

DR. WALTER WHITE IS SPEAKER

Plans Are Going Forward For Religion in Life Week

Dr. Walter Warrington White, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of South Charleston, will be the main speaker for the "Religion in Life Week" program, it has been announced by the program executive committee.

The week of religious emphasis on the college campus and in the college classrooms, which has been scheduled for April 7-11, will bring to Glenville State College several widely-known authorities who will speak to students concerning the Christian approach to courtship and marriage. The program will be actively concerned throughout the week with carrying out the adopted theme, "The Ring and the Book."

Attended Davidson College

Dr. White, a native of Richmond, attended elementary and secondary schools in Nicholas County. He attended Davidson College, Davidson, N. C., for one year; Davis and Elkins College, two years; and holds his B. A. Degree from Concord College.

The pastor attended Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., from which he was graduated in 1933. The Doctor of Divinity Degree was conferred upon him by Davis and Elkins College in the spring of 1953.

From 1933 to 1940, he served as pastor of the Porter Street Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Va., and from 1940 to 1948, he served the First Presbyterian Church of Portsmouth, Va. He then came to his present pastorate at the First Presbyterian Church of South Charleston.

Dr. White is married to the former Freda Ward of Elkins, and they have three children.

The conference will include not only the four principle addresses by White, but also group discussions, or seminars, led by authorities in the field of love, courtship, and marriage. Four seminar leaders have been obtained thus far, as announced recently by Gordon Palmer and Joyce Jackson, co-chairmen of the informal discussion committee for the week.

Whiteley, Seminar Leader

The Rev. G. P. Whiteley, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Bluefield, will lead one of the seminar groups. Whiteley has done extensive research on the subject and has been working with the youth from Bluefield College, Va., in the setting up of a Westminster Fellowship there.

Another seminar leader for the week will be the Rev. Jack Bemiss, regional director of the board of Christian education, Presbyterian Church, U. S. Bemiss was in Glenville last week, leading one of the community classes held at the Methodist Church.

Miss Carole Allen, teacher from

Logan, W. Va., will also be on hand to lead a discussion group. Miss Allen participated in this type of program while she was a student at Marshall College.

Rev. Elmer Dierks, Baptist student minister from Morgantown rounds out the list of seminar leaders available at the present time. Other Christian leaders have been invited to address and consult with students during the week.

Pre-conference classes began this week in preparation for the "Religion in Life Week." The class entitled "Love, Courtship, and Marriage" will meet each Monday evening from 4 until 5, with the Rev. Lawrence Sherwood in charge. Each Tuesday evening from 4 until 5, a class entitled "Mixed Marriages" will be taught by the Rev. William Morford. All classes will meet in Room 208-A.

Five-Day Program Set

Other plans for the week, include classroom talks by the seminar leaders, personal conferences between the students and the speaker, and assembly programs. The kick off for the week will be on Sunday night, April 7, in the Methodist Church, when Reverend White will present the first in his series of four principle addresses to students and townspeople. More details concerning the five-day program will be announced later.

Higgins, Lane Begin Testing

Dean Robert Higgins and Prof. Warden Lane are giving tests to the junior class members of Normantown, Spencer, and Calhoun High Schools throughout the month of March, announces President Harry B. Hefflin.

The program, which is being conducted on a state-wide scale as a pilot project, is being carried on by every state and private college. Each institution is assigned certain schools in which colleges will administer the tests to the high school juniors.

Colleges that will act as scoring centers when all the tests have been given are Fairmont State, Potomac State, West Virginia University, and Marshall. The scoring center for the tests being given in this area will be Fairmont State, according to Dr. Hefflin.

Tests will be scored, data tabulated, and a complete record of all students taking the tests will (Continued on page 4)

Reta Jo Armstrong Captures Roto Campus Cover Girl Title

RETA JO ARMSTRONG

Reta Jo Armstrong won the campus cover girl contest held here last week. The contest was sponsored by the MERCURY in connection with the Roto Magazine section of the Pittsburgh Press.

Mrs. Armstrong is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Vannoy of Normantown. Her husband, Eddie, is a sophomore here. She is an elementary education major, and a member of Kappa Chi Kappa. Last year she was a college cheerleader and at the WVIC tournament at Buckhannon was named one of the three best cheerleaders.

One hundred thirty-four students voted in the election in which Mrs. Armstrong was selected. This number consisted of nine seniors, 28 juniors, 48 sophomores, and 49 freshmen.

Committee Nominate

Student committee that nominated the local beauties was composed of Bill Deel, Dave Posey, Carolee Singleton, Ernie Backus, Sue Criss, Leoma Garten, Janice Arnold, Martha White Hunt, Barbara Huggins, Barbara Johnson, Frederick Batten, and Connie Sams.

