Merry Christmas

To Students and Staff of Glenville State College:

Glenville State, as colleges go, is not large and most of us speak as we pass on the walks. However, there comes a time each year when just speaking is not enough. The Christmas season makes us more aware of each other and our hearts are filled with good wishes for all those around us. That time is here again!

Since we may not see each of you before Dec. 16, Mrs. Heflin and I want to take this opportunity to wish each of you a very Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year. Our best wishes go with you as you travel home and we shall look forward to your return to the Glenville State College campus as we start a new year together.

Sincerely yours,
Dr. and Mrs. Harry B. Heflin

Choir Will Present Christmas Concert Tomorrow Night

Vacation Begins Dec. 16, Extends to Jan. 4, 1961

The 1960 Christmas recess will begin Friday, Dec. 16, at 4:30 p.m., and end Wednesday, Jan. 4, at 8:00 a.m. According to Dean Delmar Somerville, any student absent from class on Dec. 16 or Jan. 4 must complete extra work, except in case of illness.

Mrs. Eileen Wolfe, assistant professor of home economics and dietitian for the College, has announced the dining-hall menu for Thursday, Dec. 15. The dining hall will be open from 4:45 to 6:00 p.m.

Menu Listed

Menu will consist of fruit cocktail, roast turkey with cranberry sauce, oyster dressing, giblet gravy, mashed potatoes, glazed apple rings, cranberry-nut salad, relish tray, hot rolls, preserves, fruit cake, pumpkin pie, and coffee or milk.

HRC Decorates Tree

Many Christmas decorations are beautifying the campus this year. The tree on Verona Maple Lawn was cut and decorated by Holly Roller Court pledges. Residents of the dormitories decorated their own trees. Also adding color to the campus are the individual decorations which appear in many dorm windows.

GSC Art Gallery Presents Display

On display in the GSC Art Gallery are the works of Janet Fields, art and social studies student, from Gandeveville, Roane County.

As proof of her versatility, Miss Fields had 45 pieces of art work on display. Different mediums of art include water colors, oil, scratch board, pastels, pencil, pen and ink, ceramics, copper enameling, graphic arts, and sculpture.

A 21-year old senior, Miss Fields is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Fields and a graduate of Walton High School.

Tree in Administration Building was decorated by members of the art department, and the Student Union tree was decorated by IRC-PSC members for the Snowflake dance.

Shaw Play Is Set For End Of Term

"Major Barbara," a four-act play by George Bernard Shaw, will be presented in the college auditorium near the end of the term, announces William S. E. Coleman, associate professor of speech and English. Shaw, a Nobel Prize winner, wrote the play in 1905.

"Major Barbara" is a comedy with religious overtones. The play pits a munitions manufacturer against his daughter, who is in the Salvation Army. There will be a large cast of 16.

Several veterans of GSC productions will appear in the play. They are Don Smith, Judi Miles, Linda Lambiotte, Janet Hall, Jim Dotson, Delmer Ray Brown, Bob Gainer, Jim Booth, Mary Vaughan, Brent Minor, Jim Troy, Ed White, and Patricia Horner. Making their first appearance on the GSC stage will be Keith Smith and Nancy Smith, both sophomores.

Production Staff Named

A large production staff will work on "Major Barbara." Ed White will be assistant to the director, Mr. (Continued On Page 3)

Leith Owen Takes 1st-Place Honors In Poetry Contest

Leith Owen won first-place honors in the second annual poetry contest, sponsored by the MERCURY. Miss Owen's poem is entitled "Panorama." She will be presented a copy of WEBSTER'S NEW WORLD DICTIONARY at the Christmas Assembly by Dr. Espy Miller and the MERCURY editor.

Zerban Directs Voice Bass Choir Performs

Tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the GSC Auditorium students, faculty, visitors, and parents will hear a history of music and song from different ages and many lands at the GSC Choir annual Christmas Concert, under the direction of Alexander W. Zerban, instructor in music.

One of the main features of the program will be "Gloria" by Vivaldi. Soloists for the "Gloria" will be Shirley Conrad and Alexander W. Zerban.

The auditorium will be especially decorated in keeping with the Christmas season by the house committee of the choir. Chairman of this committee is George Kerr.

New risers will be used this year in the concert. They were designed especially for the TV program and will be utilized to add to the attractiveness of the program here. The risers were designed by Mr. Zerban and built by the maintenance department.

The Brass Choir, under the direction of Dr. Robert A. Campbell, will present pre-concert music and will join with the choir in the group singing. Members of the Brass Choir are Clarence James and Daniel Altman, trumpets; Kay Strosnider, French horn; John McLaughlin, trombone; and Dr. Campbell, baritone.

