Student Council Announces Plans for LBH Improvements

Residents of Louis Bennett hall can expect some new improvements in the way of a new washing machine, a postal system, a loan system, and use of the lounge, if plans discussed at the Student Council meeting held on Jan. 10 work out properly.

Council president Marvin Stewart announced that he contacted Jack Sizemore, president of the Louis Bennett hall Governing Board, regarding the use of the lounge. Plans were discussed about working out a satisfactory postal system for the dormitory and a workable loan system for the students.

Stewart also stated that he wrote a letter to Mr. Erman R. Lester, member of the Board of Education, regarding washing machines in campus state colleges. Stewart said he wrote to Concord college in West Virginia Tech asking them to write Stewart any information on this situation. He said that he has been received from the schools, and that arrangements have already been made to place a washing machine at Louis Bennett hall.

State Meeting

It was announced at the meeting that a letter had been received from West Virginia State college in response to a meeting to be held on March 11-12. Delegates said they were interested in attending are—Marvin Stewart, Ralph Holder, James Hamrick, and Stanley Hall.

It was decided that $100.00 would be transferred from the Student fund to the Health Fund for the Council received a letter from Lloyd Jones, Financial Secretary, stating that Mrs. Mary's health fund has a balance of $119.39.

Kanawhachen Staff Names 4 Members

Four students have recently been added to the Kanawhachen yearbook staff, according to Shirley Jones, associate editor. Students who were appointed are Doralee Bell, activity editor; Shirley Cross, editor; and Janice Tingle and Anna Hinkle, typists. These students have been working with the staff for several weeks, but until last week had not been officially appointed as staff members.

All material for the first deadline has been mailed to the American Yearbook Company, according to Shirley. She says that this material includes the end sheets, the thirty-two pages, and the design for the cover. The next deadline for the Kanawhachen is April. This next deadline will include all organizations, so those organizations who wish to plan their own areas should do so immediately. The staff also urges students to turn in any snapshots which they would like to have put in the annual.

Paper Seeks To Fill Vacancy

The Mercury sports department is in the rebuilding stage. The paper is interested in contacting anyone interested in becoming a member of this staff. With graduation taking a heavy toll this Spring, the Mercury is interested in grooming someone for the Sports Editor position. Interested students should contact Jim Robinson as soon as possible, AND DON'T BE HESITANT IF YOU ARE GENUINELY INTERESTED.

Speech Festival Mar. 11, 12 H. S. Drama Meet Here Mar. 15

College Enters 17th Conclave at D & E; 1-Act Play Featured

By SHIRLEY JAMES

Glenville State College will be represented in two divisions of the seventeenth annual Speech Festival at Davis and Elkins college on March 11 and 12. This festival is sponsored by the West Virginia Intercollegiate Speech association, and any college in the state may enter in any division.

Half an Hour

According to Prof. Joseph H. Riggs, Glenville will be entered in the one-act play division and in the oral interpretation.

Professor Riggs said that the speech department of Glenville will present James M. Berry's play "Half an Hour." Members of the cast are Jeanette Prather, William Deel, Thomas Reed, Robert Gainer. (Continued on page 2)

Testing Program Begins This Week

This year Glenville State College is participating in the National College Sophomore testing program, which is conducted annually by the Educational Testing service. These tests are being given on March 8, 9, 14, and 15.

While this test is required of all sophomores, the benefits to the student should greatly offset any resulting inconvenience. The scores obtained will enable each student to view his academic strengths and weaknesses in terms of the general pattern of sophomores in colleges across the nation.

Interpretive leaflets containing graphic interpretations of the individual's relative standing of the various tests will be given to each student.

The results of this program will also provide the faculty with an opportunity to appraise student achievement in terms of the College's objectives.

College Plays Host To Spencer, Walton, Ravenswood Groups

On March 15, Glenville's speech department and the Ohmingohow Players will be in charge of the Sectional High School Drama festival.