Mrs. Armstrong's picture will now be sent to the Pittsburgh Press where it will be featured along with winners from 27 other colleges in the Pittsburgh area. A group of judges will select the winner and her picture will appear on the cover page of Roto the following month. A story of the winner's life will also appear in the same magazine.

Mary Greynolds Wins

This is the third year that Glenville State College has participated in this contest. In 1955 the campus cover girl was Jan Prather of Burnt House. Last year the winner was Mary Frances Burk Greynolds. Mrs. Greynolds placed third in the finals of the contest.

Mrs. M. Miller Writes Winner

Mrs. Mildred Miller, wife of Floyd W. Miller, librarian, is one of a host of state club women who were honored at the 51st annual convention of the West Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs at White Sulphur Springs recently. Some 800 women from all parts of the state attended.

Mrs. Miller, a member of the Glenville Civic Club, submitted a short story entitled "Magna Cum Laude" which won first place honors in the literary and drama classifications. The setting of the story is in a small college town.

Two years ago Mrs. Miller won the short story honor with "Love Feast." Each time the award carries with it a $10 cash remuneration. Mrs. Miller has also had this first short story published in the Sunday magazine section of the Charleston Gazette. In addition to (Continued on page 4)

Slant of the Sun

Some have speculated that migrant birds and spring flowers time their vernal activity by the moving angle of the sunlight. This is easy to believe in March, when even humans are virtually forced to leave their calendar-watching long enough to look at the sun. It streams almost directly in the east windows now in the morning, and in the evening it is full in the windows to the west. It scarcely seems to be the same sun that inscribed a small arc in the southern sky in January.

Duration of daylight is involved, of course; sunrise and sunset are now almost eleven and one half hours apart. But that is considerably less than the whole story. The sun strikes the earth at a new angle, and that makes all the difference. There is now more warmth in an hour of sunlight than before. It penetrates the soil instead of glancing off; and, whether we are conscious of it or not, it penetrates a little deeper into human beings too. One of these days, and not too many weeks hence, it will penetrate deeply enough to generate a case of spring fever.

But it's the look as well as the feel of sunlight now. And that may be one of the factors in bird migration. The light is different morning and evening. The shadows fall a new way. The whole aspect of the world is changed, and not even a new snowdrift or a new coating of ice on the brooks and rivers can much alter that.

The sun itself has moved into March and toward April, and the sun will not go back to its old slant until another summer has passed. One doesn't have to look at the calendar to know that. One merely has to live with the seasons for a few years, as the birds do. The birds know it in the marrow of their bones. (From The New York Times)

Where Is The Answer?

Why does the educational system of West Virginia rank forty second in the nation?

This is a serious question that has come face to face with us as native West Virginians, and a specific answer could probably never be stated. But are we, as future educational leaders of our state, going to be satisfied to let the system in our state remain as is?

The first factor that always comes up when this issue is discussed is the question of money. West Virginia does not have adequate funds to establish her educational system on higher standards. I think we all agree that this is true, but it is ironical that a state with such a tremendous supply of natural resources is not reaping many of the benefits from them.

It goes without saying that much of the benefit from the natural resources in West Virginia ultimately leaves the state through the absentee ownership of many of the major industries in the state—via, the chemical, steel, oil, coal, and gas industries. The question then arises: Should a greater proportion of the profit from these natural resources be used to benefit the people of West Virginia?

Another question that comes up when viewing the issue is: Are the people of West Virginia being mislead and misinformed on these issues by various types of propagandistic media operating throughout our state? In some cases, we think there is no doubt that some West Virginians are being led from the truth.

There are many other reasons why our state ranks low in educational standards throughout the nation—we have presented ones which we think are valid. We, as teachers, parents, and citizens, have detected them. Wherein does the answer lie? It lies with us—the educational leaders. We, in our search for the truth, can stimulate others to search for the truth also.

Maybe Columnist L. T. Anderson is right when he says that West Virginia should be "de-burvilized." Maybe he is right in saying that all robber barons should be stopped at the state border and sent back to their New York penthouses; that all West Virginians should be forced to speak with an English accent for 20 years; that all hillbilly music should be banned for 50 years; and that all employers should deduct up to $1,000 a year from all paychecks and put the money in a trust fund for employees' children's educations.—Connie Sams.

THE QUESTION: WHERE, OH WHERE IS THE IDEAL COLLEGE TEACHER?

What is your idea of the ideal college teacher?

