'Tartuffe: or the Imposter'

A LOT OF HUSTLE AND BUSTLE goes into the rollicking three-act comedy "Tartuffe" which will be presented tonight and tomorrow night by the Ohnimgohow Players. On the left we see senile old Orgon who believes that Tartuffe is a divine and devout man. On the right is Orgon's brother-in-law Cleante who believes quite differently.

'Tartuffe' Slated Tomorrow Night In College Auditorium

Three-act comedy, "Tartuffe", will be presented tonight and tomorrow at 8:00 in the chapel auditorium, under the direction of Prof. William Coleman. "Tartuffe", one of the world's greatest plays, will be the first costume comedy to be presented here.

The cast is made up of nine freshman and three upper-classmen. Six members of the cast will be making their first appearance on the local stage.

Drama Festival Set For Campus Mar. 13

The annual regional high school Drama Festival will be held on campus Tuesday, March 13, according to Prof. William S. E. Coleman, of the speech department.

Four or more high schools will participate in this festival. Among these, Spencer, Calhoun County, and Williamstown have sent for their reservations. Rita Pickens and Shirley James, student teachers, are directors of the contest play from Calhoun County high school.

Prof. Coleman urges that students or classes attend the plays. He states, "The admission is free and students are welcomed to attend any or all performances."

The day's events will begin at 10 a.m. and continue throughout the day. An informal reception will be given by the Alpha Psi Omega fraternity and the Ohnimgohow players.

Ramblers Play For Annual Sock Hop

Rhythm Ramblers dance band from St. Marys will provide the music for the Xi Beta Tau annual Sock Hop which will be held March 17, in the old gymnasium from 9 to 12 p.m.

St. Patrick's Day will be the leading theme carried out in the decorating committee. She also reported that the decorations would be similar to those of previous years.

Committees which have been appointed to make final plans for the dance are: decorating, Pat Christian, chairman, Shirley Brown, Joyce Jackson, and Lorene Ellyson; tickets, Mary Helen Plunkett, chairman, and Lanita Wright.

According to Anna Radabaugh, president of Xi Beta Tau sorority, admission to the dance will be $1.50 per couple.

WHITE WAVE DOWNED BY TECH; POOLE TAKES TOURNEY HONORS

By JOHN CUTLIP

And away they went! That's the story in a nutshell of the Cinderella team from Glenville State College who entered the 19th West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference tournament at Buckhannon last Tuesday with a conference standing of no better than ninth.

Glenville's huskies got an even break when they drew Shepherd in the opening round and went on to trounce the Rams 113-81. But from there on in the Gee Men were operating on the outside track as they overtook one thoroughbred after another until they went into the home stretch.

Class Tournament Slated March 20-22

Glenville's "fairer sex" will get into the act on March 20-22, when the Holy Roller Court sponsors its 1956 edition of the class tournament in the old gym from 7 to 10 p.m.

Each of the four classes here—the seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen—will enter two teams to compete in the single-elimination basketball tourney, and the winning quint of each division will have its name engraved on the two trophies now on display in the student union.

An annual event, the tourney was first held in 1914 as an all-male affair, as the women were considered too "delicate" to participate. Then, in 1937, the girls were given their first chance to enter the competition. However, the girls gumbled up the works and were forced to retire once more to the sidelines. They made a comeback in 1946, and have managed to hold their own since that time.

It was during the early life of the tournament that a druggist, James A. Tierney, presented the "Tierney Trophy"—a silver loving cup—to the championship team. The trophy changed hands a number of times and then mysteriously disappeared.

Admission to the event will be 15 cents, with the proceeds going for Court activities.

Wesley House Home for Many

By LEE KESSINGER

Although it isn't a college organization, the Wesley Foundation still plays a big part in the lives of many college students. Wesley Foundation, open to anyone, was organized chiefly for college students to provide them group worship and recreation in a friendly atmosphere. The organization is sponsored by the Methodist church and councilors are the Rev. Robert B. Engle and Prof. George Howard.

Worship services are held each Sunday evening at 7:00 in the social room of Trinity Methodist church. Wesley Foundation recently sponsored a series of speakers whose topic for discussion was "Launch Out." Members of the group often speak at the meetings.

Open to All

Wesley Foundation building, located on College hill near the Presbyterian church, is non-denominational and is open to every one. The "home-like" building is open on Wednesday evening until 10 to 11 and Friday, Saturday, and Sunday during the day and in the evening until 10:00.

