State Festival Play Selected

Rehearsals Started On 'The Roman Kid'

The theater die-hards of Glenville State college have now forgotten their southern accent of "The Little Foxes" and are attempting to cultivate an Italian or Viennese accent. For the past two weeks, rehearsals have been held in preparation for the players presentation of "The Roman Kid" in the annual West Virginia state speech festival at Bethany college March 19-20.

"The Roman Kid", a one-act play adapted for the stage by Paul Gallico, is from a story by the same name. It is a love comedy about an American sportswriter and a Viennese girl.

Members of the cast are Jerry Gass, Bertha Turner, Charles Dorrill, Thomas Reed, William Friend, and Wanda Lea James. For the oral interpretation selection, Betty Jo Simons will do selected readings from "John Brown's Body."

With the southern accent for "The Little Foxes", an Italian accent for "The Roman Kid", and an Irish brogue for the forthcoming MENC presentation, "Finian's Rainbow", the acting cast is beginning to sound like the Biblical tower of Babel.

28 Schools Reached By College Testing Program; 8 Remain

Eight high schools remain on the testing program being carried out by faculty and students of Glenville State College. Seniors in 28 schools have already taken the psychological examinations.

Purpose of the examinations is to provide information for the principal so he can counsel the high school seniors in selecting their vocation.

Turner, Jean White, and Patty Reynolds will go to Cowen, Weoster Springs, and Walkersville; March 22, Prof. Carl B. 17 Scholarships Available to H. S. Seniors; Dr. Heflin Urges Applicants to File Early

Although the complete list of scholarships to Glenville State College has not been compiled, at least seventeen scholarships are known to be available.

Five scholarships, covering cost of tuition and all fees, are awarded each year to Glenville State College by the West Virginia Board of Education. These scholarships, of four years each, are for elementary teachers and each applicant must pledge himself to teach four years in the elementary schools of West Virginia following graduation from college. Scholarships awarded are based upon scholarship, personality, aptitude for teaching, economic status, and interest of the applicant as determined by the College scholarship committee.

Other tuition scholarships are:

James and Olsen scholarship, recipient of which may be from anywhere in West Virginia; Kanawha Union bank who offers five scholarships, one to each of the five high schools in Gilmer county, O. T. Law scholarship, offered to a graduate of Troy high school, Glenville Women's club, assigned to a graduate of Glenville high school; Glenville Rotary club, and Glenville Civic club.

Information concerning additional scholarships will be printed at a later date. Persons interested in the scholarships should have their application in before May 1. Dr. Harry B. Heflin has announced. Further information concerning these Scholarships is available from the Scholarship committee, Glenville State College.

Jack D. Cawthon, sophomore English major from the Northview section of Glenville, has announced his candidacy for the sergeant-at-arms post in the coming Student Council election.

Cawthon is the first candidate for the post and also the first non-resident student in several years to run for the student governing group.

Recently named as editor of the Gilmer county Republican publication, The Pathfinder, Cawthon has been the staff photographer for the Mercury the past two years. In addition to being a three-year veteran of the Glenville high school student council, Cawthon is president of the Commuters club, an organization of off-campus students.

Cawthon's announcement brings the total number of candidates to five, all for different posts. Thus, the next announcement will bring about a head-on meeting for at least one post, a situation that should start the ball rolling in an otherwise quiet pre-election period.

Candidates who have announced thus far are Marvin Stewart for president; John Lazear for vice-president; Olga Pashkevitch for secretary; James Hamrick for treasurer; and Cawthon for sergeant-at-arms. In addition to those who have named the position they are seeking, Steve Rohr, Edward Tekleh, and Donald Deal have announced that they would run but had not yet decided what position they will apply for.

'Finian's Rainbow' Auditions to be Held In Music Room Today

Auditions for the Broadway fantasy, "Finian's Rainbow" will be held today beginning at 2 p. m. in the music room. The music, speech, and physical education departments will present the musical, and the local chapter of MENC is in charge of the presentation. Any student of the college who wishes to do so may try out for a role.

Prof. Harold Orendorff, of the music department, has released the names of some of the main characters. They are Finian (the male lead); Preacher John; Mr. Robust; Sharon McLoneran (female lead); the sheriff; and Susan.

