Loyd Receives Presidency At State Science Academy

By Sally Waggoner

John Loyd, sophomore agriculture major, from Sutton, was elected president of the State College Academy of Science at the state meeting held April 24, at Morris Harvey. James Hardman was elected secretary of the group.

Loyd served as secretary of the Academy and vice president of the Pioneer 4-H Club this year. Hardman is a sophomore agriculture major from Spencer. He served as treasurer of the Pioneer 4-H Club this year.

Others elected to offices were: Vice president, Ronald Smallman from Marshall; and treasurer, Betty Nuzum from Fairmont. Dr. Max Ward was appointed co-ordinator for the coming year.

The program consisted of a presentation of papers from three of the chapters: Glenville, West Virginia University, and Fairmont. Following this a general discussion on the good and bad points of the Academy was held. This discussion was led by president Billy Dean Hanlin. The discussion was followed by a business meeting, and a banquet ended this year's meeting.

Glenville State college students who presented papers and their topics were: John Loyd, "Nutritional problems in raising broilers;" James Hardman and Robert A. Hodges, "Aureomycin and vitamin B2 in swine nutrition;" John P. Arnold and Linger Arnold, "Physical properties of Krellium treated soil;" Dorothy Terrill, "Growth habits of the slime mold;" John P. Arnold, "The ballistics pendulum;" William Smith, "Factors influencing seed germination and seedling growth."

John Loyd summarized William Smith's paper for him. Smith was unable to attend the meeting because he was taking his Air Cadet exam.

The students placing highest on the papers will be announced at a later date.

KSK ELECTS HISSAM PREXY

Harold Hissam, junior from Sistersville, has been elected president of Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity for the 1953-54 year.

Hissam is a physical education major, a member of the G-Club, and has been elected vice-president of next year's senior class.

Harold Butcher, junior from Webster Springs, will serve as vice-president. Butcher is a social studies—business major. Butcher was elected treasurer of next year's senior class.

Other officers elected include secretary, Marvin Stewart, Sissonville sophomore; corresponding secretary, James Robinson, freshman hailing from Pawtucket, Rhode Island; treasurer, Charles Zakarian, junior, also of Pawtucket; chaplain, George Cook of Fishersville, Va.; and sergeant-at-arms, Ronald Godfrey of Grantsville.

Waldeck, James Receive Honors

William Waldeck was elected secretary of the state Alpha Psi Omega and Wanda James was named the outstanding performer in the Glenville State play, "Ways and Means", at the fifteenth annual meeting of the West Virginia Intercollegiate Speech Association held at West Virginia Institute of Technology in Montgomery April 24, 25.

Charles Dodrill was the Glenville entry in poetry interpretation competition which was held at 3 p. m. Friday.

Three one-act plays were held Friday night and three Saturday. The Glenville production was given at 9 p. m. Saturday night. Other schools entering the one-act play division were West Virginia university, Concord, Fairmont, West Virginia Tech, West Liberty.

Committee Reports On WSSF Fund Drive

Jane Myers, president of the Wesley Foundation, reported that $20.25 was collected for the World Student Service Fund in the campaign which was conducted on the Glenville State campus during the past weeks. Although the goal of the drive was $75, everyone was pleased with the results of the campaign.

The drive was conducted by members of a committee, whose members were from the Student Christian Association, Wesley Foundation, Baptist Youth Fellowship and the Student Council.

Commuter Life Investigated

Off-Campus Students Have Benefit of Home

By PATTY SUMPTER

In last week's Mercury, dormitory life was featured. Today we turn to a group who make up 30 per cent of the enrollment of Glenville State college, the off-campus student.

We see these students drive in each morning just before the clock strikes and hurry to class. Time is not as plentiful to them as it is to campus residents, because traveling to and from school cuts down their free hours.

After talking with some of the commuters, we find that it is a big financial help to them to stay at home. This does away with the quarterly board and room payments to which we dormitory students sadly wave goodbye.

These students feel that their biggest loss is not being able to take part in the campus social activities. (Continued on Page 2)

Mercury Musings

By BILL BORAM

This week's Mercury Musings will be devoted to highlights of the recent Nate Rohrbough Day, as observed by Sports Editor Jimmy Robinson.