The Student Christian association meets on Wednesday evening and the building remains open afterwards for recreation.

Students may play ping-pong, checkers, cards, and many other games. They may listen to records or gather around the piano for group singing. A modern equipped kitchen is available for use in making pop-corn, candy, sandwiches, punch, and other refreshments.

There is also a student study and library available to anyone (Continued on Page 3)

Rabbi Joseph Levine Will Give Talk Here Tomorrow Morning

Rabbi Joseph Levine of Temple Emanu-El in Greensburg, Penn., will visit Glenville College tomorrow. Rabbi Levine is sponsored by the Jewish Chautauqua society.

"What Can a Modern Student Believe?" will be the subject of a talk given by Rabbi Levine in an assembly program tomorrow morning at 10:10.

Rabbi Levine will lead an informal discussion at 1:00 p.m. in Louis Bennett lounge on the subject, "Does Scientific Knowledge Make it

Connie Sams to Edit Freshman Handbook

Connie Sams, sophomore, has been selected by the student council to edit the freshman handbook for next year, according to President Edward Tekeill.

Miss Sams was chosen on the basis of her journalism training and experience on the MERCURY staff for the past two years.

Last year the handbook was edited by Yvonne Hart, who is now serving as co-editor of the MERCURY.

Higgins, McAvoy To Visit High Schools

Glenville State College's annual College Day program will be further carried out when Registrar Rogers McAvoy and Dean Robert Higgins visit eight central West Virginia high schools, March 19 to 23.

McAvoy will go to Webster Springs high school and Cowen high school on March 19, and on March 20, will visit Nicholas County high school.

On March 21, Dean Higgins will go to Gassaway and Clay high schools, and will visit Collins and Mt. Hope high schools on the 22nd. The last visitation will be made March 23 to Montgomery and Gaultley Bridge high schools.

These annual College Days, which were started two years ago, help students to choose the college for which they are best suited. It is sponsored by the High School Principals association, College Registrars association, and State Guidance association.

It Started Last Tuesday

It all got started last Tuesday night as Glenville scored at will in the first game of the second session in tourney play. Glenville's opponents, the Shepherd Rams, were not in serious contention after the first few minutes of play. It was only a matter of time until the Gee Men racked up a 20-point lead and went on to a 113-81 victory.

The score could have been 130-81 just as easily if the Pioneers had chosen to "lay it on," but Coach Byrd inserted the second five with eight minutes left to play.

In the second game, the White Wave regarded a victory over the A-B five as a must; consequently, they put everything they had into a smooth working machine which cut the Battlers down to the tans of 39-71. Again, the margin of victory over the Pylesmen, who stopped the Pioneers twice during the regular season, could have been much greater had the Byrdmen willed it to be so.

First Five Trottled Off

With a 28-point lead and about five minutes left to play, the first five trotted off the floor with a great feeling of satisfaction and rightful pleasure at having licked the A-B men for the first time in seven games.

Faced Acid Test

Entering the semi-finals, the Pioneers faced the acid test as they came up against conference champs and tournament favorites, Morris Harvey's Golden Eagles. The fans packed in the small Wesleyan gym in anticipation of a good game and a Morris Harvey victory.

But the fired-up Pioneers were not to be denied as they battled down to the wire in defeating the Golden Eagles by 13 golden points, 84-71. The battle raged back and forth during the first half with the Gee Men leaving the floor at half-time with a 48-40 point lead.

However, the Golden Eagles came back with a tightened defense which saw them go ahead 71-70 for the last time. They never got another point as the Byrdmen sprang to life and scored 14 before the final gun sounded. During that last six minutes of Eagles' lifelessness, the Glenville five scored their 14 points and then put the ball into a free-throw for a minute and a half. During this period the Kingmen looked almost helpless on the floor and the crowd rose to their feet in a roaring ovation for the mighty Pioneers.

M-H Victory Important

As far as Glenville was concerned, the victory was the most important one, for it gave them the right to enter the N.A.I.A. playoffs (Continued on Page 2)

NOTED WEST VIRGINIAN PASSES

Last week marked the death of Senator Harley M. Kilgore, West Virginia's only senator elected to Congress for three consecutive terms. College students can recall him in West Virginia history since elementary school days as a prominent figure, not only in our state, but in our nation as well.

