Rabbi Hamburger Will Speak Dec. 15

Rabbi Wolfgang Hamburger of Temple Ohev Shalom in Huntington, West Virginia will represent the Jewish Chautauqua Society as lecturer at Glenville State College on Monday, December 15. The rabbi will lecture on the subjects "The Function of Religion in Modern Society," and the "The Jewish Attitude toward War and Peace."

Lectures will be presented hourly in the college auditorium between the hours of 8 and 12 a.m. Subjects will be alternated, each presented twice, beginning with "Function of Religion in Modern Society" at 8:00 a.m. A question and answer period will be provided at the conclusion of each lecture. Everyone is welcome and invited to attend any or all of the lectures.

Rabbi Hamburger was born in Germany where he received his early education. He graduated from the University of Cincinnati in 1949 with a B. A. Degree and received an M. A. Degree from that same university in German. He was ordained a rabbi at the Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati receiving his M. H. L. Degree.

He previously served congregations in Duluth, Minnesota, Lincoln, Nebraska, and Chicago, Illinois.

The Rabbi lectures on college campuses under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua Society, an organization which creates better understanding of Jews and Judaism through education. The Jewish Chautauqua Society is sponsored by the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods.

Several GSC Students Affected By Nixon's Lottery Draft System

As luck would have it, there is no male here on the GSC campus who has the fateful birthdate of Sept. 14, which holds the number one mark on the draft lottery. According to records, however, 21 men are found to have birthdates falling on one of the top ten dates on the list.

April 24, number two in the lottery, is recorded as the birthdate of Larry Jackson. December 30 and February 14, numbers three and four on the list, are not the birthdates of

"Peace On Earth" Is Concert Theme

"Peace on Earth" will be the theme of the annual Christmas Concert to be presented by the GSC Concert Choir Sunday night, Dec. 14 at 8 p.m. in the GSC auditorium.

A brass group and a newly-formed girl's chorus, as well as the concert choir, will present the program which will portray man's dilemma as he views the peace of Christmas against the reality of today. Robert Woodrow Wilson will be the narrator for the program.

Many of familiar Christmas carols, as well as choral masterpieces by Distler, Victoria, Bach, and Bruchner, will be presented by the concert choir. The public is invited and there will be no admission charge.

GSC Cultural Committee Reviews Talent Showcase

The Convocation-Lyceum Committee journeyed to Charleston, Sunday, Nov. 23. The purpose of this meeting at Morris Harvey College, according to Mr. Gary Gillespie, chairman of the committee, was to review the annual talent showcase presented before the West Virginia Cultural Coordinators in order to select programs for the 1970-71 school year. The Cultural Co-ordinators represents West Virginia colleges and universities and helps secure programs at reduced rates by block booking. Performers or speakers who are booked for several engagements in the state will accept a lower fee for each appearance.

Representing Glenville at the meeting were Mr. Gary Gillespie, Mr. James Murphy, Mr. Robert Gainer and Lynn Stotler, a student representative to the committee. The group viewed about seven performances held at the Charleston Civic Center during the evening. Two of these groups were considered for Glenville. One was a rock and roll group and the other was a dance band from West Virginia University. Another trip is scheduled for February, at which time decisions will be made as to final selection of performers and speakers.

Mr. Gillespie is deeply concerned with the lack of student interest in the committee's choosing of cultural programs. Students were invited to attend the meeting and view the performances, but no one participated. Various suggestions have been made to increase student involvement in choosing Lyceum and Convocation programs. One is a proposal to seek permission from the FAO to include more student representation on the committee. At present there are only two.

A survey is also underway to sample student preferences in various programs. Mr. Gillespie urges all students to express their opinions to members of the committee to aid them in making selections in February.

Singers Prepare Program For Annual Yule Dinner

The Madrigal Singers are preparing for their annual Madrigal Dinner to be held Tuesday, Dec. 16 beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Gilmer County Recreation Center. The Madrigals, dressed in 17th Century costumes indicative of the type of music they sing, will provide entertainment throughout the meal and will close the evening with a concert of Christmas carols and music appropriate to the 17th century.

