SEA Float Wins First; Sculpture Dedicated

By Thomas E. Thomas
Homecoming '68, the 35th in Glenville State College history, was quite an "impact." Beginning on Thursday with the Wolfgang Flor dedication, and the Clark Hall dedication on Friday, the week-end then progressed into the traditional activities which included the "snake dance", pep rally, parade coronation, ballgame, alumni dinner, and concluded with the homecoming dance.

Robert F. Kidd Library was the recipient of the "Prodigal Son," a wood sculpture created by Mr. Wolfgang Flor. The formal dedication ceremony included a history of the sculpture by Miss Virginia West, President of the Faculty Administration Organization. This organization presented the "Prodigal Son" to the library. Dr. D. Banks Wilburn, President of Glenville State accepted the sculpture on behalf of the college. Mr. David Gillespie, Librarian, then accepted the sculpture on behalf of the Robert F. Kidd Library.

Mr. Flor, a native of Silesia, who resides in rural Upshur county then explained the meaning behind his work. According to Flor, the "Prodigal Son" depicts both age and youth and the struggle for knowledge gained only through experience. The sculpture also expresses the uselessness of knowledge if one cannot determine beauty and reality for himself.

Following Flor's interpretation and informal reception was held in honor of him and his wife.

"This is the greatest honor in my professional career." These were the words Mr. H. Y. Clark on Friday Oct. 18th as the second dedication in as many days was conducted on the Glenville State College campus. This was the day of Clark Hall, the New Education Building, was officially dedicated in honor of Clark, a former Professor of Education at Glenville.

Dr. D. Banks Wilburn presided over the dedication ceremonies which were conducted in the college auditorium due to inclement weather.

The keys to Clark Hall were presented to W. Robert Abbott, President of the West Virginia Board of Education by Mr. Carl E. Stephen, general contractor in the renovation of the former Robert F. Kidd Library. Mr. Abbott then presented the Keys to Dr. Billy E. Ross, Chairman of the Division of Education and Psychology who accepted the building on behalf of the college. Both the presidents of the Student Education Association, and Kappa Delta Pi, educational honorary were called upon to formally recognize Clark Hall.

Next, the Honorable Hulett C. Smith, Governor of West Virginia presented the dedicatory address. In this speech the Governor stressed the need for an equilibrium between students, faculty, and educational facilities. The Governor then told of the need to pull away from the "status quo" in education and experiment with new ideas.

Next, Dr. Woodrow W. Morris, Chairman of the Department of Education at Marshall University paid tribute to Clark. Dr. Morris is a Glenville alumnus and former student of Mr. Clark.

Others taking part in the dedication ceremonies were: Rev. D. Edward Bayer, Pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church of Glenville, Rev. B. Blake Breitenhirt, Pastor of the Glenville Presbyterian Church, Billy B. Burke, member of the West Virginia House of Delegates, and Boyd C. Collins, mayor of Glenville. Present in the audience was the family of H. Y. Clark, and James Sprouse the Democratic candidate for the Governorship of West Virginia.

The Glenville State College Choir under the direction of Mark Aamot and the college band directed by Ronald Ross also participated in the dedication.

On Friday evening the traditional homecoming activities began with the "snake dance," and pep rally. Then on Saturday morning 54 units were led in the largest homecoming parade ever by honorary parade marshal H. Y. Clark. Participating in the parade were such distinguished guest as democratic gubernatorial candidate James Sprouse and his republic-

Scholarship Is Offered

One scholarship in medical technology is available from the Scholarship Committee of the West Virginia State Society of Medical Technologists, Inc. The following requirements are demanded of any person making application: the applicant must be enrolled in the pre-medical technology curriculum. All applications must be signed, notarized, have three references and be accompanied by an official transcript of grades. Applications for the coming year must be returned before Dec. 1, 1968. The value of this scholarship is $250.

Applications for this scholarship may be secured from the Financial Aid Office. Anyone interested should do so immediately.

Voters Decide Road Issue

The following information was paraphrased from a paper issued by the committee of West Virginians for Better Roads concerning the $350 million Road Bond Issue which will be on the 1968 ballots in West Virginia.

