13 Bands, 600 Students Here Sat. for Region XI Festival

By YVONNE HART

Thirteen bands will be on hand to start the sixth annual High School Region XI Band Festival off to a swinging start Saturday, when Glenville State College plays host to some 600 students and band directors. Bands which will attend the event are: Clay, Cowen, Calhoun, Burnsville, Gassaway, Sutton, Spencer high school, Spencer elementary, Walton, Wirt, Gilmer county band, Webster Springs, and Gilmer junior band.

There has been a change in the manner of scheduling events and competition for this year. Rather than set different times for band auditions and ensemble and solo competition, both will take place in the morning, one in the auditorium and one in the Louis Bennett lounge. In the afternoon, approximately 90 students will be chosen for the all-regional band and will rehearse for a concert to be given Saturday night in the new gymnasium at 7:30 P.M.

Guests will be given a free lunch in Kanawha Dining hall, and members of the local MENC chapter will serve as guides for them.

James W. Dunlop, Director of Bands at Pennsylvania State University will be festival band conductor for the event. Wilbur Pursley, of Marshall college, will serve as adjudicator for the ensemble competition. John Farinacci of Cleveland Heights high school, Cleveland, Ohio, and Walter Habraecker of Jefferson City junior college, Missouri, will serve as judges for the band auditions.

According to latest reports, this festival has the promise of being the best and biggest annual regional festival that has taken place on our campus.

Directors of the bands that will attend are: Burnsville, Autumn Amos; Gassaway, Joseph Henry; Sutton, Elaine Corder; Calhoun, Jesse Evans; Miss Palmer; Clay, Donald McCorkle; Gilmer, Walter Rhodes; Summersville, Nicotia; Spencer, Karl V. Brown, Hadsel Ball; Walton, Joe Ervin; Cowen, Jerry Quinn; Webster Springs, Dave Casto; and Elizabeth, Roberts.

All visiting bands will participate in a parade down Main Street during the noon hour on Saturday.

3 School Officials Here to Interview Students Next Week

Four school officials will visit Glenville State College campus throughout this month in order to interview prospective teachers for jobs next fall, according to Prof. Nelson Wells.

Yesterday Harry Straley, superintendent of Nicholas County high schools, interviewed some students. On April 19, E. B. Fockler, supervisor of high schools in Elkton, Maryland, and Ross H. Fleming, of Gallia County Academy high school, Gallipolis, Ohio will be here to discuss probable jobs for teachers. Dr. Meredith Parry, superintendent assistant of Kanawha County Schools, will interview students on April 20.

Any students wishing to make an appointment with any of these officials are asked to see Miss Bonel Poling in the Dean's office.

Debate Society Banquet Soon

Members of the debate society are planning to hold a banquet sometime during the first week of May. Dr. Charles Martin will be the guest speaker, according to Prof. Joseph H. Riggs. The banquet will be held at Porter's Motel. Shirley James, Yvonne Hart, and John Mullins have been chosen to make all arrangements for the banquet.

KCK Schedules 'April Showers' Dance Fri. Night

Final plans for the April Showers dance, which will be sponsored by Kappa Chi Kappa on April 15, are being completed. This dance will be the signal for girls to blossom forth in their best summer clothes. This annual dance is the signal for all girls to start displaying their lighter summer dresses after a winter of wearing heavier clothes.

Music for the affair will be provided by the Jimmy Groves orchestra, and the dance will last from 9-1. This is another dance where the male population will be asked and taken by the girls. Admission is set at $2.50 per couple.

Decorations will carry out the theme of April Showers, with a rainbow, clouds and stars, umbrellas and numerous other eye-catching adornments.

'Brigadoon' Casting Finished Last Week

Final tryouts for "Brigadoon," the Broadway musical to be presented in May by the College's various departments were held last week in the auditorium. This production, sponsored by the local MENC chapter, is being directed by Prof. Harold Orendorff and Prof. Joseph Riggs, of the Music and Speech Departments. The English and Art departments are also co-operating to make this all-college production a success.

Marvin Stewart has consented to help with the choreography for the dances; Kathleen Quinn is in charge of the costumes; and Ronnell Stalnaker will manage the lights.

This musical includes male and female romantic leads, comedy leads, singing parts, dancing parts, non-singing roles, and many vacancies for stage crews, light crews, and make-up committees. There is also a chorus which will be taken from the choir or chorus which is already organized on campus.

Students may be admitted to this May 17 and 18 event by their activity books, as this is the last number in the series of Lyceum numbers.