The meal will be served by the Women's Club of Glenville and will be open to the public. Tickets, which are $2.00 for college students and $2.50 for adults, can be purchased from any member of the Madrigals or from the Music department.

The Madrigals, aside from sponsoring and providing the entertainment for the dinner, have many other activities planned for the month of December. Monday, Dec. 8, at 7:00 p.m. they participated in the Christmas tree lighting in front of the library, and the same evening at 8 p.m. they entertained the Women's Club at the Presbyterian Church. Tomorrow the Madrigals, along with the brass instruments in the GSC band, will perform at the Tanner and Sand Fork Grade

Open House Slated In College Dorms

GSC is in preparation for the Christmas season. The traditional open house of Women's Hall and Louis Bennett Hall will take place on Dec. 14. Both dormitories will have the hours of 1 through 5 in which visitors may view the decorations created by dormitory residents.

In the Louis Bennett Lounge there will be refreshments served throughout Open House. The entire Dormitory will be decorated in various Christmas themes. Each room resident may decorate on any aspect of Christmas he wishes. The lounge will have special attention given to it by volunteers decorating the entire area.

At Women's Hall there will be competition among the girls for the best decorated door in certain categories. According to Miss Beverly Hurst, Women's Hall Assistant Director, judging of the doors was done by members of the Art Department last year, and their services hopefully will be employed again this year. While each room has been busy with imaginative themes, the six floors in Women's Hall have been deciding on individual floor themes for the girls to use as guidelines.

First floor of Women's Hall will be responsible for decoration of the side exit onto Court Street, the front doors of the dormitory and the lobby as well as their own floor. First floor has chosen as its theme "The Twelve Days of Christmas." Committee members for this floor include: Sharon Neely, chairman; Anna Jean Maddox; Linda Bull; and Barbara Rhoades.

Second floor decided on "Santa Loves Animals Too!" as their theme for the 1969 Christmas Season. The four committee members chosen by residents of that floor were Jean Field, Jeanie Beachler, Robin Trowbridge and Melanie Devoil.

Third floor follows in both traditional and contemporary concepts of Christmas. Their theme "Ring Out the Old - Bring in the New!" enables alternate rooms to represent the old-fashion and modern Christmas. Patty Clayton, Anne Whitman, and Linda Sue Potasnik made up the committee for Christmas on third floor.

"The Christmas Story" will be the theme for the fourth floor. Roberta Williams and Linda Bennett head it's committee as co-chairman with representatives including: Becky Lothes, Carolyn Hazen, Pam Blatt and Sharon Burdette.

In sharp contrast to fourth floor's theme will be "Christmas in Orbit" which was chosen by fifth floor. Kathie Fox heads the decorations for this floor.

Sixth floor has chosen "Visions of Christmas" as their theme. Committee members are Kathy Weaver, Jennifer Pitzer, Kathi Schneider and Dixie Miller.

The final area of decoration in Women's Hall is the office. Each year the office workers decorate the front office with traditional decorations and keep a variety of Christmas records playing throughout the lounge and lobby.

Verona Mapel Hall will have its annual Christmas open house Dec. 14 from 1 to 3 p.m. The entire dorm will be decorated. The lobby will be decorated in a traditional manner. Also each floor has selected a Christmas theme and the floors will be decorated accordingly.

The theme of first floor is "Charlie Brown's Christmas." Each door will be decorated with a Charlie Brown character, reflecting each character's feeling about Christmas.

The theme of second floor is "Christmas on 2nd Street." The floor

A Most Expensive Hour

I think it would be rather interesting if a monetary value were to be placed on an hour. This may sound like a rather useless project, but if you, the students of Glenville State College, support the proposed "Operation Entertainment" tomorrow, then you place the monetary value of one hour at approximately $4000-$8000.

