NEW ROUTE TO AVOID TRAFFIC CONGESTION GOES IN EFFECT

By GEORGE PEASE

All roads will lead to Glenville this Saturday where at 10 a. m. a colorful, mile-long street parade will usher in Glenville State College's 21 annual Homecoming. Lead units will form in front of the church on College street with the rest of the units joining on at the Boulevard at the Weston end of the road.

T. W. Hyre, mayor of Glenville and parade marshal, will lead the parade down College street where it will turn right and disband on the Boulevard. This new route is to relieve the traffic congestion on Main street. The parade will be highlighted by high school bands, and there will be an announcer on Main street to describe the floats.

Theme Planned For Broadcast

Writer Espy Miller Prepares for Nov. 7 Show Over WPAR

American Education Week, Nov. 7 to 13, will be the theme stressed on "Radio Goes to College" for its November broadcast, announces Prof. Espy W. Miller, director and script writer for the programs.

This will be second in a series of programs which are to be presented monthly over WPAR in Parkersburg and WPDG in Clarksburg.

"What is Your Favorite Kind of Music" was the topic discussed Oct. 10 over the Parkersburg station by Miller and Dr. Harold Orendorff. President Harry B. Heflin introduced the series, and Prof. Bertha E. Olsen played the college chimes and organ. Miller and Orendorff discussed a study in new and old music and played musical compositions to illustrate their discussion. Technical director of the program series is Dr. Byron J. Turner. The same program can be heard Oct. 16 over WPDG in Clarksburg.

The series is under the direction of a faculty committee including Miller, Chairman of the Division of Languages; Orendorff, Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts, and Turner, Prof. of Chemistry.

Street Decorations Are Well Underway

Decorations downtown for the Homecoming are well under way. This includes the decorations of the streets and store windows. Rudell Reed is chairman of this decorating committee.

Prizes will be awarded for the best decorated windows. The first prize will be three tickets to the Homecoming game, while the second prize window will receive two tickets, and the third prize window one ticket. Judging of the windows will be done by Prof. Julia Nutter.

Another feature of the parade will be the judging of the best floats. Nelson Wells will be head of the committee for judging the floats. Tickets for the football game will receive 3 tickets, the second best 2 tickets, and the third choice will receive 1 ticket.

Immediately following the parade, the Queen and her Court along with college officials, Alumni, and dignitaries will trek to the coronation site in front of the Science building where the Queen will be crowned at 11:15 a. m. After the ceremony, the lounge of Louis Bennett Hall will be open for sorority meetings and Alumni get-togethers.

Rohrbough Field will be the location of the afternoon festivities. At 2 p. m. the Pioneers will meet the Potomac State Catamounts in a football game which is expected (Continued on Page 4)

Progress, but a Problem

Without a doubt, the most colorful and popular date on the College calendar is our annual Homecoming. Each year, it seems, this affair gets better than ever, just as each year the College has progressed from the year before.

This year, our Alumni will note our remodeled section of the old part of the Administration building. Although this project will not be completed until sometime in November, it is apparent that this addition gives the College one of the most modern and well-equipped music and art departments in the state.

Also, the home management house has become a reality. The opening of school in September has seen the realization of one of Dr. Heflin's most cherished dreams, as well as the object of much of his labor.

The enrollment has soared to a record-high of 600, with an impressive record of 240 freshmen entering their first semester of college. Two new teachers have been added to an all ready impressive list of faculty members.

But, as in most cases, we are, in some ways, paying a price for our growth. In particular, housing conditions are far from ideal. Even though Louis Bennett hall has been loaded down with three men to a room, many men have been forced to seek residence down town, and although the townspeople have done a highly commendable job of finding space for the most of the overflow, many others have returned home, or gone to another school.

The situation in the women's dorms, Verona Mapel and Kanawha Hall, is no better, with a host of women students living off campus. Again, many women could not gain parental consent to live off-campus and either had to enroll at another school or return home.

With such a situation, it can well be appreciated that Glenville needs a new dormitory if it is to maintain its present rate of growth. Glenville has a responsibility to the people of Central West Virginia. This responsibility is to provide these young men and women with a fine place to go to college, at a reasonable price; but because our facilities are now extremely limited, these students are forced to seek their education elsewhere, at a much higher cost, or just forget the idea of going to college.

