IOC COMPILES CHAPERONE FILE FOR STUDENT USE

The Inter-Organizational Council has begun to cope with a problem which is causing campus organizations much trouble: finding faculty chaperones.

John Hopson, president of the IOC, has disclosed that a faculty chaperone file is being compiled whereby campus organizations may know which teachers are available as chaperones.

File cards to be completed by faculty members will designate the type of activity they will sponsor, times available, if a baby sitter is needed and other information which will help the organization to find a sponsor.

Hopson also disclosed that Mrs. Taylor, house mother at Women's Hall has a list of student baby sitters for the use of faculty and administrative personnel.

This is one of a series of projects sponsored by the IOC to create better relationship between faculty and campus organizations.

'Miss Julie' Stars Mary Biel; Drama Season Opens Oct. 25

Harry Lynch Directs Classic

"Miss Julie" will open the dramatic season at Glenville State on Oct. 25-26. The Way-Off-Broadway production starring Mary Biel as Miss Julie, Nick Nichols as John the butler, and Greta James as Kistene the maid, tells the story of a wealthy aristocratic lady whose life is deeply affected by her attraction and her hatred for her butler.

"Miss Julie," written by August Strindberg, is an early experimental play and is a classic of the naturalist theater.

Because of the renovation of the auditorium, the play will be presented in the large recreation room on the second floor of the Health Building.

Harry Lynch, student director, has disclosed that curtain time will be at 8 p.m. Admission is students $.25, adults $.50.

Technical help on the set are James Booth, assistant director; Jerry Morgan, set designer; William Spelbring, costumes; Elizabeth Nutter and Sherry Curtis, sound; and Margy Simmons, lighting.

"Miss Julie" is one of several plays which will be presented by the Obiningohow Players and Alpha Psi Omega this year.

American Film, 'Julius Caesar'

Featured Next in Foreign Films

"Julius Caesar," an American experimental film, will be shown on Monday, Oct. 29, in Louis Bennett Lounge at 3:35 and 8 p.m.

This independently made first full-length sound film version of the Shakespearean play is an exciting and faithful transcription distinguished by its fine photography, imaginative direction and adaptation. Shakespeare remains almost intact, but the visualization is sharp and incisive, dramatically accompanying and complementing the poetry of the original lines.

Roman-style Chicago buildings were employed as backgrounds and the climatic Battle of Philippi was filmed on the sand dunes that border Lake Michigan. The daring and experimental use of the camera in "Julius Caesar" is far removed from the Hollywood approach to classic subjects.

The film starring Charlton Heston, David Bradley, Harold Tas-er and Grosvenor Glenn was co-winner of the Critics' Citation, Locarno International Film Festival as "Most Artistic Film Shown at the Festival."

Halloween Ball Set for Oct. 27

The Annual MENC Halloween Dance is set from 9-12 p.m., Oct. 27 in the Student Union. Prizes will be given at this girl-ask-boy dance. It is hoped that the students will attend the dance dressed in their favorite costume, whether it be one of a clown, Caesar, or Charlie Weaver.

Advance tickets may be purchased from members of the MENC for $2 couple, $1.50 single. Tickets will also be sold at the door for $2.50 couple, $2 single.

The "Riffs"—a progressive jazz octet—will play for the dance.

Homecoming Colorful Parade Is Main Attraction

Floats Portray Centennial Theme

By JANET LONG

The 29th-annual observance of the Glenville State College Homecoming activities brought many alumni and friends of the College back to the Main Street of Glenville to view the colorful parade, to the campus for the crowning of Queen Betty Ann, and to Rohrbough Field for the football clash between the Pioneers and the W.Va. Wesleyan Bobcats.

The 49-unit parade served as the official beginning of the Homecoming Oct. 13. The units included bands, floats, the Queen and her court, and the appropriately clad freshmen.