Think what that money could do. It could set up a scholarship fund for a financially unable but mentally capable student at Glenville College. It could supplement the volumes in the library with a collection which could equal or surpass the collections of other state colleges. This money could be applied to plans for a new fine arts building, which is desperately needed on this campus. It could be applied to remodeling the speech department facilities, which upon examination, are badly in need of repair and additions. It could be applied to the construction of an aesthetic center for the campus. This money could go for improving the teacher salary at GSC, thus improving the quality of our teachers.

I could go on forever. But I won't because I trust that the student body of this college has enough common sense to realize that the money, if spent on "Operation Entertainment," would not be a complete loss, but a considerable one when one stops to consider just what that much money can do.

The students of this college have to realize, sooner or later, that, contrary to popular belief, GSC's reputation does not rest on the Temptations or Stevie Wonder or Diana Ross. That reputation is determined by you, the student; you, the graduate; you, the alumnus; you, the teacher and citizen of tomorrow.

The so-called "top-flight entertainment" sounds good right now. Just think—right here on this very campus! Wow! Sound like a little child with a new toy? I think so. Did you ever notice how long a child will play with a new toy? Pretty soon the glitter wears off, the arms break, the eyes fall off, and the ears fold. And the new toy winds up somewhere in the bottom of the toy box.

These concerts would be a pretty expensive toy. The Grass Roots would rot, the Clearwater turns muddy in time, the Fifth Dimension becomes the one-hundred and forty-eighth, and Impressions won't be so impressive. Top-flight entertainment suddenly soars to the bottom, and it takes Glenville State College with it, simply because the students chose to spend $8000 for two hours of music, fun and games.

It sounds pretty ridiculous now, but these possibilities must be considered. Don't make a fool of yourself. Spend your money sensibly. Vote NO on "Operation Entertainment."

Debaters Become School Sponsored

The Glenville State College Debate Team is now in the process of reforming. This year the team will be school sponsored.

The national topic this year is: Resolved that the national government should grant annually a specific percentage of its income tax revenue to state governments.

The first phase of organization is now underway with the team collecting material from periodicals, books, and other such sources. The second phase of organization will be intersquad debating which will begin soon.

No tournaments are scheduled for now, but during second semester the team will be participating in tournaments in West Virginia, Ohio, Virginia, Kentucky and Pennsylvania.

Mr. Murphy and Mr. Kornegay are helping with the organization. More people are needed, and any student or faculty member who is interested and willing to help is invited to attend the meetings.

S. Wolf Presents Senior Art Exhibit

The Department of Art announces the Senior Art Exhibition of Stephen Henry Wolf of New Martinsville, which will open at 2 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4, in the Multi-Purpose Room of the Pioneer Center. The artist will be present from 2-4 p.m. to meet faculty, students, and the public who attend the exhibition. A reception in honor of the artist will be held at 7 p.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room.

The 58 works, which consist mainly of watercolors and oils, reflect the artist's ability to convey his philosophy through these media. His paintings range from the realistic, which includes portraits, to the abstract, which indicates a more contemporary trend.

Stephen Wolf has been honored on a national level by being awarded an honorable mention in the tenth annual St. Regis Collegiate Package and Design Contest. He has received commissions and several of his works have been purchased and will appear in private collections.

Piano Recital Presented By Mr. Brian Bevelander

A small but warmly appreciative audience was afforded a rare treat Tuesday evening, Dec. 2, in the College Auditorium when Mr. Brian Bevelander, a new member of the Department of Music faculty, presented an impressive recital of piano music. There is no question that Mr. Bevelander possesses a finely honed and beautifully controlled technique. In the very first number of his program—the "Funerailles" of Liszt—his attack was thoroughly professional. This Liszt tonal essay is a veritable "monster" of constantly shifting moods and melodic and rhythmic patterns which practically defy a meaningful interpretation, but with iron discipline Bevelander whipped it into a coherent whole. It was a truly bravura performance which set the tone of the whole program.