Nov. 5, a $350 million Road Bond Issue will be on the election ballot in West Virginia.

The funds realized from the sale of these bonds are to be utilized in the construction of highways throughout the state.

In addition to providing the state's matching share for the federally assisted Appalachian Highway Program, funds will be available to accelerate the state's construction for primary and secondary roads.

One of the prime objectives of the proposed bond issue is to insure that West Virginia will be able to match the federal funds available for the Appalachian Highway Program. West Virginia has been authorized $262 million in federal funds for the construction of the highways.

At the present matching rate of 50-50, with the state receiving $10 million a year, it would take 26 years to accumulate the federal funds.

With the passing of the bond issue, the state would be able to obtain the federal funds at a 55-45 ratio meaning that the state's matching funds would be approximately $220 million.

The remaining portion of the bond issue is to be utilized for the priority construction of other needed highway improvements throughout the state's primary and secondary highways. Also, should more federal money for the Appalachian Highways become available in the future, the bond issue will give the state the capability of meeting the necessary matching requirements.

The State Legislature will be the approving authority for issuance of the proposed bonds. The State Road Commission will recommend an annual highway program which must be approved by the Legislature before issuance.

Additionally, a law passed in 1967 requires an annual audit of Road Commission expenditures by an independent auditing firm which will report to the Legislature.

Most of the state's Appalachian Highway System, in order to meet with federal regulations, will be four lanes. The regulation which requires this says that a highway will be built to handle the volume of traffic anticipated in the design year, which is either 10 or 20 years in the future. Traffic projections for over 80 per cent of W. Va.'s system demand four lanes.

Because of West Virginia's mountainous terrain and the need for longer sight distance for passing when only two lanes are built, there would be only a small savings in total cost and a tremendous decrease in service capabilities, if more four lane

Students Boycott Cafeteria

On Thursday, Oct. 23, and Friday, Oct. 24, 1968, the students of Glenville State College joined together in a boycott of the college cafeteria.

This boycott was not a spur-of-the-moment decision. It was planned group effort by the dormitory residents and other students who eat in the cafeteria.

Students are not boycotting the cafeteria for unjust reasons. The object of a cafeteria should be to plan nourishing meals but there is nothing nutritious about an evening meal with a menu which includes pizza, frankfurters and beans, soup, or grilled cheese sandwiches as the main course.

This poor planning of the meals however was only one reason for student unrest. Other reasons include receiving boiled potatoes which are 3/4 raw, meat which is too tough to chew, milk which is warm, going four days without butter, meals which have been prepared days in advance, lack of variety (such as serving eggs 26 days out of the month for breakfast), not to mention bugs or other insects which been found in the food, the same dessert every day, especially cake served stale four days in a row, among many others.

A reason for the poor planning is the lack of a regular dietitian at Glenville State College. A foods committee is in function but can hardly be fair when the director of food services is a member, along with three other administrative officials who do not eat meals regularly in the cafeteria.

Those students who live in the dormitory must pay for the meals in the cafeteria. Although most contend that they could eat for less than $11 per week off-campus.

This boycott has been contemplated for approximately one year and the administration should not take it lightly. Although GSC can not compare to Ohio State University or the University of Southern California, student unrest is becoming a problem everywhere. This is the year to meet students on controversial issues for they no longer can be ignored.

Letters It's Suppertime

Since the beginning of the new school year, upperclassmen and freshmen have been waiting for the food in the cafeteria to improve. However, in spite of much patient waiting, nothing has improved!

Several complaints have been heard on campus by those who try to suffer through these disastrous meals. More than once the food is cold, and so greasy it tends to make digestion a major chore. Bugs have been found in the Fig Newtons, and strings of some unknown origin in the meatloaf have been spied. One girl states, "So far this year I've found ashes, fingernails, hair and bugs in my food. This is positively disgusting!"

In one home economics class a girl was asked to keep a list of all the food she consumed and to evaluate the nutrition. Much to her dismay and pleas: of understanding, the teacher failed her report. It seems the nutrition (???) received in the cafeteria was not substantial to adequately supply the needs of a normal student. This is fair???

