G-Men in Tournament Today

Debate Team to Oppose Yale, Harvard, Princeton at WVU

By SHIRLEY JAMES

Greenville's debate team will enter its second tournament on March 4 and 5, according to Joseph H. Riggs, debate coach. This meeting, the annual North-South debate tournament, will be held at West Virginia University, and will consist of five rounds of debating. Students who will participate in the tournament are Shirley James and Haymon Boggs, affirmative, and Yvonne Hart and John Mullins, negative.

30 Colleges Entered

Thirty colleges are entered in this contest, according to Professor Riggs. There will be 15 northern teams and 15 southern teams. Debating will be between the two groups. Some of the northern teams that will participate are Xavier, Notre Dame, Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Pitt, and Penn. The southern teams include Greenville, Fairmont, Morris Harvey, Marshall, University of North Carolina, and University of South Carolina. West Virginia University will have two northern teams and two southern teams from its debate group.

Mullins After-Dinner-Contestant

John Mullins will enter the after-dinner speaking contest which will be held during the tournament. Each four-man debate team is allowed one entry in the contest. The elimination rounds of the contest will be held on Friday afternoon. Finals will be held during the banquet that night.

To Meet Fairmont

On February 28, Greenville debaters will meet one of Fairmont's teams. The debate will be held during the assembly at Fairmont. Greenville's negative team, John Mullins and Yvonne Hart, will participate in the non-decision debate, according to Professor Riggs. Also making the trip are Shirley James, Haymon Boggs, and Prof. Joseph Riggs.

Dr. Harry B. Heflin At Chicago Meeting

Dr. Harry B. Heflin will attend the seventh annual conference of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education in Chicago, Ill., Feb. 24-26. Dr. Heflin will serve as recorder at a conference session on "Unit Costs in Teacher Education".

This association is a national voluntary organization of 282 colleges and universities. These institutions are responsible for preparation of approximately half of the teachers who have chosen careers in the public schools of the nation. Some 700 presidents, deans, and professors of teachers' colleges and university schools of education are expected to attend the three-day conference.

Gray Dance Co. On Lyceum

Large Touring Group 4th in Year's Series; Next Event in April

Greenville State students will be entertained in the Lyceum program by the Harriette Ann Gray Dance Company on Monday, Feb. 28, at 8:15.

A major American dancer, Miss Gray is a master of both performing and creating. Few choreographers have such clarity in their work. As an artist she uses her technique to communicate with her audience and move it.

"Dance for Two"

Appearing with her will be a company of dancers, who at various times will dance alone, in pairs, or within a group.

Numbers in the program will include "Dance For Two" featuring Harriette Gray and John Wilson, who is the musical director. "The Barre," featuring a group of the dancers, is an adaptation of Edna St. Vincent Millay's narrative, "The Barrel."

"Broken Flight," another number in their performance, is suggested by the poem "The Albatross" from "The Flower of Evil" by Charles Baudelaire.

One of the largest dance groups on tour this year, its willingness to perform in cities other than metropolitan centers demonstrates its desire to build up appreciative audiences.

Much Know-how

Much modern dance strikes the casual spectators as somewhat meaningless motion carried out seemingly at the spur of the moment. Technically inept or slipshod, it sometimes verges on the grotesque, with choreography that appears to lack design, beauty and grace; however nothing of this sort is to occur in Miss Gray's program. Her uncannily sharp eye for the typical and know-how of choreographic presentation enable her to invent subject matter derived from situations and states of mind consciously or unconsciously familiar to everyone.

ADE Initiates Tonight

Sue Arnold, junior business education major from Greenville, has been recently elected as corresponding secretary of Alpha Delta Epsilon, national honorary business fraternity.

Formal initiation for pledges will be held tonight in Louis Bennett lounge, according to Olga Paskevich, president. Pledges who will be initiated are Patricia Royster, Raleigh Royster, Rondal Beeson, Emma Hye, Mary Suck, Mona Hinkle, Jearl Stump, and Steve Rohr.

Student Teachers View Educational Film on Teaching

A movie concerning the introduction to student teaching was shown last Saturday morning to students who are doing their practice teaching this term.

The film presented the experiences of three beginning secondary student teachers. It showed them getting acquainted with the school, learning to handle routine classroom matters, and preparing a wide variety of instructional materials.

The movie emphasized learning as much about the pupil as possible, using individual pupil records, observing pupils in various situations, and participating in individual and group conferences. It showed the value of varied experiences as preparation for assuming greater responsibilities in full-time student-teaching and emphasized the help competent, interested supervising teachers can give.

Some of the purposes of showing the film are to show student teachers their initial responsibilities and to develop the simple skills the student teachers need before undertaking practice teaching, and to suggest ways in which a student teacher may be of most value to the class and supervising teachers.

Prof. Nelson Wells of the education department was supervisor of the film preview.

Colorful Pep Band Livens Basketball Games

By Kathryn Farmer

With the up-raise of a hand and the resounding notes from the trombone of Curtis Fleshman, the Greenville college pep band arouses the enthusiasm of the entire population present. The pep band has quite inspiringly created the atmosphere which is accountable for the vitality of the cheering section at home basketball games.

Opening with the national anthem, the band then begins with the College school song, strains of the Tiger Rag, and the Bleacher Boogie, to insure the team that the fans are with them all the way.

Throughout the season, the Band has appeared at all but one of our home games. Before all games, they had regular practice sessions dwelling on numbers which would prove inspiring to both the team and the spectators.