The three sunny and deceptively simple sonatas of Scarlatti which made up the second part of the program revealed the crystal clarity of touch characteristic of Bevelander's technique. There was, moreover, a warmth in his interpretation that made these charming miniatures sparkle with life.

The highlight of the program was unquestionably the Alban Berg "Sonata for Klavier" (Opus 1), which opened the second half of the program. Performance of this masterpiece—a beautiful example of atonality purged of atonal astringency—demands the utmost in clarity and lucidity. The performer certainly brought these qualities to his interpretation and endowed the piece with a lyricism that I had never detected in it before.

The artist made Charles Griffes' "Fountain of the Acqua Paolo" shimmer with light and reflecting brilliance. It is strange that this lovely music by a too-little recognized American genius is so rarely played. Griffes' works are unique in the canon of American piano music, and Bevelander added considerable artistic stature to his program by including it.

He also added spice to his program in the three selections from his own works. The "Scherzo" and "Invention" are bright and witty, flashing with good nature even though they make not inconsiderable technical demands on the performer. "Interlude" is a flowing essay in lyricism. All three of the pieces are "modern" in flavor and texture.

The program closed with Aram Khachaturian's "Toccata," a dashing staccato etude that makes up in glitter what it lacks in depth. One cannot help comparing it with Debussy's "Mouvement," an example of high quality that, by comparison, rather tarnishes the tinsel sheen of the Khachaturian opus.

It is ardently to be hoped that we have not heard the last of Mr. Bevelander. It will be truly disappointing if he does not grant us at least one more opportunity to enjoy his formidable talent before the end of the school year.

September 14, a date that will live in infamy, (sounds familiar, eh?). The lottery draft is, I suppose, an improvement (that is unless you happen to be in the 1 to 244 grouping) within or upon an already bad or poor program. To be sure, there was an air of excitement surrounding the 366 blue-tint capsules resting lifelessly in the Pentagon Bowl, and there were those who hoped that these life control pills would soon be banned.

As I see it, this could cause a genuine generation conflict, many young men may blame their parents for their particular birth-dates, this of course, remains to be seen.

Being number 40, my responsibility as I see it this side is to report the happenings on the front to the students of GSC, since I am not terrifically excited about killing anyone. Therefore, if I am one of the elected to man the fortress of Viet Nam to buttress the West Coast of the United States against a communist invasion (dominoe or otherwise) I will gladly participate as War Correspondent for The Glenville Mercury, (though I would rather be turning the Red Tide on some distant shore such as Cuba).

Haught, Robinson Named To '69 All-Conference Team

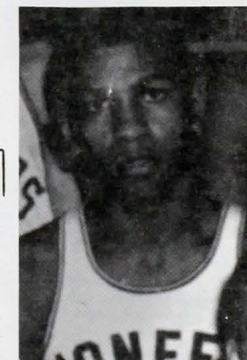

Tom Haught, senior halfback from New Martinsville, and Jack Robinson senior tight end from White Sulphur Springs, have been named to the All-WVIAC Conference football team for the 1969 football season. The team is selected by the coaches of the respective conference teams.

Tom Haught played his fourth season as a regular halfback for the GSC Pioneers. Haught gained over 900 yards this past season and won the WVIAC rushing title. Tom was a leading pass receiver for the Pioneers and has also run back kick-offs and punts. This is not Haught's first time to be named all-conference as he was a member of the team in his sophomore year, 1967.

Thesians Prepare Christmas Concert

In a recent meeting the Ohningohow Players drew names for their pledge class from a list of interested applicants. This class consists of 11 pledges. These pledges are required to wear Ohningohow signs. They are also required to get the names of all the actives and to give a pledge concert for all actives on a subject selected by the actives.

This concert was held at 5 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4 in the Underground and in the auditorium. This initiation was a secret ceremony.

This pledge class is an increase over last semester's class of eight pledges.

Charles Jeffries was the pledge master of the pledge class and Betsy Wingfield was the pledge captain.