The Saturday noon meal served during Homecoming weekend was very good, but do we have to wait for dignitaries to be on campus before we receive a decent meal? I hardly think so!

A variety in the menu is also desired by many. Somehow the thoughts of eating ham three or four times a week is not appealing to most students.

It's time something, anything, is done to improve the meals we now must literally force ourselves to eat. Let's stamp out Tums, Rollaids, and prevent ulcers! Make the meals something to look forward to and not something to dread!

Student Demands More Spirit

Oct. 19 was the day, and the time was two o'clock. This was a Saturday afternoon and the weather was perfect. The sight was a small town in the middle of the state of West Virginia. The name of the town was Glenville and the occasion was Glenville State College's annual Homecoming football game.

Glenville State's football team was currently riding a four-game winning streak. It's longest in several years, and GSC was in second place in the West Virginia Conference. After defeating a big Norfolk State team and defending NAIA champion Fairmont State in that string of victories.

Then "The roof fell in!" Bluefield State's Big Blue's handed Glenville its first defeat of the season. Using a strong passing game and taking advantage of a broken fake punt, the Big Blue's beat the Pioneers by a score of 17 to 10. The loss was heartbreaking to the many Glenville supporters who had become accustomed to a victory on Homecoming Day.

Whether it was the offense or the defense of Glenville that was lacking is quite irrelevant now because the damage has been done. What is of importance to all is the pride and spirit of the previous four weeks that seems to be lacking.

It was obvious to all that there was something missing. It may have been, seemingly, lack of pride of the team or lack of enthusiasm of the cheerleaders, but both were overshadowed by the students themselves. Maybe the team took Bluefield a little too lightly, but I believe that the students went to see just by how great a margin Glenville would win. There was not the same cheering that had been heard at the previous games nor was there that feeling of pride in the stands that there was before.

No one person or event can be labeled as the deciding factor in the defeat. Had there been the usual backing of the fans the outcome may have been different. People say that it's the team that has to do the scoring, but it's the backing of its fans that helps.

Glenville has an outstanding football team and deserves the complete backing of all those who claim to be affiliated with Glenville State College.

I only hope that in its remaining three games that Glenville, team and fans, come through with more pride, spirit and enthusiasm than ever before seen on Glenville's campus.

The team needs us as fans and we need them as representatives of Glenville.

Article By W. Roush

The October, 1968, edition of Lapidary Journal, a national gem cutting magazine, has published an article, "Gemstones from Ohio River Gravel Banks," written by Louise and Walden Roush, director, Community Development and Research Center. The article names and describes the semi-precious stones which can be found along the Ohio River, their uses, and the process of collecting and polishing them.

The Roush report states that centuries ago glaciers moving down from Canada pushed mountains of quartz, granite, and other stones to the Ohio River Valley grinding many of them into small pebbles. Excellently suited for baroque (irregularly shaped stones), they can also be used to make beautiful cabochons (stones cut convexly and polished, but without facets.)

The quartz family yields most of the stones suited to be polished. The gravel banks contain quantities of flint and chert, and occasionally pebbles of feldspar can be found. Several pieces of serpentine have been discovered by Woodrow Smith of Huntington.

After searching the gravel banks to collect stones ranging in color from white to pinks and greens to dark brown, the pebbles are placed in a moving device called a tumbler. With the aid of tin oxide, 10 ounces to 10 pounds of stones, the tumbler polishes the pebbles.

With the tumbler running 24 hours a day, the process of polishing takes one week. At the end of this time the stones are thoroughly washed and run for four hours in two cups of sawdust and one cup of detergent.

The final and most pleasant step is sorting the polished stones and choosing those to be used for jewelry.

The gravel beds in which these stones lie are also enriched with fossils. Fish teeth, coral, reeds and bones can be found with relatively little effort.

Mr. and Mrs. Roush became interested in the lapidary hobby while visiting relatives in Seattle, Washington. They now describe themselves as "avid rockhounds."