Local Churches Cite Education

Sunday, April 24, has been declared National Christian College day by the National Council of the Churches of Christ. On this day, speaking teams, students, together with mass choir groups, will make guest appearances in churches, auditoriums and in radio broadcasts throughout America in connection with the Christian College day.

In keeping with the special observance day as set aside by the National Council of Churches, the churches of Glenville are taking steps to allow students to be in charge of the services sometime during the day. The Reverend Robert Engle of the Trinity Methodist church stated that college students belonging to The Wesley Foundation organization will be in charge of the evening services on April 24. He has also indicated intentions of declaring the week of April 18-24 as Trinity Methodist Church Youth week. In keeping with this theme, the Youth of the church would be in charge of all church functions during the week, including the printing of the church bulletin. The youth week would end on Sunday with the MYF having charge of the morning worship service and the Wesley Foundation presenting the

RECEIVES 40 PERCENT

Athletics Depend Much on Activities Income

By JOHN CUTLIP

This is the second of a series of articles outlining Where your activity fee goes and How it is spent. This second installment features the Athletic Department, which receives 40 percent of your activity money.

Of the approximate $10,000 activity fees collected each year, the athletic department receives approximately $4,096 of it. This money is applied towards the expenses incurred in the operation of the athletic department, mainly in the three major sports of football, basketball, and baseball.

The approximate figures for the 1954 football season show that this phase of the athletic department operated at a deficit. This was mainly because of the bad weather conditions at the Fairmont game and the cancelled Homecoming game against Potomac.

Total football receipts, including guarantees on away games, were $1,132.21. The expenses which were incurred by the football program amounted to $2,719.60. Breaking the total expenses down into the different departments, there was $762.46 paid out for traveling expenses, which included meals and lodging on road trips. Game officials cost $228. The remaining $1,729.14 was money paid out for uniforms, equipment, doctor's fees, and other miscellaneous items.

Basketball receipts totaled $1,914.45, while the expenses amounted to $2,108.19 as compared to the $1,132.21 and $2,719.60 for football receipts and expenses. Basketball traveling expenses totaled $965.59, the officials' fees were $492.50, and

Polls Open at 9 in Ad Building; Shifts to Student Union at 1

Student Council officers will be chosen for the forthcoming year of 1955-56, when students exercise their privilege of voting next Wednesday, April 20.

Following last year's procedure, the balloting will be held from 9 to 1 in the Administration building and then move to the Student Union from 1 to 4. On Thursday the voting will continue from 9 to 4 in the Union. Results will probably be announced at the evening meal on Thursday.

Veterans Hop Definitely 'Off'

Glenville College's only formal dance, the Veterans' Commencement Ball which was formerly held on May 20, will not be held this year, according to Vets' club commander John Lazear.

Lack of funds, interest, and participation was cited as the reasons for the cancellation by Lazear. He stated that a meeting was called last week to decide what the decision of the members would be, but only seven members attended. He said this meeting was typical of what has occurred throughout the past meetings.

This would have been the third presentation of the dance by the veterans. The cancellation has been reported to Dean Pearl Pickens, and the May 20 date is now open for any organization which would like to schedule an activity at this time.

Speech Remodeling Project Completed

During the week of March 24, the speech department was the center of a clean-up and remodeling campaign. Members of the Play Production I class and two other students repainted the huge speech room, cleaned the furniture and stored the part of the furniture which is used for plays, and cleaned the floor. All of the walls except one were painted a brilliant pink. The remaining wall was painted white, with pink doors.

A classroom was arranged in the front part of the room. The rear of the room was converted into a storing and working space. Signs advertising past Ohnimgohow productions were used to decorate one of the walls. Students plan to begin a collection of pictures of all Ohnimgohow plays, debaters, and other speech groups.

Students who worked in this campaign were Doralene Bell, Shirley Cross, Elaine Markley, Shirley James, Robert Gainer, William Deel, Franklin Holstein, and William Crum. All of the work was done while Prof. Joseph Riggs was attending a speech convention in New York City.

Three candidates for the presidency, Edward Tekieli, James Hamrick, and Ray Rardin, will stress the following points in their platforms:

Tekieli stands for improvement in Union facilities, communication system for Louis Bennett hall and an additional telephone, more campus activities, better testing system, use of Louis Bennett lounge, and a larger number of representatives in the Student Council.

Hamrick stresses better use of recreational facilities in Health and Physical Education building, improvement of Union, improvement of living conditions in Louis Bennett hall, more week end activities, and plans for another Arbor day.