Despite of weather conditions, the pep band ventured to Alderson-Broadbent to contribute their part in expressing the school spirit and enthusiasm of the Greenville student body.

Fleshman Leads

Members of the Band who have appeared this season are Ronald Stalnaker, bass-drum; Norman Fisher, snare-drum; Jean Martin, and Lyla Jean Stump, clarinets;

Beckley Opponent in Opening Round of Buckhannon Meet

Greenville's 1954-55 Pioneers, regarded as a potential state champion as recently as three weeks ago, enter the annual WVC state tournament today with only an outside chance of copping the title they have won on four previous occasions.

Following their most impressive showing of the season (a record-breaking 118-85 conquest of Salem) the Gee Men hit the skids, dropping six of their last 11 league outings, including the last three in a row.

Could Surprise

Greenville's opening round opponent, Beckley, is not to be regarded lightly even though the Pioneers took the measure of the Blue-hawks twice during the regular season campaign by scores of 89-70 and 92-66.

The downstaters boast two of the WVC's finest players in high-scoring Bill Bowman and towering Al Cook, one of the loop's top ranking rebounders. The Beckley pack has shown a steady improvement during the season, and fans are mindful of the supposedly weak Bluehawk quintet that upset the field to enter the tourney finals in 1951.

Finals Saturday

Should George Stopp's legions bypass Beckley, they will meet the winner of the Salem-Concord game winner tomorrow night. The semifinals will be staged Friday night, with the championship playoff slated for Saturday evening.

Not only will the Gee Men be entering the post-season classic with a regular-season loss streak, but also a three-game losing skid in post-season ventures. The Pioneers have not won a tournament game at Buckhannon since the 1951 squad swept past four victories on their drive to the state championship and an ultimate bid to the NAIA national tourney in Kansas City.

285 Students Visit Nurse During Jan.

Two hundred and eighty-five students visited Nurse Mary Fest's office in the month of January for treatment of different ailments. She also treated two members of the Concord basketball team for ankle and back ailments. Six children enrolled in the nursery class at the Home Management house visited the nurse to be weighed and measured.

Common colds accounted for 161 of the 285 patients treated in January by Mrs. Fest. Forty-five students were treated for miscellaneous ailments, 24 for injuries, 15 for vomiting and diarrhea, and 15 for dysmenorrhea. Ten students required treatment for headaches and seven for abdominal pains.

Eight students were admitted to the infirmary. Kathleen Quinn was required to stay for nine days which was the longest incumbency of any of the eight.

Bell, Markley Wed Jan. 29

Elaine Bell, a Greenville College senior, was married to Carson Markley of Mill Creek, on Jan. 29. The wedding ceremony was performed at the Presbyterian church in Huttonsville. Attendants were the father of the bride and the sister of the groom.

Elaine, a business education and English major, is active in many campus affairs. She is a member of Kappa Chi Kappa sorority, editor of the Kanawhachen, and was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities this year. The groom is serving in the Armed Forces at the present. He is stationed in South Carolina. Elaine plans to continue her studies here at Greenville, where she will graduate in May.

Season's Final Art Exhibit on Display

Twenty water color paintings by Dorothy Cogswell are currently on exhibit in the library. The paintings are presently on tour of museums through the Studio Guild. According to Professor Julia Nutter, this is Greenville's third and last Studio Guild exhibit for this year.

Dorothy McIntosh Cogswell is now an associate professor of art at Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., and is a past president of the Springfield Art League in Springfield, Mass. She has had many of her works exhibited including an exhibit at the New York's world fair in 1939. Among the awards she has received was first prize for water colors at the Eastern States Exposition in 1941. Professor Cogswell has held several one-man shows, and has presented lecture demonstrations on Mexico, Scotland, Ireland, and Norway.

The paintings will be on display in the library until Feb. 24.

NAMES OMITTED FROM DEAN'S LIST

The names of Susan Arnold, of Greenville, and Mildred Gail Boggs, of Looneyville, were inadvertently omitted from the list of honor students released by Dean Delmer Somerville, as it appeared in last week's MERCURY. A total of 100 students received the honor rating.

YOUR NEWSPAPER

Two weeks ago the Mercury staff conducted a survey of the student body in an attempt to find out what the students expect from their newspaper and if they thought the Mercury was living up to these expectations.

From this survey, we received a great number of comments and criticisms that we believe will prove most helpful in producing this paper in the future. It is our sincere hope that the Mercury be a representative voice of the student body, and to be such we must always be subject to your comments and criticisms.

Unfortunately, it is extremely difficult for us to know what you want and what you don't want. These polls are limited. They don't reach everyone, and we can't run one every week.

For this reason, we welcome, as we always have, your letters on anything you may want to call attention to the Student Body. During the past two years we have never received a "letter to the editor" from a Glenville student.

Not only would an active "letter to the editor" section provide another interesting department to this paper, but it would also enable us to know what you want in your newspaper.

YOUR TEAM

In previous years, around tournament time, it has been the objective of many scribes to write something inspirational about their teams. The object is the same as coach's tearful plea at halftime, arousing a team often moves them into playing far above their abilities. This has happened hundreds of times in the history of athletics—Many times with astounding results.

While we of the Mercury may have employed this method in previous years, 1955 is an exception. This year we don't have to play on anyone's emotions by reminding them of the great heritage that they carry into the Buckhannon classic. The 1955 team need not be reminded that not too many years ago, Glenville State College ranked among the top small-college quintets in the entire nation.

