G-Club Presents Annual Minstrel Thursday

Address by Clark Will Open Area Conference in Lounge

By NORA ANN KENNEDY

Group singing led by Miss Eugenia Adams, and a welcome address by Prof. H. Y. Clark will open the annual Area Supervisors conference Friday in Louis Bennett lounge.

During the morning and afternoon sessions, discussions will be held on the progress various counties are making in teaching exceptional children in the public schools. Representatives from the following counties are expected to take part: Braxton, Calhoun, Clay, Doddridge, Gilmer, Lewis, Nicholas, Upshur, Webster, and Wirt.

Immediately after lunch, a special music program will be presented by Miss Eugenia Adams, music supervisor of Lewis county schools.

Miss Maud Broyles, assistant state supervisor; Miss Branda Proudfoot, assistant state supervisor; H. Cliff Hamilton, superintendent of state elementary schools; John St. Clair, assistant superintendent of Kanawha county schools; Miss Clara Marple from Fairmont state college; Dr. Harry B. Hefflin, president of Glenville State College; and H. Y. Clark will attend the meeting in addition to the county representatives.

Second Studio Guild Exhibit in Library Features 4 Artists

During November a group of oil paintings, the second in a series of Studio Guild traveling exhibitions to be shown at the College, will be on display in the library.

In this exhibition will be the work of four artists, David Humphreys, Wes Warren, Jim Miner, and David Squires. Humphreys and Warren are both associated with schools in Spartansburg, South Carolina. Squires is head of the art department of Millikin University, Decatur, Ill.

Miner is a resident of Columbus, Georgia. He has studied at the Chicago Art Institute, Chicago Academy of Fine Arts, Art Students League of New York, American Art school of New York, and with artist Robert Brookman.

7 Guest Performers Featured; Holstein, Riggs Co-Directors

By Patsy Friend

Seven guest performers will be featured in the annual G-Club minstrel, which will be presented tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the college auditorium.

Vivacious Patty Floyd of Grantsville will be one of the featured vocalists appearing in the minstrel. Patty, a junior at Calhoun County high school, has captured first place honors in three out of five talent shows in which she has participated; she took second place honors in another. Her past performances include singing at the Strawberry festival in Buckhannon. Patty plans to make singing her career after she finishes her schooling.

The youngest member appearing in the show will be little eleven year old Jerry Shaver. Jerry, who has been singing for about three years, is a sixth grade student at the Glenville elementary school. The little girl with the big voice will sing "Make Love To Me."

KH Residents Hold Special Meeting

Kanawha hall residents held a special meeting Nov. 8 to discuss the amount of noise in the dormitory during the past week. Miss Pearl Pickens, dean of women, was present. Elaine Bell, vice-president, presided in the absence of president Donna Coetlow, who is staying at the home management house this term.

Another subject which was discussed and voted on was the question of whether or not to subscribe for a daily newspaper for the dormitory residents. The girls voted to buy the Charleston Gazette.

Kanawhachen Drive Begins Reports Bell

With 100 subscriptions already on order, the business staff of the Kanawhachen started a drive last week in hopes of increasing this number to at least 300, it was announced by the Student Council at their weekly meeting last week. Elaine Bell, Kanawhachen editor, also announced that off-campus seniors are requested to send in their pictures for the 1955 publication.

The Council decided to meet soon in preparation for revamping the Council's out-dated constitution. This work had been started by the 1952-53 Council and carried on somewhat by the 1953-54 Council, but it is Stewart's hope that this year's Student Council will complete the work.

Joint Party Begins Rushing

Sorority rushing officially began Monday with a joint party for all girls interested in sororities.

Members of the planning committee for the party were Karen Harris, Barbara Given, June Drake, representing Kappa Chi Kappa; and Patsy Green, Constance Marley, and Yvonne Hart, from Xi Beta Tau.

Mary Faith Holbert and Dotty Lanham were in charge of "ice-breaker" games, and Mary Faith Holbert entertained the group with selections on the piano.

Popcorn and cokes were served.