Woody Mahoney is the type of character who carries a guitar to impress ladies, although he can't even strum a tune. Og is a leprechaun who turns into a human being, and thus brings about a true feeling of fantasy throughout the play. Senator Rawkins (Sen. Bill-board Rawkins) and a Gopeler quartet are the other major characters. The Gopeler quartet need learn only one song.

There is a chorus of singers, dancers, an orchestra and many, many other minor roles.

Professor Orendorff has invited everyone to try out for a part in "Finian's Rainbow" which will be presented in May.

Final Deadline Met; Editor Thanks Aides

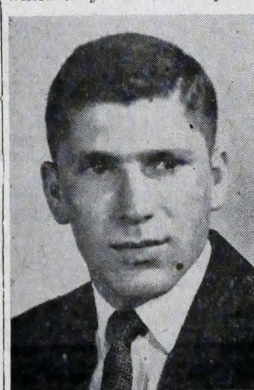

Sally Waggoner, editor of the Kanawhachen, has announced that the final deadline has been met completing the 100-page annual. This deadline consisted of 20 pages which completed the basketball section, and contained advertisements and miscellaneous shots.

Editor Waggoner wishes to thank all those who helped to compile and edit the yearbook. She said that the yearbook should be received the latter part of May.

New Nominating Procedure To Be Outlined at Assembly

Student Council President Paul Lanham will officially open the 1954 student council campaign tomorrow during assembly period when he will outline the newly adopted procedure for students desiring to run for a Student Council post.

Following Lanham's talk, students who recently made visits to the state colleges will report on their findings, after which they will answer questions from the audience.

PAUL LANHAM

In previous years candidates for Student Council offices have been nominated by a special committee named by the Council president. The 1953-54 Council has recently adopted a plan that will allow any student the opportunity to become a candidate if he submits a written platform and 10 student signatures.

The platform should contain the student's plan of procedure if he is elected and the measures he will introduce and support during the next school year.

Students who sign these platforms do not necessarily pledge their support to the candidate, but do consider him an able candidate for the office. In such a situation it is possible for one student to sign for any number of aspirants, if he considers them worthy contenders for the Council.

The platforms and signatures should be submitted to a Student Council officer not later than April 1. One week later, on Thursday, April 8, these candidates will be introduced to the student body at a

Commuter Vote

Certainly the most important political development of the student council campaign thus far was the recent announcement that Jack D. Cawthon would be a candidate for the 1954-55 student governing body.

The importance of the announcement lies not in the fact that an individual has announced his candidacy, but the mere fact that Cawthon's presence in the race insures a large commuter turnout, a situation that will emphasize a fact that few political aspirants are willing to appreciate. That is, the independent, non-fraternal groups hold the controlling hand in any student body election.

This independent group is divided into two groups, the on-campus students and the commuters. Even if a candidate had the support of the local fraternal and sorority organizations, a situation that is virtually impossible on this campus, he could not win without the independent group that composes a huge majority on this campus.

The situation of a large turnout of independents has not been felt for many years because the commuters have been staying away by the hundreds; only the on-campus independents have been exercising their obligation and privileges of voting for their governing officers.

In the recent "Who's Who" and Homecoming Queen elections, the off-campus students were conspicuous by their absence. Last year's Student Council election showed only a slightly better representation from the commuting group, but certainly not enough to become a major factor in the election.

We believe that Cawthon's entrance into the race may provide the stimuli in bringing this group to the polls in such numbers that they must be regarded as the most important single group participating. Cawthon has been a champion of commuter rights and privileges as well as their leader for better conditions in their gathering place, the commuter's room. Also, he was the president of the now-dormant Commuter's club.

Lack of interest was the principle reason why this body is not organized today. Will this same lack of interest keep this body from voting this election day? If the commuters do mend their ways, then council aspirants had better start politicizing within ear shot of the commuter's room because they are the people that could swing this all-important election.

It could easily be assumed that more than 100 commuters will turn out for this election. We can also assume that these 100 off-campus students will vote for Cawthon, but who will they vote for in the other positions? Here are 100 open-minded, non-obligated citizens of our college community entering the election that we on-campus residents have come to regard as our own private affair, mainly because the off-campus group has turned their back on our elections so many times in the past.

