CRC Sponsors Thanksgiving Convocation

The Campus Religious Council is making plans for the annual Thanksgiving Program to be given Tues., Nov. 25, at 9:30 p.m. in the GSC auditorium.

Reverend John Grandstaff of the St. Marks United Methodist Church in Charleston will be the featured speaker. Mr. Ralph Gay will give the invocation, and Mr. Mark Aamot, with the GSC choir, will provide the music.

The Thanksgiving holidays begin on the GSC campus on Wed., Nov. 26 at 12 noon and last until 8:00 a.m., Mon., Dec. 1. An effort should be made by all to see and hear this Thanksgiving program before going home for the holidays.

The CRC is also planning a pancake breakfast to be held one morning during the Lent season.

Serving as officers of the organization are: president, Shirley Shepard, a senior elementary education major from Mineral Wells; vice-president, Lorraine Seckman, a junior elementary education major from Vienna; secretary, Mary Joseph, a junior elementary education major from Elkins; and publicity chairman, Chris Spears, a sophomore social studies major from Walker.

The Council, which is made up of representative college students from the various churches of the community, meets the first Thursday of each month at 4:00 p.m. in the Wesley Foundation Building.

GSC Chambers Singers And Collegian To Perform

The Glenville State Chambers Singers and Collegian will present a concert Sunday evening, Nov. 16, in the auditorium beginning at 8:00 p.m. The Chamber Singers will perform a Bach Cantata - No. 80, "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God", and a work by Schubert.

The Collegian is a new group consisting of 8 singers performing old or little played music. Sunday evening they will perform a 15th century setting by Isaac and two 20th century pieces by Effinger.

A small baroque ensemble will accompany the Cantata, four recorders will join the singers on the lament and the Effinger piece calls for an oboe accompanist.

The concert choir and the other vocal organizations at GSC have several programs scheduled for November and December. The choir will sing at a music convention to be held here on November 18, and again at the dedication of the newly renovated Trinity Methodist Church in Glenville on Nov. 23. November 25, will mark the Campus Religious Council's Thanksgiving Service in the auditorium at which time the choir will again sing. On December 14, the concert choir will present its annual Christmas concert and at that time a new girl's chorus will also sing. The Madrigal Singers Dinner

GSC served as host for the 19th Annual Little Kanawha Regional High School Drama Festival for the 12th consecutive year.

H. S. Drama Festival Held On GSC Campus Nov. 5

Wednesday, Nov. 5, marked the 19th Annual Little Kanawha Regional High School Drama Festival. This year Glenville State College served its 12th year as the Festival host.

This Little Kanawha Drama Festival is of a non-competitive nature. First, each high school delivered its play or skit. Then, after each delivery, the critic-judge, Mrs. Judy Curtis, gave her ideas for improvements which could be made to the play or skit. Since the Festival is non-competitive, the comments are meant only as constructive and complimentary remarks.

Schools participating in the festival this year were Ripley, St. Marys, Parkersburg, Spencer, and Walton High Schools.

Under the direction of Mrs. Judith Meads, Ripley High School presented the melodrama "And The Lamp Went Out" by Jessie Palmer Pierce. A satire entitled "Some of My Best Friends" by Dorothy Bown was produced by St. Marys High School under the direction of Mrs. Ann Bradfield.

Spencer High School chose "No Why," a drama by John Whiting as their entry in the festival. Mrs. Peggy Spencer serves as their director. A drama entitled "Laity" by James Costin was performed by Parkersburg High School under the direction of Mr. John H. Lee. Walton High School concluded the festival with "Lady Rosa," a comedy by Maud Merritt. Mr. William Royston serves as Walton's director.

Following the five plays, there was a Coke Hour with refreshments provided by the Little Kanawha Regional Council. Members of Ohningohow Players served as hosts for the Hour.

January Graduating List Receives Two Additions

Delmer K. Somerville, Dean of the College, has announced the addition of two names to the list of those graduating in January, 1970. They are Elizabeth Jean Andrews of Charleston, who will be graduating with fields in art 1-12 and school librarian 7-9 and Carolyn Sue Mace of Birch River who will graduate with fields in English 7-12 and School Librarian 7-12.