Probably not one of us would describe the ideal college teacher as having the same characteristics, but the College Board of students of the "Going To College Handbook" has listed some traits that almost every student would like to see in his professor.

Let's describe the ideal college teacher:

First of all, he has a contagious enthusiasm.

Next, he has a comprehensive knowledge of his subject.

In his friendly manner he takes a personal interest in each student, not only in the student's progress in his class, but in his total effort. This interest is shown, in one way, by the professor's willingness to answer any honest question that is raised, to go to great lengths to explain situations either in classroom or outside.

He stimulates you to think—to do your own thinking.

In his enthusiasm he makes you see what he sees and he inspires you to want to do your best.

He expects you to work hard, but in his preparation for his class he works hard, he returns students' papers promptly, he follows a recognized schedule of tests so that students know what to count on.

He has a grand sense of humor. He teaches his class informally so that members feel free and at ease in it.

With all his attainments and vast knowledge he has genuine humility—and he doesn't boast about it.

Drama Meet Is Set March 19

The Sixth Annual Little Kanawha Regional Drama Festival will be held Tuesday March 19, in the auditorium. This is the first year this festival has been held at Glenville. Mrs. Robert K. Park is the co-ordinator and Prof. Coleman will supervise the stage management and serve as critic judge.

Since many of the students who have entered the festival in the past later enrolled at Glenville, it is hoped that a good attendance will boost their interest again.

The Regional Festival prior to the State Festival to be held at Morgantown was held here yesterday. The winner of the contest will go to the festival at Morgantown to compete for state drama honors.

FTA MEMBERS ASSUME DUTIES

Members of the H. Y. Clark Chapter of the Future Teachers have assumed the duties of keeping the books in the education room properly arranged.

This was part of their scheduled program at the last meeting and Prof. Jewell Matthews, sponsor, announces that this will continue to be part of the club activities for which members may receive points. Each member receives points for various duties performed during the year.

Kappa Chi Kappa

The date for the annual "April Showers" dance has been set for April 26, it has been announced by Kappa Chi Kappa President Judy Kennedy.

The dance, which will be held in the gymnasium will be semi-formal. The sorority has not yet decided on an orchestra for the event.

The organization is also planning to purchase sorority jackets, but no definite jacket has yet been selected.

At the last meeting of the sorority, the group discussed finances and brought up for discussion, all-member projects.

Ada Cox terminated the meeting with the reading of a poem.

Xi Beta Tau

A "Record Hop" is being planned and will be held by the Xi Beta Tau Sorority, according to President Betty Frymier.

The sorority voted to purchase white woolen jackets with the sorority's emblem embroidered in green on the jacket pocket. Shirley Brown, corresponding secretary, is taking orders.

The sorority will also present the assembly program, March 14, it has been announced by Miss Frymier. Lanita Wright is in charge of the program.

It was decided at the last meeting of the organization that new members be responsible for donations at the beginning of each meeting.

Recently the Student Council donated an electric clock to the library. The clock, a gift to the Student Council from the Dr. Pepper company, was repainted by the art department before it was installed in the library.

HOLY ROLLER COURT

A special meeting was held on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock to discuss last-minute items for the class tournaments which were held that evening and the following evening. The senior girls and junior boys came out of the contests as the winners.

Some of the fraternity members made a deposit for their fraternity jackets. Jim Hannaman and Carroll Staats were sent to Weston with the order to Fulk's Brothers.

Mrs. Ruth Wolfe of Glenville has been microfilming valuable records and documents at Glenville State College since Dec. 1. Asked if she had ever done this type work previous to coming to Glenville College, Mrs. Wolfe replied that she had never done this type work before and added that she had previously worked in a dress shop.

The work of microfilming began in the registrar's office where Mrs. Wolfe, wife of Orville Wolfe who teaches in Tanner Grade School, recorded on film all the papers on file in that office. After these documents were filmed they were stored in a fire proof safe in the Science Building according to Lloyd M. Jones, business manager.

Works In Finance Office

Mrs. Wolfe has now begun work in the finance office where she is recording on microfilm business receipts which date back to 1934. All other records in the finance office will be filmed and then stored in the safe in the office.

The use of a microfilmer, which uses a 16 mm film, makes it possible to reproduce records that can be stored compactly in a smaller storage space than would otherwise be possible. By compact storage huge numbers of documents can be kept in fire-proof cases to eliminate destruction in case of fire.

The microfilmer used, and owned by the college, films the records and is also used to read the film which is enlarged on the viewer.

Junior Men, Senior Women Win Tournaments Last Week

By RONNIE PETERS

Junior class came out on top in the men's division of the class tournaments held in the Health and Physical Education Building last week. The class tournaments were sponsored by the Holy Roller Court.