Rardin states he will strive for toilet facilities for the Union, continue improvement policy of the incumbent Council, try to have phone booth placed in Louis Bennett hall along with an inter-dorm communication system, and more campus activities for the week ends.

John Lazear, candidate for vice-president, says he will work for a new student union, improvement for the present union, beautification of campus, improved recreational facilities, more and better week-end activities, improvement for men's dorm, and work for interest of the students.

Another vice-president candidate, George Edsel Ford, states he will work for Union improvements, better recreational program, improved testing system, use of Louis Bennett lounge by residents, and better integration of Activities committee with organizations on campus.

Debate Season Ends On April 29 and 30 At State Tourney

Climax of the debate season will come this year on April 29 and 30. Prof. Joseph H. Riggs, debate coach has announced. At that time, the annual state intercollegiate debate tournament will be held at Fairmont State college. Beside debating, this tournament will feature oratory and extemporaneous speaking contests. Professor Riggs says that Glenville will be represented in all three divisions of the tournament.

Six state colleges will be competing in the meet. The six are Shepherd, Concord, Marshall, Fairmont, West Virginia University, and Glenville. Riggs says that his debaters have met teams from all these schools except Shepherd college. Glenville debaters won over Concord and Marshall earlier in the debate season.

Prof. Riggs Receives Award

Prof. Joseph H. Riggs received a commendation on work which he had done last year as chairman of the Committee on Space and Equipment during the Speech association of the Eastern States convention which he attended in New York City recently. The president of the association issued the commendation in the SAES Newsletter.

Discussion and demonstrations in forensics, radio and television, speech correction, theater, and speech education were featured on the convention program. Professor Riggs says that as a result of the convention he is now preparing articles for two magazines.

A Problem Exists

Student-teaching is probably the most important phase of our college preparation period, for it is then that the student puts into practice all the knowledge and techniques that he has acquired during his first three years of college work.

The student puts in a typical teaching day. In addition to his seven hours in school, he attends faculty and PTA meetings; meets with various student organizations, and generally lives the routine of a professional teacher for nine weeks. This concentrated period of work and study is nerve-wracking, often confusing, and sometimes disappointing to the student. But it can be the most profitable, most enjoyable experience of our college days.

The most useful tools the student teacher can take with him into this period is a good, wholesome set of attitudes. As in any other endeavor, good attitudes are a prerequisite to good work.

It is unfortunate, however, that these attitudes are being badly affected locally because of some misunderstandings between the education department and the student-teachers. Many students entering the teaching phase of their college training have a bad impression of the situation as a result of hand-me-down information from "veteran" student teachers. The reason for this low morale is because of the student's conception of the methods used in grading.

The letter in The Mail Box today pretty well describes the opinions of many veteran student teachers. Right or wrong, the author of this letter is not alone, not by a long shot, in being critical of procedures used in grading student teachers; she is merely the first one to proclaim her feelings within earshot of the administration. Many others have passed on the same opinions as advice to future student teachers. As this does seem to be the popular thinking on the subject, this letter can do much good if a better understanding is a result. This would appear to be as good a time as any to clear up any misunderstandings.

We feel sure that everyone recognizes the fact that student teaching means a lot of hard work by both the student and the education department. Many problems faced by the education department may not be so obvious to the students and vice versa.

It was our understanding, however, that these pre-training orientation conferences were doing much to give each group a keener insight into the other's problems. Apparently the grading system has not been understood. Such a misunderstanding should be cleared up as soon as possible so that future teachers may enter their training period eager and anxious instead of with the present attitude that is certain to grow as long as the misunderstanding exists. They'll Never Forget FDR

April 12, 1945—just 10 years ago yesterday—saw the passing of one of history's most controversial figures, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the 32nd president of the United States. Franklin Roosevelt was a unique man, a genius to some; a dictator or super politician to many; and the savior of the people to millions.

He was the champion of the masses. To the many who felt the full brunt of the great depression, Roosevelt was their salvation. It was he that led the way to recovery and finally prosperity.

To those of us who stood in line for "commodities" during the 1930's, there will never be another man like Franklin D. Roosevelt. To those of us who regained our economic footing—and our self-respect—on the WPA or CCC, Franklin Roosevelt deserves all the credit. To those of us who lived in real poverty during the 1930's, Franklin Roosevelt was a man without fault.

Today you can tell us of the many mistakes of the Roosevelt administrations and we will only remember the good. You can do anything you want, but you will never stamp out the deep love the American people have for Franklin Roosevelt. We cannot deny his errors of judgment, but we can defend his sincerity.