According to Prof. Joseph H. Riggs, three one-act plays are expected to be presented during the afternoon. The high schools presenting these plays are Spencer, Walton, and Ravenswood. Judges for the plays are Prof. Espy W. Miller and Prof. Carl Kerr.

The winner of the sectional festival will go to the state finals which will be held in Morgantown on March 25, 26, and 27.

Professor Riggs is, as regional host, in charge of all the activities of the day. Students who will assist him are Shirley James, Martha White, Doralee Bell, Shirley Cross, Harley Cutlip, Frank Holstein, Robert Gainer, William Deel, Rita Pickens, and Wanda James.

Likely Candidates Will Hold Comment as SC Race Nears

By GEORGE PEASE, Campus Political Editor

Hesitancy and caution are the words which could best describe the prevailing attitude concerning the outlook for the coming Student Council election.

Although there is no visible sign of anticipation or interest, an undercurrent of enthusiasm is building up among the students who are interested in throwing the ring.

At this writing, most of the students who are rumored to be good prospects for candidacy have shown an inclination to stay out of the initial flash of the campus limelight by holding back their statements with the obvious intention of committing themselves at a later date.

Normal Reaction

Marvin Stewart, present Council prexy, stated that this is a normal reaction, but that the delay in announcing one's intention to run may ultimately be injurious to one's plans.

New Students Unfamiliar

Commenting upon the situation as it stands, Stewart said: "Since we have such a large number of students on campus this year, it would be wise for the students interested in becoming candidates to submit their name so that the new students could have a chance to be personally familiar with them and their platform. In past elections, some of the defeats could very possibly be (Continued on page 4)

Elementary Student Teachers Shifted

Students who are doing their elementary directed teaching this term changed grades last week in order to give them teaching experience in both grades 1-3 and grades 4-6.

Students who are doing their directed teaching are Roy Cogar and Herbert Collins, who are teaching in kindergarten, and Emmons Smith is doing his directed teaching the last half of this term in the first grade under the direction of Mrs. Jean Adams.

Mrs. Sally Stump is teaching first and second grades under Mrs. Fitzpatrick, and Shirley Brubaker is teaching second grade under the auspices of Mrs. Denver McDougall. Teaching in the fourth grade under the direction of Mrs. Kidd are Geraldine Groves and Barbara Marley. Stanley Costy and Earl McLaughlin are finishing their directed teaching under Mr. Erwin in the sixth grade.

Science Building To Get Cigarette Vendors Installed

Installation of cigarette vendors in the Science building was approved by the Student Council at the last meeting held on March 1, according to Marvin Stewart, Council prexy.

Stewart said that financial secretary Lloyd Jones was informed of the decision, and that four vendors, one for each floor, would be put in shortly.

An approval of Franklin Holstein for the post of assistant manager of the year book was voted by the Council. Holstein resumed his duties immediately.

It was decided by the members that the minutes of the Council would be bound in book form for preservation. A key will be presented to the next president of the Council it was announced at the meeting. Marvin Stewart was appointed to construct a key which will represent the key to the school.

Court to Sponsor Assembly Tomorrow

Top talent from Glenville's campus will be combined with an up-to-date fashion show when the Holy Roller Court takes charge of the assembly program tomorrow. According to Franklin Holstein, who is handling the directing chores for the show, the program has shaped up very well and it promises to provide entertainment for everyone.

One of the main features of the program will be a return performance of a popular campus quartet, the Esquires, which is composed of the harmonizing voices of Thomas Reed, Joseph Arbogast, David Arbogast, and Robert Gainer. David Arbogast will double as a soloist. Another well known campus entertainer, Hong Shuk Min, will also be spotlighted as a featured singer. Adding a note of femininity to the (Continued on page 3)

Barnyard Mix Friday

Farmer John James has announced that the annual Barnyard Frolic will be held in the Old Gym on March 11, from 8 to 10. The affair, which is sponsored by the Student Christian association, will feature Old MacDonald relay races with all of the barnyard animals participating. There will also be pig middlin' and chicken feed eatin' contests.