Widely known as a veteran New Deal Democrat, Kilgore was chairman of the powerful Senate Judiciary committee before his death. As chairman of the judiciary committee, which handles about half of the Senate's bills, Kilgore occupied one of the Senate's most influential posts.

Kilgore was also a member of the Appropriations subcommittee and served as chairman of this subcommittee which handled funds of the State department, the Justice department and the federal courts. He was a valuable asset to our nation.

The influential Congressman was born at Brown, W. Va., on Jan. 11, 1893. He was educated in public schools, graduated from West Virginia University with a law degree in 1914, and began his career as a school teacher and principal. In 1916 he entered private law practice in Beckley, W. Va.

The senior senator served in World War I, emerging as a captain and in 1930 was elected judge of the Raleigh county criminal court. Thus, began the political aspect of Kilgore's career which brought him to be one of our nation's top senators.

West Virginia's other senator, Matthew M. Neely, praised Kilgore as "one of the nation's outstanding liberal law-makers and one of the state's most renowned men." "His supporters were legion. His admirers were numberless. His friends were as countless as the stars," Neely said.

"As a soldier, state judge, and as a United States senator, he has devoted long years to his fellow men," was Attorney General Herbert Brownell's comment upon his death.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a news conference last week that Kilgore always was conscientious, understanding, and sympathetic in considering the department's budget.

We deeply regret the passing of this famous West Virginian. He will live on in the minds and hearts of the people he has so diligently served.—Connie Sams.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR DEVELOPMENT

"My, I wish I were in band!" That was good wasn't it? These are only two of the many pleasing remarks heard after the College Band concert last week. The band under the direction of Prof. Henry Fasthoff presented its annual concert in the auditorium.

Although there was not a large crowd, a number of students were present. The band members and the director were all aware that those who were there wanted to be there. Admission was free and students made their own choice.

Certainly those who did not attend missed an opportunity to hear good music at no personal cost and we believe the program was quite entertaining to those who did attend.

Even though the band is small there is no limit to the musical ability of the members. They established a mood in the beginning; that mood remained throughout the evening.

This is not to criticize those who did not attend the concert. It is, instead, to congratulate those who did. This is an additional step in the right direction for you.

When we attend or witness various happenings, whether they be good or bad, our realm of being is expanded a little. We become more conscious of what is going on around us. We then have a more completely unbiased opinion, a better-shaped personality. We do not advocate that you go to all the band concerts—that this will make your personality better—but we do believe that you should take advantage of your opportunities.

We, as college students, have an obligation to fulfill to our country. Certainly, none of us would shirk this obligation. We want to be free, responsible, independent thinkers—ones who can bring much good to their country and to their fellowmen. If this is so, then obviously, we want a clear, unprejudiced mind with which to establish what and why we believe.

This is a decision which is left to you. The world needs "thinkers." Will you be one, or will you say, "I would—but I have something else to do," as so many of us do when we have an opportunity to act wisely?—Yvonne Hart.

High School Seniors Should Note Scholarships Available at Glenville College

Over 15 scholarships and loan funds are available to high school students planning to attend Glenville State College next fall, President Harry B. Heflin has revealed.

Five scholarships, covering the cost of tuition and all fees are awarded each year by the West Virginia Board of Education. Each is for a four-year period or as long as the student maintains a satisfactory grade record and is in good standing. Applicants must promise to teach four years in the elementary schools of the state following graduation.

The Charles Samuel Whiting scholarship is awarded to the winner of a photography contest. Photographs must be of landscapes or activities that are characteristic of central West Virginia. Any high school senior in central West Virginia is eligible to enter, and the pictures must be received no later than June 1.

Benedum Loan Fund

Loans from the Claude Worthington Benedum scholarship loan fund will be made to students who are bona fide residents of the state and who are in need of financial assistance.

Glenville's Kanawha Union Bank awards tuition scholarships to the five high schools in Gilmer county—Troy, Tanner, Sand Fork, Glenville and Normantown. Glenville Woman's Club offers a tuition scholarship to a Glenville high school graduate, as does the Glenville Civic club. The Glenville Ro-

Eighth Graders Visit GSC, Attend Class

Ten eighth grade pupils from Clendenin high school visited the college campus last week and attended the West Virginia history, government, and geography class of Prof. Bessie Boyd Bell as part of their trip.