Four of the end men in this year's G-Club minstrel are so excited about the 1954 show that they roll on the floor every time they tell a joke. Local students will get an opportunity to do the same tomorrow night when the annual affair returns to the campus after a one-year absence.

Annual Thanksgiving Dinner Features Roasted Turkey

Fifteen turkeys, weighing about 24 pounds each, will be used for the annual Thanksgiving dinner November 23. Along with these, Mr. Martin Riggs estimated that he would use 48 pumpkin pies, 200 pounds of potatoes, 80 pounds of frozen lima beans, and three bushels of sweet potatoes.

The meal will consist of tinted pineapple juice, roast turkey, mashed potatoes, giblet gravy, frozen lima beans, candied sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce, celery, carrot strips, radish roses, butter, peach preserves, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, and coffee.

Radio Series Continues Saturday Over WPDx

"Have We Betrayed Our Children" will be the topic of discussion when Glenville State College presents the second in a series of radio programs entitled "Radio Goes to College" over WPDx in Clarksburg at 1:05 to 1:30 p.m. this Saturday.

The program, which was presented over station WPAR in Parkersburg last Sunday, was written and directed by Prof. Espy Miller and recorded on tape by Prof. Byron J. Turner.

Participants in the program, which are members of the Education department at Glenville, are Professors Delmar K. Somerville, H. Y. Clark, Nelson L. Wells, Harold S. Orendorff, Jewell Matthews, and Stanley Hall. Also appearing on the program will be Jean Adams, first grade teacher at Glenville grade school; Linn B. Hickman, president of the Gilmer county board of education and editor of the Glenville Democrat; Betty Cunningham, president of the Glenville P.T.A.; and Vernon E. Hoefler, local physician.

Numerous questions concerning recent criticism of public education will be raised and answered. Included also in the broadcast will be the consideration of a charge that the schools are not teaching the fundamentals of reading, writing, and arithmetic. An additional charge that today's schools are not providing adequate vocational training will also be discussed.

2nd Annual Veteran's Talent Show Tuesday

Sam Morehead, in charge of rounding up the talent for this year's Talent show, is pictured here showing Edsel Ford, co-master of ceremonies with Byron McKnight, the list of performers that will appear next Tuesday night when the Veteran's club sponsors the event for the second straight year.

Byron McKnight, senior from Burnsville, and Edsel Ford, junior from Oak Hill, have been named to co-emcee the second annual Talent show under the sponsorship of the Veteran's Club. At the same time, it was announced that Sam Morehead and John Lazear would be in charge of securing the best talent available for this year's performance.

Expected to be contenders for the title that has been won by Mary Faith Holbert for two straight years are Thomas Reed, Fred Batten, Karen Harris, Hon Shik Min, Nancy Barlow, the J. W. Dant quartet, and Kent Duffied, third place winner in last year's contest. Several additional entrants are certain, according to Morehead, who also said the Veteran's club will award the top three places with money awards in addition to cartons of Chesterfield cigarettes that will be presented to the winners by the local Chesterfield agent, Keith McAfee.

Miss Holbert has announced that she would not be a contestant this year, but has graciously consented to accompany the acts with her piano.

Invited to be judges for the show were Professors Riggs and Orendorff, and Registrar Arnett.

Old Brewster Home Scene of Murders, Comedy, on Dec. 9

By Rita Pickens

What is the secret of the Brewsters? The answer to this question will be found in "Arsenic and Old Lace", a three act comedy which will be presented December 9 by the Ohnimgohow Players.

The play takes place in the living room of the old Brewster home. It is just as Victorian as the two sisters, Abby and Martha Brewster, who occupy the house with their nephew Teddy.

Abby and Martha, the two gentle spinster sisters, advertise for roomers and then quietly murder all the homeless old gentlemen who apply. Their nephew, who imagines himself to be Theodore Roosevelt, digs the Panama Canal in the cellar, and interns the victims of his gentle aunts.

To add much to the already bewildering state of affairs, their mysterious nephew, Jonathan Brewster, arrives with his sinister and drunken friend.