STATE PROBLEMS VIEWED

Mr. Jack Albert and Miss Shirley Starcher attended the annual Governor's Conference on problems concerning the state, held in Charleston on October 14-15.

The group met to present the final copy of the problems of the state to Governor Smith. The reports on transportation, communication, education, and social problems were formally accepted in a floor discussion.

Albert was chairman of the Transportation and Communication Committee, while Miss Starcher was a member of the Education Committee.

The reports will be forwarded to the next governor, along with the legislature and all state senators and congressmen. It will then be bound into book form and distributed to all state libraries.

Tom Haught gains yardage against Bluefield.

Bluefield Spoils Homecoming

Freshman quarterback George Archer dove over from the one yard line with 39 seconds remaining in the game to give Bluefield a 17-10 upset victory over the GSC Pioneers.

Glenville started the scoring after a Carl Williams punt gave Bluefield the ball on their own 5 yard line. The first play yielded nothing and on the second play Dale Sheets picked off a Bluefield aerial on the eight and dashed to the end zone for the score. Frost's kick gave Glenville a 7-0 lead with thirty-one seconds left in the first quarter.

Bluefield took the ensuing kickoff and was forced to punt. Glenville started marching and went to the Bluefield 32 yard line before Steve Seals fumbled giving Bluefield control on their own 32. Two plays sent them back to the 29 then Gary Bailey hit Preston Watkins with a 71 yard scoring pass. The kick made it 7-7 with 10:31 left in the half.

Later in the half, following Jim Sprague's interception of a Bailey pass, Bill Frost kicked a 43 yard field goal to give Glenville a 10-7 halftime lead. Sammy Stuart kicked a 43 yarder in the fading minutes of the third quarter to tie the game at 10-10.

Neither team really threatened the other's end zone until during the last minute of play. A bad snap on an attempted punt gave Bluefield the ball on their own 25. On the next play, Archer hit Watkins on the 5 and he gained to the one before being stopped. The next play Archer scored giving Bluefield the victory.

Defensive back Mike Devol scores on an intercepted Westminster pass.

GSC Loses 28-13

Glenville State College jumped out to a 13-0 lead before bowing to a never die Westminster squad 28-13.

On the first play of the second quarter Frank Pfaff hit Bill Frost with a 43 yard scoring pass to break a scoreless first period dead lock. Bill Frost added the PAT giving Glenville a 7-0 lead with 14:52 remaining in the half.

Two and one-half minutes later defensive halfback Mike Devol picked off a stray Greenaway aerial and streaked 55 yards down his right sideline for the second GSC score. The PAT attempt was blocked and GSC held a 13-0 lead.

Not to be denied, Westminster, after an exchange of punts, took the ball on its own 24 and marched 76 yards in 13 plays to pay dirt. Greenaway capped the drive with a 10 yard option run for the score. John Ebersherger kicked the point after and Glenville held a 13-7 halftime lead.

The second half was all Westminster. Art Tate blocked a Carl Williams punt and Westminster took over on Glenville's 35 yard line. Four plays later Eric Gunn went over from seven yards out. Ebersherger's kick gave Westminster a lead they never relinquished at 14-13.

Early in the fourth period Bob Sahli picked up a Frank Pfaff fumble and ran 10 yards to paydirt. The kick gave Westminster a 21-13 lead with 13:01 remaining to be played.

One and a half minutes later Rich Hancox grabbed a Pfaff miscue on the 45 and ran unmolested for the score. The kick gave Westminster the final score and the game ended at 28-13.

Westminster held the total offense advantage at 175 yds. to 142 yds. and 13-9 first downs.

Frosh Tie FSC 7-7

The Glenville State College freshman team came from a 7-0 half-time deficit on October 14, to score a fourth quarter touchdown and tie a staunch Fairmont freshman squad 7-7.

The GSC freshman team is coached by Robert Summers with assistant coaches Jerry Rea and Don Swisher.