Other Ohningohow pledges are Jackie Cummings, David Grapes, Dennis Jones, Ann Whitman, Jenny Pitzer, Pat Wilmoth, Judy Arnold, Sue Bumgarner, Gayle Bailey, and Cheryl Beeke. Of these pledges Betsy Wingfield and David Grapes now have parts in the upcoming production, "Under Milkwood."

Library Announces Recent Changes

Changes for the benefit of students are continually occurring at the Robert F. Kidd Library. An important change has occurred in connection with the audio-visual materials in the library. Previously, cards for audio-visual materials were included in the card catalog from becoming too cumbersome, all cards for audio-visual materials have been moved to the card catalog in the basement. The kinds of materials are identified by the different colored bands on the cards—filmstrips are green, records are orange, tapes are blue and media kits are red. A media kit consists of a filmstrip, record, and manual in one unit to facilitate use.

Another important addition to the Learning Materials Center is in the record section. The library has received 350 records which are of a classical and curriculum enrichment nature. The library now owns most of the major works listed in the RCA Victor Basic Listening Library. Among the new records received are the complete plays of William Shakespeare, works by Bach, Beethoven, and contemporary composers, Gershwin and Copeland.

Also, a small percentage of money has been allotted for the purchase of approximately 80 albums of popular music, including the Beatles, Steppenwolf, Blood, Sweat and Tears; the Vogues and several movie sound tracks. Mr. Beck, audio-visual librarian, feels that these records have a justifiable place in the library because as well as providing educational and cultural enrichment, the library should also be responsive to the students requests for records for listening enjoyment in their leisure time.

Explanation Given On The Benefits Of Student Assessment Program

With your permission we would like to ask a couple of questions of the GSC students.

How much value to you place on a five dollar bill? How much value do you place on your own enjoyment of such artists as Stevie Wonder, Wilson Pickett, Sam and Dave, The Grass Roots, Cretton's Clearwater Revival, The Fifth Dimension, The Four Tops? For five dollars a year this is just what you could be hearing and seeing right here on the Glenville State campus!

The primary purpose of this letter is to explain to you, the students, exactly how "Operation Entertainment" can work and what benefits you reap.

Next semester 1600 GSC students, with your permission, will be assessed $5, creating a total of $8,000. This $8,000 will be turned over to the SGA for the express purpose of providing top flight entertainment in the form of concerts. Students would be admitted by presentation of their ID cards.

Dr. Cones To Succeed Mr. Fogus as Chairman

President D. Banks Wilburn has announced that effective Feb. 1, 1970, Dr. William L. Cones will become Chairman of the Glenville State College Department of Forestry Technology. The West Virginia Board of Regents in a meeting Dec. 2 approved Dr. Cones as successor to the present director, Mr. Donald L. Fogus, who will be resigning to do graduate work at North Carolina State University.

The Board has also announced the change of the Forestry program at GSC to the status of Department of Forestry Technology.

President's Party Planned For Sunday, December 14

President D. Banks Wilburn has announced the date for the annual Christmas party given for the faculty and their wives and children. The party will be held on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 14 from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Ballroom.

viding top flight entertainment in the form of concerts. Students would be admitted by presentation of their ID cards.

The SGA could use the money in two ways. First, use the whole sum for one concert in which you could have a combination of artists. For example, an $8,000 concert could bring together Stevie Wonder and the Impressions or The Fifth Dimension and The Grass Roots.

The alternative is to divide the sum and present two concerts, perhaps a Winter Carnival in February and a Spring Festival in May.

There is a hidden added feature to the two concerts idea. If we were to sell additional tickets at the surrounding high schools and colleges and extra tickets for our students to bring their friends, we could create a "slush fund" which, would boost the Spring Concert amount as much as $1500. How? All we need to do is to sell 500 extra tickets at $2 apiece, creating the extra $1500. This means the Spring Concert could be worth $5,000! For this sum we could be entertained by The Vanilla Fudge, Sly and the Family Stones, The Four Seasons, or the Lettermen.