We needn't recall to mind the great 1938-39 team that roared through 20 conference games undefeated, thought a playoff for the state title would be anti-climatic, and went straight to Kansas City where they won four out of their five assignments for third place honors.

This season's team need not be reminded of the feat of their 1951 predecessors who entered the WVC tourney with a less impressive (14-9) than the current team's 14-8 slate. The regular season mark notwithstanding, the '51 crew, "a team with a heart," knocked off four straight foes for an unexpected championship. Bob Turner and Harry Smith were members of that inspired group.

No, the 1954-55 team needs no emotional boost to aid them on at Buckhannon. This team is every bit capable of bringing back the bacon by themselves. They have proved themselves on several occasions this season to be a real "Cinderella" ball team. The Morris Harvey game was one of the many instances this year when the team faced almost-certain defeat in the face but rallied to turn the tide.

This team is "hungry"—a team that wants to win. Every man has given his best and will continue to do so at Buckhannon, starting this afternoon. The "Cinderella Kids" of 1955, win or lose at Buckhannon, carry with them the gratitude and admiration of the entire student body for a wonderful year of basketball.—JIM

The Lighter Side

By Patsy, Yvonne and Shirley

This is an exclusive flash that just came in over our wire services. There is reported to be a green Ford maniac loose in this area, so everyone is advised to keep under strict lock and key any old green Fords that happen to be lying around the house. Prof. H. Y. Clark and Prof. Helen Brammer have already been visited by the phantom, and just managed to foil the culprit in the nick of time.

It all started on the night of the faculty party when Prof. Denver Arnett's car refused to start. He left the car, a green Ford, and called for a wrecker to pick it up the next day. Bright and early on Saturday the wreckers trekked up to the vicinity of Firestone Lodge and, spying a green Ford, proceeded to start towing it away.

That would have been all right except that the car belonged to Professor Clark who happened to glance out his window just as his car went straking past. After Professor Clark rushed out and safely secured his car, the wrecker continued the search for a green Ford and suddenly what should loom before them but—a green Ford! So, feeling assured that this was it, the car was being triumphantly towed away when the owner of the car, this time Prof. Helen Brammer, was forced to rescue her helpless vehicle from the "phantom".

Whether the right car was ever found is unknown at this time; but the moral of this tale is, if you have a green Ford—PAINT IT!

Who says that students on this campus don't study? Why, Sue Adolt was so enthusiastic with her biology class that after seeing all the preserved specimen in the lab, she decided to dash right home and try her hand at preserving some specimen of her own. With the eager help of her faithful roommate, Shirley Jones, she tried valiantly, if vainly, to preserve one of her own eyes with alcohol. Much to Sue's distress, however, the experiment failed miserably and all she got out of the experience was a sore eye. But, being an ambitious and conscientious student, she didn't give up so easily. She just decided to turn her talents to some of her other subjects, namely English, and now as her latest accomplishment, she has produced a philosophical poem entitled "Ode to a Preserved Eyeball That Didn't Preserve."

Janice Tingle is a lucky, lucky, girl. She is one of the select few to receive a beautiful and original creation from a group of distinguished artists. About two weeks ago, Janice became ill and was confined to the infirmary. Her friends in Kanawha Hall decided that they should send her a little gift, but as Fate would decree, all of the well-wishers were "flat-broke" at the time. That didn't stop a certain group (Elaine Bell Markley, Doralee Bell, Jan Prather, Shirley Cross, and Nancy Marlow) though. Between them they "cooked up" something special and they have kindly agreed to give their permission to the Mercury to pass along the recipe to its readers.

The ingredients are as follows: One used corsage box (preferably expensive looking), two tissues, one big blue satin artificial rose hoisted from a candy box, and one original verse.

Place the tissues carefully around the flower so it will look like it is fresh from the florist (if you want to be real sneaky, dampen the tissues just a tiny bit so it will look like the box was just removed from the refrigerator,) then place the whole mixture in the preferably expensive corsage box, place the verse on top, fastened with a ribbon, and then present it to someone whom you think deserves such a nice gift. She will be very surprised when she opens the box, and the gift will be very useful. After all, everybody can always find a good use for one big blue satin artificial rose.

Glenville students will resort to practically anything for entertainment on this campus. Jack Tennant and Don Hamon played a dare-devil game of marbles on the floor of the Student Union, while everyone watched with bated breaths their daring feats. After a terrific, hard fought battle, Tennant emerged as the conquering victor.

News certainly travels fast around here, which may be attributed to either the speed of sound or the amazing facilities of a woman's mouth. Anyway, even our four-footed friend is not immune to listening for choice morsals of news especially when those choice morsals turns out to concern real honest-to-goodness food. This point was aptly proven Sunday night when word had just gotten around that one of the girls in Verona Maple Hall had returned from home with that most precious of all commodities, FOOD! The word had scarcely traveled from one end of the hall to the other when who should saunter casually in but Dr. Anderson's dog, looking for a hand-out. He was fed properly, petted and even had his picture taken. He liked everything so well that he informed the girls with a certain wag of his tail and a look in his eyes that he just might honor them with a return engagement sometime.

By a special secret code from our undercover agents we have been informed that the student English teachers are hatching a plot to change our language. Olga Paskevich, a ring leader in the dastardly plan, was recently telling her husband about her experience with an elusive eraser. To quote Olga, (by special arrangement with her husband) "The eraser flew up, and I 'ketch'd it." Shame on you, Olga, you should know that ketch'd is pronounced with a "c."