Farmer James stated that all admissions costs will be thrown to the winds and you'll be able to walk in, free of charge. He also said that there would be free refreshments for all concerned.

BLAME TUITION HIKE

Out-of-State Students May Leave GSC

By Paisy Friend

Resentment and a feeling of unfairness dominated the opinions of seven out-of-state students who were polled on this campus as to their opinions on the recent tuition increase for all out-of-state students. The raise is scheduled to become effective next fall.

The state Board of Education recently approved a $150. increase in non-resident tuition, which will raise the cost of tuition for these students from $200. to $350.

Will Raise $160,000?

Board President Raymond Bester, of Huntington, stated that the expected increase will net $160,000 annually, which will be put into the states general school fund.

All of the students polled appeared very doubtful as to whether they would return next year to West Virginia schools, and most of them felt that the prospects of their accomplishing anything by making a unified protest were very dim. Two students, Norman Stone and Robert Kohl, have stated their intentions of bringing up the subject when they attend a meeting of the International Relations club at West Virginia State college on March 11.

"They don't want us"

Following are the opinions of seven of the eight non-state residents who are presently attending Glenville College concerning the increase.

Alan Reich, Bronx, New York—I think they don't want any out-of-state students because they don't need the money. If they would raise the tuition of all students twenty-five cents, they could get as much as they expect to get now from just the out-of-state students. I don't think they want us, because they feel we'll go out of state and teach somewhere else anyway.

Stanley Adelsburg, Bronx, New York—I think it's ridiculous. It's seven times as much as the tuition that the state students pay and it's three times as much as other states charge for out-of-state students. I think there are other ways to raise money.

"Rather Expensive"

Norman Stone, Bloomington, Ind.—I fully realize that West Virginia needs more money for teachers' pay, but I do not think that out-of-state tuition is the answer; and it would make any West Virginia school a rather expensive school for out-of-state students.

Frank Vincent, West Newton, Pa.—This is my last year, so it doesn't really affect me. They should find some other way to raise money. I feel that West Virginia will really be hurt in the long run. "I won't be back!"

Robert Kohl, Quantico, Va.—The way things stand now I won't be back next year. I'm going to bring it up at the meeting at West Virginia State college on March 11.

Bill Reit, McKeesport, Pa.—I don't know why they're doing it. I don't think I'll be back; I'll probably go to school in Pennsylvania.

Out of Focus

The current topic of debate in the dorms is the relationship, or lack of it, between "clock" hours and semester hours. The argument really gets heated when Glenville's two-hour courses are brought into the conversation. And, until the Administration and Faculty arrive at a definite policy, this lively subject is likely to retain its popularity for many, many years.

A course granting two semester hours of credit meets hourly, four days a week for nine weeks, a total of 36 clock hours, an 18-to-one ratio.

At the same time, a course providing for three semester hours of credit meets hourly, every day, five days a week for nine weeks, a total of 45 clock hours and a 15-to-1 ratio.

The question naturally arises in the minds of the students as to why a three-hour class meets 15 clock hours for each semester hour credit, while a two-hour class convenes at an 18-to-1 ratio.

The North Central Association ruling on the subject requires 18 clock hours for each semester hour of credit. The North Central's clock "hour" is a 50-minute class period. The classes here at Glenville meet the full 60 minutes. Thus, by the North Central Association's standards, a three-hour class at Glenville meets six hours a week for nine weeks, a total of 54 hours, or an 18 to one ratio. This is in strict adherence to the Association ruling.

Even by the North Central Association's standards, Glenville's two-hour courses are meeting in excess of the required 18-1 ratio. According to the Association, Glenville's two-hour classes are meeting 21 clock hours for each semester hour of credit.