This project is by no means a new idea. It has been tried and proven. It is how Marietta College, a school close to the size of Glenville, is able to have such groups as the Blood, Sweat, and Tears, and the Iron Butterfly; how Salem had the Brooklyn Bridge, how Wesleyan had the Grass Roots. It will work.

The main benefit to GSC is the pride that it can create in our school. This is something that seems to be sadly lacking. Wouldn't it be nice to go home for Easter Vacation and if asked who GSC has had for entertainment this winter, you can proudly reply Sam and Dave! Then add that you are having the Fifth Dimension in the spring and invite him or her up. When people have to come to Glenville from other places to see and hear such groups, this would really lift the ideas that Glenville is "a school out in the sticks, a suitcase college where nothing ever happens."

Native Of Glenville Plans Art Career

A native of Glenville, George D. Harper is finding his art career a successful one. He recently sold a water color through Park-Lane Galleries of Boston, LTD.

In August, 1969, George Harper was informed by Mr. Scott, head of the art department at GSC, that the previously mentioned agency was searching for art work from the West Virginia area. Upon inquiry he sent two oil and eight water color pictures to Park-Lane Galleries on consignment. The pictures were put on exhibit and then sold by the art gallery.

George Harper is not new to the art scene of West Virginia. He has sold his work before to private collectors in the state. He has also had his paintings on exhibit at the West Virginia Folk Festival in Glenville and the Arts and Crafts Festival in Ripley. This past summer he demonstrated pottery making and exhibited paintings at the Folk Festival.

George Harper works in numerous mediums of art. Outside of pottery, drawing and painting, he most enjoys pencil sketching. He regrets that there is not a larger market for sketches since he considers his penciled West Virginia landscapes to be some of his best work.

"I can remember drawing on brown paper bags, or anything I could get my hands on," reminisced Harper. He had no formal art instruction until entering college, and only then did he begin painting in oil. He estimates that he spends 12 to 15 hours per week working on art projects, but that it still is not as much time as he would like to spend on it. This senior student has been nominated for the Danforth Fellowship which would enable him to continue his education into graduate school.

by Steve Wells
The fraters of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity added a touch of the Christmas season to the campus and community by erecting a giant Christmas tree in front of the Robert F. Kidd Library. The lighting ceremony took place Monday night at seven. Christmas carols were sung by the Glenville State College Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Mark Amot of the GSC music department. Willis J. Perry Jr., president of TKE, presented the Yule tree to Dr. D. Banks Wilburn to the college, and to the community.

Also present were Wilbur Beall, Mayor of Glenville, and Rev. Edward Bayer, pastor of the Trinity United Methodist Church, who delivered the invocation.

TKE is planning a party for underprivileged children in Weston sometime before Christmas. They plan to provide entertainment for the children in addition to giving them candy from Initiated were Rodney Engle, a freshman English major from Grantsville; Robert Lipscomb a sophomore physical education major from Winchester, Va.; and Roger Miles a freshman business administration major from Renick. A new pledge period will begin with second semester.

Dr. William V. Muse, from Ohio University, Athens, Ohio was on campus Friday, Dec. 5, to interview students interested in doing graduate work at O.U. Dr. Muse, along with local officers and advisors, ate dinner at the home of TKE advisor Frank Weightman before his return to Athens. Dr. Muse plans to return to Glenville again in January for Founder's Day celebration of the chapter.

"Window Treatment" will be the topic of discussion at the Dec. 16 meeting of the Adult Education Class. The meeting will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Ballroom.

Two Journalism Classes Survey Controversial Issues On Campus

by Dee Rexroad
Lately, several students have been answering questionnaires for polls taken by the students of Mrs. Yvonne King's mass communications and current events classes. The subjects of the surveys have ranged from legalized prostitution to preferred magazines.