The group, who came under the supervision of Henry Young, teacher at Clendenin high school, is preparing to take the annual Golden Horseshoe test, and while attending Professor Bell's class they were asked questions concerning West Virginia by the college students.

Before the group from Clendenin came to visit the college, Miss Bell divided her class into groups and each one formulated questions about the state concerning a particular topic. These were the questions asked the Clendenin high school pupils by the college group.

Young, who has sponsored a club concerning West Virginia history for years at Clendenin high school, has had his pupils win 26 out of 31 golden horseshoes that have been awarded in Kanawha county over a period of years.

with Tech, Morris Harvey, and A-B.

After ploughing through such a tough tussle, the Glenvillemen were worn out and weren't quite up to par in their game with Tech for the championship trophy. Finishing a tough first half battle with a 32-30 lead, the Pioneers saw this lead go out the door as the Golden Bears came back with a strong barrage of 22 points while holding the Gee Men to five.

The game ended with Tech gaining an 83-72 victory and their first tournament championship. It was also the first time that a Glenville team has been runner-ups. They have won the trophy four times.

Nothing, so far, has been said about the individual stars on the Glenville Cinderella team. To put it mildly, in our book they were all stars. Some just received more recognition than others.

Weaver Indispensable

Bob Weaver was an indispensable play-making guard plus his fine defensive work and his 23 points. Bob Reynolds, who had his best night against Shepherd with 22 points, showed up better in the defensive department than he has during all of the previous regular season games. Other loan funds and scholarships are available for those who qualify. Those interested should inquire in person before the opening of the fall semester.

Workshops Available

Too, students who have proven themselves capable of maintaining at least a "C" average may apply for a workshop. Since the number of workshops is limited, they are assigned on the basis of individual need for financial aid.

Applications for a scholarship, workshop or loan should include a transcript of high school work; a letter from the principal pointing out need, leadership, personality and academic standing in class; a letter showing moral characteristics and home background; a letter stating goal for a college education; a picture and a letter from the parents indicating need for financial assistance, home background and educational desires for the applicant. Applications, which will not be considered after May 1, should be addressed to: Scholarship Committee, Glenville State College, Glenville, W. Va.

Dean Somerville Is Among Busiest People on Campus

By Shirley Lightner

Dean Delmer K. Somerville must take precedence over all others as one of the busiest persons at Glenville College. As dean of the college, Dr. Somerville's duties include the forming of the instruction program, the working out of schedules and the organizing of summer sessions. He is also chairman of the educational program of the college.

Aside from his regular duties, Dean Somerville is a member of the committee for selection of text books to be adopted by elementary schools of West Virginia.

This committee examines, eliminates, and recommends to the state board of education, books submitted by 34 different companies. The members of the committee find books for each subject of each grade level. From this list the committees make their selection.

Serves As Chairman

Dean Somerville is also chairman of the sub-committee for the examination of social studies text books. The books now being selected will be adopted in 1957.

Dr. Somerville is a member of the state school board relations committee, state teachers education committee, and the planning committee for the state youth camp at Ripley.

The popular dean received his A.B. degree from Glenville, M.A. from West Virginia University, and Ph.D. from Cornell University. His first teaching position was in a one room school. He has taught in both elementary and secondary schools and served as a principal and school superintendent.

Sorority Simmerings

By SHIRLEY BROWN

Kappa Chi Kappa

Shirley Chaffey presided over the last regular meeting.

Plans for the annual April Showers dance, which may be held jointly with the Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity, were discussed further but nothing definite was decided.

Crests were designed by the girls for their sorority jackets.

Hot dogs were prepared by the girls in Verona Mapel hall last week.

Xi Beta Tau

Vice President Joyce Bourn presided over the recent meeting in the absence of President Anna Radabaugh.

Further plans were made for the Sock Hop, which will be March 17. Pat Christian, chairman of the decorating committee; and Mary Helen Plunkett, chairman of the ticket committee, made reports concerning the dance.

Yvonne Hart took orders for sorority pins which will be ordered soon.

Cards were distributed for the sorority members to sell and girls were appointed to prepare hot dogs for Verona Mapel and Kanawha hall this week.

Holy Roller Court

Court decided to hold the Class tournament March 21, 22, 23, beginning at 7:00 each evening.