Library Proposal Defeated By SGA

An increase in fees of $12.50 per student, per semester, for library use was one of major issues of the Nov 6 meeting of the Student Government Association. This proposal read: "We ask a $12.50 per student, per semester increase in fees at Glenville State College. The purpose of the increase will be to supplement legislative appropriations for library materials, and will only be used for that purpose. We ask that this proposal become effective upon approval by the Student Council, and the student body of Glenville State College, as provided in the Constitution of the SGA."

Four Weeks Remain To Register For GRE

On Dec. 13, 1969 Graduate Record Examinations will be administered at many centers in the United States to candidates for admission to graduate and professional schools and to candidates for certain fellowship awards. Registration forms for this exam must be filed at least four weeks before the testing date, and in some cases six weeks ahead.

Detailed information about registration dates, examination centers, fees, and score reporting is contained in the 1969-70 GRE Bulletin of Information. To obtain a copy of the Bulletin and a Registration Form ask Dr. Paul Nagy in the "Placement Office," Pioneer Center.

The "Placement Office" would like to extend a sincere thank you in appreciation of the cooperativeness and assistance given by those persons, who made the visit of students from Cowen High School, Webster County, West Virginia, on Monday, Oct. 20 a success!

A big "THANK YOU" goes to Dr. John Chisler, Dr. Robert Dollgener, Library Personnel, Mr. Donald Phillips, Mrs. Robert Kulp, Mrs. Fittro, Miss Strader, and the GSC student guides, namely: Sherry Erwin, Annie Mullins and Shirley Camp of Delta Zeta Sorority; Anne Knapp, Julia Murin and Lucy Nakoneczny of Nu Lambda Psi; and Marilyn Smith and Mary Daniels of Alpha Sigma Alpha.

on behalf of David M. Gillespie, librarian at Robert F. Kidd Library. The proposal was based on the operating costs of the library. It was noted that $10,000 has been spent during the first quarter of this semester and that additional funds are needed to purchase books.

Following discussion, a vote was taken to accept the proposal, but was defeated by a 4-3 margin. One SGA member stated: "It is for a good cause, but a $12.50 per semester increase in fees is too much for many students to afford."

It was then moved and seconded that this proposal be returned to Mr. Gillespie, with the recommendation that a similar proposal be submitted asking for a lesser amount. This motion was passed by a 7-0 vote.

In other SGA business, a proposal to abolish Freshman rules was defeated. However, it was decided by a 6-1 vote that Freshman rules would be in effect for a period of one week with a campus recreation serving as a climax.

SGA then passed a proposal to hold a Jazz-Rock Festival at GSC. This festival would include bands from high schools all over the state. These bands would consist of high school students. Applications will be sent to every high school in West Virginia. It is hoped that the first festival will be held in mid-May. The winning band, besides receiving a cash prize and trophy, will be asked to play for a dance on the Saturday night following the contest.

Another point of discussion was change in the SGA Constitution, asked for by the Faculty-Administrative Organization. This proposal deals with a conflict of the constitutions of the two organizations as to membership of various committees. Those committees in question are the Activities Committee, Lyceum Committee, Assembly Committee, and the Library Committee. A meeting was scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 13 at 3:30 p.m. in the auditorium to further discuss this constitutional discrepancy.

GSC Science Club To Sponsor Movie

"Walk on the Wild Side," a Columbia Pictures presentation, will be shown in the college auditorium Nov. 25, with presentations at 3:30 and 7:30 p.m. The movie was released in 1962 and stars Barbara Stanwyck, Cupucine, Laurence Harvey, Anne Baxter, Jane Fonda, and Richard Rust.

John Fante and Edmund Morris adapted their screenplay, concerning the red light district in New Orleans during the 1930's, from Nelson Algren's novel, The Man with the Golden Arm.

According to New Yorker magazine the photography of Joe MacDonald and the performance by Jane Fonda and Academy Award winner, Anne Baxter are the high points of the picture.

