

WVU Grid Coach Addresses Thanksgiving Assembly

James Carlen, Head Football Coach, West Virginia University

By James Bull

Mr. James Carlen, head football coach of West Virginia University, will be the speaker for the annual all-campus Thanksgiving assembly to be held this morning at 10:10 in the college auditorium. Classes will be dismissed so that all students may attend the assembly.

Carlen was born July 11, 1933, in the mountains of Tennessee and is presently the youngest major college head coach in the game. Carlen came to West Virginia University in January 1966, intent on creating new interest in the Mountaineer football team. During that year over 123,000 fans attended the Mountaineer games despite a losing record.

He played and coached under the famous Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech. and played linebacker against West Virginia in the 1954 Sugar Bowl game. After military service, Carlen returned to Georgia Tech. in the part time capacity of assistant freshman coach.

Carlen started playing organized football at the age of seven and played on every level through college. He graduated from Georgia Tech in 1955 with a B. S. degree in industrial management and was assistant coach one year at Cookeville High School in his hometown. He later coached at the military service and collegiate levels. Until last year he had never been associated with a losing team.

Carlen is West Virginia University's "man in motion." He is quick on the draw, direct, decisive, and enthusiastic. He believes in the making of the "whole man" with football, children, parents, and the church as his main topics, he never lacks an audience.

Under the leadership of Carlen, his young hard-working assistants campaigned throughout the country-side visiting high schools, home games, and wherever it would help, telling the people that they "ought to be proud of these boys, out there playing their hearts out, making mistakes week after week."

Carlen is married to the former Miss Sharon Garner of Alcoa, Tennessee. They are the parents of three children, Mollie, James, and Melaine. Mrs. Carlen was formerly a student at Tennessee Tech and was runner-up to Miss Tennessee in the Miss Universe contest in 1961.

After the speech, the assembly will be concluded by the singing of "We Gather Together" and "Come Ye Thankful People Come" by the entire audience.

WF Consecration Scheduled Nov. 26

Nov. 26, Bishop Fred G. Holway of the West Virginia district of the Methodist Church will be guest speaker for the consecration ceremony of the new $100,000 Wesley Foundation building. Dr. Tom H. Malloy, Executive Secretary of the Board of Education of the W. Va. Methodist Conference, former directors, and former officers, are expected to be among those who will visit the campus.

This latest addition to the expanding program of the Methodist Campus Ministry in W. Va. was officially handed over to the Methodist Board of Education on Oct. 5 when the contractors presented keys to a New Wesley Foundation to Rev. D. Edward Bayer at Glenville State College.

The Foundation building includes a meditation chapel, which will seat 100, and a lounge accommodating approximately the same number. The building also house a library, office space for the foundation director, and meeting rooms.

Located on the site of the former M. E. Church South, the foundation building has been financed largely through money received in Faith in Action program and on a long-term loan. Over $50,000 of the funds needed came through gifts of West Virginia Methodists through Faith in Action.

Director for the building will be Rev. D. Edward Bayer, campus minister, who replaced Robert M. Fuqua who was appointed to a Fairmont church. Mrs. Orville White, of Glenville is continuing her duties as secretary.

Mrs. Charles "Mom" Barker, also of Glenville, is the hostess for the new building. City Lumber Company of Buckhannon built the new structure.

New Men's Dormitory Plans Are Formulated

Plans are now in the architectural stage for a new men's dormitory on the Glenville State College Campus. General interest has been expressed concerning an open-corridor suite arrangement which will serve as a home to approximately 192 men.

The site of the dormitory has not been chosen but possible sites now under consideration are in the general area of the lower parking lot across from the Administration building.

The new building will present the living-learning type of situation. The air-conditioned building will contain a recreation area with the possibility of holding classes in the dormitory.

The approximate date of completion will be around the Second semester of next year, but as yet no definite date is available.

Phyllis Hopkins and Becky Given enjoy the comforts of the new WF lounge.

I Challenge You . . . GED Test Given To Non-Graduates

Fellow Students,

In absence of Larry Parsons, President of the S. G. A., it gives me this opportunity to compliment you on the tremendous job of backing your football team. Your support and confidence impressed many people and, most of all, helped your Pioneers complete a great season. One of the greatest expressions of your interest was at the Fairmont game. Even radio coverage commented on the energy of our crowd. Speaking for Student Council and as a member of the football team I would like to say thank you.

