The revue will also include additional numbers of students talent.

Try-outs for "Epiphany" have been announced by William Monk, director. They will be held on Feb. 27. Monk stresses that roles in the production are not limited to members in the speech department and urges everyone to read for a part. "Epiphany" will be presented as part of the night of one-acts to be held at the beginning of third term on March 27. The play will be presented as GSC's entry in the West Virginia Inter-Collegiate Speech Festival in Jackson's Mill, to be held April 23, 24, 25. ## SGA Makes Plans For Feb. Concert

The second annual concert sponsored by the Student Government Association will be presented on Thursday, Feb. 8. Two hour-and-a-half shows will feature THE VOGUES, the Outsiders and Jack Day's five-piece band.

THE VOGUES are one of the finest contemporary singing groups today always with the NOW sound which means when they sing you really know. They have appeared on the Upbeat Show, Mike Douglas, Dick Clark, Hullabaloo, American Bandstand and many other national television shows.

Members of THE VOGUES are Bill Burkette, Don Miller, Hugh Geyer and Chuck Blasko. Their personal manager is Elmer Willett. They come originally from Turtle Creek, which is near Pittsburgh, Pa. They are avid sports enthusiasts and love to hunt and fish. Their hair is short, because they like it that way.

The lead baritone of the VOGUES is Bill Burkette, 24, who is tall (6' 2"), dark, and handsome. He studied voice privately for nine years.

Don Miller, 24, is also a baritone. He studied music at Indiana State College.

Hugh Geyer, 24, is first tenor and Chuck Blasko, 24, is second tenor. He is the 'curly-haired playboy of the group.

The word "vogue" means many things - fashions, styles, modes, popularity, but to Bill, Chuck, Don, and Hugh, it means class, quality, and "with this generation." THE VOGUES wear blue silk worsted suits, tuxedos, and on hops and informal shows, they like to wear sweaters and slacks.

THE VOGUES have quite a bit to remember, including "You're the One," "Five o'clock World," "This Magic Town," and "The land of milk and Honey." They enjoy any type of entertaining "just as long as we're appreciated."

The two shows will be presented in the GSC auditorium at 7 and 9 p.m.

Tickets will be sold in advance. The advance price is $2.50. Door price will be $3.00.

'Philly-Loo-Byrd' Band Organized

By Sue Ranson

A new band on the GSC campus, the Philly-Loo-Byrd, was organized a short while before Homecoming last Fall. This five-piece group adopted its name from the myth of the World War II jet fighter of the same name.

The philosophy of the group is to play as many popular songs as they can in a week. "If we can't play all new songs, we play some old favorites that will satisfy the majority of people," commented drummer Ronald Nichols.

The Philly-Loo-Bryds includes vocalist Thomas Carter who is a junior speech major from Pennsboro. On bass guitar is a sophomore from Clay, Cecil "J. B." Butcher. The two leaders are Gerald Ramsburg on lead guitar, a junior physical education major from Jane Lew; and organist Ross Polk, a senior business administration major from Ravenswood. Ronald Nichols, playing drums, is a sophomore business major from St. Marys.

The new group doesn't favor the psychedelic movement in its entirety, but they do play some psychedelic numbers.

They have played for GSC mixes, THE Closed Ball, Glenville High School, 'Sherry's in Ravenswood, 'Snyder's in Buckhannon, and Parkersburg Catholic High School. Because of their busy schedule, they try to practice at least two hours per day.

"Two groups on campus is good. It keeps both groups striving to be better and to come up with original ideas," said one of the Byrds. Their immediate future plans include working Atlantic City, N. J. this summer.

Five finalists will be chosen from this election and the 1968 Cover Girl for Glenville State College will be chosen by an impartial committee.

Last year, Rebecca James, Linda Lockard, Patricia Guzzie, Patricia Urbas and Barbara Whiting were finalist. Glenville's representative was Patricia Guzzie who was this year's Homecoming Queen and is a senior majoring in Home Economics.

Salem Tigers Win 94-79

Freshman Tom Binegar and veteran Willie Burston led the Salem Tigers to a 94-79 win of the visiting Glenville Pioneers. Binegar tossed in 27 and Burston 18 to up Salem's record to 10-6 as Glenville dropped to 7-8.

The Tigers started hot, jumping to a 18-4 lead in the first five minutes of the game to build a lead that Glenville could not overtake. The Pioneers pulled to as close as eight at 62-54 but could not get closer before falling 94-79.

Junior Jim Archer led Glenville with 24 points and Jack Robinson and Steve Spicer got 20 and 16 to pace the Pioneers.

J. Robinson Sets Record

Jackie Robinson, standout center for the Pioneers, was named last week's WVIAC Player of the week. Commissioner George Springer made the announcement following Robinson's 46 point total output against Concord and Fairmont.

