Gillespie Suggests Plans To Increase Funds For Library

by Jack Albert

Would you like to attend a state college which boasts the best undergraduate library in West Virginia? Can you imagine studying with an open stack library with the best-equipped library program in the state? You can and you don't have to leave this campus.

Head Librarian David Gillespie is initiating, with the assistance of students and administration, a program that would up-grade and better facilitate the Robert F. Kidd Library.

Robert F. Kidd, the newest campus complex, presently has at the student's disposal, periodicals, reference materials, newspapers, and volumes for study and pleasure reading. Included in the library program is a micro-film set-up and a new audio-visual system, entailing recently acquired video-tape production units and tapes, turn-tables and recordings.

The library can continue to function at a meager level on appropriations from the state legislature, but this is far too little to operate a sound library program.

Gillespie has outlined a program that will be presented for a student vote sometime before Christmas break. This program would call for increasing semester fees by $12.50 or less than 25 cents per day.

If the increase were approved by the student vote, it would, in no way, diminish the legislative appropriation.

This effort becomes a stake in the future for GSC students, an attempt to dissolve the complaint last spring about the inexpensiveness of Glenville State College, and the inferior education afforded students.

You cannot afford to oppose this program.

FBI Jobs Available For GSC Students

An FBI representative visiting Glenville State College, made known some information of interest to students who for some reason may be leaving Glenville, whether their leave be permanent or temporary. Messengers, receptionists, teletypists, typists, and stenographer's jobs are now available with the FBI. An applicant need only be 16 years of age, and have average high school grades. The fact that he was a student at GSC fulfills the latter requirement.

A GS-4 rating, paying $5522, may be obtained if the applicant can type 45 w.p.m., take 80 w.p.m. dictation and have a certain proficiency in spelling and English. Fingerprint work pays from $4300 to $4900. In two years this can increase to $6500.

Interested? See Dr. Paul Nagy, or his secretary, Mrs. Brenda Swisher, at the office of Career Planning and Placement.

JAMES DEAKIN, hailed as a shrewd observer of the national scene, will speak Oct. 30 at 10 a.m. The White House Correspondent's topic for the convocation will be "Report From The White House."

Students Begin Rehearsal For Thomas Production

Students are now rehearsing for the next production of the drama department, Under Milk Wood. Brenda Cottrell, Trava Dotson, Anna Phillips, Judy Shoemaker, Betsy Wingfield, Ken Coleman, John Dittlow, David Grapes, Bill Lewis and Darrell Wilmoth will each play several of the 63 characters in the play.

Under Milk Wood had its first performances on radio in New York. The author, Dylan Thomas, completed the play in 1953 shortly before his death. He called it "a play for voices." Costumes and settings will be kept at a minimum. All actors will be dressed alike and benches will be used for scenery. The actors will communicate to the audience mostly through voice and body movement.

The play is set in a small Welsh town, and is an account of a day in the life of the townspeople. The action begins while the town is asleep with dreams and ghosts; it moves through the boisterous day, and closes at dusk the next night. Randall

Production of the musical "Carousel" has been cancelled until further announcement.

Deakin To Address GSC Student Body

James Deakin, White House Correspondent for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, is scheduled to speak in the third convocation of this year tomorrow, Thursday, October 30 at 10 a.m. in the Pioneer Ballroom. His topic for this convocation is entitled, "Report From the White House."

Mr. Deakin is the author of two well-known books dealing with the political atmosphere of Washington.

Students Should Report To Respective Advisors

Delmer K. Somerville, Dean of the College, stated that many of the instructors have expressed concern about their advisees. Reportedly the advisors would like to meet with their advisees, especially freshmen and transfer students. A few new students, particularly the ones who pre-registered, have not met with their advisors as of this year. These students should arrange a meeting as soon as possible with their advisors.

Somerville also added that all students need to plan next semester's schedule because pre-registration will be held again second semester. The dates will be announced at a later date.

G.E.D. Test Is Scheduled On Campus, October 27

The National G.E.D. Test will be given on Oct. 27 and 28 at 8:30 a.m. in the Louis Bennett Lounge. This test enables those residents who are 18 years of age to acquire a high school diploma, if their class has already graduated.

The Lobbyists, published in 1966, deals with a study of the influence exerted on Congress by various pressure groups. It was widely reviewed and well received by such publications as the New York Times, The Christian Science Monitor, The Washington Star, The Kansas City Star, and the Philadelphia Bulletin, which said the book "belongs in the library of every student of government." Lyndon Johnson's Credibility Gap, another book written by Deakin was heralded by such publications as the London Economist. Deakin also has written extensively on the presidency and other aspects of national affairs for Esquire, The New Republic and many other periodicals.