Football season is over, but our school year is not. The kick-off returns, pass interceptions, and touchdowns are now history; but the tip-off, foul shots, and fast breaks are yet to be made. I hereby challenge you to support the Glenville State basketball team with equal confidence and enthusiasm.

Athletics should not be your only concern. Plays, Lyceum programs, concerts, speakers, and social events are all of benefit to you as a student. Why deprive yourself of such opportunities? In your interest I encourage you to participate in all the events of the school year.

William D. Frost
Vice president of S. G. A.

Wife Requests Change

Dear Editor,

It would seem that the library has become a favorite "whipping boy" on this campus. The only other thing that arouses the students' interest is the fact that we are being charged two dollars by the Kanawhachen for our "mug shots."

I have heard it said by a number of people (in a most complimentary manner by the way) that the students at GSC possess an unsophisticated innocence. A recent speaker said this of the students and as proof he mentioned the "God is Dead" controversy that is prevalent on many larger campuses but has not been given a second thought by GSC students. Let's face it, this is no compliment. In essence he said that we did not bother to think (one way or the other) about a concept that has disturbed the imagination of thoughtful students all over the US. Is this true?

What we must do is change our image of innocence which has come to mean apathy. Students that I know and who have befriended me are intelligent adults-not sweet little children. We must learn to have ideas and to express them without fear of having our wrists slapped and being confined to quarters.

The library, besides being a pretty good place after all, is a topic of conversation that has become a bore. It's time for a change.

Morals Discussed

Dear Editor:

It should be noted that in the past, Glenville State College has supposedly striven to impart high moral standards, not the least of which is common decency. However, on the morning of Tuesday, Nov. 14th, directly across from the office of President D. Banks Wilburn, an image appeared which might cause one to wonder about the ethics of both students and faculty.

It is understood that all signs appearing on campus must be approved by the Office of Student Affairs. It is difficult to believe that the Office would approve the obscenity which stands, or rather lies in front of the auditorium, as an advertisement for the current production of the drama department. The madwoman of Chaillot must indeed be mad to believe she can appear on campus in the altogether.

If Glenville State College wishes to cultivate an honorable reputation, its students must take more pride in campus appearance, and as a result, influence the opinions which others form of GSC.

The General Education Development Test will be administered at Glenville State College on the following dates for the 1967-68 school year. Persons interested in taking the test should register with Kermit Kinder, Director of Guidance, Glenville State College for more information. The examination will begin promptly at 8:00 A. M. and examinees should report to the Office of the Director of Guidance in the Administration Building.

GED tests are administered under the supervision of the West Virginia State Department of Education for the purpose of measuring educational equivalence at the high school graduation level. Results of the tests are used primarily as a basis for issuance of a high school certificate to qualified non-high school graduate adults who wish to continue their education at an advanced level.

Applicants must be 19 years of age or past the age they would have been had they remained in high school until they graduated and must have been out of school for a period of one year preceding their application. Since the High School Equivalent Diploma is issued by the State of West Virginia only, all applicants must be bona fide residents of West Virginia or last attended school in West Virginia.

It must be understood that the diploma issued is not a regular high graduation exercise. They are not graduates of any particular high school.

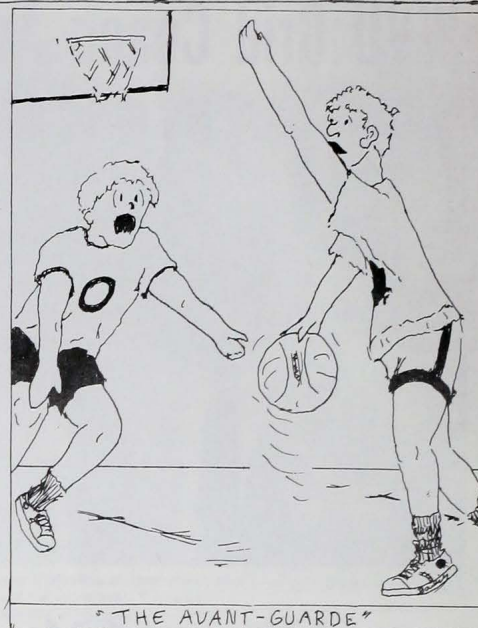

Included in the test are five areas of examination: correctness and effectiveness of expression; interpretation of reading materials in social studies; interpretation of reading materials in natural sciences; interpretation of literary materials; and general mathematical ability.

