passes in a row, one for 30 yards, another for 25 yards, and the final one for 15 yards and a touchdown. Gainer's placement made the score 7-0. The Pioneers continued to threaten throughout the first half but could not score again.

The third period started as a nightmare for Potomac State as they drew two 15 yard penalties and then lost the ball on a fumble. Again Tennant unwound his arm, hit Merriman for a 13 yard gain to the 10, and on the next play tossed to Spadaro for his second touchdown of the afternoon. Gainer again converted to end the scoring at 14-0. Glenville.

From this point on, the offensive show was almost all Potomac State, but the Catamounts were unable to overcome the stubborn Pioneer line and pass defense to score. Fred Gainer and Ed Tekkell broke up scoring threats in the last period with pass interceptions while Frank Vincent and Paul Lanham covered Potomac fumbles.

Oliver Hunt could be called the "Tough Luck Kid" of the day. He grabbed a Potomac fumble in the air and dashed to the goal only to have a whistle-happy referee call the play back. The official ruled that the ball was dead before Hunt grabbed it. This of course meant that the ball was dead before it hit the ground.

In addition to this unusual interpretation of the rules, the huge congregation of officials (there were five of them) paced off 85 yards in penalties against each team and called no less than 23 rule infractions.

Bill Hanlin missed a touchdown by only two yards in the fourth period and could join Hunt in the "tough luck" column. This was a team victory throughout and marked improvement was noted in the defensive unit of the Pioneers.

Offensively, Tennant's passes to Spadaro, Merriman, and Hissam, and the running of Hanlin, Riddel, and Hissam were much more than the Catamounts had bargained for. As usual, Vincent, Jolly, Spencer, and Spadaro took turns at being the fifth man in the opponent's backfield in leading an improved Glenville line.

Basketball Practice Starts With Pre-Season Sessions

Basketball made its 1952 debut on the Glenville campus last week when Coach Michael Josephs held the first practice session for some 25 candidates.

With six members of last season's Pioneer squad missing through graduation, Coach Josephs faces a difficult rebuilding job if he hopes to equal or better the 1951-52 record of 13 wins and 13 defeats. Some solace can be gained from the fact that there are eight holdovers from the varsity and junior varsity squads. These returning veterans are Dick Barrett, Jack Tennant, Don Merriman, Bob Poole, Carlton Gandee, Joe Riddel, Ervin Hull and Bill Rumbach.

The squad is practicing every Monday and Wednesday at 9 p. m. in an effort to ready themselves for the impending WVVC schedule. Once Coach Josephs has a line on his material he will divide the team into two groups, the varsity and the freshman.

The Frosh quintet, under the direction of Glenville football captain, Billy Hanlin, have an extensive schedule facing them. Two of the better looking freshman aspirants are Ed Donnellan of Lost Creek and George Cook from Stanton, Virginia. Freshman football players who will report after the final game are Bud Huff from Glenville, Danny Hall of Man, and "Easy" Ed Tekkell of Fairview.

Varsity hoopers who are awaiting the termination of the football season are: Dick Barrett, Jack Tennant, Don Merriman, and Joe Riddel.

vision leadership. However, the pro season is still quite young, and every team is in the running for the top bunting.

In the state high school circles, the Barboursville Pirates, early season conquerors of Parkersburg, have been suspended from the WVHSAA for one month along with three other schools for allegedly playing a pre-season practice game. Along with the suspensions go all championship aspirations. With the elimination of Barboursville, the title chances of Weirton and Beckley are enhanced.

Down south, Big Creek high school of War ended Gary's long regular season winning streak and kept their own record unblemished. The charges of Glenville graduate Merrill Gainer are much in the running for the state diadem.

In class B ranks, defending champion Huntington Vinson has been suspended and runner-up Sissonville defeated, leaving the way open for a new champion.

Incidentals:

Big Jim Laughlin, former GSC great, is now head coach at Clifton Forge high school in Virginia. The "Dobber" was a former assistant coach at Ripley high school. He was replaced at Ripley by another ex-Glenville star, Joe Rader. . . . Quite a few former Pioneer athletes returned to their old haunts for the homecoming weekend.

Among them were: Joe Rader, Ralph Payne, Gene White, "Mole" Holstein, Frank Stanovich, Edmund Janiszewski, Jack Garcia, Jesse Lilly, Bob Hardman, Bob Conley, Sam Marchio, "Boone" Waldo, Herb Shimer, Ed Thorne, and a number others whom this scribe either did not see or recognize. . . . Morris Harvey's unexpected victory over Marshall's Big Green must have left a lot of sore spots (and not all physical) on the Thundering Herd campus. Any comment, Mr. Arnett? . . . It seems like a lot of football talent is going to waste on Glenville hill. Did you ever notice the rabid participation in the tough football games that take place in front of VMH? . . . Au revoir.

Agriculture Majors Teach Troy Classes

Three sophomore agriculture majors did substitute teaching in Troy on October 13, 14, and 15 according to Prof. Warden Lane. James Hardman, John Loyd, and Mark Melrose substituted for Vo-Ag instructor, Wendell Hardway, who has taken his judging team to the National F. F. A. livestock judging contest held at Kansas City, Kansas. The Troy judging team, which recently won its second consecutive state championship, will represent the state of West Virginia in the national contest.