Former Pioneer athletes got together on April 25 to pay tribute to their former coach, A. F. "Nate" Rohrbough; and as the saying goes, "a good time was had by all."

The big week-end started Friday evening with an informal gathering at the Conrad Hotel. Saturday afternoon, the boys registered at the physical education building, and a smoker was held in the recreation room. Later, a goodly part of the gathering drifted down to Rohrbough field, scene of many of their triumphs, to view the Glenville-Fairmont baseball game.

Raymond Boyles, superintendent of the Department of Public Safety, served as master of ceremonies for the formal banquet held in the evening at Kanawha hall dining room. Boyles kept the proceedings going at a lively pace and proved to be well-equipped for his job. He got proceedings underway with some group singing.

Fred V. Wilson, Sexton Wright, Russ Hardman, and Elmer English gave a good account of themselves in their rendition of "Dear Old Girl."

Bob Butcher, termed a good "whiskey singer", followed up with "Hand Me Down My Bottle of Corn." Former basketball great, Frank Martino added his bit with, "Bill Grogan's Goat", which obviously was an old Glenville favorite.

A moment of silence was set apart in memory of the former Glenville stars who had died since their days on the "hill." Many of the deceased athletes were killed during World War II.

While "Stank" Wilson was leading group singing, Stan Jeranko passed the remark, "Wilson can drink, but he sure can't sing." Jeranko, or "one-hand" as he was called when he was captain and left end for Nate's footballers, is one of the premier basketball officials in the state, and quite a (Continued on Page 4)

Barrett Named Senior Prexy

Richard Barrett was elected president of next year's senior class at a class meeting held at 12:45 p. m., April 28, in the college auditorium.

Barrett is a physical education major from Glenville. He is a member of the Holy Roller Court, G-Club, and is on the Pioneer varsity football, basketball and baseball teams.

Harold Hissam, physical education major from Sistersville, was elected vice-president. Hissam is a member of the Kappa Sigma Kappa and Alpha Delta Epsilon fraternities, and Pioneer varsity football team.

Alice Anne Griffith, business major from Glenville, was elected secretary. Alice Anne is a member of the Kappa Chi Kappa sorority and Alpha Delta Epsilon fraternity.

Harold Butcher, business major from Webster Springs, was elected treasurer. Butcher is a member of the Kappa Sigma Kappa and Alpha Delta Epsilon fraternities.

MENC Concert Is Presented April 30

Glenville State college branch of the Music Educators National Conference sponsored their annual Spring Concert in the college auditorium Thursday, April 30, at 8:15.

The college choir, orchestra, and band participated. Guest soloists were: Mary Faith Hobert, as pianist played "Impromptu" Op. 90, No. 4 by Schubert; Eugene Gherke, a violinist, played "Le Cygne" by Saint-Saene and "La Cinquantaine" by Gabriel-Marie; Professor Bertha Olsen chose selections by Bach, Beethoven, and Haydn-Biggs for the organ.

Kay Mullens and Ella Mary Hamric were in charge of the publicity for the concert; Clarence Maze sold tickets. Usherettes were: Bertha Turner, Joseph Sturms, Barbara Marley, and Jean Reeder.

Wesley Foundation Has Roast For Students April 24

Members of the Wesley Foundation held a weiner roast Friday, April 24, at the recreation center. Prof. Julie Mathews and twenty-four students from the Glenville State campus attended. Everyone had a wonderful time, according to Jane Myers, president.

4 Magna Cum Laude, 21 Cum Laude To Be Awarded Seniors

By PATTY SUMPTER

Twenty-five honor graduates are included in the list of 113 students who have applied for graduation from Glenville State college on May 25.

Four students who will graduate Magna Cum Laude are Leo P. Mason, Clarence Maze, Jr., Mayssel Moss Luzader and Joseph N. Riddel.

Cum Laude graduates will be Orpha Sullivan, Samuel Marvin Linger, Zelma Hedges Small, Albert Elza Burkhardt, Alexander Jokay, Eugene Hall, Georganna McCullough, Myron Lee Mason, Jean Arnold Adams, Joyce Georgalis.