Phi Mu Gamma received the first-place award in the float competition. The slogan of the float was "Top 'Em Pioneers." A large hat was built on the float, and Phi Mu sisters, dressed in tuxedo jackets, top hats, canes and heels, rode on the float.

The second-place award in the float competition went to the Science Club. A miniature telescope was built on the float to portray the slogan "Pioneers in Space."

Alpha Rho Tau received the third-place award. The slogan was "Safari's We're Concerned They're Polecats." There were two men carrying a pole between them with a Bobcat hanging on it.

The awards will be presented as soon as they are engraved. Awards for last year's floats are on display in the Administration Building.

The float entered by Theta Xi Fraternity was chosen by the student Council as the best float with a Centennial theme.

Verona Maple Hall added to the parade with a float. Two polecats were built on the float, and the slogan was "Sweet Smell of Success."

"We'll Teach the Bobcats" was the slogan used by the SNSSEA. On the float was an old-fashioned school teacher paddling the Bobcats.

Holy Roller Court's entry in the Parade was a covered wagon with the slogan "Beat 'Em or Bust."

Xi Beta Tau sorority float had as the slogan "Best Bet, Pioneers." Four movable dice and stationary ones were on the float.

Queen Betty Ann Brown, senior from Burnsville, was crowned by Dr. Harry B. Heflin at the coronation ceremonies on the College campus. James Rogers, senior from Marlinton served as Pioneer. Mrs. Lynwood Zinn, alumni president, welcomed alumni and friends.

Half-time program at the football game included the presentation of the Montrose Award to Robert Summers, Parkersburg.

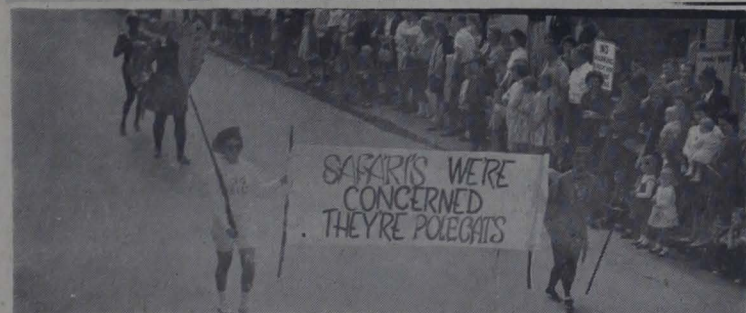

The Alumni Association awarded a first-place prize to Hardman's Hardware for the best decorated store, and a second-place prize to Stump Ford Motor Company.

The GSC Agriculture Club sponsored a barbecue as part of the Homecoming activities Saturday. Mr. Byrl L. Law stated that slightly over $100 was collected. This money will be given to the W.Va. Centennial fund.

William Maxwell, president of GSC Student Council, announced at the game that freshmen rules would no longer be in effect.

Mourning Glory

This issue, "The Squawk Box," focuses its attention on apathy. Apathy has pervaded Glenville State College campus like a huge blanket of nothingness. Before we squawk, however, let us review some facts.

Recently a tea was planned and given for the faculty by the coeds in Women's Hall. Much time and effort were put forth by these women in the hope of providing the faculty with a good time. Between 50 and 75 guides and hostesses were appointed, and everything was in readiness. Four faculty members bothered to show up.

Out of an on-campus enrollment of 796 students, only 140 have purchased yearbooks. Since there was no yearbook last year, one would think students would be eager for one this year. However, unless sufficient interest is shown, in the form of 400 sales, the KANAWHACHEN will fall prey to lethargy, and drop from the campus.

Dances lose money; organizations slow down; and campus activity grinds slowly to a standstill.

These are the facts. Now, let us turn our attention to some probable causes of the campus do-nothing attitude.

First a portion of the blame must rest with the town itself. It is not even conceivable to students of other colleges that Glenville is a college town and does not even possess a movie theater. It is not considered possible there are no boys going through the dorms selling pizza and submarine sandwiches.