Chairman of the choir committees are George Kerr, house; Bill Biggers, transportation; Patricia Jones, reception; Carol Cosby, program; Clarence James, recording; James Buck, lighting; and Phyllis Tice, publicity. Program cover was designed by Janet Fields.

WHEN THE MERCURY photographer took this picture, members of the GSC Choir were hard at work preparing for their many activities this week. The group is placed, or should we say "crammed" into the position they were in for their television show the past Sunday. Tuesday the choir toured the Clarksburg-Bridgeport area and gave three concerts. Tomorrow night they will present Vivaldi's GLORIA in the GSC Auditorium. (MERCURY Photo by Dixon)

PANORAMA

Delicately tracing a pencil-thin line across the sky,
a tree branch waves
outside my window.

Bare of leaves,
silhouetted against the dusk in shades of charcoal,
the branches move languidly back and forth, pushed gently by the lightest touch of wind.

Through the limbs
the moon,
a vivid globe of color,
fades,
returns,
veiled by a wisp of cloud.

Dusk imperceptibly moves toward darkness,
becoming darkness;
while the moon,
her impassive face turned ever outward,
moves on into the night.

DICK TRACY

When I was a lad
I walked a beat
As a rookie patrolman
on a one-way street.
I shook with fear
and was meek as a mouse
And I polished up the apple at the station house.
I polished up the apple at such a clip
That now I am a flatfoot
in a comic strip
Though I may be trapped
and I have no gun,
Still you'll never ever kill me
'cause it can't be done.
The whole darn force
is waiting down below;
I summoned all the boys
on my wrist radio.
So even if I'm helpless
in your evil grip,
You cannot kill a flatfoot
in a comic strip.

Church Activities

Dr. Catherine Cole, assistant professor of biology at GSC, spoke to the Westminster Fellowship, Presbyterian youth group, last night at 6:30 in the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Cole discussed "Christian Missions in Ghana."

The Baptist Youth group presented a Christmas orchestra at their Sunday night meeting. Orchestra was composed of members of the BYF. This program was followed by a film, "Teenage Loyalty."

Officers of the choir are Harold Metz, president; Shirley Conrad, secretary-treasurer; Bill Biggers and George Kerr, managers; Brenda Phillips and Kay Strohsider, librarians; and Patty Dent and Bethanne Napolitano, robe custodians.

A reception following the concert will be held in Louis Bennett Lounge for the choir and their invited guests.

HMH Is Opened For Holiday Tour

On Dec. 9, the GSC Home Management House opened for the second annual Holiday House Tours.

Miss Elma Jean Wootter, assistant professor of home economics, was in charge of arrangements at this Holiday Tour House. Her aides were Miss Judy Miller, Miss Beverly Hockenberry, Miss Janice Maxwell and Miss Grace Shock, all home economics students now living in the house.

The homes of Mr. Carl A. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Bantz Collins, Miss Ermah L. Damewood, and Mr. Lynn B. Hickman were also on the Garden-Club tour.

While people seem to think that money still talks, actually it's more of a sneer.

If you can have but one possession, character is still your best bet.

The Star

By Phyllis Tice

As I stood on the top of Town Hill, the Star I saw in the sky could have been the Star that shined over the stable where Christ was born so many years ago. The stars around seemed to be pointed toward this Star.

As I gazed upon the Star with awe, the story of Christmas ran through my mind. I thought of how a Star had gleamed so brightly that Christmas eve. The sky was glorious with the chorus which the angels sang.

As I looked toward another hill, I could see three figures on camels stopping on the hill and facing the Star. Then, in an instant the figures disappeared. I closed my eyes. When I opened them I looked again at the hill. To my amazement, I saw more figures which were moving as if they were winding their own pilgrimage beneath the Star of Bethlehem.

As I turned my head to gaze upon the Star, and then looked back, the figures were gone. Though the vision was fleeting, one impression remained. As I thought of the heaven.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

ISN'T IT STRANGE that the girls in Verona Maple Hall all have the same dreams? Every night we dream that little drops of pink, green, lavender, or blue rain are falling on us. Oh, it's a refreshing dream, but it isn't quite so refreshing when we awaken to find little specks of paint in our mouth and nose. Then we realize it wasn't rain in our dream at all — it was only paint peeling off the wall beside our bed and floating slowly into our faces.

SO, NO LONGER can we sleep that extra ten minutes in the morning, for we must get up, shake out the covers, and sweep the floor. Of course, we almost tear our hair out when we come back an hour later and find the same thing to do all over again.