Helen Marie Brammer, Mary Claudette Heffer, John D. Kingery, Cleburn Eugene Gherke, Frank Stanevich, Dennis Carlton Gander, Mary Evelyn Robinson, Loyd Frank Fullmer, William A. Boram, Margaret W. Stanevich, and Dorothy Jean Brannon.

Of these 113 students 69 will be graduated with elementary education degrees. Four will be graduated in elementary and secondary music, one in elementary and secondary physical education, and two in general elementary work with public school certificates.

Thirty-three students will be graduated in secondary education and four will receive degrees in liberal arts.

The following is a tentative list of graduates in addition to the honor students:

Journalism Students Visit Exponent Plant

Registrar Denver Arnett and members of the high school newspaper and advanced reporting and editing classes visited the Clarksburg Exponent newspaper office Tuesday, April 28.

This was the third visit to newspaper offices in the classes' study of methods of printing a newspaper, the other visits being to the Glenville Democrat and Republican Delta at Buckhannon.

While in the Clarksburg, the group was guided on a tour by The Exponent editor, Randal Strother. The tour started with Strother explaining the teletype machine and how the copy went from the reporters to the city editor, to the copy-readers, and then to the linotypists.

Next the class saw the linotype machines and how the mats were made to put on the press. From there they went to the press room where Strothers explained how the papers were run off. The press runs off 300 copies per minute. The tour ended by seeing the mailing room.

Students making the trip were: Patty Sumpter, Juanita Green, Mary Helen Sommerville, Sally Waggoner, Elaine Bell, Maurice Buck, William Boram, and James Scott.

No Congratulations

An editorial of congratulations or praise being such a rarity, we feel quite miffed that a golden opportunity for writing one was lost to us last week. This loss came about just as we were about to dash off a congratulatory piece concerning the Alpha Delta Epsilon fraternity's fine venture in holding an assembly which would bring together and recognize all departmental and organization awards at one time.

However, before we could insert a sheet of The Mercury's hallowed copy paper in our 1903 machine, news came in that the ADE had decided to drop plans for the assembly because of what was thought to be restrictive ruling from the "front-office."

The assembly, as it was originally planned by the ADE, was to be held in order to recognize all campus awards which previously had been given with little knowledge of anyone but the small group that was making the presentation; and to offer an opportunity to other groups wishing to make such awards. Such honors as the International Relations Club award, the Who's Who selections, and various other organizational awards were to be made all at one time in the auditorium so that the entire school could recognize the recipients. (In short, the assembly was to be merely one of recognition of established awards and any that may be added, regardless of all-school recognition and administrative restrictions.)

The administrative council objected to calling the assembly an Honor Awards assembly, saying that it would detract from the Honors banquet held some weeks ago. This, of course, seems a little far-fetched, since the Honors banquet merely recognized scholastic achievement and had nothing to do with any other type of award that might be given.

However, with all the objections that 'presumably brought about the cancellation of the assembly, we suspect that the actual reason for the opposition lies elsewhere.

It appears that scattered faculty disapproval came about because certain members had the feeling that they were going to be forced to compete with other departments for the best prize to be given for their honor student. However, it is unmistakably clear that the ADE meant to force no group or department to install such an award.

The entire situation grew to enormous proportions for no good reason. The ADE was trying to render a service to the school—their plans had to be dropped when the foundation for the assembly was removed.

In examining the ADE's plans, it appears that the affair was to be nothing startling or out-of-the-way—it was just to be an organized event which could offer a service to the college. However, once their plans became known, an immediate furor resulted among faculty and administrative members. ADE officers and advisor were called on the carpet to explain in detail about their plans, inquiries were held, and a general mountain-out-of-a-molehill situation developed.

Naturally ADE leaders were mystified at the minor inquisition that their thoughtful planning had brought about. They hardly knew what to do; but once the administrative council's ruling was handed down, they realized their planning was wrecked, and their only alternative was to abandon all hopes of staging the assembly this year.

Briefly, as is outlined in the restrictions placed on the event by the council, the principal objections to the assembly seem to be that it would bring about discrimination, it would take something away from the annual Senior assembly, it would bring about added expense, and its name was misleading.