Along with these events is a love affair between Mortimer Brewster, dramatic critic and nephew of the aunts, and Elaine Harper, daughter of a minister.

These are but a few of the incidents which occur in this production, which insures an evening of hilarious amusement. Only in the Brewster mansion could events of this sort take place.

Seniors Predict Big Things From Next Season's Eleven

By BILLY STANLEY

The Glenville State College football teams in the near future will be much better than the teams of the past few years. This prediction was expressed by all the senior members of the football squad of 1954 when they were interviewed this week. The reason they gave for making this prediction was the number and spirit of the freshmen members of the squad this year.

Edward Armstrong was voted as the most likely person to be next seasons outstanding player. Every senior expressed this belief; however, some of them said that other members would be outstanding too.

Some of the men expected to turn out a good performance were Glenville Pitt, Edward Tekieli, James Davis, Sam Ballato, and John Shock.

The seniors were undecided as to what team was their best opponent. Some of the teams selected were West Liberty, Concord, Fairmont, and West Virginia Tech.

When asked who their best individual opponent was the majority expressed the opinion that Danny Crane of Concord college should have the honors.

Richard Barrett, a fast-running quarterback, expects to be in the Army by next June but plans to coach after completing his tour of duty.

Frank Vincent, Avis Partain, and Albert Groves plan to coach and teach school while Jack Tennant and Oliver Hunt plan to attend graduate school. Ernest Snyder is undecided as yet about his future.

Threasured throughout the minstrel is the role of the interactor, which will be in the efficient hands of Norman Fisher. Supporting Norman will be the lively end-men Donald Hammon, Daniel Smith, Byron McKnight, Robert Gainer, Frank Holstein and James Davis. Prof. Joseph Riggs and Frank Holstein will direct the entire production.

The chorus, under the direction of Mary Faith Holbert will sing such numbers as "Blue Moon," "Heart of My Heart," "Way down Yonder in New Orleans," and "Dixie." The show will consist of 16 musical numbers.

WVIC Meeting Sat. in Charleston

President Harry Heflin, Prof. Carlos Radloff, Prof. George Stopp and Prof. Nicholas Murin will represent Glenville State College at the fall meeting of the West Virginia Intercollegiate conference. This meeting will be in Charleston on Nov. 21 and 22.

On the first day of the meeting they will take care of general business; on the second day the coaches will meet to prepare the football and basketball schedules for 1955-1956, and the 1955 baseball schedule.

All the schools of the WVIC will be represented.

Debate Meetings Changed

Meetings of the Debate Society have been changed from Tuesday at 10 p.m. to Thursday at 3 p.m. according to Prof. Joseph H. Riggs.

The reason for the change of date is that the students who had debate the first term will be able to attend the meeting second term, without a conflict in their regular classroom schedules.

The society is now starting research work on the debate topic in order that they may soon start intercollegiate debating.

Kappa Chi Holds Rush Party

Members of Kappa Chi Kappa sorority reverted to childhood again yesterday when they entertained about 20 rushees with a "first grade" party.

All the girls dressed like first grade children, played children's games, and acted as children do at a party.

— SPORTS EDITORIAL —

WVIC: Dead or Alive?

We have been wondering just when the officials of the West Virginia Intercollegiate conference are going to take inventory of the conference and find that there are many things in need of a change. It would also seem only right that these officials should bear in mind that it is the students who are underwriting the athletic expenses of the conference and should have some say in its government.

The big thing in football outside of West Virginia these days is the formation of conferences as a means of creating greater interest and, consequently, taking in a little more at the gate. It has long been decided that independent, non-league teams, face a much more difficult situation than a school whose athletic teams participate in an organized league.

We are indeed fortunate in West Virginia in that we have a natural conference within our very borders. All of the schools are West Virginia schools with approximately the same educational aims, providing for what should be an ideal situation.

Unfortunately, league officials have not capitalized on these advantages. The conference, in football, means little or nothing after the top two or three positions in the league have been decided. Games involving second division teams are often regarded as mere exhibition contests when they are actually important league games with an important bearing on the final league standings. With attention taken away from the "also rans", interest quickly lags; and a higher place in the conference standings is never considered, much less coveted.