According to the latest NAIA releases Robinson is 24th in the nation in scoring with a 25.3 average, falling from 17th, where he was last week. ## As I See 'Em . . .

by Ken Cunniff

The game of basketball today is a far cry from its early beginnings at Springfield College where John Nesmith invented the game as an interlude between the football and baseball seasons. The game was originally played in an old barn with two baskets at each end. The game was primarily a game of keep away with as many as 50 players on each team. When the ball went in the basket, the team got a point, but the game had to be stopped to get a ladder to retrieve the ball. Later, somebody decided to cut the bottoms out of the bucket (How long did it take to figure this out?), but then fights developed as to whether or not the ball actually went through, hence the net.

Today basketball is one of the world's biggest spectator sports, with 53,000 watching Houston defeat top ranked UCLA 71-69 in the Astrodome Saturday night. Elvin Hays hit for 39 points, 29 in the half to lead the way for Houston. What makes a player give the full measure of himself in a game that only a few years ago was a free for all in a barn? What makes some teams with apparently equal talent so different?

In the WVIAC any team could beat any other on any given night. The array of talent on one squad is not that much better than on another. The main reason the conference leaders are the conference is psychological. If two teams are nearly equal, the one who wants it most when game time comes around will win it.

The leader in the WVIAC, West Liberty has a special way in which to "psyche" players for a game. Before every game the players drink a glass of green nutrient they call "green joy juice." This gives the players a psychological lift, and it apparently works because they are thus far undefeated.

At State, the number two team, the players listen to soul music before the game, and come out high as kites. There are many different ways to do this, but for a team to be a constant winner they must be ready.

As has already been mentioned, in the WVIAC any team could be leading the conference if they could have the desire instilled into them.

Sidelights

The Glenville-Morris Harvey game has been re-scheduled for Feb. 7, the night before the new semester begins.

Friday, Jan. 26, Glenville meets W. Va. State at Glenville. Any students who could possibly stay to support the Pioneers should.

In order to be eligible to attend this course, participants must have a senior lifesaving card.

Those interested in the course should contact Mrs. Chico in advance of the first class meeting.

Wesleyan Bobcats Handed Ninth Straight Defeat, 81-72

Glenville jumped to an early lead and held off a determined Wesleyan effort Friday night to even their record a 7-7. Wesleyan tied the game several times early in the first half and pulled within three points late in the game giving GSC a score before finally falling 81-72.

The Pioneers jumped to a quick 7-2 lead before Wesleyan tied the game at 9-9 and 13-13. Glenville then pulled to a 26-16 advantage midway through the first half and it seemed as though the Pioneers were on their way to an easy win. Wesleyan then hit for five straight counters to narrow the lead a 26-21 and it remained about that, with GSC holding a 39-32 halftime lead.

Wesleyan came on strong in the second half narrowing the lead to 41-39 at the start of the second half. The score was close again at 44-42 before Glenville began to build a lead that reached ten points at 61-52 and nine at 71-62 with 5:32 remaining.

Wesleyan then began to gnaw away at the GSC lead moving to within three at 75-72 with only 2:78 left to be played. In the remaining time GSC held the Bobcats scoreless to coast to the 81-72 victory.

Jack Robinson, Steve Spicer and Jim Archer lead the Pioneers with 20, 16 and 11 points respectively while Butcher with 20 and Sommerville with 10 led Wesleyan.

Series

Heart attack is America's deadliest enemy, claiming about 500,000 lives yearly. While it strikes mainly in middle-age, or later, the time to start safeguarding against heart attack is early childhood, when life-long habits are formed. Good health and heart habits begun now can reduce later risk of heart attack.

Intensive research is going forward to find the caused of hardening of the arteries, which sets the stage for heart attack. Until this knowledge is available, physicians generally agree that the individual can do much to improve his chances of living longer by minimizing certain factors.

By setting a good example, parents can not only encourage their children to form risk-minimizing habits that may last a lifetime, but at the same time project their own hearts.

Mrs. Phyllis Marks, Poet, Is Folk Festival Singer

By James Bull

The annual State Folk Festival held each summer in Glenville would not be the same without the unique talent and radiant appearance of Mrs. Phyllis Marks. Mrs. Marks, a native of Sand Fork, is presently a resident of Tanner and is employed by the Glenville State College cafeteria.

For the past 14 years Mrs. Marks has added a touch of excitement by performing her folk singing, reading of poetry and telling of "tall tales" during the three nights of the festival. The audience always enjoys hearing Mrs. Marks tell the folk tales that were passed down to her by her mother and grandmother. She is the person at the festival who tells tales

Basic suggestions for parents include: 1. Get the latest heart-saving facts and share them with your children. Your Heart Association has free literature on the role played by the heart and circulatory system in sustaining human life. Give children the facts that they should know about heart attack, stroke, rheumatic fever and other diseases which attack this system.