You can talk of Yalta all you want, but that did not feed and clothe us in 1938—FDR did. Younger generations may be able to gain a better perspective. They may weigh the good with the bad. We who lived it are admittedly biased; to us Franklin Roosevelt is one of our most cherished and reverent memories; God bless him. JIM

The Lighter Side

It's discouraging to see that true genius is just not appreciated any more. Louis Bennett hall is one of the few select places ever to have the honor and privilege to house a real, true genius, and the treatment he receives at the hands of the other residents is simply deplorable.

The chief offenders are to be found living in the second section on first floor. When some obviously brilliant mind decided to convert his new friends to a new and scientific method of showering, the poor genius was met with such opposition that he decided that the only way to show those upstarts was to do it secretly.

When anyone merrily started to take an old-fashioned shower with just plain dull old ordinary warm water, they were silently, but suddenly receiving a free preview of how to do it the new way, with first a nice invigorating dash of steaming hot water, just above the boiling point, which according to authorities, is the best temperature.

It seems to stimulate a body to fast action. Then after this refreshing deluge, a generous dash of icy water, preferably imported from the arctic as it is best if the water is really cold instead of lukewarm like it would be if it was kept in the refrigerator. This cold shower is very bracing and after a lucky person received one free and unasked for, they were usually just speechless. The best part was yet to come however.

This particular genius also has a great artistic talent which he incorporates in his demonstration showers. It is firm belief that to give a shower that final touch, there is absolutely nothing like liberally using beautiful, dark blue ink. This color blends in beautifully with the skin color after the invigorating cool shower, and it gives the skin such a nice polka dot effect.

Any normal person should see how wonderful it would be to have such unusual skin, but the first floor residents just didn't see it that way so they laid a trap and our poor hero walked right into it and was caught just trying to speed up scientific progress. Now wasn't that a nasty dirty trick?

Jack Cawthon, look out! There is another up-an-coming photographer who is really taking some unusual pictures and any time now she may decide to set up shop and let the world see how talented she really is as a photographer. The artist in question is none other than Joyce Bourn who has been setting records for the accuracy with which her super special Polaroid camera records the scenes she focuses.

If the year book staff needs any unusual shots for the annual, Joyce can, without a doubt supply them with some of the oddest they could ever hope to get. It seems as if she had such masterpieces as Joyce turns out must be hidden from the world. Perhaps fate will intervene on her behalf and make it possible for these priceless works of art to go down in posterity, never to be equaled again.

HOLY ROLLER COURT: Judge Richard Barrett announced that two bands have been contacted concerning the possibility of obtaining a band for the Court dance.

Paul Hamilton was appointed publicity manager for the dance. Discussion was held concerning decorations for the dance.

New pledges were voted on, and 15 of the group nominated were approved by the Court. They are Paul Hughes, Bob Miller, Jim Brown, Dave Hogue, Don Whipkey, Randall Bragg, Glenville Brown, Dale Hunt, Homer Smith, Junior Crum, Rudy Poole, Jim Weese, Lowell Morrison, Clark Rader, and Fred Snuffer.

James A. Garfield, who died at 49, lived the shortest life of any U.S. president.

SC Plans SU Improvements With Eye Toward New One

By GEORGE PEASE

Student Union improvements dominated the discussion at the recent Student Council meetings held on March 22 and 29, according to Marvin Stewart, Council president.

Following on the heels of recently-made accusations concerning the conditions at the Union, came an announcement from Dr. Harry B. Heflin that the members should make suggestions which would contribute to make a good student union in the event a new one should be built in the future. The following suggestions were made: A snack bar, student lounge, faculty lounge, pool table, quiet game room, administrative offices, cloakroom, bowling room, reading room, commuter locker room, phonograph room, dance floor, and rest rooms.

Other improvements discussed at the last two meetings concerned the possibility of hard surfacing the tennis court and obtaining a pencil vending machine for the Student Union.

Stewart stated that he had checked with Dr. Heflin and Mr. Lloyd Jones concerning the tennis court matter. Jones reported that he had contacted several companies concerning the cost of such an improvement, but so far no bids have yet been received. Dr. Heflin stated that there are no funds available to be used to improve the tennis court at the present.

Stewart said that it was approved by the Council to purchase the pencil vending machine. He said it would be purchased from a company in Dallas, Texas.

Discussion was given to the possibility of setting two days aside at the end of each term for examinations. Stewart said that this will be considered and discussed at the next meeting.