As we depend on the Alumni for so many other things, so we are depending on them to help us alleviate our present housing shortage. Without ample housing, we can not possibly continue our rate of progress and service to the taxpayers who are paying for this service. We believe our Alumni should be aware of these facts and consider them. Much will depend on them if we are to find a solution to this problem. JIM

We recommend that our undergraduate readers pay particular attention to the list of advertisers that appear on the pages of the Mercury each week.

These people are very important to you in a great many respects. They are among the greatest boosters of your college, and have been for a great many years. The mere fact that they advertise in your paper is testimony of this.

death of Abraham the Philistines had destroyed them.

He reopened several wells but the herdsmen of the Philistines claimed them. Finally Isaac caused an excellent well to be dug which the Philistines did not claim, and Isaac called that well Rehoboth. (Genesis 26:12-22)

The Reverend Francis Asbury, first Methodist bishop in America, dedicated Rehoboth that same year. Bishop Asbury was one of the early saddle-bag preachers who rode horseback over many miles of territory establishing the Protestant religion in the wilds of the young country. He was one of the "hell and damnation" preachers who held the members of the congregation over a pit that burned with fire and brimstone.

Bishop Asbury frequently visited Rehoboth and he held annual conferences there in 1792, 1793 and 1796. He kept a Journal of his wanderings which are preserved today about his visits to the Greenbrier valley.

TRAVELING IN WEST VIRGINIA

UNION—As indestructible as the Rock of Gibraltar, the Old Rehoboth church stands today! The ravages of time, weather and hostile Indian attacks all failed to destroy this rugged log church near Union, West Virginia, which was built one year before the Constitution of the United States was written.

Nestling in a shady dell, this pioneer memento has become the oldest Protestant church west of the Allegheny Mountains and a shrine for Methodism in West Virginia.

Forged in fierce Indian country, the church's heritage is one of courage and adventure. Early worshippers often had their mountain rifles stacked nearby for protection as they attended services. However, their faith opened the wilderness frontier to God and new settlers.

Union, Monroe county, was destined to become the Greenbrier Valley Methodist center for the expanding frontier. And as early as 1784 settlers in that vicinity were organizing a "Society", as Methodist groups were called in that period.

Religious needs soon demanded a church and in June 1783 a rough hewn cabin became the first church in the Greenbrier valley. The church was named Rehoboth, a name taken from the book of Genesis. Isaac in Genesis 26:22 said: "And he called the name of it Rehoboth; and he said, 'For now the Lord hath made room for us, and we shall be fruitful in the land.'"

Isaac had left his home land because of famine and after some time spent in the land of the Philistines he, with his retinue of followers, "Encamped in the Valley of Gerar and dwelt there." And Isaac and his men dug again the wells of water which his father Abraham had dug, but after the

DR. HARRY B. HEFLIN

PRESIDENT HEFLIN:

Returning Alumni Welcomed To Their Growing Campus

To Alumni and Friends:

Glenville State College welcomes you again to your campus. Each year at Homecoming time we have an opportunity to renew our contacts and to again proclaim our loyalty to an institution that means much to all of us.

Many alumni and students spend long hours to make this an outstanding occasion for you and for the college; their efforts are greatly appreciated.

Several changes will be evident to many of you. We now have a new home management house, and a section of the Old Administration building has been renovated to care for the art and music departments. This year 600 students are enrolled, making this the largest enrollment in the history of Glenville State College.

We are always happy to have you visit us and hope you will pass on to us any suggestions you may have for continued growth and improvement. The success of a college can be measured best by the success of its graduates, and on this basis, Glenville State College can well be proud of past records.

Sincerely,
Harry B. Heflin
President

Athletic Group Rules On Site for Games

All home football games will be played on the campus on years when only three home games are scheduled, according to a ruling of the athletic committee last week. Some of the neighboring towns have been asking the college to play one of the home games in their stadium.

After much discussion the committee decided that it would deprive some students of a chance to see the team play that game if it were played off the campus.