Applicants are required to make a standard score of 35 or above on each of the five areas or an average standard score of 45 on all five tests. For admission to state colleges, non-high school graduates must achieve a score of 40 on each of the five tests or an average standard score of 50 on all five tests.

At the Glenville State College center there is a $5.00 fee for the GED test. The re-test fee is $1.00 per test. Reports of the testing are completed in four copies. One copy is prepared for each of the following: state department of education; the applicant; college registrar (if applicant is seeking college admission), and this test center.

All inquiries for information or specific questions regarding the GED tests at this center should be referred to Kermit L. Kinder, Director of Guidance and Counseling, Glenville State College, Glenville, West Virginia. Telephone 462-7361, Ext. 238. Test dates for the 1967-68 school year include: Nov. 27, 28; Dec. 13, 19; Jan. 22, 23; Feb. 26, 27; March 18, 19; and May 27, 28.

Don't forget the annual Shrine Basketball Tournament to be held in Weston at the Lewis County High School Gymnasium on November 22 and 25th in which the Glenville State College Pioneers will be participating.

Happiness Is ? ? ? ? ?

Dear Editor:

Did you ever stop to wonder why Glenville is called "the Friendly campus?" I believe that I have found some of the reasons for the student body being so happy. I believe that:

Happiness is paying a book-fine (which you didn't owe in the beginning) at the library and receiving a "smile" from the librarian.

Happiness is seeing a good movie at the "Glenville Theater" after the dance has been cancelled because the band didn't show up.

Happiness is sitting in the Student Union on a Friday or Saturday night with the other two students who couldn't find a ride to the "Cove."

Happiness is being able to find a parking space in the college parking lot when you are already late for class.

Happiness is receiving "bean soup" for lunch after standing in the cafeteria line for over an hour.

Happiness is the security of knowing that the housemother has her ear against your door.

Happiness is being able to stand on the street corner with your girl friend until the late hour of eleven o'clock on Friday and Saturday nights.

Happiness is the friendly service given by the cashier at the Conrad Restaurant when trying to get a check cashed.

Happiness is receiving a copy of the Kanawhachen only to find that your picture isn't in it because you didn't have the two dollar portrait fee.

I feel that a lifetime of happiness is awaiting the student attending Glenville State College!!!

Letter from the President

Thanksgiving is a quality of living which should be a daily experience. During every moment of each day, there are happenings for which we should give thanks, but unfortunately too frequently we do not attach the proper significance to them. Often we take for granted the wondrous beauty of nature, the warm greetings of acquaintances and friends, the concern for our welfare which those who love us have. The ability to learn, to perceive, to solve problems in every area of human knowledge is a wondrous gift that each of us has though the capacity varies widely among persons.

To relate further that for which there should be much thanksgiving seems unnecessary. So as we pause formally to give thanks this Thanksgiving Day, let it be a time of recognizing more clearly and surely that the essence of thanksgiving is to be found in the understanding and the worth that we attach to the experience of daily living.

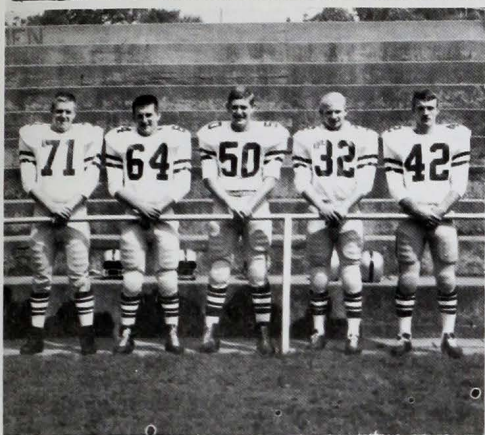

Cordially yours,
D. Banks Wilburn
President

Teacher's Exam Scheduled Here

New dates for the testing of prospective teachers are: February 3, April 6, and July 6, 1968.