Aesthetic Values On Display

Well, what about this problem of aesthetics—or I should say, lack of aesthetics, on campus?

"Ah, the guy's balm," I can hear some of the more enlightened readers saying. "We got no aesthetics round here. No pot or LSD neither."

How right you are about an absence of it, but first of all, the word is aesthetics and does not bear a meaning even closely approximating either a drug administered for alleviation of pain, or a cleanser used for purifying. And yes, sadly, we do not have much of it around here.

Since people can't (or won't) recognize a problem as a problem until it is clearly admitted to be a problem by half the world and their best friends as well, I want you to trust me, on my oath if you like, and just assume for the minute that we are indeed faced with another problem.

To start off (I'll begin by cross-examining you if you don't mind), exactly what is the physical center or vertex of the campus? You may well say that we indeed do not have any, but think harder—I'm sure you can come up with something.

If your uncanny reasoning has coincided with mine you will, no doubt arrive at the cross walk above the amphitheater as the riddle's solution. And what have we here at this grand culminative climax of the college? A statue praising our illustrious founding forefathers? No. Or maybe a not overly beauteous gurgling fountain sculpted with semi-creative hands, but all in all still pleasing to look at? No. Well then, at least, perhaps a pleasantly arranged garden with sweet smelling jasmine or roses? No again.

No my "comrades in want of beauty," we do not find any of these at the crosswalks. But instead we are blessed with a crumbling sandstone monolith (designated as a sundial) that will indeed be fortunate to last the year out—providing erosion doesn't set in. Furthermore, and more aggravating still, the sun dial seems to operate only when one feels like placing his hands (fingers upright of course) on top of the stone and calculating the shadow thereby produced. (I could never get closer than an hour to the actual time by this means, but I am still diligently striving to better my skill).

But, and this may be but a rationalization for my lack of sun dial talent, if I am correct in my recollections of history, manual sundials never really were "in".

But anyway, and back to the point at hand, I hope you are beginning to realize that we truly do not have the least simple means of relieving one's eyes from the crude, bleak starkness of our unadorned campus.

Does not this agitate you to your bones my fellows of thwarted aesthetics? (I can see, in fact, that you're trembling with indignation in your shoes.)

I've mentioned but one example so far, but this one will surely do for the rest. I'll be on the safe side, though, and illuminate my stand one step further.

We have, at the Administration Building parking lot, a view down the valley that, at certain times of the day, can be downright picturesque. People do, in fact, take notice of this view in spite of the handicaps that dampen one's aptitude to appreciate. One such handicap is, of course, the glimmering radiant metal structure that literally "burns" its way into all of our hearts—yes, the incinerator. Without this overwhelmingly disgusting match box (could it possibly be the lighthouse on the hill?) and with the addition of a terraced hill, seats and garden, we would have a relaxing scenic view readily at hand. Here one could take visitors or just sit down and gab with friends.

But why have I said all this? It is, no doubt, to no avail after all. Moreover, I must admit to being a coward at heart, and was apprehensive about broaching a topic so unthought of and unworried about. But, also being an art student and so one dedicated to the furthering of beauty, culture, etc., etc., blah, blah; I felt it my painful duty to bring this to light and set matters to right.

Think about it. But don't grow an ulcer over it.

Army Offers Paid Training, Vacation

The United States Army is offering a four week paid combination training-vacation to women entering their junior year in colleges and universities this fall. This is an all expense paid, four-week summer vacation at Fort McClellan, Ala. According to the Department of the Army, uniforms, meals, lodging, round-trip first class travel and a salary of $241.20 is provided with absolutely no obligation for those who accept the offer.

The purpose of the program, according to the Director of the Women's Army Corps, is to give selected women an opportunity to enter Army for four weeks and take a good look into the life of an officer in the Women's Army Corps.

Captain Elaine Meyer of the Women's Army Corps will be visiting GSC on Nov. 17-18 to provide full details to interested young women.

Boredom, Apathy Strike At Glenville

There is an unknown disease infiltrating into our midst. The early symptoms of this disease are boredom and apathy. I agree that these symptoms are not very serious in their early stages, but the crisis is upon us, God save us all! The advanced stages have already begun to reveal themselves.