However, as students, we cannot change the town, so it is up to us to change the college. One suggestion is to increase the number of special weekends. Out of a school year with 30-some weekends, we have only two special weekends, Homecoming and Sadie Hawkins. The blame for this goes largely to organizations. The only campus activity that organizations come up with is a dance. The general feeling after having nothing but dances for entertainment is "If you've seen one dance, you've seen them all." Surely organizations have more ingenuity than this.

Another portion of the blame, and a large share, must go to the lack of traditions on campus. What few traditions we once had are now stomped out. The freshman rules and punishments, which used to afford fun and amusement to freshmen and upperclassmen alike are now virtually non-existent. Gone are the days of the freshman boy wearing a skirt, and a mop wig, leading cheers utilizing a commode plunger for a baton. Gone are the days of the freshman boy with hot dog buns on his ears. These activities, which were more pleasure than punishment, for all concerned, are now harassments.

Having apportioned out the blame, stated the facts, and offered a few suggestions, this issue of the "Squawk Box" will close with this idea: When students have nothing to do, and nothing to say, and nothing to think about, listlessness turns to restlessness and boredom turns to tension. I wonder if anyone on campus has read the book, COMPULSION

Larry Wolfe

'Actions Speak... Louder Than Words'...

"Hope we win the game Saturday." "Yeh, I hope we do, too." A typical conversation in the Student Union. It sounds fine, the first element in winning is the desire to do so.

There has to be more than this, however. Why limit our ideas to talking over coke in the Union? We or our college will not profit by just talking. We can wish for many things—but what we get usually has to be worked for.

We elect cheerleaders. Why? No one seems to want to "back them up." When they try to lead yells, the students think the cheerleaders are putting on a dramatic skit and need no audience participation. When cheerleaders stand and watch the game, a tremendous gripe comes up about how lazy they are.

The major excuse seems to be that "it's high schoolish to do all those cheers." Looking alive, having pep and enthusiasm and supporting our team is no more high schoolish than attending classes, or having the games in the first place.

It is not "high school" nor "college," but citizenship to be loyal and proud of the institution we represent. Do our actions reflect pride or shame?

HRC Begins Community Project

The Holy Roller Court began its "Better Community-Relations Project" on Wednesday Oct. 17. The HRC members helped to clean up the grounds around the now completed Catholic Church on Mineral Road.

The "Better Community-Relation Project," which was suggested by faculty adviser Mr. Kent Monroe, is designed to bring HRC prestige to an all-time high in the community.

Judge Delford Watson disclosed that the HRC is formulating plans for a campus-wide pizza party. The proceeds are to be contributed to the campus centennial fund.

Gary Waggoner, clerk of the court, announced that an official blazer and a new crest have been adopted. The new crest will not replace the old paddle but will co-exist as the formal symbol.

Folk Music Presented By Mark Moore

By WILLIAM SPELBRING

For almost two hours on Oct. 11, the juke box in the Student Union did not utter a single groan nor screech as it sat in mute tribute to the artistry of Mark Moore, the Colorado minstrel.

Mr. Moore has made over 1,200 appearances throughout the United States. He not only gives folk music concerts such as he presented here at Glenville, but also educational lectures on music as it pertains to the folk song and talks on the origin of folk music both in the United States and in foreign countries.

Mr. Moore was born in Denver and received his BA degree at the University of Denver. He became interested in folk music in 1949 and has pursued a career in that field since 1959.

The administrative staff of GSC should be applauded for co-operation and help in setting up the concerts.

Mr. Moore and his autoharp "Betsy" held the attention of more than 400 students who were seated informally on the floor, in chairs and on tables.

If the background noise in the Union could be kept to a minimum, programs such as this could be made the rule rather than the exception until the renovation of the auditorium is complete.

Episcopal Bishop Presents Lecture

"Revolution of Rising Expectations" was the lecture the bishop of the West Virginia Episcopal Church, the Rev. Wilburn C. Campbell, gave to GSC students recently.