Results of the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

College seniors preparing to teach school may take the National Teacher Examinations on any of the three different test dates announced by Educational Testing Service, a nonprofit, educational organization which prepares and administers this testing program.

Franklin Hughes, William Piercy, Thomas Herold, John Flint, and Stan Boyles finish college football careers as the grid iron men battle Salem to a 20-20 tie.

Pioneers, Salem Tie 20-20; Season Ends With 5-2-1

Glenville came from a 20-7 deficit to tie Salem 20-20 Thursday, Nov. 9 and ended their season with a 5-2-1 record.

Midway through the first quarter, Salem took possession on their own, 20 after a Bill Frost field goal attempt had failed. Chris Hawkins took a Dave Montague pass on his forty and galloped the remaining 60 yards unmolested to put Salem on the scoreboard. Homer Weekley's kick gave Salem a 7-0 lead.

Glenville took the following kickoff and after an exchange of punts, gained control on their own 20. Two plays later Stan Boyles fumbled, giving Salem control on the Pioneer 28. John Gentzler ran four yards to the 24 and Chris Hawkins took a double reverse to the Pioneer one-yard-line. Cornell Smith went over on the next play, giving Salem its second score of the first period. Weekley's kick was blocked by John Flint, leaving Salem with a 13-0 edge.

Glenville took the ensuing kickoff and started play on their own 22, but a personal foul moved the ball back to the 15 as the first quarter ended. A 23 yard pass moved the ball to the 38. On the next play, QB, Mark McPhail, kept the ball and ran 36 yards to the 25. Three plays later McPhail kept on the "Flea-flicker" play and scored from seven yards out. Frost kicked the PAT, and the score stood 13-7.

Glenville's kickoff traveled only 10 yards to the 50, but the Pioneers forced the Tigers to punt. Three plays later Jeff Julius intercepted a McPhail pass on the Glenville 30 and a 15 yard penalty gave the Tigers a first and ten on the GSC 15 yard line. Five plays later John Gentzler ran six yards for the score and Weekley booted the point after giving Salem a short lived 20-7 lead.

Mick Hartley ran the following kickoff back to the 30, and on the first play from scrimmage, Bill Frost made a beautiful catch of a McPhail toss and rambled 70 yards for the counter. Frost's kick was wide to the left and Salem led at half-time 20-13.

Glenville got the only score of the second half shortly after the start of the fourth quarter. Tom Haught ran one yard for the TD and Frost kicked the all-important extra point, leaving the final score 20-20.

Glenville had 15 first downs to Salem's 11. The Pioneers outscored the Tigers 195 yards to 153 and outpassed them 142 to 72.

Five Seniors End Grid Play

Five men who played in the season's finale with Salem have finished their collegiate football careers. These men, most of whom were regulars for all four of their years of eligibility, are certainly an outstanding example of the athletes at Glenville State College.

John Flint, graduated from Glenville High School with the class of '64. Because of an eligibility dispute, he could not play football his senior year in high school, but still was determined to play college ball. His determination paid off and he became the regular defensive safety. His biggest thrill was scoring the winning TD in the West Liberty game, although he claims he had no idea of what happened until it was all over. John is majoring in physical education and social studies and wants to become a coach. He is a member of TKE Fraternity.

Stanley Boyles graduated from Buckhannon-Upshur High School in 1964. He was a halfback on the 1963 AAA State Championship team. He is majoring in physical education and social studies and intends to go into teaching and coaching. He resides on Walnut Street with his wife, Delores, also from Buckhannon.

Bill Piercy hails from Weston, having graduated from Weston High School in 1964. Bill has been a regular guard for four years and was one of this year's captains. Bill is studying physical education and business education and intends to become a coach. Bill is a member of Theta Xi Fraternity.

Tom Herold from Winfield is a physical education and social studies major and also plans to coach. Tom has been a regular center the past two years. He is a member of Theta Xi Fraternity.

Frank Hughes graduated in 1964 from Walton High School. He is studying math and physical science, but intends to pick up a minor in physical education so that he may coach.

Part two of the basketball officials examination will be held at Lewis County High School in Weston on Monday, December 4th at 7:30 p.m.

For further information contact Mr. Moore at Normantown High School.

