Bishop Company To Appear Oct. 17; First On College Lyceum Series

By BETTY SISK

Glenville State College's first lyceum program of the season will be a dramatization of Alan Paton's "Cry The Beloved Country," presented by the Bishop's Company in the college auditorium on Oct. 17 at 8:15 p.m.

The Bishop's Company has been in continuous production since October 1952. The Company is now on its fourth coast-to-coast tour and has received praise from religious and theatrical circles alike for its work in bringing back the art of the drama.

During the 1957 summer season it appeared for two weeks at the Princeton University Institute of Theology and will return to the Institute during the summer of 1958.

No elaborate stage settings are used. Both the audience and the actors will visualize the various locales in which the scenes of the play are set. The lives and action are presented by the cast but the audience moves along with ease from landscape to village or city as the story unfolds.

John Harris Takes Library Position

New custodian for the Robert F. Kidd Library is John Harris, a junior from Greenbank. Harris, who is majoring in social studies, is married and the father of two children. His wife, Karen, is majoring in library science.

Harris' father, Virgil Harris, is principal at Greenbank High School and taught at Glenville State during the summer.

Shirley Cawthon Edits Publication

Mrs. Jack Cawthon, the former Shirley Russell of Craigsville, is the new editor of the Glenville Pathfinder. Mrs. Cawthon succeeds her husband as editor of the local paper.

Dr. Harry Heflin Attends Two-Day Washington Meet

Pres. Harry B. Heflin attended a two-day committee meeting of the Atlantic region of the American Social Hygiene Association in Washington, D. C., last week at the Willard Hotel.

STAFF WORKS HARD TO MEET DEADLINE

By DOROTHY BUTLER

One more day to minus 300 equals 0. What does minus three hundred equals zero mean? Simply that a minimum of 300 subscriptions must be secured for the KANAWHACHEN before tomorrow, Oct. 10, or Glenville State College will not have a 1958 yearbook. Those who have subscribed but have only paid $2.00 must pay the remaining $2.00 before the deadline is reached.

Dramatic Groups Choose 'Macbeth' For Presentation

"Macbeth," the first Shakespearean play to be given by Glenville State College students, will be this year's drama feature according to William S. E. Coleman, associate professor of speech and English. The records of the Ohnimgohow Players, which was organized in 1926, list no previous Shakespearean presentations.

An Ohnimgohow and Alpha Psi Omega production, "Macbeth" will be an activity card event and is scheduled to be given the second semester. The cast will be chosen soon, and interested students are invited to try-out for a part in the play.

Carl A. Kerr, assistant professor of English and French, will be in charge of the original music for the play and Espy W. Miller, chairman of the language division, is to assist with scholarly details of the production.

Coleman also announced that no one-act plays are scheduled this term.

ADE Aids Drive

Alpha Delta Epsilon is in charge of advertising and subscriptions but other students are also helping with the drive. Another member of the yearbook staff, Jearl Stump, comments that if students do not support the yearbook they have only themselves to blame if none is published. Miss Stump is business manager of Kanawhachen.

The first KANAWHACHEN was published in 1911. Miss Ethel Crim Peterson, an instructor in the language department, was the first editor. (Continued on Page 4)

Pvt. John L. Boggs In Training Command

John Boggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Haymon Boggs of Glenville and MERCURY sports editor during the last semester of last year, is stationed at Ft. Chaffee, Ark. Pvt. Boggs with the artillery training command expects to be sent to Fort Polk, La., about Oct. 18.

'As You Will Them'

An old legend is told and retold around West Virginia 4-H camps which goes as follows:

Once upon a time there lived an old man who made his home far off in the mountains. This old man was reputed to know everything. Any question asked this old man of the mountain would be answered. Many people travel hundreds of miles to ask questions of the old man. To every person he gave an answer—the right one.

There was a certain group of boys, plagued with the modern cynicism accredited to youth of the present, who set out to prove that the legend surrounding the old man was all a hoax. They sought for a question which the old man could not answer correctly.

"I know," said one of the boys, "we will catch a live bird, and I will hold it in my hands. When we approach the old man, I will hold the bird so that the feathers will show and ask him what I have. He, seeing the feathers, will say that it is a bird. Then I will ask him, if he is so smart, whether the bird is dead or alive. If he says it is still alive, I will crush it and let it fall to the ground, dead. If he says it is dead, I will open my hand and let it fly away. Thus, he cannot answer the question correctly."

The other boys marveled at the intelligence of their companion and agreed that this was a foolproof plan to stump the old man of the mountain. After working many days to catch the bird, they set out on foot to climb the long winding mountains in search of the old man, noted for his wisdom.