Members of the Holy Roller Court conducted the weekly vesper program in Louis Bennett lounge Sunday evening at 6:15. John Kennedy was in charge of the program. Others who took part were Larry Stanley, Jim Small, and Raymond Oxler.

Charles Starcher has volunteered to devote some time to the history of the Court. Starcher is also in charge of selecting members of the week, who will be displayed on the bulletin board weekly or bi-weekly.

Kappa Sigma Kappa

At the Feb. 27 meeting of the Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity, an item of discussion was the matter of pledges for the second semester. Plans are being made to organize an alumni association to facilitate the contacting of former members.

The fraternity is working on plans for a combination April Shower and Spring dance to be held in conjunction with the Kappa Chi Kappa sorority.

Pioneers Humble

games can't be estimated.

Al Reich gained the heart and admiration of all the tournament fans with his sparkling play and his fine dribbling exhibitions. He was especially great in the Morris Harvey game when he held Cap Smith to 11 points plus putting on a show during the moments when the Pioneers were freezing the ball. Twice he dribbled completely around the key hole, under the basket, and back out again; and the crowd gave him a standing ovation for this performance.

Turner Great

Bob Turner also had a good night against Morris Harvey when he scored his season's high with 18 points. His great defensive work gained him a berth on the All-Tournament team. Against A-B, the lanky Pioneer center held Joe Miller to 21 points before he went out of the game to rest. But after his departure, Miller went on to score 37 for the game.

If there had been a most valuable player award, it would have probably gone to Rudy Poole who broke three tournament records in the course of play. His 74 rebounds was a record by six; his 137 points was a record by 14; and his 35 fouls made, broke the old record of 34.

POOLE. TURNER WIN AWARDS

Glenville's Cinderella team placed two men on the All-Tournament team last week at Buckhannon. Rudy Poole was the first named on the eight man squad, while teammate Bob Turner was fourth on the list. This is the first time Glenville has placed men on the all-star team since 1951 when the White Wave tournament champions placed Bob Hardman and "Tex" Gainer on the team.

Freshman tournament champs, West Virginia Tech, placed three men on the team—Kenny Hammond, Dick Cantley, and Foster. Many thought that Glenville would place three. It was rumored around the press box that had the Gee Men won the final contest, they would have had a third man on the team in place of Tech's third man.

Other men gaining berths on the team were Morris Harvey's star center, Jim Vandell, Tom Ackerman from West Liberty, and Bluefield's rebounding artist, Galloway.

In all fairness, this tournament team would be as strong as any that could have been picked from the tourney entrants.

Vannoy Honored

Reta Jo Vannoy was one of the three outstanding cheerleaders picked from the host of enthusiasm drummers. The other two girls selected for her cheering mates were Doris Nutter of Concord and Sue Thompson of Fairmont.

Thanks to the energizing efforts of Glenville's cheerleaders and the co-operation of the Glenville fans, the White Wave cheering section was picked as the outstanding one in that department.

A new award instituted at this year's tournament was a special award for best sportsman which was in the form of a coat given by the Star Sporting Goods Co. of Huntington. This award went to Duck Darby of Morris Harvey.

Incomplete Without Byrd

And of course this story wouldn't be complete without commendation to Coach Leland Byrd who remained calm throughout the four game duel, and helped the Pioneers to their first great recognition in five years.

RECITAL STUDENTS shown above include: Doris Marks Short, Gola Wood, Tom Reed, and Gene Elmore. Janet Thompson Weekley was absent when picture was taken. These music students will participate in the first in a series of three recitals which will be held on Sunday, March 11. (MERCURY photo by Cawthon)

Music Students Give Recital Sunday, Mar. 11, in Auditorium

Sunday, at 3 p.m., the first in a series of three Sunday afternoon recitals will be presented by the applied music majors.

Music majors appearing in this first performance will be: Gola Petty Wood, Doris Marks Short, Janet Thompson Weekley, Gene F. Elmore, and Thomas F. Reed.

A piano solo, "Sonata in c minor Op. 10, No. 1," by Beethoven will be presented by Mrs. Wood, a special student from Glenville.

Other piano selections will be: Chopin's "Nocturne Op. 55 No. 1," and Bach's "Baurree from Second Violin Sonata," by Mrs. Short, a junior from Lorentz.

Soloist Featured

Mrs. Weekley, a sophomore from Spencer, will sing: "The Lass With the Delicate Air," Arne; "The Raven," Shubert; and "I Love Thee," Greig.