The Mail Box

Dear Editor:

I would like to know what is going on in this school! Is not the main objective of this institution to train high school graduates and others to be teachers—and good ones?

If so, why doesn't it show? If the college is training it's students to be good teachers, why aren't some of them receiving A's? And if a student teacher gets an A from his critic teacher, from his principal, and his college advisor, why shouldn't he have that A? Why should that grade be cut to a B?

Does it not reflect on the college in general and show that they are not training their students well enough to deserve an A? I should think that the education department would be ashamed of itself by not producing outstanding teachers! The law of averages demands that there be a few at least. And why when a student teacher receives three B's should he have his grade cut to a C?

Why does the college supervisor not believe that students deserve an A? What is his reasoning behind that belief? Other schools who do not specialize in training teachers produce outstanding enough teachers to deserve an A.

I do not believe that we should have such a thing as a college supervisor over the student teachers. No one person is humanly capable of knowing all the peculiar little things that come in each particular field! You say, he's not expected to know them? How can he know if you're doing a good job if he doesn't know these little tricks? And by visiting a person only once or twice—what good does that do? It's a gamble, I realize, because those days may be your only good ones or your only bad ones.

I just don't think it's fair to the students who work themselves to death and do a good job and still come out with a B.

And what about this methods class called conference? I'm sure that most of us went into the class with open minds, hoping to learn some new methods of teaching—but we left with NOTHING. It is a three hour class completely wasted. These methods should come in each department because of the peculiarities in each field.

I am not speaking for myself but for all secondary student teachers in general.

Baseballers Open Season Fri. Against Salem

Paul Stout Likely Starter; First Home Outing April 16

By JOHN CUTLIP

Salem college will furnish the opposition when the untied Glenville Pioneers crack open the 1955 baseball season at Salem Friday afternoon. The Ratliffmen won both ends of a home and home series with the Tigers last year.

With Easter vacation interrupting scheduled practice sessions, the Gee Men will use every drill this week to get polished up for the Salem battle. Although Coach Carlos Ratliff probably will not name his starting line-up until game time, several candidates appear to be likely selections.

Lanky Paul Stout may be the starting hurler, but this is highly indecisive in view of the strong competition offered by such stalwarts as Jim Hamrick and Mike Popp. The starting catcher will be a toss-up between Bob Miller and Joe Bradley. In the opinion of many observers, the catcher used will depend upon the starting pitcher. Likely starter at first base is Brooks Harris of Weston. Harris has made an exceptionally good showing during spring drills and seems to be the likely replacement for graduate Joe Bokovitz.

A battle is raging for the second baseman's post between Bob Weaver and Jim Weese. Weaver seems to have a little more polish on defense, but Weese's strong arm as well as better hitting has made him a possible starter.

"Precious" Bill Reit is a sure starter at shortstop barring injury or some other unforeseen incident. Bill Jones appears to be the only likely candidate for third base.

Converted third baseman Danny "Goose" Hall will probably start in left field. Ed Tekieli is almost assured of retaining his center field post, and service veteran Pete Kostylik will probably be starting in right field, the position vacated by Paul Lanham.

The Gee Men will continue playing on the road when they journey to Buckhannon next Wednesday to tangle with the Wesleyan Bobcats. The Methodists beat the Pioneers in an extra-inning stretch at Glenville last year.

Returning home, the Glenville diamondmen take on the always-powerful Fairmont Falcons next Saturday. The Falcons always sport a powerful team and may prove to be a major task for the Pioneers.

For the fourth game of the season, the Gee Men entertain Davis-Elkins here on Tuesday, April 26. Coach Ratliff's charges knocked off the Senators for their first win of the 1954 season, 10-9.

Prof. Kerr Named Program Chairman For Teacher Meet

Prof. Carl A. Kerr has been appointed program chairman for the spring meeting of the West Virginia Association of College English Teachers which convenes April 29, and 30 at Jackson's Mill.

The association meets bi-annually, every spring and fall. Other program committee members have been appointed from West Liberty college, West Virginia Tech, and West Virginia University.

According to Professor Kerr, no definite program has been set up as yet, but there will be a guest speaker at the meeting. Schools that will participate on the program will be Bethany college, Marshall, Bluefield college, West Virginia Tech, and West Virginia University.

An evening session will be held on Friday, and a morning and afternoon meeting on Saturday, with the afternoon devoted to poetry explication and scholarly papers. Attending from Glenville will be Professor Kerr, and Prof. Espy W. Miller.