This is just a simple mathematical procedure, but it has lead to some controversy and much misunderstanding. The "grape vine" has it that, at the discretion of each individual instructor, six class periods may be dropped during the duration of a two-hour course. One Administration official said last week that he knew of no such understanding.

This leads us to believe that the Administration and the Faculty should arrive at a policy that would be to clear to all concerned.

As to what this policy should be is another question. From the students' point of view it is obvious that we would advocate complete accordance with the North Central Association's recommended 18-1 ratio for all classes.

This would mean either dropping, six class meetings from a term's work in a two-hour course, or raising the credit to three hours and meeting five times a week. JIM

SURPRISE!

Annual Visitation Program Begins at Marshall, Potomac

BY CONNIE SAMS

A series of visits to other colleges has been scheduled this year, according to Pearl Pickens, dean of women. Last year these visits were begun and proved to be helpful to the college.

These trips are made to get a view of life on other college campuses, to provide ideas on improvements for the Glenville campus, and to enable comparisons of Glenville to other colleges in the state.

6 Representatives

In order that the college will be fully represented, six people will go on each trip. Representatives include a member of the administration, a faculty member, a student, council member, a dormitory resident, a commuting student, and a businessman from Glenville.

Dates for the trips will be with held until they have been made; so that the college to be visited will be unaware of the visit. Surprise visits are made in order to capture the natural phase of life on the particular campus.

An expert critic judge will be present to criticize the plays. He will give his critique to the directors and to the actors. This judge will also choose the best actor from each cast.

Odds' N Ends

The recent, ill-timed announcement by Morris Harvey's Eddie King which proclaimed to the world that he would prefer his Golden Eagles refrain from further play almost overshadowed the team's surprising string of victories over West-Liberty, Tech, and Concord for the tourney championship.

King claims his team has received shabby treatment from the fans at Buckhannon, and says that it naturally reflects on the offering. This, I presume, is an attempt that he also gets more of his share of bad calls during the tournament.

I can't understand why everyone wants to see his beloved Eagles beat.

Two good answers: one week, and one next week. Because your subscription is paid up so you may follow this sensation. An expose of Morris Harvey's ruses, better known as West-Liberty's answer to Little Orphan Annie.

Eddie King Said

The First Reason: I picked up 15 cents, mind you! The Charleston Gazette last Sunday, anxious to read the tourney results, I lost my amateur status for it, but I had a half-a-buck on Millionaires. But did I find an amount of the championship game? Oh, the score was at the top of the page, but the story was all about Eddie King said about the tourney, and what an ill-man-crowd it was, and I don't know what all that guy (Darrell) said, but he didn't even get the score at the end of regulation play. Nor did he say how many points Carl Hartman scored, although he did casually include Cap's total which was all right, guess.

Big Switch

After I bought the Daily Mail to find out more about the game, I went back to the Gazette again to find out what Eddie King said about those bad people up at Buckhannon.

Now that I was looking for something about Eddie King and Morris Harvey, I was really pleased. The Gazette didn't have just ONE column about what Eddie King said, but just two, but THREE, and all just 15 cents.

Sunday Punch

After I read the Daily Mail some (to find out who did all the winning for A-B), I read Shorty Hamilton's column about what Eddie King said about not going to the old tournament no more. The other column, was by Harless. He is called "Sunday Punch," and last Sunday it had to do with "raw end of the deal" that Morris Harvey always gets at that thing, no good tournament. After I read all this I thought, gosh, what would have happened if they had lost."

Treatment

Well, that is the first reason people are resentful of Morris Harvey. Too many times, the Gazette assumes the position of officious sounding board for that college. We realize that it sells a lot of papers in Charleston. In all fairness to the Gazette, they couldn't be fairer than they have been with Glenville.

O.K. with us, Shorty, if you want to put Morris Harvey's propaganda on your pages, but keep it in columns, and go light with it. They are not the poor little boys they want us to think they are, and our next installment will be into that tidy little subject a bit further.