James Hardman, a sophomore agriculture major from Spencer, taught Monday, October 13. Loyd from Sutton, taught on the 14th; and Mark Melrose, of Parkersburg, taught on Wednesday, October 15.

Greenleaf, Willadean Clarkson, Leta Gregory, and Genevieve Hinder. Other students assisting were: Susie Belle Graham, Maxine Edwards, and Joyce Georgalis.

Glenville college's Pioneers close out their home season with Saturday's encounter against the power-laden Senators from Davis & Elkins college.

The Pioneers have one game left away from home, that being next week with Salem college. This game will be played on the Doddridge county high school field at West Union.

This week's game marks the final home appearance of Captain Bill Hanlin, one of the finest backs ever to wear the Pioneer uniform. Other graduating men include Gene Spadaro, a defensive end almost without parallel this season; Joe Riddel, a hard working, hard-running back at home anywhere in the backfield on offense or defense; Charles Spencer, rugged tackle; Lonnie Miller, a scrappy offensive guard; Fred Gainer, an "old pro" at home in many positions on the defensive unit; Don Weaver, also a defensive guard; and Frank Fultiner, utility defensive back.

Davis and Elkins comes into this game a heavy favorite having lost only one game, this being to Morris Harvey by a 7-6 score. Then a week later, Morris Harvey stunned the football world by nipping the proud Marshall college team 14-13. However, a good game should be in prospect for Saturday and these seniors will be trying their best to pull an upset in their final appearance before many Glenville fans.

Library Science Program Announced By Prof. Miller

Students interested in library science are asked to see Prof. Floyd Miller, college librarian, immediately to plan schedules.

The program is set up so that the student is able to take all library science courses offered by the college in three years, and it is imperative that the work be started at the beginning of the sophomore year to complete the courses in time for graduation, Mr. Miller declared.

A total of 24 hours in library science is offered by the college, meeting State Department of Education requirements for a teaching field. This also meets with the requirements of the North Central association, an organization which rates secondary schools.

All courses required are listed in the college catalog, except English 201.

Field Not Limited

Library science, although a part of the English department, is not limited to people in the English field. There are a great many demands in the library world for people trained in the science field, business field, fine arts, etc., according to Mr. Miller.

The library science program is aimed at training people for school librarianship, sub-professional positions in public libraries, or for a background preparation for advanced training in librarianship, he explained.

Former Servicemen Given Hints By Veterans Group

Two important "helpful hints" to veterans holding national service life insurance are offered by the Veterans administration in connection with paying premiums.

1. It is not wise to send cash through the mail for premiums to the Veterans administration. It is much more practical to pay premiums either by a check or by money order. When payments are made in cash sent by mail, there is always the chance of it being lost in transit or when it is being handled in the Veterans Administration District Office. In the case of such a loss, the veteran could not be reimbursed and his insurance would be likely to lapse. The chance of loss is not likely when payments are made by check or money order.

Checks may be made payable to "Veterans administration".

2. Veterans should use the premium notice envelopes sent them by VA to mail their premiums in. When a veteran uses this envelope, he does not have to write any letter with it or make any notation on the envelope. The envelope contains the identifying number of his policy, so he can be sure that the premium will be credited quickly and accurately to him. Using the premium notice envelope saves time and is safe.

In addition, VA advises veterans to pay their premiums before or on the "due date" of the premium. A policy holder is allowed a grace period of 31 days for the payment of any premium. This is designed as an emergency protection to take care of cases where the policy holder delays his payments each time by using the grace period, he will not have the advantage of 31 extra days if an emergency does arise. He might lose his insurance protection in such an event.

Etching Exhibition Will Be Presented

An exhibition of signed original etchings and lithographs by some of the foremost living American artists will be shown in room 208 of the college Administration building for a two week period starting October 17 through October 31.

This is the traveling exhibition of the Associated American Artists Galleries of New York City, and the fee for such a showing is $25 for which five original signed etchings and lithographs may be chosen for the school's permanent collection.

'AND DARK AND TRUE AND TENDER IS THE NORTH'

Tennyson's lines seem apt in describing this graceful stranger from the cold, far north sighted from U. S. Coast Guard cutter Eastwind. The heavy-duty ice breaker spotted the berg as the ship crunched her way through ice fields to the Canadian-American weather station at Alert on the northern tip of Ellesmere Island. Bergs like this one break off their mother glacier, drift down to threaten North Atlantic shipping lanes.

Audio-visual Aids Used in Freshman Orientation Class

Audio-visual aids were used in the freshman orientation class, October 12. Prof. Floyd Miller showed a film on the use of the library and its facilities. Miss Pearl Pickens, dean of women, used student dramatization to illustrate correct behavior at dances, in the theater, in making introductions, in the restaurant, and in receiving lines. A movie, "Body Care and Grooming," was shown.

Highlight of the evening was an announcement by Frank Fultineer, student body president, saying freshmen could remove their caps. Fultineer congratulated the class on their excellent behavior while freshman rules were in effect.

Junior Management Exam Will Be Given This Week

The 1952 junior management assistant examination which offers outstanding young men and women an opportunity to begin a Federal career in administration, will be announced the third week in October, the Civil Service Commission said today.