The members of the committee present at this meeting were Prof. Espy Miller, Prof. Carlos Ratliff, Prof. Nicholas Murin, Prof. George Stopp, Dorothy Lanham, and Billy Stanley.

GOOD HUNTING GROUND

At Glenville, Boy Meets Girl, Marries Same

Did you come to college to get a husband or a wife? Chances are pretty good, if you consider last year's results.

This past year quite a few marriages took place after a budding romance at Glenville State College, and it seems that chances this year are even better with the male students outnumbering the females.

As a freshman guide, Robert Milligan met a freshman girl, Wanda Taylor, and after three years of college and romance Bob and Wanda were married last June 13. Bob is now in service at Ft. Knox, Kentucky, and Wanda is completing her schooling.

The social aspect of school life brought Joe Bokovitz and Ella May Sands together. Their romance started at the G-club dance and climaxed when they were married August 26, at Sparta, N.C. Joe plans to graduate, and Ella May is now teaching in Wood County.

Another couple met about this time last year during all the confusion of Homecoming. They are Sam Ballato and Norita Wright. Their happy day was August 19.

FIRST PLACE IN BALANCE

Morris Harvey Entertains Flying Hilltoppers Saturday

Eddie King's Golden Eagles assume a very unfamiliar position, that of challenger, this Saturday when they host West Liberty's high-flying Hilltoppers in the Morris Harvey Homecoming at Charleston.

West Liberty vaulted into undisputed possession of first place in the WVIC Saturday night when they trounced previously unbeaten W. Va. Tech 33-6 for their second straight conference triumph.

Morris Harvey, idle in league play since their opening game win over Salem, dropped their first of the season Saturday when arch rival Marshall pushed across two fourth period scores to down the Gee Eagles, 25-14.

Wesleyan, surprise winner over Fairmont by a 12-6 count, takes on winless Salem in a game that should go either way. Salem, on the short end of the score for the past 30 games, dropped another last week end, this time 20-7 to Potomac.

Disappointing Fairmont plays host to rebounding Concord Saturday in a game that may see the Falcons finally realize their potential. Beaten by Shepherd and Wesleyan, the Fairmont team has yet to live up to their pre-season rating as conference dark horse although they did upend Glenville two weeks ago.

Concord recovered from their 26-7 defeat at the hands of Tech a week ago by blasting listless Glenville 26-7 with the irrepressible "Concord Express". Dan Crane, scoring two touchdowns, his fifth and sixth in conference play this season.

VMH Women Elect Representatives

In a recent house meeting at Verona Mapel hall, the residents elected representative to the governing board. They were Jackie Humphreys, and Mary Faith Holbert, seniors; Kathleen Quinn and Virginia Harris, juniors; Joyce Bourn and Shirley Chancey, sophomores; and Virginia Parson and Barbara Burk, freshmen representatives.

Plans were also made concerning the Homecoming float. A planning committee was appointed with Shirley Chancey as chairman. Others on the committee were Wanda Milligan, Virginia Harris, Barbara

By PATSY FRIEND

With all the talk of Homecoming going around this week, it seems appropriate to take a look at Glenville's first Homecoming.

The first one was held in 1931 with about 1,500 people in attendance. A reception and dance were held in honor of the occasion with four hundred persons present.

A much-anticipated football game was played between Glenville and Potomac State College before a crowd of festive and noisy spectators. The Pioneers firmly squelched the Potomac team by a rousing score of 38-7.

Sixteen high school bands from the region were invited to take part in the Homecoming festivities. Those attending were led by the Grantsville band in a parade along with members of the Holy Roller Court who provided stunts to amuse the crowd.

In 1933 it was decided that since Glenville State was known as a pioneer in the teaching field, a person should be elected to participate in the Homecoming activities. Charles Barnett was chosen to be the first Pioneer. It was not until 1938 that a Queen was chosen to reign. In that year Mrs. Lois Mason Mace was chosen as Queen and became Glenville's first royalty.

After nine consecutive Homecomings, they were discontinued in 1943 because of the war, and were not resumed until 1946. Since then the Homecoming activities have been held every year.

Elaine Bell, this year's Homecoming Queen, will be the fourteenth coed to hold this honor; William Rumbach will be the nineteenth person to portray the lusty Pioneer.