Agonizing
Our complaint is that too often (Sunday is a good example) the Gazette forgets the fundamentals of efficient reporting in favor of creating a little sympathy for Morris Harvey. Unfortunately (for Morris Harvey) it has the effect only antagonizing the people who do not hold the Golden Eagles above everything else. This is one of the TWO big reasons why EVERYONE is thoroughly fed up with Morris Harvey's athletic teams.

A-B Tops Wesleyan for NAIA Bid

'BOO BIRDS' WIN TOURNAMENT TITLE OVER BATTLERS

Morris Harvey's Golden Eagles staged a brilliant comeback at Buckhannon to whip Alderson-Broadbudds 89-86 in a spine-tingling overtime battle that gave Eddie King's inspired forces the 1955 WVVC tourney championship. Last season the Battlers won the title by downing Morris Harvey in the championship final.

Late Rally

A-B, regular season champions with an 21-3 mark, led throughout most of the game and held a 43-36 lead at the intermission. Morris Harvey started slowly in the second half but managed to deadlock the Battlers with four minutes of play remaining. The two teams waged an even battle the remainder of the distance, with the score deadlocked 79-79 at the end of regulation play.

Smith Scores

A-B's diminutive Tom Surretts ushered in the overtime session with a neat two-pointer to boost the Battlers into a short-lived 81-79 lead. Vandell and Kirk countered for Morris Harvey and the Eagles forged ahead to stay, 83-81. Joe Miller narrowed the gap to 83-82, but Cap Smith dropped in six straight free throws to shoot the Eagles into a commanding 89-82 margin with time rapidly running out on the defending champions.

Beat Tech in Semi-Final

Hartman and Shriver scored during the final minute of play but the die was cast and Morris Harvey assumed the throne for the second time in the past three seasons. The champions-by-passed West-Liberty, Tech, and Concord on their route to the throne, while A-B enjoyed a first round bye before overcoming Potomac and Fairmont.

Rardin Wins Again To Remain on Top

Rardin's "Ribbless Ribblers" are running away with the second round of Louis Bennett dorm basketball play. At the time of this writing Captain Ray Rardin has led his charges to three consecutive victories, the latest a 23-22 squeeze over Hamilton's "Horses." Rardin used 10 men in downing the pesky second section men. Rardin and Merical led all scorers for the winners with seven each. David Posey paced the losers with seven followed by Smith who had five. Other league play found Batten's "Babblers" thumping Cogar's "Cats" 61-18. Oliver Hunt, James Carson, and Darrol Courtney led the winners with 18, 14, and 11 respectively. Frank Holstein led all scorers for the hapless "Cats" with seven points.

Inspired Mountain Lions Top Pioneers 71-69 in Tournament

Concord's fired-up Mountain Lions staged a savage last-half comeback Thursday night to upset Glenville 71-69, thus ending Glenville's short-lived title expectations.

Coach Stopp's capable forces had established themselves the tourney "dark horse" by virtue of their impressive 104-75 conquest over Beckley in the opening round Wednesday, but Concord failed to read the papers and scored their second straight upset in tourney play. The Mountain Lions had stopped Salem's bid in their opening round assignment.

Hot Against Beckley

Against Beckley, the Pioneers were at their best. Hitting on 43 percent of their field goal efforts and setting a new tourney record (bettered the next day by Tech), the Gee Men gave indication that they would be tough throughout the tourney. Led by the brilliant play of Bob Turner, the Wave picked off 58 rebounds, paving the way for the impressive 104 point total, the second highest number of points scored during the 1955 playoff.

Turner Great

Turner was at his greatest with 10 field goals in 16 attempts, 23 rebounds, and 20 points. As great as Turner was, the remainder of the Pioneer cast was not far behind. Rudy Poole, suffered no ill effects from his baptism in tourney play by pouring home 23 markers; Jack Tennant enjoyed his finest game in four seasons of Blue Ribbon play with 20 points and an outstanding floor game; Harry Smith, although he attempted only seven floor shots, pumped home 15 points; and Bill Riet, playing little more than half the game, scored on five of 10 field goal tries for 10 points.