Upon reaching his cabin, the wisest of them held the bird in his hands, as planned, and asked him what it was. The old man, seeing the feathers answered, "A bird of course." Then the youth asked the important question, "Is it dead or alive?" The old man thought for a minute and answered, "AS YOU WILL, MY SON." "The bird is neither dead nor alive, but what you make it."

The old man is dead, but his wisdom is not. Many of us have questions which we would like answered. Freshmen, particularly, are plagued with unanswered questions. In your hand you hold four years of your life—four years filled with opportunities and duties. These years are neither dead nor alive; they are neither valuable nor useless; they are what you will make them.

In your hand you hold a library filled with inexhaustible information, a town laden with hidden possibilities, churches which meet you with open arms, fellow students whom to know and understand is both a challenge and a privilege, and most of all a college with a heart. In your hand are many opportunities to use your time and talent. The questions which run through your head are infinite, but remember that if you could approach the old man of the mountain and ask him what your four years at Glenville would be, he would say, "AS YOU WILL THEM."

Tomorrow Is 'K' Day

A few more hours remain and during them the spirit, enthusiasm and collective willingness of a rather heterogeneous group of people will be tested.

By 5 p.m. tomorrow the campaign drive for a minimum of 300 yearbook subscriptions will have ended and the results of their testing will be known. It is, in essence, the appraising of the togetherness of some inseparable people who are sharing four years of mutual experience.

In the short time remaining, the issue is still up to YOU. You are the deciding factor in determining whether we will have a KANAWHACHEN this year!

The yearbook editors agree that "the spirit is here and this time we really mean business—but you are the only ones who can put us in business."

Tomorrow is "K" Day! Is Glenville going to be the only college in the state that does not publish a yearbook? The traditional publication was set up in 1911. Are we going to let it die simply because we are indifferent and unconcerned?

The existence of a yearbook and chronicle of this period will contribute a tangible reminder of our life at Glenville State.

Glenville State Is First In Line With State Board For Dormitory

Rural Advisers Meet In Lounge

The Advisory Committee for the Rural Development Conference held its September meeting in Louis Bennett Lounge, Monday, Sept. 20, Dean Delmar K. Somerville announced.

The meeting was attended by C. A. Archer, director of W. Va. continuing program in education and leadership; H. Cliff Hamilton, supervisor, state department of education; Walter C. Gumbel, conservationist for the Monongahela Power Company; the Rev. Bob Gay, of the Glenville Presbyterian Church.

The Committee made plans for the Rural Development Conference to be held here next April 16. Representatives from the Rural Development Program in Wirt County appealed to the committee for help in arranging a rural development conference at Elizabeth on Nov. 6-7. Glenville State College has been cooperating with Dr. E. L. Kirkpatrick, professor of sociology at Marietta College, Marietta, Ohio, in promoting a self study of rural problems in Wirt County.

The group was entertained with a luncheon in the guest dining room in the student center.

Student Council Lists Committees For School Year

The Student Council recently named the standing committees for this school year announces Council President Paul Hughes. The committees named include: Activity; Orton Jones, chairman; Gene Mann, Sally Zeigler, Charles Watt; assembly; Lee Kessinger, Judy Kennedy, Jim White.

The State Board of Education has accepted the Student Center building and has indicated an intention of allocating an additional $125,000 for the renovation of the Administration Building, according to Pres. Harry B. Heflin.

At a recent meeting of the Board a priority listing of capital expenditure needs at the nine state colleges operating under it was issued with Glenville State College leading the list with the need for a new women's dormitory.

Glenville State College again appears on the list as number fourteen for the need of a land purchase in order to construct adequate parking facilities.

Bonds Needed

The Board would grant the college $400,000 for the women's dormitory and $55,000 for the land purchase. Dr. Heflin indicated that an additional $400,000 would have to be raised by the selling of revenue bonds before construction on the new dorm could begin.

The list of capital expenditures for the nine state colleges represents the collective judgment of the state college presidents. Others listed, in order of importance are W. Va. Institute of Technology, women's dormitory; Concord, women's dormitory; West Liberty, academic building.

Shepherd, women's dormitory; Fairmont, administration building; Concord, men's dormitory; W. Va. # 3 Games Remain On Pioneer Card; D-E, Wesleyan, Salem Will Play

The Pioneers will meet the Davis and Elkins Senators at Elkins this Saturday, Oct. 12. This may well be a close encounter. Coach Nick Murin's men, winless in three games have high hopes of moving in on the Senators for a victory. D and E fell to the White Wave in the OSC Homecoming game last year 33-6.

Wesleyan is the next Pioneer opponent as the locals go to Buckhannon Oct. 19. Glenville was beaten by the Bobcats 7-6 in 1956.