Another poll was taken on the level of newspaper interest. Sixty-two per cent of the students read the newspaper daily. The newspaper is read by 15 percent weekly. Occasionally, the newspaper is read by 23 percent of the students. This survey also revealed that 57 percent of the students do not subscribe to any paper. Too, 61 percent of the students taking this survey felt that television is taking precedence over the newspaper for news value. Also, if the students could have one medium for news 55 percent would choose television, 38 percent would choose newspapers, and only seven per cent would choose radio.

One poll was taken on radios. Out of 100 answering the poll questions, 98 own a radio and two do not own a radio. Twenty-two prefer radio over the other forms of media, such as newspapers, television, magazines, and books. It was also revealed that 39 out of 100 listen to the radio 1-10 hours weekly and 21 students listen 10-20 hours weekly.

A poll with 113 students participating was taken on marijuana. When asked if marijuana should be legalized, 48 felt that it should be, and 55 felt that it should not be legalized. Sixty-six students feel that the laws concerning the possession of marijuana should be more liberal. Sixty-seven students would not try marijuana if given the chance and 25 of the students have already tried marijuana.

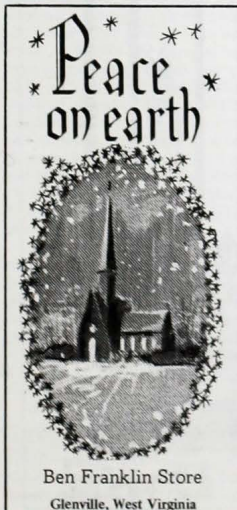

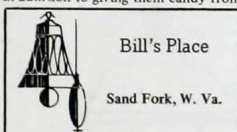

Another survey was taken on legalized prostitution. Of 130 answering the poll, more male than females were in favor of legalized prostitution.

The pictures of the past presidents of Glenville State College have now found a permanent home in the Robert F. Kidd Library. Mr. David Gillespie, librarian, has announced that the complete group of president's pictures are found on the west wall of the library's second floor. The picture of Dr. D. Banks Wilburn, the current president of the college, is located on the second floor landing.

Gary Gillespie Is Honored By Danforth Foundation

Mr. Gary Gillespie, Assistant Professor in Fine Arts, was honored this past week when he received an invitation from the Danforth Foundation to apply for a Danforth Associate at Glenville State College.

Mr. Gillespie was notified that he had been recommended for consideration by Mahlon C. Brown, Professor of Social Studies at Marshall University.

The Associate Program is the oldest of several programs administered by the Danforth Foundation. According to the Danforth Advisory Council its primary goal is to encourage good teaching and to assist in personalizing the educational process. Special emphasis is placed on the role of the teacher who has a strong concern for his students as individuals and who is competent in his field of study.

The Danforth Associate is a college or university teacher who carries major responsibility in the classroom. Usually the instructor is considered for appointment ahead of those in administrative positions. At the present time over 698 colleges and universities in the United States take part in the program with some 2100 faculty couples participating.

One Associate couple is generally appointed for every 2000 students enrolled in a school. The major responsibility for appointment is held by a regional selecting committee. This committee, after careful consideration, sends its recommendations to a national committee in St. Louis. Mr. Gillespie will be notified next spring as to whether he has been accepted for an Associate position.

If accepted, Mr. Gillespie will be appointed for an initial term of two years. Associates are invited to attend one national conference during their first two year term and regional conferences held periodically in 14 areas of the United States. A second term is given to Associates who attend one national conference and indicate an interest in continuing in the program.

An Associate receives no salary but is provided with an annual stipend to be used to carry out the aims of the program. Also a specified amount of money is provided for the purpose of building the personal and professional library of the Associate.

An Associate is under no particular obligation to the Danforth Foundation. However, while serving in the capacity, an Associate is expected to work for the improvement of faculty-student relationships on his particular campus.