Rev. Campbell, with his colleague Mr. William Theiss, W. Va.—Ohio, YMCA college co-ordinator, explained that foreign countries are looking to America as a leader in a troubled world. Rev. Campbell explained that the continuous revolution of the 20th century is a result of our American revolt from British rule.

Mr. Theiss outlined the plans for a conference on Nov. 23 which is entitled "Seminar on American Goals." Students from West Virginia Wesleyan College, Salem, Davis and Elkins, and Glenville College have been invited to attend.

The meeting is to be held at Mont Chateau, Morgantown, under the direction of the YMCA.

Theta Xi Has Open House

Theta Xi officers for the current school year are Ollie Pottmeyer, president; John Harris, vice-president; Don Fulton, secretary; Don Riggs, treasurer; Gary Jones, sergeant-at-arms; Elbert Henderson, Jr., corresponding secretary; Richard Taylor, chaplain; and John Sutton, historian.

Theta Xi held Open House on Saturday following the Homecoming game. Approximately 250 parents, students, faculty, friends and alumni attended. Phi Mu Gamma, sister sorority to the fraternity, sent a "Good Luck" flower arrangement to the House which was greatly appreciated by the brothers.

Future plans for the House include repair and resurfacing of the road from Charles Street to the House, building a new front porch, and painting the House.

House officers are Eugene Davis, president; Ed Roby, treasurer; and Terry George, John Lustig, Robert Pfaff, Governing Board representatives.

Brahs Lectures On Peace Corp

Glenville State College students heard the advantages of the Peace Corps cited by Mr. Stuart J. Brahs in a lecture held in the Student Union, Tuesday, October 16. Mr. Brahs is a representative of the Program Development and Operations, Latin America.

Mr. Brahs stated that travel, the feeling of accomplishment, and pride were the greater rewards for Peace Corps members. He also explained to the audience the qualifications, salaries, and specific purposes of the Peace Corps. A documentary film of the Peace Corps was included in the program.

Athletic Program Planned by MAA

Bad weather shortened the intramural softball program, but a full and complete schedule is now being set up for volleyball. Also a roster of individual and dual sports is being prepared by Athletic Director Byrd, which will include badminton, handball, and shuffleboard. Men interested in participating should see Coach Byrd.

White Wave Whips State

Glenville State's Pioneers evened their West Virginia Conference record at 2-2 by crushing winless W. Va. State, 20-0 here Saturday afternoon, Oct. 6.

The Pioneers went ahead to play in the first stanza when Quarterback Ollie Pottmeyer passed 15 yards to Paul Anderson for the TD that capped a sustained drive. A 17-yard pass from Joe Duncan to Tom Gunnoe set up the score, which came on a fourth down-and-seven situation. Keith Smith booted the point and the score was Glenville 7-0.

In the second quarter, Glenville covered a State fumble at the Pioneer 27. A 21-yard pass from Pottmeyer to Gunnoe and a 13-yard run by Louie Nocida sparked the drive that was climaxed when John Lustig went over from the two. Smith again booted the point and the score was 14-0 at the intermission.

Taking the second half kickoff, the Pioneers drove 79 yards with Larry Legg cracking over from the one. Lustig's 21-yard run set up the final score.

Glenville dominated the statistics as well as the score. The Pioneers had 13 first downs to 11 for State, 104 yards rushing and 94 passing to 77 and 48 for the Yellow Jackets.

Football Finale: Fairmont Falcons

Glenville will wind up the 1962 football season here Oct. 27 when they host the Falcons of Fairmont State College at Rohrbough Field. Pioneers will be out to repeat the 20-13 win of last year.

The White Wave, still showing a good scoring punch, will be concentrating on defense to stop the swift halfbacks of the Falcons. After a slow start, Fairmont has come back strong to give the only two undefeated conference teams, Concord and W.Va. Wesleyan, good games, thus proving their capabilities on the gridiron.