F. Miller Announces New Library Hours

A new schedule of library hours has been announced by Prof. Floyd Miller, librarian. Library hours are as follows: Monday through Thursday, 7:50-12 a.m.; 1-5 p.m.; 6:30-8:30 p.m.; Friday, 7:50-12 a.m.; 1-5 p.m.; Saturday, 8:30-12 a.m.

Among the flower displays which have been exhibited at the library in the past weeks were two belonging to Prof. Nelson Wells. One of these was entered in the Sportsman's Group and the other was entered in the Book Titles group at the recent Woman's club flower show. Both entries won prizes in the show.

TOAST OF THE SEASON

It's the one color look in fall cottons for the junior miss, right from the curve of her Peter Pan collar to her gloves, the National Cotton Council reports. Designers at Glenora Casuals combine this patterned cotton broadcloth shirt with a pin-wale cotton corduroy skirt and gloves, all in a deep toast shade. The final note of color coordination is seen in the corduroy edging on the blouse collar.

SOMETHING NEW!

Something new in sports fashions for the young in heart this year is the short skirt. This saucy skirt for casual campus activities or dormitory doings is of camel-colored cotton corduroy. The pert corduroy skirt has its own attached broadcloth shorts. A brilliant orange cotton broadcloth blouse tops off the ensemble, designed by Stanley Wykes of Beacon Hill.

EXCHANGE STUDENT

Hon Shik Min Likes School; Impressed With Hospitality

By SHIRLEY JAMES

Among the enrollment at Glenville this semester is on foreign student, Hon Shik Min. He is from Seoul, Korea, and has had two years of college work—one year in Korea, and one year in Washington, D. C., as a pre-med student. Min, a sophomore, is continuing his pre-med course here.

Asked what he plans to do when he has finished his schooling, Min said, "I gladly will go back to my native country and will work for the peoples of Korea." So far as he knows now, he will finish his college work in this country.

Min said that he likes America very much, particularly the educational system and the conveniences of daily living. The teachers, the location, and the surroundings at Glenville are the things which he likes best about this college.

When asked what he thinks of the students here at GSC, Min replied, "They are generally very nice to me and also very hospitable. It is not too hard to become acquainted with the students."

Cliff Dwellers Annex Miller; Masons Rally

The second night, Sept. 30, of the current MAA volleyball season highlighted by hard playing caused three of the five entries to go the full three games to determine the winner. Several during the night the volleys were so long that it was nearly impossible to remember which team had the ball into play.

Cliff Dwellers took three games for Cling's Dwellers to prove that they were winners over Miller's Millers. Cliff Dwellers were a little in getting started, but ended last game with a score of 15-7. Mason's Masons could not get feel of the ball in the first set, but they found themselves the next two to defeat Caltrider's 15-11 and 15-13.

McKnight's Knights, one of the teams to play only two games to determine a winner, had little trouble in defeating Allman's All-stars with scores 15-6 and 15-7.

Spencer's Cats played two very interesting games only to be dropped to the tune of 15-4 and 15-10.

The other encounter to go only one game occurred when Wedgemore's Weasels outclassed Mullins' Mules 15 to 7 and 15 to 3.

Twelve freshmen are included on the 1954 football squad. Four of the twelve are veterans, and most of the group have been outstanding players at their respective high schools. Three of the 12 were invited to play in either the L.K. bowl or the North-South game.

Ray Cross is a promising quarterback from Pennsboro high school. He played three years on the Pennsboro varsity and was invited to play in the L. K. bowl game in 1951. He joined the U.S. Marines before the game was played, and played one season of football in the Marines. Ray is an agriculture major and plans to go into forestry work when he completes his education.

Leonard Hanford plays a half-back position and attended Pennsboro high school. He played four years on the Pennsboro varsity, after which he spent three years in the U.S. Marines. Leonard is an agriculture major and is undecided as to exactly what he will do when he graduates.

Ripley's Lanham Wins Frank Montrose Award

FORMER FOOTBALL, BASEBALL STAR WAS COUNCIL PRESIDENT

Paul Lanham, former football and baseball star at Glenville State College and presently assistant football coach at Ripley, has been named the third winner of the coveted Frank Montrose Memorial Award. Lanham, who was an outstanding student as well as a brilliant athlete, becomes the third recipient of the award, symbolic of high athletic achievement combined with high scholastic ability.