WELL, THERE'S ONLY one solution, I suppose. We'll all have to move our beds out into the middle of the floor. Then we'll be safe. Safe, that is, until the cracked plaster falls on our heads sometime during the night and knocks us into sweet oblivion.

CAN YOU THINK of a better Christmas present than to come back from vacation and find freshly painted walls and repaired ceilings in Verona Maple Hall? I can't!

Respectfully yours,
"To Young to Die"

HRC Has Raffle; Begins House Fund

Holy Roller Court has launched a drive to build a Fraternity House announces Marvin Gothard, Court Judge. If enough money can be raised at the end of this school year, HRC will rent a house for the '60-'61 school year.

The money received from activities sponsored by the HRC will be put into the House Savings Fund. At present the Court is accepting twenty-five cent donations for a ticket on these prizes: a Webster Hi-Fi Stereo Record Player, a Winchester Shotgun (16 gauge), and a Westinghouse Radio. The drawing is set for Jan. 12, at the HRC assembly.

Students, Faculty Share Discussion

A student-faculty panel discussion, "Adviser-Advisee Relations," was held at the December faculty meeting. Students participating in the discussion were Jane Ruckman and Mike Morrison. Mr. John Davis, Mr. John White, and Mr. Stanley Hall, chairman, were faculty members participating.

Problems of both the adviser and the advisees were presented for discussion.

Some of the problems of the advisers are the time element that he can devote to his advisees; the lack of a complete file on many of the advisees; and the student's lack of responsibility in planning a program.

Problems encountered by the advisee that were presented included the fact that many advisers urge students to choose subjects that the adviser is interested in rather than subjects in which the student is interested. Many advisers expect

First Appearance Is Made By Band

The 47-piece GSC Concert Band, under the direction of Dr. Robert A. Campbell, made its first concert appearance of the year at the assembly Dec. 9.

The band, featured jointly with President Hefflin's State of the College Talk, played works by the 18th-century musical genius, Johann Sebastian Bach, and by the well-known 20th century composers, Clare Grundman and Leroy Anderson. The first number, Bach's, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring", was followed by "Three Songs for Christmas", a medley of Christmas carols including, "Angels We Have Heard on High", and "What Child Is This?"

Ending the concert band's part of the program was the popular "Sleigh Ride" by Anderson.

7 Pledges Attend Alpha Psi Dinner

Alpha Psi Omega held its monthly dinner meeting at the Conrad Hotel, Friday, Dec. 11. Pledges attended the dinner.

The week of Dec. 5 was pledge week for seven members; Tim Hays, Jim Booth, Linda Lambiotte, Judie Miles, Janet Hall, Don Smith and Jim Dotson.

The pledges informal initiation consisted of wearing paper-sack hats with theatre masks painted on them, addressing old members, working two hours in the speech supply rooms, and preparing a program for the dinner Friday night.

Formal initiation was held Friday night after the dinner with the cast director, Robert Gainer, in charge of the ceremony.

Alpha Psi Omega is a dramatic national fraternity, on an honorary basis, with members chosen on the basis of their acting and stagecraft contributions. The fraternity has been active on campus for the past several years and has many activities planned for the coming year. Mr. William S. E. Coleman is adviser.

Athletes Request Training Table

"Are the GSC athletes starving?" G-Club says "Yes, they are." The Club asks this question as a "shocker" to express the idea that athletes need more food than the average college student.

The club has decided that a training table would be a possible solution to the "starving" Pioneers.

Training table would be a special table set aside for the athletes so they could have extra food that they need.

Fred Smith, Tim Carney, Glen Martin, Jim Jay, and Pete Spencer comprise the committee that has written the proposal for the training table. Mrs. Eileen Wolfe, assistant professor of home economics, wrote a statement telling why athletes need more food; this statement is included in the proposal.

Glenville Collects Third Win Against Wheeling Quintet

The Glenville Pioneers collected their third win in as many starts and the first win in regular-season play at the expense of the Wheeling College quintet on the local floor Dec. 2. Score was 89-70.

Earlier wins for the Byrd-men came in the Weston pre-season tourney held during Thanksgiving holidays. Pioneers defeated Fairmont 80-74 and downed the Wesleyan Bobcats, 82-66.

Final score of the Wheeling game did not give a true indication of the total game. The score was tied a number of times during the first half and at halftime stood 42-41 with the G-Men in front.