"Well I'll be darned! Wonder if those highway signs mean what they say, too?"

ALUMNI NOTES

Patty Reynolds, Jan. Grad, Now Enrolled at University

By YVONNE HART

Bertha (Patty) Reynolds, who graduated at the semester is now enrolled as a graduate student at West Virginia University. Patty, a home economics major, is a native of Grantsville. While attending school here, she was a member of Xi Beta Tau sorority, Home Economics club, and the Wesley Foundation.

Nora Ann Kennedy, also an early '55 graduate, is now in charge of a kindergarten in St. Marys, her hometown. Nora Ann teaches 20 children at the present time.

While at Glenville, Nora was a member of the Mercury staff, former president of Xi Beta Tau sorority, newly-elected member of the sorority's alumni association, a member of the assembly committee, Verona Maple governing board, WAA, and a former member of the SCA. She was also selected for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Wanda Carol Taylor, another recent graduate, is now employed by Kanawha county board of education as an instructor and librarian at Sissonville high school. Wanda Carol, from Spencer, was a member of Kappa Chi Kappa sorority and was circulation manager of the Mercury. She was an English major with a field in library science, too. She served as Holy Roller Court queen of 1953. She has also acted as model on stage for style shows given by the college.

Richard Satterfield, a first-term graduate, is junior high coach at Spencer high school at the present time. Richard, a physical education major from Glenville, is a former all-time great football player at Glenville high school.

He was a member of the Pioneer football squad and a member of the G-clubs. "Dick" was also a member of Holy Roller Court and the Veteran's club.

HOLY ROLLER COURT: Albert Groves, standing in for Judge Richard Barret who is in New Orleans, La., announced that 20 pins have been ordered for the members who are eligible for the pins.

Plans were discussed for the assembly which the organization will present in the near future. Frank Holstein is the director of the assembly program.

It was discussed whether pins should be bought for first year members, but nothing definite was decided. It was decided, however, that money from the ice cream fund would be used to help pay for the in-coming pins, and it would be paid back later on in the year.

Plans were made for an assembly to be presented on March 3. The theme of the program will be an old fashioned talent show with members of the sorority doing readings, pantomimes, and singing. New members turned in their pledge pins.

Tentative plans were made for the decorations for the April Showers dance which will be held on April 15. Various orchestras were discussed as possibilities to play at the dance, but no definite selection has been made.

Plans for holding a wiener roast for the Kappa Sigs were discussed. Buelah Beckner, Judy Kennedy, Betty Jo Lewis, Marita Spicer, and Doralee Bell were appointed to sell hot dogs.

Discussions were held on the decorations for the Sock Hop March 18, and on plans for an assembly soon to be staged by the sorority. The

CHESTERFIELD'S SMILE OF THE WEEK

Whose smile is this?

Keith McAfee, Chesterfield campus representative, announced today that any student on campus may win a package of Chesterfield cigarettes if he can identify the person to whom the above smile belongs, when asked by McAfee.

Ten packs of Chesterfields will be given as prizes, and if a student has a package of Chesterfields on his person when he is asked, and is able to identify the smile, he will receive two packages of Chesterfields.

BURNS HARLAN

PERRY SMITH

ALUMNI NOTES

Smith, Harlan Receive Posts As Parkersburg City Editors

By YVONNE HART

Perry Smith and Burns Harlan, two former members of the Mercury staff, have been appointed as city editors of the daily newspapers of Parkersburg. Perry is with the Parkersburg News, and Burns is city editor with the Parkersburg Sentinel.

This brings to four the total of Mercury staff members who have received important journalistic posts within the

In 1953, he has also taught high school journalism and was advisor of a high school newspaper. William Harper, of Parkersburg, was also a long-time staff member of the Mercury. He was the first president of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity, and was secretary of the West Virginia Intercollegiate association. He was a full-time reporter with the Parkersburg News at one time, was affiliated with the Huntington-Herald Dispatch, and was editor of the Glenville Pathfinder. He was formerly information intern with the State University of Iowa's Relations and Information Service.

It seems strange, maybe even absurd, that a school which offers no journalism degree should produce alumni who hold such important journalistic positions. These four individuals received much of their background, journalistic training while at Glenville, through their work on the Mercury.

Perry Smith, better known as Perry "Como" Smith, was business manager of the Mercury. He was also the columnist who wrote the popular "Campus Views." Smith was a charter member of the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity, and he was a student in the fields of English and social studies. He left school here in 1951 to become a member of the Air Force.

Burns Harlan, a graduate of 1950, was also a member of the reporting staff of the College newspaper. From Cox's Mill, Harlan attended Glenville high school, also. After he left here, he worked on a Pittsburgh weekly, and later became correspondent and delivery man with Beckley Newspaper corporation in Boone county. Now he has advanced from copy editor of the Sentinel to city editor.

William Boram, from Weston, was a member of the Mercury staff for three years. He was president of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity, president of Alpha Psi Omega, and a member of Student Council, Omega Kappa, and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. He was an English major, with a minor field in speech. He has served as director of publications for West Virginia's Industrial Publicity Commission. Since his graduation

Researchers Seek The 25 Oldest People For Longevity Study

DENVER, COLO.—One hundred-and-eleven-year-old Theodore Wiley (Cap) Margraves, after a lapse of 86 years, revisited a scene of his youth last week. He met and chatted with the grandsons of famous Indian chiefs, now dead, who were his erstwhile companions; and he foregathered, at the same time, with descendants of the fabulous James-Dalton-Younger crew of outlaws, with whom he was associated in 1869.