This year they may have the incentive since from their midst is a contender. Will they rally to the cause and prove the dominating factor in what promises to be an air-tight campaign, or will they revert to form and boycott the election and leave it once again exclusively to resident students? Jim.

A Great Coach

This is a brief observance to the man who means so much to our athletic program that if he ever left Glenville, a replacement would be almost impossible to find. He gives his time and efforts without fanfare or reward, yet you could not find his name among the coaches or the managers of the team.

Without pay or publicity, Prof. Warden "Rocky" Lane has become Glenville's biggest athletic booster and one of the unsung heroes of the athletic department. We, the students of Glenville, are grateful to see someone that takes such an active part in our program. Certainly he is deserving of at least an honorary title. Hail, Coach "Rocky" Lane.—JIM

Glenville Representatives Visit Other State Colleges

By YVONNE HART

Representatives of the College visited other state colleges during last week. A dormitory student, a commuting student, a student council representative, a faculty representative, and a town representative constituted the group.

Colleges visited last week were West Liberty on Monday, March 8; Concord on Tuesday, March 9; West Virginia Tech on Wednesday, March 10; and Fairmont State college on Thursday, March 11.

Dr. Harry B. Hefflin, College president, announced that the purpose for these surprise visits was to see the working activity of the college, and to compare the colleges with Glenville State College. The members observed recreational, library, and dining facilities, and each representative investigated the particular department which he represented. The town representative noted the relationship of the college and town, and compared the results with our local relationship. The general idea of the trips was that of comparing our school with others, and of securing ways to improve our college.

Representatives who visited West Liberty college were Miss Pearl Pickens, Prof. Espy Miller, Richard Whiting, Harold Cline, Eileen Fisher and John Lazear. Those who visited Concord college were Dr. Delmer Somerville, Mrs. Lillian Chadock, Jack Stahlaker, Dean Smith, Edward Tekeli, and Dorothy Latham.

Alex Jokay, '53, the student who matriculated from a German slave-labor war camp to Glenville State College on a World Student Service education fund, has been appointed to the editorial staff of the Indiana University Law Journal, according to a recent letter received by Prof. John R. Wagner. Jokay received his degree from Glenville last June while enrolled at Indiana university law school.

The recent appointment is the latest success for the 27-year-old displaced person who has been making it his life's work to overcome tremendous obstacles and proceed to even greater accomplishments.

Born in Komarnon, Hungary, Jokay's plans to study journalism at the University of Budapest were blocked when the Russians invaded the Balkan nation in 1944.

Jokay fled into Germany in December of 1944 but was placed in a Bavarian labor camp until liberated following Germany's surrender.

After several years of anxious waiting, Jokay finally received his World Service Fund visa at the agency's office in Munich. The Glenville grad remembers this eventful day well. "It was the happiest day in a long time when I received the letter. A gate was opened for me, leading to a new life. No one over here can imagine what the scholarship has meant to me."

Jokay has experienced nothing but success since coming to this country. Despite the obstacle of learning the new language, Jokay was an honor student at Glenville and is currently ranked eighth in his law class at Indiana.

Despite his extensive travel and experience, Jokay rates Glenville State College "always the dearest school to my heart."

Mrs. Helen Bruffy, who translates her teaching experience with warmth and realism, has recently published an article in The Charleston Gazette about an incident in her life as a mountain school "marm". Only names of the mountain family were changed. Mrs. Bruffy was born at Cowen and graduated from Webster Springs high school.

She attended Glenville State Teachers College and after her graduation taught home-bound children on Saturdays for three years. She is the mother of two children, a boy, 13, and a daughter, 10. Her husband, Jack Bruffy, is principal of the elementary school at Jerryville. She and her family live at Bolair.

CLASS VISITS HOSPITALS

The physical education correctives class took their annual trip to Milton, Thursday, March 11. They also stopped in Charleston, where they visited the Charleston Memorial hospital. The group visited the Morris Memorial hospital at Milton, which is a hospital for children. Prof. Clarissa Williams, class instructor, accompanied the group.

and Wanda Carol Taylor.

Plans concerning the April Showers Dance which will be held April 24 were discussed during the meeting. Costello's dance band was selected to play for the dance.