The rulings which were to be enforced if the assembly were to be held would eliminate the honoring of and the Who's Who selections on the grounds that they were a part of the Senior assembly and should remain so. Of course, it can readily be seen that if these are removed from the Awards assembly, the ADE venture would immediately be wrecked, as they naturally would be the top awards given.

We regret that our plans for writing an editorial of congratulation had to be disrupted, but we still would like to take this opportunity to express the appreciation of The Mercury to Mrs. Genevieve Butcher and the Alpha Delta Epsilon business fraternity for the efforts in attempting to do something fine and unselfish for the school.—WAB.

tivities to the same extent as the dormitory students.

However, they hastily add that they like being able to be out later than 9 o'clock. Their hours are usually not restricted; if they are, 11 o'clock is considered reasonable for dates. On special occasions they find they have much more success in talking Mom into staying out late than campus coeds have with house mothers.

When their curfew time rolls around the off-campus girl can invite her date in for a snack, and if she shyly kisses her goodnight, there is no one to peep—except, mom, dad or maybe the kid sister. Living at home enables these students to be with their families. They feel that the help and advice their parents give them is the loss of the campus student.

Off-campus students are not so interested in the college as the campus residents because their attentions are divided between home and school life. On the campus, college conversation is all around us, but at home the everyday routine of work and household problems are heard.

One of the biggest things the off-campus student misses is getting to know the other students well. Some of the most lasting friendships that exist were made in college dormitories.

Students Plan Programs

A group of Glenville State college students, similar to the Pioneer team of the past, will present a program to two schools this week. The group will visit Sutton high school on May 7 and Bellington high school on May 8.

Registrar Denver F. Arnett said that it is somewhat of a curtailed program because of financial reasons. The students and their advisor are visiting only those schools which have requested for a group from this college. In the past, the Pioneer team visited the high schools of Central West Virginia and gave a musical program, with some student stressing the advantages of this college to the graduating seniors.

Prof. Harold Orendorff, who is in charge of the group, said that the program is not completed yet. Others in the group are: Kent Duffield, freshman from Sutton; Carl Galgani, senior from Parkersburg; Mary Faith Holbert, sophomore from Webster Springs; Donald Arbogast, senior from Bellington; William Waldeck junior from Spencer; and Lonnie Miller, senior from Webster Springs.

Mrs. Smythe Attends State Presbyterian Conference

Mrs. Olive Smythe, housemother of Verona Mapel hall, attended the Presbyterian Church Conference for Women at the Second Presbyterian church in Huntington April 22 and 23. The group stressed the need for uniting for peace.

Mrs. Theresa Strothers served as housemother for the girls in Mrs. Smythe's absence.

Also named as best performers in their respective plays were the following: John Naegele, West Liberty; Dale Vickers, West Virginia Tech; Tom Gentry, Concord; Richard Lawrence, West Virginia University; and Pat Blake, Fairmont.

Critic judge for drama and interpretation at the festival was Willard J. Friederich, head of the department of speech, drama and radio, Marietta college, Marietta, O.

During the annual observation of Senior Day on Glenville State campus April 23, the Mercury interviewed seniors as to their impressions of the college.

Favorable comments were received on many features. Practically every student interviewed remarked upon the superior Health and Physical Education building. Others, after being on the campus only one day, found the friendliness of the students pleasing, the campus clean, the coeds attractive, and the hills hard to climb.

Some of the comments received were as follows:

David Riggs, Cowen—"It's a nice college. I like the gym. I suggest that you put trolly cars between the buildings."

Helen Sears, Gassaway—"The thing that impresses me most is the friendliness of the school. I think it is a nice college and I would like to come here myself next year."

Dick Miller, Cowen—"Glenville has the nicest gym I have seen. I think senior day is a good idea. Edward Wood, Clendenen—I think Glenville is one of the top colleges in West Virginia. The physical education building and everything in that department is very impressive."

Joyce Bourn, Gassaway—"I think you have a very nice commercial department. I am especially interested in commercial subjects."

Bill Aubazzino, Cowen—"I like the physical education building, and I think the school is very clean. Oh, yes! the girls are awful pretty."