Thursday night, October 30th, as you all know by now, the boys at Louis Bennett Hall failed in an attempted panty raid upon Women's Hall and Verona Maple. Oh, there were a few, a very few, who had not succumbed to the cafeteria food, or to the Administration Gestapo, or whatever causes this dreaded disease, and made an attempt at Women's Hall. But alas, the vast majority were not able to even make an attempt. This fact demonstrates how vicious this malady can become. In its advanced stages this disease can even cause mass hysteria which can cause 50-75 men seek frantically for shelter in the dorm when two campus policemen walk quietly through the grass in order to rest upon the breezeway.

Fern Rollyson, owner and operator of The Country Store, has stated that the store will be open Friday and Saturday, November 21 and 22, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The store will display many different items, including numerous old books.

Lambda Chi Voices Thanks To Students

Dear Students:

The Brothers of Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity and their auxiliary, the Ladies of the White Rose, want to express their thanks to the many concerned students and adults, who contributed, each in their own way, to make the 1969 UNICEF Halloween a success at Glenville State College. We also want to express a thank you to the Glenville Mercury and the Glenville Democrat.

The dedicated efforts of the leaders, the enthusiasm of the Trick or Treaters and the spontaneous generosity of the people of Glenville State is the backbone of our efforts to help the United Nations Children's Fund and those less fortunate children in 120 countries around the world.

We feel we have been part of a very real lesson in international understanding and the responsibility toward those who need our help.

Sincerely yours,

The Brothers of LXA Fraternity

OSC Interviewer Will Visit Campus

A Selection Team for Army Officer Candidates will visit the Glenville State College campus on Nov. 17 and 18. Sergeant George Wissner, Team Officer, announced today. Under this program, qualified college graduates can enlist in the Army and be guaranteed attendance at one of three officer candidate schools. Officer candidate training is 23 weeks. These schools are Infantry OCS, Fort Benning, Ga.; Artillery OCS, Fort Sill, Okla.; and Engineers OCS, Fort Belvoir, Va.

Although it is embarrassing, to say the least, the keeper of the Great Speckled Bird, which by the way was eloquently defended in last month's Playboy, has muffed it.

Last week, I presented the Library Fee increase proposal before the Student Council, that appendage of the camp (more than one segment of ground designated as a campus) that has been flaunted frequently, where it was defeated by a 4-3 vote. This action would not have permitted the proposal to be balloted for student consideration. Quite dismayed and violently depressed in part because I could not emulate Julius Caesar with his 'Vini, Vici, Vidi,' and mainly because I felt as Franklin when he said: "If a man empties his purse into his head, no one can take that from him."

My emotions immediately flooded the wall of reasoning and I crept into my most remote self to compile a thundering attack upon the Student Council for feloniously administering an unjust move against its constituency.

Then I discovered a copy of the GSC SGA Constitution. May that omnipotent student council advisor celestially watching, forgive me.

Upon careful analytical survey, I founded that the SGA is the entire student body (I think) as prescribed in Article I; this is later contradicted in Article II. The officers of the SGA are the members of the Student Council (maybe). This is also contradicted in Article II. I am not sure whether the SGA is the student body of Glenville State College, or the governing board (sort of).

I have also discovered the reason for the lack of cheering at the Pioneer Ballgames. The Cheerleader Article (XXVI), under duties, says these individuals are to "...have charge of, and direct, all organized cheering of the SGA." Of course whether the student body is to do the cheering or whether the Student Council is to do it is not clear.

Finally, "any amendment must be presented to the Student Council at any regular meeting. The council shall then consider it and present it before the SGA (The Student Body, I think) at a special meeting." The approval for placing the proposal before the entire student body (SGA?) for a two-week period requires a majority vote of that special meeting. Then the proposal must be approved by a 2/3 vote of the voting SGA (student body, hopefully). I didn't know that, but neither did the Student Council, or the SGA, or whatever it is called.