Benefits From Bench

The game remained closely played until the Pioneers scored on two fast breaks with eight minutes remaining in the game. White Wave then caught fire and had the game on ice in short order. The Pioneer bench played a paramount role in the game as Coach Byrd substituted freely.

Leading the Pioneers in this first regular-season win was Bob Lambert. Lambert ripped the chords for 10 fielders and was 3 for 4 at the charity stripe for a total of 23 points.

Lambert was followed by Tim Carney with 13 points. Closely following Carney were Fred Smith and George Bailey with 10 points each.

At times the Pioneers displayed good defensive form. As the team pulled ahead in the final eight minutes, the defense seemed to stiffen.

Television Course May Be Offered

Dr. Somerville, Dr. Heflin, and Associate Professor William S. E. Coleman will take various trips throughout the United States Dec. 11-14 for conferences concerning educational television.

Dr. Somerville will visit station WGBH in Cambridge, Mass. and will be accompanied by representatives from Alderson-Broadus and Salem Colleges.

Dr. Heflin and a representative from Fairmont College will visit the University of Texas campus.

Mr. Coleman and representatives from West Virginia University, West Virginia Wesleyan, Davis-Elkins and Salem Colleges, will visit the University of Michigan.

Outcome of these conferences may be television courses offered for credit on Channel 5, Weston. Details for these courses will be worked out at a later date.

The Glenville College G-Men will go to Wellsburg on Dec. 16-17 where they will compete in the Wellsburg Invitational Tourney.

Others competing in the tourney will be Alliance College, College of Stubenville, and West Liberty College.

The Wellsburg Kiwanis Club will sponsor the tourney which will be played at the Wellsburg High School gym. Tickets for the game will be $3.00 for full tourney and $1.25 for individual games. There will be two games played on the 16th and the playoff will be on the 17th at 8:00 p.m.

Pioneers will leave for the tourney at noon Friday, Dec. 16, after eating an 11 o'clock meal.

Lillian Chaddock Attends Meeting

Mrs. Lillian Chaddock, assistant professor of home economics, recently attended a planning meeting in Charleston for a workshop to be held in August at Cedar Lakes near Ripley at the State Board of Education Camp.

The Charleston meeting was attended by teacher educators from Marshall, Concord, W. Va. State, and Glenville Colleges and from W. Va. University.

This August workshop is for supervising teachers, teacher educators, and State Superintendent staff.

Shaw Play Is Set

Coleman, and Jane Ruckman will be producer. Others working behind the scenes are Jim Booth and Pat Horner, acting coaches; Charles Friedman, lights; Virgil Smith and Bill Dixon, props; Tim Hays and Leith Owen, sound; and Eugene Davis, advertising.

"Major Barbara," one of the most important plays of the 20th century, will feature period costumes. There will be three elaborate sets. Sound and lighting will also be complicated, states Mr. Coleman.

The last play of Shaw's presented at GSC was "Misalliance," which set the record for comedy attendance.

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

From Glenville's

G & D Store

By Charles Curtis

The Glenville Pioneers won a cliff hanger, Dec. 8 at home, as they downed the powerful Fairmont Falcons by a score of 80-76.

The Pioneers led most of the game as they raced out to a good lead shortly after the starting gun and continued to set the pace until halftime when they sported one of their largest margins of the game: an eight point spread.

The Falcons came fighting back after the opening whistle for the second half had sounded and made the game exciting the remainder of the way.

The Glenville team looked better on defense this game than they did in the Dec. 2 Wheeling College game. The Byrd-Men had several clean steals and also executed some beautiful blocks of Fairmont shooting.

Eberbaugh Scores 19

Mike Eberbaugh furnished the spark in the first half as he hit on six fielders and four of four fouls. He was three for three at the foul strip in the second half giving him a total of 19 points for the game.

Larry Gandee goaled the Pioneers on in the second half as he hit on six goals from the floor and was four for four from the foul line. He also had two goals in the first half which gave him a total of 20 points for the night. Gandee and Eberbaugh were followed in scoring totals by Lambert who had 14.

Play Wesleyan Tonight

The Glenville Pioneers now sport a 2-0 record for the season.

The Pioneers will travel to Wesleyan tonight to play the Wesleyan Bobcats. The Bobcats may not prove to be as tough as they were last year. On the night that the college Christmas vacation ends, Jan. 4, Glenville will host the Davis-Elkins squad.

On Jan. 6 Glenville will play West Virginia State at Institute; Jan. 7 Morris Harvey at Charleston; Jan. 9 Fairmont at Fairmont; Jan. 11 Alderson-Broadus at Philippi; and Jan. 14 West Liberty at Home.