In basketball, the situation is pretty much the same, with each team picking its opponents to suit its own purpose; league standings mean even less than they do in football. The team winning the regular season championship does no better than qualify for the state tournament at Buckhannon, as does the team that plays only a handful of conference games, even though it has lost every one of them.

In what other setup do you find 10 or 12 teams playing through an entire season and accomplishing exactly nothing? Regardless of the final stands, EVERYONE qualifies for the playoffs. The reasoning is honorable. Officials contend this maintains interest because all teams, regardless of how dismal their regular season play, still have a chance to win the tournament.

Interest in the WVIC is pretty low right now. The people that should be busting down the gates to see a game, really don't know what's coming off, and honestly, neither do we.

There are 16 colleges within our borders that field basketball teams. Eleven of these schools are active members of the conference. Two are Negro schools that will probably be integrated into the conference sooner or later. The other three, Shepherd, Bethany, and Potomac, play limited conference schedules because of their out-of-the-way geographical locations.

It seems to us that there now prevails a logical North-South division that would go a long way in solving the conference's difficulties, if officials realize they have such. Two divisions of eight teams would separate the schools geographically, thus cutting into the very extensive travel costs. If each conference member were to play each team in its division on a home-and-home basis every year, and four members of the other division on alternate years, it would provide every school in the WVIC with a neat, compact, 18 game schedule.

With the top four teams in each division qualifying for the state tournament, interest would soar as a result of the added importance to the final standings; the tournament would have added prestige because a team had to play winning ball to qualify.

A North-South All-Star game in early January would be another possibility from this alignment, the site of the classic being alternated from year to year, with every member school having a chance to host the game.

It would not take long for this situation to impress the state's sporting public—the people we want to see our games—that there is a WVIC, and that it does mean something instead of a group of schools playing independently under a conference banner. The conference name means little until it is conducted in an organized, thought-out manner.

This is only one approach to the problem; certainly students at other schools have other ideas, and we feel it is the conference's obligation to hear what they have to say. The WVIC has possibilities, but it has had those same possibilities for 20 years; it is about time we realize some of them. JIM

350 Visit Infirmary in Oct.

During the month of October, Mrs. Agnes Fest, school nurse, received a total of 350 calls in the infirmary. There was a wide variety of reasons for the calls, but common cold was the most frequent reason. Colds accounted for 125 calls, while the next highest total was caused by athletic injuries, which caused 42 people discomfort. Mrs. Fest received one patient whose ailment was serious enough to warrant hospitalization. Kay Mullins was sent to the hospital for an appendectomy.

Hoopsters Schedule 23 Games*New Hoop Mentor Follower Of Kentucky's Famed Rupp

Glenville's third basketball mentor in as many seasons, George Stopp, comes to Glenville with probably the most varied background of any coach in the history of the college.

Born in Chicago, educated in Kentucky, Tennessee, and Indiana; Navy service in Rhode Island and Florida; employment in Alabama, Georgia, and now West Virginia, Coach Stopp brings to Glenville almost 20 years of experience in the game of basketball.

Coach Stopp was born in Chicago and received his early education in the "Windy city," graduating from Admiral David Farragut high school in 1935. In high school, Stopp played baseball and basketball.

All-Conference

After working a few years, Stopp entered Transylvania college in Lexington, Kentucky in 1937 and became a basketball star, climaxing his career by being picked to the center position on the Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Conference All-Star team during his senior season.

It was during his four-year stay in Lexington that Coach Stopp came under the influence of the greatest of all basketball coaches, Adolph Rupp, head mentor of the famed University of Kentucky Wildcats.

Admirer of Rupp

Playing against the nationally-informed Wildcats on numerous informal occasions as well as watching their practice sessions by the hour, Stopp became a great admirer of the famed "Baron" and to this day employs a great many of Rupp's coaching tactics.