Lanham, son of Mr. and Mrs. West Lanham, of Ripley, was a guard on the Pioneer football teams of '51, '52, and '53, following his transfer to Glenville from Morris Harvey. Despite his slight 165 pounds, the aggressive Lanham was one of the outstanding performers on the powerful Pioneer line, in addition to sharing the captain's duties with end Don Merriman.

In baseball, Lanham was one of the finest hitters ever to play for the Gee Men. Patrolling his right field post with great defensive skill, Lanham was a consistent 300 hitter. During the summer vacation periods, Lanham continued his baseball playing with the well-known Ripley Independents, state semi-pro champions. With Ripley, Lanham's bat continued its torrid pace, gaining the Glenville grad a spot on the all-state baseball nine.

During his senior year at Glenville, Lanham was elected to that highest undergraduate post, that of president of the Student Body. Lanham was also secretary of the Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity, clerk of the Veteran's club, and a member of the varsity G club. Last fall, Lanham was one of six seniors named to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

THE MONTROSE STORY

Award in Memory of Pioneer Grid Immortal

With this year's presentation of the Frank Montrose Memorial Award, Glenville State College recognizes one of its greatest athletes of yesterday, the late Frank Montrose of Richwood.

To many of you attending the Homecoming festivities, Frank Montrose is still a fresh memory; to others, he may be a stranger. Here is the Frank Montrose Story: Frank Montrose was at Glenville a little less than a year, but in that short time he captured the hearts and admiration of his fellow students and the administration so completely that he still remains a part of their lives.

Frank came to Glenville in 1930, fresh out of Richwood high school where he performed under Coach "Babe" Jones, a former Glenville football player and a brother to Financial Secretary Lloyd Jones.

Although Frank had established quite a reputation in the Richwood area, he was used sparingly in the first five games on the 1930 schedule; but Coach A. G. Rohrbough, disappointed in the team's dismal early showings, decided to use Frank against the Pioneer's next opponent, New River, (Tech).

Annual English Meet At Jackson's Mill

The annual meeting of the West Virginia Association of College English Teachers will be held October 29-30 at Jackson's Mill, according to Espy W. Miller, president of the organization.

This year's program will include a panel devoted to articulation of the English programs in the secondary schools and the colleges. Another panel will examine trends and problems in the teaching of literature. Other parts of the program will include an explanation of the revised plan for the development of the teacher-training program in English and an audio-visual demonstration of materials for teaching English will be presented.

Professor Miller stated that teachers from colleges all over the state will attend the meeting. Teachers planning to attend from Glenville are Professors Miller, Prof. E. B. Elder, Prof. Pearl Pick-

Athlete Award Begun in 1953 By S. Council

The Frank Montrose Memorial Award was officially established on February 17, 1953, when a committee, selected by the Student Council of Glenville State College, met to set up standards by which the recipient of an athlete-of-the-year award would be judged. Here are the minutes of that first meeting when the Montrose Award was established:

1. Meeting called to order by Coach Michael Josephs, Chairman.
2. Dr. Josephs displayed the plaque donated by the Student Council for the annual athlete-of-the-year award. Coach Josephs also outlined the objectives of the committee.

3. After some discussion, it was decided to name the honor the Frank Montrose Memorial Award, suggested by Mercury sports editor Jim Robinson, after a promising Glenville grid star who died in the spring of 1940, following his first year at Glenville.
4. Standards by which the recipients of the Frank Montrose Memorial Award shall be judged are:

- a. He must be a member of the senior class
- b. Participation and honor awards in varsity athletics

Note: Special consideration given to:

1. Team captaincy
2. Conference awards
3. Scholastic Achievement

1. A minimum "C" average
- d. Moral Character
- d. The recipient must be of the highest moral character.

3 Faculty Attend Meeting

The exceptional child was the theme for the Supervisor's conference held at Jackson's Mill Oct. 6 through Oct. 8. Persons from high schools and colleges all over West Virginia attended the conference. Prof. H. Y. Clark, Prof. Jewel Matthews, and Prof. Nelson Wells represented Glenville State at the meeting.

ate August Kafer brought it over for the final score.