Bob Woodyard Quint Favored In MAA Play

Bob Woodyard's team remained the only undefeated entry in the MAA double elimination tourney as a result of a 39-26 victory over the previously undefeated basketballers of Oliver Hunt. Woodyard looms as the favorite to win the crown now since his team has to lose two games in a row to be eliminated. His team will play the winner of the Fulk-Hunt game, which is scheduled for this week. Should Woodyard's boys win the first game the tournament is over, but if they are unable to do so one more game will have to be played to decide the champion.

In their victory over Hunt the boys of Woodyard jumped off to a big lead and were never seriously threatened as they led throughout the game. Albert Minor was the big gun as he racked up 18 points. He was given able assistance by Gary Smith who tossed in 10. Merical led the losers with 7 markers.

In the only other game last week once-defeated Fulk eliminated Bradley from play by virtue of a 41-36 win. The game was close all the way with Fulk's team picking up their 5 point in the last half. Neely and Posey led the winners with 11 and 9 points respectively. Lazear and Cooper led the losers with 14 markers apiece.

Play Day Scheduled; 7 Schools to Meet

Plans are being completed for the "County Fair" play day which will be held here Saturday, April 30. Seven colleges have been invited to attend the meet. Five women and five men from each school will attend.

These schools include: Wesleyan, Tech, Morris Harvey, West Virginia State, Marshall, Davis-Elkins, and Aledron-Broadus.

Both an outdoor and an indoor program have been planned to include such sports as: volleyball, ring tennis, cage ball, aerial darts, badminton, shuffleboard, ping pong, and hand ball. Dottie Lanham and Martha White are in charge of the program.

Overnight lodging and special meals will be provided for the guests, if they desire. The swimming pool will be open for their recreation.

This is the first of this type of meets to be held here for some time.

Faculty to Present 'The Quiet Hour'

Several members of the faculty will be participants in an assembly which will be presented tomorrow. According to Professor Joseph H. Riggs, who is directing the program, approximately 21 faculty members will take part.

Among those who will appear are Prof. Edgar B. Elder, Prof. Ralph C. Brown, Dr. Charles C. Martin, Prof. Harold S. Orendorff, Prof. Bertha E. Olsen, Prof. Bessie B. Bell, Dr. Harry B. Hefflin, Prof. Denver F. Arnett, Prof. H. Y. Clark, Prof. Espy W. Miller, Prof. Floyd W. Miller, Prof. Carl A. Kerr, Prof. George H. Stopp, Prof. Warden Lane, Prof. Wendell Hardway, Prof. A. H. Anderson, Dr. Byron J. Turner, Prof. Pearl Pickens, Prof. Nicholas Murin, Dr. James Gay Jones, Prof. Stanley Hall, Prof. Robert E. Higgins, Prof. Carlos Ratliff, and Prof. Clarissa Williams.

According to Prof. Riggs, "the program will be astonishing, astounding, and aggravating. The name of the program will be The Quiet Hour."

KCK Plans School Mix

On April 29, Kappa Chi Kappa will sponsor a sports mix which will be held from 7:30-10 p.m. In addition to round dancing, sports such as badminton, ping-pong, shuffleboard, and cards may be played by any person who wishes to participate. It is probably that some square dancing will be done. In addition to these features, a cake walk will be held, with some lucky person winning a cake. Admission will be free, and refreshments will be served.

evening service.

To observe the National Christian College Day the First Baptist Church of Glenville, under the pastorate of William Davies, has indicated that it will have a speaking team from Alderson-Broadbent college to present the April 24 morning service and the BSM (Baptist Student Movement) to be in charge of the evening worship.

The Reverend John Mullins of the College Street Methodist Church has stated that the youth of the church will be in charge of the morning services on April 24. He also stated that some of the members of the SCA may help with the services in keeping with the title, National Christian College Day.

The Glenville Presbyterian Church, who is at the present time without a pastor, has disclosed that it, too, will observe the special date by allowing the students to be in charge of the services.

Dr. Gerald E. Knoff, executive secretary of the Council division, stated that "for more than two centuries, higher education has been carried on by the churches of our land. The contributions of our colleges to church, society and state have been incalculable. Now with a tremendous throng of young men and women coming out of our secondary schools, the needs of our colleges are vastly increased."

When vesting his thoughts on the subject, Rev. Robert Engle said, "I think it is a wonderful plan. It will give the youth a chance to practice their leadership abilities and to cultivate those leadership qualities."