Poole Hurls 3-Hitter In 10-0 Rout of Tigers

Tekeili Leads Attack As Ratliffmen Roll Over Hapless Salem

By MAURICE BUCK

Glenville State diamondmen picked up their second win of the season by clipping the Salem Tigers 10-0 last week. The Tigers were never in the contest as the Pioneers picked up three runs in the second inning.

"Big Barney" Poole would have needed only these as he carved out a 3-hit shutout win for his second of the season. Poole was in complete command as he gave up three harmless singles, passed but one, while whiffing nine. Glenville's defense returned to par, committing only two harmless errors.

The Cats played good defensive ball, but their inexperienced pitcher was "easy meat" for the G-Men. The game was over for all practical purposes in the second inning when Tekeili led off with a home run, Floyd and Butcher singled, Poole doubled, and Lanham singled for three runs.

The Pioneers clinched the game in the fourth when Butcher doubled, Lanham, Cook, and Merriman singled for three more runs. Ed Tekeili, frosh outfielder, was the hitting star of the day as he pounded a home run, double, and a triple and scored three runs. Poole helped his own cause with 2 hits as everyone on the team hit safely.

Cook, Riddell, and Merriman turned in some good defensive plays for the Pioneers. Only seven innings were played, due to the late starting hour.

Betty Sims Elected Kappa Chi President

Betty Sue Sims was elected president of the Kappa Chi Kappa sorority for the coming year. Betty Sue is a sophomore home economics major from Parkersburg.

Other officers elected were: vice-president, Norene Westfall; secretary, Loretta Polling; corresponding secretary, Alice Ann Griffith; treasurer, Virginia Harris; sergeant-at-arms, Virginia Johnson; pledge mistress, Dorothy Lanham; and chaplain, Bonel Polling.

Faculty Assembly Is Given April 30

Members of the Glenville State faculty participated in an assembly in the auditorium April 30.

A skit, "Low Justice for the Exulted Student", which was written by Prof. Epsy Miller and Prof. Hunter Whiting was presented by the faculty. Members of the cast were: Pres. Harry Hefflin, Dean Edwin P. Adkins, Dean Pearl Pickens, Dean G. Gordon, Kingsley, Prof. Denver Arnett, Prof. A. H. Anderson, Dr. Byron Turner, Prof. Stanley Hall, Prof. John R. Wagner, and Prof. Marjorie Skelton.

A singing quartet and a non-singing quartet were presented. Prof. Bertha Olson played several

They Got Their Goat

Brave Goat-Hunters Find New Sport Is Profitable

Several years ago, Delbert Stalnaker, a resident of a farm west of Glenville, bought two goats and turned them loose on the farm for the purpose of clearing off brush.

These goats multiplied to the point that this year they had increased till they were not only eating brush on the Stalnaker farm, but also traveling onto neighboring farms. So, Mr. Stalnaker gave notice that anyone who wanted to hunt the goats could do so.

Three Glenville State students, Richard Tolliver, Edsel Robinson, and Donald Weaver, went to the Stalnaker farm April 27, but were not successful in their venture. On their trip the next day, they killed a kid and a billy goat. The kid was barbecued at the recreation center Tuesday night.

Some other students have gone hunting but have not been so successful as Weaver, Robinson and Tolliver.

It was reported that 100 goats have already been killed. Pictured above is Richard Tolliver, Donald Weaver, and Edsel Robinson, goat hunters.

Large Crowd Attends Annual Court Dance

Judge Carl Galgani announced that the Holy Roller Court Ball which was held May 1, from 9-1 p. m. in the old gym was a huge success.

Students, faculty, returning court members, and numerous off-campus persons danced to the music of Ronnie Singer's orchestra from Parkersburg.

The gym was decorated with dogwood blossoms, black and white crepe paper, and the traditional Court paddles with each member's name printed on them.

Wanda Carol Taylor, sophomore from Spencer, was crowned queen of the Court Ball during the first intermission. Wanda is the second queen to have been crowned.

Galgani also stated that there was a large number of old Court members who attended the dance.