Playing their final game for the Pioneers will be Bud Hammett, Vinsen Post, Gene Davis, Keith Smith, John Napolitano and Paul Anderson. All season these seniors have sparked the Pioneers and this game should be no exception.

At the time of this writing, Coach Lilly indicated that there would be some changes in the starting lineup. Coach Lilly has been well pleased with the play of some of the new players, and he also commented on the fine playing of the lettermen.

Practice sessions prove that the Pioneers will be ready and waiting for the visitors.

Student Council

News - Notes

The Student Council announces that the Theta Xi fraternity won the $10. prize for the best centennial float in the Homecoming Parade.

Discussion of Homecoming activities occupied the time of Council members at the Oct. 15 meeting. Eary Waggoner, sergeant-at-arms disclosed that some student criticisms of the Homecoming Dances were; that the price was too high for students, there were no tables nor chairs provided, and the band was not the type of band that students normally prefer nor enjoy.

A committee was appointed with Douglas Watt, chairman, to check on the use of absentee ballots by students. It is hoped that students who desire may be able to vote by absentee ballot in the Nov. 6 election.

Council President William Maxwell instructed John Harris, senior class president; and Douglas Watt, junior class president, to hold class meetings to nominate students to "Who's Who." Seniors will nominate 16 students and the juniors 10.

The Council, organization presidents and two members from each organization, met with Mr. Michael Posey to discuss possible changes in the college ring.

Council is encouraging each organization to push the sale of the KANAWHACHEN.

Students are encouraged to attend the Council meetings, each Tuesday evening at 6:15 in the Student Union.

Wesleyan Is Too Strong, Pioneers Lose 26 to 6

West Virginia Wesleyan put a sudden stop to Glenville's string of six consecutive Homecoming victories, as they trounced the Pioneers 26-6, Oct. 13 at Rohrbough Field.

The Pioneers went ahead with five minutes gone in the first period as Joe Duncan scored on a 2-yard end run, after the Pioneers had recovered a Bobcat fumble on the visitors' 11-yard line.

Wesleyan came storming back as tackle Russ Willard intercepted a Glenville lateral and raced 70 yards to paydirt; Farr kicked the extra point making the score 7-6 at the end of the first quarter. Wesleyan went ahead to stay and ended the scoring in the first half as Dan Pearce scored from three yards away after the Bobcats intercepted a Pioneer pass.

Wesleyan then showed power as they broke loose for two touchdowns in the third period to wrap up the scoring. John Johnson scored first on a 45-yard trap play and Carl Wood added the extra point on a run. Striking again with lightning quickness the Bobcats scored after a White Wave fumble, with Quarterback Dan Mastacusa going two yards for the score. This provided the powerful Bobcats with a good lead and enabled their reserves to see action.

Wesleyan completely dominated the statistics, gaining 186 yards on the ground and 102 yards in the air, while the Pioneers had 92 on the ground and 44 in the air. Wesleyan's superior play was shown in the punting department as they did not have to punt once during the game.

'Cost' May Cost GSC Yearbook

Larry Wolfe, yearbook editor, has revealed that, unless a minimum of 400 sales have been recorded by Oct. 29, the KANAWHACHEN will not be published this year.

Wolfe released the following figures concerning the cost of the yearbook and stated, "I think it should be evident to all concerned that publishing costs are prohibitive unless we have a sales total of 400 minimum.

Operating cost	300.00

'G' Club Helps Kanawhachen

In an attempt to perpetuate the KANAWHACHEN, Glenville State College yearbook, the "G" Club met Thursday, Oct. 11 and decided that each of the 26 members would attempt to sell two yearbooks.

This effort came when the campus was informed that unless 400 yearbooks were sold, the KANAWHACHEN will not be published this year.