Elmore will provide a trumpet solo, "Andante at Allegro," by J. Guy-Rapartz. He is a sophomore from Spencer.

Reed's vocal selections will include: "Vittoria, Vittoria," Carissimi; "Caro Mio Ben," Giordani; and "The Lord's Prayer," Malote. He is a senior from Glenville.

These are all students in the music classes of Prof. Bertha Olsen, Prof. Henry Fasthoff, and Dr. Harold Orendorff.

Two Juniors Get Officiating Ratings

Wyene Turner and Martha White recently received ratings in officiating, according to Prof. Clarissa Williams.

The two juniors, both physical education majors, took the national officiating test at Marshall college, under the direction of Mrs. Louise McDonald, physical education instructor at Marshall. Two tests were given, one a written examination, the other a skill test in practical application of rules.

Mrs. Turner achieved an associate rating, which means that she is qualified to officiate in any school, and her pay should be three dollars per game.

Miss White received an intramural rating, qualifying her as an official in any game played within her college.

List Finalists In Cover Girl Contest Here

One Glenville co-ed will be selected by the student body to represent the college in the annual Roto Cover Girl contest in an election held tomorrow in the Student Union from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Pictures of the finalists, Rose Gwinn, Carolyn Miller, Mary Burke, Elizabeth Parsons, Barbara Burke, Pat White, and Reta Jo Yanny will be on display in the union.

These girls were selected by committee representing each organization on campus. This committee consisted of: Nancy Greenleaf, Richard Stewart, Susan Arnold, Bill Deel, Rod Oldham, Jim White, Ronald Shuman, Kent Duffield, Eddie Perrine, Ray Carson, Dave Posey, Keith Pitt, Jackie Coe, Raymond Oxier, Mary Suck, Ada Cox, Kathleen Barr, Wilma Ball, and John Lazear.

A picture of the winner from this campus will be sent to Roto magazine, where it will be published, along with those of the winners from a number of other colleges.

Judges will choose the cover girl and a picture of the winner along with a story of her life will appear in a future edition of the Roto.

Pictures of these girls will appear in next week's issue of the MERCURY. Election date will be announced later. Every member of the student body may vote.

Somerville to Attend National Conference In Chicago, Mar. 17

Dean Delmer E. Somerville will attend the National Conference on Higher Education which will be held at the Congress hotel in Chicago from March 5 to 7. "Resources for Higher Education" will be the theme of the meeting.

Thirty-five one-day discussion groups and one two-day group will be included in the conference. These groups will deal with problems of major importance to higher education as a whole and are distributed under four general categories as follows: The Student as a Source of Strength, The Institutional Program, The Faculty as a Source of Strength, and The Community.

Glenville's only representative to the conference, Dean Somerville, will leave here on Sunday and return sometime Wednesday evening.

Violinist to Appear On Lyceum Program

One of America's youngest and most talented violinists, Stuart Fastofsky, will appear here Thursday night, March 15, according to Carl Kerr, chairman of the GSC Lyceum committee.

Fastofsky has toured extensively throughout the United States and Europe and has been acclaimed one of the top artists in his field. Of his concert at Carnegie Hall, the New York Times described him as "... a prodigious technician, a brilliant display of sheer virtuosity."

The final program to be presented by the lyceum committee will be April 26, with the appearance of the Murat Trio.

Art Class Constructs Posters for 'Tartuffe'

On display around campus are "Tartuffe" posters, constructed by the commercial art class under the direction of Prof. Julia Nutter.

Sue Waggoner, junior, constructed the eight foot streamer placed inside the main entrance of the Administration building.

Small silk screened hand bills were made by Phyllis Given, a junior. About eight large water color posters were done by others in the class.

Frat Chat

Plans are being made for starting an active scrapbook in which clippings concerning the Kappa Sigma Kappa fraternity will be kept.

A letter was received from James Mullins of Cassaway, former Sigma Tau Gamma president, inviting the Kappa Sig basketball team to Cassaway for a game with a team composed of National Guardsmen.

Streets Receive Names, College On 'High'

By CONNIE SAMS

"East Side, West Side, all around the town"—Glenville has put on some new attire during the past few weeks, and some of her citizens are just being informed as to what street they are actually living on. Yes, months of planning, research, and hard work have resulted in the purchasing of street markers for Glenville.