Mr. Gillespie was graduated from Glenville State College in 1959 with a degree in English and social studies. He completed work for his Master's Degree at West Virginia University in 1963 and has worked toward a degree in Comparative Arts at Ohio University. Mr. Gillespie formerly has taught both in West Virginia and Ohio public schools and has been an instructor at GSC for the past three years. His wife is employed as a remedial reading teacher.

New Requirement Created In Education 201 Classes

The previously required "four laboratory experiences" in Education 201 is no longer in existence. According to Dr. Woodrow Morris, Chairman of the Division of Education and Psychology, the Education 201 students are now required to attain a total of fifteen clock hours for the semester by participation in activities with children and youth in a community organization. This requirement is effective for the first semester, 1969-70.

The purpose of these activities is to provide actual experience for the student and these experiences are then discussed in class in terms of the "textbook theory." Also the student is required to develop a course paper from his experience.

The activities are not school activities but are community sponsored. Currently 125 Education 201 students are working with children and youth in the Glenville area in such groups as Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Brownie Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cadette Scouts, church related activities, Head Start, 4-H, and the College Kindergarten where Miss Matthews has more Education 201 students than any other single organization.

An additional ten students have elected to carry out their activity in their home community. The club supervisors will evaluate the Education 201 students and make a written report to Mr. Joseph Hickman, coordinator of prior student teaching experiences.

According to Mr. Hickman of the Division of Education and Psychology, club leaders are reported to be pleased with the enthusiasm and ambition exhibited by the Education students and there seems to be an apparent satisfaction from the students.

GSC Committee Considers Complaints About Food

The food committee which met on Nov. 5 discussed several complaints of the cafeteria which have been submitted for the committee's attention.

Several of the complaints have been investigated since the last meeting of the committee. The steam tables have been checked and are now working. Also, the possibility of buying a bread dispenser has been checked and it has been found that it would be unwise to buy such a piece of equipment at this time. Too, the problem of students not being able to eat earlier was again discussed. Marlene Parsons was to check into the possibility of a survey to determine how many people want to eat at an earlier hour in the cafeteria. The survey concerns the possibility of opening the cafeteria at 10:45 a.m. instead of 11 a.m.

It was suggested that a box be placed in the cafeteria for student suggestions. A list of complaints that have been received by the committee were read. Some of the complaints were the following:

- 1 - There is still too much starch being served in the cafeteria menus.
- 2 - Dirty silverware is being found by students.
- 3 - Too much grease is being left on meat and potatoes.
- 4 - Some students have not been allowed two meat portions. Mr. Kulp said he would inform the help that students were allowed two servings.

5 - Some students felt that salads should be served instead of so many sandwiches.

6 - Some of the pudding tastes like paste.

7 - The cafeteria is still not opening on time.

Mr. Kulp stated that when students have complaints to see him personally. Also, any problems with food should be worked out on the day that it arises.

Open House

will be decorated as a country street with each room representing a different shop.

"What Christmas Means to Me" is the theme of third floor. The girls on third floor will decorate their doors to illustrate what Christmas means to them.

During open house refreshments will be served. Also a "Singing Christmas Tree" will be located in the lobby. The singing tree will consist of Ruth Terry, the director, and ten other girls. These girls are: Marilyn Sands, Donna Skidmore, Ruth Snyder, Rovena Lewis, Delores Betler, Mary Cunningham, Mary Lemley, Jenny Cronin, Karen Comer, and Katie Smith. The Little Drummer Boy, Carol of the Bells, White Christmas, Silver Bells, Winter Wonderland, and other traditional Christmas songs will be sung by these girls.

It wouldn't be Christmas without Santa Claus. So he will join the Verona Mapel girls with three of his elves: Linda Ball, Darlene Alleman, and Emily Wannan. Santa will have "little goodies" for the children.

The girls of VMH cordially invite all the administration, faculty, parents, friends and students to visit the dorm during open house.

Furthermore, to join in the Christmas spirit the girls of Verona Mapel Hall will go caroling the night of Dec. 18. After caroling the girls will return to the dorm at which time the VMH Christmas party will begin.