2) Stress the importance of normal weight. Obesity often begins in youth. 3) Form good diet habits by serving more unsaturated fats (mostly vegetable oils) in place of saturated (mostly animal) fats, and fewer goods rich in cholesterol. 4) Encourage them to keep physically fit through regular exercise, and, if possible, make regular and moderate physical activity a family affair. 5) Teach children that smoking is bad for health. Do not smoke yourself. Promote a type of self-discipline which will encourage the child not to start smoking. 6) Make doctor check-ups a family routine.

Risks of heart attack, of course, increase with age. Males are more vulnerable than females. Some families seem to be more predisposed to heart disease than others. These three factors—age, sex and genetic inheritance—cannot be controlled. But you, as parents, can control the factors already mentioned and thereby improve your risk.

As mentioned before, good dietary habits are extremely important to children. In planning meals, mothers should go in the true folklore tradition. Her performance would not be complete without the singing of "The Devil and the Old Woman," "The Maid of Dundee" and other songs which have never lost their popularity through the years.

Much of her poetry appears in Dr. Patrick Gainer's "100 Folk Songs" which can be purchased at the Country Store in Glenville. Her poetry has appeared in the West Virginia Hillbilly and a feature article has been centered around her in the Appalachian South as a result of her performance at the folk festival.

Mrs. Marks has appeared on the 'Katie Doonan Show' on WCHS-TV in Charleston and on 'Dialing for Dollars' on WSAZ-TV in Huntington. She is a president of the Tanner Women's Club and has given many speeches at their regional meetings as well as performing for church, school and other local events. She is known by the local residents for her imitations of Minnie Pearl and Grandpa Jones.

Mrs. Marks and her husband Jesse are the parents of four children, of which the youngest son, Lafie Lynn, is a freshman at Glenville State College.

The Folk Festival is West Virginia's annual visit into exploring past folk lore and traditions. Each year the young and old alike come to Glenville to participate in the arts and crafts of a bygone era. Mrs. Marks is one of the many people who is dedicated to keeping and maintaining our state's heritage.

beyond the simple and obvious requirement of providing enough food to sustain growth and energy requirements.

Equally important is the need to encourage maintenance of normal weight, and to establish dietary habits which tend to lower cholesterol levels in the blood stream. According to informed medical opinion, lower cholesterol levels retard the onset of atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, a disorder which helps to set the stage for heart attack and stroke.

Anything the homemaker can do to get children started in the proper dietary habits can be of great advantage in the adult years when they become increasingly vulnerable to heart attack. But the degree of vulnerability can be changed by minimizing the risk factors. (To be continued in a later issue)

Representatives Attend Hawk's Nest Meeting

On Dec. 10, 11 and 12, 1967, Glenville State College participated in a statewide meeting of colleges and universities held at Hawk's Nest Lodge, Anstead, W. Va. The purpose of this meeting was to discuss and decide to what extent college students should be involved in administrative activities on campus.

Representing Glenville were: Dr. Alfred Billips, Mrs. Jean Wright, Mrs. Goldine Hickman, Mary Ann Crissman, Kenneth Smith, Patricia Paugh and David Keefer.

Special guests of the West Virginia Board of Education were Mr. Richard Johnson, vice-president of the University of Kentucky, and his legal advisor, Mr. Joseph Burch. Also in attendance at this meeting were some of West Virginia's leading educators.

Since the University of Kentucky is outstanding in student involvement, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Burch were invited to explain the strong and weak points of their code of ethics and how it could apply here in the state. Most colleges in the state use the theory of In Loco Parentis, where the school takes the place of the parent. This is an outdated theory and the main discussion led to findings ways by which to replace this system.

Other important points receiving attention were the contractual theory under which no contract can make one give up his rights, and the due process theory where no expulsion can take place until a hearing equal in fairness to those of a court of law has taken place. One aspect of these theories in law, states that what is equal for one applies to every person on campus. Through the greater student involvement on campus committees, ideas have been put forth by the students in trying to bring about a better relation in active participation in administrative affairs. One idea expressed was that there should be student involvement in every phase of college life from the administration level to individual teaching in the classroom.

Each college, in accordance with this meeting, hopes to gain a broader insight in establishing a better interaction between the students and the administration. Glenville has taken steps toward this policy in planning a new code of ethics book. The student involvement and planning committees have already become a functioning part of our campus.

Interviewers Slate Visits

Twelve representatives from businesses and school systems from West Virginia, Ohio, Maryland, Virginia, and California will visit the Glenville State College campus from Wed., Jan. 24 to Feb. 29, to interview prospective employees.