In what turned out to be Frank's last game, the Pioneers engaged the powerful Potomac State eleven. It was a hard-fought battle all the way, but with Montrose gaining most of the yardage, the G-Men staged a drive that went to the Potomac one-yard line, where Lamp went over for the game's only touchdown.

For his first season's efforts, Frank was an honorable mention selection to the all-state team, quite a feat for a freshman.

Before the final examinations, in the spring of 1940, Frank went blind; shortly afterwards, in June, he died in a Baltimore hospital. The 21-year-old Montrose had become afflicted with nephritis.

Shortly before Frank left school, Mercury sports writer, Earl McDonald shook hands with him and said, "See you in September at training camp, Frank."

"Don't worry, I'll be back," Frank replied. With this year's annual presentation of the Frank Montrose Memorial Award, Frank Montrose, football player and "great guy," will once again be honored at the scene of his many triumphs, Rohrbough field.

EARLY SUCCESS

Previous Montrose Winners Now in Coaching Positions

Past recipients of the Frank Montrose Memorial award, Billy Hanlin and Cecil Johnson, are presently coaching in the high school ranks, as is the 1954 winner Paul Lanham.

Hanlin, 1953 graduate of Glenville, has been having fine success as head football coach at Tyler County high school since accepting that post two seasons ago.

While at Glenville, Hanlin established himself as one of the finest halfbacks ever to play for the Pioneers. Twice gaining particular honorable mention to the WVIC all-star eleven, Hanlin won the plaudits of opposing players and coaches alike, although he played on losing teams.

The Pioneer speedster, who is the third highest scorer in Pioneer grid annals, was the captain of the 1952 eleven, the only Glenville team to equal the 500 mark since the 1942 eleven won four out of six.

In addition to his athletic achievements, Hanlin had a scholastic average and was prominent in extra curricular activities. As an undergraduate, Hanlin was president of the West Virginia Academy of Science, a member of the G-club, Veteran's club, and Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity. Cecil Johnson, the 1952 winner, is now assisting Wayne Underwood at his alma mater, Calhoun high school. Johnson, a punter, fullback and a high-scoring basketball star during his stay at Glenville has just completed a year tour of duty with the Army.

Johnson also maintained a scholastic average and was a leader in campus social activities. He is a member of the G-club and Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity. There are a number of remarkable coincidences concerning (Continued on Page 7)

Potomac Favored in Homecoming Battle

Wave's Chances Depend on Improved Line, Twin-Pronged Attack of Shock, Tennant

By JIM ROBINSON

Unless in their first three outings, and defeated in their last two Homecoming games, Glenville's 1954 footballers will have their work cut out for them this Saturday when they face Horse Lough's powerful "point-a-minute" team in the feature attraction of Glenville's 21st annual Homecoming.

Impressive in their opening game 7-7 tie with a capable Shepherd team, the Glenville stock has dropped considerably during the last two Saturdays as the White Wave suffered successive defeats by Farmington, 6-0, and Concord, 5-7.

On the other hand, Potomac has bounced back from its opening 20-3 setback at the hands of the Blue Devils, and has trounced Bainbridge Prep, 83-0, and last week's luckless Salem, 20-7.

In addition, it is this same Potomac team that clipped the Gee Men in last season's Homecoming by a 13-7 setback, with all the scoring being made in the first two periods.

Tennant Key Men

Following Saturday night's defeat at Gary, it would be impossible to name a starting lineup for the Potomac game, but it is certain that the Pioneer offense will center around Glenville's newly-arrived one-two punch, Jack Tennant and John Shock.

Of the 644 yards the Pioneers have gained passing and rushing in the first three games, Tennant and Shock have contributed 467 yards, or 73% of Glenville's total offense.

Tennant, climaxing a brilliant 10-year career this season, has reached on 25 of 53 passing attempts for 271 yards and one touchdown. Shock, an unsung halfback aspirant at the start of the season, has garnered 165 yards in rushing attempts, for a solid 9.1 yards average.