Larry Wolfe, yearbook editor, when informed of the "G" Club endeavor, said: "I am very pleased with this, and very thankful to the "G" Club. The staff greatly

Symbolic Drama To Be Directed By Mrs. Coleman

Three one-act plays are now in rehearsal on the GSC campus. One of the three is the psychological drama "Suddenly Last Summer" by Tennessee Williams. This play is a drama of the abnormal. It is filled with the usual Williams symbolism and impact.

Mrs. Phyllis Coleman is directing the production. Mrs. Coleman's experience in the theatre extends through both high school and college. She has assisted her husband, Mr. William Coleman, with many of the plays that he has directed in the past years. This is Mrs. Coleman's first attempt at direction on the college level. Last year she planned and co-ordinated the PTA Minstrel at the Glenville High School.

There were no formal tryouts for this production. Instead, the cast was selected from those who tried out for "Seagull," being directed by Mr. William Coleman and "Miss Julie," directed by Harry Lynch.

The cast includes Susan Fulton, Marg Hofmann, William Spelbring, Sulynn Taylor, Phil Ramsey, Patricia Britton and Carolyn Lowthier.

A definite opening date has not yet been set. The play will be presented in the recreation room of the Health Building.

Watt, Marshall, Morgan Attend Federation Meet

By JERRY MORGAN

Douglas Watt, junior class president and college co-ordinator of the federation; Robert Marshall, freshman class president; and Jerry Morgan, GSC Student Council treasurer and state federation treasurer, attended the West Virginia Federation of Collegiate Student Governments meeting held at West Virginia State College, Institute, on Oct. 11-13.

The meeting was to discuss problems which will confront the colleges and universities during the coming school year.

Special emphasis was placed on five topics: the centennial and the contribution that students and organizations can make for a successful celebration; student discount program which is designed to give students special rates in community stores; a cooperative artist series for the colleges of West Virginia; the Constitutional Amendments to be voted on in November; and student lobbying whereby the federation can become an effective organ of political education.

The cooperative artist series is of particular interest to Glenville students because it is designed to give worthwhile lyceum programs at a reduced rate.

Highlight of the meeting was guest speaker, Mr. Anatoli Tikhonovich Kireev, first secretary of the embassy of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Mr. Kireev was friendly but firm in his speech and placed special emphasis on a policy of peaceful co-existence between his country and the United States.

During a question-and-answer period, Mr. Kireev defended the action of his country on such topics as the Berlin Wall, Hungarian Revolution, and Radio Free Europe. Other guest speakers were Mr. Howard Carson, President, W.V.A. State Senate; Mr. Richard Kile, appointment secretary to Governor Barron; and Mr. Floyd Calvert, publicity chairman, W.V.A. Centennial Commission.

Mary Biel Heads Ohningohow Group

Ohningohow Players have chosen Mary Biel, sophomore English student from Charleston as president for 1962-63. Miss Biel will be assisted by Patricia Britton, vice-president; Marilyn Igou, secretary-treasurer; and Mr. William Coleman, adviser.

Wednesday, Oct. 17, the members met to revise their constitution, the oldest one on campus. Also initiation plans were devised at this meeting.

Ohningohow is composed of persons interested in the theater and the club can trace its ancestry back to 1926, when it was founded, becoming the first organization on campus.

Ohningohow and its companion group, Alpha Psi Omega, are two of the most active groups on campus, producing each year several plays on campus, and recently road productions which have been played in Parkersburg, Webster Springs, and Buckhannon.

Productions planned for this year include "Miss Julie," "Suddenly Last Summer," "The Seagull," "Oedipus Rex," and either "Man of Destiny" or "Rondo."

Registrar Langford Attends State Meet

Mr. Beryl Langford, registrar at GSC, attended the fall meeting of the W.V.A. Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers at Mont Cateau, Cheat Lake, Morgantown.

The meeting began Wednesday, October 17 when Dr. Paul Miller, President of West Virginia University, gave the welcoming address. The meeting ended Friday evening, October 19.

starring Nadja Tiller, Peter Van Eyck and Carl Raddatz was shown on Oct. 22. The film was a satiric look at upper and lower strata life during the 'economic wonder,' the post-war boom and recovery in Germany.