Salems Tigers are scheduled to be in Glenville for the final GSC contest. The game will be played at Rohrbough Field, Friday afternoon, Oct. 25. Armstrong, Cox, Pritt, Busch, Kokoski, and Hughes will be playing in their terminal game. All are seniors. These men especially hope to avenge last year's clobbering at the hands of Salem.

Results of the Concor-Glenville game were not available when the MERCURY went to press.

Captures Lead Gillispie's Team In WAA Game

Captain Nancy Gillispie's volleyball team consisting of Joyce Jackson, Hester Reed, Mida Bailey, Marty Douglas, Bonnie Gorrell, and Christine Bush were victorious over the teams of Dorothy Pauley and Hazel Webster in recent play.

Gillispie's team outscored Webster 56-9 and Pauley's team 48-14.

Pauley's team defeated Captain Helen Hypes' team 24-16. Pauley had the aid of Patty Mace, Annabell McHenry, Patty Mick, Linda Mayo, Sandy Steven, Jane Spray, Mary Jo Chisler and Roma Starcher.

Captain Hazel Webster and her team of Flora Dyer, Barbara Peaster, Beverly Crooks, Connie Sams, Geneva Moss, Dorothy Butler, Betty Smith and Phyllis Starkey took a second loss from Hypes' team 44-26.

The WAA planning committee for Homecoming consisted of Nancy Gillispie chairman, Marty Douglas, Mary Jo Chisler and Roma Starcher.

Keith, Fetty Go To Kansas City For Agric. Meet

Delmas Keith, sophomore business major from Sand Fork, and John N. Fetty, an agriculture mechanics major from West Milford, will attend the National Future Farmers of America Convention in Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 14-19.

Keith, now serving as secretary of the State FFA, recently attended a camp held at Cedar Lakes, near Ripley, for newly elected Chapter presidents at which time the second executive meeting was held. Keith attended the State Convention in July held at Jackson's Mill and also visited 13 FFA chapters and attended six banquets.

Fetty will be going to Kansas City to receive the Degree of American Farmer which is the highest honor of the FFA. He is one of five in this state to receive this honor and along with this honor goes an award of $100. Fetty was also selected as State Star Farmer of West Virginia for the year 1957.

Fairmont Falcons Down Gee-Men

Glenville State lost their second consecutive WVIAC game to the Fairmont Falcons 32-13. The game was played at Fairmont Saturday night, Sept. 28.

Fairmont drew first blood on a pass to Fontanna from Newbrough. Try for extra point was good and the Falcons led 7-0. Fairmont scored again in the second period and led the Pioneers 14-0 at half-time.

Glenville tallied in the third quarter when Quarterback Jack Campbell passed to End Steve McMillion in the end zone for the touchdown.

Fairmont followed with two more TD's before substitute Quarterback Steve Taylor went over on a sneak for the Pioneer's final tally. Freshman Emory Elkins converted.

Jones Announces Assembly Set-Up

Dr. James G. Jones, assembly chairman, has announced that each organization intending to present an assembly should have its program planned at least ten days before presentation.

Dr. Jones feels this will enable the MERCURY to publicize the coming event and this should also improve the program. Jones says that two organizations may unite and present a program.

A member of the assembly committee will check on the programs prior to their presentation.

Notices have been sent to campus organizations requesting a reply on their choice of an assembly date.

used so often these days on Africa, the dramatization of "Cry The Beloved Country" becomes an event of both dramatic and historic interest. The audience will long remember the tender, tragic story of a white man and a black locked in the grimmest of human emotions.

For those not having activity tickets, the admission price will be $1 for adults and $.50 for children. Due to the remodeling of the Administration Building, people are asked to use the west entrance.

According to Carl Kerr, chairman of the Lyceum Committee, four lyceum events will follow during the year.

The next event is scheduled for Nov. 14 when Steven Barwick, a talented pianist, will present an evening of excellent entertainment.

Active Campaign

Since registration day a drive to obtain KANAWHACHEN subscription has been carried on. Later evidences of this campaign are the small cards posted on campus advertising the yearbook. A large thermometer registering sales increases is in the dining hall each evening from 5 to 6 o'clock.

Large signs posted in the halls or worn on student's backs also attract attention to the campaign. Subscriptions are taken in the Union each day from 12 o'clock noon until 1 o'clock and from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Dorothy Matics and Winetta Bowman are the senior class representatives for KANAWHACHEN subscriptions. Martha Gwinn and Sheri Nell Poling represent the sophomore class and Orton Jones is the junior representative.

Anyone interested in helping with the yearbook is asked to watch for an announcement of the next meeting date of the yearbook staff.