The reunion, to which NO sheriffs or other law-enforcement officers were invited, occurred on Ute Pass, near Manitou Springs, at the home of Shatka Bear Step whose grandfather, Gordon Bear Step, a celebrated Cherokee chieftain, accompanied the bandit crew from Oklahoma to Colorado, where raids on stage coaches, banks and rich ore trains from nearby Cripple Creek gold fields became commonplace.

"Cap," a former slave, was in charge of the outfit's livestock herds when its base camp was at Ute Pass. To keep the rendezvous last week he made the 100-mile trip by automobile from Denver, where he is participating in the Spears Chiropractic hospital's Longevity Research Study.

His memory is keen and his hearing perfect. His vision is only slightly dimmed. He is a resident of Guthrie, Okla., where he makes his home with a grand-daughter, Mrs. Laura Cooper, who accompanied him by train to Denver.

Margraves, widely known as "Wiley," is the fifth person to be examined by the research experts, who find interesting the fact that four of the quintet are colored, and wonder if skin pigmentation is a factor in achieving extraordinary life spans. "Cap" has a Negro, Choctaw Indian and Spanish heritage.

Spears hospital trustees are seeking "the 25 oldest people in the world," regardless of their present residence, for the longevity study, offering free transportation to Denver for each accepted candidate.

Reed Paces Junior Varsity Team to Unbeaten Season

Bob Reed led the Pioneer's Junior Varsity to four wins and one tie this season. Reed topped all scorers of the J.V. squad with 82 points, the next highest scorer being Tom Hyer with 48.

The J.V.'s first win came at the expense of the Vets club by a 66-39 score. Bob Reed led all scorers in this game with 21 points followed closely by Kirk of the Vets club with 17. Other high scorers for the J.V. squad were John Shock with 14, Tom Hyer with 10, Steve Cooper, 6, Don Schoonmaker, 4, David Posey, 9, and Harry Smith with 2. Second high for the Vets club was Albert Groves with 13.

The second win came over an independent team under the coaching of Prof. Joe Riggs, 61-52. Tom Hyer pitched in 18 points to lead all scorers followed by Reed with 15. David Posey boosted the J.V.'s with 12 points. High for Riggs' team were Kirk and Crouch with 10 each.

Bob Reed and Ralph Holder led the J.V. team to victory over a Weston Independent team 74-50 with 34 and 22 points respectively.

The biggest scare of the season for the J.V.'s came when they were tied by the Griffith's Independent team, 57-57. The reason the tie wasn't played off was because of the lack of time before the varsity took the floor. Bob Reed and Ralph Holder tied for scoring honors with 22 each.

Tom McPherson and Ralph Holder led the Glenville scorers with 14 each in a 72-37 win over the Spencer Independents. Tom Hyer came through with 13 to place second in scoring honors. Jarvis was high for Spencer with 9.

J.V.'s individual scoring:

Name	G	P	AV.
Reed	4	82	20.5
Holder	2	36	18
Hyer	4	48	12
Cooper	5	43	8.6
McPherson	2	17	8.5
Posey	5	38	6.4
Shock	5	27	5.4
Estep	2	10	5
Schoonmaker	4	18	4.5
Smith	2	4	2

Graduated from Fairmont

Born in 1854 at Spragg, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Brannon graduated from Fairmont State normal school in 1879. She became the only woman principal in the history of Glenville State College, which was then Glenville Normal School. From 1882 until 1894, she not only acted as principal, but taught literature, botany, mathematics, and spelling.

Married Glenville Lawyer

She left Glenville in 1895 to teach at West Liberty college, and in the same year she was married to Linn Brannon, a Glenville lawyer and judge. In 1905 she moved to Weston where she spent the remainder of her life and where her only child, Linn Mapel Brannon, now a Weston attorney, was born. While in Weston she was active in civic affairs and she once served as a state regent in the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Developed Hybrid Roses

As an enthusiastic amateur botanist, Mrs. Brannon was a wide collector of plants, and during her lifetime she collected and identified more than 350 local plants.

At her home in Weston she continued her avid interest in gardening, cultivating an extensive flower garden with many exotic species of plants. She also developed three hybrid roses.

Student Teachers, Faculty Administer Testing Program

By Constance Sams

When Glenville State College began its annual psychological testing program Feb. 7, students who are doing their directed teaching this term went along with members of the faculty to help administer the tests.

"Since testing is a vital part of all teaching programs today, student teachers in training need concrete experience in giving it," stated H. Y. Clarks, head of the education department. Clark also said that this furnishes students an excellent opportunity to administer, score, and interpret standard tests. He stressed the fact that it associates the student teachers with other schools and school systems, and broadens experience in the education field.