The first half of the game was a battle of the defensive units with the Fairmont freshmen continually threatening to score. But a rock-rib GSC defense led by Rob Lipscomb, Don King, and Robert Reid along with the rest of the forward defensive wall thwarted the FSC offense. Fairmont threatened to score late in the first period but a fumble recovery by Robert Reid stopped the threat and gave the GSC Freshmen the ball on their own 14 yard line. After failing to make a first down, Carl Williams booted a 52 yard punt. The game then turned into a defensive battle until late in the second quarter when the Fairmont freshmen got the ball on their own 32 yard line and began a drive. The FSC freshmen drive which was aided by three off-side penalties, moved to the GSC Freshmen team's eight yard line. After gaining two yards on an off-tackle play, the FSC freshman quarterback threw a six yard touchdown pass to his end and the FSC freshmen took a 7-0 lead. On the ensuing kickoff, Danny Wessner returned the ball to the Fairmont 48. GSC's Ed Suddah with six seconds left in the half dropped back into the pocket and threw a long pass on the three yard line, but the half ended and the threat died with it.

The second half began, and the GSC freshmen defense refused to yield first down yardage.

The third quarter was a defensive battle with each team exchanging punts and gaining little yardage. Then, as the fourth quarter began the FSC freshmen had just received a punt on their own 40, but there was a fumble and freshman end Rodney Jones fell on the ball. The GSC quarterbacks Eddie Suddah, Steve Swann and Chuck Means which moved the ball to FSC four yard line. The GSC freshman team did not score until the fourth down when quarterback Ed Suddah behind excellent blocking of center Gary Jones, guard Jim Lowe and the rest of the offensive line, pushed the ball four yards for GSC score. Chuck Means kicked the extra point to tie the game at 7-7 with 13:14 left in the quarter. The GSC Freshman defense held against strong GSC freshmen drives with a couple of key interceptions by Carl Williams and Ron Harmon. With little time remaining in the quarter, the GSC freshmen began a drive but time ran out and the game ended at 7-7.

GSC Veterans Can Organize

A letter was sent to Mr. Beryl Langford, Director of Admissions and Registrar by Mr. Gilbert M. Henry, President of the West Virginia University Veterans Club concerning the status of veterans in institutions of higher education. Mr. Henry reports that the number of veterans on our West Virginia college campuses has been rapidly expanding since the inauguration of the "Cold War GI Bill." The purpose of his letter were threefold:

1. To establish the existence of a Veterans Club on all West Virginia college campuses.
 2. To join these collegiate veteran organizations to establish a state charter in November, 1968 at Jackson Mills, West Virginia.
 3. To assist those interested veterans on your campus in forming a local organization.
- If there is sufficient interest among the veterans on our campus to establish a local organization, this may be done. Anyone interested in forming such an organization should contact Dr. A. T. Billips, Dean of Student Affairs.

Joint Coke Party Begins ASA Rush

The excitement of homecoming has not had time to settle for the AEA, as they begin rush for upperclassmen. Rush began Sunday evening, Oct. 20, with a joint coke party of all the sororities. The Alpha Sigs entertainment consisted of a comedy skit on good grooming for college women. The skit was performed by Gertrude Hobbeswitzer, alias Kathy Roiten, her model Alexus, alias Carol Hauman and the hands portrayed by Judy Sanford.

The small ballroom was the setting October 22, for the first party of ASA. Entertainment was provided by Jackie Pitts who Vicki Umstead, treasurer, explained financial costs of pledging and the present balance in Nu Lambda Psi's treasury. The party closed with various songs being sung by the group. Nu Lambda Psi would again like to thank Tau Kappa Epsilon for the arrangement of blue carnations for the party.

Oct. 28 marked the date of Nu Lambda Psi's second party. This was the last party of the informal rush period.

Nu Lambda Psi's float for the homecoming parade this year preceded the procession of the freshmen class and was called Freddie the Freshman. It was carried by one of the newest additions to the group, the Daisy Express.

Pledge Period Begins Anew

The brothers of Omega Kappa Phi are pledging seven upperclassmen this fall semester. Some expectations of the pledges include, providing a closed party for the active members, two money making projects and participation in all fraternal as well as college events.