Miss Jane Ruckman, 1961 graduate, is teaching in Marlinton High School.

Hallett Heads Jazz Group; Will Play for MENC Ball

Jazz goes to college. This is what has taken place on the campus of Glenville State College the past few weeks. It developed when a group of musicians met to experiment with new concepts in the progressive jazz idiom. This group was organized by Mr. Clayton Hallett, a new faculty member of GSC.

The arrangements of the group are geared toward the "Kenton Sound." Mr. Hallett's arrangements, being especially written for this octet, are done in the Kenton idiom. The band's library is further augmented by arrangements by Kenton personnel—some of these being foremost West Coast arrangers such as Shorty Rogers, Marty Paich, and Bill Holman.

Rogers has been an arranger for Kenton bands for several years, a prominent figure in the recent Afro-Cuban movement within the realm of progressive jazz, and has composed and arranged the music for many Hollywood films.

Jerry Wilson, a junior music student has also contributed to the band's library of arrangements. The most popular arrangement among the band members is his interpretation of "In the Mood for Love." Wilson, who plays bass trombone, is the "anchor man" of the group.

All the arrangements are based on and make extensive use of the bass trombone's low range. Consequently, Wilson has a unique and key position with the group. Also noteworthy is the fact that the bass trombone is essential in attaining the Kenton sound.

However, Mr. Hallett pointed out that it must be realized that the organization does not, and cannot, function because of any one member. Teamwork is at a premium, and the group's accomplishments are due to an organized effort of each member.

The music, perhaps, can be best described as "danceable jazz." The arrangements are in the progressive jazz idiom; yet are designed for dancing as well as for a listening audience. In addition, due to popular demand, the band does supply the dancers with twists, rock 'n' roll tunes, as well as Latin American numbers.

The name of the group—"The Riffs"—was adopted from their theme song—"Intermission Riff"—a jazz composition made popular in the 50's by the Stan Kenton band.

Members of the band are Tim Hall, drummer; Lanny Petry, pianist and vocalist; Dick Beall, string bass; Steve Smith, tenor trombone; Jerry Wilson, bass trombone; Ken Frederick, cornet; Bill Stalnaker, alto saxophone; and the leader—Mr. Hallett—on tenor saxophone. Manager for the group is Harold Reed.

The "Riffs" will be playing for the annual MENC Halloween Dance Saturday night in the Student Union. Included in the long-range plans of the octet is a jazz concert on campus as well as appearances on radio and television.

New Curriculum Is Introduced

By LINDA SMITH

At a state-wide workshop for home economics teachers recently at Cedar Lakes a new curriculum for home economics teachers in West Virginia was introduced.

The curriculum, which is a cooperative project written by all home economics teachers of West Virginia, was under the supervision of Miss Pauline Stout, state supervisor of home economics education, and her staff. Many teachers of home economics from colleges and universities worked with Miss Stout and her staff in completing the curriculum.

The research project, which took three years to complete, has been tried for two years in high schools and was then revised and published in its present form.

Included in the new curriculum are "Some Trends in Family Living in W.Va." which features occupations and income, home and community achievement and factors determine the needs of adolescent boys and girls.

Some of the units of instruction are: child care and guidance, clothing, consumer education, education and recreation for the family, foods, health and home safety, housing, management and personal and family relationships.

Mrs. Lillian Chaddock, assistant professor of home economics, attended the Cedar Lakes meeting.

Mrs. Mary Jean Barker, secretary to President Hefflin, will be an adviser for Phi Mu Gamma. The sorority dined in the Colonial Room Oct. 17 to honor their national "Founder's Day."

First faculty dinner this year was the past Friday night in Louis Bennett Lounge. Theme was fall harvest; Mrs. Judge Watson was chairman of the October committee.