Students and faculty members who have given the tests and will give them at different central West Virginia high schools are: Gassaway high school, Dr. James Gay Jones and James Mullins; Sister-ville high school, Prof. Joseph Riggs, and Richard Barrett; St. Mary's high school, Prof. John R. Wagner, and Virginia Johnson; Doddridge County high school, Dr. Byron Turner and Harless Turner; Wirt County high school, Prof. Stanley Hall, Elaine Bell Markley and Harold Cline; Jane Lew and Weston high schools, Prof. Denver F. Arnett, Harless Turner, Bertha Turner, and Olga Pashkevich; Calhoun County high school, Willard Smith, who was in charge, Stanley Anderson, Janet Conley, Gail Lydick, Albert Groves Jr., and Elaine Bell Markley; Spencer and Walton high schools, Prof. Carl Kerr, Prof. Nelson Wells, Olga Pashkevich, Bertha Turner, and Janet Conley; Richwood and Nicholas County high schools, Prof. Denver F. Arnett, Willard Smith, Jacqueline Humphries, Mary Faith Holbert, and James Mullins; Sissonville and Ripley high schools, Marvin Stewart and Dean Delmar K. Somerville.

and a traveling companion. Scientific interest in a dozen foreign countries has been manifested, and several overseas longevity subjects are being groomed to take part, notably in Puerto Rico, Hawaii, Thailand, Denmark and Japan.

All who qualify receive a $200 bonus, in addition to the all-expense-paid trip, and a chance for one of the major prizes for winners in various categories such as oldest, best physical condition, most mentally alert, etc.

"Cap" Margraves declares that Oklahoma contains more centenarians than any other state in the Union. His memories date back to eavesdropping on Confederate and Union soldiers to learn who was winning "The War Of The States." He asserts there are many others in his age group, including a sister two years his senior who may later become an entry in the Spears Longevity project.

Two Students Transfer

Professor Warden Lane reported that two of the agriculture students, Donald Wedekamm and Earl Bargeloh, transferred to the West Virginia University at the semester. Wedekamm was a sophomore from Harrisville and a member of the Kappa Sigma Kappa. Bargeloh was a junior from Mineral Wells, Wood County.

Lane stated that Wedekamm will be majoring in general agriculture while Bargeloh has chosen dairy husbandry as his field of study.

In order to help defray his expenses while at the university Bargeloh will work at the dairy farm. Wedekamm has chosen to work for the A & P store in Morgantown.

ADE HOLDS PLEDGE MEETING

Alpha Delta Epsilon business fraternity held a regular meeting Wednesday night, Feb. 9. After the business meeting, the pledges of the fraternity provided entertainment for the old members. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Nine pledges of this fraternity went through their period of informal initiation during last week. The pledges carried typewriter cases and wore signs with the fraternity name. Students who are being formally initiated on Feb. 23 are Jearl Stump, Stephen Rohr, Mona Hinkle, Raleigh Royster, Patricia Royster, Emmadale Hyre, Ronald Beeson, and Mary Suck.

Verona Mapel to be Honored Here April 23rd

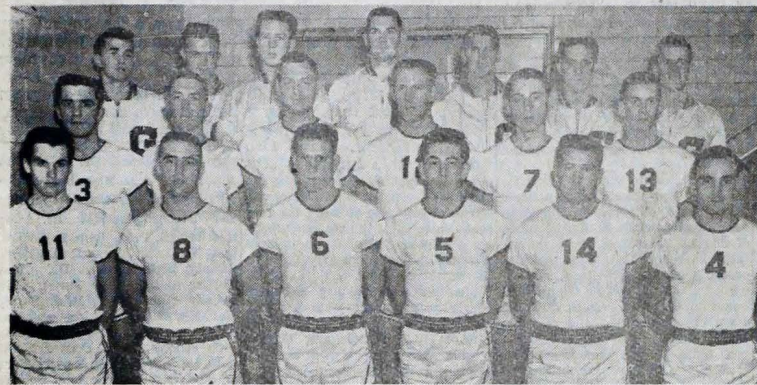

By PATSY FRIEND

Tribute will be paid to an amateur botanist and the person for whom one of Glenville's women's dormitory was named, on April 23, when a number of state botanists will come to Glenville to honor Verona Mapel Brannon.

This will be in accordance with a custom started a few years ago when Dr. E. L. Core, head of the department of biology at West Virginia University, established a tradition of honoring former state botanists by meeting in that person's locality. As a part of this series, state botanists will honor Verona Mapel Brannon with a field trip, luncheon, and some brief speeches

1955 Gee Men Provide Stopp With Finest Record Since '43

Despite the fact that the 1954-55 Pioneer basketball squad lost the final three games of their regular season schedule, their performance this year, Coach George Stopp's first at the helm, proved to be the finest Glenville basketball season since Nate Rohrbough's 1943 quintet raced through 13 games undefeated.

This season's 14-8 conference mark is a shade better than the 14-9 season slate the 1951 team brought into the WVCC tournament, where they eventually won the state championship.

The big improvement over the 10-13 conference mark posted by the 1953-54 team can largely be attributed to three big reasons. The first is the addition of Rudy "Cool" Poole, whose tremendous rebounding and scoring power aided the Gee Men both defensively and offensively.

Poole Sets Two Marks

Poole's 425 points this season bettered the school's freshman record of 420 set by Jack Tennant. In addition, the rugged Lost Creek alumnus shattered the one-game total set by Bob "Hooks" Hardman when he scored 47 points against West Liberty.

The only other change in the first-team personnel from last season has been the return from Army service of Bob Turner, one of the stellar operatives on the 1951 state championship quintet. Turner is living evidence that statistics are often deceiving. Although he did not rank at the top in scoring, the Glenville high school grad was the Pioneers' chief defensive weapon and is evaluated by many as the best man-for-man defender in the entire state.

Harry Among Leaders

Another major factor in Glenville's rapid improvement this season was the return to form of Harry Mason Smith, Elkhav's pride and joy. Another holdover from the 1951 championship squad, Smith had trouble hitting his stride last season, following a tenure with Uncle Sam's Armed Forces. Smith set a torrid pace this season, however, both in scoring and on the defense. His 50 percent field goal percentage places him among the leaders in the conference.