Results of the games played Dec. 10 at Salem and Dec. 12 with Tech, at home, were not available when the MERCURY went to press.

I'M GLAD FOR CHRISTMAS

Mistletoe sprigs and holly wreaths
Glittering lights on Christmas trees
Perform a task I deem quite rare,
For they spell Christmas in the air.

Christmas, which echoes silently
With strange refrains of mystery,
Seems to cast a magic spell
On children and older folks as well.

Secrets are whispered to and fro
As people scurry through the snow.
Everywhere there appears to exist
An air of joy and happiness.

Children are excited for they know
That on Christmas eve, across the snow
Will come eight reindeer quick,
Bringing their beloved St. Nick.

Even old folks are filled with awe
When they hear carolers sing, "tra, la la."
Or "Hark the herald angels sing,
Glory to the new-born King."

Yes, Christmas seems to catch and hold
The interest of both young and old;
But some folks get in such a "stew"
About food and decorations and presents too

That I wonder if they find time to say,
"Happy Birthday" to Christ on Christmas Day.
For on Christmas Day, many years ago,
Jesus was born in a manger low.

I'm glad God sent Him down from above
To teach men how to live and love;
And I would breathe a silent prayer
Of thanks to God, into the Christmas air.

Carols Chime From Tower

If you have a musical ear you will have noticed the Christmas carols sounding from the great clock tower on the Administration Building each evening from 5:00 until 5:30. Actually, the chimes are played from the console of the organ in the College auditorium and are amplified electrically.

The person who has been providing this appropriate Christmas music is Charles D. Patterson, assistant professor of library science and librarian of the college. As a college student, Mr. Patterson majored in music, history and speech.

While reading for the Master of Arts degree in library science at the University of Minnesota, he took additional graduate work in music and education and found time to have pipe-organ lessons. At the present time he is working on a Master of Music degree at West Virginia University.

Mr. Patterson had his first piano lessons at the age of nine, but he realized that the pipe organ was to hold his greatest interest. His first organ lessons were taken at the age of 12 and he has been a church organist since he was 15. An interlude of two years as a supply sergeant in the U. S. Army took him to Japan and Korea. "The worst thing about being in the army was having to be away from music for so many months while over seas."

For the past two and one half years Mr. Patterson has been the organist at Trinity Methodist Church in Glenville. At other times he has played in Lutheran, Episcopal, Presbyterian and Baptist churches.

Before coming to West Virginia, Professor Patterson was a public school teacher in Fargo, N. D., a reference assistant at the University of Minnesota Library, and for three years he was the head librarian at Bemidji State College.

Sororities Have Seasonal Parties

XI BETA TAU SORORITY members were guests of the Holy Roller Court, brother fraternity, at a Christmas Party Monday, Dec. 5. Party was held in Louis Bennett Lounge with Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Zerk and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell as chaperones.

Xi Beta Tau and their guests attended the GSC-Salem game at Salem, Sat., Dec. 10.

Group left GSC campus at 12:30 p.m. and shopped that afternoon in Clarksburg. Later the group met and dined together.

Miss Virginia West, associate professor of English, and Miss Roberta Williams, instructor in English, were guests of the sorority on this trip.

Members wore sorority colors, green and white, with the sorority jacket, white blazers.

KAPPA CHI KAPPA SORORITY had a Come-as-You-Are party Monday, Dec. 12, in Louis Bennett Lounge.

Judy Miller gave a reading and Martha Lee Hall led group singing.

Mrs. Carlos Ratliff, Mrs. Espy Miller, and Mrs. Harry B. Heflin, Kappa Chi Kappa Patronesses, were guests of the sorority.

Members were surprised last week with invitations to the party and were to wear what they had on when they received the invitation.

Miss Owen, a senior, is an English-speech student. Ferrell is a freshman chemistry student and Miss Jones, junior, is an elementary student.

In the three-week period during which students were eligible to enter poems there were ten entrants with fifteen poems. Last year there were 13 entrants and 16 poems.

Contestants were Roland Thomas Ferrell, Laura Bell Gainer, Billy G. Gonzales, Phyllis Lee Harvey, Barbara Huggins, William Jackson, Deronda Jones, Leith Owen and Mary Vaughan.

Judges were Dr. Espy Miller, chairman of GSC English department, Mr. Carl Kerr, assistant professor of English and French, and Miss Roberta Williams, instructor in English.

Poems were sent to the judges unsigned. Judges did not know the names of the winners until after their selection of the winning poems.

The three winning poems are printed on pages 2 and 4.