Bob Groves, pledgemaster, has devised their pledge education program with the hope that the pledges become true Greeks.

Mr. George Brown, field Governor for Sigma Phi Epsilon, met with some brothers to discuss colonization. He stated that he would be back soon and that some representatives from the area would meet and discuss the situation with the fraternity.

The brothers of Omega Kappa Phi wish to extend a thank you to Mr. Jesse Lilly for the use of his truck during the homecoming festivities.

The brothers also wish to extend their deepest sympathies to their advisor Dr. Alfred T. Billips on the loss of his father.

Gov. Dedicates Hall

Honorable Governor Hulett C. Smith was the primary speaker at the dedication ceremony of Clark Hall, formerly the old Robert F. Kidd Library, which was held on Friday, Oct. 18, at 3:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Administration Building.

The ceremony, honoring Mr. H. Y. Clark, professor of education at Glenville State College from 1927 until his retirement in 1955, and for whom Clark Hall is named, was scheduled to be held on campus in front of the Hall, but was instead moved to the Administration Building due to inclement weather.

Here, in part, are some of the Governor's remarks.

Dr. Wilburn, Mr. Clark, members of the faculty and student body, ladies and gentlemen:

It's a great pleasure for me to visit Glenville College again. This is my third visit to your campus during my term as Governor. Two years ago, I had the privilege of delivering the commencement address here, and I was proud then, as I am now, of this fine institution of higher learning—one of the fastest growing schools in our state.

We also had the privilege of meeting with residents from this area during one of our early "Government-to-the-people" programs, when you permitted us to set up our offices on your campus for a day.

This program of meeting with the people has been successful, and I want to thank Dr. Wilburn and all of you for making it possible for us to bring state government closer to the people in Glenville.

But today marks a special occasion for this college and for the man we honor.

I believe you have performed a great service in naming this building Clark Hall, because in so doing, you have brought additional honors to H. Y. Clark, who has made a significant contribution to the growth of education, not only at Glenville State College but certainly statewide as well.

It is evident that during the years Mr. Clark taught at Glenville and was active in teaching extension courses and serving in numerous educational positions for the State . . . that he made legions of friends.

Many of those friends have come here today for this ceremony, and I join them in saluting such a leader in education."

The Governor went on to say:

"President Kennedy once said that 'a successful and educational system requires the proper balance, in terms of both quality and quantity, of three elements . . . —students, teachers, and facilities.'"

Such a balance can be achieved only through continuing assessments of our successes, our failures and our goals.

We must, in other words, dispel the old myths about what an educational institution is.

And we must always be willing and ready to try new concepts of education, and not cling to the belief that everything we've done in the past is good enough . . . and that we can be satisfied with the status quo.

The world is not content with the status quo today.

Neither are the world's students.

And I submit, neither can the colleges and universities be content with status quo education.

We must innovate, within the system, and dare to be different, as long as a different innovation contributes to the educational process.

We hear today people saying that our educational systems should be run by the states alone . . .

. . . that our federal government is too big.

. . . that education is purely within the State's prerogative.

But it is certainly a weak nation that cares nothing about how all of its parts are performing.

And certainly a partnership effort to reach our educational attainments is more efficient than to have each state going its own way, without help or consolation from others.

. . . without benefiting from the experiences of others. . .

. . . without drawing on the knowledge of others.

The federal government cannot do it alone, of course.

And we do not want the federal government to do it alone.

In conclusion, the Governor said this:

We must decide whether to continue with tradition, or whether to innovate . . . whether to direct our attention to old methods or new approaches . . . whether to be content with the status quo or advance our communication and teaching methods.

We must, in short, show the world just how broad our visions are for education.

Today, with the dedication of Clark Hall, Glenville College is saying something to the world.

You are demonstrating that you want to grow . . .

. . . that you want to innovate . . .

. . . that you want to expand educational opportunities.

I commend you for it.

And I know that in the years ahead, Clark Hall will have, passing through its doors, thousands of students grateful for such an opportunity . . .