Disappointing

Tremendous in their first two games, the bulky Pioneer forward line proved a big disappointment in last Concord last Saturday. Leading Shepherd and Farmington to 100 yards rushing, the Glenville defense fell apart before the backing Concordians and allowed 135 yards to be gained overland by the Mountain Lions.

Against Potomac in the BIG game, the line will once again hold the destinies of Glenville, for in Potomac's hands the Wave will face an attack even more devastating than Concord. Horse Lough's well-oiled charges have run up 111 yards in three games, including a vicious 83-0 win over Bainbridge.

The Pioneers have now gone through four straight conference games without a victory, starting with the loss to West Liberty in the final game of the 1953 season.

Our aim is to have students spend a little more time leisurely in the dining hall at meals," is the sentiment presented by Mrs. Freda Southall, dining hall hostess. This provides students with the opportunity to meet and get acquainted with the students other than in their groups.

Hostess meetings held recently, discussions were raised to new proportions concerning the dining hall, the co-operation of all students. Mrs. Southall feels that the

Concord Cripples G-Men 26-7

"Lightning" Gallops Passes to Weaver For Pioneer's Score

Glenville's Pioneers, a highly-touted football machine according to pre-season predictions, failed to live up to their press clippings Saturday night when Concord's mighty Mountain Lions humiliated the Glenville grid forces 26-7 at Gary.

The setback, the worst defeat suffered by the Gee Men since Concord ruined Glenville's 1952 Homecoming, 25-7, was particularly disappointing in view of the fact that many had hoped that the present Pioneer grid team would become the first Glenville team since 1942 to break the 500 mark. Only a clean sweep of the remaining four games on the schedule would enable the Wave to accomplish such a feat.

Strangely enough, the Gee Men scored first against the Mountain Lions when John "Lightning" Shock slanted off tackle on Glenville's third play of the game, shook off several would-be tacklers, and streaked 61 yards to the Concord 12 yard line where he appeared to be the last Mountain Lion defender, but he quickly lateralled to Bob Weaver, who scampered the remaining distance for Glenville's only score.

Certain Blocks

Shock was aided immensely on his great run by a beautiful block thrown by giant Pioneer tackle Avis Partain, who cleared two Concord defenders from the path of the touch-down-bound Shock.

Dick Barrett split the cross bars from placement for the extra point and the surprisingly large Glenville delegation at the game went wild as the Pioneers looked like the team everyone knew they could be.

Concord evened matters early in the second period when Dan Crane capped a 42 yard drive by scoring from the 10 yard line standing up. The placement was good and the score stood 7-7.

The Mountain Lions got the break of the ball game five minutes later when they recovered a Pioneer fumble on the Glenville 22 yard line. Two plays later, Tom Karlo bulled his way over from 18 yards out to put Concord in the van 13-7.

Last Chance

The third period proved to be the turning point of the game, however, as the determined Gee Men, paced by the passing arm of Jack Tennant and a pair of glue-fingered ends in Ed Tekieli and Jim Davis, marched 75 yards to the homesters 15 yard line in a desperate attempt to get the equalizer. The drive failed, unfortunately, and so did Glenville's fleeting hopes of victory, as the Concordians promptly marched 65 yards for their third score of the game.

Crane added another in the final session, on a brilliant 83 yard run-back of an intercepted pass, but it was only icing on the cake.

Tennant and Shock were brilliant in defeat, with Shock's first quarter burst providing the Pioneers with their only score. Tennant tried valiantly to pull the game out of the fire with his passes, hitting on 11 of 23 for 137 yards. Giant end Ed Tekieli was on the receiving end of 8 for 88 yards, and Jim Davis garnered two for 37 yards, one being the most sensational catch of the game.

Vincent, Popp, Ballato

Concord's crushing ground game, led by Crane and Karlo, shattered the Glenville line like it never has been hit in many seasons. Grounding out 153 yards overland, the Mountain Lions had no difficulty moving the ball on the ground, with the possible exception of the middle of the Pioneer forward line, where Vincent Popp and Ballato led the counter attack that forced the Mountain Lions to move to the outside, which they did very effectively.

Each team had 10 first downs, Concord led in rushing 153 to 82, while Glenville had a big edge in passing with 151 yards as compared to the Mountain Lions' 18.