In his 15 years of reporting from Washington, Mr. Deakin has covered four presidential campaigns and the terms of four presidents: Dwight D. Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, and Richard J. Nixon. The late President Kennedy once referred to him as "a distinguished correspondent for one of our most distinguished newspapers." Deakin has also covered various lobbying campaigns during his period in Washington; these include the American Medical Association's fight against the Medicare legislation, the savings and loan industry's battle against interest and dividend withholding, and the legislative controversy over natural gas legislation. Mr. Deakin also covered the much-publicized Bobby Baker hearings and the Fulbright investigation of foreign lobbying. He was one of the reporters who broke the story of Sherman Adams' intervention with government agencies on behalf of Boston businessman Bernard Goldfine. The series of stories by Deakin in the Post-Dispatch was instrumental in producing the Congressional hearings that led to Adams' resignation as President Eisenhower's chief aide.

Mr. Deakin lectures at American University, and he is also a regular lecturer in the Civil Service Commission's in-service career training program for middle-level government officials. All who have heard James Deakin speak (including famed Washington columnist Marquis Childs) hail him as a shrewd observer of the national scene.

A Crash Course?

This semester, approximately 125 students began their student teaching in county elementary schools, junior high schools and high schools all over the state of West Virginia. These students have spent on an average of 15 or 16 years going to some type of school and most of those years were spent in learning facts and figures. And, ironically, they learned the art or skill of teaching in the short span of seven weeks. In seven weeks, they were taught how to teach, something they will be doing for the rest of their lives and something they are, ideally, qualified and certified to do. It would appear, then, that more attention should be paid to the profession of teaching in the college curriculum, and that less emphasis should be placed on the accumulation of facts and figures.

First of all, many of the elementary freshman required courses should be eliminated, or it should be arranged so that exceptionally talented or intelligent students could waive these classes by taking an examination. In this way, students could spend less time learning about something they will never need or will never use in the teaching situation. For example, if a freshman art major were to spend more time learning the dates of Napoleon and less time on the methods of oil painting, he may eventually neglect his major and spend more time and energy memorizing useless facts. This would lead to failing grades in his major field. Also, elimination of freshman courses by the waiver system would give the student a greater opportunity to become more learned in his major field of study.

Since the majority of students who enter Glenville State College seek a teaching degree, all classes should be more oriented toward the teaching situation. Lesson plans should be a great part of every class. For example, the teacher should after presenting a lecture on modern math in the elementary level, ask for class discussion on the teaching of that particular subject in the class room, and how each student in that room would present it in an elementary grade.

The professional block, then, would be dedicated to the technical aspects of teaching, such as grade reports, attendance sheets, and matters of this nature. Particular situations in the teaching profession would also be focused upon if this method were to be employed.

Also, more education classes, other than Education 201 and 202 should be incorporated into the curriculum. These added courses would cover the particular situations which a teacher is bound to encounter in the class room. Added classes of this nature would also relieve some of the tension of having to learn all of this material in the short span of seven weeks.

In these ways, the experiences which may come up in the teaching situation could be introduced to the college student gradually and learning how to teach would not appear to be such an overwhelming, impossible task.

Mercury Staff Plans Guest Column

The staff of the Glenville Mercury hopes to begin a guest editorial column with world controversial affairs as its main topic of discussion. We would like to determine the interest in such a column at the present time. If you would be interested in contributing to this column, which would feature individual opinions by different writers every week, please let the Mercury staff know by either writing, calling or visiting the office. This column would include the opinions of students, staff and faculty. Hopefully, this column will present different news of events other than those of local interest.

We hope to appoint or select a person to write these columns from the list of volunteers given to us. If you are interested, let us know. Do your part to improve the Mercury.

GSC Student Replies To 'Didja Ever' Column

Dear Editor:
Did YOU Ever:

Realize that the students at GSC are actually smarter than you give them credit for being?

Consider that advisors have classes to teach and outside work to do?

Realize that there are parking restrictions on campus?

Put faith in the SGA that they are trying to better our campus?

Think that maybe the Mercury is not offering its full opportunities to the students?

Wonder why flies tend to go where they can find the most food?

Consider that new sidewalks are being built to replace those "wooden frames" along the steps at LBH.

Consider if bulletin boards were filled, obscenities could not be seen to be read?

Find another place other than the dormitory lounge to take your parents or date?

Wonder why parents can't find the trust in their daughters to allow them to select their own hours?