As I See 'Em . . .

by Ken Cutright

Coach Bill Hanlin, in his second year as head mentor, has certainly thrown a new light on GSC football. The Hanlin men, who finished 5-2-1 this year, were a fine group of young men that gave the school something of which to be proud, because they as an individual and a unit were proud.

There were many moments when they showed they could come through with the big play, and in doing so, gave the fans a great deal of excitement.

In the West Liberty game, freshman monster man Dave Bonette, in his first varsity game, broke through and blocked a punt, which Joe Painter picked up and ran unmolested into the end zone for the score. Later in the same game, with the score 13-13 and the time gone, senior John Flint picked off a pass and weaved his way 65 yards for the winning touchdown.

In the W. Va. State game, sophomore Tom Haught ran for 108 yards and caught Mark McPhail passes for 134 yards in leading Glenville to a 19-7 win for their second win of the season. Flint and Jim Sprague each got an interception while the defense held State to 100 yard total offense.

The next encounter was with Tech, and senior Stan Boyles gave the Pioneers their only score with a 22 yard run off left tackle for the 7-0 victory. Jim Sprague returned a punt for an 86 yard touchdown, which was called back on a clipping infraction.

Against Wesleyan, Jim Sprague ran 47 yards with an intercepted pass for a touchdown, only to have it also nullified. Haught ran 20 yards for a score and, as he did all year, made a beautiful grab of a McPhail bomb for a 47 yard touchdown which was called back.

Joe Smith gave Fairmont coach "Deacon" Duvall some anxious moments when he faked a punt and rambled 29 yards for a first down, before the Pioneers dropped their first game of the season 21-0.

Sophomore Mike Deem, in the encounter with Bluefield, grabbed a pass and literally bullied over two defenders and ran 50 yards before being caught from behind. In the same game, Tom Haught, broke a tackle and galloped 52 yards enroute to his best day, gaining 174 yards.

In the final game with Salem, split end Bill Frost, with double coverage, made a catch between both defenders and went 70 yards for the score.

The defensive backfield, composed of John Flint, Jim Sprague, John Noland and Dave Bonette, picked off 14 passes, seven by Sprague.

The appreciation of the school for the fine season was best shown by one of our young female faculty members. After the game, she showed her enthusiasm by firmly planting a kiss on each of the coaches.

Dr. Miller Commends Cast, Dr. Manuel Medina Speaks Director on Season's Opener On Spain November 27-28

By Dr. Miller

Jean Giraudoux's THE MADWOMAN OF CHAILLOT, an ironic and satiric moral fantasy, opened the current season on the Glenville State College stage last week for a three-day run.

Appropriately enough, MADWOMAN introduced Glenville playgoers to the contemporary French dramatist, Jean Giraudoux, while at the same time marking the first dramatic production of the new director, Mr. Stewart Beach, instructor in speech and dramatics.

Leading a cast of twenty-eight, Kathy Casto capably and understandably played the leading role of the Madwoman of Chaillet, "Countess Aurelia." In Paris, the "Countess" was played by Madame Moreno, and in New York, the London actress, Martita Hunt, played the "Countess" in a long run.

What Does the Play Mean?

What does Giraudoux seek to tell his audience in THE MADWOMAN OF CHAILLOT? Wolcott Gibbs, reviewing the play for the THE NEW YORKER, while raising doubts as to whether or not fantasy can be reduced to orderly synopsis, asserted that MADWOMAN demonstrates that the rich and the wicked of the world, the parasites of society, are destroying the world and that the poor and virtuous are helpless against them.

Giraudoux seems to be saying that the insane are peculiarly well-qualified to deal with the machinations of the ungodly, there being a certain affinity between lunacy and criminal ambition. In the drama by Giraudoux, a marvelously added old lady, with an old-world charm that is queenly, succeeds in exterminating a dozen or more of the conniving schemers almost singlehandedly.

As one might expect in a fantasy, the events of the drama are preposterous and complex. At times throughout the play, the onlooker is never quite certain as to whether Giraudoux is sincere and serious or whether he is holding sentiment, virtue, and honor up to ridicule.

Play is Well Cast and Produced

For his first dramatic presentation as director, Mr. Beach, it must be said, had indeed brought forth a well-wrought urn, a play that was capably produced and directed. The cast was well disciplined and lines spoken with unusual clarity and force.