Tennant Just 469 Points Short of Hardman

Jack's Career Total 1,425 for 3 Seasons On Pioneer Varsity

Thanks to a late season start, Glenville's ace forward, "Dynamite" Jack Tennant, is advanced to within 469 points of the four-year scoring record set by Bob "Hooks" Hardman in 1951.

Leading the Pioneers for the third straight season, Tennant rallied at mid-season after a dismal start to post 11 points for the campaign, an average of 17.9 per game. The Fairmont sharpshooter garnered an even 11 points in 22 conference engagements, 38 against non-conference teams and 10 points in the WVIAC tournament.

Tennant's 1953 total was quite a step from his record-breaking 1952 showing when he became the first player in history to score over 500 points during the regular season, finishing with 516. Tennant's average this season was a six-point drop from his 23.4 level a year ago, which is second only to Lennie Weaver's 25.2 gait established in 1952.

Barrett Eighth Highest

Dickie Barrett climaxed his brilliant four-year career by becoming the eighth player in Pioneer annals to score more than 800 points in a career. The fiery Glenville forward tallied 182 points during the last season to raise his career total to 877 points. Barrett fell off a sensational 1953 pace when he scored 351 points at a 16.4 point per game clip, but finished strongly in the final hours of the year to give his name along side Glenville's basketball immortals.

As a freshman, Barrett saw limited service but managed to score 24 points during the regular season and nine in the tourney play. Dick arrived as a sophomore, averaging 301 points at a 10.9 game average. Barrett enjoyed his greatest year as a junior, leading the Glenville forward wall along with Tennant and Bob Poole. This high-powered trio accounted for 746 points during the 1952-53 season.

Hot Frosh Sensation
Freshman sensation Bill Reit led an unusually fine crop of yearlings in finishing second to Tennant in the 1954 scoring race with 287 points. In addition, the McKeesport, Pa., native paced the team in field goal and foul shooting percentage. The versatile freshman placed second in rebounding with 108.

Army veteran Harry Smith finished ished third in scoring with 224 points and was one of the conference leaders in defensive rebounding with 147, an average of 5.8 per game.

Sophomore Ed Tekieli, who teamed with Tennant on one of Fairview's greatest hoop squads, tallied 182 points to share fourth place with Barrett. Tekieli's two-year total is now 270 points, an average of 5.7 points for the 47 games he has played.

Ed Donnellan, the Lost Creek alumnus who was denied much experience as a freshman when he broke his collar bone, scored 131 points and posted a fine 39 per cent field goal percentage.

Veteran, Don Merriman ended his four-year tour of duty on the Glenville hardwoods by shaking the curtains for 113 points, highest of his career. Noted for his defensive work, the Glenville, Pa., flash ranked third in rebounding with 98, an average of 4.2 per game.

Frosh Gain Experience
Yearlings Bob Weaver, Jim Hamrick, and Alan Reich gained some much-needed experience during the season in addition to aiding the club in several crucial encounters. Army veteran Bob Weaver assumed the roll of playmaker during the latter portion of the season and scored 103 points in the 21 games he played.

West Virginia University transfer Jim Hamrick proved himself to be a top-flight defensive operative with 32 rebounds in 22 games. The Meadow Bridge native scored 92 points for a game average of 4.1.

"Bronx Bomber" Impresses
Alan Reich, the "bronx bomber" from Theodore Roosevelt high school in New York City, averaged 4.3 points in the 19 games he played. Reich enjoyed his greatest evening at the expense of the conference champions, Tech, when he upset the Golden Bear defense for 18 points.

Jack Tennant posted the high individual effort for the season by scoring 39 points against Morris Harvey to equal his previous mark set against West Liberty last season.

WAA Basketball Opening Night Failure; Only 1 Complete Game, 6 End by Forfeit

The first WAA basketball games of the season were played Tuesday night, March 9. Results showed six forfeits, with one complete game played. Sports Leader Wyne Bush has announced.

C. Marley's team was the winner in the Marley vs. Kinney game, with a final score of 59-33. Bush was high scorer for the winners with 26 points. Greene was next with 12, followed by Radcliff with 10. N. Harris chalked up 21 points for the losers, followed by McCullough with 8.