Brammer Nips Quinn 17-18

Helen Brammer's WAA softball team took a close victory from Kathleen Quinn's nine Tuesday night in the gym. Quinn's team took the lead in the first inning by scoring two runs while Brammer's team remained scoreless.

Brammer's team rallied in the third to score eight runs, but was unable to meet Quinn's tally of 14 runs. Going into the last half of the fifth, Quinn was leading by a 16-12 margin. Brammer's team scored the necessary five runs to put them out in front 17-16 and end the game.

Freda Peters of the winners and Mazie Hughes of the losers each scored four runs from four trips to the plate.

The second game was played between Betty Jo Simons's team and Ginny Harris's. Harris's team scored 12 runs in the 1st inning to take an early lead. By adding 8, 6, and 6 runs in the next three innings they won the game 35-16. Harris's team were unable to match Simons's score at any time during the game. Betty Cooper and Susan Armentrout each scored five runs for the winners. For the losers, Claire Bowles, Joan Melrose, and Jean Fore scored three runs each.

Pioneers Meet A-B Battlers In Twin-Bill Today at Field

Glenville State plays their first* double header in many years (barring rain or snow) today with the Alderson-Broadus Battlers.

First game is slated to get underway about 1:30. The games will be seven inning tilts with both clubs expected to go all-out to win today. Coach Carlos Ratliff is sure to use his "ace", Big Bob Poole, while A-B is likely to counter with the always-tough Adam-check.

The other game starters are not as well known, although A-B seems to have found a good starter in Hull. The Pioneers are likely to counter with Barrett or Popp. Both clubs will be "up" today as the Pioneers and Battlers are becoming great rivals. Last year saw A-B winning 10-3 at Philippi and Glenville taking a 12-5 win here.

Saturday will see another twin-bill, this time with the Concord Mt. Lions. This will be a morning-afternoon affair, first game at 10 a. m., second game at 2 p. m. The double-headers are the result of earlier wash-outs of single games.

The Pioneers led Concord 3-0 at Concord early in the season in the fourth inning when rain washed the game out of the records.

Spadaro Leads Cats' Victory

Caltrider's Cats opened the MAA softball season with a 6-5 victory over Whipkey's Whales. The winners sewed up the game in the first inning when they picked up four runs. They added one in the third, and the winning run in the fourth. Whipkey's team fought back after the wild first inning, but could never quite catch up.

Winning pitcher Gene Spadaro pitched good ball, giving up only four hits; but his team mates' errors kept him constantly in trouble. Bill Powell was the losing pitcher. Fultiner, Cline, and Lazar led the winners at bat, each getting two hits.

Campus Politician Is Subject for Galgani's Latest Chesterfield Guessing Competition

Local campus politician pointing his finger at The Mercury readers this week is the subject for Chesterfield agent Carl P. Galgani's latest cigarette guessing game.

The rules for this game require that the contestant write his guess on the back of a Chesterfield wrapper and submit it to Galgani. The first correct guess wins for the person submitting it a free carton of Chesterfield cigarettes.

In helping to give some clue as to the identity of the pictured student, Galgani said, "He is a well-known Louis Bennett hall resident who is active in both politics and athletics."

convinces a lot of students to come to college who wouldn't come otherwise.

Shirley Mae Sumpter, Burnsville — I think the physical education plant is the most impressive thing on the campus. The swimming pool is beautiful. I also like the business department very much.

Barbara Goff, Cowen — The college is nice and has a good location; but you get tired climbing hills.

opinion Glenville is one of the best colleges in the state. I would like to attend here to be a physical education and health teacher. Senior day is a good thing because it gives the student a chance to find out what college has to offer for himself, and he doesn't have to take other people's word for it.

Falcons Slaughter Pioneers 21-6 with Aid of 10 Errors

Fairmont's Falcons clubbed four* Glenville pitchers for 16 hits and an easy 21-6 diamond victory before a disappointed crowd of Nate Rohrbough day fans April 25. The Falcons, undefeated thus far in the conference, pounded the inexperienced hurling staff hard, and the infield chipped in 10 errors to add to the slaughter.

Dick Barrett started, and between being hit hard and being the victim of some nightmarish fielding, trailed 15-2 after five innings. Don Weaver, Bill Rumbach, and Mike Popp followed as the lusty Falcon maulers ran up the score.