The opening set, showing the Paris street, cafe was imaginatively and colorfully created. The costumes of the off-beat characters who people the opening scene, "Therese," played by Patsy Herold, "Nicole," Patricia Deal, and "Paulette," Kathy Roten, authentically suggest a left-bank world.

From last season's BECKET, Gary Farnsworth as the "Prospector," Kenneth Coleman as the "President," and English Instructor, Albert Rauch, as the "Baron," played the opening scene with sufficient subtlety as to make their Machiavellian scheme for hoodwinking the public in a mad plot to make Paris into an active oil field half believable and half farce.

Would anyone actually invest his life savings with such unsavoury characters? Probably not. But, on the other hand, as Giraudoux correctly suggests, people do.

Wit and Sentiment Intermingled

In the sentimental attraction between "Irma," played by Sherry Erwin, and "Pierre," enacted by Dick Dawson, Giraudoux espouses his hope that in a world of scoundrels and crooks, love can bloom and flourish. At the same time, Giraudoux comically shows that the inept rookie policeman has not learned to cope with an attempted suicide by reading his handbook of regulations.

While Giraudoux's oversize cast of twenty-eight provides a wide diversity of characters, the great masses of actors on the stage at times poses a real problem for the director. How can one arrange upwards of twenty persons on a stage in order to create the illusion of reality?

Giraudoux has ample precedent for his "Countess." The Fairy Godmother solves all problems. Don Quixote jousts at windmills. Shakespeare, in the imaginary trial in King Lear in which Lear tries his two daughters, has established a long precedent in which goodness strikes back at evil.

In an age of highjinks in high finance, in an age of economic press agents and public relations men, in an era of money madness, Giraudoux's moral fantasy does indeed have something to say that is not only relevant to our time but is painfully true.

Upperclassmen will remember and freshmen will discover the learning opportunities provided by the Danforth Lecturers. Manuel Medina - Ortega, Adjunct Professor in the School of Economics and Political Science of the University of Madrid, will be the first Danforth Lecturer on campus this year.

Dr. Medina will give a public lecture next Monday Nov. 27, at 8:00 p.m. in the auditorium on "Spain and the Western Political Community" and Tuesday, Nov. 28, at 10:00 a.m. a convocation address on "The 'New World' and the 16th Century Spanish Lawyers." In two class meetings at 1:25 on both days of his visit Medina will discuss "The Common Market and Spain: Problems of Association" and "Present Trends in Spanish Political Thinking."

The visiting lecturers program under which Dr. Medina comes here was initiated in 1957 by the Arts Program of the Association of American Colleges and is supported by a grant from the Danforth Foundation. Its purpose is to assist colleges in their efforts to strengthen liberal education. Each year several men and women of outstanding intellectual stature from this country and abroad are made available to colleges and universities. They remain on campus from two days to a week.

Dr. Medina was born in the Canary Islands. He attended the University of La Laguna in the Canaries, and received a bachelor of laws degree. He received the doctor of laws degree (summa cum laude) from the University of Madrid in 1961, and the following summer held a fellowship of the Hague Academy of International Law. Under a Fulbright Fellowship in 1962 he also earned the master of Comparative Law degree from Columbia University in New York.

The major fields of Dr. Medina's research and publication have been International Law and International Organization. His dissertation was on "The Administrative Tribunal of the United Nations." He was for three years a collaborator of the Review of the Political Studies, and is on the board of editors of the Review of International Law and the Spanish Superior Council for Scientific Research. He has written eighteen articles on subjects as varied as political asylum, fishing rights, the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, and Edmund Burke. He has also made translations into Spanish of significant editorials and articles from the English and German languages.

In the past ten years, Dr. Medina has taught in the School of Economics and Political Science, and the School of Law, of the University of Madrid. He also has been a lecturer at the Escuela de Funcionarios Internacionales, which trains foreign service officers. He is program director of, and lecturer in, the Institute of European Studies, Madrid Center. The Institute is concerned with American undergraduate studies abroad.

Chess anyone? Glenville State College was recently contacted by the Director of the Morris Harvey College Student Union concerning a chess match between the Morris Harvey Chess Club and students at Glenville.

Any students interested in participating in a match or in forming a chess club on our campus should contact Albert Carlson, College Librarian.