The Coe vs. Spith game was forfeited after Coe had led for three quarters. The score was 48-21, when two of Coe's forwards fouled out, and there were no substitutes. This brought about a forfeit, and Smith was declared winner by a 2-0 margin. In the active part of the game, Payne scored 17 points for Coe, and her teammate, Bourne, ran close with 16. Coe followed with 9. To Smith's score, Cooper added 7 points, while Somerville scored 5 points.

The forfeited games were won by the team that had six players present. Kinney's team qualified as winner over White's team. Coe was winner of the Coe-Rastle tilt. Smith also won the White-Smith game. Both Marley and Smith defeated Coe by forfeit.

Carl Hartman, Dave Rosen Repeat on Wave All-Opponent Team; A-B Ace Unanimous Pick

Carl Hartman, Alderson-Broadbent's prolific-scoring forward, and elongated Dave Rosen of Morris Harvey were the lone repeaters named to the Glenville all-opponent team selected by the Pioneer varsity. Last season Hartman and Rosen were teamed up with Solomon of Tech, Rubich from West Liberty, and Hawkins of Wesleyan.

For the second straight season the talented Hartman was named unanimously by the White Wave quintet. The Ridgeley, W. Va., native enjoyed two of his finest nights against the Gee Men, scoring 33 points at Glenville and 32 before the Battler fans in Philippi.

Ed Hood of Wesleyan and Ron Fadula received equal support for the remaining forward post, and both were named to the mythical five. Hood scored 37 points in his two appearances against the Pioneers, while Fadula tallied 42 points.

The man who was maily responsible for the Gee Men's dismal showing at the Buckhannon tournament, West Liberty's Myles Witchey, nailed down the center position in the poll that was taken before the tourney began. The Hilltopper pivotman scored only 13 and 20 points in his two games against the Wave, but his rebounding and play-making abilities impressed the Glenville team. Witchey justified the selection by shoving home 32 points against the Gee Men in the WVIAC tourney.

Morris Harvey's Dave Rosen and Beckley's polished Luther Stover were named to the guard positions without too much opposition.

Rosen enjoyed spectacular success against the Gee Men, scoring 50 points in his two encounters with Wisher's Pioneers, higher than his total of 46 points scored last season in combat with the Wave.

Stover proved to be a surprise selection, gaining the bid over some of the more-publicized conference players. Stover tallied 49 points against the Pioneers, averaging close to 20 points per contest.

Accorded honorable mention by the Pioneers were Berkeley of Salem, Hoffman from Morris Harvey, and conference champion Tech's leading goal-getters, Clair Muscare and Don Thompson.

Participating in the selections were Jack Tennant, Harry Smith, Don Merriman, Bob Weaver, Bill Reit, Ed Donnellan, Jim Hamrick, and Alan Reich.

special assembly program, at which time the candidates will be permitted to briefly address the students. The election will be held on Thursday and Friday, April 15 and 16 at the student union.

Tomorrow's report on the visitations are designed to give the Glenville student body more insight into the lives of students of other state colleges. The program, originated by President Heflin, sent Glenville students on five separate trips to Tech, West Liberty, Fairmont, Concord, and Bethany.

On each trip there was a representative from the student council, men and women's dormitories, commuters, a business man from Glenville, and a faculty representative.

Each representative investigated the conditions of his own particular interest and was equipped with a special list of important items to look for. This list was drawn up before hand by members of each represented group.

One member from each traveling party will sum up the findings of the group followed by a question and answer period.

to fourth floor in the Science hall, and a larger student union.

Janet Conley-More teachers, and a wider field of subjects. It's difficult to arrange one's schedule to get the subjects he wants. Another thing we need is escalators from downtown up to the college.

William Rumbach-A new student council.

Norma Jean Rardin-Better cooperation of the crowd at basketball games.

Thomas Hyer-A broader system of athletic scholarships.

Eunice Beamer-A special 30-hour day.

Olga Pashkevich-A sound human relations program to counsel students with problems. Student counselors in the various dormitories would prove helpful.

Inez Connolly-Religious and vocational counseling service and a chapel; however, this is not an pressing need since the churches and the pastors work so closely with the college.

Harold Butcher-The good old days of '50.

Charles Heater-More level ground. Donald Wdekamm-Everything is okay with me as it is now.