A call from Uncle Sam interrupted Stopp's career in 1943 when he was inducted into the U.S. Navy and sent to Quonset Point, R.I. Shortly afterwards, Lt. Stopp was transferred to the Naval Air Station at Jacksonville, Fla., where he was a member of the Aviation Ground Team in charge of synthetic training devices.

Industrial Recreation.

Following his discharge in 1946, Stopp worked for the Bemis Bros. bag company in Talladega, Ala., as assistant athletic and recreation director. In 1949, he accepted a student assistantship at Peabody College and, at the same time, held down the post of athletic director and head basketball coach at the Jewish Community center in Nashville, Tenn.

After receiving his MA degree in 1950, Stopp taught physical education and coached at the Georgia Teachers college laboratory school, and assisted in basketball for the college basketball team. In 1952, Stopp accepted a graduate assistantship at Indiana university and began work on his Doctor's degree.

This is Coach Stopp's first head coaching assignment at the college level. He is married and the father of two children.

Fairmont Opponent For 1954-55 Opener; Marietta is Dropped

Glenville's 1954-55 basketball squad, under their third coach in three years, will face 23 opponents this season, one less than the 24-games scheduled last season. Marietta, the biggest drawing card last year, has been dropped and new opponents have been added.

Twenty-two of the 23 games will be against WVIC opposition, with the annual Alumni engagement on Jan. 1 being Glenville's only 1954-55 venture outside the conference.

Last season, under Dr. Peter Wisher, the Pioneers won 11 of 24 regular season encounters and lost their only appearance in the WVIC tournament at Buckhannon to West Liberty.

Fairmont once again provides the opposition for the Pioneer opener on Dec. 2. Last season, the Gee Men won a thrilling 83-80, double overtime victory over the Falcons in the season lid-lifter at Fairmont.

Judy Rules WAA Standings With 5 Straight Conquests

By YVONNE HART

Aerial darts now share the spotlight in WAA action with ping pong. Tuesday, Nov. 9, the four games became so competitive that Judy won two games, and Jackson and Cooper won one each. Lewis and Hart were the night's underdogs.

Judy triumphed over both Hart and Cooper by close scores of 24-22 and 24-21, respectively. This brought Judy up to a number-one spot.

Cooper won one game by defeating Lewis with a total of 27 points, as compared with Lewis' 18 points.

Jackson defeated Hart by a close margin of 24-22.

Bush, Coe, Marley, White, and Radcliff officiated during the night's action.

Judy now leads with five wins, no losses. Cooper is next with three wins, two losses. Jackson and Hart tie for third place with a record of two wins, three losses each. Lewis trails with four losses, no wins.

Ping-pong action continued last week with five games taking place. Jackie Rastle and Martha White won over Anna Belle McHenry and Eleanor Jacobson by scores of 21-6 two times.

Barbara Taylor and Barbara Blackhurst defeated Ada Cox and Marilyn Rastle. These scores were 21-14 and 21-10.

Patsy Greene and Joyce Bourn triumphed over Jacobson and McHenry by scores of 21-11 and 21-13. Jackie Coe and Connie Marley won the tilt over Taylor and Blackhurst by double scores of 21-13. They also defeated Genevieve Hunter and Jean Loyd by scores of 21-9 and 21-7.

An error in a recent issue of the Mercury stands corrected. It stated that Marilyn Rastle and Ada Cox defeated Jackie Coe and Connie Marley. However, the actual winners were Coe and Marley.

The poultry class associated with the agriculture department of the campus visited Hathway's Hatchery, of Ellenboro. To observe the process of hatching and the care of baby chicks was the reason for visiting the hatchery.

go Home by TRAIN!

Beats the stuffing out of other transportation! Storms can't cancel your trip. Traffic jams can't make you miss vacation dates, or get you back to the campus late. And it's more fun traveling by train with your crowd, enjoying swell dining car meals en route.

Save 25% or More

And, this is gravy! Travel home and back with two or more friends on Group Coach Tickets. On most trips of 100 miles or more, you each save 25% of usual round-trip rate. Still better, gather 25 or more to travel long-distance together on the same homeward train. Then return singly or together, and each save 28% of the regular coach round-trip fare.