Motivated by Mrs. A. H. Anderson, wife of Prof. Anderson, a City Beautifying project was the beginning of the movement to obtain the markers. A City Beautiful council, composed of representatives of the various civic organizations, was organized and Mrs. Anderson was named chairman of the group.

Members of the Women's club, Civic club, and the Garden club raised the money for the street signs. Approval of the project was made by the Town Council and the markers were ordered. It was pointed out that most of the streets have had names for years as found on old court house records.

Street Names Changed

Streets that had not been previously named acquired one by the voting of the people living on that particular street. Various names were submitted to the families and they chose the one they thought best. A few names of streets were changed, however, because of conflicts.

Some of the streets that were named after Pioneer families in this area include Beall View drive, Johnson street, Lewis street, and Powell street, Hunter street in Cam-who wishes to use it. The friendly atmosphere makes the approximately forty active students and the frequent visitors want to come back. No membership is required and people from all denominations are welcomed.

WORSHIP AND PLAY are the two ingredients which are blended by the Wesley Foundation into a wholesome diet intended to give college students an outlet for these two vital needs. The Wesley Foundation building, which was formerly a Methodist parsonage, is shown above. (MERCURY photo by Cawthon)

Recently at the Methodist church, Wesley Foundation was in charge of the evening service. Bill Deel was speaker for the evening and John Outlip was song-leader. The choir, made up of students who attend the Foundation, was directed by Alice McCullough, president of the organization. Other officers are: Harold Barker, vice-president; Jearl Stump, secretary; Phyllis Given, treasurer; Barbara Clark, recreation leader; and Ada Cox, program chairman.

Student Teacher's Class Displays Art

Members of Mary Louise Gillespie's English 12 class of Sand Fork high school have arranged a display of art work in which they have recreated characters and scenes from the Shakespearean tragedy, "Macbeth."

Miss Gillespie, who is doing her student teaching at Sand Fork this term, had students in her class to compile the art display as one of their class projects.

The display includes soap carvings, pencil drawings, and water color paintings of scenes and characters from the play, and was on exhibition in the education conference room last week.

Nurse Asks Caution

Mrs. Mary Fest, College nurse, has urged that every student check all sore throats as there are some cases of scarlet fever in outlying towns. As the disease usually begins with a sore throat, caution should be taken.

Nurse Fest reports that for the month of February, there were 150 visits to the Health center by students and faculty members. Injuries were reported as below the usual number, and colds still were the main cause of illnesses.

Campus Politicians Are Gathering Votes For Coming Election

By JOYCE JACKSON
Campus Political Reporter

As election time draws near, Glenville's campus is once again beginning to feel some of the stir of political activity, although no cigars are in evidence as of yet.

Two students who have been in the "baby kissing and hand shaking" business before have announced that they are giving considerable thought to throwing their names into the council nomination basket.

Shirley Chaney, a one vote loser to Patsy Greene for the office of secretary in last spring's elections, announces that she may run again. This campus favorite could easily give a bitter battle to any new aspirants.

Secretary Patsy Greene is resigning from politics after an active year on the council.

Rumor has it that Bill Deel, now serving as sergeant-at-arms, will be in the running for vice-president. An advocate of student voting in last year's election, it is likely that Deel will run with this in mind.

Deel could easily meet with some strong competition in the form of Yvonne Hart, who may become politically minded enough to file as a candidate for veep.

Campus talk has placed Dave Posey as a sure candidate for presidency. Although this has not been affirmed by Posey, his ardent followers place him as "nearly elected."

A newcomer to Glenville and to political rivalry, Jim White, has hinted that he may run for sergeant-at-arms. White is not without council experience, since he has been serving as freshman class president.

These candidates are still optional, and no names have as yet been filed with Ed Tiekell, president of the council.

Plan New Projects For College Farm

Prof. Wendell Hardway of the vocational agriculture department announces that plans have been approved for the construction of a stock pond and watering trough and the improving of 1200 Norway spruce trees at the college farm. In accordance with an agreement with the Agricultural Conservation and stabilization committee, the Federal government will share in the expenditures for these projects.

Four hundred chickens have been prepared for use in the dining hall by the College farm student workers. Two hundred additional chicks have been ordered and will be ready for slaughter by the first of May.

During the month of January the farm sold 1299 gallons of milk to the dining hall. In addition 800 pounds were sold to the Carnation company.