Try to figure how many students would attend a musical at GSC?

Consider that weekends wouldn't be so deserted if something worthwhile were going on?

Consider that if students in the block had less assigned work, fewer cram sessions, played fewer card games, and went to bed a little earlier, that their eyes wouldn't be as bloodshot?

Consider that maybe the students at GSC are actually happy and content?

Ask a teacher why he grades in the manner he does?

Consider the cost of living has risen and the value of money has declined?

Realize a pre-planned fire drill may save lives in the event of an emergency?

Wonder why no one does anything to earn the respect of merchants?

Realize that orientation could be beneficial to Freshmen?

I really do wonder where you get your ideas for editorials.

John Sizemore

I have just read an article about a very strange idea outlined by a London doctor. It seems that a British Health Official is urging scientists to develop a pill that would delay sexual maturity in young people. Dr. J. V. Walker wants this delaying action present until students are graduated from college when they can begin to earn a living themselves. The doctor wishes to have us act as we did between the age of six and puberty, "very happy." He wants aggressive adult instincts to be latent.

Maybe this is not such a bad idea. There may be more studying, and no one would have to worry about dormitory hours, (no one would care). There would probably be a cut in college enrollment people wouldn't be looking for mates until later. One would assume that there would be less to talk about in the Student Union. The MOSS (Mothers Opposed to Sex in School) or whatever that group in Kanawha County is called wouldn't have to demonstrate anymore, they wouldn't even have to answer any 'embarrassing' questions from children, just 'embarrassing' questions from adults. We would only have to worry about aggressive adults, and that's not so bad—we're doing that today.

Support the Grape Boycott for Migratory Workers.

I would urge the SGA to support the War Moratorium, and to set up a committee to conduct the programing for the November effort, or to issue a statement regarding the movement, and as a result, "constitute a medium for expressing student opinion on matters of general interest..."

Remember, Tomorrow is the first day of the rest of your life—Give a damn!

Watch for the up-coming contest for a free trip to Zap, North Dakota.

To my understanding the SGA has begun work on the much needed constitutional revision. You have my support SGA.

Reid Elected; Four Pledged

Four men were initiated as pledges into Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. Michael Cutright, Rodney Engle, Bob Lipscomb, and Roger Miles became pledges on Oct. 13 in the Multi-Purpose room.

Mike Cutright is a sophomore social studies major from Glenville. Robert Marshall is Cutright's big brother. Rodney Engle, a freshman English major, is from Grantsville. Engle's big brother is Roger Simon. Robert Lipscomb chose John Marra for his big brother. Lipscomb, a sophomore from Winchester, Va., is a physical education major. Roger Miles, from Renick, is a freshman in business administration. Miles' big brother is Roger Cutright.

At a recent meeting of the Greek Council, frater Oliver Reid was elected president. Frater Merlin Trickett is TKE's first semester representative to Greek Council.

Home Ec. Students Eligible For Loan

Lois Gill, president of Phi Delta Phi home economics sorority, reports that applications for the sorority's loan fund are being readied for mailing in November. These applications will be sent to local high schools for senior girls interested in enrolling in home economics at GSC next fall. Girls presently enrolled as home economics majors are also eligible.

The loan pays for one semester's tuition and fees and must be paid back upon graduation. The loan fund was established during the 1968-69 school year but will be given for the first time this year.

The money received from the recent clean-a-room-raffle, sponsored by the sorority pledge class, will be used for this fund. Judy Law, Women's Hall resident, was the raffle winner, and this win entitled her to a free room cleaning.

Plans are being made for the November social meeting which will feature Jack Albert as speaker. Mr. Albert, who spent part of the past summer in Africa, will speak on social customs and family life of the African people.

Plans for a money making project to be held later in the year are also being made by Phi Delta Phi members.

The Learning Materials Center is located on the ground floor of the library. During the school week this area is opened from 8-12 and 1-4.

MRS. NETTIE TURNER recently assumed duties as Housemother at the Theta Xi House.

TX Boasts "A Real Mom" In New Active Housemother

"She's more of a 'Mom' than any boy could expect to find away from home," and, "She's really like a mother, not a housemother," are the feelings expressed by the Theta Xi's toward Mrs. Nettie Turner, who has recently assumed the position of Theta Xi housemother.

Mrs. Turner, who is in reality a "REAL MOM," can boast of a family of nine children—five daughters and four sons—30 grandchildren, and 12 great grandchildren. Also, when she is not with the Theta Xi's, she maintains housekeeping at 101 Whit-Ave., Glenville.