And within its walls, new and innovative ideas in education will be expounded and in the end, all of West Virginia will benefit.

French Students Form Organization

The newly-formed French Club met on Wednesday, Oct. 23 to plan steps toward becoming a formal organization. A constitution committee was named to draw up a constitution to be approved by the Student Government Association. A committee to nominate a slate of officers was also appointed.

The organization is being formed to give French students an opportunity to use French in informal discussion and conversation.

At the October 23 meeting, Mr. John Muir showed slides which he took while in France this past summer. Some of the slides were the Place de la Concorde (Concorde Square), Notre Dame Cathedral, La Place de la Bastille (Bastille Square), Les Invalides, and Le Louvre.

The total number of full-time in-state students attending Glenville this year is 1336 compared to last year's 1320.

The list of out of state students

To aid students, especially freshmen, the library staff is now wearing light blue jackets. They are worn by the shelvers and persons working at the circulation desk. The purpose of these jackets is to differentiate library staff members from students and therefore any confused person will know whom to ask for assistance.

This has been a great accomplishment since Mr. David Gillespie, Librarian, has been working for these jackets for some time.

for this year shows the same total enrollment as last year. This distribution is as follows: Connecticut, 2; Delaware, 2; Florida, 3; Illinois, 1; Maryland, 11; Michigan, 1; New Jersey, 10; New York, 7; Ohio, 59; Pennsylvania, 18; Virginia, 10. This gives a total of 121 full-time out of state students, and 3 part time.

Also this year, Glenville has 2 foreign students and 128 part time and extension students.

The total enrollment for this year is 1587 compared to last year's high of 1602.

Out of state students who would like to have the names of other students from their state for the purpose of obtaining transportation to and from their homes, may call the Mercury Office for the information.

4-H Gives Help

The Glenville Collegiate 4-H Club has created a new committee, consisting of five standing members, the purpose of which is to give needed assistance to the 4-H clubs of Gilmer County.

The members of the committee are: Larry Jackson, Marilyn Dague, Jean Field, Huguette Thomas and Jerry Pursley.

The Collegiate 4-H Club, in conjunction with National 4-H Week, held the week of October 6-12, arranged the Student Union Bulletin Board, which included the 4-H Club Pledge, 4-H emblem, and 4-H Club pins. In addition three of the members, Larry Jackson, Carolyn McConihay and William Hairston attended the All-Star Conference, held the latter part of September at Jackson's Mill. The All-Star is the highest award given to any 4-H member in the state of West Virginia.

Road Bond Issue Awaits Decision

highways were not constructed. Thus, four lane highways, where needed, cost a little more, but provide a much better traveling medium for the public in terms of both safety and convenience.

In other words, now highways are planned and constructed to serve future traffic needs, not to serve present day traffic patterns.

An exhaustive study by a leading authority on highway financing of West Virginia's highway program in relation to funds available was conducted last year.

The study resulted in the conclusion that the only practical way for West Virginia to take advantage of the opportunities to accelerate its highway program was through additional bond capacity. Because of sharply rising construction costs, however, a savings can be made by getting work under way now rather than waiting and building as tax revenues come in.

In addition, many benefits would be reaped by state's citizens from highway improvements to be financed by the proposed issue. Vehicle owners will realize direct savings on the cost of gasoline, tires, maintenance, and depreciation. Freeway access will be provided to more areas, creating wider market areas and increased job and recreation areas.

Public services, such as police activities, will be more mobile. Motor vehicle accident rates will decline. Road construction expenditures will be converted into income for many state citizens.

The net result would be that the interest cost of 4½ percent over a 25 year period, totaling approximately $200 million, would be offset by the benefits which would continue to flow into W. Va. long after the initial cost of the planned improvements is forgotten.

It is impossible to finance this system out of current revenues. Without the bond money, the highways will not be built.

This also is the only chance for West Virginia to take advantage of the federal funds. If these federal funds are not matched by the state, the money will be redistributed to other states which have matching funds for highway construction.

According to the Shepherdstown Independent, Governor Smith said that the proposed issue boils down to the proposition of to build roads or not to build roads.