Looking Ahead

With everyone looking ahead to Glenville's meeting with the Tech-Morris Harvey winner, Concord's lightly-regarded team came upon the scene to wreck some wild dreams of Kansas City.

The Wave, once again sparked by Turner, started off well enough and had the Mountain Lions on the run at the start. With Poole, Turner, and Smith scoring 31 points, the Gee Men prevailed at the half, 37-33. At one point during the first 20 minutes, the "boys in blue" sported a 10-point bulge; but a late Mountain Lion rally deflated it to the 37-33 half time margin.

Exit Turner

Realizing they could repeat their opening game upset of Salem, the Mountain Lions immediately took charge in the second half. The big break, for Concord, came when Bob Turner was tacked with his fourth personal foul. Turner was recalled to the bench for fear of his fouling out, and the flood dikes opened.

As Concord continued to add to their lead, Turner again entered the game and Glenville's fortunes took a sharp turn for the better. Minutes later, however, Turner was whistled down for the fifth time.

The mighty men of Philippi, regular season champions with a 21-3 conference slate, bounced back from their defeat in the WVVC tournament to whip Davis & Elkins and Wesleyan last week to win the right to represent West Virginia in the NAIA tournament at Kansas City.

Alderson-Broadbudds' entry into the KC classic marked the first time the state conference has been represented by its best five, based on the regular season standings. It also was the fourth straight time that a private or demonional institution won the right to go to Kansas City. Glenville's 1951 quintet was the last state college to represent district 28 at Kansas City.

Rex Pyles' men of mayhem swept pass D & E 110-91 at Elkins before playing the Bobcats at Philippi for the KC bid. Wesleyan, earlier in the week, had absorbed Boo Boo U. (Morris Harvey) 97-87 at Charleston.

As has been the case all season long, the Battler's two scoring aces, Carl Hartman and Sand Forks Joe Miller led the assault against the Bobcats with 40 and 41 points respectively.

Debaters Win Fourth Place Tie in North-South Tourney

Glenville's debate team came out of the North-South tournament held at West Virginia University last Friday and Saturday with a tie for fourth place in the Southern division. The team won four out of ten debates during the two-day tournament. A certificate of merit for outstanding forensic ability was given to the Glenville team. Yvonne Hart and John Mullins, negative, won over New York University, Rutgers University, and Lafayette College. The negative team lost debates to Kenyon College and Western Reserve University. Each of these two debates was lost by only one point.

Shirley James and Haymon Boggs, affirmative, won over the University of Pittsburgh for their one victory. Notre Dame University debaters, winners of the first-place trophy in the Northern division, won over the affirmative team by only one point. Also defeating the affirmative team by one point were debaters from West Virginia University and Morris Harvey College. Xavier University debaters also defeated Glenville's affirmative team. Notre Dame University is annually one of the nation's top teams in debate as well as in football. Pitt University debaters have already seen action in three hundred debates this year. The debaters from West Virginia University and New York University have participated in one hundred debates this year. Rutgers University debate teams have been in two hundred debates since the beginning of the year. Glenville's debate team has entered seventeen debates since it was established at the beginning of this school year by Professor Joseph H. Riggs, debate coach.

Friday night, the debate teams were honored at a banquet given by the tournament host school, West Virginia University. After the banquet, finals for the after-dinner speaking contest were held. A University of North Carolina student won the contest with his speech entitled, "Resolved, That the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the sovereign state of Dada."

Likely Candidates

attributed to failure of candidates to submit their names during the early stages of the campaign period.

Tekiel, Hamrick, Rardin

In questioning some of the students, who have been singled out by the campus "grapevine" as good possibilities, a rough speculation on the part of this reporter as to whom will be running in the last analysis follows something like this:

As far as the office of president is concerned, three probable students at this time are eyeing the post.