Before becoming housemother for the Theta Xi's, Mrs. Turner spent 18 years cooking for the children at Normantown Elementary School. She now spends most of her time except one day each week and one weekend per month with the Theta Xi's. Among her duties as housemother are cooking the evening meal and chaperoning at parties which are held at the house. Said one of the Theta Xi's, "She is a true cook's cook!"

It seems though that she is much more than a cook and chaperone. One day last week some of the 14 men who live in the house were planning a 6 a.m. squirrel hunting expedition, but Mrs. Turner, mother as she is, allowed no one to leave until she had seen to it that they had all had a good breakfast.

In addition to taking care of the boys, Mrs. Turner spends five days each week participating in the Community Action Program working as one of Gilmer County's "Foster Grandparents." In working with the underprivileged children at Sand Fork, she spends two hours each morning with one child and two in the afternoon with another.

When asked how she felt about working with the boys, Mrs. Turner stated, "I love them all. They are all wonderful." Apparently the men of Theta Xi and Mrs. Turner have officially formed a "Mutual Admiration Society."

Drs. Nelson, Deal Join Science Dept.

Two new instructors, both of whom hold their Ph.D. degree, have been added to the faculty of the science department, according to Dr. John Chisler, Chairman. They are Dr. John Nelson and Dr. D. Robert Deal. This brings the number of doctorates in this department to three, the highest number in any department on campus.

Dr. Deal is originally from Dayton, Ohio. He attended Capital University in Columbus and received his B.A. in history there. After teaching on the secondary level for three years, Dr. Deal attended Miami University and received his M.A. in botany. Dr. Deal earned his Ph.D. in plant pathology at Cornell University in Ithaca, New York.

Dr. Nelson comes from Missouri and holds a Ph.D. in zoology. He spent one and a half years at the University of Missouri and three and one half years at North Central Bible College in Minneapolis where he received a B.A. in Theology. Dr. Nelson later acquired a B.S. degree in biology education. He received his Ph.D. at the University of Southern Illinois in Carbondale.

Subject Of Existentialism Is Topic Of Series Lecture

The Westminster Fellowship is presenting a series of speakers on the subject of EXISTENTIALISM. Everyone is invited to come to these meetings which will be held on succeeding Thursdays at 7:30 p.m.

The first speaker is Dr. William Simmons. His subject will be "Introduction to Existentialism." This meeting will be Oct. 30.

Miss Jane Powell will speak on "Existential Psychology" on Nov. 7.

Rev. Blake Breitenhrt will speak on "Christian Existentialism" on Nov. 14. It is hoped that this bewildering subject, which can be traced from cafes and night clubs in Paris and from the left bank of the Seine to similar spots in New York's Greenwich Village; a subject which is projected through literature, art galleries, and the theater; a subject which is today seriously discussed on most college campuses; a subject which runs from Socrates and the Old Testament to contemporary times, will interest GSC students.

Meetings will be held in the Fellowship Hall of the Glenville Presbyterian Church.

Sponsors of the group are Mr. and Mrs. James Hilgenberg.

Students Will Take Trip To Annual Arts Meeting

Penn State University will be the destination of Mr. Charles Scott, Professor of Art, and two or three advanced ceramic students on Nov. 20. The purpose of the trip is to view the third annual Ceramic Arts Conference being held on the University's campus Nov. 21-22.

Special features of the conference will include lectures by outstanding American potters, slide sessions of the participant's work, and a "Pot Latch." This is an arrangement in which each conference member puts a representative piece of his own work into a "pool" where it is exchanged with others.

Mr. Scott thinks the trip will be a "worthwhile adventure" both for himself and his students.

ASA Holds Rush Party For Prospective Pledges

Alpha Sigma Alpha Sorority participated in the joint rush party held Sunday, Oct. 26, in the ballroom. Their individual theme party, a "Ouiji Board" party, was held Monday, Oct. 27, in the Old Louis Bennett Lounge. Ellen Funk, field representative from national headquarters in Springfield, Missouri, has been helping the Alpha Sigs with rush.

Sorority sisters from Marshall University, Rho Rho chapter of Alpha Sigma Alpha, visited with the Gamma Kappa chapter, Saturday, Oct. 25.

The Greek "Mixing Bowl" game was held Tuesday, Oct. 28. Alpha Sigs played Delta Zeta for the Championship.

There will be a meeting of the Alumnus-of-the-Year Committee at 9 a.m., Nov. 8, in room 102 of the Pioneer Center. This committee is in conjunction with the Glenville State College Alumni Association.