Jack All-Time High

Although having an "off" year by Tennant's standards, "Dynamite" Jack continued to break scoring marks by tallying 392 points during the regular season, erasing two previous marks set by Bob "Hooks" Hardman. Jack's 1,694 points scored in conference games, and 1,788 points during the regular season are new marks for Pioneers.

of the future to shoot for. His life-time total of 1,893 points ranks second only to Hardman's 1,894.

Reit Sidelined

Although he was sidelined much of the season, Pennsylvania's Bill Reit aided the Glenville cause no end when he was in action. The slender sharpshooter tossed home 179 markers this season to bring his two-year total to 466 points.

Although veterans Jack Tennant and Harry Smith will not be available next season, Coach Stopp should have little trouble finding capable replacements from the strong bench that has supported the starting five throughout this profitable season.

Reserves Factor

Al Reich, Bob Weaver, Ed Tekieli, Jim Hamrick, and Bob Reynolds have all played important roles this season and will all be on hand battling for starting spots on next season's quintet. Reich and Weaver capably filled in for Reit during his illness while Tekieli and Hamrick played supporting roles to Glenville's big men, Turner and Smith. Reynolds, a real fine freshman prospect, finished the season with a rush, proving that a little experience was all that he needed.

5 IRC Members at State

Five members of the International Relations club will participate in the regional conference to be held at West Virginia State college March 11-12. It was announced by Dale Hunt, president of the club. Members attending and participating in the conference will be Ruby Elder, Genevieve Hinder, Robert Kohl, Norman Stone, Dale Hunt, and the club advisor, Prof. Bessie B. Bell.

Spotlight Includes Basketball Rivalry, WAA Shuffleboard

Basketball season began last week for WAA girls. Genevieve Hinder, sports leader, has posted a list of the following teams which will participate: Joyce Bourn, captain; Joyce Jackson, Dottie Lanham, Phyllis Given, Noreita Payne, Sally Zeigler, Louise Rhoades, and DeJores Hitt. Bonnie Correll, captain; Connie Sans, Barbara Blackhurst, Ada Cox, Shirley Jones, Sue Adolt, and Mida Ealley. Barbara Wright, captain, Nancy Hall, Iris Mack, Judy Kennedy, Jo Ann Spicer, Pearl Stump, Betty Jo Lewis, Eleanor Jacobson.

Phyllis Greenleaf, captain; Roberta Jarvis, Kathleen Quinn, June Wood, Daisy Frame, and Mary Burke. Wanda Barker, captain; Ruby Elder, Genevieve Hinder, Martha Spicer, Annabelle McHenry, Patsy Friend, Rosemary Hammond, and Nina Godfrey.

Shuffleboard will be one of the favorite sports played this term, according to Patricia West, sports leader. D & E Routs Gee Men 100-86 To Win Contested 2nd Place

Entering the final week of regular season play with a firm grip on second place, Glenville's Pioneers saw the coveted N. A. I. A. playoff berth slip from their grasp last week as they absorbed successive defeats from Wesleyan, Salem, and Davis & Elkins, the eventual winner of the runner-up position.

Wesleyan gained sweet revenge for an early-season trouncing by nipping the Wave 88-86 in an overtime thriller at Buckhannon. The Bobcats gained their hard-earned triumph mainly on the efforts of the brilliant-shooting Ed Hood who scored 31 points.

Tekieli Limits Kristofik

The determined Gee Men, leading much of the way during the first half saw their margin slip away as Ed Kristofik, Wesleyan's rookie pivotman waxed hot by scoring 15 points in 10 minutes.

With Ed Tekieli doing a brilliant bit of defensive work on Kristofik during the second half, the Pioneers staged an uphill battle before finally deadlocking the home-esters 79-79 at the end of regulation play.

Hood Commands

Hood assumed command during the extra session and the Bobcats outscored the invaders 9-7 to square the season's series at one game apiece.

At Salem, the Pioneers ran into a red-hot Tiger team that just couldn't seem to miss. With a field goal percentage of well over 50 percent, Paul West's well-oiled machine rolled to a 109-95 triumph over a Pioneer team that had realized their season peak in the early season meeting between the two schools.

'Big Four' Score

The Tigers were led by Dave Corini (28), Byron Gibson (27), "Mule" Key (22), and David Gibson (19). Glenville's "big four," Tennant, Poole, Smith, and Turner scored 80 of the visitor's points.

Last Saturday, with second place still a possibility, the Pioneers fell victim to potent Davis & Elkins by a convincing 100-86 count. The Senator win enabled them to nail down runner-up spot to Alderson-Broadus.

Pete Bezzinni opened the evening's proceedings with a two-point 30 seconds after the opening tap-off to give the Elkins crew a short-lived 2-0 margin. Rudy Poole put Glenville in the van for the first time with two foul shots and a field goal as Glenville took the lead 4-2. Wilcox's hook shot squared matters again, but Bob Weaver gave the Wave another two-point lead, 6-4, with 18:07 remaining. Bob Seem, Wilcox, Sautzari, and Seem scored on two-pointers in rapid succession as the Senators spurred to a 12-6 margin. The pressing Gee Men knotted the count twice before the half, at 17-17 and 21-21, but the Senators had enough gas to prevail 42-36 at halftime.