James Hamrick has stated that he will probably be in the running when the starting whistle blows. Edward Tekiel, although not interviewed by this reporter, is considered a very likely candidate for this office. Ray Rardin, the "dark horse" candidate for this post, has announced that he will definitely be in the running.

Another student who is expected to be contending for an office, although he is reluctant to show his hand, is Charles Merikal. Merikal, like most of the others, said he is "waiting."

Two girls to watch for in the coming candidate announcements are Shirley Chancey and Yvonne Hart. Both are very able prospects and could make very worthy opponents. Cutlip "More than Likely"

When John Cutlip was queried as to his intentions for the coming campaign, he stated that he would more than likely be aspiring for one of the posts.

Some students who were heralded as top favorites to lead the balloting are definitely out of question as to their possibility of running.

Shock, Boggs Out

John Paul Shock, rumored to be leaving after this year, is not expected to run. Likewise Gail Boggs, who will attend West Virginia university next year, stated that he will not compete. Daniel Dobbins admitted to this reporter earlier that he doubted if he would devote any of his time to campus politics. With the time drawing near for the deadline date, it is expected that many more names will be put in the running. At least, we think the coming election will be much hotter than present conditions now indicate.

ATTENDS MEETING

Dean Delmer Somerville was in Chicago last week, attending an Association for Higher Education meeting sponsored by college presidents and deans.

The theme of the conference was "the meaning and mission of higher education."

Ratliff Selected To Chairmanship Of WVVC Group

Athletic Director Carlos Ratliff was appointed chairman of a committee to examine and recommend changes in the conference tournament and NAIA district playoff. W. V. I. C. president W. R. "Squib" Wilson also named Franklin "Hank" Ellis of Wesleyan and Joe Bartel of West Liberty, both of whom are athletic directors of their respective schools, to serve on the committee with Ratliff.

Suggestions, which the committee is to investigate and recommend action, arose in an association meeting which was held in Buckhannon on Feb. 25 in connection with the state tournament.

President Wilson instructed the committee to be prepared to make recommendations, regarding suggested changes, at the next association meeting which will be held May 9-10 at Ogleby Park near Wheeling.

Other suggestions which the committee will consider are changes in tournament site and time, and a reappraisal of the method of selecting the NAIA district representative. According to the plan now in effect, the two top teams in regular season play and the tournament

Annual Class Tournaments Began in 1914; Seniors Lead

Class tournaments, which will be played in the near future under the auspices of the Holy Roller Court, made their debut on the Glenville campus in the historical year of 1914. At that early time in the century the "weaker sex" were considered too delicate to participate in such a grueling sport, but they were given the privilege of sitting on the sidelines and cheering their favorite "Prince Charming" and his team on to victory.

But as time rolled by, the males have given up some of their rights of manhood and have allowed the ladies to enter into some of the more strenuous exercises which are builders of brawn and brain. That is why you'll find the girls of the modern age matching wits and skill in the forth-coming tourney.

At the first tournament, the champion went through a grisly task of winning a series of games before becoming crowned. This tourney was made up of a series of games, much on the same manner as the World Series in baseball is played. This style of contest was in effect until the 1930 classic when it was changed to the present-day three-game elimination finalists compete in a three-game play-off to determine West Virginia's representative to the NAIA tournament in Kansas City.

Trophy Awarded

It was also during the very first litigation that a local druggist, James A. Tierney, presented the "Tierney Trophy" to the winning team. This trophy was in the form of a silver loving cup which changed hands for a number of years and then mysteriously disappeared.

Women Enter

The girls were allowed to compete in tourney play for the first time in 1937. However, the girls seemed to be so befuddled by their newly-won conquest that some of the teams used ineligible players. Consequently the damsels stayed clear of the hardwoods until 1946.

As always, this year's tournament is expected to be a hotly contested conflict with top-notch stars in the line-up. Judge Barrett of the Holy Roller Court says you won't want to miss this important school event coming up soon.