First round play saw the Sophomores down the Seniors, 67-54. Major factors in the win were "Doc" Stanley, Dorsey Scott and Paul McKown with 16, 13, and 12 points respectively. High point man for the game, however, was Dave Posey with 22 markers.

Reynolds Leads Scoring

In the second game between the Freshmen and Juniors, the third-year men led all the way to clinch the victory, 75-59. Bob Reynolds took Junior scoring honors by netting 27 points. Freshmen were led by Winters with 16. Winters was closely followed by Charley Watt with 15.

Tuesday night play saw the Juniors copping the championship by outpointing the Sophomores 63-50. Reynolds again led the Junior scoring attack with 22 points. Sophomores were led by Lawrence Reed with 12 points and Larry Stanley with 10.

Eight girls were handed all tourney laurels in a three-game class tournament series last week that saw the seniors coast to an easy first place.

In the first night of play, the juniors trounced the freshmen, 38-22. This win was later nullified because the juniors finished the game with only three players on the floor, a mistake overlooked by the officials. In this game, Connie Sams and Joyce Jackson slipped in 10 points each for the upperclassmen, as Mary Jo Chisler countered nine for the first-yearers.

In first round play, the seniors defeated the sophomores, 24-18, as the game was discontinued in the first half, when, because of fouls, the sophomores were left without five players. In this bitterly contested battle, Wyene Turner hit the nets for 10 points, and Christine Bush netted eight. Beverly McComis countered eight for the losers.

In the final round of play, the seniors had a field day, running the score against the fresh team up to 48-13. Four of the seniors hit the double digit column with Juanita Radcliff taking top scoring honors with 14 points. Radcliff's record was tops in single game individual scoring in the girls division. She was followed by Whene Turner.

With the completion of the class tournaments, basketball came to an official close for the year here at Glenville State College. Attention will now be turned to spring sports, namely baseball and golf. The baseball season is scheduled to open April 10 at Buckhannon against the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats. Baseball coach is Carlos Ratliff, athletic director.

CLASS TOURNEY WINNER

VICTORIOUS JUNIOR men are shown immediately following the battle of the courts last week for class championships. The third-year men beat the freshmen in their opening encounter 75-59 and then went on to down the sophomores in the finals 63-50. Bob Reynolds led the Junior scoring with 49 points for the two nights. Standing in front are George Cook, Gordon Palmer, Jim Dotson, David Mace, Steve Cooper, and Bob Reynolds. The unique problem in this play is the use by all characters of an authentic Irish dialect.

Assisting Professor Coleman with this production are Jim White and Patricia Christian.

Members of the cast are Trent Busch, Rannie Allen, Albert Kokoski, Charlotte Beeghley, Rodney Busch, Patricia Knicely, John Boggs, Morgan Heflin, Jane Riddle, Phyllis Young, Sue Criss, and Nancy Wilfong.

The annual Barnyard Frolics, sponsored by the Student Christian Association, will be held in the small gym Friday, March 22. Sue Criss, president, has recently released plans for the dance and has extended an invitation to every student.

Miss Criss remarked that each participant should come dressed as a hillbilly for the folk dancing. Admission is free to the dance, being held from 7 o'clock to 9 o'clock.

Prof. Mary Lee Ruddie, Prof. Josephine Fidler, and Prof. Richard Robinson will chaperone the dance.

One of the main purposes of the testing program is to identify outstanding students as early as possible to encourage them to continue the college program. The results may also be used for guidance purposes and will help in granting scholarships or for any other similar purpose.

The program is serving as a co-operative project being worked out by college presidents, State Board of Vocational Education, Superintendents Association, and High School Principals Association.

Tests are supplied by the Co-operative Division of the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N. J., and if all juniors take the test, there will be approximately 10,000 students taking it, according to Dr. Heflin.

Students Learn About Service

"I Serve" is the topic of the Sunday night services held at Trinity each week at 7:00. Each night special discussions are held on different topics. "Vocations in Relation to a Christian Life" was the subject of a recent discussion.

This Sunday night the group will meet at 6:30 p.m. in the Wesley Foundation Building. A copy of the study book used in these meetings is available at the Wesley Building.

Revival services are being held this week at the Trinity Methodist Church. All students are invited to attend.

This week the Baptist Church will remain open during the day and evening for individual and group services. On March 17, special services are being planned in preparation for the revival services.

Members of the Baptist Student Movement are planning to attend an Associational Youth Rally at Enon Baptist Church in Calhoun county.
