To Receptive Paper Cups...

This editor, who likes to believe that the thoughts expressed in this column are more or less original, frankly concedes such ego-building notions this week and humbly passes on to the readers bits of information gleaned from more capable writers. With little connecting thread, these thought-provoking statements

Professors are vending machines that pour out a stated volume of information into the paper cups, which are the students' minds. . . . (???)

'Education is not something that is done for a student or to a student. It is no laying on the hands, no putting on of robes, no pouring in of information. Education is what the student does himself in the way of developing his own powers . . . If he would be an educated man, then he must give his best effort to the arduous, the unpleasing, often discouraging task of discipling his mind . .

'In this age of mass production, mass opinion making, and mass action, we are inclined to forget that individuals remain individuals ... The hard core of the learning process is an intimate association of minds ... Education is gained only when a knowing mind is locked in union with a seeking mind ... There is no single method for achieving this association.

'We must learn to honor excellence (indeed to demand it) in every socially acepted human activity, however humble the activity, and to scorn shoddiness however exalted the activity The society which scorns excellence in plumbing because plumbing is a humble activity and tolerates shoddiness in philosophy because it is an exalted activity will have neither good plumbing nor good philosophy Neither its pipes nor its theories will hold water. .

.. (Communists) have always planned to destroy us, not by outer attack, but by inward subversion; by confusing our minds and paralyzing our wills

'Slavery begins when men give up the human need to know with the whole heart-to know for themselves-to bear the burden for themselves-...

'The real defense of freedom is imagination, that feeling-life of the mind which actually knows because it involves itself in its knowing, puts itself in the place where its thought goes, walks (Continued On Page 4)