Glenville could not get started against three hard throwing but wild Fairmont pitchers. The entire line-up, save the pitcher picked up a hit each.

guy, we might add.

Emcee Boyles made mention to the fact that GSC had continued to make the former students feel as though they were still part of the institution.

Jake Fitzpatrick, without whose tireless efforts the testimonial would never have been held, received a tremendous ovation from the group in recognition of his fine job.

Miss Naomi Albanese, college dietitian, was presented a gift as a token of appreciation on behalf of the alumni. Miss Albanese then introduced the girls who had worked so diligently waiting on tables.

President Harry B. Heflin made a brief speech of welcome to the assembly and noted that during their undergraduate days, Nate's athletes had made many marks that could never be erased. Forgetting about their athletic achievements, the men got a big chuckle out of this one.

Former president Dr. E. G. Rohrbough received a standing ovation from the group upon being introduced by Emcee Boyles. Dr. Rohrbough related his first encounter with Nate when the latter was applying for the vacant Glenville coaching job. Nate made his qualifications quite clear to Dr. Rohrbough with little sense of modesty. Nate's confident attitude convinced the Glenville president that this was the man for the post. Upon recommending Nate to the Board of Education, President Rohrbough quipped, "He is the only man who doesn't give a hoot for a regiment of British infantry."

Dr. Rohrbough conceded that he might be related to Nate, but "neither would admit it."

Mrs. A. F. Rohrbough, Nate's attractive wife, solemnly thanked the group for "the greatest day in our lives."

Nate's mother, Mrs. A. A. Rohrbough, was also presented to the gathering. Mrs. Rohrbough is known throughout the state as a great basketball enthusiast, never having missed a state college tournament game since its inception.

Numerous dignitaries were introduced, including many state officials, education leaders, and newspapermen.

Nate's talk was greeted with great reverence by the hushed assembly. He told numerous anecdotes that seemed to move him just as much as it did his "boys".

He credited much of the success gained by his teams to the fine cooperation given him by Dr. E. G. Rohrbough, who was as hearty a fan to be found in Glenville in the "old days."

The former Pioneer coach told how he had every nationality and religion represented on his teams and not once did he hear a word of dissent.

He went on to tell of the special "something" that was instilled in every Glenville student. The entire student body was captured by this intangible spirit that made them all proud to be a part of it. During his travels he has seen many collegiate athletic contests and particularly the University of Kentucky basketball team. He never once saw the kind of spirit that prevailed at Glenville during the 1920's and 1930's.

Gordon Elsmo, an ex-football captain, presented Nate with a check to buy a new set of golf clubs.

Elsmo told a story about the popular Jeranko that left the latter a little red behind the ears. It seems the Glenville boys had gone to Pittsburgh to watch the Pirates and Cards tangle at Forbes Field. A group of youngsters mistakenly identified Jeranko as the homely St. Louis third baseman, Jim Bottomley, and surrounded the Pioneer athlete in search of autographs. Jeranko readily obliged each and every one of them, and the lads strode off thinking Jim Bottomley was one swell guy.

Jack Conrad, (his father owns the hotel), was very helpful to this reporter in identifying the various ex-Pioneers seated at the banquet

Conrad was pleased to hear of the newly-instituted "Frank Montrose Memorial Award." Jack, now teaching in the Morgantown school system, labeled Montrose as "one of the greatest halfbacks ever to play at Glenville".

Lawrence "Boxcar" Hamilton, the Grantsville lawyer, proposed that the group form a permanent organization. Upon unanimous approval, Jake Fitzpatrick was appointed chairman of the proposed permanent body.

Don't you want to try a cigarette with a record like this?

1. THE QUALITY CONTRAST between Chesterfield and other leading cigarettes is a revealing story. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.

The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine—shows Chesterfield quality highest

... 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL!

2. First to Give You Premium Quality in Regular and King-size ... much milder with an extraordinarily good taste—and for your pocketbook, Chesterfield is today's best cigarette buy.

3. A Report Never Before Made About a Cigarette. For well over a year a medical specialist has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months. He reports ... no adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.