There is one saving point, Article XXX. "The final interpretation of this constitution shall rest with the President of the College." Good Luck, Dr. Wilburn.

Oct. 30 marked the last session of the Glenville State College Counseling Practicum Seminar. At this meeting, certificates were awarded to those participants who had met certain qualifications.

Monitors, proctors, and counselors from the three dormitories on campus, Women's Hall, Verona Mapel Hall, and Louis Bennett Hall, attended the meetings along with guests who had been given permission to attend. ## 4-H Awards Judy Lathey High Honor

An outstanding honor in the 4-H Club work has been awarded to a GSC student, Miss Judy Lathey. A 19-year-old elementary education major from Letart, she has been awarded a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in the clothing division, to be held at Chicago, Ill., on Nov. 28 to Dec. 4. She received this award at the State 4-H Round-up at Jackson's Mill held in August, where she won the State 4-H Style Review. The trip to Chicago, sponsored by Simplicity Pattern Company, will not only be a learning experience, but Miss Lathey will also be in style review competition with the winners from the other state contests for scholarship awards.

Miss Lathey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Lathey, has been a 4-H club member for ten years and has carried projects ranging from raising baby beef to sewing a complete costume. Here at GSC, she is the historian of SEA, a member of the Collegiate 4-H club and a former member of the Concert Choir.

Antiques Displayed In GSC Bookstore

by Tom Dooley

Interested in antiques? If so, stop by the Bookstore and see the display of dishes, lamps, and other glassware. These antiques belong to Mrs. Nellie Engelke, manager of the Bookstore.

One day, a GSC instructor came into the Bookstore and began talking to Mrs. Engelke about the new items which have been received in the Bookstore. For a change, the instructor asked Mrs. Engelke to bring some antiques and put them on the shelves. She decided to bring some of her insulators, which had been used on telephone poles to protect the wires. The instructor came after Mrs. Engelke had put the insulators there, but this was not enough to satisfy the teacher. So, Mrs. Engelke decided to bring some of her gas lamps from home. Many students were concerned with these items and asked about them, so Mrs. Engelke brought more of her glassware to put on display.

When asked how long she had been interested in antiques, Mrs. Engelke replied, "Since I was a little girl." She mentions that dishes were her favorite and that when she was young, she loved to play or just stand and look at beautiful dishes. Mrs. Engelke mentioned the time when she was a small girl that she visited Mrs. Byrd Barnett, who lived in what is now the Home Management House. When visiting, Mrs. Engelke would just stand for long periods of time and look at the dishes which Mrs. Barnett had painted in colorful designs.

Mrs. Engelke's favorite item is glassware. She has several pieces of antique furniture, but said she would like to get rid of the furniture she has now. Her grandparents had a two-leaf table and a six-leaf table, but later they bought a nicer table and put the other two in a barn. Her grandparents did some cutting and canning on these tables, which soon became warped. But Mrs. Engelke says she now has these tables and they are in good condition.

For protection from insects when the days were hot, families of years ago put their food in safes. Designs were made on the safes by cutting holes in them. These holes were also used to let air enter to cool off the food, yet the holes were small enough so that flies could not get inside. Mrs. Engelke has one of these safes in her garage.

Mrs. Engelke also has an antique organ and rocking chair. Although the organ is old, it is still in good playing condition.

Many of Mrs. Engelke's antiques have been bought from stores, auctions, or friends. Mrs. Engelke mentioned that not too long ago, she visited a friend and while there, purchased a lamp. But several of the items are heirlooms. For example, one of the compotes, or pieces of glassware, on display in the Bookstore belonged to her grandmother. One of the antiques dates as far back as great-grandmother's time.

Mrs. Engelke, who has worked at the college bookstore for about ten years, has never worked full-time at an antique shop. She has worked at the Country Store in Glenville and also she has made several rugs at Jackson's Mill.

The college students, especially the females, show concern with the antiques on display in the bookstore. Mrs. Engelke said some of the students do not say much in the Bookstore but will stop her on the street and talk to her about the collection. If any student is interested in antiques, stop by and talk to Mrs. Engelke.