Quick baskets by Harry Smith and Bob Weaver narrowed the gap to 44-40 before the second half was two minutes old, but Wilcox and Bezzinni combined their efforts for five points and a 49-40 margin.

Seem (28) and Bezzinni (27) were the big guns for the Senators while their usually high-scoring team mate, Paul Wilcox, was limited to 15 points. Poole's 25 points was the high-water mark for Glenville.

A-B, Tech Favored

While most observers have limited the potential champion field to A-B, Tech, D & E, Morris Harvey, and Wesleyan, the once-highly-regarded Gee Men could sneak in the back door and grab the honors. Only a return to their mid-season form, however, could send the Wave to the winner's circle Saturday evening.

Spearheading Glenville's title ambitions will be the team's 'big four' of Tennant, Turner, Smith, and Poole. Without a doubt, as goes the play of Tennant, Turner, Smith, and Poole, so goes the fortunes of the Pioneers. Not to be overlooked, however, is the strong Glenville bench, considered by many to be a prime factor in the Buckhannon playoff.

Reit May Return
Staffed by such top-notchers as Bob Weaver, Alan Reich, Ed Tekie-li, Bob Reynolds, Jim Hamrick, and Bill Reit, Glenville's 'second line' is in good hands. Reit was out of action much of the season and his loss hurt the Gee Men considerably. His return to full-time duty at Buckhannon would do much to boost Glenville's chances.
Despite Glenville's lack of success in recent tournament play, the Pioneers boast a fine 25-11 record since the inception of the tourney in 1935. The Pioneers have won the tournament four times (1937, 1938, 1942, and 1951), and they have won the state championship on two other occasions, (1939, 1940) without even going to Buckhannon.

Glenville and Beckley have met once before at Buckhannon. On that occasion the Pioneers dumped the Bluehaws 73-57 in the 1951 championship round. That was Glenville's last tournament victory.

Fairmont was the first site of the WVAC Tournament. It moved to Clarksburg in 1936 and in 1940 it moved to Buckhannon.

Vets Urge Attendance

Commander John Lazear reported that the Veterans' club meeting held last Thursday was mainly concerned with finding out how many active members are on the roll.

Lazear said that there are 65 names on the roll and only 10 to 15 members attend the meetings. He stated that it was decided at the meeting that if a member missed more than two meetings in a row without an excuse, that this member would be dropped from the club.

Discussion was also given to the possibility of raising enough money to sponsor a local talent show that would go to Clarksburg and put on a show for the men in the Veterans' Memorial hospital.

Reporter Counts 39 Architectural Slopes On Ad Building Roof

By CARL PETERS

As the bright, white light of the early morning sun strikes the frosty dormers and gables of the Administration Building, the roof is transformed into a three-dimensional study in light and shadow. Many an aspiring art student could do well by using the roof as a subject for a charcoal drawing.

All the above attributes of the building are caused by the unusual number of slopes and ridges formed in the roof. Some people haven't a roof over their head, but this statement can never be made about the faculty and students who occupy the classrooms and offices of the Administration building. The various sections of the building have roofs composed of no less than thirty-nine separate and distinct slopes.

The "new" brick building which replaced the "Old Building", a frame structure, got the roof-building affair started in 1885.

The clock tower, which houses the official timepiece of Glenville State College, forms twelve different planes with its individual roof.

After a few years, the legislature appropriated twenty thousand dollars to finance the roof-building madness of the architects; and as a result a new addition, fully equipped with a basement surrounding a furnace heating system, was completed in 1894. The new wing added more sloping surfaces to the roof.

Kirk's 42 Points Highlights Woodies' 5th Straight Win

By JIM HAMRICK

Victor Kirk's 42 points highlighted M. A. A. play last week as the "Big 3," Bears, Hustlers, and Woodies all continued their winning ways. Kirk hit for 20 field goals and 2 for 2 at the charity stripe as Crouch's Woodies racked up their fifth straight win by trouncing Arbogast's Wildcats, 69-31. Crouch tossed in 15 markers to help the cause. Hughes led the Wildcats with 13.

Again in 1910, after the school had lived in peace for sixteen years, the architects had a relapse and constructed what they fancied as a true masterpiece of architectural design magic. This new addition, which now shelters the offices and some classrooms, created eighteen new roof pitches.

Later, during a less serious phase of the architects' unnamed mania, the auditorium was constructed, and only three new roof surfaces grew out of the union with the latest addition of the Administration Building.

The thirty-nine slopes, formed through the extensions during the years, are very unusual from both art and architectural standpoints.

Liberty is the only thing you cannot have unless you are willing to give it to others.—William Allen White Bokovitz's Bears had a rough time squeezing out a 43-37 win over the Cats of Roy Cogar. The lead changed hands several times and the game was tied at the end of the third canto, 31-31. Danny Hall and Dick Barrett led the winners with 21 and 10 points while Whipkey, Schoonmaker, and McClung were tops for the losers with 11, 10 and 10 points respectively.

Kimble's Bullets provided little opposition for the rampaging Hustlers of Ollie Hunt. The Hustlers jumped off to a big lead and were never seriously threatened as they racked up their sixth straight win 48-19. Strader had 14 and Carson 9 for the winners while Huffman led the Bullets with 6.

Melrose's Rosies picked up their third win of the season as they ran roughshod over the Rowdies of Steve Rohr, 38-26. Courtney paced the Rosies with 7 field goals for 14 points while Dotson chipped in 13 for the Rowdies.
